13:5 a lasting covenant: Literally a covenant of salt. Salt was required with a grain offering (Lev 2:13). The social and religious background for this phrase is unknown. However, salt was used as a preservative and provided an apt metaphor for a permanent covenant.

13:6-7 Abijah's speech castigated the northerners for refusing to support the kingdom of David.

13:8-9 Abijah's speech made two key points about the rebellion of the north: The north rejected the only legitimate king, and they rejected the only legitimate place of worship. The revolt are following the instructions of the LORD our God, but you have abandoned him. ¹²So you see, God is with us. He is our leader. His priests blow their trumpets and lead us into battle against you. O people of Israel, do not fight against the LORD, the God of your ancestors, for you will not succeed!"

¹⁶The Israelite army fled from Judah, and God handed them over to Judah in defeat. ¹⁷Abijah and his army inflicted heavy losses on them; 500,000 of Israel's select troops were killed that day. ¹⁸So Judah defeated Israel on that occasion because they trusted in the LORD, the God of their ancestors. ¹⁹Abijah and his army pursued Jeroboam's troops and captured some of his towns, including Bethel, Jeshanah, and Ephron, along with their surrounding villages.

²⁰So Jeroboam of Israel never regained his power during Abijah's lifetime, and finally the LORD struck him down and he died. ²¹Meanwhile, Abijah of Judah grew more and more powerful. He married fourteen wives and had twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters.

²²The rest of the events of Abijah's reign, including his words and deeds, are recorded in The Commentary of Iddo the Prophet.

Reign of Asa (14:1-16:14)

Early Years of Asa's Reign

2 Chr 14:1 // 1 Kgs 15:8

2 Chr 14:2-3 // 1 Kgs 15:11-12

14 When Abijah died, he was buried in the City of David. Then his son Asa became the next king. There was peace in the land for ten years. ²Asa did what was pleasing and good in the sight of the LORD his God. ³He removed the foreign altars and the pagan shrines. He smashed the sacred pillars and cut down the Asherah poles. ⁴He commanded the people of Judah to seek the LORD, the God of their ancestors, and to obey his law and his commands. ⁵Asa also removed the pagan shrines, as well as the incense altars from every one of Judah's towns. So Asa's kingdom enjoyed a period of peace. ⁶During those peaceful years, he was able to build up the fortified towns throughout Judah. No one tried to make war against him at this time, for the LORD was giving him rest from his enemies.

⁷Asa told the people of Judah, "Let us build towns and fortify them with walls, towers, gates, and bars. The land is still ours because we sought the LORD our God, and he has given us peace on every side." So they went ahead with these projects and brought them to completion.

of the northerners, who chased away the proper priestly order, is sharply contrasted with "us" (13:10). Most objectionable was the worship of the calves and the role of the unauthorized priests.

13:10-11 Abijah's speech portrays him as concerned about the purity of worship at Jerusalem. The account in Kings says nothing of Abijah's devotion (1 Kgs 15:3-4).

13:13-19 The example of God's people turning to him and his helping them, even after the kingdom had been disrupted, provided hope for the original readers in a similar situation.

13:19 The Lord granted the kingdom of Judah a miraculous victory. Abijah took the territories surrounding Bethel, Jeshanah, and Ephron from Israel (13:19). Together with Zemaraim (13:4), these towns in the hill country on the northern border of Judah formed a geographical unit (see Josh 18:22-23). The subsequent history of this territorial gain is not known; by the time of Amos (about 760 BC), Bethel was a major pagan shrine in Israel.

13:20 Jeroboam outlived Abijah (see 1 Kgs 15:9). The report of his death is included with his defeat, which was typical of vanquished warriors (see 2 Kgs 19:37).

14:1 Verse 14:1 is numbered 13:23 in the Hebrew text. • Asa reigned from 910 to 869 BC (see timelines, pp. 599, 609).

14:2-15 Verses 14:2-15 are numbered 14:1-14 in the Hebrew text.

14:2-5 At the beginning of his reign, Asa . . . removed the foreign altars in Judah (14:5). However, he did not remove the pagan shrines from Israel (15:17). These were probably in the cities of the northern kingdom that Asa had inherited from Abijah. Idolatry practiced by other peoples occupying the land plagued Judah throughout its history; this pagan activity might have revived toward the end of Asa's reign more than thirty years later.

14:4 The phrase seek the LORD is the Chronicler's formula for restoration; it both highlights and critiques Asa's reign (see 15:2, 12-13; 16:12).

14:7-14 Solomon had prayed that the Lord would hear his people when they were led into battle (6:34). In the battle against Zerah, God responded to such a prayer. • "Cushite" (see note on 14:9) might refer to someone from southern Egypt (Nubia) or a Midianite territory northeast of Aqabah (see Num 12:1; Hab 3:7). However, the mention of Libya in 16:8, the size of the battle (comparable to the attack of Shishak against Rehoboam in 12:3), and the location of Mareshah in the west of Judah indicate that Zerah was an Egyptian; he is otherwise unknown. He might have been a Nubian general dispatched by Osorkon I, the Libyan pharaoh who ruled Egypt between the tenth and fourteenth years of Asa (900-897 BC). Another view is that Shishak established a buffer state around Gerar, supported by Nubian mercenaries that invaded Judah. The account, however, only says that Asa and his armies pursued the armies south to Gerar and took a vast amount of plunder, particularly from the herdsmen living in tents around the cities.

⁸King Asa had an army of 300,000 warriors from the tribe of Judah, armed with large shields and spears. He also had an army of 280,000 warriors from the tribe of Benjamin, armed with small shields and bows. Both armies were composed of well-trained fighting men.

Victory over the Ethiopians

¹¹Then Asa cried out to the LORD his God, "O LORD, no one but you can help the powerless against the mighty! Help us, O LORD our God, for we trust in you alone. It is in your name that we have come against this vast horde. O LORD, you are our God; do not let mere men prevail against you!"

¹²So the LORD defeated the Ethiopians in the presence of Asa and the army of Judah, and the enemy fled. ¹³Asa and his army pursued them as far as Gerar, and so many Ethiopians fell that they were unable to rally. They were destroyed by the LORD and his army, and the army of Judah carried off a vast amount of plunder.

¹⁴While they were at Gerar, they attacked all the towns in that area, and terror from the LORD came upon the people there. As a result, a vast amount of plunder was taken from these towns, too. ¹⁵They also attacked the camps of herdsmen and captured many sheep, goats, and camels before finally returning to Jerusalem.

Azariah's Call to Revival

15 Then the Spirit of God came upon Azariah son of Oded, ²and he went out to meet King Asa as he was returning from the battle. "Listen to me, Asa!" he shouted. "Listen, all you people of Judah and Benjamin! The LORD will stay with you as long as you stay with him! Whenever you seek him, you will find him. But if you ^aabandon him, he will ^aabandon you. ³For a long time Israel was without the true God, without a priest to teach them, and without the Law to instruct them. ⁴But whenever they were in trouble and ^bturned to the

Asa (14:1–16:14)

1 Kgs 15:8-24

Asa became the third king (910–869 BC) of the southern kingdom of Judah after the split of Solomon's empire into independent kingdoms. Asa succeeded his father Abijah's brief kingship (913–910 BC), and reigned for 41 years.

In the beginning of his reign, Asa was a good king. He opposed the worship of false gods in the land, destroyed the Asherah pole that his grandmother Maacah had set up, and removed her remaining political influence (15:16; 1 Kgs 15:10).

In these early days, God blessed Asa's reign with military victory and peace. Asa forced out or defeated all who attempted to conquer, divide, or destroy Judah (14:1-8). Asa's most astounding conquest was over an Ethiopian leader named Zerah (14:9-15), who attacked Judah with more than a million troops. Because of Asa's obedience and faithfulness, God gave him a tremendous victory.

Unfortunately, toward the end of his life, Asa's attitude changed: He abandoned his trust in God. Baasha, the king of the northern kingdom, attacked Judah with the support of Ben-hadad, king of Aram, and fortified the city of Ramah. Asa paid the king of Aram to change sides and support him rather than Baasha. This meant that Asa had more confidence in a foreign king than in the Lord. Worse, Asa paid Ben-hadad with gold and silver that he had earlier given to the Temple! Asa's power play worked, and the northern kingdom of Israel had to leave Judah to stave off Ben-hadad's threat from the north. But the prophet Hanani rebuked Asa for his disbelief in God. Infuriated, Asa had Hanani thrown into prison (16:7-10).

For the final years of his reign, Asa became ill with a serious foot disease. "Even with the severity of his disease, he did not seek the LORD's help but turned only to his physicians" (16:12). Yet when Asa died, he was buried with honor in the royal tombs (16:14; 1 Kgs 15:24).

15:1-7 The prophet Azariah is unknown outside of this passage. His speech to King Asa and the people of Judah also served as the Chronicler's own message to the people of Judah following the Exile: The LORD will be with his people, he will be found by those who seek him, and he will reward their obedience.

Covenant Renewal and Celebration

2 Chr 15:16-18 // 1 Kgs 15:13-15

⁸When Asa heard this message from Azariah the prophet, he took courage and removed all the detestable idols from the land of Judah and Benjamin and in the towns he had captured in the hill country of Ephraim. And he repaired the altar of the LORD, which stood in front of the entry room of the LORD's Temple.

⁹Then Asa called together all the people of Judah and Benjamin, along with the people of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon who had settled among them. For many from Israel had moved to Judah during Asa's reign when they saw that the LORD his God was with him. ¹⁰The people gathered at Jerusalem in late spring, during the fifteenth year of Asa's reign.

¹¹On that day they sacrificed to the LORD 700 cattle and 7,000 sheep and goats from the plunder they had taken in the battle. ¹²Then they entered into a covenant to seek the LORD, the God of their ancestors, with all their heart and soul. ¹³They agreed that anyone who refused to seek the LORD, the God of Israel, would be put to death—whether young or old, man or woman. ¹⁴They shouted out their oath of loyalty to the LORD with trumpets blaring and rams' horns sounding. ¹⁵All in Judah were happy about this covenant, for they had entered into it with all their heart. They earnestly sought after God, and they found him. And the LORD gave them rest from their enemies on every side.

¹⁶King Asa even deposed his grandmother Maacah from her position as queen prophetic words, he took courage in initiating a comprehensive reform, beginning with the removal of the detestable idols that again infested the land (see 14:5). Full trust in God had won the war against the Cushites, and total renewal of the covenant brought the Promised Land to rest (15:15).

◀ Asa's Reign in Judah, 910–869 BC (14:1–16:14). During King Asa's reign, Zerah the Ethiopian attacked JUDAH at MARESHAH with a massive army, but Asa defeated Zerah's forces and drove them from the land. Later, King Baasha of ISRAEL captured the Judean town of RAMAH and prevented anyone from leaving or entering Judah. King Asa bribed King Ben-hadad of ARAM to attack Israel. Ben-hadad captured IJON, DAN, ABEL-BETH-MAACAH, and the store cities of Naphtali. King Baasha of Israel abandoned Ramah, and Asa carried away the building materials to fortify the border towns of GEBA and MIZPAH.

15:8 from Azariah the prophet: As in Syriac version and Latin Vulgate (see also 15:1); Hebrew reads from Oded the prophet. • The towns he had captured in the hill country of Ephraim were those conquered in his war with Baasha (16:1). There was continuous warfare between Baasha and Asa (see 1 Kgs 15:16).

15:9 the people of Ephraim, Manasse: The Chronicler always included the northern tribes in his accounts of spiritual reform (cp. 30:1-11). • The territory of Simeon was absorbed into Judah (see map, p. 397).

15:10-15 The ceremony of covenant renewal in the third month was probably during the Festival of Harvest (Pentecost). This great festival brought crowds to the Temple from all the surrounding regions. Disloyalty to the covenant was regarded as treason and carried the ultimate penalty (Deut 17:2-7). The sacrifices were dedicated offerings from the victory over Zerah (14:15).

15:10 in late spring: Literally in the third month. This month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar usually occurs within the months of May and June (see chart, "Israel's Annual Calendar," p. 145).

15:16 The queen mother was the first lady of the realm, usually holding the office as long as she lived. When she 15:5 it was not safe to travel: Cp. Judg 5:6-8; Zech 8:10.

15:7 The exhortation to be strong and courageous is a literal quotation of the exhortation that both Moses and Joshua gave Israel when they first entered the land (Deut 31:6-7; Josh 1:6, 9, 18).

15:8-18 The Chronicler described Asa's response in the precise terms of the prophet's exhortation, but Asa's specific actions went far beyond its general directives. As soon as Asa heard the mother because she had made an obscene Asherah pole. He cut down her obscene pole, broke it up, and burned it in the Kidron Valley. ¹⁷Although the pagan shrines were not removed from Israel, Asa's heart remained completely faithful throughout his life. ¹⁸He brought into the Temple of God the silver and gold and the various items that he and his father had dedicated.

¹⁹So there was no more war until the thirty-fifth year of Asa's reign.

War with King Baasha of Israel

2 Chr 16:1-6 // 1 Kgs 15:16-22

16 In the thirty-sixth year of Asa's reign, King Baasha of Israel invaded Judah and fortified Ramah in order to prevent anyone from entering or leaving King Asa's territory in Judah.

²Asa responded by removing the silver and gold from the treasuries of the Temple of the LORD and the royal palace. He sent it to King Ben-hadad of Aram, who was ruling in Damascus, along with this message:

³"Let there be a treaty between you and me like the one between your father and my father. See, I am sending you silver and gold. Break your treaty with King Baasha of Israel so that he will leave me alone."

⁴Ben-hadad agreed to King Asa's request and sent the commanders of his army to attack the towns of Israel. They conquered the towns of Ijon, Dan, Abel-beth-maacah, and all the store cities in Naphtali. ⁵As soon as Baasha of Israel heard what was happening, he abandoned his project of fortifying Ramah and stopped all work on it. ⁶Then King Asa called out all the men of Judah to carry away the building stones and timbers that Baasha had been using to fortify Ramah. Asa used these materials to fortify the towns of Geba and Mizpah.

Hanani's Exhortation to King Asa

⁷At that time Hanani the seer came to King Asa and told him, "Because you have put your trust in the king of Aram instead of in the LORD your God, you missed your chance to destroy the army of the king of Aram. ⁸Don't you remember what happened to the Ethiopians and Libyans and their vast died, the title passed to the mother of the heir apparent. There is no indication that the queen mother held official duties, but she wielded considerable influence. • Asherah is well known from Canaanite literature as the wife of the god El and the mother of seventy children, including Baal. The image made of her quite possibly had prominent sexual characteristics, a common practice in Canaan. • his grandmother: Literally his mother. The term "mother" can be used generically for any female ancestor. See 11:20, where Maacah is listed as the mother of Abijah (Asa's father).

15:19 no more war: Literally no war. Most translations, including the NLT, add "more" to assist in conveying the probable meaning. But if "no war" is in fact the better reading, the thirty-fifth year might refer to the thirty-fifth year since the division of the northern and southern kingdoms. That would have been around the time when Zerah the Ethiopian invaded Judah and was defeated by Asa (14:9-15). But see the note on 16:1; see also timeline, p. 609. • The Chronicler inserts chronological notes into his account to divide Asa's reign into periods that show the consequences of his decisions (see 14:1; 15:10; 16:1, 12, 13). The early battles with the north were seen as inconsequential for that period, though the Chronicler was fully aware of them (see 15:8). The first years of Asa's reign were characterized by divine favor to an obedient king.

16:1-10 Instead of trusting the Lord, Asa relied on foreign powers when Baasha attacked. The Chronicler's theological purpose was to show that disobedience has consequences.

16:1 In the thirty-sixth year of Asa's reign: According to the book of Kings, King Baasha (909–886 BC) died in the twenty-sixth year of Asa's reign (1 Kgs 16:8). One solution is that the Chronicles text might contain transmission errors and should instead read the fifteenth and sixteenth years (about 895 BC) instead of the thirty-fifth (15:19) and thirty-sixth years of Asa. Another possibility is that the Chronicler counted these years from the division of the kingdom. • Ramah was located five miles north of Jerusalem near Geba and Mizpah (see 16:6). King Baasha expanded Israel deep into the territory of Benjamin, separating important territory from Judah very shortly after the victories of Abijah (13:19).

16:2 To obtain relief from Baasha's aggression, Asa bribed the Arameans with silver and gold from . . . the Temple, appealing to an earlier treaty that his father Abijah had made with them.

16:3 Let there be a treaty: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads There is a treaty.

16:4 King Ben-hadad of Aram (16:2) broke his treaty with Baasha and attacked northern Israel, capturing all the land of Naphtali; this area included all of Galilee and nearly all of the country north of the Jezreel Valley and east of the Sea of Galilee. • Ijon was a large village in the southern Beqa' Valley, on the southern border of modern-day Lebanon. This town is usually listed with Abel-beth-maacah (as in parallel text at 1 Kgs 15:20; Hebrew reads Abel-maim, another name for Abel-beth-maacah), Dan (Laish), and Hazor in northern Israel. Abel-beth-maacah was near a major waterfall of the Jordan River tributaries, at the juncture of the Hula Valley and the Beqa' Valley in Lebanon.

16:6 Asa drafted laborers to use the materials from Ramah to fortify the northern border of his kingdom. Mizpah is usually identified with Tell en-Nasba, about four miles north of Ramah and two miles from Bethel. Geba was probably located three miles beyond the watershed east of Gibeath, protecting a wadi leading down to Jericho and the sanctuary at Gilgal.

16:7-9 Hanani the seer announced to Asa that he would suffer war from then on as a consequence of his disobedience. This judgment was a clear antithesis to Asa's earlier victory over Zerah, when the odds were against him but he trusted in the Lord (14:9-13). Just as Asa's previous reliance on the Lord had brought the land peace (14:5), his reliance on military power now destined him to continual warfare.

¹⁰Asa became so angry with Hanani for saying this that he threw him into prison and put him in stocks. At that time Asa also began to oppress some of his people.

Summary of Asa's Reign

2 Chr 16:11-14 // 1 Kgs 15:23-24

¹¹The rest of the events of Asa's reign, from beginning to end, are recorded in The Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ¹²In the thirty-ninth year of his reign, Asa developed a serious foot disease. Yet even with the severity of his disease, he did not seek the LORD's help but turned only to his physicians. ¹³So he died in the forty-first year of his reign. ¹⁴He was buried in the tomb he had carved out for himself in the City of David.

He was laid on a bed perfumed with sweet spices and fragrant ointments, and the people built a huge funeral fire in his honor.

Reign of Jehoshaphat (17:1-21:1) Religious and Political Achievements

17 Then Jehoshaphat, Asa's son, became the next king. He strengthened Judah to stand against any attack from Israel. ²He stationed troops in all the fortified towns of Judah, and he assigned additional garrisons to the land of Judah and to the towns of Ephraim that his father, Asa, had captured.

³The LORD was with Jehoshaphat because he followed the example of his father's early years and did not worship the images of Baal. ⁴He sought his father's God and obeyed his commands instead of following the evil practices of the kingdom of Israel. ⁵So the LORD established Jehoshaphat's control over the kingdom of Judah. All the people of Judah brought gifts to Jehoshaphat, so he became very wealthy and highly Hanani the seer's charge against King Asa of Judah (16:7) is intriguing. Asa regarded the king of Aram as an ally, giving him the treasures of the Temple and palace so he would attack Baasha, king of Israel. However, the prophet Hanani saw in Aram a human foe who would be a nemesis to the kingdom of Judah. Previous battles demonstrate that God was the only ally Asa needed, and God was also the only ally Asa actually had.

Asa's reliance on the king of Aram revealed a much deeper spiritual problem. Asa forgot that “the eyes of the LORD search the whole earth” (16:9; see also Zech 4:10). So when Hanani confronted Asa with the error of his ways, Asa summarily threw the prophet into confinement, and the angry king arbitrarily inflicted cruelties on the people.

Asa provides a sad example of the human propensity to rely on their own tangible resources (see Prov 11:7; Isa 31:1; Jer 17:5-6) and to become angry when corrected. Even those who experience the power of the Lord in a very tangible fashion often have this leaning (16:8). It is much better to rely on the Lord and welcome his direction (cp. Ps 33:18; 37:7; Isa 50:10; Jer 17:7-8; Acts 13:43). Life is a long lesson in trusting God; we might begin by doing what is good and right (14:1), but our legacy is not settled until the last deed is done (see also Rom 2:6-11; 1 Cor 4:1-5). Faithfulness to the kingdom of God must not be compromised by personal ambitions.

16:10 Asa's infidelity to the Lord in relying on power resulted in other sins, including oppression of the prophet and the people.

16:12 Sickness was often seen as punishment for sin (see 21:18-19; 26:20).

16:14 Asa had an honorable burial despite his sins. He had made extravagant preparations for his burial during his lifetime, including a tomb he had carved out for himself. Asa might have been imitating the pharaohs of Egypt in making these preparations. • The custom of a huge funeral fire is unknown outside of Chronicles and Jeremiah (cp. Jer 34:5).

17:1 Including a two-year co-regency with his father, Asa, Jehoshaphat reigned from 872 to 848 bc. • The last years of Asa's reign were characterized by conflicts and oppression, so Jehoshaphat needed to consolidate power within Judah to restore peace and stability. Israel had been an enemy during Asa's days, but Jehoshaphat soon entered into an alliance with Ahab (18:1-2).

17:3-4 For the first time, the Chronicler compares Judah's practices with those of northern Israel, showing his awareness that the Baal cult from Tyre had been introduced into northern worship (see 1 Kgs 16:31-32).

17:3 the example of his father's early years: Some Hebrew manuscripts read the example of his father, David.

17:5-6 The word translated gifts is usually translated “tribute,” such as conquering kings required of their vassals (e.g., Judg 3:15-18), but forced tribute is hardly the sense intended here. The people of Judah voluntarily made Jehoshaphat very wealthy. As with Uzziah (26:16) and Hezekiah (32:25), riches often result in pride. However, Jehoshaphat was deeply committed to (literally His heart was courageous in) the ways of the LORD. He was not proud of his own achievements; instead, his courage led him to remove idolatrous worship from the kingdom. Jehoshaphat established control within his kingdom by practicing righteousness and faithfulness to God.

esteemed. ⁶He was deeply committed to the ways of the LORD. He removed the pagan shrines and Asherah poles from Judah.

⁷In the third year of his reign Jehoshaphat sent his officials to teach in all the towns of Judah. These officials included Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel, and Micaiah.

¹⁰Then the fear of the LORD fell over all the surrounding kingdoms so that none of them wanted to declare war on Jehoshaphat.

¹¹Some of the Philistines brought him gifts and silver as tribute, and the Arabs brought 7,700 rams and 7,700 male goats.

¹²So Jehoshaphat became more and more powerful and built fortresses and storage cities throughout Judah. ¹³He stored numerous supplies in Judah's towns and stationed an army of seasoned troops at Jerusalem. ¹⁴His army was enrolled according to ancestral clans.

From Judah there were 300,000 troops organized in units of 1,000, under the command of Adnah. ¹⁵Next in command was Jehohanan, who commanded 280,000 troops. ¹⁶Next was Amasiah son of Zicri, who volunteered for the LORD's service, with 200,000 troops under his command.

¹⁷From Benjamin there were 200,000 troops equipped with bows and shields. They were under the command of Eliada, a veteran soldier. ¹⁸Next in command was Jehozabad, who commanded 180,000 armed men.

Jehoshaphat (17:1–21:1)

2 Kgs 3:1-27

Jehoshaphat succeeded his father Asa, becoming the fourth king of Judah (872–848 BC). Like Hezekiah and Josiah after him, Jehoshaphat trusted the Lord throughout his life and worked to remove most forms of pagan worship from Israel (17:6).

Jehoshaphat continued his father Asa's religious reforms, but reversed Asa's foreign policy. Jehoshaphat discontinued the war between Judah and Israel over their boundaries (1 Kgs 22:2). To confirm this, he made an alliance with Ahab, had his son Jehoram marry Ahab's daughter Athaliah (18:1-2; 2 Kgs 8:18), and supported the north in its wars against the Arameans (18:3-34; 1 Kgs 22; 2 Kgs 3:4-27). The prophet Jehu rebuked Jehoshaphat for his unwise alliance with Israel (19:1-3), which resulted in his son Jehoram falling under the influence of Ahab and Jezebel. Jehoram and his son Ahaziah turned Judah toward idol worship.

Yet during his reign, Jehoshaphat kept God's worship pure. He closed the temples of prostitution (1 Kgs 22:46) and sent teachers of God's law throughout the land (17:7-9). He also established a system of judges and admonished them to function as the Lord's representatives so that justice might prevail (19:4-11). He appointed Levites, priests, and family heads to handle cases pertaining to the Lord's worship and to negotiate disputes among citizens (17:4-11).

Jehoshaphat also insisted on hearing from a true prophet of the Lord before going to battle. In one of the most stirring OT descriptions of war, Jehoshaphat preached to the army before entering a battle. As a result, God caused the armies from Ammon, Moab, and their allies to turn against each other (ch 20).

Jehoshaphat died when he was about 60 years old and was buried in Jerusalem. His son Jehoram became Judah's next king (21:1).

17:7-9 Jehoshaphat carried out the Lord's requirement to know the law (Deut 5:1; 17:18-20), commissioning five royal officers, nine Levites, and two priests to instruct the people in the book of the covenant. Levites frequently functioned as teachers during the second Temple period as well (Neh 8:7). • Some versions omit Tob-adonijah; it appears to be a scribal error of repetition.

17:10-11 The fear of the LORD among the surrounding kingdoms resulted in tribute to Jehoshaphat, an action that was intended to buy peace. Peace is one indicator of divine favor (cp. 14:2-6). • The Arabs were probably the desert tribes living south of Judah in territory next to the Philistines.

17:12-19 Jehoshaphat's international status, building enterprises, and army characterized his great rule. Archaeological excavations have revealed a line of highway forts in the Jordan Valley near the Dead Sea dating to his time. • The number of troops in his army—totaling more than a million in Jerusalem—seems unreasonably high. Because the leaders were based on tribal divisions (17:14), it is possible that the term translated as “thousand” (elep) should instead be translated as “squad” or “platoon,” a much smaller military unit of perhaps five to fourteen men (see notes on Exod 12:37; Josh 8:3). The totals might also include reserve divisions that served on rotation (see 1 Chr 27:1-15). The number of troops credited to Jehoshaphat is approximately triple those of Abijah (13:3).

Jehoshaphat and Ahab Make an Alliance
2 Chr 18:2-8 // 1 Kgs 22:2-9

18 Jehoshaphat enjoyed great riches and high esteem, and he made an alliance with Ahab of Israel by having his son marry Ahab's daughter. ²A few years later he went to Samaria to visit Ahab, who prepared a great banquet for him and his officials. They butchered great numbers of sheep, goats, and cattle for the feast. Then Ahab enticed Jehoshaphat to join forces with him to recover Ramoth-gilead.

³"Will you go with me to Ramoth-gilead?" King Ahab of Israel asked King Jehoshaphat of Judah.

Jehoshaphat replied, "Why, of course! You and I are as one, and my troops are your troops. We will certainly join you in battle." ⁴Then Jehoshaphat added, "But first let's find out what the LORD says."

⁵So the king of Israel summoned the prophets, 400 of them, and asked them, "Should we go to war against Ramoth-gilead, or should I hold back?"

They all replied, "Yes, go right ahead! God will give the king victory."

⁶But Jehoshaphat asked, "Is there not also a prophet of the LORD here? We should ask him the same question."

⁷The king of Israel replied to Jehoshaphat, "There is one more man who could consult the LORD for us, but I hate him. He never prophesies anything but trouble for me! His name is Micaiah son of Imlah."

Jehoshaphat replied, "That's not the way

◀ Judah from Jehoshaphat to Ahaziah, 872-841 BC (17:1-22:9). During Jehoshaphat's reign, an alliance of MOAB, AMMON, and the MEUNITES declared war on JUDAH and came as far as HAZAZON-TAMAR, but as Jehoshaphat's army advanced to meet them in the wilderness of TEKOA, the alliance panicked and began attacking each other, resulting in a great victory for the people of Judah (20:1-30). • Jehoshaphat's sinful alliance with King Ahaziah of ISRAEL, however, led to the destruction of his fleet of trading ships at EZION-GEBER on the Gulf of Aqaba. • The reign of Jehoram was marked by weakness and decline as EDOM and the town of LIBNAH declared independence from Israel, and the PHILISTINES and ARABS conducted raids on JUDAH and JERUSALEM.

Asa (14:8), Amaziah (25:5), and Uzziah (26:11-15). It is comparable to the number of warriors at the time of David's census (1 Chr 21:5), when soldiers from the northern tribes were counted. A large army was an indication of God's blessing.

18:1-2 Jehoshaphat's alliance with Ahab led him to compromise his faithfulness to the Lord (see 19:2-3; cp. 2 Cor 6:14-18). The marriage of his son Jehoram (21:1) to Ahab's daughter Athaliah (22:2) brought Israel's apostasy into Judah (see 21:5-6, 12-13; 22:1-4).

18:5-7 The 400 prophets were Ahab's "yes-men." Jehoshaphat wanted instead to hear from a prophet of the Lord, but Ahab knew in advance that such a prophet would contradict his court prophets.

a king should talk! Let's hear what he has to say."

⁸So the king of Israel called one of his officials and said, "Quick! Bring Micaiah son of Imlah."

Micaiah Prophesies against Ahab

2 Chr 18:9-27 // 1 Kgs 22:10-28

⁹King Ahab of Israel and King Jehoshaphat of Judah, dressed in their royal robes, were sitting on thrones at the threshing floor near the gate of Samaria. All of Ahab's prophets were prophesying there in front of them. ¹⁰One of them, Zedekiah son of Kenaanah, made some iron horns and proclaimed, "This is what the LORD says: With these horns you will gore the Arameans to death!"

¹¹All the other prophets agreed. "Yes," they said, "go up to Ramoth-gilead and be victorious, for the LORD will give the king victory!"

¹²Meanwhile, the messenger who went to get Micaiah said to him, "Look, all the prophets are promising victory for the king. Be sure that you agree with them and promise success."

¹³But Micaiah replied, "As surely as the LORD lives, I will say only what my God says."

¹⁴When Micaiah arrived before the king, Ahab asked him, "Micaiah, should we go to war against Ramoth-gilead, or should I hold back?"

Micaiah replied sarcastically, "Yes, go up and be victorious, for you will have victory over them!"

¹⁵But the king replied sharply, "How many times must I demand that you speak only the truth to me when you speak for the LORD?"

¹⁶Then Micaiah told him, "In a vision I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains, like sheep without a shepherd. And the LORD said, 'Their master has been killed. Send them home in peace.'"

¹⁷"Didn't I tell you?" the king of Israel exclaimed to Jehoshaphat. "He never prophesies anything but trouble for me."

¹⁸Then Micaiah continued, "Listen to what the LORD says! I saw the LORD sitting on his throne with all the armies of heaven around him, on his right and on his left. ¹⁹And the LORD said, 'Who can entice King Ahab of Israel to go into battle against Ramoth-gilead so he can be killed?'

"There were many suggestions, ²⁰and finally a spirit approached the LORD and said, 'I can do it!'

"How will you do this?' the LORD asked.

²¹"And the spirit replied, 'I will go out and inspire all of Ahab's prophets to speak lies.'

"You will succeed,' said the LORD. 'Go ahead and do it.'

²²"So you see, the LORD has put a lying spirit in the mouths of your prophets. For the LORD has pronounced your doom."

²³Then Zedekiah son of Kenaanah walked up to Micaiah and slapped him across the face. "Since when did the Spirit of the LORD leave me to speak to you?" he demanded.

²⁴And Micaiah replied, "You will find out soon enough when you are trying to hide in some secret room!"

²⁷But Micaiah replied, "If you return safely, it will mean that the LORD has not spoken through me!" Then he added to those standing around, "Everyone mark my words!"

The Death of Ahab

2 Chr 18:28-34 // 1 Kgs 22:29-37

²⁸So King Ahab of Israel and King Jehoshaphat of Judah led their armies against Ramoth-gilead. ²⁹The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "As we go into battle, I will disguise myself so no one will recognize me, but you wear your royal robes." So the king of Israel disguised himself, and they went into battle.

³⁰Meanwhile, the king of Aram had issued these orders to his chariot commanders: "Attack only the king of Israel! Don't bother with anyone else." ³¹So when the Aramean chariot commanders saw Jehoshaphat in his royal robes, they went after him. "There is the king of Israel!" they shouted. But Jehoshaphat called out, and the LORD saved him. God helped him by turning the attackers away from him. ³²As soon as the chariot

18:18-22 The vision explains the deception of the false prophets while legitimizing Micaiah's word. The deception guaranteed that Ahab would fall in battle; his judgment was decreed.

18:25-26 Ahab's defiance against the Lord is seen in his contempt for Micaiah, the Lord's prophet.

18:28-34 Although Ahab knew he had gone against God's will and was therefore liable for the consequences, his immediate concern was the Aramean army. His belief that he could defy God's judgment against him indicates his disregard for the Lord; his error was fatal.

commanders realized he was not the king of Israel, they stopped chasing him.

³³An Aramean soldier, however, randomly shot an arrow at the Israelite troops and hit the king of Israel between the joints of his armor. "Turn the horses and get me out of here!" Ahab groaned to the driver of the chariot. "I'm badly wounded!"

³⁴The battle raged all that day, and the king of Israel propped himself up in his chariot facing the Arameans. In the evening, just as the sun was setting, he died.

Jehoshaphat Appoints Judges

19 When King Jehoshaphat of Judah arrived safely home in Jerusalem, ²Jehu son of Hanani the seer went out to meet him. "Why should you help the wicked and love those who hate the LORD?" he asked the king. "Because of what you have done, the LORD is very angry with you. ³Even so, there is some good in you, for you have removed the Asherah poles throughout the land, and you have committed yourself to seeking God."

⁴Jehoshaphat lived in Jerusalem, but he went out among the people, traveling from Beersheba to the hill country of Ephraim, encouraging the people to return to the LORD, the God of their ancestors. ⁵He appointed judges throughout the nation in all the fortified towns, ⁶and he said to them, "Always think carefully before pronouncing judgment. Remember that you do not judge to please people but to please the LORD. He will be with you when you render the verdict in each case. ⁷Fear the LORD and judge with integrity, for the LORD our God does not tolerate perverted justice, partiality, or the taking of bribes."

to them: "You must always act in the fear of the LORD, with faithfulness and an undivided heart. ¹⁰Whenever a case comes to you from fellow citizens in an outlying town, whether a murder case or some other violation of God's laws, commands, decrees, or regulations, you must warn them not to sin against the LORD, so that he will not be angry with you and them. Do this and you will not be guilty.

¹¹"Amariah the high priest will have final say in all cases involving the LORD. Zebadiah son of Ishmael, a leader from the tribe of Judah, will have final say in all civil cases. The Levites will assist you in making sure that justice is served. Take courage as you fulfill your duties, and may the LORD be with those who do what is right."

Victory over Moab and Ammon

20 After this, the armies of the Moabites, Ammonites, and some of the Meunites declared war on Jehoshaphat. ²Messengers came and told Jehoshaphat, "A vast army from Edom is marching against you from beyond the Dead Sea. They are already at Hazazon-tamar." (This was another name for En-gedi.)

³Jehoshaphat was terrified by this news and begged the LORD for guidance. He also ordered everyone in Judah to begin fasting. ⁴So people from all the towns of Judah came to Jerusalem to seek the LORD's help.

⁵Jehoshaphat stood before the community of Judah and Jerusalem in front of the new courtyard at the Temple of the LORD. ⁶He prayed, "O LORD, God of our ancestors, you alone are the God who is in heaven. You are ruler of all the kingdoms of the earth. You are powerful and mighty; no one can stand against you! ⁷O our God, did you not drive out those who lived in this land when your people Israel arrived? And did you not give this land forever to the descendants of your friend Abraham? ⁸Your people settled

18:33 Turn the horses: Literally Turn your hand.

19:1-2 Jehu was the son of Hanani, the prophet who had rebuked Asa for his reliance on the Arameans (16:7-9). Jehu now chastised Jehoshaphat for his alliance with Ahab. • The word love expresses faithfulness to a covenant (see "God's Covenant Love" at Deut 33:3, p. 365). Jehoshaphat's covenant with the wicked Ahab conflicted with his covenant with the Lord.

19:4-11 In Jehoshaphat's judicial reform, he appointed judges in the fortified towns (19:5) and in a central court in Jerusalem (19:8). He exhorted all the judges to think carefully, and to judge with integrity and in the fear of the LORD. This excluded acting with any partiality or taking of bribes, and included warning criminals not to sin against the LORD. The reform reestablished the law of Deuteronomy (Deut 16:18-17:13).

20:1 Meunites (see 1 Chr 4:41): As in some Greek manuscripts (see also 26:7); Hebrew repeats Ammonites. The Meunites were a nomadic group living on the southern borders of Judah; their name probably survives as the Arab town of Ma'an, twelve miles southeast of Petra.

20:2 Edom: As in one Hebrew manuscript; most Hebrew manuscripts and ancient versions read Aram. Translating the word as Edom is consistent with the Chronicler's later description of the armies (20:10, 22-23) and with the geographical description of the attack from the southeast through En-gedi. (Aram was northeast of Judah.) • the Dead Sea: Literally the sea.

20:3-12 Jehoshaphat responded to the news of war with neighboring nations with a prayer of lament, keeping with the ideals of Solomon's prayer (6:24-40).

here and built this Temple to honor your name. ⁹They said, 'Whenever we are faced with any calamity such as war, plague, or famine, we can come to stand in your presence before this Temple where your name is honored. We can cry out to you to save us, and you will hear us and rescue us.'

¹⁰"And now see what the armies of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir are doing. You would not let our ancestors invade those nations when Israel left Egypt, so they went around them and did not destroy them. ¹¹Now see how they reward us! For they have come to throw us out of your land, which you gave us as an inheritance. ¹²O our God, won't you stop them? We are powerless against this mighty army that is about to attack us. We do not know what to do, but we are looking to you for help."

¹³As all the men of Judah stood before the LORD with their little ones, wives, and children, ¹⁴the Spirit of the LORD came upon one of the men standing there. His name was Jahaziel son of Zechariah, son of Benaiah, son of Jeiel, son of Mattaniah, a Levite who was a descendant of Asaph.

¹⁵He said, "Listen, all you people of Judah and Jerusalem! Listen, King Jehoshaphat! This is what the LORD says: Do not be afraid! Don't be discouraged by this mighty army, for the battle is not yours, but God's. ¹⁶Tomorrow, march out against them. You will find them coming up through the ascent of Ziz at the end of the valley that opens into the wilderness of Jeruel. ¹⁷But you will not even need to fight. Take your positions; then stand still and watch the LORD's victory. He is with you, O people of Judah and Jerusalem. Do not be afraid or discouraged. Go out against them tomorrow, for the LORD is with you!"

¹⁸Then King Jehoshaphat bowed low with his face to the ground. And all the people of Judah and Jerusalem did the same, worshipping the LORD. ¹⁹Then the Levites from the clans of Kohath and Korah stood to praise the LORD, the God of Israel, with a very loud shout.

²⁰Early the next morning the army of Judah went out into the wilderness of Tekoa. On the way Jehoshaphat stopped and said, "Listen to me, all you people of Judah and Jerusalem! Believe in the LORD your God, and you will be able to stand firm. Believe in his prophets, and you will succeed."

²¹After consulting the people, the king appointed singers to walk ahead of the army, singing to the LORD and praising him for his holy splendor. This is what they sang:

"Give thanks to the LORD;
his faithful love endures forever!"

²²At the very moment they began to sing and give praise, the LORD caused the armies of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir to start fighting among themselves. ²³The armies of Moab and Ammon turned against their allies from Mount Seir and killed every one of them. After they had destroyed the army of Seir, they began attacking each other. ²⁴So when the army of Judah arrived at the lookout point in the wilderness, all they saw were dead bodies lying on the ground as far as they could see. Not a single one of the enemy had escaped.

²⁵King Jehoshaphat and his men went out to gather the plunder. They found vast amounts of equipment, clothing, and other valuables—more than they could carry. There was so much plunder that it took them three days just to collect it all! ²⁶On the fourth day they gathered in the Valley of Blessing, which got its name that day because the people praised and thanked the LORD there. It is still called the Valley of Blessing today.

²⁷Then all the men returned to Jerusalem, with Jehoshaphat leading them, overjoyed that the LORD had given them victory over their enemies. ²⁸They marched into Jerusalem to the music of harps, lyres, and trumpets, and they proceeded to the Temple of the LORD.

²⁹When all the surrounding kingdoms heard that the LORD himself had fought against the enemies of Israel, the fear of God came over them. ³⁰So Jehoshaphat's kingdom was at peace, for his God had given him rest on every side.

became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem twenty-five years. His mother was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi.

³²Jehoshaphat was a good king, following the ways of his father, Asa. He did what was pleasing in the LORD's sight. ³³During his reign, however, he failed to remove all the pagan shrines, and the people never fully committed themselves to follow the God of their ancestors.

³⁴The rest of the events of Jehoshaphat's reign, from beginning to end, are recorded in The Record of Jehu Son of Hanani, which is included in The Book of the Kings of Israel.

³⁵Some time later King Jehoshaphat of Judah made an alliance with King Ahaziah of Israel, who was very wicked. ³⁶Together they built a fleet of trading ships at the port of Ezion-geber. ³⁷Then Eliezer son of Doda-vahu from Mareshah prophesied against Jehoshaphat. He said, "Because you have allied yourself with King Ahaziah, the LORD will destroy your work." So the ships met with disaster and never put out to sea.

21 When Jehoshaphat died, he was buried with his ancestors in the City of David. Then his son Jehoram became the next king.

Reign of Jehoram (21:2-20)

The Ruthless Rule of Jehoram

2 Chr 21:5-10 // 2 Kgs 8:17-22

²Jehoram's brothers—the other sons of Jehoshaphat—were Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariah, Michael, and Shephatiah; all these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Judah. ³Their father had given each of them valuable gifts of silver, gold, and costly items, and also some of Judah's fortified towns. However, he designated Jehoram as the next king because he was the oldest. ⁴But when Jehoram had become solidly established as king, he killed all his brothers and some of the other leaders of Judah.

⁵Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem eight years. ⁶But Jehoram followed the example of the kings of Israel and was as wicked as King Ahab, for he had married one of

The Arabic term jihad, which has become well known in the English language, speaks of a "holy war" in which men fight for God. However, the biblical description of a "holy war" is quite different. A holy war is a conflict where God fights for his people while they trust in him. In these wars, victory does not depend on weapons but on obedience to God.

In a time of war, King Jehoshaphat of Judah proclaimed a fast (20:3) and petitioned God in the typical style of a prayer lament (20:5-12), which included an invocation, a complaint, a confession of trust, and a request. Jehoshaphat and the people reflected their hearts' attitude by bowing low with their faces to the ground (20:18). The image of an army marching into battle headed by a choir giving praise to God (20:21) is amusing, because the battlefield is not usually the place for worship and praise. However, worship is a consistent theme in Chronicles, and war does not change that priority. God rewards acts of trust in him. Worship provides a way to know the will of God, and it invites God to act to save his people.

The divine warrior will conquer all nations (Isa 26:21). The Gospels and Epistles portray Jesus as the conqueror of all the principalities and powers that are arrayed against the kingdom of God (Eph 1:19-21). Finally Jesus will come as the divine conqueror over all temporal and spiritual forces (Rev 19:11). He will bring the ultimate victory of God as king, and worship will be complete: "Praise the LORD! For the Lord our God, the Almighty, reigns" (Rev 19:6).

20:32-33 The comparison of Jehoshaphat with Asa is adopted from 1 Kgs 22:43 without alteration.

20:35-37 The Lord destroyed the fleet to prevent Jehoshaphat's alliance with King Ahaziah of Israel from prospering. • who was very wicked: Or who made him do what was wicked.

20:36 fleet of trading ships: Literally fleet of ships that could go to Tarshish.

20:37 never put out to sea: Literally never set sail for Tarshish.

21:2-7 Jehoram, whose wife was Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel (18:1; 21:6; 22:2), was the first king of David's line to receive a totally negative evaluation. His murders (21:4) seriously threatened the continuation of the dynasty, which was only preserved because of the Lord's own loyal faithfulness to David (21:7). On three other occasions, violence was perpetrated against the royal family that all but ended the dynasty (see 21:17; 22:8-9; 22:10-11).

21:2 of Judah: Masoretic Text reads of Israel; also in 21:4. The author of Chronicles sees Judah as representative of the true Israel. (Some Hebrew manuscripts, Greek and Syriac versions, and Latin Vulgate read of Judah.)

21:5 After a three-year co-regency with his father, Jehoram reigned from 848 to 841 BC.

Ahab's daughters. So Jehoram did what was evil in the LORD's sight. ⁷But the LORD did not want to destroy David's dynasty, for he had made a covenant with David and promised that his descendants would continue to rule, shining like a lamp forever.

⁸During Jehoram's reign, the Edomites revolted against Judah and crowned their own king. ⁹So Jehoram went out with his full army and all his chariots. The Edomites surrounded him and his chariot commanders, but he went out at night and attacked them under cover of darkness. ¹⁰Even so, Edom has been independent from Judah to this day. The town of Libnah also revolted about that same time. All this happened because Jehoram had abandoned the LORD, the God of his ancestors. ¹¹He had built pagan shrines in the hill country of Judah and had led the people of Jerusalem and Judah to give themselves to pagan gods and to go astray.

Elijah Warns King Jehoram

¹²Then Elijah the prophet wrote Jehoram this letter:

"This is what the LORD, the God of your ancestor David, says: You have not followed the good example of your father, Jehoshaphat, or your grandfather King Asa of Judah. ¹³Instead, you have been as evil as the kings of Israel. You have led the people of Jerusalem and Judah to worship idols, just as King Ahab did in Israel. And you have even killed your own brothers, men who were better than you. ¹⁴So now the LORD is about to strike you, your people, your children, your wives, and all that is yours with a heavy blow. ¹⁵You yourself will suffer with a severe intestinal disease that will get worse each day until your bowels come out."

The Sorry End of Jehoram

¹⁶Then the LORD stirred up the Philistines and the Arabs, who lived near the Ethiopians, to attack Jehoram. ¹⁷They marched against Judah, broke down its defenses, and carried away everything of value in the royal palace, including the king's sons and his wives. Only his youngest son, Ahaziah, was spared.

¹⁸After all this, the LORD struck Jehoram with an incurable intestinal disease. ¹⁹The disease grew worse and worse, and at the end of two years it caused his bowels to come out, and he died in agony. His people did not build a great funeral fire to honor him as they had done for his ancestors.

²⁰Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem eight years. No one was sorry when he died. They buried him in the City of David, but not in the royal cemetery.

Reign of Ahaziah (22:1-9)

2 Chr 22:1-6 // 2 Kgs 8:25-29

22 Then the people of Jerusalem made Ahaziah, Jehoram's youngest son, their next king, since the marauding bands who came with the Arabs had killed all the older sons. So Ahaziah son of Jehoram reigned as king of Judah.

²Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem one year. His mother was Athaliah, a granddaughter of King Omri. ³Ahaziah also followed the evil example of King Ahab's family, for his mother encouraged him in doing wrong. ⁴He did what was evil in the LORD's sight, just as Ahab's family had done. They even became his advisers after the death of his father, and they led him to ruin.

⁵Following their evil advice, Ahaziah joined Joram, the son of King Ahab of Is-

The Edomites had also rebelled before Solomon's death (1 Kgs 11:14-22), and were probably not under Rehoboam's control. They apparently came under Judah's control again following their defeat by Jehoshaphat (20:1-30; cp. 1 Kgs 22:47). • The town of Libnah was at the western end of the valley of Elah, on the border of the territory of the Philistines.

rael, in his war against King Hazael of Aram at Ramoth-gilead. When the Arameans wounded Joram in the battle, ⁶he returned to Jezreel to recover from the wounds he had received at Ramoth. Because Joram was wounded, King Ahaziah of Judah went to Jezreel to visit him.

⁷But God had decided that this visit would be Ahaziah's downfall. While he was there, Ahaziah went out with Joram to meet Jehu grandson of Nimshi, whom the LORD had appointed to destroy the dynasty of Ahab.

⁸While Jehu was executing judgment against the family of Ahab, he happened to meet some of Judah's officials and Ahaziah's relatives who were traveling with Ahaziah. So Jehu killed them all. ⁹Then Jehu's men searched for Ahaziah, and they found him hiding in the city of Samaria. They brought him to Jehu, who killed him. Ahaziah was given a decent burial because the people said, "He was the grandson of Jehoshaphat—a man who sought the LORD with all his heart." But none of the surviving members of Ahaziah's family was capable of ruling the kingdom.

Reign of Joash (22:10–24:27)

Athaliah Seizes the Throne of Judah

2 Chr 22:10-12 // 2 Kgs 11:1-3

¹⁰When Athaliah, the mother of King Ahaziah of Judah, learned that her son was dead, she began to destroy the rest of Judah's royal family. ¹¹But Ahaziah's sister Jehosheba, the daughter of King Jehoram, took Ahaziah's infant son, Joash, and stole him away from among the rest of the king's children, who were about to be killed. She put Joash and his nurse in a bedroom. In this way, Jehosheba, wife of Jehoiada the priest and sister of Ahaziah, hid the child so that Athaliah could not murder him. ¹²Joash remained hidden in the Temple of God for six years while Athaliah ruled over the land.

Joash is Crowned King

2 Chr 23:1-11 // 2 Kgs 11:4-12

23 In the seventh year of Athaliah's reign, Jehoiada the priest decided to act. He summoned his courage and made a pact with five army commanders: Azariah son of Jeroham, Ishmael son of Jehohanan, Azariah son of Obed, Maaseiah son of Adaiyah, and Elishaphat son of Zicri. ²These men traveled secretly throughout Judah and summoned the Levites and clan leaders in all the towns to come to Jerusalem. ³They all gathered at the Temple of God, where they made a solemn pact with Joash, the young king.

Jehoiada said to them, "Here is the king's son! The time has come for him to reign! The LORD has promised that a descendant of David will be our king. ⁴This is what you must do. When you priests and Levites come on duty on the Sabbath, a third of you such as Ahaziah's sister, survived the slaughter. Jehosheba was Ahaziah's half sister, the daughter of King Jehoram by a wife other than Athaliah. The six years of Athaliah's reign were from 841 to 835 BC.

22:11 The first sentence is translated as in the parallel text at 2 Kgs 11:2; Hebrew lacks Ahaziah's sister and reads Jehoshebeath [a variant spelling of Jehosheba].

23:1-3 Jehoiada . . . made a pact or covenant with key military officers, who solicited broad popular support among the Levites and clan leaders. The content of the people's pact with Joash was expressed in Jehoiada's declaration that the son of the king must become king.

23:4-6 The most logical time for the coup was at the changing of the Temple guard, when there would be large movements of people. A third of the guards were coming on duty; they were stationed in three locations to perform their regular duties and to watch for any activity from the palace. The remainder of the armed force was stationed in the courtyards of the LORD's Temple, providing a human wall to protect the king.

strategic for Aram and Israel. • Jezreel, at the foot of Mount Gilboa in the plain of Jezreel, became the summer palace of the Israelite kings.

22:5 Joram: Hebrew Jehoram, a variant spelling of Joram; also in 22:6, 7.

22:6 Ramoth: Hebrew Ramah, a variant spelling of Ramoth. • Ahaziah: As in some Hebrew manuscripts, Greek and Syriac versions, and Latin Vulgate (see also 2 Kgs 8:29); most Hebrew manuscripts read Azariah.

22:7-9 The death of Ahaziah was a punishment for his alliance with the king of Israel. The Judahite king who lived by the counsel of the Israelite house of Omri shared their fate and found no refuge there at the time of his death. Ahaziah's infidelity brought David's line almost to the same point as Saul's line, with no one left to assume the throne.

22:7 grandson of Nimshi: Hebrew descendant of Nimshi; cp. 2 Kgs 9:2, 14.

22:8 and Ahaziah's relatives: As in Greek version (see also 2 Kgs 10:13); Hebrew reads and sons of the brothers of Ahaziah.

22:10-12 Athaliah was never regarded as a legitimate monarch; she was given no royal formula of age or length of reign as were other rulers. Her destruction of the rest of Judah's royal family concentrated on potential male successors; those who were ineligible to reign, will serve as gatekeepers. ⁵Another third will go over to the royal palace, and the final third will be at the Foundation Gate. Everyone else should stay in the courtyards of the LORD's Temple. ⁶Remember, only the priests and Levites on duty may enter the Temple of the LORD, for they are set apart as holy. The rest of the people must obey the LORD's instructions and stay outside. ⁷You Levites, form a bodyguard around the king and keep your weapons in hand. Kill anyone who tries to enter the Temple. Stay with the king wherever he goes."

⁸So the Levites and all the people of Judah did everything as Jehoiada the priest ordered. The commanders took charge of the men reporting for duty that Sabbath, as well as those who were going off duty. Jehoiada the priest did not let anyone go home after their shift ended. ⁹Then Jehoiada supplied the commanders with the spears and the large and small shields that had once belonged to King David and were stored in the Temple of God. ¹⁰He stationed all the people around the king, with their weapons ready. They formed a line from the south side of the Temple around to the north side and all around the altar.

¹¹Then Jehoiada and his sons brought out Joash, the king's son, placed the crown on his head, and presented him with a copy of God's laws. They anointed him and proclaimed him king, and everyone shouted, "Long live the king!"

The Death of Athaliah

2 Chr 23:12-15 // 2 Kgs 11:13-16

¹²When Athaliah heard the noise of the people running and the shouts of praise to the king, she hurried to the LORD's Temple to see what was happening. ¹³When she arrived, she saw the newly crowned king standing in his place of authority by the pillar at the Temple entrance. The commanders and trumpeters were surrounding him, and people from all over the land were rejoicing and blowing trumpets. Singers with musical instruments were leading the people in a great celebration. When Athaliah saw all this, she tore her clothes in despair and shouted, "Treason! Treason!"

¹⁴Then Jehoiada the priest ordered the commanders who were in charge of the troops, "Take her to the soldiers in front of the Temple, and kill anyone who tries to rescue her." For the priest had said, "She must not be killed in the Temple of the LORD." ¹⁵So they seized her and led her out to the entrance of the Horse Gate on the palace grounds, and they killed her there.

Jehoiada's Religious Reforms

¹⁶Then Jehoiada made a covenant between himself and the king and the people that they would be the LORD's people. ¹⁷And all the people went over to the temple of Baal and tore it down. They demolished the altars and smashed the idols, and they killed Matan the priest of Baal in front of the altars.

¹⁸Jehoiada now put the priests and Levites in charge of the Temple of the LORD, following all the directions given by David. He also commanded them to present burnt offerings to the LORD, as prescribed by the Law of Moses, and to sing and rejoice as David had instructed. ¹⁹He also stationed gatekeepers at the gates of the LORD's Temple to keep out those who for any reason were ceremonially unclean.

²⁰Then the commanders, nobles, rulers, and all the people of the land escorted the king from the Temple of the LORD. They went through the upper gate and into the palace, and they seated the king on the royal throne. ²¹So all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was peaceful because Athaliah had been killed.

Overview of Joash's Reign

24 Joash was seven years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem forty years. His mother was Zibiah from Beersheba. ²Joash did what was pleasing in the LORD's sight throughout the lifetime of Jehoiada the priest. ³Jehoiada chose two wives for Joash, and he had sons and daughters.

Joash Repairs the Temple

2 Chr 24:4-14 // 2 Kgs 12:4-16

⁴At one point Joash decided to ‘repair and restore the Temple of the LORD. ⁵He summoned the priests and Levites and gave them these instructions: “Go to all the towns of Judah and collect the required annual offerings, so that we can repair the Temple of your God. Do not delay!” But the Levites did not act immediately.

⁶So the king called for Jehoiada the high priest and asked him, “Why haven’t you demanded that the Levites go out and collect the Temple taxes from the towns of Judah and from Jerusalem? Moses, the servant of the LORD, levied this tax on the community of Israel in order to maintain the Tabernacle of the Covenant.”

⁷Over the years the followers of wicked Athaliah had broken into the Temple of God, and they had used all the dedicated things from the Temple of the LORD to worship the images of Baal.

¹¹Whenever the chest became full, the Levites would carry it to the king’s officials. Then the court secretary and an officer of the high priest would come and empty the chest and take it back to the Temple again. This went on day after day, and a large amount of money was collected. ¹²The king and Jehoiada gave the money to the construction supervisors, who hired masons and carpenters to restore the Temple of the LORD. They also hired metalworkers, who made articles of iron and bronze for the LORD’s Temple.

¹³The men in charge of the renovation worked hard and made steady progress. They restored the Temple of God according to its original design and strengthened it. ¹⁴When all the repairs were finished, they brought the remaining money to the king and Jehoiada. It was used to make various articles for the Temple of the LORD—articles for worship services and for burnt offerings, including ladles and other articles made of gold and silver. And the burnt offerings were sacrificed continually in the Temple of the LORD during the lifetime of Jehoiada the priest.

¹⁵Jehoiada lived to a very old age, finally dying at 130. ¹⁶He was buried among the kings in the City of David, because he had done so much good in Israel for God and his Temple.

Joash under Judgment

¹⁷But after Jehoiada’s death, the leaders of Judah came and bowed before King Joash and persuaded him to listen to their advice. ¹⁸They decided to abandon the Temple of the LORD, the God of their ancestors, and they worshiped Asherah poles and idols instead! Because of this sin, divine anger fell on Judah and Jerusalem. ¹⁹Yet the LORD sent prophets to bring them back to him. The prophets warned them, but still the people would not listen.

²⁰Then the Spirit of God came upon Zechariah son of Jehoiada the priest. He stood before the people and said, “This is what God says: Why do you disobey the LORD’s commands and keep yourselves from prospering? You have abandoned the LORD, and now he has abandoned you!”

²¹Then the leaders plotted to kill Zechariah, and King Joash ordered that they stone him to death in the courtyard of the LORD’s Temple. ²²That was how King Joash repaid Jehoiada for his loyalty—by killing his son. Zechariah’s last words as he died were,

24:4-8 There is no indication regarding when Joash first attempted to refurbish the Temple. However, after the first failure to raise funds, Joash summoned Jehoiada a second time, in the twenty-third year of his reign (2 Kgs 12:6). The inaction of the priests might have resulted from a disagreement over who should fund the restoration work and who should oversee it. The king censured Jehoiada for his failure to act, and then proposed a plan that put the offering on a more voluntary basis.

24:6 Tabernacle of the Covenant: Literally Tent of the Testimony.

24:12-14 The book of Kings indicates that the funds collected for repairing the Temple were used only for wages (2 Kgs 12:13-14); Chronicles further explains that the funds were used for Temple artifacts only after the repairs were completed.

24:15-16 A lifespan of 130 years indicates that Jehoiada received great blessing by the Lord. Further, his royal burial as a priest-king shows great honor from the people.

24:20-22 Jehoiada had scrupulously preserved the courtyard of the LORD’s Temple from bloodshed and the dynasty of David from extinction. Yet ironically, Zechariah his son was murdered in the very place and by the very king, Joash, who was protected during the coup. Jesus made reference to this murder when he was criticizing the religious leaders (Matt 23:35; Luke 11:51). • “May the LORD . . . avenge my death!” This prayer for vengeance was similar to those that King David himself had prayed against the injustices done to him by Saul (cp. Ps 5:10; 7:9; 9:19-20; 28:4; 56:7; 139:19; see also “Prayers for Vengeance” at Ps 137, p. 1017).

"May the LORD see what they are doing and avenge my death!"

The End of Joash's Reign

²⁵The Arameans withdrew, leaving Joash severely wounded. But his own officials plotted to kill him for murdering the son of Jehoiada the priest. They assassinated him as he lay in bed. Then he was buried in the City of David, but not in the royal cemetery. ²⁶The assassins were Jozacar, the son of an Ammonite woman named Shimeath, and Jehozabad, the son of a Moabite woman named Shomer.

²⁷The account of the sons of Joash, the prophecies about him, and the record of his restoration of the Temple of God are written in The Commentary on the Book of the Kings. His son Amaziah became the next king.

Reign of Amaziah (25:1–26:2)

Consolidation of Power

2 Chr 25:1-4 // 2 Kgs 14:1-6

25 Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem twenty-nine years. His mother was Jehoaddin from Jerusalem. ²Amaziah did what was pleasing in the LORD's sight, but not wholeheartedly.

³When Amaziah was well established as king, he executed the officials who had assassinated his father. ⁴However, he did not kill the children of the assassins, for he obeyed the command of the LORD as written by Moses in the Book of the Law: "Parents must not be put to death for the sins of their children, nor children for the sins of their parents. Those deserving to die must be put to death for their own crimes."

Amaziah's War against Edom

⁵Then Amaziah organized the army, assigning generals and captains for all Judah and Benjamin. He took a census and found that he had an army of 300,000 select troops, twenty years old and older, all trained in the use of spear and shield. ⁶He also paid about 7,500 pounds of silver to hire 100,000 experienced fighting men from Israel.

⁷But a man of God came to him and said, "Your Majesty, do not hire troops from Israel, for the LORD is not with Israel. He will not help those people of Ephraim! ⁸If you let them go with your troops into battle, you will be defeated by the enemy no matter how well you fight. God will overthrow you, for he has the power to help you or to trip you up."

⁹Amaziah asked the man of God, "But what about all that silver I paid to hire the army of Israel?"

The man of God replied, "The LORD is able to give you much more than this!" ¹⁰So Amaziah discharged the hired troops and sent them back to Ephraim. This made them very angry with Judah, and they returned home in a great rage.

¹¹Then Amaziah summoned his courage and led his army to the Valley of Salt, where

24:23-26 God could use war to render judgment on Israel just as surely as on any other nation; one of the characteristics of a "holy war" was a small force's defeat of a much larger army (see "Holy War" at 20:20-24, p. 757).

24:23 In the spring of the year: Literally At the turn of the year. The first day of the year in the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred in March or April.

24:25-26 Jehoiada had received a royal burial (24:15-16), but Joash was buried in disgrace. • son: As in Greek version and Latin Vulgate; Hebrew reads sons.

24:26 Jozacar: As in parallel text at 2 Kgs 12:21; Hebrew reads Zabad. • Shomer: As in parallel text at 2 Kgs 12:21; Hebrew reads Shimrith, a variant spelling of Shomer.

24:27 The Commentary on the Book of the Kings that the Chronicler used as a source is no longer available to us (see also 9:29).

25:1 The twenty-nine years of Amaziah's reign (796–767 BC) included a long co-regency with his son Uzziah from 792 BC (see timelines, pp. 649, 655). • Jehoaddin: As in parallel text at 2 Kgs 14:2; Hebrew reads Jehoaddan, a variant spelling of Jehoaddin.

25:2 but not wholeheartedly: See 2 Kgs 14:3-4 for further details.

25:3-4 Amaziah . . . executed the officials to avenge his father and carry out the justice prescribed in the Law. • "Parents . . . crimes": See Deut 24:16.

25:5 generals and captains: Literally commanders of thousands and com- manders of hundreds. • The inclusion of Benjamin in this listing of military officers indicates that this tribe was part of the kingdom of Judah at that time.

25:6 about 7,500 pounds: Hebrew 100 talents [3,400 kilograms]. • Amaziah's force of 300,000 was smaller than Asa's (580,000) or Jehoshaphat's (1,160,000) had been; this might explain Amaziah's desire to hire additional troops from Israel (the northern kingdom).

25:7-8 The phrase a man of God was a way to refer to a prophet (as in Deut 33:1; 1 Sam 2:27; 9:6-10; 1 Kgs 13:1-31). • The kingdom of Israel was politically foreign and spiritually apostate. Relying on Israel's troops for military strength would bring spiritual compromise and God's opposition.

they killed 10,000 Edomite troops from Seir. ¹²They captured another 10,000 and took them to the top of a cliff and threw them off, dashing them to pieces on the rocks below.

¹³Meanwhile, the hired troops that Amaziah had sent home raided several of the towns of Judah between Samaria and Beth-horon. They killed 3,000 people and carried off great quantities of plunder.

¹⁴When King Amaziah returned from slaughtering the Edomites, he brought with him idols taken from the people of Seir. He set them up as his own gods, bowed down in front of them, and offered sacrifices to them! ¹⁵This made the LORD very angry, and he sent a prophet to ask, "Why do you turn to gods who could not even save their own people from you?"

¹⁶But the king interrupted him and said, "Since when have I made you the king's counselor? Be quiet now before I have you killed!"

So the prophet stopped with this warning: "I know that God has determined to destroy you because you have done this and have refused to accept my counsel."

Amaziah's War against Jehoash of Israel

2 Chr 25:17-24 // 2 Kgs 14:8-14

¹⁷After consulting with his advisers, King Amaziah of Judah sent this challenge to Israel's king Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz and grandson of Jehu: "Come and meet me in battle!"

¹⁸But King Jehoash of Israel replied to King Amaziah of Judah with this story: "Out in the Lebanon mountains, a thistle sent a message to a mighty cedar tree: 'Give your daughter in marriage to my son.' But just then a wild animal of Lebanon came by and stepped on the thistle, crushing it!"

¹⁹"You are saying, 'I have defeated Edom,' and you are very proud of it. But my advice is to stay at home. Why stir up trouble that will only bring disaster on you and the people of Judah?"

²⁰But Amaziah refused to listen, for God was determined to destroy him for turning to the gods of Edom. ²¹So King Jehoash of Israel mobilized his army against King Amaziah of Judah. The two armies drew up their battle lines at Beth-shemesh in Judah. ²²Judah was routed by the army of Israel, and its army scattered and fled for home. ²³King Jehoash of Israel captured Judah's king, Amaziah son of Joash and grandson of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh. Then he brought him to Jerusalem, where he demolished 600 feet of Jerusalem's wall, from the Ephraim Gate to the Corner Gate. ²⁴He carried off all the gold and silver and all the articles from the Temple of God that had been in the care of Obed-edom. He also seized the treasures of the royal palace, along with hostages, and then returned to Samaria.

²⁵King Amaziah of Judah lived for fifteen years after the death of King Jehoash of Israel. ²⁶The rest of the events in Amaziah's reign, from beginning to end, are recorded in The Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

²⁷After Amaziah turned away from the LORD, there was a conspiracy against his life in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish. But his enemies sent assassins after him, and they killed him there. ²⁸They brought his body back on a horse, and he was buried with his ancestors in the City of David.

26 All the people of Judah had crowned Amaziah's sixteen-year-old son, Uzziah, as king in place of his father. ²After his father's death, Uzziah rebuilt the town of Elath and restored it to Judah.

25:11 The Valley of Salt was a perennial battlefield south of the Dead Sea; David had also fought with the Edomites there (2 Sam 8:13; see Ps 60). * Amaziah did not capture the port at Elath (26:2); his conquest was limited to northern Edom.

25:14-15 Conquerors sometimes worshiped the gods of a vanquished nation, wrongly believing that the gods of the defeated people had helped them to victory. Amaziah held this pagan mindset; he did not believe that the Lord is the only true God (see Isa 40:18-28; 42:8; Jer 10:1-16).

25:17 Jehoash: Hebrew Joash, a variant spelling of Jehoash; also in 25:18, 21,

23, 25. * Come and meet me in battle: Literally Come, let us look one another in the face.

25:20 Amaziah's pride was manifested in his failure to seek God. While he seriously overestimated his military capability after defeating Edom, his decision to go to war against Jehoram was actually the result of trusting other gods and of ignoring God's judgment that followed (cp. 18:9-34; 2 Thes 2:11).

25:21 Beth-shemesh protected the entrance to the Sorek Valley and Jerusalem's access to the coast. Jehoash might have been seeking to cut off Jerusalem's access to trade, or he might have been trying to increase his own access.

25:23 The Ephraim Gate was on the north side of the city, while the Corner Gate was on the western wall (see map of Jerusalem, p. 766). * 600 feet: Hebrew 400 cubits [180 meters].

25:28 the City of David: As in some Hebrew manuscripts and other ancient versions (see also 2 Kgs 14:20); most Hebrew manuscripts read the city of Judah.

26:1-5 The Chronicler gave Uzziah (called Azariah in Kings) a double introduction (26:1-2, 3-5), quoting two passages found in Kings (2 Kgs 14:21-22; 15:2-3).

26:2 Elath: As in Greek version (see also 2 Kgs 14:22; 16:6); Hebrew reads Elath, a variant spelling of Elath.

Reign of Uzziah (26:3-23)Military and Economic Achievements

2 Chr 26:3-4 // 2 Kgs 15:1-3

³Uzziah was sixteen years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem fifty-two years. His mother was Jecoliah from Jerusalem. ⁴He did what was pleasing in the LORD's sight, just as his father, Amaziah, had done. ⁵Uzziah sought God during the days of Zechariah, who taught him to fear God. And as long as the king sought guidance from the LORD, God gave him success.

⁹Uzziah built fortified towers in Jerusalem at the Corner Gate, at the Valley Gate, and at the angle in the wall. ¹⁰He also constructed forts in the wilderness and dug many water cisterns, because he kept great herds of livestock in the foothills of Judah and on the plains. He was also a man who loved the soil. He had many workers who cared for his farms and vineyards, both on the hillsides and in the fertile valleys.

¹⁴Uzziah provided the entire army with ^ashields, spears, helmets, coats of mail, bows,

Uzziah, son of King Amaziah and Jecoliah, reigned in Judah for 52 years (792–740 BC; see 2 Kgs 14:21-22; 15:1-7; 2 Chr 26:1-23). He reigned as co-regent with his father from the age of sixteen for approximately 25 years (see 2 Kgs 12:4–14:18), until his father's assassination. He served as a capable, energetic, and well-organized king who pleased the Lord through most of his reign.

During most of Uzziah's reign, Jeroboam II (793–753 BC) ruled in the northern kingdom of Israel. Both kings were successful and brought a period of prosperity to Israel and Judah. Uzziah's long and successful reign defined an era in Judah. Zechariah 14:5 recalls an earthquake that took place during Uzziah's reign. Amos and Hosea both prophesied during his life (Hos 1:1; Amos 1:1), even though most of their oracles were directed toward the northern kingdom. And the prophet Isaiah received his call the year Uzziah died (Isa 1:1; 6:1). Uzziah successfully fought the Philistines, and he built many fortifications in Jerusalem and throughout Judea. He "sought guidance from the LORD" (26:5), and as long as he did, the Lord blessed him in all his undertakings and he prospered.

Uzziah became proud of his many successes and had a sad downfall (26:16). He took upon himself the prerogatives of a priest, entered the holy area of the Temple, and burned incense. The priests tried to stop him from this sin against the Lord, but he angrily rejected their warnings. Because of his disobedience, God struck Uzziah with leprosy and he had to live out the rest of his life in seclusion. Uzziah was buried with his forefathers, but at a distance because of his leprosy (26:23).

26:3 The fifty-two years of Uzziah's reign (792–740 BC) included a long co-regency with his father, Amaziah (from 792 to 767 BC), and a co-regency with his son Jotham (from 750 to 740 BC; see timeline, p. 656).

26:5 who taught him to fear God: As in Syriac and Greek versions; Hebrew reads who instructed him in divine visions.

26:6-8 These verses summarize Uzziah's international achievements. His conquests were to the west, south, and southeast, but not to the north, where Jeroboam II's kingdom was powerful (2 Kgs 14:23-29). Uzziah's strategy, with God's guidance (26:7), was to achieve control over the coastal highway and then build towns in the conquered territory.

26:7 Gur: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads Gur-baal.

26:8 Meunites: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads Ammonites. Cp. 26:7.

26:9-10 Uzziah repaired damage done to Jerusalem's walls by Jehoash in his campaign against Amaziah; Uzziah might also have repaired damage from the famous earthquake during his time (Amos 1:1; Zech 14:5). Towers and cisterns from excavations in Qumran, Gibeath, Beersheba, and other sites date to this period. • Uzziah was a patron of agriculture, a vital industry for an independent society.

Uzziah's Sin and Punishment

2 Chr 26:21-23 // 2 Kgs 15:5-7

¹⁶But when he had become powerful, he also became proud, which led to his downfall. He sinned against the LORD his God by entering the sanctuary of the LORD's Temple and personally burning incense on the incense altar. ¹⁷Azariah the high priest went in after him with eighty other priests of the LORD, all brave men. ¹⁸They confronted King Uzziah and said, "It is not for you, Uzziah, to burn incense to the LORD. That is the work of the priests alone, the descendants of Aaron who are set apart for this work. Get out of the sanctuary, for you have sinned. The LORD God will not honor you for this!"

¹⁹Uzziah, who was holding an incense burner, became furious. But as he was standing there raging at the priests before the incense altar in the LORD's Temple, leprosy suddenly broke out on his forehead. ²⁰When Azariah the high priest and all the other priests saw the leprosy, they rushed him out. And the king himself was eager to get out because the LORD had struck him. ²¹So King Uzziah had leprosy until the day he died. He lived in isolation in a separate house, for he was excluded from the Temple of the LORD. His son Jotham was put in charge of the royal palace, and he governed the people of the land.

²²The rest of the events of Uzziah's reign, from beginning to end, are recorded by the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz. ²³When

1 Cor 6:19-20

When King Uzziah entered the Temple to burn incense (26:16), he violated the sanctuary that God had set apart for his own presence. In terms of the function of the Temple, this violation was no trivial matter.

The Temple represented God's sacred presence in creation. So all of its rituals needed to reflect its status as sacred and set apart for God alone. This meant that no one could enter it to make offerings except those anointed for the task. The kings of Israel (unlike kings of other ancient Near Eastern cultures) were excluded from the sacred space because they were only anointed for the secular function of government. The king of Israel was not a priest. He was not God's representative in sacred matters nor (as in other cultures) a god himself. He was a servant of God taken from among his brothers to administer the covenant in the community (Deut 17:18-19).

There can be no violations of God's holy presence, and that included the Temple in Jerusalem. It was a sacred space that he had set apart as his alone (26:16-18). When Uzziah entered the Temple and violated this sacred space, his response was typical of arrogant human hearts (26:16). He assumed that, as king, he had the right to enter God's sacred Temple. But he did not have that right, and he was judged with affliction by a skin disease and separation from daily life. The punishment was appropriate to the arrogance of his sin.

Ever since Eden, humans have attempted to take God's sacred space as their own (Gen 2:15-17; 3:1-6). Uzziah's sacrilege remains an ever-present temptation. Any conduct that fails to glorify God is a violation of that sacred space. All of human history consists of the story of God restoring the entire heavens and earth to be the place of his dwelling. In the new covenant through Jesus Christ, God's sacred space is not limited to a Temple in Jerusalem or any other building; he sets apart for himself the lives of his people who trust in him (1 Cor 6:19-20). In his grace, God has made the people of the new covenant to be his temple on earth (1 Pet 2:4-5), to be the space where his holiness enters creation. History will be complete when all of heaven and earth becomes the temple of God (Isa 65:17-18; Rev 21:1-2).

Tiglath-pileser III of Assyria, identifying Uzziah as head of a coalition.

26:15 to protect those who shot arrows and hurled large stones: Or to shoot arrows and hurl large stones.

26:16-18 Uzziah's leprosy was a judgment on the covenant violation of burning incense within the Temple, an activity reserved exclusively for priests (Exod 30:7-9; Num 16).

26:19 leprosy: Or a contagious skin disease. The Hebrew word used here and throughout this passage can describe various skin diseases.

26:21 The leprosy forced King Uzziah to spend the end of his life in quarantine

in a separate house (literally a free house). The significance of this term is not known; it is often interpreted to mean that he was free from the duties of the monarchy. In Ugaritic texts, it seems to be a euphemism for a place of total confinement.

Uzziah died, he was buried with his ancestors; his grave was in a nearby burial field belonging to the kings, for the people said, "He had leprosy." And his son Jotham became the next king.

Reign of Jotham (27:1-9)

2 Chr 27:1-3a, 7-9 // 2 Kgs 15:32-38

27 Jotham was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem sixteen years. His mother was Jerusha, the daughter of Zadok.

²Jotham did what was pleasing in the LORD's sight. He did everything his father, Uzziah, had done, except that Jotham did not sin by entering the Temple of the LORD. But the people continued in their corrupt ways.

³Jotham rebuilt the upper gate of the Temple of the LORD. He also did extensive rebuilding on the wall at the hill of Ophel. ⁴He built towns in the hill country of Judah and constructed fortresses and towers in the wooded areas. ⁵Jotham went to war against the Ammonites and conquered them. Over the next three years he received from them an annual tribute of 7,500 pounds of silver, 50,000 bushels of wheat, and 50,000 bushels of barley.

⁶King Jotham became powerful because he was careful to live in obedience to the LORD his God.

⁷The rest of the events of Jotham's reign, including all his wars and other activities, are recorded in The Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. ⁸He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem sixteen years. ⁹When Jotham died, he was buried in the City of David. And his son Ahaz became the next king.

Reign of Ahaz (28:1-27)

Transgressions of Ahaz

2 Chr 28:1-4 // 2 Kgs 16:1-4

28 Ahaz was twenty years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem sixteen years. He did not do what was pleasing in the sight of the LORD, as his ancestor David had done. ²Instead, he followed the example of the kings of Israel. He cast metal images for the worship of Baal. ³He offered sacrifices in the valley of Ben-Hinnom, even sacrificing his own sons in the fire. In this way, he followed the detestable practices of the pagan nations the LORD had driven from the land ahead of the Israelites. ⁴He offered sacrifices and burned incense at the pagan shrines and on the hills and under every green tree.

Political and Military Reversals

⁵Because of all this, the LORD his God allowed the king of Aram to defeat Ahaz and to exile large numbers of his people to Damascus. The armies of the king of Israel also defeated Ahaz and inflicted many casualties on his army. ⁶In a single day Pekah son of Remaliah, Israel's king, killed 120,000 of Judah's troops, all of them experienced warriors, because they had kingdom "in the twentieth year of Jotham son of Uzziah" (2 Kgs 15:30). But Jotham's son, Ahaz, had already begun a co-regency with Jotham (see note on 2 Kgs 17:1). After Jotham's sixteen official years, Ahaz began to rule in his father's stead (see timeline, p. 656; see also note on 2 Kgs 16:1-2). However, Ahaz presumably had his official accession ceremony following his father's death in 732 BC, so the author of 2 Chronicles reckons Ahaz's official regnal years starting in 731 BC (see 28:1).

27:3-4 Jotham's rebuilding endeavors were like those of his father; he continued the work of restoration begun by Uzziah. He also constructed fortresses and towers in the forests, providing a network of lookouts and highway defenses within the kingdom and on the frontier.

27:5 Uzziah had received tribute from the Ammonites (26:8), and Jotham continued to dominate their territory east of the Jordan. The end of these payments after three years might have been because of Jotham's preoccupation with fighting Israel and Aram (2 Kgs 15:37). • 7,500 pounds: Hebrew 100 talents [3,400 kilograms]. • 50,000 bushels of wheat, and 50,000 bushels of barley: Hebrew 10,000 cors [2,200 kiloliters] of wheat, and 10,000 cors of barley.

28:1 After a co-regency with his father, Jotham, Ahaz became king in his own right and reigned . . . sixteen years, from 731 to 715 BC (see also note on 27:1; 2 Kgs 16:1-2).

28:3-4 even sacrificing his own sons in the fire (or even making his sons pass through the fire): Ahaz was imitating the abominable conduct of the Canaanites (see Deut 12:31; 18:9-10; Jer 7:31; 19:5; 32:35).

27:1 After a co-regency of eleven years with his father, Uzziah (750-740 BC), Jotham became king in his own right and reigned five more years (740-735 BC). This represents the sixteen years mentioned in the text. Jotham lived at least four more years, for we read that Hoshea came to power in the northern abandoned the LORD, the God of their ancestors. ⁷Then Zicri, a warrior from Ephraim, killed Maaseiah, the king's son; Azrikam, the king's palace commander; and Elkanah, the king's second-in-command. ⁸The armies of Israel captured 200,000 women and children from Judah and seized tremendous amounts of plunder, which they took back to Samaria.

⁹But a prophet of the LORD named Oded was there in Samaria when the army of Israel returned home. He went out to meet them and said, "The LORD, the God of your ancestors, was angry with Judah and let you defeat them. But you have gone too far, killing them without mercy, and all heaven is disturbed. ¹⁰And now you are planning to make slaves of these people from Judah and Jerusalem. What about your own sins against the LORD your God? ¹¹Listen to me and return these prisoners you have taken, for they are your own relatives. Watch out, because now the LORD's fierce anger has been turned against you!"

¹²Then some of the leaders of Israel—Azariah son of Jehohanan, Berekiah son of Meshillemoth, Jehizkiah son of Shallum, and Amasa son of Hadlai—agreed with this and confronted the men returning from battle. ¹³"You must not bring the prisoners here!" they declared. "We cannot afford to add to our sins and guilt. Our guilt is already great, and the LORD's fierce anger is already turned against Israel."

¹⁴So the warriors released the prisoners and handed over the plunder in the sight of the leaders and all the people. ¹⁵Then the four men just mentioned by name came forward and distributed clothes from the plunder to the prisoners who were naked. They provided clothing and sandals to wear, gave them enough food and drink, and dressed their wounds with olive oil. They put those who were weak on donkeys and took all the prisoners back to their own people in Jericho, the city of palms. Then they returned to Samaria.

Ahaz Closes the Temple

¹⁶At that time King Ahaz of Judah asked the king of Assyria for help. ¹⁷The armies of Edom had again invaded Judah and taken captives. ¹⁸And the Philistines had raided towns located in the foothills of Judah and in the Negev of Judah. They had already captured and occupied Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Soco with its villages, Timnah ◀ Ahaz's Reign in Judah, 732–716 BC (28:1-27). During King Ahaz's reign, the king of ARAM defeated JUDAH and exiled many people to DAMASCUS. The northern kingdom of ISRAEL also defeated Ahaz's army, killed his son, and took many people captive to SAMARIA, although they were later returned to JERICO. EDM also attacked Judah and took captives, and the Philistines captured BETH-SHEMESH, AIJALON, SOCO, TIMNAH, and GIMZO. Ahaz asked the king of Assyria for help, but when he arrived, he attacked Judah instead of helping. All of this came, the Chronicler informs us, because of Ahaz's wickedness in turning away from the Lord and serving pagan gods (28:5).

28:9-10 you have gone too far:

Although the Lord was using Israel as a means of punishment toward Judah, the covenant prohibited the enslavement and murder of fellow Israelites (28:10; Lev 25:39-55).

28:11 The Chronicler expresses a positive attitude toward the north with the term relatives (literally brothers).

• now the LORD's fierce anger has been turned against you: Later, during Ahaz's reign, the kingdom of Israel would be destroyed and exiled (722 BC, 2 Kgs 17:5-23).

28:12 Israel: Literally Ephraim, referring to the northern kingdom of Israel.

28:16 Ahaz . . . asked the king of Assyria for help: See 2 Kgs 16:7-9 for more details.

28:17-18 The Edomites and the Philistines were natural enemies of Judah. The towns captured by these armies were all along the Aijalon, Sorek, and Elah valleys in the buffer zone of the foothills of Judah (Hebrew the Shephelah) or the Negev.

with its villages, and Gimzo with its villages. ¹⁹The LORD was humbling Judah because of King Ahaz of Judah, for he had encouraged his people to sin and had been utterly unfaithful to the LORD.

²⁰So when King Tiglath-pileser of Assyria arrived, he attacked Ahaz instead of helping him. ²¹Ahaz took valuable items from the LORD's Temple, the royal palace, and from the homes of his officials and gave them to the king of Assyria as tribute. But this did not help him.

²²Even during this time of trouble, King Ahaz continued to reject the LORD. ²³He offered sacrifices to the gods of Damascus who had defeated him, for he said, "Since these gods helped the kings of Aram, they will help me, too, if I sacrifice to them." But instead, they led to his ruin and the ruin of all Judah.

²⁴The king took the various articles from the Temple of God and broke them into pieces. He shut the doors of the LORD's Temple so that no one could worship there, and he set up altars to pagan gods in every corner of Jerusalem. ²⁵He made pagan shrines in all the towns of Judah for offering sacrifices to other gods. In this way, he aroused the anger of the LORD, the God of his ancestors.

²⁶The rest of the events of Ahaz's reign and everything he did, from beginning to end, are recorded in The Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ²⁷When Ahaz died, he was buried in Jerusalem but not in the royal cemetery of the kings of Judah. Then his son Hezekiah became the next king.

3. HEALING FOR ISRAEL (29:1–36:23)

Reign of Hezekiah (29:1–32:33)

Introduction to Hezekiah's Reign

2 Chr 29:1-2 // 2 Kgs 18:2-3

29 Hezekiah was twenty-five years old when he became the king of Judah, and he reigned in Jerusalem twenty-nine years. His mother was Abijah, the daughter of Zechariah. ²He did what was pleasing in the LORD's sight, just as his ancestor David had done.

Restoration of the Temple

³In the very first month of the first year of his reign, Hezekiah reopened the doors of the Temple of the LORD and repaired them.

⁴He summoned the priests and Levites to meet him at the courtyard east of the Temple. ⁵He said to them, "Listen to me, you Levites! Purify yourselves, and purify the Temple of the LORD, the God of your ancestors. Remove all the defiled things from the sanctuary. ⁶Our ancestors were unfaithful and did what was evil in the sight of the LORD our God. They abandoned the LORD and his dwelling place; they turned their backs on him. ⁷They also shut the doors to the Temple's entry room, and they snuffed out the lamps. They stopped burning incense and presenting burnt offerings at the sanctuary of the God of Israel.

⁸"That is why the LORD's anger has fallen upon Judah and Jerusalem. He has made them an object of dread, horror, and ridicule, as you can see with your own eyes. ⁹Because of this, our fathers have been killed in battle, and our sons and daughters and wives have been captured. ¹⁰But now I will make a ^bcovenant with the LORD, the God of Israel, so that his fierce anger will turn away from us. ¹¹My sons, do not neglect your duties any longer! The LORD has chosen you to stand in his presence, to minister to him, and to lead the people in worship and present offerings to him."

¹²Then these Levites got right to work:

From the clan of Kohath: Mahath son of Amasai and Joel son of Azariah.

From the clan of Merari: Kish son of Abdi and Azariah son of Jehallelel.

From the clan of Gershon: Joah son of Zimmah and Eden son of Joah.

28:22-23 King Ahaz spurned the Lord by building an altar modeled after one in Damascus (2 Kgs 16:10-16) and by offering sacrifices to the gods of Damascus.

28:24-25 Judah reached its spiritual nadir—a condition similar to exile—under King Ahaz.

28:26 Samaria, the capital of the northern kingdom of Israel, fell to Assyria in 722 BC, during the twenty-first year of Ahaz's reign in Judah (2 Kgs 17:1-6). The Chronicler, with his emphasis on the southern kingdom, does not even mention this event.

29:1 After a co-regency with his father, Ahaz, Hezekiah became king in his own right and reigned from 715 to 686 BC.

29:3-4 Hezekiah's first act as king was to repair the doors of the Temple (29:3). The verb used (yekhazzeqem, "he made them strong") is a deliberate pun on the name of King Hezekiah (yekhizqiy- yahu, "Yah makes strong"). This action provided a setting for the king's speech to the priests and Levites (29:5-11).

29:5-11 Hezekiah's speech used vocabulary typical of exile to describe the failure of the nation. As in the days of the separation under Rehoboam (12:1; see 13:10), the people had been unfaithful when they abandoned the Lord.

29:12-36 To begin the process of sanctifying the Temple, these Levites began with their own sanctification. First, they all purified themselves, probably by bringing offerings (cp. 30:15); then they began to cleanse the Temple. Two 15 These men called together their fellow Levites, and they all purified themselves. Then they began to cleanse the Temple of the LORD, just as the king had commanded. They were careful to follow all the LORD's instructions in their work. 16 The priests went into the sanctuary of the Temple of the LORD to cleanse it, and they took out to the Temple courtyard all the defiled things they found. From there the Levites carted it all out to the Kidron Valley.

17 They began the work in early spring, on the first day of the new year, and in eight days they had reached the entry room of the LORD's Temple. Then they purified the Temple of the LORD itself, which took another eight days. So the entire task was completed in sixteen days.

Rededication of the Temple

18 Then the Levites went to King Hezekiah

and gave him this report: "We have cleansed the entire Temple of the LORD, the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the table of the Bread of the Presence with all its utensils. 19 We have also recovered all the items discarded by King Ahaz when he was unfaithful and closed the Temple. They are now in front of the altar of the LORD, purified and ready for use."

20 Early the next morning King Hezekiah gathered the city officials and went to the Temple of the LORD. 21 They brought seven bulls, seven rams, and seven male lambs as a burnt offering, together with seven male goats as a sin offering for the kingdom, for the Temple, and for Judah. The king commanded the priests, who were descendants of Aaron, to sacrifice the animals on the altar of the LORD.

22 So they killed the bulls, and the priests took the blood and sprinkled it on the altar. Next they killed the rams and sprinkled their blood on the altar. And finally, they did the same with the male lambs. 23 The male goats for the sin offering were then brought before the king and the assembly of people, who laid their hands on them.

24 The priests then killed the goats as a sin offering and sprinkled their blood on the

During the divided monarchy, the usual distinction was between the apostate northern kingdom and the faithful remnant of Judah. The apostasy of King Ahaz in Judah reversed this pattern. When Jeroboam founded the northern kingdom, the righteous people went to Judah to escape Jeroboam's wickedness (11:13-17). Now Ahaz became like Jeroboam: he made metal images (28:2), worshiped the gods of Damascus (28:23), neglected the Temple (28:24; 29:7, 19), and spread false worship (28:24-25). His apostasy was so great that more righteousness was found in the north than in Judah (28:9-15).

The Chronicler wrote to inspire hope that God would restore Judah. He showed that God is always willing to forgive those who repent. Repentance can make restoration and reconciliation possible, as shown by the northern leaders' response to the prophet who confronted the victorious northern army (28:8-15). The renewal of Judah under Hezekiah also provided a paradigm for restoration and unification, a time that could be compared with Solomon's reign. In the first year of his reign, Hezekiah began to restore the Temple (29:3), and when Hezekiah celebrated the Passover, the glory of Solomon's time was temporarily restored (30:26; cp. 7:8-10).

North and south were brothers, even in time of war. North and south could worship together at the place that God had chosen (30:18-20). Even exile did not bring an end to the covenant community. Healing was possible at any time that the people chose to seek the Lord, whether at the occasion of returning with spoils of war, or reuniting at the Passover festival. The same hope holds true for the church, even when threatened with extinction from persecution or corruption (see Rev 2-3). God's kingdom stands on the solid rock of his promises (see Matt 16:18).

separate acts were required to restore the Temple: purification (the removal of pollution, 29:15-17) and sanctification (the rededication of the Temple for holy worship, 29:20-36).

29:12 Kohath . . . Merari . . . Gershon were the three sons of Levi; their descendants had become the three main clans of the tribe of Levites (see Exod 6:16).

29:17 on the first day of the new year: Literally on the first day of the first month. This day in the ancient Hebrew

altar to make atonement for the sins of all Israel. The king had specifically commanded that this burnt offering and sin offering should be made for all Israel.

²⁷Then Hezekiah ordered that the burnt offering be placed on the altar. As the burnt offering was presented, songs of praise to the LORD were begun, accompanied by the trumpets and other instruments of David, the former king of Israel. ²⁸The entire assembly worshiped the LORD as the singers sang and the trumpets blew, until all the burnt offerings were finished. ²⁹Then the king and everyone with him bowed down in worship. ³⁰King Hezekiah and the officials ordered the Levites to "praise the LORD with the psalms written by David and by Asaph the seer. So they offered joyous praise and bowed down in worship.

³¹Then Hezekiah declared, "Now that you have consecrated yourselves to the LORD, bring your sacrifices and thanksgiving offerings to the Temple of the LORD." So the people brought their sacrifices and thanksgiving offerings, and all whose hearts were willing brought burnt offerings, too. ³²The people brought to the LORD 70 bulls, 100 rams, and 200 male lambs for burnt offerings. ³³They also brought 600 cattle and 3,000 sheep and goats as sacred offerings.

³⁴But there were too few priests to prepare all the burnt offerings. So their relatives the Levites helped them until the work was finished and more priests had been purified, for the Levites had been more conscientious about purifying themselves than the priests had been. ³⁵There was an abundance of burnt offerings, along with the usual liquid offerings, and a great deal of fat from the many peace offerings.

So the Temple of the LORD was restored to service. ³⁶And Hezekiah and all the people rejoiced because of what God had done for the people, for everything had been accomplished so quickly.

Preparations for Passover

30 King Hezekiah now sent word to all Israel and Judah, and he wrote letters of invitation to the people of Ephraim and Manasseh. He asked everyone to come to the Temple of the LORD at Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover of the LORD, the God of Israel. ²The king, his officials, and all the community of Jerusalem decided to celebrate Passover a month later than usual. ³They were unable to celebrate it at the prescribed time because not enough priests could be purified by then, and the people had not yet assembled at Jerusalem.

⁴This plan for keeping the Passover seemed right to the king and all the people. ⁵So they sent a proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beersheba in the south to Dan in the north, inviting everyone to come to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover of the LORD, the God of Israel. The people had not been celebrating it in great numbers as required in the Law.

⁶At the king's command, runners were sent throughout Israel and Judah. They carried letters that said:

"O people of Israel, return to the LORD, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, so that he will return to the few of us who have survived the conquest of the Assyrian kings. ⁷Do not be like your ancestors and relatives who abandoned the LORD, the God of their ancestors, and became an object of derision, as you

29:34 The Chronicler shows surprise and delight at the people's spontaneity and at the great number of devoted praise offerings consumed as part of the thanksgiving festivities. These things indicated that the Lord himself had prepared the people's hearts for the event, far beyond what the priests and Levites had anticipated.

30:1-27 This account of Hezekiah's celebration of Passover reflects the Chronicler's concern with the unity of Israel, the spiritual preparedness of the people, and the success of following the formula for restoration given by Solomon at the dedication of the Temple (7:14).

30:2-3 a month later than usual: The law made provision for the delayed observance of the Passover if an individual inadvertently was ceremonially unclean or was away on a long journey (Num 9:9-11); Hezekiah's Passover followed the spirit if not the letter of

Celebration of Passover

¹⁰The runners went from town to town throughout Ephraim and Manasseh and as far as the territory of Zebulun. But most of the people just laughed at the runners and made fun of them. ¹¹However, some people from Asher, Manasseh, and Zebulun humbled themselves and went to Jerusalem.

¹⁵On the fourteenth day of the second month, one month later than usual, the people slaughtered the Passover lamb. This shamed the priests and Levites, so they purified themselves and brought burnt offerings to the Temple of the LORD. ¹⁶Then they took their places at the Temple as prescribed in the Law of Moses, the man of God. The Levites brought the sacrificial blood to the priests, who then sprinkled it on the altar.

¹⁷Since many of the people had not purified themselves, the Levites had to slaughter

One of King Hezekiah's most important acts in restoring Israel's worship took place when he held a celebration of the Passover. The Passover, a celebration of Israel's redemption from Egypt, was the first festival of Israel's liturgical year (Exod 12:1-2). In seeking to celebrate the Passover, Hezekiah faced a dilemma. The time between the beginning of his renewal and the first month of the year did not allow the priests sufficient time to be prepared and to gather the people (30:2-3). He could not celebrate the Passover at the scheduled time, but he deemed it more important to have the celebration than to hold to the prescribed time.

Hezekiah proceeded with the Passover, holding it a month late (30:15). By deferring the date with the express purpose of allowing time for the people to gather at the Temple in Jerusalem, Hezekiah achieved harmony between Judah and the north and unified the celebration. The precise regulations were less important than ensuring that the Passover was observed, and that all could participate.

Similarly, when the festival began, many of the people were not properly purified, so they were unable to slaughter their own sacrifices as the law required. Again, Hezekiah determined that it was more important for people to participate in the Passover than to meet the precise regulations. Hezekiah prayed for the pilgrims who had no opportunity to be properly prepared; they were not allowed to make the sacrifice in a state of impurity, but they were allowed to participate in the Passover. The right heart attitude and seeking the Lord in prayer brought God's gracious acceptance (30:18-20; cp. 1 Cor 11:27-32).

30:9-11 The northern kingdom had been conquered by the Assyrians (2 Kgs 17:5-28), and many of its people were taken into exile in Assyria. People from other conquered lands now lived there. Most of these foreigners, as well as those Israelites left by the Assyrians, regarded the conquest of Israel as proof that the Lord—the God of Israel—was impotent. They laughed at the thought of making a pilgrimage to Jerusalem to honor him.

30:11 Some people . . . humbled themselves, fulfilling the first criterion in Solomon's formula (7:14).

30:13 in midspring: Literally in the second month. The second month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar usually occurs within the months of April and May.

30:14 Several challenges faced Hezekiah before Passover could be observed. Although the Temple had been purified, the city was not pure. The first task of the assembled multitude was to remove all pagan altars, which they disposed of in the Kidron Valley, where they could be burned.

30:15 The priests were inadequately prepared for the great number of people who came. The problem might have involved the priests who came from outside the city and had not been a part of the earlier purification. However, the response of the people outstripped that of the professional clerics, to their great shame. • On the fourteenth day of the second month, one month later than usual: Literally On the fourteenth day of the second month. Passover normally began on the fourteenth day of the first month (see Lev 23:5).

30:17-19 A large number of pilgrims who traveled great distances from foreign lands did not have an opportunity to their Passover lamb for them, to set them apart for the LORD. ¹⁸Most of those who came from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun had not purified themselves. But King Hezekiah prayed for them, and they were allowed to eat the ^aPassover meal anyway, even though this was contrary to the requirements of the Law. For Hezekiah said, "May the LORD, who is good, pardon those ¹⁹who decide to follow the LORD, the God of their ancestors, even though they are not properly cleansed for the ceremony." ²⁰And the LORD listened to Hezekiah's prayer and healed the people.

²¹So the people of Israel who were present in Jerusalem joyously celebrated the ^bFestival of Unleavened Bread for seven days. Each day the Levites and priests sang to the LORD, accompanied by loud instruments. ²²Hezekiah encouraged all the Levites regarding the skill they displayed as they served the LORD. The celebration continued for seven days. Peace offerings were sacrificed, and the people gave thanks to the LORD, the God of their ancestors.

²³The entire assembly then decided to continue the festival another seven days, so they celebrated joyfully for another week. ²⁴King Hezekiah gave the people 1,000 bulls and 7,000 sheep and goats for offerings, and the officials donated 1,000 bulls and 10,000 sheep and goats. Meanwhile, many more priests purified themselves.

²⁵The entire ^aassembly of Judah rejoiced, including the priests, the Levites, ^aall who came from the land of Israel, the foreigners who came to the festival, and all those who lived in Judah. ²⁶There was great joy in the city, for Jerusalem had not seen a celebration like this one since the days of Solomon, King David's son. ²⁷Then the priests and Levites stood and blessed the people, and God heard their prayer from his holy dwelling in ^bheaven.

Hezekiah's Religious Reforms

31 When the festival ended, the Israelites who attended went to all the towns of Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh, and they smashed all the sacred pillars, cut down the Asherah poles, and removed the pagan shrines and altars. After this, the Israelites returned to their own towns and homes.

²Hezekiah then organized the priests and Levites into divisions to offer the burnt offerings and peace offerings, and to worship and give thanks and praise to the LORD at the gates of the Temple. ³The king also made a personal contribution of animals for the daily morning and evening burnt offerings, the weekly Sabbath festivals, the monthly new moon festivals, and the annual festivals as prescribed in the Law of the LORD. ⁴In addition, he required the people in Jerusalem to bring a portion of their goods to the priests and Levites, so they could devote themselves fully to the Law of the LORD.

⁵When the people of Israel heard these requirements, they responded generously by bringing the first share of their grain, new wine, olive oil, honey, and all the produce of their fields. They brought a large quantity—a ^ctithe of all they produced. ⁶The people who had moved to Judah from Israel, and the people of Judah themselves, brought in the tithes of their cattle, sheep, and goats and a tithe of the things that had been dedicated to the LORD their God, and they piled them up in great heaps. ⁷They began piling them up in late spring, and the heaps continued to grow until early autumn. ⁸When Hezekiah and his officials came and saw these huge piles, receive the proper purification ceremonies and were unfit to participate in the ceremony. Hezekiah allowed the pilgrims to eat the Passover without participating in the sacrificial ritual and in an impure state and prayed that God would accept their worship. Hezekiah was following the formula for restoration (see 7:14).

30:20 God's response to Hezekiah's prayer showed that he is more concerned with the attitude of the heart than with strict attention to ritual details. ^a*healed the people*: Cp. 7:14.

30:25 In this joyful celebration, no one was regarded as a foreigner, and those who had been estranged were reunited.

30:26 No celebration like this had occurred since the days of Solomon. Hezekiah put into place the conditions for covenant faithfulness equal to those during the time of David and Solomon.

31:1 Following the purification and rededication of the Temple, the city of Jerusalem, and the people, Hezekiah initiated the third stage of his reform, purifying the entire land of pagan objects of worship, not only in Judah, but also in the territories of the north.

31:3-10 Provisions for the Temple came from both the king and his subjects. Israel united in its support of the Temple,

⁹"Where did all this come from?" Hezekiah asked the priests and Levites.

¹¹Hezekiah ordered that storerooms be prepared in the Temple of the LORD. When this was done, ¹²the people faithfully brought all the gifts, tithes, and other items dedicated for use in the Temple. Conaniah the Levite was put in charge, assisted by his brother Shimei. ¹³The supervisors under them were Jehiel, Azariah, Nahath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad, Eliel, Ismakiah, Mahath, and Benaiah. These appointments were made by King Hezekiah and Azariah, the chief official in the Temple of God.

¹⁴Kore son of Imnah the Levite, who was the gatekeeper at the East Gate, was put in charge of distributing the voluntary offerings given to God, the gifts, and the things that had been dedicated to the LORD. ¹⁵His faithful assistants were Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah. They distributed the gifts among the families of priests in their towns by their divisions, dividing the gifts fairly among old and young alike. ¹⁶They distributed the gifts to all males three years old or older, regardless of their place in the genealogical records. The distribution went to all who would come to the LORD's Temple to perform their daily duties according to their divisions. ¹⁷They distributed gifts to the priests who were listed by their families in the genealogical records, and to the Levites twenty years old or older who were listed according to their jobs and their divisions. ¹⁸Food allotments were also given to the families of all those listed in the genealogical records, including their little babies, wives, sons, and daughters. For they had all been faithful in purifying themselves.

¹⁹As for the priests, the descendants of Aaron, who were living in the open villages around the towns, men were appointed by name to distribute portions to every male among the priests and to all the Levites listed in the genealogical records.

²⁰In this way, King Hezekiah handled the distribution throughout all Judah, doing what was pleasing and good in the sight of the LORD his God. ²¹In all that he did in the service of the Temple of God and in his efforts to follow God's laws and commands, Hezekiah sought his God wholeheartedly. As a result, he was very successful.

32 After Hezekiah had faithfully carried out this work, King Sennacherib of Assyria invaded Judah. He laid siege to the fortified towns, giving orders for his army to break through their walls. ²When Hezekiah realized that Sennacherib also intended to attack Jerusalem, ³he consulted with his officials and military advisers, and they decided to stop the flow of the springs outside the city. ⁴They organized a huge work crew to stop the flow of the springs, cutting off the brook that ran through the fields. For they said, "Why should the kings of Assyria come here and find plenty of water?"

⁵Then Hezekiah worked hard at repairing all the broken sections of the wall, erecting towers, and constructing a second wall outside the first. He also reinforced the supporting terraces in the City of David and manufactured large numbers of weapons and shields. ⁶He appointed military officers over the people and assembled them before him in the square at the city gate. Then Hezekiah encouraged them by

31:10 The people's great generosity is reminiscent of when the Tabernacle was first constructed (Exod 36:3-5).

31:14-19 A great number of Levites, most from provincial towns, were eligible for service. Small groups of them came to Jerusalem on a rotation system for short terms of office (see 1 Chr 24:1-19). All Levites were entitled to portions of the offerings given at the Temple.

32:1-23 The Chronicler summarizes in twenty-three verses the lengthy account of the siege against Jerusalem (cp. 2 Kgs 18:17-19:37; Isa 36-38). God's response to the attack of King Sennacherib of Assyria was a blessing that resulted from Judah's and Hezekiah's faithfulness in seeking the Lord.

32:3-5 Sennacherib's attack did not come as a surprise; Hezekiah provoked it by breaking a treaty (2 Kgs 18:7b, 20). Because water was critical to both attacker and defender in siege warfare, Hezekiah made sure that Sennacherib's army would not have access to the city's water supply. In one of the most famous engineering feats of ancient times, Hezekiah's tunnel connected the fresh waters of the Gihon spring to the pool of Siloam, making water accessible from within the city walls. This famous tunnel is almost one-third of a mile long (approximately 580 yards [530 meters]) and about six feet [2 meters] high. The famous Hezekiah inscription, discovered in the tunnel in 1880, describes how the excavators met to join the two ends. Although much of the tunnel consisted of natural underground aqueducts, it was a tremendous strategy for protecting the citizens of the city.

32:5 the supporting terraces: Hebrew the millo. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain; see note on 1 Kgs 9:15.

saying: ⁷"Be strong and courageous! Don't be afraid or discouraged because of the king of Assyria or his mighty army, for there is a power far greater on our side! ⁸He may have a great army, but they are merely men. We have the LORD our God to help us and to fight our battles for us!" Hezekiah's words greatly encouraged the people.

Sennacherib Threatens Jerusalem

2 Chr 32:9-15 // 2 Kgs 18:17-25 // Isa 36:2-10

¹⁰"This is what King Sennacherib of Assyria says: What are you trusting in that makes you think you can survive my siege of Jerusalem? ¹¹Hezekiah has said, 'The LORD our God will rescue us from the king of Assyria.' Surely Hezekiah is misleading you, sentencing you to death by famine and thirst! ¹²Don't you realize that Hezekiah is the very person who destroyed all the LORD's shrines and altars? He commanded Judah and Jerusalem to worship only at the altar at the Temple and to offer sacrifices on it alone.

¹³"Surely you must realize what I and the other kings of Assyria before me have done to all the people of the earth! Were any of the gods of those nations able to rescue their people from my power? ¹⁴Which of their gods was able to rescue its people from the destructive power of my predecessors? What makes you think your God can rescue you from me? ¹⁵Don't let Hezekiah deceive you! Don't let him fool you like this! I say it again—no god of any nation or kingdom has ever yet been able to rescue his people from me or my ancestors. How much less will your God rescue you from my power!"

¹⁶And Sennacherib's officers further mocked the LORD God and his servant Hezekiah, heaping insult upon insult. ¹⁷The king also sent letters scorning the LORD, the God of Israel. He wrote, "Just as the gods of all the other nations failed to rescue their people from my power, so the God of Hezekiah will also fail." ¹⁸The Assyrian officials who brought the letters shouted this in Hebrew to the people gathered on the walls of the city, trying to terrify them so it would be easier to capture the city. ¹⁹These officers talked about the God of Jerusalem as though he were one of the pagan gods, made by human hands.

The LORD Delivers Jerusalem

²⁰Then King Hezekiah and the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz cried out in prayer to God in heaven. ²¹And the LORD sent an ^aangel who destroyed the Assyrian army with all its commanders and officers. So Sennacherib was forced to return home in disgrace to his own land. And when he entered the temple of his god, some of his own sons killed him there with a sword.

²²That is how the LORD rescued Hezekiah and the people of Jerusalem from King Sennacherib of Assyria and from all the others who threatened them. So there was peace throughout the land. ²³From then on King Hezekiah became highly respected among all the surrounding nations, and many gifts for the LORD arrived at Jerusalem, with valuable presents for King Hezekiah, too.

Hezekiah's Sickness and Recovery

²⁴About that time Hezekiah became deathly ill. He prayed to the LORD, who healed him and gave him a miraculous sign. ²⁵But Hezekiah did not respond appropriately to the kindness shown him, and he became proud. So the LORD's anger came against him and against Judah and Jerusalem. ²⁶Then Hezekiah humbled himself and repented of his pride, as did the people of Jerusalem. So the LORD's anger did not fall on them during Hezekiah's lifetime.

²⁷Hezekiah was very wealthy and highly ^ahonored. He built special treasury buildings for his silver, gold, precious stones,

32:10-19 The Assyrian king's threats clarified the critical issues for the people of Jerusalem. The real question was whether or not to trust in God. The enemy king suggested that Hezekiah could not be trusted (32:11-12) because he had offended the Lord by tearing down God's shrines and altars. However, just the opposite was true. This reform was Hezekiah's greatest act of faithfulness to the Lord. The question came down to whether God could be trusted against the power of Assyria (32:11-15).

and spices, and for his shields and other valuable items. ²⁸He also constructed many storehouses for his grain, new wine, and olive oil; and he made many stalls for his cattle and pens for his flocks of sheep and goats. ²⁹He built many towns and acquired vast flocks and herds, for God had given him great wealth. ³⁰He blocked up the upper spring of Gihon and brought the water down through a tunnel to the west side of the City of David. And so he succeeded in everything he did.

³¹However, when ambassadors arrived from Babylon to ask about the remarkable events that had taken place in the land, God withdrew from Hezekiah in order to test him and to see what was really in his heart.

Summary of Hezekiah's Reign

2 Chr 32:32-33 // 2 Kgs 20:20-21

³²The rest of the events in Hezekiah's reign and his acts of devotion are recorded in The Vision of the Prophet Isaiah Son of Amoz, which is included in The Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ³³When Hezekiah died, he was buried in the upper area of the royal cemetery, and all Judah and Jerusalem honored him at his death. And his son Manasseh became the next king.

Reign of Manasseh (33:1-20)

Idolatrous Abominations

2 Chr 33:1-9 // 2 Kgs 21:1-9

33 Manasseh was twelve years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem fifty-five years. ²He did what was evil in the LORD's sight, following the detestable practices of the pagan nations that the LORD had driven from the land ahead of the Israelites. ³He rebuilt the pagan shrines his father, Hezekiah, had broken down. He constructed altars for the images of Baal and set up Asherah poles. He also bowed before all the powers of the heavens and worshiped them.

⁴He built pagan altars in the Temple of the LORD, the place where the LORD had said, "My name will remain in Jerusalem forever."

⁷Manasseh even took a carved idol he had made and set it up in God's Temple, the very place where God had told David and his son Solomon: "My name will be honored forever in this Temple and in Jerusalem—the city I have chosen from among all the tribes of Israel. ⁸If the Israelites will be careful to obey my commands—all the laws, decrees, and regulations given through Moses—I will not send them into exile from this land that I set aside for your ancestors." ⁹But Manasseh led the people of Judah and Jerusalem to do even more evil than the pagan nations that the LORD had destroyed when the people of Israel entered the land.

Humility and Restoration

2 Chr 33:18-20 // 2 Kgs 21:17-18

¹⁰The LORD spoke to Manasseh and his people, but they ignored all his warnings. ¹¹So the LORD sent the commanders of the Assyrian armies, and they took Manasseh prisoner. They put a ring through his nose, bound him in bronze chains, and led him away to Babylon. ¹²But while in deep distress, Manasseh sought the LORD his God and sincerely humbled himself before the God of his ancestors. ¹³And when he prayed, the LORD listened to him and was moved by his request. So the LORD brought Manasseh back to Jerusalem and to his kingdom. Then Manasseh finally realized that the LORD alone is God!

¹⁴After this Manasseh rebuilt the outer

32:31 The details of the visit by the Babylonian envoys is recorded more fully in 2 Kgs 20:12-20. The Chronicler provides a commentary on God's purposes in that visit.

33:1-20 Manasseh ruled fifty-five years (697-642 BC), longer than any other king in Judah. The years of his reign included a co-regency with his father, Hezekiah, from 697 to 686 BC (see timeline, p. 665). Such a long reign was usually a sign of blessing, even though Manasseh did what was evil in the LORD's sight. So the Chronicler tells of his humiliation, repentance, and restoration of worship in Judah.

33:6 also sacrificed his own sons in the fire: Or also made his sons pass through the fire. See note on 28:3-4.

33:7 The carved idol was an image of Asherah (see 2 Kgs 21:7).

33:11 A nose ring caused not only pain but complete humiliation. Assyrian records portray such treatment of their prisoners.

33:12-17 The book of Kings does not mention Manasseh's repentance, telling only of the promise of judgment resulting from his wicked deeds (see 2 Kgs 21:10-16). Chronicles tells the good things he did after he repented, following his father Hezekiah's example. However, Manasseh's actions were unable to turn the hearts of the people back to the Lord or to avert God's judgment on Judah (33:17).

33:12 Manasseh's response followed the requirements of Solomon's prayer at the dedication of the Temple (7:14).

33:13 Manasseh's experience was a microcosm of what the nation would experience: Exile and bondage brought on by apostasy, then repentance and returning to the Lord.

33:14-17 Manasseh might have been repairing damage done to the walls wall of the City of David, from west of the Gihon Spring in the Kidron Valley to the Fish Gate, and continuing around the hill of Ophel. He built the wall very high. And he stationed his military officers in all of the fortified towns of Judah. ¹⁵Manasseh also removed the foreign gods and the idol from the LORD's Temple. He tore down all the altars he had built on the hill where the Temple stood and all the altars that were in Jerusalem, and he dumped them outside the city. ¹⁶Then he restored the altar of the LORD and sacrificed peace offerings and thanksgiving offerings on it. He also encouraged the people of Judah to worship the LORD, the God of Israel. ¹⁷However, the people still sacrificed at the pagan shrines, though only to the LORD their God.

¹⁸The rest of the events of Manasseh's reign, his prayer to God, and the words the seers spoke to him in the name of the LORD, the God of Israel, are recorded in The Book of the Kings of Israel. ¹⁹Manasseh's prayer, the account of the way God answered him, and an account of all his sins and unfaithfulness are recorded in The Record of the Seers. It includes a list of the locations where he built pagan shrines and set up Asherah poles and idols before he humbled himself and repented. ²⁰When Manasseh died, he was buried in his palace. Then his son Amon became the next king.

²¹Amon was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem two years. ²²He did what was evil in the LORD's sight, just as his father, Manasseh, had done. He worshiped and sacrificed to all the idols his father had made. ²³But unlike his father, he did not humble himself before the LORD. Instead, Amon sinned even more.

²⁴Then Amon's own officials conspired against him and assassinated him in his palace. ²⁵But the people of the land killed all those who had conspired against King

Amon, and they made his son Josiah the next king.

Reign of Josiah (34:1-35:27)

Josiah Repairs the Temple

2 Chr 34:1-2, 8-11 // 2 Kgs 22:1-7

34 Josiah was eight years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem thirty-one years. ²He did what was pleasing in the LORD's sight and followed the example of his ancestor David. He did not turn away from doing what was right.

³During the eighth year of his reign, while he was still young, Josiah began to seek the God of his ancestor David. Then in the twelfth year he began to purify Judah and Jerusalem, destroying all the pagan shrines, the Asherah poles, and the carved idols and cast images. ⁴He ordered that the altars of Baal be demolished and that the incense altars which stood above them be broken down. He also made sure that the Asherah poles, the carved idols, and the cast images were smashed and scattered over the graves of those who had sacrificed to them. ⁵He burned the bones of the pagan priests on their own altars, and so he purified Judah and Jerusalem.

⁶He did the same thing in the towns of Manasseh, Ephraim, and Simeon, even as far as Naphtali, and in the regions all around them. ⁷He destroyed the pagan altars and the Asherah poles, and he crushed the idols into dust. He cut down all the incense altars throughout the land of Israel. Finally, he returned to Jerusalem.

⁸In the eighteenth year of his reign, after he had purified the land and the Temple, Josiah appointed Shaphan son of Azaliah, Maaseiah the governor of Jerusalem, and Joah son of Joahaz, the royal historian, to repair the Temple of the LORD his God. ⁹They gave Hilkiah the high priest the money that had been collected by the Levites who served as gatekeepers at the Temple of God. The gifts were brought by people from Manasseh, Ephraim, and from all the remnant of Israel, as well as from all Judah, Benjamin, and the people of Jerusalem.

33:21 Amon's short reign was from 642 to 640 BC.

33:24 The political forces that brought about Amon's assassination are not indicated, but they might have been instigated by Egypt when Assyria's declining power provided opportunity.

34:1 Josiah's reign of thirty-one years was from 640 to 609 BC.

34:3 Josiah began to seek the God of his ancestor David when he was just sixteen. He initiated his own acts of reform when he reached age twenty.

34:6 By Josiah's twelfth year as king (628 BC), the Assyrian empire had largely disintegrated. During this time, the north of Israel was virtually deserted, making it possible for Josiah to extend his influence and control into Manasseh, Ephraim, and Simeon, even as far as Naphtali. • in the regions: As in Syriac version; Hebrew reads in their temples, or in their ruins. Then they paid the workers who did the repairs and renovation of the Temple. ¹¹They hired carpenters and builders, who purchased finished stone for the walls and timber for the rafters and beams. They restored what earlier kings of Judah had allowed to fall into ruin.

¹²The workers served faithfully under the leadership of Jahath and Obadiah, Levites of the Merarite clan, and Zechariah and Meshullam, Levites of the Kohathite clan. Other Levites, all of whom were skilled musicians, ¹³were put in charge of the laborers of the various trades. Still others assisted as secretaries, officials, and gatekeepers.

Hilkiah Discovers the Book of the Law
2 Chr 34:14-28 // 2 Kgs 22:8-20

¹⁴While they were bringing out the money collected at the LORD's Temple, Hilkiah the priest found the Book of the Law of the LORD that was written by Moses. ¹⁵Hilkiah said to Shaphan the court secretary, "I have found the Book of the Law in the LORD's Temple!" Then Hilkiah gave the scroll to Shaphan.

¹⁶Shaphan took the scroll to the king and reported, "Your officials are doing everything they were assigned to do. ¹⁷The money that was collected at the Temple of the LORD has been turned over to the supervisors and workmen." ¹⁸Shaphan also told the king, "Hilkiah the priest has given me a scroll." So Shaphan read it to the king.

¹⁹When the king heard what was written in the Law, he tore his clothes in despair. ²⁰Then he gave these orders to Hilkiah, Ahikam son of Shaphan, Acbor son of Micaiah, Shaphan the court secretary, and Asaiah the king's personal adviser: ²¹"Go to the Temple and speak to the LORD for me and for all the remnant of Israel and Judah. Manasseh (32:33–33:20)

23:26; 24:3
Jer 15:4

Manasseh, the thirteenth king of Judah (697–642 BC), had a long but notoriously wicked reign (33:1-20; 2 Kgs 21:1-18). His parents were the godly king Hezekiah and his wife Hephzibah (2 Kgs 20:21–21:1).

In 697 BC, Manasseh became co-ruler with his father Hezekiah at age twelve (33:1). In 686 BC, Hezekiah died and Manasseh became sole monarch. He reigned a total of 55 years (2 Kgs 21:1), longer than any other king in Judah or Israel. Regrettably, he was the most wicked of all the kings of Judah. He rebuilt the high places for pagan worship; he encouraged the worship of Baal, the sun, moon, and stars; and he even burnt his son as a child sacrifice (2 Kgs 21:2-9; see 2 Kgs 23:10; Jer 7:31). He allowed divination and sorcery in Judah and "murdered many innocent people until Jerusalem was filled . . . with innocent blood" (2 Kgs 21:16; 24:3-4).

Surviving Assyrian records note that Manasseh provided men to transport timber from Lebanon to Nineveh for the Assyrian king Esarhaddon (680–669 BC), and he paid tribute to King Ashurbanipal (668–626 BC) after an Assyrian military campaign in Egypt in 667 BC. Manasseh served Assyria more faithfully than he served the Lord.

Because of Manasseh's tremendous sin, God determined to "wipe away the people of Jerusalem as one wipes a dish and turns it upside down" (2 Kgs 21:13). However, Manasseh repented late in life. The Assyrian army captured him, put a hook through his nose, and exiled him to Babylon (33:10-13). There Manasseh turned to the Lord. God heard his prayers, restored him as king, and blessed the rest of his reign as Manasseh sought to restore proper worship of God alone (33:14-17).

Sadly, Manasseh's sins had infected the people of Judah (33:17), and God did not reverse his determination to judge the kingdom (2 Kgs 23:26; 24:3). This indicates just how seriously Manasseh had sinned. Even Jeremiah, 100 years later, announced: "Because of the wicked things Manasseh son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, did in Jerusalem, I will make my people an object of horror to all the kingdoms of the earth" (Jer 15:4). The destruction of Jerusalem and its Temple and the exile of Judah's people followed.

When Manasseh died in 642 BC at age 67, he was buried in his own garden (2 Kgs 21:18), rather than with highly regarded leaders such as Jehoiada and Hezekiah (24:16; 32:33).

34:12-13 That musicians supervised the construction shows how important it was for Levites to be in charge of this work. Other ancient texts note that music was a common element of construction projects.

34:14-18 The discovery of the Book of the Law of the LORD was one of the rewards for faithfulness. • The book that was written by Moses was probably Deuteronomy. It might have been neglected and lost during the apostasies of Manasseh or Amon.

34:20 Acbor son of Micaiah: As in parallel text at 2 Kgs 22:12; Hebrew reads Abdon son of Micah.

the words written in the scroll that has been found. For the LORD's great anger has been poured out on us because our ancestors have not obeyed the word of the LORD. We have not been doing everything this scroll says we must do."

²²So Hilkiah and the other men went to the New Quarter of Jerusalem to consult with the ^aprophet Huldah. She was the wife of Shallum son of Tikvah, son of Harhas, the keeper of the Temple wardrobe.

²³She said to them, "The LORD, the God of Israel, has spoken! Go back and tell the man who sent you, ²⁴'This is what the LORD says: I am going to bring disaster on this city and its people. All the curses written in the scroll that was read to the king of Judah will come true. ²⁵For my people have abandoned me and offered sacrifices to pagan gods, and I am very angry with them for everything they have done. My anger will be poured out on this place, and it will not be quenched.'

²⁶"But go to the king of Judah who sent you to seek the LORD and tell him: 'This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says concerning the message you have just heard: ²⁷You were sorry and humbled yourself before God when you heard his words against this city and its people. You humbled yourself and tore your clothing in despair and wept before me in repentance. And I have indeed heard you, says the LORD. ²⁸So I will not send the promised disaster until after you have died and been buried in peace. You yourself will not see the disaster I am going to bring on this city and its people.'

So they took her message back to the king.

Josiah's Religious Reforms

²⁹Then the king summoned all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. ³⁰And the king went up to the Temple of the LORD with all the people of Judah and Jerusalem, along with the priests and the Levites—all the people from the greatest to the least. There the king read to them the entire Book of the Covenant that had been found in the LORD's Temple. ³¹The king took his place of authority beside the pillar and renewed the covenant in the LORD's presence. He pledged to obey the LORD by keeping all his commands, laws, and decrees with all his heart and soul. He promised to obey all the terms of the covenant that were written in the scroll. ³²And he required everyone in Jerusalem and the people of Benjamin to make a similar pledge. The people of Jerusalem did so, renewing their covenant with God, the God of their ancestors.

³³So Josiah removed all detestable idols from the entire land of Israel and required everyone to worship the LORD their God. And throughout the rest of his lifetime, they did not turn away from the LORD, the God of their ancestors.

Josiah Celebrates Passover

35 Then Josiah announced that the Passover of the LORD would be celebrated in Jerusalem, and so the Passover lamb was slaughtered on the fourteenth day of the first month. ²Josiah also assigned the priests to their duties and encouraged them in their work at the Temple of the LORD. ³He issued this order to the Levites, who were to teach all Israel and who had been set apart to serve the LORD: "Put the holy Ark in the Temple that was built by Solomon son of David, the king of Israel. You no longer need to carry it back and forth on your shoulders. Now spend your time serving the LORD your God and his people Israel. ⁴Report for duty according to the family divisions of your ancestors, following the directions of King David of Israel and the directions of his son Solomon.

34:24 the curses written in the scroll: See Deut 27:14-26; 28:15-68. Curses in a covenant stipulate what will happen to those who are unfaithful to the covenant, as Israel and Judah were in their covenant with the Lord. These curses included exile. • this city: Literally this place; also in 34:27, 28.

34:27-28 King Josiah did not die in peace; he was killed by Pharaoh Neco II of Egypt (35:20-25). However, Josiah was buried in peace, meaning that the city of Jerusalem was at peace and exile did not come during Josiah's reign. His repentant spirit averted immediate disaster.

34:29-32 Renewal of the covenant was the most significant event in Josiah's reform.

35:1 the fourteenth day of the first month: This day in the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar was April 5, 622 BC.

35:3 The holy Ark might have been

35:4-6 The assignments of the priests and Levites mirrored the directions of David and Solomon (8:14-15; 1 Chr 24-26). The Passover animal was typically slaughtered by the offerer (Deut 16:5-6). However, because the offerers did not have time to purify themselves, Josiah continued the practice Hezekiah had begun of having the Levites slaughter the Passover animals (see 30:13-20). In Josiah's time, the large number of participants also might have caused logistical problems.

5“Then stand in the sanctuary at the place appointed for your family division and help the families assigned to you as they bring their offerings to the Temple. 6Slaughter the Passover lambs, purify yourselves, and prepare to help those who come. Follow all the directions that the LORD gave through Moses.”

7Then Josiah provided 30,000 lambs and young goats for the people's Passover offerings, along with 3,000 cattle, all from the king's own flocks and herds. 8The king's officials also made willing contributions to the people, priests, and Levites. Hilkiah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, the administrators of God's Temple, gave the priests 2,600 lambs and young goats and 300 cattle as Passover offerings. 9The Levite leaders—Conaniah and his brothers Shemaiah and Nethanel, as well as Hashabiah, Jeiel, and Jozabad—gave 5,000 lambs and young goats and 500 cattle to the Levites for their Passover offerings.

14Afterward the Levites prepared Passover offerings for themselves and for the priests—the descendants of Aaron—because the priests had been busy from morning till night offering the burnt offerings and the fat portions. The Levites took responsibility for all these preparations.

16The entire ceremony for the LORD's Passover was completed that day. All the burnt offerings were sacrificed on the altar of the LORD, as King Josiah had commanded. 17All the Israelites present in Jerusalem celebrated Passover and the Festival of Unleavened Bread for seven days. 18Never since the time of the prophet Samuel had there been such a Passover. None of the kings of Israel had ever kept a Passover as Josiah did, involving all the priests and Levites, all the people of Jerusalem, and people from all over Judah and Israel. 19This Passover was celebrated in the eighteenth year of Josiah's reign.

The Death of Josiah

2 Chr 35:20-27 // 2 Kgs 23:28-30a

20After Josiah had finished restoring the Temple, King Neco of Egypt led his army up from Egypt to do battle at Carchemish on the Euphrates River, and Josiah and his army marched out to fight him. 21But King Neco sent messengers to Josiah with this message:

“What do you want with me, king of Judah? I have no quarrel with you today! I am on my way to fight another nation, and God has told me to hurry! Do not interfere with God, who is with me, or he will destroy you.”

22But Josiah refused to listen to Neco, to whom God had indeed spoken, and he would not turn back. Instead, he disguised himself and led his army into battle on the plain of Megiddo. 23But the enemy archers hit King Josiah with their arrows and wounded him. He cried out to his men, “Take me from the battle, for I am badly wounded!”

35:7-9 The Passover sacrifice required lambs and young goats (Exod 12:21). The cattle were an additional offering. The totals Josiah provided along with the contributions of others were nearly double the offerings in Hezekiah's time (see 30:24), yet less than the offerings at the dedication of the Temple (see 7:5).

35:13 The Levites brought the food out quickly, observing the element of haste required in the Passover (Exod 12:11).

35:18 This Passover included a greater number of participants than the one Hezekiah had observed (see note at 35:7-9). In this Passover, the priests and Levites took a prominent and proper role, as Josiah had specifically required (35:15-16; cp. 30:3, 15).

35:20-24 The narrative jumps from Josiah's eighteenth year (622 BC) to the year of his death (609 BC). The decline of the Assyrian empire brought Egypt and Babylon, two great powers that had long been subject to Assyria, into conflict with each other. King Neco of Egypt, who had allied with Assyria to resist Babylonian expansion, asked Josiah to allow free passage of his army. Josiah's interception might have been the result of a coalition with Babylon, or it might have been his own attempt to establish independence from Egypt. Josiah's death was caused by his disobedience to a divine oracle delivered by a Gentile king.

35:20 Josiah and his army marched out to fight him: Or Josiah went out to meet him.

²⁴So they lifted Josiah out of his chariot and placed him in another chariot. Then they brought him back to Jerusalem, where he died. He was buried there in the royal cemetery. And all Judah and Jerusalem mourned for him. ²⁵The prophet Jeremiah composed funeral songs for Josiah, and to this day choirs still sing these sad songs about his death. These songs of sorrow have become a tradition and are recorded in The Book of Laments.

²⁶The rest of the events of Josiah's reign and his acts of devotion (carried out according to what was written in the Law of the LORD), ²⁷from beginning to end—all are recorded in The Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

Exile of the Kings of Judah (36:1-10)

Exile of Jehoahaz

2 Chr 36:1-4 // 2 Kgs 23:30b-34

36 Then the people of the land took Josiah's son Jehoahaz and made him the next king in Jerusalem.

²Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem three months.

³Then he was deposed by the king of Egypt, who demanded that Judah pay 7,500 pounds of silver and 75 pounds of gold as tribute.

⁴The king of Egypt then installed Eliakim, the brother of Jehoahaz, as the next king of Judah and Jerusalem, and he changed Eliakim's name to Jehoiakim. Then Neco took Jehoahaz to Egypt as a prisoner.

Reign of Jehoiakim

⁵Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem eleven years. He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD his God.

⁶Then King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon came to Jerusalem and captured it, and he bound Jehoiakim in bronze chains and led him away to Babylon. ⁷Nebuchadnezzar also took some of the treasures from the Temple of the LORD, and he placed them in his palace in Babylon.

⁸The rest of the events in Jehoiakim's reign, including all the evil things he did and everything found against him, are recorded in The Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. Then his son Jehoiachin became the next king.

Exile of Jehoiachin

2 Chr 36:9-10 // 2 Kgs 24:8-9, 12b-13, 17

⁹Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem three months and ten days. Jehoiachin did what was evil in the LORD's sight.

¹⁰In the spring of the year King Nebuchadnezzar took Jehoiachin to Babylon. Many treasures from the Temple of the LORD were also taken to Babylon at that time. And Nebuchadnezzar installed Jehoiachin's uncle, Zedekiah, as the next king in Judah and Jerusalem.

35:25 Jeremiah held Josiah in high esteem (see Jer 22:15-16; cp. Jer 22:10). The Book of Laments was lost; it is not related to the Book of Lamentations.

36:1-4 Jehoahaz, also known as Shallum (see Jer 22:11 and note), was not Josiah's oldest son (1 Chr 3:15), and the reason he was chosen as king is not explained. Pharaoh Neco immediately intervened and established Jehoahaz's older brother Eliakim in his place and renamed him Jehoiakim.

36:2 Jehoahaz: Hebrew Joahaz, a variant spelling of Jehoahaz; also in 36:4. • Jehoahaz's reign of three months was in 609 bc.

36:3 7,500 pounds of silver and 75 pounds of gold: Hebrew 100 talents [3,400 kilograms] of silver and 1 talent [34 kilograms] of gold.

36:5 Jehoiakim reigned from 609 to 598 bc. • He did what was evil: Jeremiah characterized his reign as one of self-aggrandizement and injustice (Jer 22:13-17).

36:7 palace: Or temple.

36:9-10 The Chronicler limits his record of Jehoiachin's short reign to his exile and payment of tribute from the Temple instruments. The capture of Jehoiachin is described in the Babylonian Chronicle: "In the seventh year (of Nebuchadnezzar), the month of Kislev, the king of Akkad mustered his troops, marched to [the land west of the Jordan], and encamped against the city of Judah, and on the second day of the month of Adar he seized the city and captured the king." Jehoiachin was thus taken captive on March 16, 597 bc. He was taken to Babylon about a month later. • Jehoiachin remained a captive in Babylon for thirty-seven years (see 2 Kgs 25:27; Jer 52:31).

36:9 eighteen: As in one Hebrew manuscript, some Greek manuscripts, and Syriac version (see also 2 Kgs 24:8); most Hebrew manuscripts read eight.

36:10 In the spring of the year: Literally At the turn of the year. The first day of this year in the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar was April 13, 597 bc. • uncle: As in parallel text at 2 Kgs 24:17; Hebrew reads brother, or relative.

36:11-14 Although Jeremiah repeatedly urged Zedekiah to submit to the Babylonians rather than look for help from Egypt (Jer 25:1-11; 27:1-22; 34:1-22; 37:1-38:28), Zedekiah refused to humble himself and rebelled, violating his oath.

36:11 Zedekiah reigned from 597 to 586 bc.

from the LORD. ¹³He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, even though he had taken an oath of loyalty in God's name. Zedekiah was a hard and stubborn man, refusing to ¹⁴turn to the LORD, the God of Israel.

¹⁴Likewise, all the leaders of the priests and the people became more and more unfaithful. They followed all the pagan practices of the surrounding nations, desecrating the Temple of the LORD that had been consecrated in Jerusalem.

¹⁵The LORD, the God of their ancestors, repeatedly sent his prophets to warn them, for he had compassion on his people and his Temple. ¹⁶But the people mocked these messengers of God and despised their words. They scoffed at the prophets until the LORD's anger could no longer be restrained and nothing could be done.

The Fall of Jerusalem

¹⁷So the LORD brought the king of Babylon against them. The Babylonians killed Judah's young men, even chasing after them into the Temple. They had no pity on the people, killing both young men and young women, the old and the infirm. God handed all of them over to Nebuchadnezzar. ¹⁸The king took home to Babylon all the articles, large and small, used in the Temple of God, and the treasures from both the LORD's Temple and from the palace of the king and his officials. ¹⁹Then his army burned the Temple of God, tore down the walls of Jerusalem, burned all the palaces, and completely destroyed everything of value. ²⁰The few who survived were taken as exiles to Babylon, and they became servants to the king and his sons until the kingdom of Persia came to power.

²¹So the message of the LORD spoken through Jeremiah was fulfilled. The land finally enjoyed its ⁸Sabbath rest, lying desolate until the seventy years were fulfilled, just as the prophet had said.

Restoration under Cyrus (36:22-23)

2 Chr 36:22-23 // Ezra 1:1-4

²²In the first year of King Cyrus of Persia, the LORD fulfilled the prophecy he had given through Jeremiah. He stirred the heart of Cyrus to put this proclamation in writing and to send it throughout his kingdom:

²³"This is what King Cyrus of Persia says:

"The LORD, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth. He has appointed me to build him a Temple at Jerusalem, which is in Judah. Any of you who are his people may go there for this task. And may the LORD your God be with you!"

36:13 an oath of loyalty in God's name: The vassal oath imposed on him was probably similar to those known from Assyrian treaties, sworn in the name of the vassal's god.

THE HISTORICAL BACKGROUND OF ISRAEL'S EXILE AND RETURN

The period of the Exile (605–539 BC) was a time of great disaster and despair for Israel. But after exile came an era of hope as the Jews returned to their land and the community of Israel was reborn (538–400 BC). The setting of Israel's experience was not an obscure corner of the world. Rather, Israel lived among the superpowers of the ancient Near East: the Neo-Babylonian empire, the Persian empire, and Egypt. Israel's history intersected at vital points with world history, for Israel was a real and vital part of the ancient Near East. These points of contact and overlap help to illustrate the authenticity, validity, and reliability of the biblical writers' presentation of this time of death and rebirth.

THE BEGINNING OF EXILE 605–586 BC In 605 BC, Babylon's king Nebuchadnezzar II (605–562 BC) defeated the remnants of the Assyrian military and forced Assyria's Egyptian allies to flee from the eastern shore of the Mediterranean. These events are clearly recorded in the Babylonian Chronicle, a series of cuneiform Babylonian tablets covering roughly the years 745–100 BC (see COS 1.137). The Babylonian Chronicle includes reports from the first eleven years of Nebuchadnezzar's reign and military excursions (605–594 BC). These documents illuminate the setting in which the biblical accounts of Nebuchadnezzar's invasions of Judah (605–586 BC) took place (see 2 Kgs 24–25).

The biblical report of skilled Israelites being taken into captivity by the Babylonians (see 2 Kgs 25:8-12; cp. Dan 1:1-5) reflects a common practice by

2 Kgs 25:22-26; Jer 40:7-44:30). The death of Pharaoh Hophra amidst the violent rise to power of Amasis II (570 BC) is probably referred to in Jer 44:30. Jeremiah's assertion that Nebuchadnezzar would invade Egypt was perhaps fulfilled in 568 BC, when Amasis II resisted Nebuchadnezzar in the area (ANET 308).

THE EXILE IN BABYLON 586-538 BC Israel's human travail in exile was shared by numerous other ancient Near Eastern peoples conquered by Assyria and Babylon. In addition, Herodotus's history recounts the exile and resettlement of peoples by both Greek and Persian authorities (e.g., Herodotus, Histories 5.15, 30; 7.80-81). Exile was not uncommon.

Unfortunately, the period of Judah's exile is poorly documented. There is no running historical narrative for the period 586 to 538 BC. The books of Daniel and Ezekiel provide some insight into this period, however, and their records harmonize well with what is known from Babylonian sources. For example, we now know about the erratic rule of Nabonidus, the last king of Babylon (556-539 BC), who spent the last years of his reign in Teima in Arabia. He had become obsessed with worship of the moon god and thereby alienated the powerful priesthood of Marduk (see COS 2.123A, 2.123B; ANET 560-562). Nabonidus thus failed to administer Babylonia, leaving it in the hand of his son Belshazzar, mentioned in Daniel 5 as de facto king (see note on Dan 5:7). His actions helped assure the fall of Babylon to Cyrus the Great in 539 BC.

THE RETURN FROM EXILE 538-400 BC Cyrus's conquest of Babylon in 539 BC is recorded in the Cyrus Cylinder (COS 2.124; ANET 315). We find there a record of the decree that he issued concerning the exiles of Judea, among many other peoples and national groups who were permitted to return to their ancestral lands and rebuild their temples. Cyrus was looked upon as "a ruler who revives" the dead "corpses" of nations taken to Babylon (cp. Ezek 37). He wisely created goodwill toward his many peoples by dealing respectfully and kindly with them by returning their religious artifacts used in worshipping their gods (see COS 2.124).

The foreign policy of permitting the Jews to return to Judea and worship the Lord was clearly part of Persia's overall strategy: The Persian kings supported local populations and their worship procedures and in turn expected loyalty from them against the enemies of Persia. So it was that Cambyses II (530-522 BC) courted the loyalty of Egyptians and their priests (Elephantine Papyri; Cowley, 30.13-14). A later Persian king (Darius II, 424-405 BC) supported Jewish celebrations and festivals at Elephantine. He commissioned Hananiah in Egypt to check out the Jewish community at Elephantine (Cowley, 38.7), much as Artaxerxes I had sent Ezra to the Jews in Jerusalem (Ezra 7). Similarly, in the territory of Magnesia in Roman times there were records that dated from the time of Darius I granting official approval to the temple of Apollo. These official documents were regularly composed in three languages: official Aramaic, a national language, and a local dialect if necessary (cp. Ezra 1:2-5; 6:3-12; 7:12-26; Neh 2:7-10). The Persian kings regularly helped to establish laws and to rebuild or repair temples and temple worship for the restored communities.

The books of 2 Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi give us a picture of the return of the Judean captives to the land in 538 BC under the decree of Cyrus the Great. The author of Ezra-Nehemiah often works from actual sources (such as letters and decrees of Persian kings). These official documents that are presented in Ezra-Nehemiah are considered by most historians to be authentic and valid representations of the original documents.

The book of Esther, meanwhile, provides a glimpse of a Jewish community that had chosen to remain in exile (see Esth 1:3; 3:7). Several helpful extrabiblical sources give insights into this postexilic era as well (including the Babylonian Chronicles, the Cyrus Cylinder, the Behistun Inscriptions, administrative tablets in Elamite cuneiform, other Aramaic documents, ostraca from Elephantine in Egypt, the Wadi Daliyeh papyri from Palestine, and historians Ctesias, Herodotus, and Xenophon).

Nehemiah returned to Judea in 445 BC, successfully rebuilt the walls of Jerusalem, and effectively organized the community. His status as cup-bearer to the king (Artaxerxes I) has long been recognized as a position of high honor (cp. Herodotus, Histories 3.34). The letter of safe conduct granted to Nehemiah (Neh 2:7) is paralleled by a roughly contemporary letter from a Persian satrap for his military staff officer who is granted travel protection from Babylonia to Damascus and Egypt.

The particular context in which Israel's exile occurred gave the experience a unique and special purpose for Israel and for the world. The Exile of 586–538 BC was more than merely a time of great disaster and despair for Israel; it was a covenantal and theological lesson, an event driven by the covenant that also included great expectations. In the Exile and return, the people of Israel experienced judgment, humiliation, repentance, restoration, and hope.

THE BOOK OF

Ezra

Ezra recounts God's marvelous work in bringing many Israelites back to Jerusalem after seventy years of exile in Babylon. The book highlights the restored community's struggle to resist pagan influences, to rebuild the Temple, and to deal with sin in the lives of those who chose to follow the world's values rather than God's. In Ezra we see how God provides for and protects those who trust in him and faithfully obey his word.

SETTING

About 130 years before Ezra came to Jerusalem in 458 BC, God punished Judah's persistent wickedness by sending the Babylonians to destroy the city, demolish the Temple, and take thousands into exile (see 2 Kgs 25). While in exile in Babylon, the Israelites were able to build homes, have gardens, and live a fairly good life with some religious freedom (Jer 29:4-5). Some attained positions of power (Dan 3, 6).

God had promised to return his people to the holy land after seventy years (2 Chr 36:21; Jer 25:12; 29:10). About 559 BC, the Persian prince Cyrus II subdued the Medes and fused them into what would become the Persian empire. Then, in 539 BC, the Persians defeated the Babylonians, paving the way for this promise to be fulfilled. In 538 BC, Cyrus began to allow the Jewish people to leave Babylon. Sheshbazzar led the first group of exiles in the return to their homeland (1:1-8).

When the people of Israel and Judah had been deported to foreign lands, the Assyrians and Babylonians had settled other conquered peoples in the land of Israel. The returning Jewish exiles found these foreigners inhabiting the land that they sought to reclaim and rebuild. These foreigners claimed to worship the same God as the Jews, but they actually advocated a "melting pot" religion that combined pagan and Jewish ideas and practices. These foreigners wanted to worship with the returning Jews, who recognized the spiritual compromise that would entail (4:3). The Jews refused the foreigners any part in their community. As a result, the Jewish community experienced severe opposition from the foreigners living in the land. Although this stand led to many years of conflict and a delay in Temple reconstruction, the Exile had taught the Jews that compromising the purity of their faith would yield worse results.

When Ezra arrived in Jerusalem several decades later, he found that some of the Israelites had compromised their faith by marrying foreigners. God had expressly forbidden such marriage (see Deut 7:3-4; Josh 23:12-13) because it would inevitably lead to adopting pagan religious beliefs (9:1-2). If not confessed and rectified (9:13-15; 10:14), this sin would surely bring God's judgment. Therefore, in accordance with the word of God, Ezra led the people to renew their covenant with God and to separate themselves from the pagans (10:1-11).

CHRONOLOGICAL SUMMARY

Ezra retraces events in Judah from 538 to about 450 BC.

538-536 BC. After Cyrus's decree allowing Jews to return to their homeland (538 BC, 1:1-4), a group of about 50,000 returnees set out to restore worship in Jerusalem, where they reestablished the Jewish community, built a new altar (1:5-3:6), and began rebuilding the Temple (3:7-13). These Jews refused to compromise their beliefs by joining together with local unbelievers to rebuild the Temple. Before long, all progress in their rebuilding effort stopped because of local opposition (4:1-5).

520-516 BC. Almost two decades later, God used the prophets Haggai and Zechariah to motivate his people to continue rebuilding the Temple (5:1-6:12). The Jews responded, and while official letters were sent to and from the royal Persian court, the Temple was completed in 515 BC without further interference (see also Hag 1:2-6; Zech 4:9; 6:12-15; 8:9).

458 BC. Ezra traveled to Jerusalem to administer government affairs (7:1-26). As he began his official duties, Ezra learned that some people were not following the laws of Moses but were marrying unbelievers and defiling Israel. After Ezra interceded for God's mercy, he led an official judicial investigation of this matter. Many Israelites repented of their sins and divorced their pagan wives (9:1–10:44).

445 BC. Nehemiah arrived in Jerusalem and succeeded in rebuilding its walls amid much opposition and difficulty (see Neh 1–7).

AUTHORSHIP

In Jewish tradition, Ezra and Nehemiah are considered a single book written by Ezra. As a scribe, Ezra would have had access to many of the official documents included in the book. Some also maintain that Ezra wrote Chronicles because the last verses in 2 Chronicles (2 Chr 36:22-23) are very similar to the first verses in Ezra (1:1-3). The books have common vocabulary and similar theological viewpoints. Still, many recent scholars reject this conclusion on the grounds that the linguistic and theological differences between Chronicles and Ezra—Nehemiah far outweigh the similarities.

LANGUAGE AND SOURCES

Most of the OT was written in Hebrew. However, the book of Ezra contains two sections written in Aramaic (4:8–6:18 and 7:12-26), the common language of the Persian empire. The six official documents in these sections are: Rehum's letter to King Artaxerxes (4:8-16), Artaxerxes' letter to Rehum (4:17-22), Tattenai's letter to King Darius (5:6-17), Cyrus's decree to build the Temple in Jerusalem (6:3-5), Darius's letter to Tattenai (6:6-12), and Artaxerxes' letter to Ezra (7:12-26). The authentic character of these documents helps verify the truthfulness of Ezra's account. They also demonstrate how God used pagan officials to accomplish his sovereign plan.

Ezra also includes several documents written in Hebrew: the decree of Cyrus (1:2-4); a list of Temple vessels (1:9-11); a list of the Israelites who returned to Jerusalem first (2:1-69); a list of those who returned with Ezra (8:1-14); a list of treasures Ezra brought to Jerusalem with him (8:26-27); and a list of the men who divorced pagan wives (10:18-44). These lists assured the Jewish people that Ezra kept accurate records. Only the original holy objects would be used in the Temple, only those on the official list of Israelites could worship at the Temple, and only the men who divorced pagan wives would be included in the holy people of God. By including these details, Ezra took great care to distinguish between what was holy and what was not.

MEANING AND MESSAGE

The people of God felt helpless as they returned to Jerusalem from exile in Babylon. They faced the threat of robbers on their long trip back to Jerusalem, opposition to their presence in Jerusalem from neighboring states and foreigners who had settled there, inability to influence Persian government policies, and the enormous task of rebuilding a nation in ruins. How could they follow God when so many things were out of their control? Ezra focuses on four key themes to explain how God accomplishes his will in the lives of his people.

1. Everything that happens results from God's sovereign control over Israel's history. Just as God had foretold (Isa 44:28–45:1; Jer 29:10), he moved Cyrus to allow the Jews to return to Jerusalem after seventy years of exile (1:1–4). Later, God promised that treasures from other nations would flow to Jerusalem to rebuild the Temple (Hag 2:7–8); this happened (6:6–12) because God changed Darius's heart (6:22). Later, when Ezra came to Jerusalem, God's gracious hand moved Artaxerxes to give Ezra everything he needed (7:6). It was God who protected the Jews from attack as they traveled to Jerusalem (8:22, 31). Ezra recognized that the future of the nation was in God's hand (9:6–15). Only a believer who is convinced that God is sovereign over this world will be able to remain faithful to God in the midst of conflict, difficulty, and discouragement.

2. God's people must be pure and separate from sinfulness in this world. As a priest from the line of Aaron (7:1–5), Ezra was strong in his conviction regarding separateness. So were the early returnees who refused to cooperate with the local pagan people (4:1–5). While this led to many years of frustration and conflict, the people knew that they could not compromise the purity of their faith and still remain the people of God. When Ezra returned to Jerusalem, this commitment was not evident among those living there (9:1–2). Ezra recognized the crisis (9:3–15) and led the people to renew their covenant with God and to separate themselves from these pagan people (10:1–11).

3. Following God's word is of primary importance. As a scribe, Ezra was determined to study and obey the law of God and to teach it to others (7:10). Ezra repeatedly explained his decisions by pointing to God's instructions in Scripture. The king of Persia had instructed Ezra to teach and enforce the Mosaic laws (7:14, 23–25), and that is exactly what Ezra did (e.g., 8:35; 9:1–10:15).

4. Intercessory prayer invites God's compassion and power. Ezra's prayer of confession (9:6–15) is a model of humility in seeking God's grace. Ezra knew that these sinful people would not be moved by a sternly worded sermon condemning them. Instead, he tore his clothes, wept, and mourned over the sinfulness of the nation. God powerfully used his confession to pierce the hearts of the people, and a great revival took place (9:6–10:15). In a similar manner, Ezra had earlier taught those who were returning to Jerusalem with him to fast and pray for safety on their journey because only God could protect them from attack (8:21–23)—and so he did (8:31–32).

God's recurrent action in Israel's history proved to the postexilic community that they represented the continuation of God's redemptive plan. . . . In God's providence this was a step in the preparation for the New Testament transition to the church under the new covenant.

1 In the first year of King Cyrus of Persia, the LORD fulfilled the prophecy he had given through Jeremiah. He stirred the heart of Cyrus to put this proclamation in writing and to send it throughout his kingdom:

²"This is what King Cyrus of Persia says:

"The LORD, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth. He has appointed me to build him a Temple at Jerusalem, which is in Judah. ³Any of you who are his people may go to Jerusalem in Judah to rebuild this Temple of the LORD, the God of Israel, who lives in Jerusalem. And may your God be with you!

⁴Wherever this Jewish remnant is found, let their neighbors contribute toward their expenses by giving them silver and gold, supplies for the journey, and livestock, as well as a voluntary offering for the Temple of God in Jerusalem."

⁵Then God stirred the hearts of the priests and Levites and the leaders of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin to go to Jerusalem to rebuild the Temple of the LORD.

⁶And all their neighbors assisted by giving them articles of silver and gold, supplies for the journey, and livestock. They gave them many valuable gifts in addition to all the voluntary offerings.

⁷King Cyrus himself brought out the articles that King Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the LORD's Temple in Jerusalem and had placed in the temple of his own gods.

Cyrus II, the Great, king of Persia (559–530 BC), founded the great Persian empire. From ancient Near Eastern texts, we know that he was king of Persia when it was a small nation. His father was king of Persia, and his mother was the daughter of the king of the Medes. Cyrus conquered the Medes in 549 BC and combined the two nations into one. He conquered Lydia in Asia Minor in 547 BC, then turned to the east and brought Parthia and part of India into the Persian empire. Finally, on October 29, 539 BC, Cyrus conquered the city of Babylon and brought Babylonia into his empire (see Dan 5:30-31).

After conquering Babylon, Cyrus issued a decree (found on the Cyrus Cylinder) that allowed Jewish people to return home. The part of this decree dealing with the Jews has been recorded in 2 Chr 36:22-23 and Ezra 1:1-3. Cyrus commissioned the Jews to rebuild their temple and society.

Isaiah named Cyrus as Judah's future deliverer (Isa 44:28–45:13) and even called him the Lord's anointed (Isa 45:1, Hebrew mashiakh, "messiah"). Israel regarded Cyrus as called and empowered by God to free them. Cyrus was not the Messiah, but what he did served as an example of what the Messiah, Jesus Christ, would later do in setting God's people free from servitude.

1:1-3 The first three verses of Ezra appear almost verbatim in 2 Chr 36:22-23, suggesting continuity between the books.

1:1 The first year of Cyrus's reign over Babylon was 538 BC. King Cyrus II reigned over Persia from 559 to 530 BC. Cyrus and his Persian forces defeated the city of Babylon in October, 539 BC, just as Daniel had predicted (Dan 5). • the prophecy . . . through Jeremiah: God had promised to return his people after seventy years in exile (see Jer 25:11-12; 29:10). • God's power over the heart and mind of this pagan king moved him to enact the decree that follows (see also Isa 13:17; 41:2, 25; Jer 50:9). God is sovereign, even when rulers and nations do not recognize his authority (Isa 10:5, 12-14).

1:2 Though Cyrus speaks of the LORD, the God of heaven, Cyrus actually was a Zoroastrian. His proclamation, written in Hebrew, was probably political propaganda to gain Jewish support for his rule. In a similar statement to the Babylonians, Cyrus claimed to worship their chief god, Marduk. However, his words here do reflect that God had appointed him to build him a Temple at Jerusalem (see Isa 44:28; 45:1, 13). He might have learned of such prophecies from Daniel, who served in his court as a high government official (see Dan 6; 9; 10, where Cyrus is apparently referred to by his Median name, Darius). God had long planned to raise up Cyrus and give him a vision to restore worship at Jerusalem (Isa 44:28; 45:13; 48:14-15).

1:3 Any of you who are his people may go: The Assyrians and Babylonians had ruled their empires by deporting people and spreading them out in cities throughout their empires. The Persians, by contrast, returned exiled people to their homelands, expecting the returned people to be thankful, obey the Persians, and pay their taxes.

1:4 Cyrus was probably not urging Babylonian neighbors of the Jewish remnant to help the Hebrews. Rather, he was encouraging Jews who had decided to stay in Babylon to help their countrymen who were returning to Jerusalem.

1:5-6 As he had done with the heart of Cyrus (1:1), God stirred the hearts of Israel's leaders. • Very few priests and Levites actually responded (see 2:36-42). Most of the people who did respond were from two tribes, Judah and Benjamin. Persian documents show that many Jews stayed in Babylon, where they had homes, businesses, and relatives. A dangerous four-month trip back to the desolate city of Jerusalem, now inhabited by foreigners, was not an inviting choice compared to their comfortable life in Babylon. It was much easier to give many valuable gifts and voluntary offerings to those who did return.

1:7 Many articles . . . from the LORD's Temple had been taken to Babylon (see 2 Chr 36:7; Dan 1:2). By putting these

Zerubbabel (2:1-6:22)

Hag 1:1-2:23
Matt 1:12

Zerubbabel, a Babylonian-born Jew, returned to Judea in 538 BC as governor of Jerusalem under Persian rule. In 539 BC, Cyrus king of Persia declared that Jews captured and exiled from Judah might return to their homeland, and Zerubbabel led one of the first groups of those who returned.

Zerubbabel returned with the mission of rebuilding the Temple, and he constructed the altar first. Sacrifice could begin again once the Holy Place was restored. However, the community of Judea soon ran into opposition from the people in the land, who effectively shut down construction. The Judeans were distracted from the project until the preaching of Haggai and Zechariah encouraged them to begin working again. Zerubbabel was instrumental in leading and organizing the Temple rebuilding effort, which took about six years (520-515 BC).

Exuberant hope surrounded Zerubbabel, who was a direct descendant of King David (3:2; 1 Chr 3:17-19). Zechariah and Haggai both describe Zerubbabel in messianic terms as the one chosen by God to bring restoration to Israel (Hag 2:21-23; Zech 4:6-7). But Zerubbabel soon disappears from the biblical narrative without explanation. This early governor of Judea was not the Messiah. Jesus Christ, one of Zerubbabel's descendants (Matt 1:12), would later assume that glorious position.

items in his pagan temple, Nebuchadnezzar had attempted to show his god's power over the Hebrew God. However, God had promised the return of all the stolen items (see Jer 27:16-22). The items from the Temple were holy utensils, acceptable to God for worship and very valuable to the returning worshippers.

1:8 Sheshbazzar, the leader of the exiles returning to Judah (literally Sheshbazzar, the prince of Judah): Sheshbazzar was the Persian-appointed governor of Judah who laid the foundation of the Temple (5:14-16). Some believe that Zerubbabel (3:2, 8) was the same person with a new name (cp. Dan 1:7). However, both names are Babylonian, so it is more likely that these two leaders worked together on the Temple foundation and that Zerubbabel later took over as governor when Sheshbazzar died.

1:9-11 5,400 articles of gold and silver:

The numbers listed total only 2,499 items. A parallel account, in the apocryphal book 1 Esdras 2:13-15, lists 5,469 items, while a list in the Jewish historian Josephus's Antiquities 11.15 lists 5,220 objects. Ezra's shortened list illustrates the kind of items included but does not include every item. Keeping track of consecrated utensils reduced the possibility of confusing these sacred items with the pagan utensils used in the worship of other gods.

1:9 silver incense burners: The meaning of this Hebrew word is uncertain.

2:1-70 This chapter is the first of Ezra's major digressions from the main story line. The returning exiles needed to keep track of who the true Jews were so that the community could maintain its identity (by knowing whom they could marry) and theological purity (by knowing who could worship at the Temple). This list is not an initial list (cp. Neh 7:6-73) of all the Jews who returned to Jerusalem but a slightly later list (after Sheshbazzar had died) of people who had settled in their towns.

2:2 Jeshua (a variant spelling of Joshua), son of Jehozadak (3:2, 8), from the line of Aaron, was the high priest (Hag 1:1; Zech 3:1). The Nehemiah mentioned here is not the person who later built the walls of Jerusalem, nor is this Mordecai the famous relative of Esther.

closely connected to the question, "Who are your father and your family?" Ultimately, the priests were identified as the sons of Aaron. If this link could not be verified, they were barred from service (2:61-62). Others were identified by a well-known elder in their group.

2:21-35 The people of . . . The citizens of: Some of the returnees were identified by their towns of origin. Apparently, not all knew their genealogical histories or had large families with renowned leaders. Most of the cities mentioned were concentrated in a relatively small area in the vicinity of Jerusalem.

2:24 Beth-azmaveth: As in parallel text at Neh 7:28; Hebrew reads Azmaveth.

2:25 Kiriath-jearim: As in some Hebrew manuscripts and Greek version (see also Neh 7:29); Hebrew reads Kiriath-arim.

2:31 of West Elam: Or of the other Elam.

2:36-42 the priests . . . the Levites: Only seventy-four Levites returned to Jerusalem—a very low number. Ezra later worked hard to get thirty-eight more to come with him (see note on 8:18).

2:41-42 The singers played instruments and sang for worship at the Temple (1 Chr 25; Pss 73-83) while the gatekeepers regulated the Temple gates and storehouses (1 Chr 9:26-27; 2 Chr 23:19; Neh 12:25). • Asaph was one of the three Levites David had appointed to conduct music at the Temple (1 Chr 16:5, 7), and he wrote a collection of psalms (Pss 50, 73-83). His family carried on his work (1 Chr 25:1-7).

2:43-54 The Temple servants were probably descendants of the Gibeonites (Josh 9:23-27). They assisted the Levites (8:20) by carrying water and wood and by sweeping floors.

2:46 Shalmal: As in an alternate reading of the Masoretic Text (see also Neh 7:48); the other alternate reads Shamlai.

2:55-58 The descendants of the servants of King Solomon are connected with the Temple servants (2:43-54). Their names might indicate their responsibilities: e.g., Hassophereth ("the scribe") probably kept inventories, and Pokereth-hazzebaim ("gazelle-hunter") likely hunted game.

2:59-60 Some returnees believed in Israel's God but had no genealogical records to prove that they were Israelites. Without this information, the other Israelites did not know whether to treat them as brothers and intermarry with them or to treat them as outsiders. The genealogies in 1 Chr 1-9 illustrate how carefully many family histories were kept.

2:61-63 were not found: The lack of a genealogy was problematic for three families (2:61-62). They were excluded disqualified from serving as priests. ⁶³The governor told them not to eat the priests' share of food from the sacrifices until a priest could consult the LORD about the matter by using the Urim and Thummim—the sacred lots.

⁶⁴So a total of 42,360 people returned to Judah, ⁶⁵in addition to 7,337 servants and 200 singers, both men and women. ⁶⁶They took with them 736 horses, 245 mules, ⁶⁷435 camels, and 6,720 donkeys.

⁶⁸When they arrived at the Temple of the LORD in Jerusalem, some of the family leaders made voluntary offerings toward the rebuilding of God's Temple on its original site, ⁶⁹and each leader gave as much as he could. The total of their gifts came to 61,000 gold coins, 6,250 pounds of silver, and 100 robes for the priests.

⁷⁰So the priests, the Levites, the singers, the gatekeepers, the Temple servants, and some of the common people settled in villages near Jerusalem. The rest of the people returned to their own towns throughout Israel.

Faithfulness Brings Opposition (3:1–4:23) The Altar Is Rebuilt in Jerusalem

3 In early autumn, when the Israelites had settled in their towns, all the people assembled in Jerusalem with a unified purpose. ²Then Jeshua son of Jehozadak joined his fellow priests and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel with his family in rebuilding the altar of the God of Israel. They wanted to sacrifice burnt offerings on it, as instructed in the Law of Moses, the man of God. ³Even though the people were afraid of the local residents, they rebuilt the altar at its old site. Then they began to sacrifice

Jerusalem at the Time of Zerubbabel, 520–515 BC (3:1–6:15). When the first wave of exiles returned to Jerusalem in 538 BC, the altar was rebuilt first, and the daily sacrifices were resumed. Construction of the new Temple began in the spring of 536 BC, and the foundation was quickly laid, but work was soon halted due to opposition. The work was resumed in 520 BC and completed in 515 BC. When Ezra arrived with the second wave of exiles in 458 BC, he brought with him many weighed 20 ounces and was equal to 60 shekels of silver; each shekel was worth an average worker's monthly wages.

3:1–4:5 After resettling in various towns in Judah, the community turned to restoring the worship of God at Jerusalem. They quickly rebuilt the altar and began regular sacrifices in time to celebrate the Jewish festivals (3:4), and then they began the more difficult task of rebuilding the Temple itself (3:8). Soon they faced opposition from local foreigners (4:1–5).

3:1 In early autumn: Literally In the seventh month. The year is not specified, so it may have been during Cyrus's first year (538 BC) or second year (537 BC). The seventh month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred within the months of September/October 538 BC and October/November 537 BC. Festivals during the seventh month included the Festival of Trumpets (see Lev 23:23–25), the Day of Atonement (see Lev 16), and the Festival of Shelters (see Lev 23:34–36).

3:2 Jeshua (Hag 1:1; Zech 3:1) was the high priest (Neh 12:1). However, Ezra never used this title (2:2; 3:2; 4:3; 5:2), which suggests that the title was given after the Temple was completed (6:15).
• Jehozadak: Hebrew Jozadak, a variant spelling of Jehozadak; also in 3:8. • Zerubbabel served as the Persian-appointed governor of Judah (Hag 1:1), most likely after the death of Sheshbazzar (see note on 1:8). He was the grandson of King Jehoiachin of Judah (1 Chr 3:17).

3:3 The local residents were foreigners resettled from abroad by the Assyrian king Esarhaddon (680–669 BC) after the people of the northern kingdom of Israel were exiled in 722 BC (2 Kgs 17:24–40). Some had moved into the Jerusalem area during Judah's furnishings and funds for the newly rebuilt Temple (7:21–24; 8:24–34). The wall of Jerusalem remained in ruins until 445 BC, when it was rebuilt under Nehemiah's leadership (Neh 1:1–7:3).

from priestly privileges or responsibilities until the high priest received divine direction through the use of the Urim and Thummim to determine the will of God (see Exod 28:30; Num 27:21). Although using the Urim and Thummim resembled throwing dice or drawing straws, when done by the priest, the result was a divine decision rather than blind chance.

2:64–66 42,360 people: This number, which does not match the total of individuals (28,774) listed in 2:3–42, might include children. • The large number of servants and animals shows that some of the Jews who returned were wealthy.

2:68–69 As when the Tabernacle was built (Exod 25:2–7; 35:4–9) and the Temple was renovated (2 Kings 12), the people gave voluntary offerings to finance this effort. These funds supplemented the provincial grant by Darius (6:8) and gifts from Israelites who stayed in Babylon (1:6). Each gave as much as he could based on his resources.

2:69 61,000 gold coins: Hebrew 61,000 darics of gold, about 1,100 pounds or 500 kilograms in weight. Each daric was worth a month's wages for a professional soldier. • 6,250 pounds: Hebrew 5,000 minas [3,000 kilograms]. Each mina burnt offerings on the altar to the LORD each morning and evening.

⁴They celebrated the Festival of Shelters as prescribed in the Law, sacrificing the number of burnt offerings specified for each day of the festival. ⁵They also offered the regular burnt offerings and the offerings required for the new moon celebrations and the annual festivals as prescribed by the LORD. The people also gave voluntary offerings to the LORD. ⁶Fifteen days before the Festival of Shelters began, the priests had begun to sacrifice burnt offerings to the LORD. This was even before they had started to lay the foundation of the LORD's Temple.

Foundation of the Temple Is Celebrated

⁷Then the people hired masons and carpenters and bought cedar logs from the people of Tyre and Sidon, paying them with food, wine, and olive oil. The logs were brought down from the Lebanon mountains and floated along the coast of the Mediterranean Sea to Joppa, for King Cyrus had given permission for this.

⁸The construction of the Temple of God began in midspring, during the second year after they arrived in Jerusalem. The work force was made up of everyone who had returned from exile, including Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, Jeshua son of Jehozadak and his fellow priests, and all the Levites. The Levites who were twenty years old or older were put in charge of rebuilding the LORD's Temple. ⁹The workers at the Temple of God were supervised by Jeshua with his sons and relatives, and Kadmiel and his sons, all descendants of Hodaviah. They were helped in this task by the Levites of the family of Henadad.

¹⁰When the builders completed the foundation of the LORD's Temple, the priests put on their robes and took their places to blow their trumpets. And the Levites, descendants of Asaph, clashed their cymbals to praise the LORD, just as King David had prescribed. ¹¹With praise and thanks, they sang this song to the LORD:

"He is so good!

His faithful love for Israel endures forever!"

Then all the people gave a great shout, praising the LORD because the foundation of the LORD's Temple had been laid.

¹²But many of the older priests, Levites, and other leaders who had seen the first Temple wept aloud when they saw the new Temple's foundation. The others, however, were shouting for joy. ¹³The joyful shouting and weeping mingled together in a loud noise that could be heard far in the distance.

seventy-year exile. A pagan altar might have been erected on the site, and it needed to be torn down before the new one, dedicated to the Lord, could be built. • at its old site (Literally on its foundations): It was important to place the altar at the exact sacred spot where Solomon's altar had been to connect with the authentic worship carried on before the Exile. • Daily morning and evening sacrifices (see Exod 29:38-42; Num 28:3-8) dedicated the day to God.

3:4 The seven-day Festival of Shelters . . . prescribed in the Law (Lev 23:33-36; Num 29:12-38; Deut 16:13-16) reminded the people of God's guidance and care during the forty years the nation spent in tents during the wilderness journey from Egypt to the Promised Land. This festival was especially significant to those who had just experienced a similar journey from a foreign land, living in tents as they walked to the Promised Land.

3:5-6 The catalog of sacrifices, offered even before the Temple's foundation was laid, showed the people's enthusiasm for faithfully worshiping God at every opportunity. They did everything exactly as they were instructed in the law. • The new moon celebrations took place on the first day of every Hebrew month; the sacrifices and blowing of trumpets reminded the people of God's covenant with them (Num 10:10; 28:11-15). • Voluntary offerings were such gifts as money for building the Temple (Exod 35:29; 36:3). The Hebrew term can also refer to peace offerings of meat or bread that were eaten to celebrate fellowship with God (Lev 7:11-21).

3:6 Fifteen days before the Festival of Shelters began: Literally On the first day of the seventh month. This day in the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred in September or October. The Festival of Shelters began on the fifteenth day of the seventh month.

3:7 Tyre and Sidon: Few tall and straight trees grew in the dry climate of Judah, and those that had grown in Israel had already been cut down. Therefore, skilled laborers were hired in countries that had tall trees (see also 1 Chr 22:1-5; 2 Chr 2:7-16). • the Mediterranean Sea: Literally the sea.

3:8 in midspring: Literally in the second month. This month in the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred within the months of April and May 536 BC. In midspring, the dry season was beginning and workers would not have to contend with mud. • The second year after they arrived was probably 536 BC. The delay in rebuilding reflects the time it took to get wood from Lebanon to Jerusalem. • The work force was made up of everyone: This showed the spirit of unity among the returned exiles. Putting the Levites . . . in charge ensured that the work was done according to God's specifications.

3:9 descendants of Hodaviah: Literally sons of Judah (Hebrew bene-yehudah); bene might also be read here as the proper name Binnui, and yehudah is probably another name for Hodaviah. Cp. 2:40; Neh 7:43; 1 Esdras 5:58.

3:10-11 The music at this dedication ceremony sounded similar to the singing when Solomon first brought the Ark into the Temple (2 Chr 5:12-13). Both events caused the worshipers to give praise and thanks . . . to the LORD for his faithful covenant love and goodness. • Asaph: See note on 2:41-42. • as King David had prescribed: See 1 Chr 25:1-7.

3:12 Those who wept aloud either were disappointed that the foundation of the Temple wasn't as wonderful as the old one had been (cp. Hag 2:3) or were deeply moved with joy at seeing the Temple of the Lord restored.

Opposition to Rebuilding the Temple

4 The enemies of Judah and Benjamin heard that the exiles were rebuilding a Temple to the LORD, the God of Israel. ²So they approached Zerubbabel and the other leaders and said, "Let us build with you, for we worship your God just as you do. We have sacrificed to him ever since King Esarhaddon of Assyria brought us here."

³But Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and the other leaders of Israel replied, "You may have no part in this work. We alone will build the Temple for the LORD, the God of Israel, just as King Cyrus of Persia commanded us."

⁴Then the local residents tried to discourage and frighten the people of Judah to keep them from their work. ⁵They bribed agents to work against them and to frustrate their plans. This went on during the entire reign of King Cyrus of Persia and lasted until King Darius of Persia took the throne.

Later Opposition to Rebuilding the Walls

⁶Years later when Xerxes began his reign, the enemies of Judah wrote a letter of accusation against the people of Judah and Jerusalem.

⁷Even later, during the reign of King Artaxerxes of Persia, the enemies of Judah, led

One of Ezra's main purposes in writing was to remind the Jews who had returned to Jerusalem of their need to remain pure in their beliefs and commitments. When Ezra arrived in Jerusalem, he found that the people had intermarried with pagan foreigners, even though doing so was not permitted in God's law (see Deut 7:3-4; Josh 23:12-13). As a result, their identity as God's holy nation was in danger of disintegrating (9:1-2).

In order to impress on his readers the need for separation from these foreigners, Ezra recounts how those who first returned to Jerusalem refused to cooperate with the pagan people living around them (4:1-5). These people claimed to worship the same God, but they actually worshiped several gods in addition to Israel's God. If the Jews had joined with these people, they soon would have compromised their beliefs and become ungodly, just as Israel had done before the Exile (see Exod 34:15-16; 1 Kgs 11:1-5; 2 Kgs 16:3). The leaders of Israel understood the danger of accommodating these foreigners. They learned from their ancestors' experience and refused to compromise the purity of their faith for the sake of peace. They carefully followed God's instructions in everything they did (3:2, 9; 6:18). If they were going to identify themselves as "the servants of the God of heaven and earth" (5:11), they would need to please and serve him and no other gods.

God is holy, and he made the covenant with Israel to establish a holy nation (Exod 19:4-6; Lev 19:2). Israel's identity as God's people required purity in worship and in social relationships (10:1-11). Similarly, believers today are identified as God's holy people (1 Pet 2:9), a title that speaks of theological purity. Paul admonished the Corinthians to refrain from marrying unbelievers—for Christ and Satan have no fellowship. Righteousness and unrighteousness do not mix (2 Cor 6:14-15). The people of God must be separate by not touching unclean things and not marrying unbelievers (2 Cor 6:16-18).

4:1 Judah and Benjamin: Most of the exiles who had returned were from these two tribes of Israel (1:5).

4:2 King Esarhaddon of Assyria

(680–669 BC) had deported the people of Israel to foreign lands and had relocated other conquered peoples to the land of Israel during the reign of King Manasseh in Judah. These foreigners had learned about the Lord when they entered the land of Israel but had also continued to worship their old gods (2 Kgs 17:27-34, 40-41).

4:3 The key political, religious, and tribal leaders spoke with a unified voice against the foreigners' proposal, which would have opened the door for their idolatrous beliefs. The Jews did not want to make the same mistake as their ancestors, who were sent into exile as a result of worshipping the false gods of the Canaanites. • as King Cyrus of Persia commanded us: See 1:2-4.

4:4 Realizing that they would have no way to influence an established Jewish community (4:1-3), the foreigners took hostile measures to neutralize the growing political power of the Israelites.

4:5 The people paid a heavy price for their uncompromising commitment to holiness. • during the entire reign of King Cyrus: Until 530 BC. • Darius I reigned 521–486 BC. Work on the Temple was not finished until 515 BC (see 6:15).

4:6-23 These verses are a parenthetical discussion of later opposition to Jewish rebuilding efforts. The account actually belongs with much later events in the reign of Xerxes (486–465 BC) and Artaxerxes I (465–424 BC), but it is included here because it fits with the theme of opposition. Chronologically, 4:6 fits between chs 6 and 7, while 4:7-23 fits before Neh 1.

4:6 Xerxes: Hebrew Ahasuerus, another name for Xerxes. He reigned 486–465 BC and was Esther's husband.

4:7 Artaxerxes [I] reigned 465–424 BC. The exact date of these events is unknown, but they might have occurred around the same time as an Egyptian revolt in 448 BC (a few years before Artaxerxes sent Nehemiah to Jerusalem in 445 BC). If so, the enemies of Judah and Artaxerxes probably thought that the Jews would revolt as the Egyptians by Bishlam, Mithredath, and Tabeel, sent a letter to Artaxerxes in the Aramaic language, and it was translated for the king.

⁸Rehum the governor and Shimshai the court secretary wrote the letter, telling King Artaxerxes about the situation in Jerusalem. ⁹They greeted the king for all their colleagues—the judges and local leaders, the people of Tarpel, the Persians, the Babylonians, and the people of Erech and Susa (that is, Elam). ¹⁰They also sent greetings from the rest of the people whom the great and noble Ashurbanipal had deported and relocated in Samaria and throughout the neighboring lands of the province west of the Euphrates River. ¹¹This is a copy of their letter:

¹²“The king should know that the Jews who came here to Jerusalem from Babylon are rebuilding this rebellious and evil city. They have already laid the foundation and will soon finish its walls. ¹³And the king should know that if this city is rebuilt and its walls are completed, it will be much to your disadvantage, for the Jews will then refuse to pay their tribute, customs, and tolls to you.

¹⁴“Since we are your loyal subjects and do not want to see the king dishonored in this way, we have sent the king this information. ¹⁵We suggest that a search be made in your ancestors’ records, where you will discover what a rebellious city this has been in the past. In fact, it was destroyed because of its long and troublesome history of revolt against the kings and countries who controlled it. ¹⁶We declare to the king that if this city is rebuilt and its walls are completed, the province west of the Euphrates River will be lost to you.”

¹⁷Then King Artaxerxes sent this reply:

¹⁸“The letter you sent has been translated and read to me. ¹⁹I ordered a search of the records and have found that Jerusalem has indeed been a hotbed of insurrection against many kings. In fact, rebellion and revolt are normal there! ²⁰Powerful kings have ruled over Jerusalem and the entire province west of the Euphrates River, receiving tribute, customs, and tolls. ²¹Therefore, issue orders to have these men stop their work. That city must not be rebuilt except at my express command. ²²Be diligent, and don’t neglect this matter, for we must not permit the situation to harm the king’s interests.”

²³When this letter from King Artaxerxes was read to Rehum, Shimshai, and their colleagues, they hurried to Jerusalem. Then, with a show of strength, they forced the Jews to stop building.

had. • Aramaic was the international diplomatic language of the Persian empire.

4:8–6:18 The original text of 4:8–6:18 is in Aramaic.

4:9 Adding greetings from an assortment of key political figures and local ethnic leaders would give credibility to the letter’s accusations and ensure that the message would have maximum political weight. • Judges were trusted court officials who knew the Persian laws. • Having the support of people from the Mesopotamian cities of Babylon and Erech and the Persian city of Susa would make the case against the Jews more persuasive.

4:10 Ashurbanipal (Aramaic Osnappar, another name for Ashurbanipal, 668–626 bc) had deported people from other conquered lands into the lands of Israel and Aram (see 2 Kgs 17:24–41). • The city of Samaria was the former capital of the northern kingdom of Israel. • the province west of the Euphrates River

(literally the province beyond the river; also in 4:11, 16, 17, 20) included Syria, Israel, and Judah.

4:11–22 Ezra includes a copy in Aramaic of the letter sent to Artaxerxes and his reply.

4:13 A tribute was an annual fixed tax, customs were probably sales taxes, and tolls were probably charges for using roads. Previous rulers had collected considerable revenue from the region (4:20; cp. 1 Kgs 10:14–15).

4:14 Since we are your loyal subjects: Literally Since we eat the salt of the palace. This was a metaphor for taking an oath of loyalty to the king. • The letter’s authors claimed that their only interest was to preserve the honor of the king, but they were actually grasping for power and political advantage over the Jews.

4:15–16 The Persians had access to Babylonian records, which described Jerusalem’s revolts against Nebuchadnezzar (see 2 Kgs 24:1–7). • The claim that the Persians would lose the whole province west of the Euphrates (see note on 4:10) was an exaggeration: The Jews actually comprised a small minority in that province.

4:18 The letter was translated from Aramaic to Persian, the king’s native language.

4:19–20 King Jehoiakim (609–598 bc) had rebelled against Babylon in about 601 bc, and King Zedekiah (597–586 bc) had rebelled in about 588 bc (see 2 Kgs 25:2).

4:21 except at my express command: Work on the walls remained stopped until 445 bc, when Nehemiah, Artaxerxes’ cup-bearer, gained his permission to resume reconstruction (see Neh 2:1–6).

4:23 A military unit probably forced the Jews to stop building and enforced the king’s wishes. Part of the rebuilt wall might have been torn down at this time (cp. Neh 1:3). • This verse ends the parenthetical section that began in 4:6.

God Overcomes Opposition (4:24–6:22)

The Rebuilding Resumes

²⁴So the work on the Temple of God in Jerusalem had stopped, and it remained at a standstill until the second year of the reign of King Darius of Persia.

5 At that time the prophets Haggai and Zechariah son of Iddo prophesied to the Jews in Judah and Jerusalem. They prophesied in the name of the God of Israel who was over them. ²Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jehozadak responded by starting again to rebuild the Temple of God in Jerusalem. And the prophets of God were with them and helped them.

³But Tattenai, governor of the province west of the Euphrates River, and Shethar-bozenai and their colleagues soon arrived in Jerusalem and asked, "Who gave you permission to rebuild this Temple and restore this structure?" ⁴They also asked for the names of all the men working on the Temple. ⁵But because their God was watching over them, the leaders of the Jews were not prevented from building until a report was sent to Darius and he returned his decision.

Tattenai's Letter to King Darius

⁶This is a copy of the letter that Tattenai the governor, Shethar-bozenai, and the other officials of the province west of the Euphrates River sent to King Darius:

⁷"To King Darius. Greetings.

⁸"The king should know that we went to the construction site of the Temple of the great God in the province of Judah. It is being rebuilt with specially prepared stones, and timber is being laid in its walls. The work is going forward with great energy and success.

⁹"We asked the leaders, 'Who gave you permission to rebuild this Temple and restore this structure?' ¹⁰And we demanded their names so that we could tell you who the leaders were.

¹¹"This was their answer: 'We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth,

▲ The Kings of Persia (Ezra 4:5-7)

4:24–5:5 Ezra now returns to telling about the building of the Temple in 520–515 BC.

4:24 The second year of the reign of King Darius of Persia was 520 BC. The narrative started in 4:1-5 is resumed at 4:24. The events of the following verses occurred approximately sixteen years after the events up through 4:5.

5:1 Haggai first prophesied on August

29, 520 BC (Hag 1:1). Zechariah began prophesying about two months later (Zech 1:1). The books of Haggai and Zechariah record their messages (see also 6:14).

5:2 The Jewish leaders had not led by faith (see Hag 1:1, 12). Now God's Spirit stirred them up (Hag 1:14), and they obeyed by getting to work. • Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel . . . Jeshua son of Jehoza- dak (Aramaic Jozadak, a variant spelling of Jehozadak): See note on 3:2. Zerubbabel and Jeshua figure prominently in the books of Haggai and Zechariah.

5:3 the province west of the Euphrates River: Literally the province beyond the river; also in 5:6. • Who gave you permission? Unlike the hostile opposition recorded in ch 4, this seems to have been a routine inquiry to make sure that everything was done according to official requirements.

5:5 God was watching over them: All credit goes to God's sovereign control of events, not to any human leader or prophet. God had promised that the ruins would be rebuilt (Isa 44:26).

5:6-17 Ezra includes a copy in Aramaic of Tattenai's letter to King Darius. Unlike the letter of 4:11-16, this letter was a straightforward inquiry into the validity of the Jews' activity.

5:6 other officials: A Persian term for inspectors or investigators.

5:8 the great God: This title was a Persian way of referring to an important high deity; it does not indicate that the provincial authorities believed in Israel's God.

• Following the pattern of Solomon's Temple (1 Kgs 6:36), after every three rows of prepared stones, a layer of timber was laid in its walls (see 6:4) to reduce potential damage from earthquakes.

5:11 the God of heaven: This title would be understood by the Persians: He was the universal high God, not an insignificant local deity. • a great king of Israel: Solomon (see 1 Kgs 5-8).

and we are rebuilding the Temple that was built here many years ago by a great king of Israel. ¹²But because our ancestors angered the God of heaven, he abandoned them to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, who destroyed this Temple and exiled the people to Babylonia. ¹³However, King Cyrus of Babylon, during the first year of his reign, issued a decree that the Temple of God should be rebuilt. ¹⁴King Cyrus returned the gold and silver cups that Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the Temple of God in Jerusalem and had placed in the temple of Babylon. These cups were taken from that temple and presented to a man named Sheshbazzar, whom King Cyrus appointed as governor of Judah. ¹⁵The king instructed him to return the cups to their place in Jerusalem and to rebuild the Temple of God there on its original site. ¹⁶So this Sheshbazzar came and laid the foundations of the Temple of God in Jerusalem. The people have been working on it ever since, though it is not yet completed.

¹⁷"Therefore, if it pleases the king, we request that a search be made in the royal archives of Babylon to discover whether King Cyrus ever issued a decree to rebuild God's Temple in Jerusalem. And then let the king send us his decision in this matter."

Darius Approves the Rebuilding

6 So King Darius issued orders that a search be made in the Babylonian archives, which were stored in the treasury. ²But it was at the fortress at Ecbatana in the province of Media that a scroll was found. This is what it said:

"Memorandum:

³In the first year of King Cyrus's reign, a decree was sent out concerning the Temple of God at Jerusalem.

"Let the Temple be rebuilt on the site where Jews used to offer their sacrifices, using the original foundations. Its height will be ninety feet, and its width will be ninety feet. ⁴Every three layers of specially prepared stones will be topped by a layer of timber. All expenses will be paid by the royal treasury. ⁵Furthermore, the gold and silver cups, which were taken to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar from the Temple of God in Jerusalem, must be returned to Jerusalem and put back where they belong. Let them be taken back to the Temple of God."

⁶So King Darius sent this message:

"Now therefore, Tattenai, governor of the province west of the Euphrates River, and Shethar-bozenai, and your colleagues and other officials west of the Euphrates River—stay away from there! ⁷Do not disturb the construction of the Temple of God. Let it be rebuilt on its original site, and do not hinder the governor of Judah and the elders of the Jews in their work.

⁸Moreover, I hereby decree that you are to help these elders of the Jews as they rebuild this Temple of God. You must pay the full construction costs, without delay, from my taxes collected in the province west of the Euphrates River so that the work will not be interrupted.

⁹Give the priests in Jerusalem whatever is needed in the way of young bulls, rams, and male lambs for the burnt offerings presented to the God of

5:13 King Cyrus of Persia is here identified as the king of Babylon because Persia had conquered the Babylonian empire in 539 bc. • a decree: See 1:1-4.

5:14-15 The Jews provided detailed information that the Persians could check for accuracy (see 1:7-11).

5:16 Most likely, Sheshbazzar began the work and Zerubbabel finished it (see note on 1:8).

6:2 The fortress at Ecbatana, the king's summer home, was located about 300 miles northeast of Babylon. This suggests that Cyrus wrote the scroll in the summer of 538 bc. • Media was a mountainous area north of Persia and east of Assyria (see map, Ezra Introduction, p. 786). This area is now inhabited by the Kurds (descendants of the Medes). • Texts introduced by the term Memorandum tended to be summaries that listed the main facts of an event for the royal archives (cp. 1:9-10).

6:3 This decree is recorded in 1:2-4. • The Temple's height will be ninety feet, and its width will be ninety feet: Hebrew Its height will be 60 cubits [27.6 meters], and its width will be 60 cubits. It is commonly held that this verse should be emended to read: "Its height will be 30 cubits [45 feet or 13.8 meters], its length will be 60 cubits [90 feet or 27.6 meters], and its width will be 20 cubits [30 feet or 9.2 meters]"; cp. 1 Kgs 6:2. The emendation regarding the width is supported by the Syriac version. The emendations would make these measurements match those of Solomon's Temple (1 Kgs 6:2, 17, 20). But the larger measurements given here might represent the maximum size that the Persians would fund.

6:4 Every three layers . . . timber: See note on 5:8. • All expenses will be paid by the royal treasury. Although it seems surprising that the Persians would do this, it was consistent with Persian practice elsewhere (e.g., at Sais and Elephantine in Egypt, and at Ur in Mesopotamia). Such generosity was designed to ensure loyalty to Persia.

6:6 the province west of the Euphrates River: Literally the province beyond the river; also in 6:6b, 8, 13.

6:8 You must pay the full construction costs: This command fulfilled God's promise through Haggai (Hag 2:7).

heaven. And without fail, provide them with as much wheat, salt, wine, and olive oil as they need each day. ¹⁰Then they will be able to offer acceptable sacrifices to the God of heaven and pray for the welfare of the king and his sons.

¹¹"Those who violate this decree in any way will have a beam pulled from their house. Then they will be lifted up and impaled on it, and their house will be reduced to a pile of rubble. ¹²May the God who has chosen the city of Jerusalem as the place to honor his name destroy any king or nation that violates this command and destroys this Temple.

"I, Darius, have issued this decree. Let it be obeyed with all diligence."

The Temple Is Dedicated

¹³Tattenai, governor of the province west of the Euphrates River, and Shethar-bozenai and their colleagues complied at once with the command of King Darius. ¹⁴So the Jewish elders continued their work, and they were greatly encouraged by the preaching of the prophets Haggai and Zechariah son of Iddo. The Temple was finally finished, as had been commanded by the God of Israel and decreed by Cyrus, Darius, and Artaxerxes, the kings of Persia. ¹⁵The Temple was completed on March 12, during the sixth year of King Darius's reign.

¹⁶The Temple of God was then dedicated with great joy by the people of Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the rest of the people who had returned from exile. ¹⁷During the dedication ceremony for the Temple of God, 100 young bulls, 200 rams, and 400 male lambs were sacrificed. And 12 male goats were presented as a sin offering for the twelve tribes of Israel. ¹⁸Then the priests and Levites were divided into their various divisions to serve at the Temple of God in Jerusalem, as prescribed in the Book of Moses.

Passover Is Celebrated

¹⁹On April 21 the returned exiles celebrated ^aPassover. ²⁰The priests and Levites had purified themselves and were ceremonially clean. So they slaughtered the Passover lamb for all the returned exiles, for their fellow priests, and for themselves. ²¹The Passover meal was eaten by the people of Israel who had returned from exile and by the others in the land who had turned from their corrupt practices to worship the LORD, the God of Israel. ²²Then they celebrated the ^bFestival of Unleavened Bread for seven days. There was great joy throughout the land because the LORD had caused the king of Assyria to be favorable to them, so that he helped them to rebuild the Temple of God, the God of Israel.

6:9 the God of heaven: See note on 5:11.

6:10 pray for the welfare of the king and his sons: In the Cyrus Cylinder (a Persian account of Cyrus's defeat of Babylon), King Cyrus requests, "May all the gods whom I have resettled in their sacred cities ask [the Babylonian gods] Bel and Nebo daily for a long life for me" (see 1:1-4).

6:11-12 Those who violate this decree: Inscriptions and official decrees often included curses on those who opposed the will of the king (cp. Dan 2:5). • The Aramaic translated they will be lifted up and impaled on it means that the person would be executed by being impaled on the beam; this wasn't merely discipline. • a pile of rubble: Literally a dunghill.

6:14 the prophets Haggai and Zechariah: See note on 5:1.

6:15 on March 12: Literally on the third day of the month Adar, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. A number of events in Ezra can be cross-checked with dates in surviving Persian records and related accurately to our modern calendar. This day was March 12, 515 BC. Thus Israel's second Temple was finished approximately seventy years after its destruction by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 BC. Herod the Great remodeled and expanded this Temple at the time of Christ. The Temple stood for approximately 585 years until the Roman army of Titus destroyed it in AD 70.

6:17 12 male goats . . . a sin offering: This blood sacrifice brought God's forgiveness for unintentional sins, ceremonial uncleanness, or thoughtless wrong acts (Lev 4-5). Similar sacrifices were offered when Moses dedicated the Tabernacle (Num 7) and when Solomon dedicated the first Temple (2 Chr 7:1, 4). • for the twelve tribes of Israel: Although most returnees were from Judah and Benjamin (1:5; 4:1), people from the priestly tribe of Levi are also mentioned (1:5; 2:40, 70). It is also likely that there were returnees from some of the ten northern tribes of Israel. Even if all tribes were not physically represented, the twelve sacrifices emphasized the desire for God to maintain his covenant relationship with all Israel.

6:18 prescribed in the Book of Moses: See Exod 29; Lev 8; Num 3. The Temple personnel operated according to the organization instituted by David (1 Chr 23-27). • This verse concludes the Aramaic section that began in 4:8.

6:19 On April 21: Literally On the fourteenth day of the first month, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was April 21, 515 BC; also see note on 6:15. • The Passover celebration commemorates God's sparing of the firstborn of each family that put blood on the doorposts of their home (Exod 12-13). This occasion was the first time any of these people had celebrated a joyous national festival.

6:20 purified themselves: They acted in accord with the law of Moses (see Lev 9; Num 8; 2 Chr 29).

6:21 and by the others in the land who had turned from their corrupt practices: The exclusion of foreigners in 4:1-5 was due to their pagan religious practices, not their ethnicity (see also 9:1-2).

6:22 Passover was the beginning of the seven-day Festival of Unleavened Bread (see Exod 12:15-20; Lev 23:6-8), a time of feasting in remembrance of the unleavened bread eaten when Israel left Egypt. • the Lord had caused: Although Darius I was the powerful king of a vast empire, God directed his heart to help rebuild the Temple of God. • King Darius of Persia is here identified as the king of Assyria because Persia had conquered the Babylonian empire, which included the earlier Assyrian empire.

2. EZRA RETURNS TO TEACH GOD'S LAW(7:1–10:44)God Brings Ezra to Jerusalem (7:1–8:36)Ezra Is Introduced

7 Many years later, during the reign of King Artaxerxes of Persia, there was a man named Ezra. He was the son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, ²son of Shalum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, ³son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth, ⁴son of Zerariah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki, ⁵son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the high priest. ⁶This Ezra was a scribe who was well versed in the Law of Moses, which the LORD, the God of Israel, had given to the people of Israel. He came up to Jerusalem from Babylon, and the king gave him everything he asked for, because the gracious hand of the LORD his God was on him. ⁷Some of the people of Israel, as well as some of the priests, Levites, singers, gatekeepers, and Temple servants, traveled up to Jerusalem with him in the seventh year of King Artaxerxes' reign.

⁸Ezra arrived in Jerusalem in August of that year. ⁹He had arranged to leave Babylon on April 8, the first day of the new year, and he arrived at Jerusalem on August 4, for

Ezra was a priest and scribe (7:11-12; cp. Neh 8:2, 9) of the high priestly line of Zadok (7:1-5). He was a leader in Judah following the Jews' return from exile. As a scribe, Ezra was not just a copyist but a disciplined student of God's laws (7:6) who was qualified to teach, preach, and interpret the Scriptures.

As an important official who assisted the king with Jewish affairs in the Persian empire, Ezra visited Jerusalem about 458 BC, bringing articles for the Temple and the mission of establishing God's laws and the laws of Persia. One of his first reforms was to confront the sin of intermarriage with non-believers (9:1–10:44). Later, after the city walls were rebuilt in 445 BC (Neh 6:15), Ezra led the community to obey God's law more fully (Neh 8:13-15).

Ezra honored God through his handling of finances. The Persian king trusted Ezra's judgment (7:15-18) and allowed him to ask for more money when needed (7:21-22). Ezra gave others the responsibility for financial affairs whenever he could and required strict financial integrity of them (8:24-30). He identified certain financial resources as holy and belonging to God.

Ezra humbled himself before God when the people began their journey (8:21-23), when he found out about their unholy marriages (9:5-15), and when he gathered those who must divorce their unbelieving wives (10:6). He always recognized that God's gracious hand—not his own ability or wisdom—enabled good things to happen (7:6, 9, 28; 8:18, 22, 31; 9:8-9). He studied and lived by God's word and taught others to follow what God revealed (7:10). He was a teacher and servant-leader, not a self-important official who lorded it over other people.

Ezra's piety and dedication through prayer and fasting put his reforming zeal in proper spiritual perspective. He set the pattern for life in the postexilic Jewish community, making God's word and worship central priorities.

7:1-5 Ezra highlights his standing by listing his own genealogy through Zadok, priest under Solomon (1 Kgs 2:35), all the way back to Aaron the high priest, Moses' brother. This list is clearly abbreviated: It has only sixteen generations from Aaron to eighty years after the Exile, while 1 Chr 6:3-15 has twenty-three generations from Aaron to the Exile.

7:1 Many years later: Ezra arrived in Jerusalem in 458 BC (7:7-8), about fifty-seven years after the dedication of the second Temple. Ezra has been recording events that occurred before his time, but now he begins to record his own history. • Artaxerxes I reigned 465–424 BC. • son: Or descendant; see 1 Chr 6:14. In biblical genealogies, the Hebrew word translated son often means descendant. • Seraiah was high priest under Zedekiah; he was executed by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 BC (2 Kgs 25:18-21).

7:3 son of Meraioth: Or descendant of Meraioth; see 1 Chr 6:6-10.

7:5 the high priest: Or the first priest.

7:6 Ezra came from Babylon, where there was still a substantial and prosperous Jewish community. • The Hebrew term translated scribe is sometimes translated as "secretary." It describes an educated and reliable individual who transcribed and interpreted official documents. Accordingly, many scholars think that Ezra functioned like a "Secretary of State for Jewish Affairs" in the Persian government. Here, however, the emphasis is on his scribal role of studying and teaching from the five Books of Moses.

7:8 in August: Literally in the fifth month. This month in the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred within the months of August and September 458 BC.

7:9 on April 8, the first day of the new year: Hebrew on the first day of the first month, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was April 8, 458 BC; also see note on 6:15. Ezra and his entourage did not actually leave until April 19, 458 BC (8:31). the gracious hand of his God was on him. ¹⁰This was because Ezra had determined to study and obey the Law of the LORD and to teach those decrees and regulations to the people of Israel.

Artaxerxes Outlines Ezra's Responsibilities

¹¹King Artaxerxes had given a copy of the following letter to Ezra, the priest and scribe who studied and taught the commands and decrees of the LORD to Israel:

¹²"From Artaxerxes, the king of kings, to Ezra the priest, the teacher of the law of the God of heaven. Greetings.

¹³"I decree that any of the people of Israel in my kingdom, including the priests and Levites, may volunteer to return to Jerusalem with you. ¹⁴I and my council of seven hereby instruct you to conduct an inquiry into the situation in Judah and Jerusalem, based on your God's law, which is in your hand. ¹⁵We also commission you to take with you silver and gold, which we are freely presenting as an offering to the God of Israel who lives in Jerusalem.

¹⁶"Furthermore, you are to take any silver and gold that you may obtain from the province of Babylon, as well as the voluntary offerings of the people and the priests that are presented for the Temple of their God in Jerusalem. ¹⁷These donations are to be used specifically for the purchase of bulls, rams, male lambs, and the appropriate grain offerings and liquid offerings, all of which will be offered on the altar of the Temple of your God in Jerusalem. ¹⁸Any silver and gold that is left over may be used in whatever way you and your colleagues feel is the will of your God.

¹⁹"But as for the cups we are entrusting to you for the service of the Temple of your God, deliver them all to the God of Jerusalem. ²⁰If you need anything else for your God's Temple or for any similar needs, you may take it from the royal treasury.

Temple Dedication (6:14-22)

Exod 40:1-38
1 Kgs 7:51-9:9
Zech 4:1-10
Hag 1:8; 2:7-8
Rev 21:1-27

The dedication of Israel's second Temple on March 12, 515 BC, was the most significant event in the lives of those who returned from Babylonian exile. Now they could worship and praise God in the same way their ancestors had worshiped before the Exile, and God's requirements for covenant relationship with him could be fulfilled. The high priest could go into God's presence to sprinkle the blood once a year on the Day of Atonement for the nation's sins. After seventy years of estrangement from God, the covenant community was now restored.

This joyous event did not come without difficulty. With God's help, the returned exiles overcame sixteen years of opposition from the people who had inhabited their land and from Persian officials. Although their enemies made every attempt to discourage them, the Israelites completed the job of rebuilding the Temple and reestablishing worship through patience, persistence, and strong prophetic encouragement (5:1-5; 6:14).

The dedication of the Temple demonstrates that God can accomplish his will through a small group of people who set their priorities on pleasing him and who trust him to provide the resources to fulfill his promises (6:8; Hag 2:7-8). Instead of focusing on what little they had, the people of God trusted in what he could provide. They were dedicated to glorifying God and maintaining their relationship with him. God proved that he was sovereignly in control of nations and could change the hearts of the leaders of those nations to accomplish his will (5:5; 6:6-10, 22).

• To make the 800-mile journey in four months, Ezra's party would have walked an average of about ten miles per day, five days per week. Ezra knew that his success was attributable only to the gracious hand of his God (see also 7:6, 28; 8:22, 31).

7:10 Ezra had three life goals: (1) to study God's word, (2) to obey what God said, and (3) to teach . . . the people of Israel. He allowed God's word to transform his character and behavior so that he could influence the lives of others.

7:11-26 In this letter, King Artaxerxes granted Ezra the power and responsibility to evaluate the situation in Jerusalem (7:14), present freewill offerings to God (7:15-20), obtain supplies and finances from local authorities (7:21-24), and institute judicial reforms (7:25-26). • The original text of 7:12-26 is in Aramaic.

7:12 God of heaven: See note on 5:11.

7:14 I and my council of seven: The Greek historian Xenophon knew of this council (Xenophon, Anabasis 1.6.4-5), and Esth 1:14 lists the names of the seven princes of Xerxes, Artaxerxes' father. • Your God's law: The word translated law in this verse is the Aramaic word dath rather than the Hebrew torah (7:10), suggesting that a Persian wrote this letter (7:11-26).

7:15 who lives in Jerusalem: God's Temple was located there. Artaxerxes probably thought that he was helping rebuild the house of Jerusalem's local deity (cp. 1 Kgs 8:27; Ps 24:1).

7:16 Like Cyrus (1:4, 6), Artaxerxes allowed Jews in Babylon to send freewill offerings to Jerusalem. A sizeable sum was collected from the king and his council as well as from Jewish contributors (8:25-27).

²¹"I, Artaxerxes the king, hereby send this decree to all the treasurers in the province west of the Euphrates River: 'You are to give Ezra, the priest and teacher of the law of the God of heaven, whatever he requests of you. ²²You are to give him up to 7,500 pounds of silver, 500 bushels of wheat, 550 gallons of wine, 550 gallons of olive oil, and an unlimited supply of salt. ²³Be careful to provide whatever the God of heaven demands for his Temple, for why should we risk bringing God's anger against the realm of the king and his sons? ²⁴I also decree that no priest, Levite, singer, gatekeeper, Temple servant, or other worker in this Temple of God will be required to pay tribute, customs, or tolls of any kind.'

²⁵"And you, Ezra, are to use the wisdom your God has given you to appoint magistrates and judges who know your God's laws to govern all the people in the province west of the Euphrates River. Teach the law to anyone who does not know it. ²⁶Anyone who refuses to obey the law of your God and the law of the king will be punished immediately, either by death, banishment, confiscation of goods, or imprisonment."

Ezra Praises the Lord

²⁷Praise the LORD, the God of our ancestors, who made the king want to beautify the Temple of the LORD in Jerusalem! ²⁸And praise him for demonstrating such unfailing love to me by honoring me before the king, his council, and all his mighty nobles! I felt encouraged because the gracious hand of the LORD my God was on me. And I gathered some of the leaders of Israel to return with me to Jerusalem.

Exiles Who Returned with Ezra

8 Here is a list of the family leaders and the genealogies of those who came with me from Babylon during the reign of King Artaxerxes:

- ² From the family of Phinehas: Gershom.
From the family of Ithamar: Daniel.
From the family of David: Hattush, ^{3a} a descendant of Shecaniah.
From the family of Parosh: Zechariah and 150 other men were registered.
- ⁴ From the family of Pahath-moab: Eliehoenai son of Zerariah and 200 other men.
- ⁵ From the family of Zattu: Shecaniah son of Jahaziel and 300 other men.
- ⁶ From the family of Adin: Ebed son of Jonathan and 50 other men.
- ⁷ From the family of Elam: Jeshaiah son of Athaliah and 70 other men.
- ⁸ From the family of Shephatiah: Zebadiah son of Michael and 80 other men.
- ⁹ From the family of Joab: Obadiah son of Jehiel and 218 other men.
- ¹⁰ From the family of Bani: Shelomith son of Josiphiah and 160 other men.
- ¹¹ From the family of Bebai: Zechariah son of Bebai and 28 other men.
- ¹² From the family of Azgad: Johanan son of Hakkatan and 110 other men.
- ¹³ From the family of Adonikam, who came later: Eliphelet, Jeuel, Shemaiah, and 60 other men.
- ¹⁴ From the family of Bigvai: Uthai, Zaccur, and 70 other men.

Ezra's Journey to Jerusalem

¹⁵I assembled the exiles at the Ahava Canal, and we camped there for three days while I went over the lists of the people and the priests who had arrived. I found that not

7:23 the God of heaven: This is the title by which the Jews had referred to the Lord (5:11-12) and that Cyrus had used (1:2). The Persian king probably believed, like others in the ancient Near East, that each country's god or gods controlled their territory. Artaxerxes did not want to risk bringing God's anger against the realm of the king and undermine the peace of his empire by failing to provide for the God of Jerusalem (7:19) the worship that he required.

7:24 The tax exemptions given to Temple personnel in Jerusalem were similar to the conciliatory gestures made to those in other nations.

7:25-26 Ezra was to teach God's laws and govern the area occupied by the Jews in accordance with God's laws and the law of the king—i.e., Persian civil law.

8:1-14 This list of the family leaders designates those who stepped out in faith and traveled with Ezra back to Jerusalem to join the Jewish community there. It lists fifteen families represented by 1,515 men. Including women and children, the total could have been around 5,000 people.

8:10 Bani: As in some Greek manuscripts (see also 1 Esdras 8:36); Hebrew lacks Bani.

one Levite had volunteered to come along. ¹⁶So I sent for Eliezer, Ariel, Shemaiah, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah, and Meshullam, who were leaders of the people. I also sent for Joiarib and Elnathan, who were men of discernment. ¹⁷I sent them to Iddo, the leader of the Levites at Casiphia, to ask him and his relatives and the Temple servants to send us ministers for the Temple of God at Jerusalem.

¹⁸Since the gracious hand of our God was on us, they sent us a man named Sherebiah, along with eighteen of his sons and brothers. He was a very astute man and a descendant of Mahli, who was a descendant of Levi son of Israel. ¹⁹They also sent Hashabiah, together with Jeshaiiah from the descendants of Merari, and twenty of his sons and brothers, ²⁰and 220 Temple servants. The Temple servants were assistants to the Levites—a group of Temple workers first instituted by King David and his officials. They were all listed by name.

²¹And there by the Ahava Canal, I gave orders for all of us to fast and humble ourselves before our God. We prayed that he would give us a safe journey and protect us, our children, and our goods as we traveled. ²²For I was ashamed to ask the king for soldiers and horsemen to accompany us and protect us from enemies along the way. After all, we had told the king, "Our God's hand of protection is on all who worship him, but his fierce anger rages against those who abandon him." ²³So we fasted and earnestly prayed that our God would take care of us, and he heard our prayer.

²⁴I appointed twelve leaders of the priests—Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten other priests—²⁵to be in charge of transporting the silver, the gold, the gold bowls, and the other items that the king, his council, his officials, and all the people of Israel had presented for the Temple of God. ²⁶I weighed the treasure as I gave it to them and found the totals to be as follows:

24 tons of silver,
7,500 pounds of silver articles,
7,500 pounds of gold,

²⁷ 20 gold bowls, equal in value to 1,000 gold coins,
2 fine articles of polished bronze, as precious as gold.

²⁸And I said to these priests, "You and these treasures have been set apart as holy to the LORD. This silver and gold is a voluntary offering to the LORD, the God of our ancestors. ²⁹Guard these treasures well until you present them to the leading priests, the Levites, and the leaders of Israel, who will weigh them at the storerooms of the LORD's Temple in Jerusalem." ³⁰So the priests and the Levites accepted the task of transporting these treasures of silver and gold to the Temple of our God in Jerusalem.

³¹We broke camp at the Ahava Canal on April 19 and started off to Jerusalem. And the gracious hand of our God protected us and saved us from enemies and bandits along the way. ³²So we arrived safely in Jerusalem, where we rested for three days.

³³On the fourth day after our arrival, the silver, gold, and other valuables were weighed at the Temple of our God and entrusted to Meremoth son of Uriah the priest and to Eleazar son of Phinehas, along with Jozabad son of Jeshua and Noadiah son of Levite had volunteered: Only a few Levites had come earlier with Sheshbazzar (2:40). It is unclear why so few Levites returned to Jerusalem.

8:16-17 The Hebrew term translated men of discernment refers to those who could interpret and explain the Torah. These men were probably respected because of their expertise in Scripture (cp. Neh 8:8-9). Ezra commissioned them to use their influence to recruit more Levites.

8:18 the gracious hand of our God: Ezra, his leaders, and Iddo all took action to rectify the problem, but ultimately everything was accomplished because of God's grace. Only thirty-eight Levites (including the leaders) and 220 Temple servants responded. • Israel is the name that God gave to Jacob (Gen 32:28).

8:20 first instituted by King David and his officials: See 1 Chr 24–26.

8:21 fast and humble ourselves: Ezra recognized the need to look to God for the protection, safety, and health of 5,000 people going 800 miles on foot. Robbers might be hiding in the hills, there was danger in crossing rivers, and people could get sick.

8:22 ashamed: Ezra had openly proclaimed his faith in God's ability to protect the Israelites on their journey. Asking the king for help now would suggest that Ezra did not really believe in God's ability to provide. • horsemen: Or charioteers.

8:23 fasted . . . prayed: In the OT, fasting often accompanied prayer as a demonstration of need before God (1 Kgs 21:9; 2 Chr 20:3; Neh 1:4; Dan 9:3).

8:25 The items that the leaders were in charge of transporting included offerings for the Temple and sacrifices. Because these gifts belonged to God and were holy (8:28), it was necessary that the priests care for them.

8:26-27 The Persians and supportive Jews had given an enormous amount of money. It was a huge risk to transport it without a royal escort. • 24 tons: Hebrew 650 talents [22 metric tons]. • 7,500 pounds: Hebrew 100 talents [3,400 kilograms]. • 1,000 gold coins: Hebrew 1,000 darics, about 19 pounds or 8.6 kilograms in weight.

8:31-32 We broke camp . . . on April 19: Literally on the twelfth day of the first month, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was April 19, 458 BC; also see note on 6:15. It took twelve days to get organized, to encourage some Levites to join them, and to pray for God's protection before Ezra could actually get the people moving toward Jerusalem (see 7:9).

Binnui—both of whom were Levites. ³⁴Everything was accounted for by number and weight, and the total weight was officially recorded.

³⁵Then the exiles who had come out of captivity sacrificed burnt offerings to the God of Israel. They presented twelve bulls for all the people of Israel, as well as ninety-six rams and seventy-seven male lambs. They also offered twelve male goats as a sin offering. All this was given as a burnt offering to the LORD. ³⁶The king's decrees were delivered to his highest officers and the governors of the province west of the Euphrates River, who then cooperated by supporting the people and the Temple of God.

Ezra Intercedes for the Holy Race (9:1–10:44)
Ezra's Prayer concerning Pagan Intermarriage

9 When these things had been done, the Jewish leaders came to me and said, "Many of the people of Israel, and even some of the priests and Levites, have not kept themselves separate from the other peoples living in the land. They have taken up the detestable practices of the Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites. ²For the men of Israel have married women from these people and have taken them as wives for their sons. So the holy race has become polluted by these mixed marriages. Worse yet, the leaders and officials have led the way in this outrage."

³When I heard this, I tore my cloak and my shirt, pulled hair from my head and beard, and sat down utterly shocked. ⁴Then all who trembled at the words of the God of Israel came and sat with me because of this outrage committed by the returned exiles. And I sat there utterly appalled until the time of the evening sacrifice.

⁵At the time of the sacrifice, I stood up from where I had sat in mourning with my clothes torn. I fell to my knees and lifted my hands to the LORD my God. ⁶I prayed,

"O my God, I am utterly ashamed; I blush to lift up my face to you. For our sins are piled higher than our heads, and our guilt has reached to the heavens. ⁷From the days of our ancestors until now, we have been steeped in sin. That is why we and our kings and our priests have been at the mercy of the pagan kings of the land. We have been killed, captured, robbed, and disgraced, just as we are today.

⁸But now we have been given a brief moment of grace, for the LORD our God has allowed a few of us to survive as a remnant. He has given us security in this holy place. Our God has brightened our eyes and granted us some relief from our slavery. ⁹For we were slaves, but in his unfailing love our God did not abandon us in our slavery. Instead, he caused the kings of Persia to treat us favorably. He revived us so we could rebuild the

It would have been a moving spiritual experience for them to confess their sins and dedicate their lives to God in this way. For details on the burnt offering, see Lev 1.

8:36 the province west of the Euphrates River: Literally the province beyond the river.

9:1–10:44 Ezra confronted the problem of intermarriage with idolatrous foreigners. The Jewish leaders had allowed this practice, though the early settlers had committed to keep separate from pagan influences (4:1-5). Ezra interceded on behalf of the nation and helped those convicted of their sins to make things right.

9:1-2 The events that follow took place approximately four months after Ezra's arrival (cp. 7:9; 10:9). • Intermarriage with pagan foreigners was dangerous because Israelites could end up worshipping other gods and accepting the detestable practices of other religions (cp. 4:1-5; Deut 7:1-4). • the holy race has become polluted: Literally the holy seed has intermingled itself. Because Israel was a holy covenant nation (Exod 19:6), it was not to be involved with pagan practices (Lev 19:2-4; 20:6-8, 22-26). Therefore, the people were to avoid marriages with those who could influence Israelites to embrace such practices. When the religious and political leaders and officials intermarried with foreigners, they were in danger of leading others astray and destroying the unique identity of Israel as a holy people.

9:3 utterly shocked: Cp. Gen 37:34; 2 Kgs 22:11; Job 1:20.

9:4 The time of the evening sacrifice was around 3:00 p.m.

9:5 Ezra's inner humility before God was consistent with his falling on his knees. His outstretched hands demonstrated his pleading with God to intervene.

9:6-15 Ezra's prayer provides a model for intercessory prayer (cp. Neh 1:5-11; Dan 9:4-19). It includes confessing sin (9:6-7), remembering God's past grace (9:8-9), admitting that the people have ignored God (9:10-12), and recognizing their unworthiness (9:13-15).

9:6 I am utterly ashamed . . . our sins are piled higher than our heads: Although he was not one of the offending parties, Ezra personally identified with his people (see "Community Identity" at Lev 4:3, 13-21, p. 199).

9:7 Ezra forthrightly summarizes Israel's past history. The people and their leaders had sinned and were justly punished. • just as we are today: The effects of Israel's punishment were still evident in Jerusalem at this time.

9:8-9 God's abundant grace and unfailing love should affect how people respond to him (cp. Deut 30:1-5). After all that God had done for the remnant, it was shameful that they were so ready to betray him. • the kings of Persia to treat us favorably: Babylon and Assyria had tortured and exiled their enemies (2 Kgs 17, 25), but Persia treated exiled

The People Confess Their Sin

10 While Ezra prayed and made this ‘confession, weeping and lying face down on the ground in front of the Temple of God, a very large crowd of people from Israel—men, women, and children—gathered

1 Cor 7:10-16
Heb 11:31

God had warned his people not to intermarry with unbelieving foreigners (Deut 7:1-6). The sin was not that they married people from another country or race but that they married people committed to another religion. Moses had married a Cushite woman (Num 12:1), and other foreigners had joined Israel through marriage, notably Rahab the Canaanite (Josh 2:6; Heb 11:31) and Ruth the Moabite (Ruth 4). These women embraced faith in the Lord, and they were blessed. On the other hand, Solomon had taken many foreign wives, and their devotion to other religions led him into idolatry, just as the Lord had warned (1 Kgs 11:1-5).

The marriage covenant is sacred, but it was even more important for Israel to remain faithful to the Lord’s covenant with them as a people. Mixed marriages would produce children who were not fully committed to Israel’s faith, having been influenced by their mothers’ idolatrous beliefs. This compromise would lead Israel right back to where they were before the Exile—to wholesale unfaithfulness to God and wholehearted embracing of false religions (see Judg 3:3-7; 14:1-9; 1 Kgs 11:1-8; 2 Kgs 17:7-17).

Ezra’s solution is not prescriptive for believers today. In the new covenant under Christ, the faith of a believer sanctifies his or her marriage and children, so marriage to an unbeliever does not threaten the identity or purity of God’s people (1 Cor 7:14-16). The apostle Paul realized that divorce might occur when believers and unbelievers married, but he did not encourage believers in that situation to seek a divorce (1 Cor 7:10-13). Certainly, the wise policy to avoid these problems is to heed Paul’s advice not to marry an unbeliever in the first place. God’s people need to remain separated from what is unholy: “How can righteousness be a partner with wickedness? How can light live with darkness? What harmony can there be between Christ and the devil? How can a believer be a partner with an unbeliever?” (2 Cor 6:14-15). But those who are married to an unbeliever today have God’s assurance that he can use that difficult situation for his glory (see also 1 Pet 3:1-2).

people kindly and returned them to their homelands (see 1:1-3). • protective wall: This phrase refers to God’s presence protecting the nation of Judah, not the physical walls of Jerusalem, which were rebuilt several years later by Nehemiah.

9:11-12 Your servants the prophets warned us: God had clearly revealed what he expected from his people (see Deut 7:3-4; Mal 2:10-12) and had promised great blessings if they followed his covenant stipulations (see Lev 26:1-13; Deut 28:1-14; Jer 32:36–33:18; Ezek 37:15-28; Hos 14:1-8).

9:14 Won’t your anger be enough to destroy us? The sin of intermarriage with non-believers was so serious that they had no hope of survival if they did not repent.

9:15 you are just: God’s anger with sin is based on his justice and holiness.

10:1 Ezra’s genuine mourning in response to his people’s sin moved many of them to join him.

and wept bitterly with him. ²Then Shecaniah son of Jehiel, a descendant of Elam, said to Ezra, "We have been unfaithful to our God, for we have married these pagan women of the land. But in spite of this there is hope for Israel. ³Let us now make a ⁴covenant with our God to divorce our pagan wives and to send them away with their children. We will follow the advice given by you and by the others who respect the commands of our God. Let it be done according to the Law of God. ⁴Get up, for it is your duty to tell us how to proceed in setting things straight. We are behind you, so be strong and take action."

⁵So Ezra stood up and demanded that the leaders of the priests and the Levites and all the people of Israel swear that they would do as Shecaniah had said. And they all swore a solemn oath. ⁶Then Ezra left the front of the Temple of God and went to the room of Jehohanan son of Eliashib. He spent the night there without eating or drinking anything. He was still in ⁷mourning because of the unfaithfulness of the returned exiles.

⁷Then a proclamation was made throughout Judah and Jerusalem that all the exiles should come to Jerusalem. ⁸Those who failed to come within three days would, if the leaders and elders so decided, forfeit all their property and be expelled from the assembly of the exiles.

⁹Within three days, all the people of Judah and Benjamin had gathered in Jerusalem. This took place on December 19, and all the people were sitting in the square before the Temple of God. They were trembling both because of the seriousness of the matter and because it was raining. ¹⁰Then

Ezra the priest stood and said to them: "You have committed a terrible sin. By marrying pagan women, you have increased Israel's guilt. ¹¹So now confess your sin to the LORD, the God of your ancestors, and do what he demands. Separate yourselves from the people of the land and from these pagan women."

¹²Then the whole assembly raised their voices and answered, "Yes, you are right; we must do as you say!" ¹³Then they added, "This isn't something that can be done in a day or two, for many of us are involved in this extremely sinful affair. And this is the rainy season, so we cannot stay out here much longer. ¹⁴Let our leaders act on behalf of us all. Let everyone who has a pagan wife come at a scheduled time, accompanied by the leaders and judges of his city, so that the fierce anger of our God concerning this affair may be turned away from us."

¹⁶So this was the plan they followed. Ezra selected leaders to represent their families, designating each of the representatives by name. On December 29, the leaders sat down to investigate the matter. ¹⁷By March 27, the first day of the new year, they had finished dealing with all the men who had married pagan wives.

10:2 Shecaniah was the first person brave enough to publicly admit that he had been unfaithful to God. Admission of guilt gives the hope of forgiveness for sin.

10:3 A covenant is a binding agreement, in this case specifically to divorce . . . pagan wives that the people of Israel had inappropriately married. By taking this action, they would renew their commitment to the Sinai covenant. • Women were generally given custody of their children when a marriage failed (cp. Hagar and Ishmael, Gen 21:14).

10:4 it is your duty: As an expert in the law (see 7:10), Ezra was responsible for leading the people to a God-honoring solution to the problem of intermarriage. Because the law of Moses did not contain explicit directions for divorcing pagan wives, Ezra needed to develop a plan consistent with the requirements of Scripture and fair to the participants.

10:5 The solemn oath involved both a promise to take action and a self-imposed curse for failure to do what was promised (see Ruth 1:16-17; 1 Sam 14:24-28).

10:6 He spent the night: As in parallel text at 1 Esdras 9:2; Hebrew reads He went.

10:8 if the leaders and elders so decided: It was reasonable for Ezra to add this exception clause because it might simply be impossible for some people to come to Jerusalem to participate in settling this matter.

10:9 on December 19: Literally on the twentieth day of the ninth month, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was December 19, 458 BC; also see note on 6:15. The cold and wet weather made an outdoor meeting uncomfortable.

10:15 It is unclear why these four people opposed the plan. Perhaps they wanted a stricter penalty, or perhaps they or members of their families did not want to divorce their foreign wives. That there were only four dissenters shows the overwhelming support the policy had gained among the rest of the exiles. Sadly, a few years later, a similar problem of intermarriage with pagan wives created another crisis within the community (Neh 9-10).

10:16 On December 29: Literally On the first day of the tenth month, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was December 29, 458 BC; also see note on 6:15.

THE BOOK OF Nehemiah

Nehemiah left a comfortable job as an assistant to the king of Persia in order to help the demoralized people of Jerusalem. His new work involved motivating the people to rebuild the city's walls in spite of their neighbors' opposition. Nehemiah's work was not just with bricks and mortar. He also mediated a financial crisis, initiated religious reforms with the help of Ezra the scribe, and reorganized civic responsibilities in Jerusalem. Nehemiah demonstrated that with faith, prayer, integrity, and God's help, God's servants can succeed.

SETTING

After the Jews had spent several decades in exile in Babylon, God caused the Persian king Cyrus to decree in 538 BC that they could return to their homeland to rebuild their sacred Temple (Ezra 1:2-4). About 50,000 people returned to Jerusalem at that time. After arriving, they built an altar and joyfully worshiped God (Ezra 3:1-13).

When they started rebuilding the rest of the Temple, the Jews were threatened by local people who had settled in the city. These opponents turned the Persian authorities against the Jews (Ezra 4:1-5). After fifteen years of frustration, work on the Temple finally began again during the reign of Darius I (521-486 BC), primarily through the prophetic encouragement of Haggai and Zechariah (Ezra 5:1-5). This time, the Persians fully supported the rebuilding of the Temple (Ezra 6:1-12).

About sixty years later, in 458 BC, Ezra the scribe brought a group of several thousand pilgrims back to Jerusalem (Ezra 7:1-8:36). Before long, he learned that some of the leaders and priests had married wives who did not worship Israel's God. Ezra saw this as a threat to the unity and purity of the nation, and he knew it would eventually cause God to punish the people with another exile from the land (Ezra 9:1-15).

◀ Judea during Nehemiah's Time, 445-433 BC. By the time Nehemiah traveled to JERUSALEM in 445 BC, two earlier waves of Jews had already returned to JUDAH from exile in Babylon (538 and 458 BC). The towns that Nehemiah lists as being repopulated by Jews (see 7:26-38; 11:25-36) show that Judea's borders were somewhat reduced from those of the kingdom of Judah before the exile to Babylon (cp. map, p. 767).

After Ezra's emotional prayer confessing their sin, some of the others agreed that the intermarriage was wrong.

Ezra did not solve all the problems in Jerusalem. The people still did not have a secure city with rebuilt walls and gates. Numerous enemies still opposed their presence in Jerusalem. They needed a strong civic leader who could help them preserve the independence, economic vitality, security, and sanctity of Jerusalem. God sent a new leader, Nehemiah, to address these issues.

SUMMARY

The book of Nehemiah traces events from around 445 BC, the twentieth year of Artaxerxes I (2:1), until after 432 BC, the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes (13:6-7).

Nehemiah was the cup-bearer of king Artaxerxes of Persia (1:11). When Nehemiah heard about the ruined condition of Jerusalem (1:1-3), he earnestly prayed for God's help. God's answer came through Artaxerxes, who sent Nehemiah to Judah to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem (3:1-32). Nehemiah organized and motivated the people and led them with courage and integrity through times of resistance from outside enemies (4:1-23; 6:1-14) and conflict within the community (5:1-19). Despite strong opposition (6:1-4), under Nehemiah's leadership the people rebuilt the walls of Jerusalem in just fifty-two days (6:15).

Following the completion of the walls, the account focuses on religious reforms led by Ezra and Nehemiah (7:73b-10:39). At the annual Festival of Shelters, Ezra read from the books of Moses to the crowd (8:5-8), resulting in a revival and a long prayer of confession (9:5-37). During this revival, the Israelites committed not to intermarry with foreigners and not to profane the Sabbath (10:28-39).

The book's final section (11:1-13:31) describes Nehemiah's civic efforts to resettle more people in Jerusalem (11:1-36), to dedicate the walls of Jerusalem (12:27-43), and to organize the gatekeepers and Temple store-room attendants (12:44-13:5). The final chapter records how Nehemiah returned to Jerusalem after a time of absence (13:6-7). When he arrived, he took measures to ensure the purity of the Temple, and he again confronted the people concerning the Sabbath and intermarriage with people who worshiped other gods (13:10-28).

AUTHORSHIP

The book itself does not identify its author. The Talmud (Baba Batra 15a) says that Ezra wrote both Ezra and Nehemiah, and this is the most likely possibility. Chapters 8-10 were probably from Ezra's own memoirs. Ezra also apparently depended on Nehemiah's memoirs. Chapters 1–7 and 11–13 might originally have been Nehemiah's report to the Persian court about his reconstruction progress in Jerusalem. Ezra adapted and arranged this material to fit his purpose when he wrote Ezra—Nehemiah.

Nehemiah shares several characteristics with Ezra. Both Ezra (chs 1–6) and Nehemiah (chs 1–7) describe the return of exiles to Jerusalem to complete a rebuilding project. Both books contain stories of neighbors opposing rebuilding efforts. Most importantly, both Nehemiah and Ezra show how hard work and God's help enabled the people to complete the construction of important structures in Jerusalem. Both books also tell of spiritual reforms in which the community listened to God's word, repented of past failures, and instituted religious and social reforms (chs 8–10; Ezra 9–10).

Several events in Nehemiah have parallels in Ezra that are told in similar ways. There are stories about those who opposed the rebuilding (6:1–14; Ezra 4:1–23), processions to celebrate dedications (12:31–43; Ezra 6:16–18), and similar reforms (13:15–29; Ezra 9–10). Like Ezra, Nehemiah has lists of names (3:1–32; 7:6–73; 10:1–27; 11:1–12:26) and at least one parenthetical section (7:6–10:39) followed by the resumption of a previous account (11:1–4). These factors lead many biblical scholars to believe that one author wrote both Ezra and Nehemiah.

Prayer. Nehemiah based his service on prayer. He earnestly prayed for God to rescue the people from their despised situation, and God answered by sending Nehemiah (1:1–2:8). When foreigners opposed restoring the walls of Jerusalem, Nehemiah asked God to judge them (4:4–5; 6:14). Nehemiah prayed for divine support when he dealt with people who were driving fellow Jews into slavery (6:14), those who were not tithing (13:14), and people who were not keeping the Sabbath (13:22). Prayer provided the power to accomplish God's will. Six times Nehemiah repeated a refrain asking the Lord to "remember" Nehemiah or his opponents (5:19; 6:14; 13:14, 22, 29, 31).

God's Providence. The book of Nehemiah emphasizes that God sovereignly controls the lives of individuals and nations. God is great and awesome, able to restore people from exile (1:8–9), to promote one of his servants to be the king's cup-bearer and later the governor of a province (1:11; 2:8, 18), and to give success in rebuilding the walls (2:20; 6:16). God protects his people (4:4–5, 9, 20) and frustrates the plans of the wicked (4:14–15). The same God who created heaven and earth (9:6), called Abram from Ur, and gave the land to Israel (9:7–8) was able to accomplish his will through Nehemiah.

Dedication to God's Word. The authoritative law of Moses contained God's instructions on how his people should live. God had made a "covenant of unfailing love with those who love him and obey his commands" (1:5). However, his people had not obeyed the instructions God gave to Moses (1:7–9), so they were in danger of God's punishment. Ezra read from the law of Moses (8:1–3) to restore the nation. In response, some of the people dedicated themselves to following the law by separating themselves from unbelievers (10:28), keeping the Sabbath, and giving their tithe for the Levites (10:29–39; 12:44).

and dependence

M. Breneman
Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, p. 59

Courage against Opposition. Nehemiah was courageous in dealing with opposition. Sanballat, Geshem, and Tobiah opposed the rebuilding of Jerusalem's walls (2:10) and mocked the work of God's people (2:19; 4:1-3). In addition, Arabs, Ammonites, and people from Ashdod plotted to attack the builders (4:7-9, 11; 6:1-14). Nehemiah responded to this opposition by posting guards and praying for God's help (4:6-23). Nehemiah also confronted internal conflict from members of the community who abused the poor (5:1-13), who married foreigners (9:1-2; 10:28-30; 13:23-28), and who did not tithe or keep the Sabbath holy (10:31-39; 13:10-22). Nehemiah's courage and prayer enabled him to succeed in addressing these problems.

1. NEHEMIAH'S WORK TO REBUILD THE WALLS OF JERUSALEM (1:1–7:73a)

1 These are the memoirs of Nehemiah son of Hacaliah.

Nehemiah's Concern for Jerusalem

In late autumn, in the month of Kislev, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes' reign, I was at the fortress of Susa. ²Hanani, one of my brothers, came to visit me with some other men who had just arrived from Judah. I asked them about the Jews who had returned there from captivity and about how things were going in Jerusalem.

³They said to me, "Things are not going well for those who returned to the province of Judah. They are in great trouble and disgrace. The wall of Jerusalem has been torn down, and the gates have been destroyed by fire."

⁴When I heard this, I sat down and wept. In fact, for days I ⁵mourned, fasted, and prayed to the God of heaven. ⁶Then I said,

"O LORD, God of heaven, the great and awesome God who keeps his covenant of unfailing love with those who love him and obey his commands, ⁶listen to my prayer! Look down and see me praying night and day for your people Israel. I ⁷confess that we have sinned against you. Yes, even my own family and I have sinned! ⁸We have sinned terribly by not obeying the commands, decrees, and regulations that you gave us through your servant Moses.

⁹"Please remember what you told your servant Moses: 'If you are unfaithful to me, I will scatter you among the nations. ¹⁰But if you return to me and obey my commands and live by them, then even if you are exiled to the ends of the earth, I will bring you back to the place I have chosen for my name to be honored.'

¹¹"The people you rescued by your great power and strong hand are your servants. ¹²O Lord, please hear my prayer! Listen to the prayers of those of us who delight in honoring you. Please

1:1–2:20 Upon hearing about Jerusalem's ruined condition, Nehemiah prayed for God's grace (1:1-11) and asked the king to send him to Jerusalem (2:1-8). When he arrived, he challenged the people to rebuild the city's wall (2:11-20).

1:1 the memoirs of Nehemiah: See Nehemiah Introduction, "Authorship," p. 809. • In late autumn, in the month of Kislev, in the twentieth year: Hebrew In the month of Kislev of the twentieth year. A number of dates in the book of Nehemiah can be cross-checked with dates in surviving Persian records and related accurately to our modern calendar. This month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred within the months of November and December 446 BC. The twentieth year probably refers to the reign of King Artaxerxes I; cp. 2:1; 5:14. • Artaxerxes I reigned over Persia from 465 to 424 BC. • The fortress of Susa was the Persian king's winter palace.

1:2 Hanani might have been one of Nehemiah's blood brothers; this word in Hebrew can also mean "fellow countryman" (e.g., Deut 1:16, "fellow Israelite"). • the Jews who had returned: See Ezra 2:64-65; 8:1-14.

1:3 The wall of Jerusalem has been torn down: This probably refers to a recent setback in Jerusalem (see Ezra 4:6-23), not to the Babylonian conquest in 586 BC. • disgrace: Foreigners could gloat about the destroyed city, using it as evidence that Israel's God was too weak to protect it (cp. Joel 2:17; Mic 7:8-10).

1:4 Nehemiah fervently mourned, fasted, and prayed for about four months (cp. 1:1; 2:1), deeply concerned for Jerusalem.

1:5-11 Nehemiah's prayer includes praise (1:5), confession (1:6-7), remembrance of God's promises (1:8-9), and petition (1:10-11). Nehemiah recognized that Israel's current situation was not a failure of God's covenant of unfailing love.

Israel's persistent sin had brought about the punishments entailed in the covenant.

1:6 I confess that we have sinned: Like Ezra (Ezra 9:5-15) and Daniel (Dan 9:4-19), Nehemiah identified with the sins of his people, made no excuses, and accepted both his individual responsibility and the responsibility of the larger covenant group that had sinned against God.

1:8-9 Nehemiah recalls God's curse on sin and his promise of restoration (Deut 4:25-31; 30:1-5). • ends of the earth: Literally ends of the heavens. • The place . . . for my name to be honored was Jerusalem.

1:10 Nehemiah alludes to God's long-standing covenant relationship with the Israelites: He had rescued them in the Exodus (Deut 9:29) and made them his servants.

1:11 today by making the king favorable to me (literally today in the sight of this man): Nehemiah knew God could grant me success today by making the king favorable to me. Put it into his heart to be kind to me."

In those days I was the king's cup-bearer.

Nehemiah Goes to Jerusalem

2 Early the following spring, in the month of Nisan, during the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes' reign, I was serving the king his wine. I had never before appeared sad in his presence. ²So the king asked me, "Why are you looking so sad? You don't look sick to me. You must be deeply troubled."

Then I was terrified, ³but I replied, "Long live the king! How can I not be sad? For the city where my ancestors are buried is in ruins, and the gates have been destroyed by fire."

⁴The king asked, "Well, how can I help you?"

With a prayer to the God of heaven, ⁵I replied, "If it please the king, and if you are pleased with me, your servant, send me to Judah to rebuild the city where my ancestors are buried."

⁶The king, with the queen sitting beside him, asked, "How long will you be gone? When will you return?" After I told him how long I would be gone, the king agreed to my request.

⁷I also said to the king, "If it please the king, let me have letters addressed to the governors of the province west of the Euphrates River, instructing them to let me travel safely through their territories on my way to Judah. ⁸And please give me a letter addressed to Asaph, the manager of the king's forest,

Neh 8:9-10;

Nehemiah was a powerful leader of God's people living in Judea following the Exile. Nehemiah improved the morale and strength of God's people in the midst of their difficulties. Before Nehemiah returned to Judea, he was cup-bearer to the Persian king, Artaxerxes I (465-424 BC). The cup-bearer brought the king his wine (tasting it first to make sure it wasn't poisoned) and was his trusted confidant and adviser. Nehemiah was moved with compassion when he heard reports about Jerusalem's sad state and asked the king's permission to return to Judea to help his people. The king made him governor of the province of Judea for twelve years to aid his fellow Jews and rebuild the walls of Jerusalem (1:1-2:8). Nehemiah had the support of the Persian king, but he faced opposition from the inhabitants of the land. These people were Samaritans, people of mixed heritage who lived in the north. Nehemiah showed great courage and skill as he successfully helped the people of Judea rebuild the walls that protected Jerusalem.

Nehemiah had a strong personal faith, as seen by his prayers (1:4-11; 2:4) and his confidence in divine guidance and help (2:8, 18, 20). He advocated economic justice (ch 5). He rebuked a few rich Judeans who were exploiting a food shortage by exacting high interest from their poorer brothers, and he provided an example of better conduct.

Nehemiah was vitally concerned about the people's faithfulness, and he individually confronted men who had married pagan women (13:23-29). He had a strong interest in maintaining Temple worship, and he led the Jewish community to pledge to support Temple personnel and provide offerings (10:1, 32-39). He also reformed Sabbath observance (13:15-22).

Although there were still problems at the end of his tenure in Jerusalem (13:1-31), Nehemiah was a forceful leader (13:25) who restored a national and religious identity to the Jewish settlers in a period of political and economic weakness.

2:2 Nehemiah was terrified because he had let his sadness show, and he did not know how the king would respond if he told him the reason for his sorrow (King Artaxerxes had previously ordered that Jerusalem not be rebuilt, Ezra 4:21-22). Nehemiah was not putting on an act; his deep mourning showed despite his best efforts to conceal it.

2:3 Nehemiah affirmed his loyalty with the customary long live the king (cp. Dan 2:4), yet he did not deny his sadness.

2:4 With a prayer: The king was subject to the God of heaven, and Nehemiah needed God's guidance and provision as he made his request.

2:5 send me to Judah to rebuild the city:

Artaxerxes' openness to this proposal seems surprising in light of Jerusalem's history of rebellions against Persia (Ezra 4:17-23). The king might have viewed Nehemiah's plan as a way to solidify his own control over a troubled area of his empire.

2:6 How long will you be gone? (see 5:14): Nehemiah probably requested a short period of time initially, later asking for an extension.

instructing him to give me timber. I will need it to make beams for the gates of the Temple fortress, for the city walls, and for a house for myself." And the king granted these requests, because the gracious hand of God was on me.

⁹When I came to the governors of the province west of the Euphrates River, I delivered the king's letters to them. The king, I should add, had sent along army officers and horsemen to protect me. ¹⁰But when Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite official heard of my arrival, they were very displeased that someone had come to help the people of Israel.

Nehemiah Inspects Jerusalem's Wall

¹¹So I arrived in Jerusalem. Three days later,

¹²I slipped out during the night, taking only a few others with me. I had not told anyone about the plans God had put in my heart for Jerusalem. We took no pack animals with us except the donkey I was riding. ¹³After dark I went out through the Valley Gate, past the Jackal's Well, and over to the Dung Gate to inspect the broken walls and burned gates. ¹⁴Then I went to the Fountain Gate and to the King's Pool, but my donkey couldn't get through the rubble. ¹⁵So, though it was still dark, I went up the Kidron Valley instead, inspecting the wall before I turned back and entered again at the Valley Gate.

¹⁶The city officials did not know I had been out there or what I was doing, for I had not yet said anything to anyone about my plans. I had not yet spoken to the Jewish leaders—the priests, the nobles, the Prayer is essential for anyone who desires to live a godly life and carry out an effective ministry. In response to Jerusalem's disgraceful condition, Nehemiah spent four months in intensive intercessory prayer (cp. 1:1; 2:1). His prayers included praising God for his power and covenant love, confessing the nation's sins, and calling on God to act (1:4-11; cp. Ezra 9:6-15; Dan 9:4-19). Nehemiah based his prayer for Jerusalem in 1:5-11 on God's "covenant of unfailing love with those who love him and obey his commands" (1:5). The Israelites had not obeyed the instructions God gave to Moses (1:7), resulting in the exile of the nation as God had warned. However, Nehemiah was firmly convinced that God would keep his promise to restore the nation if the people repented (1:8-9; see Deut 4:25-31; 30:1-5).

When God presented an opening for Nehemiah to approach the Persian king about returning to Jerusalem, Nehemiah immediately prayed for God's guidance (2:4). He knew that only God could change the king's heart. Later, Nehemiah made a practical and balanced response to threats against those building the wall by posting guards and rallying the people, all while praying for God's protection and strength (4:4-5, 9; 6:9, 14). He needed God's help and blessing then and in the future as he confronted people who acted improperly.

When Nehemiah returned to Jerusalem after a brief visit to Persia, he found that some Jews were not contributing their tithe (13:10-12), some were not keeping the Sabbath (13:22), and some had married unbelievers (13:29-31). When confronting these people about their sin, Nehemiah prayed for God to have compassion on him and remember what he had done. Nehemiah knew that he had to depend on God's power to change people's hearts.

2:8 Temple fortress might refer to the Tower of Hananel or the Tower of the Hundred. • the gracious hand of God was on me: Nehemiah knew that the king granted these requests because God was sovereignly guiding the king to do so.

2:9 Because Nehemiah was a government official, he had an armed escort of officers and horsemen (or charioteers) for his trip to Jerusalem (cp. Ezra 8:22).

2:10 Some of the local, non-Jewish officials were very displeased because rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem would change the balance of political power in favor of the Jews. • Sanballat was the main leader of opposition to Nehemiah's rebuilding efforts. • the Horonite: He was probably from Upper or Lower Horon (Beth-horon, Josh 16:3), approximately 12 miles [19 kilometers] northwest of Jerusalem. Sanballat's name might indicate that he was a descendant of the Assyrian people imported by Sargon II after the fall of Samaria (2 Kgs 17:24). A document discovered in Egypt indicates that he eventually became governor of Samaria in 408 BC.

2:12-15 Nehemiah needed firsthand knowledge of the condition of the walls to present credible plans for their reconstruction and to rally the labor he would need. He conducted his survey secretly after dark to avoid detection by his opponents. His inspection covered only the southern part of the city.

2:13 Jackal's Well (or Serpent's Well) might have been En-rogel, a water source located about 400 yards [365 meters] south of the city, or the pool of Siloam, which is filled by water flowing through Hezekiah's meandering, serpentine tunnel. • The Dung Gate (called the "Gate of Broken Pots" in Jer 19:2) at the southern end of the western wall (see 3:13) led to the Hinnom Valley, where inhabitants of the city threw their garbage.

2:14 The King's Pool was either the pool of Siloam or another pool south-east of the city; both were created from the overflow of the Gihon Spring (see 2 Kgs 20:20).

2:15 the Kidron Valley: Literally the valley.

2:16-17 Nehemiah kept his inspection and rebuilding plans secret from both the Persian and Jewish leaders officials, or anyone else in the administration. ¹⁷But now I said to them, "You know very well what trouble we are in. Jerusalem lies in ruins, and its gates have been destroyed by fire. Let us rebuild the wall of Jerusalem and end this disgrace!" ¹⁸Then I told them about how the gracious hand of God had been on me, and about my conversation with the king.

They replied at once, "Yes, let's rebuild the wall!" So they began the good work.

¹⁹But when Sanballat, Tobiah, and Geshem the Arab heard of our plan, they scoffed contemptuously. "What are you doing? Are you rebelling against the king?" they asked.

²⁰I replied, "The God of heaven will help us succeed. We, his servants, will start rebuilding this wall. But you have no share, legal right, or historic claim in Jerusalem."

Rebuilding the Walls of Jerusalem

3 Then Eliashib the high priest and the other priests started to rebuild at the Sheep Gate. They dedicated it and set up its doors, building the wall as far as the Tower of the Hundred, which they dedicated, and the Tower of Hananel. ²People from the town of Jericho worked next to them, and beyond them was Zaccur son of Imri.

³The Fish Gate was built by the sons of Hassenaah. They laid the beams, set up its doors, and installed its bolts and bars. ⁴Meremoth son of Uriah and grandson of Hakkoz repaired the next section of wall. Beside him were Meshullam son of Bere-kiah and grandson of Meshezabel, and then Zadok son of Baana. ⁵Next were the people from Tekoa, though their leaders refused to work with the construction supervisors.

The wall of Jerusalem had great political, social, and religious significance for the people of Judah (see 2:10, 19; 4:1-15; 6:1-14). The destroyed wall was a shameful reminder that God had destroyed the city, fulfilling the covenant curses because of the people's sin (1:2, 6-8; 2:17). Consequently, the rebuilt wall would be a sign of God's blessing and proof that God was bringing the promised restoration to his covenant people. Israel's enemies knew that if the wall was rebuilt, the Jews would gain political power, security, and self-determination, and so they opposed it fiercely.

Unfortunately, we are unable fully to reconstruct the Jerusalem of Nehemiah's day and the location of his walls. Many of the landmarks mentioned in Nehemiah were destroyed during Herod the Great's renovations some 400 years later (37–4 BC), and today only limited excavation is permitted in Jerusalem. Many scholars now believe that Nehemiah's restoration project included only the wall around the City of David on the eastern hill.

The speed and success of the reconstruction is a witness to all believers that with God's help, his people can accomplish amazing things (2:18; 4:14-15, 20; 6:16).

to prevent opposition from being organized. But now Nehemiah was effectively positioned to lead the rebuilding effort. • what trouble we are in: The broken walls brought disgrace on the city and reflected negatively on God; Jerusalem certainly did not look like the "city of the great King" (Ps 48:2).

2:18 Evidence of God's clear involvement (2:8) is a strong motivator in any project. Nehemiah had God's guidance, the king's permission, the necessary letters to procure lumber, and a plan to lead the project. So the people enthusiastically agreed to begin working.

2:19 Nehemiah's enemies immediately scoffed and tried to stop progress. These opponents were dangerous because of their potential ability to discourage the people and undermine Nehemiah's credibility. • Are you rebelling against the king? This serious charge could bring death (see also Ezra 4:6-23).

2:20 The title God of heaven communicated to Persian audiences that Israel's true God was not a minor local deity. Nehemiah remained focused on obeying his sovereign by building the walls.

3:1-32 This summary of the people who rebuilt the walls of Jerusalem moves in a circle around the city, starting at the northeast corner and moving west, then south, east, and north.

3:1-5 The rebuilding of the walls and gates around the northern section of the city was divided into eight work groups.

3:1 Eliashib the high priest, the grandson of Jeshua (12:10), led the priests in working on the northern wall around the Temple. • The Sheep Gate was where the people brought in their sheep on their way to sacrifice at the Temple. • The Tower of the Hundred and the Tower of Hananel were two major military towers along the northern wall (12:39; Jer 31:38; Zech 14:10).

3:3 At the Fish Gate, people sold fish from the Sea of Galilee and the Mediterranean Sea.

3:4 Meremoth: See Ezra 8:33. • Meshullam had given his daughter in marriage to a son of Tobiah (6:18; see also 10:20).

3:5 The leaders of Tekoa might have been influenced by Geshem (2:19), who controlled the area south of Tekoa.

3:6-8 These verses describe work done on the walls and gates on the western side of Jerusalem. Even people from outside the city and people having wealth or more delicate occupations participated.

3:6 The Old City Gate (or The Mishneh Gate, or The Jeshanah Gate): The oldest part of Jerusalem sat on an eastern hill that ran north to the Temple Mount.

They laid the beams, set up its doors, and installed its bolts and bars. ⁷Next to them were Melatiah from Gibeon, Jadon from Meronoth, people from Gibeon, and people from Mizpah, the headquarters of the governor of the province west of the Euphrates River. ⁸Next was Uzziel son of Harhaiah, a goldsmith by trade, who also worked on the wall. Beyond him was Hananiah, a manufacturer of perfumes. They left out a section of Jerusalem as they built the Broad Wall.

⁹Rephaiah son of Hur, the leader of half the district of Jerusalem, was next to them on the wall. ¹⁰Next Jedaiah son of Harumaph repaired the wall across from his own house, and next to him was Hattush son of Hashabneiah. ¹¹Then came Malkijah son of Harim and Hasshub son of Pahath-moab, who repaired another section of the wall and the Tower of the Ovens. ¹²Shallum son of Hallohesh and his daughters repaired the next section. He was the leader of the other half of the district of Jerusalem.

¹³The Valley Gate was repaired by the people from Zanoah, led by Hanun. They set up its doors and installed its bolts and bars. They also repaired the 1,500 feet of wall to the Dung Gate.

¹⁴The Dung Gate was repaired by Malkijah son of Recab, the leader of the Beth-hakkerem district. He rebuilt it, set up its doors, and installed its bolts and bars.

¹⁷Next to him, repairs were made by a group of Levites working under the supervision of Rehun son of Bani. Then came Hashabiah, the leader of half the district of Keilah, who supervised the building of the wall on behalf of his own district. ¹⁸Next down the line were his countrymen led by

◀ The Rebuilding of Jerusalem, 445 BC (3:1-7:15). The walls of Jerusalem had lain in ruins since the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BC. Under Nehemiah's leadership, the inhabitants of Judea rebuilt the entire wall in only 52 days during the fall of 445 BC.

3:13 Zanoah was a village about thirteen miles [21 kilometers] southwest of Jerusalem. • 1,500 feet: Hebrew 1,000 cubits [460 meters].

3:14-15 These verses focus on the reconstruction of the southern tip of the city where the Hinnom Valley and Kidron Valley meet.

3:14 The Beth-hakkerem district might have been about two miles [3.2 kilometers] south of Jerusalem (at modern Ramat Rachel) or five miles [8 kilometers] west (at modern Ain Karem).

3:15 The Mizpah district was about six miles [10 kilometers] north of Jerusalem. • Shallum: As in Syriac version; Hebrew reads Shallun. • pool of Siloam: Hebrew pool of Shelah, another name for the pool of Siloam. • The king's garden was a lush area east of the pool of Siloam near where the Kidron and Hinnom Valleys meet, possibly at the King's Pool (2:14).

3:16-32 These verses describe the building of the new eastern wall.

3:16 The district of Beth-zur was located just north of Hebron. • The tombs of David's family might refer to where King David was buried (1 Kgs 2:10; 11:43; 2 Chr 21:20; Acts 2:29), and the House of the Warriors might have been a tomb for David's mighty men (2 Sam 23:8-39).

3:7 Gibeon and Mizpah were about six miles [10 kilometers] north of Jerusalem. • the province west of the Euphrates River: Literally the province beyond the river.

3:8 They left out a section of Jerusalem as they built the Broad Wall: Or They fortified Jerusalem up to the Broad Wall. The Broad Wall was located in the newer, western section of the city.

3:9-13 Nehemiah wisely assigned people to work near their homes both to motivate them to do good work and to save them traveling time.

Binnui son of Henadad, the leader of the other half of the district of Keilah.

²⁸Above the Horse Gate, the priests repaired the wall. Each one repaired the section immediately across from his own house. ²⁹Next Zadok son of Immer also rebuilt the wall across from his own house, and beyond him was Shemaiah son of Shecaniah, the gatekeeper of the East Gate. ³⁰Next

Hananiah son of Shelemiah and Hanun, the sixth son of Zalaph, repaired another section, while Meshullam son of Berekiah rebuilt the wall across from where he lived.

³¹Malkijah, one of the goldsmiths, repaired the wall as far as the housing for the Temple servants and merchants, across from the Inspection Gate. Then he continued as far as the upper room at the corner. ³²The other goldsmiths and merchants repaired the wall from that corner to the Sheep Gate.

Opposition to the Rebuilding

4 Sanballat was very angry when he learned that we were rebuilding the wall. He flew into a rage and mocked the Jews, ²saying in front of his friends and the Samaritan army officers, "What does this bunch of poor, feeble Jews think they're doing? Do they think they can build the wall in a single day by just offering a few sacrifices? Do they actually think they can make something of stones from a rubbish heap—and charred ones at that?"

³Tobiah the Ammonite, who was standing beside him, remarked, "That stone wall would collapse if even a fox walked along the top of it!"

⁴Then I prayed, "Hear us, our God, for we are being mocked. May their scoffing fall back on their own heads, and may they themselves become captives in a foreign land! ⁵Do not ignore their guilt. Do not blot out their sins, for they have provoked you to anger here in front of the builders."

⁶At last the wall was completed to half its height around the entire city, for the people had worked with enthusiasm.

⁷But when Sanballat and Tobiah and the Arabs, Ammonites, and Ashdodites heard that the work was going ahead and that the gaps in the wall of Jerusalem were being repaired, they were furious. ⁸They all made plans to come and fight against Jerusalem and throw us into confusion. ⁹But we ^dprayed to our God and guarded the city day and night to protect ourselves.

The people used these stones to restore the walls.

Nehemiah faced both external and internal opposition to all that God was directing him to do. External opposition came from foreigners such as Sanballat, Geshem, and Tobiah. They fiercely opposed the rebuilding of Jerusalem's walls (2:10) and mocked Nehemiah's leadership (2:19; 4:1-3). The opposition gradually grew to include other Arabs, Ammonites, and people from Ashdod, who plotted to attack the builders (4:7-9, 11). To meet this opposition, Nehemiah posted guards, prayed for God's help, developed an emergency warning system, and kept working (4:6-23). Israel's frustrated enemies made several attempts to disgrace or kill Nehemiah (6:1-14). However, Nehemiah had the wisdom to avoid or frustrate their plots while focusing on the task God had given him.

Nehemiah also faced internal problems. Wealthy Jews were mistreating the poor by charging high interest (5:1-13). Jews had married foreigners who worshiped other gods (9:1-2; 10:28-30; 13:23-28). Many were not tithing or keeping the Sabbath holy (10:31-39; 13:10-22). Confronting these problems required a firm commitment to the principles explained in Scripture, boldness in insisting that people follow these divine instructions, and compassion in restoring people to fellowship after the confrontation. Finally, he had to oppose the high priest Eliashib, who had allowed Tobiah to use one of the Temple storerooms (13:4-9).

In each of these cases, Nehemiah courageously followed the example of earlier leaders such as Moses, who opposed the worship of the gold calf (Exod 32); Samuel, who opposed those involved with Baal worship (1 Sam 7:3-8); Nathan, who opposed David's sins (2 Sam 12); and Jehoshaphat, who trusted in God to defeat a much stronger enemy (2 Chr 20). Like these earlier men of God, Nehemiah took a stand for what was right instead of letting those for whom he was responsible go their own ways. He refused to be discouraged or intimidated by internal difficulties or external threats against him. He consistently depended on God for wisdom and for blessing on his work.

4:9 we prayed . . . and guarded: This wise approach to the threat involved both relying on God and doing what was needed.

4:11 The relentless psychological attack of Israel's enemies was having a negative effect on morale.

4:12 They will come from all directions and attack us! The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain. Jews from the surrounding areas might have been exhorting the people working in Jerusalem to return to their villages to avoid being killed in an attack.

4:13 Nehemiah countered by positioning armed guards near the most vulnerable parts of the wall. He also made sure opponents outside the wall could see the forces ready to defend the city.

4:14 The strongest motivation for hope was Israel's great and glorious God, who had delivered his people from mighty nations before (cp. 2 Chr 32:7-8; see Exod 14:13-14; Deut 8:1-3; 20:3; Josh 10:25). Another motivation was to protect their own families and properties.

4:15 Nehemiah gave the credit to God (see also 2:20; 6:16), who had frustrated them through the prayers of the people, the 24-hour patrol, the open display of force, and the confidence in God's protection.

had a sword belted to their side. The trumpeter stayed with me to sound the alarm.

¹⁹Then I explained to the nobles and officials and all the people, "The work is very spread out, and we are widely separated from each other along the wall. ²⁰When you hear the blast of the trumpet, rush to wherever it is sounding. Then our God will fight for us!"

²¹We worked early and late, from sunrise to sunset. And half the men were always on guard. ²²I also told everyone living outside the walls to stay in Jerusalem. That way they and their servants could help with guard duty at night and work during the day. ²³During this time, none of us—not I, nor my relatives, nor my servants, nor the guards who were with me—ever took off our clothes. We carried our weapons with us at all times, even when we went for water.

Nehemiah Defends the Oppressed

5 About this time some of the men and their wives raised a cry of protest against their fellow Jews. ²They were saying, "We have such large families. We need more food to survive."

³Others said, "We have mortgaged our fields, vineyards, and homes to get food during the famine."

⁴And others said, "We have had to borrow money on our fields and vineyards to pay our taxes. ⁵We belong to the same family as those who are wealthy, and our children are just like theirs. Yet we must sell our children into slavery just to get enough money to live. We have already sold some of our daughters, and we are helpless to do anything about it, for our fields and vineyards are already mortgaged to others."

⁶When I heard their complaints, I was very angry. ⁷After thinking it over, I spoke out against these nobles and officials. I told them, "You are hurting your own relatives by charging interest when they borrow money!" Then I called a public meeting to deal with the problem.

⁸At the meeting I said to them, "We are doing all we can to redeem our Jewish relatives who have had to sell themselves to pagan foreigners, but you are selling them back into slavery again. How often must we redeem them?" And they had nothing to say in their defense.

⁹Then I pressed further, "What you are doing is not right! Should you not walk in the fear of our God in order to avoid being mocked by enemy nations? ¹⁰I myself, as well as my brothers and my workers, have been lending the people money and grain, but now let us stop this business of charging interest. ¹¹You must restore their fields, vineyards, olive groves, and homes to them this very day. And repay the interest you charged when you lent them money, grain, new wine, and olive oil."

¹²They replied, "We will give back everything and demand nothing more from the people. We will do as you say." Then I called the priests and made the nobles and officials swear to do what they had promised.

¹³I shook out the folds of my robe and said, "If you fail to keep your promise, may

4:18-19 Through the trumpeter, Nehemiah could sound the alarm to direct workers to any portion of the wall that might be attacked.

4:20 our God will fight for us! Drawing on Israel's ancient holy war tradition (Exod 14:14; Deut 1:30; 20:4; Josh 10:14; 23:10), Nehemiah encouraged the people that victory was certain if they trusted in the Lord.

4:23 Nehemiah and the other leaders were not elitists who relaxed while others toiled. • We carried . . . went for water: Or Each carried his weapon in his right hand. Hebrew reads Each his weapon the water. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

5:1-13 Although severe financial problems threatened to derail the wall's completion (5:1-5), Nehemiah worked out a solution (5:6-13).

5:2 Some farmers had diverted their efforts from raising crops to building the wall, leaving their large families in need of food to survive. Someone had to feed their families, or they would have to stop work on the wall and go home to work in their fields.

5:3 Some small landowners had mortgaged everything to survive. The famine made the problem worse because grain was scarce and the price of food naturally increased.

5:4 to pay our taxes: Despite the famine, the Persians did not cancel the onerous royal tribute due at harvest time.

5:5 we must sell our children into slavery: See Exod 21:1-11. These families were desperate to survive.

5:6-7 Nehemiah was very angry, but he controlled himself, thought it over, and then spoke out in order to resolve the conflict rather than make it worse (see Jas 1:19-20).

5:9 walk in the fear of our God: See Lev 25:35-43. • avoid being mocked: See also 1:3; 2:19; 4:1-3.

5:10 I myself . . . have been lending: Nehemiah and his associates were evidently making loans without burdening people. Nehemiah's example was the solution: to give financial help without pushing people further into debt by charging interest (see Deut 15:7-11).

5:11 Nehemiah demanded that the rich lenders restore their fields and repay the interest (literally the hundredth part), which they should not have collected (see also Exod 22:25; Lev 25:35-37). The literal hundredth part suggests that the interest was one percent per month, lower than the twenty percent annual rate found in some documents of that time, or the sixty percent annual rate charged at Elephantine in Egypt. But even a relatively low rate of interest violated God's covenant.

5:12 made the nobles and officials swear: Both God and the community would hold them accountable.

The whole assembly responded, "Amen," and they praised the LORD. And the people did as they had promised.

¹⁴For the entire twelve years that I was governor of Judah—from the twentieth year to the thirty-second year of the reign of King Artaxerxes—neither I nor my officials drew on our official food allowance. ¹⁵The former governors, in contrast, had laid heavy burdens on the people, demanding a daily ration of food and wine, besides forty pieces of silver. Even their assistants took advantage of the people. But because I feared God, I did not act that way.

¹⁶I also devoted myself to working on the wall and refused to acquire any land. And I required all my servants to spend time working on the wall. ¹⁷I asked for nothing, even though I regularly fed 150 Jewish officials at my table, besides all the visitors from other lands! ¹⁸The provisions I paid for each day included one ox, six choice sheep or goats, and a large number of poultry. And every ten days we needed a large supply of all kinds of wine. Yet I refused to claim the governor's food allowance because the people already carried a heavy burden.

¹⁹Remember, O my God, all that I have done for these people, and bless me for it.

Continued Opposition to Rebuilding

6 Sanballat, Tobiah, Geshem the Arab, and the rest of our enemies found out that I had finished rebuilding the wall and that no gaps remained—though we had not yet set up the doors in the gates. ²So Sanballat and Geshem sent a message asking me to meet them at one of the villages in the plain of Ono.

But I realized they were plotting to harm me, ³so I replied by sending this message to them: "I am engaged in a great work, so I can't come. Why should I stop working to come and meet with you?"

⁴Four times they sent the same message, and each time I gave the same reply. ⁵The fifth time, Sanballat's servant came with an open letter in his hand, ⁶and this is what it said:

"There is a rumor among the surrounding nations, and Geshem tells me it is true, that you and the Jews are planning to rebel and that is why you are building the wall. According to his reports, you plan to be their king. ⁷He also reports that you have appointed prophets in Jerusalem to proclaim about you, 'Look! There is a king in Judah!'

"You can be very sure that this report will get back to the king, so I suggest that you come and talk it over with me."

⁸I replied, "There is no truth in any part of your story. You are making up the whole thing."

⁹They were just trying to intimidate us, imagining that they could discourage us and stop the work. So I continued the work with even greater determination.

¹⁰Later I went to visit Shemaiah son of De-laiah and grandson of Mehetabel, who was confined to his home. He said, "Let us meet together inside the Temple of God and bolt the doors shut. Your enemies are coming to kill you tonight."

¹¹But I replied, "Should someone in my position run from danger? Should someone in my position enter the Temple to save his life? No, I won't do it!" ¹²I realized that God had not spoken to him, but that he had uttered this prophecy against me because Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him. ¹³They were hoping to intimidate me and make me

5:14-19 This section describes Nehemiah's consistent policy of servant leadership and personal generosity.

5:14 This is the first mention of Nehemiah's status as governor, a position not mentioned when the king first sent Nehemiah to Jerusalem. • Persia's government officials usually drew an official food allowance from the local population, but Nehemiah and his associates instead purchased food out of their regular pay. • from the twentieth year to the thirty-second year of the reign of King Artaxerxes: That is, 445–433 BC.

5:15 The former governors were probably Nehemiah's immediate predecessors, not Sheshbazzar (Ezra 1:8, about ninety years earlier) or Zerubbabel (Hag 1:1, about eighty years earlier). • forty pieces: Hebrew 40 shekels [1 pound or 456 grams].

5:19 Nehemiah's prayer for God to remember and bless him was a sign of his dependence on God.

6:1-19 With the financial crisis solved (ch 5), the narrative returns to how the enemies of rebuilding tried to intimidate or eliminate Nehemiah.

6:2 at one of the villages: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads at Kephirim. • The plain of Ono, located near Lod (Ezra 2:33), was probably a neutral site west of Jerusalem, where Nehemiah would have been unprotected.

6:6-7 planning to rebel . . . you plan to be their king: Those who had opposed the restoration of the Temple had used similar tactics (see Ezra 4). • At times in Israel's history, prophets did play a role in establishing a new king (cp. 1 Sam 9:16; 2 Kgs 9). • Geshem: Hebrew Gashmu, a variant spelling of Geshem.

6:9 So I continued the work with even greater determination: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads But now to strengthen my hands.

6:11 A good leader would not run from danger but would stand as an example to his people.

sin. Then they would be able to accuse and discredit me.

¹⁴Remember, O my God, all the evil things that Tobiah and Sanballat have done. And remember Noadiah the 'prophet and all the 'prophets like her who have tried to intimidate me.

The Builders Complete the Wall

¹⁵So on October 2 the wall was finished—just fifty-two days after we had begun. ¹⁶When our enemies and the surrounding nations heard about it, they were frightened and humiliated. They realized this work had been done with the help of our God.

¹⁷During those fifty-two days, many letters went back and forth between Tobiah and the nobles of Judah. ¹⁸For many in Judah had sworn allegiance to him because his father-in-law was Shecaniah son of Arah, and his son Jehohanan was married to the daughter of Meshullam son of Berekiah. ¹⁹They kept telling me about Tobiah's good deeds, and then they told him everything I said. And Tobiah kept sending threatening letters to intimidate me.

7 After the wall was finished and I had set up the doors in the gates, the gatekeepers, singers, and Levites were appointed. ²¹I gave the responsibility of governing Jerusalem to my brother Hanani, along with Hananiah, the commander of the fortress, for he was a faithful man who feared God more than most. ³¹I said to them, "Do not leave the gates open during the hottest part of the day. And even while the gatekeepers are on duty, have them shut and bar the doors. Appoint the residents of Jerusalem to act as guards, everyone on a regular watch. Some will serve at sentry posts and some in front of their own homes."

Nehemiah Registers the People

⁴At that time the city was large and spacious, but the population was small, and none of the houses had been rebuilt. ⁵So my God gave me the idea to call together all the nobles and leaders of the city, along with the ordinary citizens, for registration. I had found the genealogical record of those who had first returned to Judah. This is what was written there:

⁶Here is the list of the Jewish exiles of the provinces who returned from their captivity. King Nebuchadnezzar had deported them to Babylon, but now they returned to Jerusalem and the other towns in Judah where they originally lived. ⁷Their leaders were Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, and Baanah.

This is the number of the men of Israel who returned from exile:

6:15-16 on October 2: Literally on the twenty-fifth day of the month Elul, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was October 2, 445 BC.; also see note on 1:1. • just fifty-two days: Everyone realized that the help of our God was what made such success possible (see also 1:11; 2:8, 18, 20; 4:15, 20).

7:1 the wall was finished: The actual dedication of the wall is reported in 12:27-34. • The Levites usually assisted with caring for the Temple area, including guarding its gates.

7:2 my brother Hanani: See note on 1:2. • a faithful man who feared God: Hanani displayed two leadership characteristics favored by Nehemiah and God (see also 5:9, 15; Dan 6:4; Luke 16:10-12; 1 Pet 5:12).

7:3 Do not leave the gates open during the hottest part of the day: Or Keep the gates of Jerusalem closed until the sun is hot. The gatekeepers were apparently supposed to close the gates during the time in the afternoon when people were resting and were not prepared to defend the city from attack. Elsewhere, similar language refers to the portion of the day when the sun is the hottest and people retreat inside (Gen 18:1; 2 Sam 4:5).

7:4-5 Most people lived in the country near their fields, so the population of Jerusalem was small. Apparently, a registration would encourage more people to settle in and near Jerusalem (7:73).

7:6 Jewish exiles . . . returned to Jerusalem and the other towns: These lists were not complete (the individual numbers do not add up to the total number in 7:66), but they were the best records available to verify who truly was a Jew.

7:7 Their leaders: Sheshbazzar (see Ezra 1:8) is omitted here and in Ezra 2:2, suggesting that both lists were developed after the people had settled in their towns and after Sheshbazzar had died. • Seraiah, Reelaiah, . . . Mispar, . . . Rehum: As in parallel text at Ezra 2:2; Hebrew reads Azariah, Raamiah, . . . Mispereth, Nehum.

7:8-38 the family of: This list is similar to that in Ezra 2:3-35, with some differences in names and the number of people in each family. People were listed by family (7:8-25) and by the town where they settled (7:26-38). Most of the towns were north of Jerusalem.

7:15 Bani: As in parallel text at Ezra 2:10; Hebrew reads Binnui.

57 The descendants of these servants of King Solomon returned from exile:
Sotai, Hassophereth, Peruda,
58 Jaalah, Darkon, Giddel, 59 Shephatiah, Hattil, Pokereth-hazzebaim, and Ami.
60 In all, the Temple servants and the descendants of Solomon's servants numbered 392.
61 Another group returned at this time from the towns of Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Kerub, Addan, and Immer. However, they could not prove that they or their families were descendants of Israel.
62 This group included the families of Delaiah, Tobiah, and Nekoda—a total of
642 people.
63 Three families of priests—Hobaiah, Hakkoz, and Barzillai—also returned.
(This Barzillai had married a woman who was a descendant of Barzillai of Gilead, and he had taken her family name.) 64 They searched for their names in the genealogical records, but they were not found, so they were disqualified from serving as priests.
65 The governor told them not to eat the priests' share of food from the sacrifices until a priest could consult the LORD about the matter by using the Urim and Thummim—the sacred lots.
66 So a total of 42,360 people returned to Judah, 67 in addition to 7,337 servants and 245 singers, both men and women.

7:58 Jaalah: As in parallel text at Ezra 2:56; Hebrew reads Jaala.

7:59 Ami: As in parallel text at Ezra 2:57; Hebrew reads Amon.

7:60 The descendants of Solomon's servants apparently assisted the Levites by carrying wood or sweeping the floor (cp. Ezra 2:55-58). They might have been Gibeonites (Josh 9:23-27; 1 Chr 9:35-44) or war captives (Num 31:30-47).

7:61-62 they could not prove that they . . . were descendants of Israel: They had no genealogical records. • Addan: As in parallel text at Ezra 2:59; Hebrew reads Addon.

7:65 Urim and Thummim . . . sacred lots: See notes on Exod 28:30; Lev 8:8; Deut 33:8; 1 Sam 14:41.

7:66 The total number 42,360 agrees with Ezra 2:64, but the numbers for the families listed total only 31,089. The individual numbers for each family might not include young children, or the list might simply be incomplete.

⁶⁸They took with them 736 horses, 245 mules, ⁶⁹435 camels, and 6,720 donkeys.

⁷⁰Some of the family leaders gave gifts for the work. The governor gave to the treasury 1,000 gold coins, 50 gold basins, and 530 robes for the priests.

⁷¹The other leaders gave to the treasury a total of 20,000 gold coins and some 2,750 pounds of silver for the work.

⁷²The rest of the people gave 20,000 gold coins, about 2,500 pounds of silver, and 67 robes for the priests.

⁷³So the priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, the Temple servants, and some of the common people settled near Jerusalem. The rest of the people returned to their own towns throughout Israel.

2. EZRA'S TEACHING OF THE LAW BRINGS COVENANT RENEWAL (7:73b–10:39)

Ezra Reads the Law

8 In October, when the Israelites had settled in their towns, ^{8:1}all the people assembled with a unified purpose at the square just inside the Water Gate. They asked Ezra the scribe to bring out the Book of the Law of Moses, which the LORD had given for Israel to obey.

²So on October 8 Ezra the priest brought the Book of the Law before the assembly, which included the men and women and all the children old enough to understand. ³He faced the square just inside the Water Gate from early morning until noon and read aloud to everyone who could understand. All the people listened closely to the Book of the Law.

⁴Ezra the scribe stood on a high wooden platform that had been made for the occasion. To his right stood Mattithiah, Shema, Ananiah, Uriah, Hilkiah, and Maaseiah. To his left stood Pedaiah, Mishael, Malkijah, Hashum, Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, and Meshullam. ⁵Ezra stood on the platform in full view of all the people. When they saw him open the book, they all rose to their feet.

⁶Then Ezra praised the LORD, the great God, and all the people chanted, ⁸"Amen! Amen!" as they lifted their hands. Then they ^hbowled down and worshiped the LORD with their faces to the ground.

⁷The Levites—Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, and Pelaiah—then instructed the people in the Law while everyone remained in their places. ⁸They read from the Book of the Law of God and clearly explained the meaning of what was being read, helping the people understand each passage.

7:72 2,500 pounds: Hebrew 2,000 minas [1,200 kilograms].

7:73a their own towns throughout Israel: Each family settled in the land that had been inhabited by their ancestors before the Exile.

7:73b–10:39 This section, perhaps originally a part of Ezra's personal memoirs, describes how Ezra's teaching of God's law brought renewal of the people's commitment to serve God and follow his instructions. Spiritual revival accompanied the civic work of Ezra and Nehemiah.

7:73b In October: Literally In the seventh month. This month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred within the months of October and November 445 BC. The first day of the seventh month marked the Festival of Trumpets (Lev 23:23-25).

8:1 The Water Gate was located toward the middle of the eastern wall of Jerusalem, south of the Temple and east of the palace ruins (3:26; 12:37). There was plenty of open space so no one would be excluded.

8:2 on October 8: Literally on the first day of the seventh month, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was October 8, 445 BC; also see note on 1:1. The people came together on this day to celebrate the Festival of Trumpets (Lev 23:24-25), which marked the beginning of a new year in the postexilic calendar.

8:3 The timeframe from early morning until noon provided about six hours for reading and interpreting (8:7-8). • understand (see also 8:2, 8, 12): This was not just a ritual reading of the law.

It included explanations, insight, and application.

8:4 These thirteen people were apparently community leaders. Some might have helped Ezra roll the scroll as he read.

8:5 The people all rose to their feet out of respect for God's word (Job 29:8). Apparently, they stood the whole time Ezra was reading.

8:6 Ezra praised the LORD: See also 1:5; 9:32; Deut 10:17; Jer 32:18; Dan 9:4. • Amen! A statement of agreement (see 5:13). Lifting hands (Ps 28:2) and bowing in humble worship were signs of reverence for God and submission to his word.

8:7-9 The Levites always had the role of teaching people God's word (Deut 33:10; Mal 2:5-6). In this case, they probably explained the meaning of the Hebrew Scriptures to smaller groups of people in Aramaic. Most of the people spoke Aramaic, the language of Babylon, rather than Hebrew as their first language. Jewish leaders eventually translated large portions of the Hebrew Bible into Aramaic, allowing people to read and study the Bible in a language they understood.

⁹Then Nehemiah the governor, Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites who were interpreting for the people said to them, "Don't mourn or weep on such a day as this! For today is a sacred day before the LORD your God." For the people had all been weeping as they listened to the words of the Law.

¹⁰And Nehemiah continued, "Go and celebrate with a feast of rich foods and sweet drinks, and share gifts of food with people who have nothing prepared. This is a sacred day before our Lord. Don't be dejected and sad, for the joy of the LORD is your strength!"

¹¹And the Levites, too, quieted the people, telling them, "Hush! Don't weep! For this is a sacred day." ¹²So the people went away to eat and drink at a festive meal, to share gifts of food, and to celebrate with great joy because they had heard God's words and understood them.

The Festival of Shelters

¹³On October 9 the family leaders of all the people, together with the priests and Levites, met with Ezra the scribe to go over the Law in greater detail. ¹⁴As they studied the Law, they discovered that the LORD had commanded through Moses that the Israelites should live in shelters during the festival to be held that month. ¹⁵He had said that a proclamation should be made throughout their towns and in Jerusalem, telling the people to go to the hills to get branches from olive, wild olive, myrtle, palm, and other leafy trees. They were to use these branches to make shelters in which they would live during the festival, as prescribed in the Law.

¹⁶So the people went out and cut branches and used them to build shelters on the roofs of their houses, in their courtyards, in the courtyards of God's Temple,

In the fall of 445 BC, Nehemiah finished rebuilding the wall of Jerusalem. Just five days later, on the first day of the seventh month, the settlers in Judah came together to celebrate the Festival of Trumpets (see chart, "Israel's Festivals," p. 235). During and after the festival, Ezra read from the Law, and as the people listened they mourned and wept, for they realized they had not obeyed God's law. They confessed their sins, studied God's word to learn what he required, and obeyed what they learned. The Book of the Law of Moses transformed Jewish life and social behavior during Ezra's and Nehemiah's ministries in Judea.

These events provide a dramatic reminder that God's word is central to the lives of his people. God's word provides the essential guide to life or death (Gen 2:16-17), and his promises prove true (e.g., Gen 17:15-21; 18:10-14). God's word was written in stone (Exod 34:1) and was to be taught to children (Deut 6:7), worn on the hands and forehead, and written on the doorpost (Deut 6:8-9), so that people would constantly be reminded of what God had said. God's instructions were to be read to the people every seven years so that people would remember to fear God (Deut 31:9-13). Success depended on meditating on God's word and following it (Josh 1:7-8; Ps 1:2; 119:15). Obedience was far more important than giving a sacrifice (1 Sam 15:22).

God's word is perfect. It has the power to restore, make wise, and give joy (Ps 19:7-9). Godly individuals love God's word (Ps 119:97). It sheds light on their paths (Ps 119:105) and keeps them from sin (Ps 119:9). God's word accomplishes its purpose (Isa 55:11) and remains relevant forever (Matt 5:17-19; 24:35; 2 Tim 3:14-17).

8:9-10 Ezra the priest and scribe: See note on Ezra 7:6. • Don't mourn or weep . . . today is a sacred day: God touched the people's hearts, prompting them to regret their failures to keep God's laws. While weeping is an appropriate response to sin (see Ezek 9:4; Luke 6:21), Ezra and Nehemiah encouraged the people to rejoice at what God had done. Because this New Year's festival was to be a time of joy (Num 29:1-6), weeping would have destroyed the spirit of the day.

8:10 Nehemiah: Literally he. • Rich foods such as meat were eaten only on a special occasion. • Sweet drinks referred to unfermented juice, in contrast to the vinegar of the common laborer (see Ruth 2:14). • It is right to share with those who have need (see Deut 15:11; Job 29:16; Prov 31:20; Matt 6:2-3; Acts 4:34-35).

8:13 On October 9: Literally On the second day, of the seventh month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was October 9, 445 BC; also see notes on 1:1 and 8:2.

8:14 that month: Literally in the seventh month. This month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar usually occurs within the months of September and October. See Lev 23:39-43.

8:15 wild olive: Or pine; literally oil tree. • make shelters in which they would live during the festival: The Festival of Shelters commemorated that the people of Israel had lived in tents during their wilderness journey (Lev 23:33-43; see also Num 29:12-39; Deut 16:13-15).

8:16 The Ephraim Gate might have been located on the north side of Jerusalem, facing toward the northern tribes of Ephraim (see 12:39).

or in the squares just inside the Water Gate and the Ephraim Gate. ¹⁷So everyone who had returned from captivity lived in these shelters during the festival, and they were all filled with great joy! The Israelites had not celebrated like this since the days of Joshua son of Nun.

¹⁸Ezra read from the Book of the Law of God on each of the seven days of the festival. Then on the eighth day they held a solemn assembly, as was required by law.

The People Confess Their Sins

9 On October 31 the people assembled again, and this time they fasted and dressed in burlap and sprinkled dust on their heads. ²Those of Israelite descent separated themselves from all foreigners as they confessed their own sins and the sins of their ancestors. ³They remained standing in place for three hours while the Book of the Law of the LORD their God was read aloud to them. Then for three more hours they confessed their sins and worshiped the LORD their God. ⁴The Levites—Jeshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Kenani—stood on the stairway of the Levites and cried out to the LORD their God with loud voices.

⁵Then the leaders of the Levites—Jeshua, Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodia, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah—called out to the people: “Stand up and praise the LORD your God, for he lives from everlasting to everlasting!” Then they prayed:

“May your glorious name be praised!
May it be exalted above all blessing and praise!

⁶“You alone are the LORD. You made the skies and the heavens and all the stars. You made the earth and the seas and everything in them. You preserve them all, and the angels of heaven worship you.

⁸When he had proved himself faithful, you made a covenant with him to give him and his descendants the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Jebusites, and Girgashites. And you have done what you promised, for you are always true to your word.

⁹“You saw the misery of our ancestors in Egypt, and you heard their cries from beside the Red Sea. ¹⁰You displayed miraculous signs and wonders against Pharaoh, his officials, and all his people, for you knew how arrogantly they were treating our ancestors. You have a glorious reputation that has never been forgotten. ¹¹You divided the sea for your people so they could walk through on dry land! And then you hurled their enemies into the depths of the sea. They sank like stones beneath the mighty waters. ¹²You led our ancestors by a pillar of cloud during the day and a pillar of fire at night so that they could find their way.

8:17 since the days of Joshua (Hebrew Jeshua, a variant spelling of Joshua): Although Israel had observed this festival on numerous occasions (1 Kgs 8:2; 2 Kgs 23:22; 2 Chr 7:8-10; 30:26; 35:18; Ezra 3:4), this was an exceptional celebration.

8:18 Ezra read from the Book of the Law of God: The law was to be read every seven years at the Festival of Shelters (Deut 31:10-12). It reminded the people of the covenant stipulations and of God's past acts of grace.

9:1 On October 31: Literally On the twenty-fourth day of that same month, the seventh month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was October 31, 445 BC; also see notes on 1:1 and 8:2.

9:2 Those of Israelite descent separated themselves from all foreigners as they confessed their own sins: This sentence might allude to the problem of intermarriage with foreigners, as narrated in Ezra 9-10.

9:3 They confessed their . . . sins after hearing God's word (cp. 8:1-9, 13-14, 18). • for three hours: Literally for a quarter of a day.

9:5b-37 This long prayer confesses the nation's sins and praises God for his compassion throughout history (cp. Pss 105-106, 135-136). It prompted listeners to confess their own unfaithfulness and to call on God to be compassionate and forgive their sins.

9:5b-6 The Levites' prayer praised God for his glorious reputation, his sole divinity, his creation of the universe, his providential care for life on earth, and his worship by angels. Putting the focus on God brought Israel's present circumstances into proper perspective.

9:7-8 God's actions with Abram—calling him (Gen 12:1-3; 15:7), giving him a new name and identity (Gen 17:5), making a covenant with him (Gen 15:6-21; 17:4-5), and fulfilling his promises of land and descendants (Gen 15:18-21)—demonstrated God's faithfulness and inspired confidence about what God would do in the future.

9:9 God had paid attention to his people's misery under foreign domination (Exod 2:23-25; 3:7; 14:10-14), which was analogous to their present situation (9:32-37). • Red Sea: Literally sea of reeds.

9:10-11 You have a glorious reputation: In the Exodus, God had demonstrated his character with plagues, parting the sea, and defeating the arrogant Egyptian army (Exod 15:5, 9-10, 19).

9:12-21 This prayer reminded the people of God's miraculous direction of Israel in the wilderness (Exod 13:21-22), his personal appearance at Mount Sinai to reveal his covenant laws through Moses (see Exod 19-20), and his faithfulness in providing bread . . . and water (see Exod 16:4; 17:1-6). Despite all of that, Israel's ancestors had been proud and stubborn and refused to obey (see Exod 32; Num 14:4). Yet in his grace, God remained faithful and had compassion (see Exod 34:6) and provided his Spirit to direct and teach them (cp. Exod 33:2; Num 11:17).

13" You came down at Mount Sinai and spoke to them from heaven. You gave them regulations and instructions that were just, and decrees and commands that were good. 14 You instructed them concerning your holy Sabbath. And you commanded them, through Moses your servant, to obey all your commands, decrees, and instructions.

15" You gave them bread from heaven when they were hungry and water from the rock when they were thirsty. You commanded them to go and take possession of the land you had sworn to give them.

16" But our ancestors were proud and stubborn, and they ^kpaid no attention to your commands. 17 They refused to obey and did not remember the miracles you had done for them. Instead, they became stubborn and appointed a leader to take them back to their slavery in Egypt. But you are a God of forgiveness, gracious and merciful, ^aslow to become angry, and rich in unfailing love. You did not abandon them, 18 even when they made an idol shaped like a calf and said, 'This is your god who brought you out of Egypt!' They committed terrible blasphemies.

19" But in your great mercy you did not abandon them to die in the wilderness. The pillar of cloud still led them forward by day, and the pillar of fire showed them the way through the night. 20 You sent your good Spirit to instruct them, and you did not stop giving them ^bmanna from heaven or water for their thirst. 21 For forty years you sustained them in the wilderness, and they lacked nothing. Their clothes did not wear out, and their feet did not swell!

22" Then you helped our ancestors conquer kingdoms and nations, and you placed your people in every corner of the land. They took over the land of King Sihon of Heshbon and the land of King Og of Bashan. 23 You made their descendants as numerous as the stars in the sky and brought them into the land you had promised to their ancestors.

24" They went in and took possession of the land. You subdued whole nations before them. Even the Canaanites, who inhabited the land, were powerless! Your people could deal with these nations and their kings as they pleased. 25 Our ancestors captured fortified cities and fertile land. They took over houses full

God gave Nehemiah favor in the eyes of a mighty Persian king so that the king responded favorably to all of Nehemiah's requests (1:11; 2:8, 18). Nehemiah then had the confidence to present his bold plan to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, and the people of Jerusalem responded positively, believing that God was able to give them success in rebuilding the walls (2:20) and to protect them from their enemies (4:4-5, 9). They confidently continued with their work in spite of opposition because they knew that God fights for his people and frustrates the plans of the wicked (4:14-15, 20). When the walls of Jerusalem were finished, Nehemiah recognized that the entire difficult project was completed only because of God's help (6:16).

The book of Nehemiah vividly demonstrates that God is all-powerful and able to accomplish his will, both in individual lives and in nations. The prayer in Neh 9 focuses on praising God for his sovereign and powerful acts: God created the heavens and earth (9:6), called Abram from Ur, and gave the land to Israel (9:7-8, 22-25). The miraculous signs in Egypt, the parting of the Red Sea, and the provision of guidance, food, and water in the wilderness all demonstrate God's power over man and nature to provide for his people (9:9-15).

The Lord had sent the Israelites into exile after generations of persistent sin (9:26-27). Now he was fulfilling part of his promise to restore them (1:8-9). Nehemiah had the confidence to pray and lead because he knew that everything that happened was part of God's sovereign plan. This same confidence in God's sovereignty led Abram to leave Ur and by faith go to an unknown land (Gen 12:1-3; Heb 11:8-10), caused Rahab to trust in God (Josh 2:9-14; Heb 11:31), and prompted Hezekiah not to give in to the demands of the Assyrian king Sennacherib (2 Kgs 18-19). Confidence comes when people believe that God will keep his promises and complete the work he has started in their lives (Phil 1:6).

9:17 in Egypt: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads in their rebellion.

9:24 You subdued whole nations:

See Josh 6-12.

9:25 Cp. Deut 6:10-11; 8:6-10. • they were full and grew fat: Prosperity proved to include spiritual danger (see Deut 8:11-20).

of good things, with cisterns already dug and vineyards and olive groves and fruit trees in abundance. So they ate until they were full and grew fat and enjoyed themselves in all your blessings.

²⁶“But despite all this, they were disobedient and rebelled against you. They turned their backs on your Law, they killed your prophets who warned them to return to you, and they committed terrible blasphemies. ²⁷So you handed them over to their enemies, who made them suffer. But in their time of trouble they cried to you, and you heard them from heaven. In your great mercy, you sent them liberators who rescued them from their enemies.

²⁸“But as soon as they were at peace, your people again committed evil in your sight, and once more you let their enemies conquer them. Yet whenever your people turned and cried to you again for help, you listened once more from heaven. In your wonderful mercy, you rescued them many times!

²⁹“You warned them to return to your Law, but they became proud and obstinate and ‘disobeyed your commands. They did not follow your regulations, by which people will find life if only they obey. They stubbornly turned their backs on you and refused to listen. ³⁰In your love, you were patient with them for many years. You sent your Spirit, who warned them through the prophets. But still they wouldn’t listen! So once again you allowed the peoples of the land to conquer them. ³¹But in your great mercy, you did not destroy them completely or abandon them forever. What a gracious and merciful God you are!

insignificant to you. Great trouble has come upon us and upon our kings and leaders and priests and prophets and ancestors—all of your people—from the days when the kings of Assyria first triumphed over us until now. ³³Every time you punished us you were being just. We have sinned greatly, and you gave us only what we deserved. ³⁴Our kings, leaders, priests, and ancestors did not obey your Law or listen to the warnings in your commands and laws. ³⁵Even while they had their own kingdom, they did not serve you, though you showered your goodness on them. You gave them a large, fertile land, but they refused to turn from their wickedness.

³⁶“So now today we are slaves in the land of plenty that you gave our ancestors for their enjoyment! We are slaves here in this good land. ³⁷The lush produce of this land piles up in the hands of the kings whom you have set over us because of our sins. They have power over us and our livestock. We serve them at their pleasure, and we are in great misery.”

The People Agree to Obey

³⁸The people responded, “In view of all this, we are making a solemn promise and putting it in writing. On this sealed document are the names of our leaders and Levites and priests.”

9:26-27 The prayer recounts the pattern in the book of Judges (see Judg 2:11-23).

9:28-31 The people did not learn from mistakes made in the period of the judges (9:26-27), and the same pattern of disobedience emerged during the subsequent monarchy (cp. 2 Kgs 17). Despite the nation’s persistent disobedience (9:29), God was persistent in his love, patience, compassion, and guidance through the Spirit and through the prophets.

9:32-37 And now: The prayer moves to the current situation, petitioning the great . . . God—who has unfailing love—for continued love and mercy to his people in their present difficult situation (9:32). The leaders recognized God’s justice in punishing them for their sins (9:33-35), and they lamented their enslavement under the Persians (9:36-37).

9:38–10:39 The people, embracing the prayer, renewed their dedication to God and his word. They signed their names to indicate their commitment (9:38–10:27) and took an oath to live by the covenant (10:28-39).

9:38 Verse 9:38 is numbered 10:1 in the Hebrew text. • In view of all this: Or In spite of all this. • making a solemn promise . . . putting it in writing: These actions indicate a serious vow of faithfulness to the covenant. The sealed document had legal standing.

10:1-39 Verses 10:1-39 are numbered 10:2-40 in the Hebrew text.

10:1-27 The eighty-four names included the governor: Nehemiah (10:1), and a group of priests (10:2-8; cp. 12:1-7), Levites (10:9-13; cp. 9:4-5; 12:8-9), and leaders (10:14-27; cp. 3:4-31).

⁶Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch, ⁷Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin, ⁸Maaziah, Bilgai, and Shemaiah. These were the priests.

⁹The following Levites:

Jeshua son of Azaniah, Binnui from the family of Henadad, Kadmiel, ¹⁰and their fellow Levites: Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita, Pelaiah, Hanan, ¹¹Mica, Rehob, Hashabiah, ¹²Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah, ¹³Hodiah, Bani, and Beninu.

¹⁴The following leaders:

Parosh, Pahath-moab, Elam, Zattu, Bani, ¹⁵Bunni, Azgad, Bebai, ¹⁶Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin, ¹⁷Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur, ¹⁸Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai, ¹⁹Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai, ²⁰Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir, ²¹Meshezabel, Zadok, Jaddua, ²²Pelattiah, Hanan, Anaiah, ²³Hoshea, Hananiah, Hasshub, ²⁴Hallohesh, Pilha, Shobek, ²⁵Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah, ²⁶Ahiah, Hanan, Anan, ²⁷Malluch, Harim, and Baanah.

The Vow of the People

²⁸Then the rest of the people—the priests, Levites, gatekeepers, singers, Temple servants, and all who had separated themselves from the pagan people of the land in order to obey the Law of God, together with their wives, sons, daughters, and all who were old enough to understand—²⁹joined their leaders and bound themselves with an oath. They swore a curse on themselves if they failed to obey the Law of God as issued by his servant Moses. They solemnly promised to carefully follow all the commands, regulations, and decrees of the LORD our Lord:

³⁰"We promise not to let our daughters marry the pagan people of the land, and not to let our sons marry their daughters.

³¹"We also promise that if the people of the land should bring any merchandise or grain to be sold on the Sabbath or on any other holy day, we will refuse to buy it. Every seventh year we will let our land rest, and we will cancel all debts owed to us.

³²"In addition, we promise to obey the command to pay the annual Temple tax of one-eighth of an ounce of silver for the care of the Temple of our God.

³³This will provide for the Bread of the Presence; for the regular grain offerings and burnt offerings; for the offerings on the Sabbaths, the new moon celebrations, and the annual festivals; for the holy offerings; and for the sin offerings to make atonement for Israel. It will provide for everything necessary for the work of the Temple of our God.

³⁴"We have cast sacred lots to determine when—at regular times each year—the families of the priests, Levites, and the common people should bring wood to God's Temple to be burned on the altar of the LORD our God, as is written in the Law.

³⁵"We promise to bring the first part of every harvest to the LORD's Temple year after year—whether it be a crop from the soil or from our fruit trees. ³⁶We agree to give God our oldest sons and the firstborn of all our herds and flocks, as prescribed in the Law. We will present them to the priests who minister in the Temple of our God. ³⁷We will store the produce in the storerooms of the Temple of our God. We will bring the best of our flour and other grain offerings, the best of our fruit, and the best of our new wine and olive oil. And we promise to bring to the Levites a tenth of everything our land produces, for it is the Levites who collect the tithes in all our rural towns.

³⁸"A priest—a descendant of Aaron—will be with the Levites as they receive

10:28 separated themselves from the pagan people: See 9:2; cp. Ezra 9–10.

10:29 swore a curse on themselves if they failed to obey the Law: Cp. Lev 26:14–35; Deut 28:15–62.

10:30–39 Although the community had committed itself broadly to all the instructions in the law of Moses, some specific issues were being addressed in this commitment. These issues related to maintaining the purity of the community and worship at the Temple.

10:30 Cp. Ezra 9–10.

10:31 Ceasing trade on the Sabbath was necessary for covenant faithfulness (cp. 13:15–22; see Exod 16:29; 20:8–11;

31:15; Num 15:32–36; Amos 8:5). • Every seventh year: See Exod 23:10–11; Lev 25:2–7; Deut 15:1–3.

10:32 tax of one-eighth of an ounce of silver: Hebrew tax of 1/8 of a shekel [4 grams] (see Exod 30:11–16).

10:33 Bread of the Presence: See Lev 24:5–9; Num 28:1–8. • everything necessary: With the money from the annual tax, priests could purchase the animals for daily sacrifices and maintain the Temple complex (cp. 2 Kgs 12:11–12).

10:34 Because the fire on the altar burned continually (Lev 6:12), a good deal of wood was used. The Gibeonites provided it at an earlier time (Josh 9:27), but now it was a joint responsibility.

10:35–37 Offerings from the community provided food for the priests and Levites, who had no allocations of agricultural land and no means of providing for themselves. These provisions came from the first part of every harvest (see Exod 23:19; 34:26; Num 18:12–13; Deut 26:1–11), the redemption money of five shekels paid for the oldest sons and the firstborn of all the herds and flocks (see Exod 13:13; 34:20; Num 18:15–17), as well as a tenth of everything (see Num 18:21–24; Deut 14:22–29).

10:37–39 The Levites collected the tithes in all . . . rural towns and sent a tenth of that collection to the Temple in Jerusalem (see Num 18:25–32).

these tithes. And a tenth of all that is collected as tithes will be delivered by the Levites to the Temple of our God and placed in the storerooms. ³⁹The people and the Levites must bring these offerings of grain, new wine, and olive oil to the storerooms and place them in the sacred containers near the ministering priests, the gatekeepers, and the singers.

"We promise together not to neglect the Temple of our God."

The Resettlement of People in Jerusalem

11 The leaders of the people were living in Jerusalem, the holy city. A tenth of the people from the other towns of Judah and Benjamin were chosen by sacred lots to live there, too, while the rest stayed where they were. ²And the people commended everyone who volunteered to resettle in Jerusalem.

³Here is a list of the names of the provincial officials who came to live in Jerusalem. (Most of the people, priests, Levites, Temple servants, and descendants of Solomon's servants continued to live in their own homes in the various towns of Judah, ⁴but some of the people from Judah and Benjamin resettled in Jerusalem.)

From the tribe of Judah:

Athaiah son of Uzziyah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, of the family of Perez.

⁵Also Maaseiah son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joarib, son of Zechariah, of the family of Shelah. ⁶There were 468 descendants of Perez who lived in Jerusalem—all outstanding men.

⁷From the tribe of Benjamin:

Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiiah.

⁸After him were Gabbai and Sallai and a total of 928 relatives. ⁹Their chief officer was Joel son of Zicri, who was assisted by Judah son of Hassenuah, second-in-command over the city.

¹⁰From the priests:

Jedaiah son of Joarib; Jakin; ¹¹and Seraiah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, the supervisor of the Temple of God. ¹²Also 822 of their associates, who worked at the Temple. Also Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malkijah, ¹³along with 242 of his associates, who were heads of their families. Also Amashsai son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer, ¹⁴and 128 of his outstanding associates. Their chief officer was Zabdiel son of Haggadolim.

¹⁵From the Levites:

Shemaiah son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni. ¹⁶Also Shabbethai and Jozabad, who were in charge of the work outside the Temple of God. ¹⁷Also Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, a descendant of Asaph, who led in thanksgiving and prayer. Also Bakbukiah, who was Mattaniah's assistant, and Abda son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun. ¹⁸In all, there were 284 Levites in the holy city.

¹⁹From the gatekeepers:

Akkub, Talmon, and 172 of their associates, who guarded the gates.

²⁰The other priests, Levites, and the rest of the Israelites lived wherever their family inheritance was located in any of the towns of Judah. ²¹The Temple servants, however, whose leaders were Ziha and Gishpa, all lived on the hill of Ophel.

²²The chief officer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica, a descendant of Asaph, whose family served as singers at God's Temple. ²³Their daily responsibilities were carried out according to the terms of a royal command.

11:1-2 Sacred lots were probably the Urim and Thummim (10:34; Josh 7:14, 16-18; 14:2).

11:4 Perez was one of Judah's sons (Gen 38:29).

11:5 of the family of Shelah: Literally son of the Shilonite.

11:14 his outstanding associates: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads their outstanding associates.

11:16 The work outside the Temple probably included collecting tithes from people and caring for the tithes in storehouses (10:37-39; see also 1 Chr 26:29).

11:17 a descendant of Asaph: David had chosen Asaph and his sons to provide music for the Temple worship (1 Chr 25:1-8). They took up this role again when the new Temple was built.

11:21 The hill of Ophel was high ground just south of the Temple (3:26). It provided an ideal location to house those who worked in the Temple.

²⁴Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, a descendant of Zerah son of Judah, was the royal adviser in all matters of public administration.

²⁵As for the surrounding villages with their open fields, some of the people of Judah lived in Kiriath-arba with its settlements, Dibon with its settlements, and Jekabzeel with its villages. ²⁶They also lived in Jeshua, Moladah, Beth-pelet, ²⁷Hazar-shual, Beersheba with its settlements, ²⁸Ziklag, and Meconah with its settlements. ²⁹They also lived in En-rimmon, Zorah, Jarmuth, ³⁰Zanoah, and Adullam with their surrounding villages. They also lived in Lachish with its nearby fields and Azekah with its surrounding villages. So the people of Judah were living all the way from Beersheba in the south to the valley of Hinnom.

³¹Some of the people of Benjamin lived at Geba, Micmash, Aija, and Bethel with its settlements. ³²They also lived in Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, ³³Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim, ³⁴Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat, ³⁵Lod, Ono, and the Valley of Craftsmen. ³⁶Some of the Levites who lived in Judah were sent to live with the tribe of Benjamin.

A List of Authentic Priests

12 Here is the list of the priests and Levites who returned with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua the high priest:

Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra,

² Amariah, Malluch, Hattush,

³ Shecaniah, Harim, Meremoth,

⁴ Iddo, Ginnethon, Abijah,

⁵ Miniamin, Moadiah, Bilgah,

⁶ Shemaiah, Joiarib, Jedaiah,

⁷ Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, and Jedaiah.

These were the leaders of the priests and their associates in the days of Jeshua.

⁸The Levites who returned with them were Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah, who with his associates was in charge of the songs of thanksgiving. ⁹Their associates, Bakbukiah and Unni, stood opposite them during the service.

¹⁰ Jeshua the high priest was the father of Joiakim.

Joiakim was the father of Eliashib.
Eliashib was the father of Joiada.

¹¹ Joiada was the father of Johanan.
Johanan was the father of Jaddua.

¹²Now when Joiakim was high priest, the family leaders of the priests were as follows:

Meraiah was leader of the family of Seraiah.
Hananiah was leader of the family of Jeremiah.

¹³ Meshullam was leader of the family of Ezra.
Jehohanan was leader of the family of Amariah.

¹⁴ Jonathan was leader of the family of Malluch.
Joseph was leader of the family of Shecaniah.

¹⁵ Adna was leader of the family of Harim.
Helkai was leader of the family of Meremoth.

11:24 The royal adviser informed the king of events in Jerusalem and notified Jewish officials of the king's public administration of Persian policies.

11:30 all the way from Beersheba . . . to the valley of Hinnom: Earlier descriptions of places where people settled concentrated on areas north of Jerusalem (3:1-32; 11:31-36); this list (11:25-30) reflects progressive expansion of places where Jewish people lived as they occupied many of their preexilic towns, both north and south of Jerusalem.

11:35 and the Valley of Craftsmen: Or and Ge-harashim.

12:1-26 These lists of priests and Levites include a list of those who originally returned from exile with Zerubbabel (12:1-9), a chronological list of high priests (12:10-11), and the priests and Levites who served at the time of Joiakim, the high priest at the time of Nehemiah and Ezra (12:12-26).

12:1-9 priests and Levites who returned with Zerubbabel . . . and Jeshua: See Ezra 1:1-5. Only those who could prove their priestly lineage could serve at the Temple, so it was important to maintain an accurate genealogical record of these families.

12:3 Harim: Hebrew Rehum; cp. 7:42; 12:15; Ezra 2:39.

12:4 Ginnethon: As in some Hebrew manuscripts and Latin Vulgate (see also 12:16); most Hebrew manuscripts read Ginnethoi.

12:5 Miniamin, Moadiah: Hebrew Mijamin, Maadiah; cp. 12:17.

12:7 leaders of the priests: Cp. Ezra 2:36-39. • Jeshua was the high priest in Jerusalem when the people returned from captivity shortly after 538 BC (Ezra 2:2; 3:2, 8; 4:3). He was still serving in 520 BC when Haggai and Zechariah encouraged the people to finish building the Temple (Ezra 5:1; Hag 1:1; Zech 3:1).

12:8-9 Their associates . . . stood opposite: To provide antiphonal singing (12:24; Ezra 3:1-11).

12:10-11 Joiakim probably served in the early years of Ezra's service. • Eliashib and Joiada served during Nehemiah's time (3:1; 13:4, 28). • Johanan (Hebrew Jonathan; cp. 12:22): An Aramaic papyrus document from a Jewish colony that settled in Elephantine, Egypt (about 410 BC) and Josephus (Antiquities 11.5.4, AD 93) both mention Johanan serving after Nehemiah's time.

12:12-21 This list was probably compiled when Joiakim was high priest (12:12) to verify the legitimacy of the priests and Levites who were in office. Except for the omission of Hattush (see 12:2), this list contains the same names as 12:1-7.

12:14 Malluch: As in Greek version (see also 10:4; 12:2); Hebrew reads Mal-luchi. • Shecaniah: As in many Hebrew manuscripts, some Greek manuscripts, and Syriac version (see also 12:3); most Hebrew manuscripts read Shebaniah.

12:15 Meremoth: As in some Greek manuscripts (see also 12:3); Hebrew reads Meraioth.

- ¹⁶ Zechariah was leader of the family of Iddo.
Meshullam was leader of the family of Ginnethon.
¹⁷ Zicri was leader of the family of Abijah.
There was also a leader of the family of Miniamin.
Piltai was leader of the family of Moadiah.
¹⁸ Shammua was leader of the family of Bilgah.
Jehonathan was leader of the family of Shemaiah.
¹⁹ Mattenai was leader of the family of Joiarib.
Uzzi was leader of the family of Jedaiah.
²⁰ Kallai was leader of the family of Sallu.
Eber was leader of the family of Amok.
²¹ Hashabiah was leader of the family of Hilkiah.
Nethanel was leader of the family of Jedaiah.

²²A record of the Levite families was kept during the years when Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan, and Jaddua served as high priest. Another record of the priests was kept during the reign of Darius the Persian. ²³A record of the heads of the Levite families was kept in The Book of History down to the days of Johanan, the grandson of Eliashib.

Meshullam, Talmon, and Akkub were the gatekeepers in charge of the storerooms at the gates. ²⁶These all served in the days of Joiakim son of Jeshua, son of Jehozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the governor and of Ezra the priest and scribe.

The Joyous Dedication of Jerusalem's Walls

²⁷For the dedication of the new wall of Jerusalem, the Levites throughout the land were asked to come to Jerusalem to assist in the ceremonies. They were to take part in the joyous occasion with their songs of "thanks-giving and with the music of cymbals, harps, and lyres. ²⁸The singers were brought together from the region around Jerusalem and from the villages of the Netophathites. ²⁹They also came from Beth-gilgal and the rural areas near Geba and Azmaveth, for the singers had built their own settlements around Jerusalem. ³⁰The priests and Levites first purified themselves; then they purified the people, the gates, and the wall.

³¹I led the leaders of Judah to the top of the wall and organized two large choirs to give "thanks. One of the choirs proceeded southward along the top of the wall to the Dung Gate. ³²Hoshaiah and half the leaders of Judah followed them, ³³along with Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam, ³⁴Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, and Jeremiah. ³⁵Then came some priests who played trumpets, including Zechariah son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, a descendant of Asaph. ³⁶And Zechariah's colleagues were Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani. They used the musical instruments prescribed by David, the man of God. Ezra the scribe led this procession. ³⁷At the Fountain Gate they went straight up the steps on the ascent of the city wall toward the City of David. They passed the house of David and then proceeded to the Water Gate on the east.

³⁸The second choir giving thanks went northward around the other way to meet

12:26 Jehozadak: Hebrew Jozadak, a variant spelling of Jehozadak.

12:27-43 The dedication of the new wall probably happened shortly after its completion (6:15-19). This account probably came from Nehemiah's personal memoirs.

12:27-29 Since few Levites had returned to live in Jerusalem (see Ezra 2:40-42; 8:15-19), all those throughout the land were recruited to create two impressive choirs and orchestras. • Netophathites were from near Bethlehem (1 Chr 2:54). • Beth-gilgal was near Jericho. • Geba and Azmaveth were in the territory of Benjamin.

12:30 The dedication ceremony required that the priests and Levites be purified and ready to enter the Temple area (see Exod 19:10; Num 8:5-7).

12:31-37 This impressive march proceeded southward (literally to the right) along the top of the wall to the Dung Gate at the southern end of the city (3:13-14). Then the procession continued north on the wall along the east side of the city, past the ruins of the house of David and up to the Water Gate (3:26; 8:1) near the Temple.

12:35 Long, slender, metal trumpets were played for festive, joyous occasions (1 Chr 13:8; 15:23; 16:6, 42; Ezra 3:10) by the descendants of Asaph (see note on 11:17).

them. I followed them, together with the other half of the people, along the top of the wall past the Tower of the Ovens to the Broad Wall, ³⁹then past the Ephraim Gate to the Old City Gate, past the Fish Gate and the Tower of Hananel, and on to the Tower of the Hundred. Then we continued on to the Sheep Gate and stopped at the Guard Gate.

⁴⁰The two choirs that were giving thanks then proceeded to the Temple of God, where they took their places. So did I, together with the group of leaders who were with me.

⁴¹We went together with the trumpet-playing priests—Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah—⁴²and the singers—Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malkijah, Elam, and Ezer. They played and sang loudly under the direction of Jezrahiah the choir director.

⁴³Many sacrifices were offered on that joyous day, for God had given the people cause for great joy. The women and children also participated in the celebration, and the joy of the people of Jerusalem could be heard far away.

Provisions for Temple Worship

⁴⁴On that day men were appointed to be in charge of the storerooms for the offerings, the first part of the harvest, and the tithes. They were responsible to collect from the fields outside the towns the portions required by the Law for the priests and Levites. For all the people of Judah took joy in the priests and Levites and their work.

⁴⁵They performed the service of their God and the service of purification, as commanded by David and his son Solomon, and so did the singers and the gatekeepers. ⁴⁶The custom of having choir directors to lead the choirs in hymns of praise and thanksgiving to God began long ago in the days of David and Asaph. ⁴⁷So now, in the days of Zerubbabel and of Nehemiah, all Israel brought a daily supply of food for the singers, the gatekeepers, and the Levites. The Levites, in turn, gave a portion of what they received to the priests, the descendants of Aaron.

Nehemiah's Various Reforms

13 On that same day, as the Book of Moses was being read to the people, the passage was found that said no Ammonite or Moabite should ever be permitted to enter the assembly of God. ²For they had not provided the Israelites with food and water in the wilderness. Instead, they hired Balaam to curse them, though our God turned the curse into a blessing. ³When this passage of the Law was read, all those of foreign descent were immediately excluded from the assembly.

⁴Before this had happened, Eliashib the priest, who had been appointed as supervisor of the storerooms of the Temple of our God and who was also a relative of Tobiah, ⁵had converted a large storage room and placed it at Tobiah's disposal. The room had previously been used for storing the grain offerings, the frankincense, various articles for the Temple, and the tithes of grain, new wine, and olive oil (which were prescribed for the Levites, the singers, and the gatekeepers), as well as the offerings for the priests.

or the Jeshanah Gate; see 3:6), and the Fish Gate (3:3), then across the northern side of the wall until it came to the Sheep Gate (3:1) on the northeast corner of the Temple. • The Guard Gate might be the Inspection Gate (3:31). • Ephraim Gate: See note on 8:16.

12:43 This community celebration included everyone. God was the true source of their great joy because his power had enabled them to accomplish the huge task of rebuilding the walls. Psalm 147 might have been written for this occasion.

12:44-47 On that day, the day of the dedication of the wall (12:44; 13:1), men were appointed to take care of the tithes and gifts given for the physical needs of the priests and Levites. Their duties were to collect the gifts of the people for the priests and Levites (10:32-39; see also Exod 30:11-16; 38:25-26), to perform the service of their God

(probably sacrifices; see Lev 1-5), and to oversee the service of purification of those people who were unclean. They also purified pans, knives, and clothing used in Temple worship as described in Lev 11-15 (1 Chr 23:28).

12:46 David had given instructions for ordering the music at the Temple (1 Chr 23-26), and he had put Asaph, along with Heman and Jeduthun, in charge of the music (1 Chr 25:2-5).

12:47 From the time of the first returnees to Jerusalem in the days of Zerubbabel in 538 BC (Ezra 3:1) until the time of Nehemiah around 445 BC, Israelites brought food for those working at the Temple. Most of the Levites lived in cities around the country; they collected the tithe and brought a tenth of what they received to the Temple in Jerusalem to support its ministry (see 10:38-39).

13:1-3 On the same day the Temple workers were appointed (12:44), the text from Deut 23:3-6 was read. It said that no Ammonite or Moabite should ever be permitted to enter the assembly of God (see Deut 23:3-6). Nehemiah later discovered (13:4-14) that these teachings were no longer being observed.

13:4-14 Eliashib the priest (see 12:10, 22; 13:28) had stopped following the practice of excluding the Ammonites and Moabites (13:1), and the people quit giving their tithes to the Levites (13:10-12). Now, Nehemiah corrected these problems.

13:4-5 Eliashib's family intermarried with the families of Sanballat (13:28) and Tobiah. Both of these men were enemies of the Jewish community (2:10, 19; 4:1). Tobiah's use of the storeroom meant there was less room to store tithes and gifts for the Temple workers (cp. 10:39; 13:10-12; 2 Chr 31:11) and less space for supplies needed to conduct regular worship at the Temple (Lev 2).

⁶I was not in Jerusalem at that time, for I had returned to King Artaxerxes of Babylon in the thirty-second year of his reign, though I later asked his permission to return. ⁷When I arrived back in Jerusalem, I learned about Eliashib's evil deed in providing Tobiah with a room in the courtyards of the Temple of God. ⁸I became very upset and threw all of Tobiah's belongings out of the room. ⁹Then I demanded that the rooms be purified, and I brought back the articles for God's Temple, the grain offerings, and the frankincense.

¹⁰I also discovered that the Levites had not been given their prescribed portions of food, so they and the singers who were to conduct the worship services had all returned to work their fields. ¹¹I immediately confronted the leaders and demanded, "Why has the Temple of God been neglected?" Then I called all the Levites back again and restored them to their proper duties. ¹²And once more all the people of Judah began bringing their tithes of grain, new wine, and olive oil to the Temple storerooms.

¹³I assigned supervisors for the storerooms: Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah, one of the Levites. And I appointed Hanan son of Zaccur and grandson of Mattaniah as their assistant. These men had an excellent reputation, and it was their job to make honest distributions to their fellow Levites.

¹⁴Remember this good deed, O my God, and do not forget all that I have faithfully done for the Temple of my God and its services.

Nehemiah Confronts the People's Sin

¹⁵In those days I saw men of Judah treading out their winepresses on the 'Sabbath.

They were also bringing in grain, loading it on donkeys, and bringing their wine, grapes, figs, and all sorts of produce to Jerusalem to sell on the 'Sabbath. So I rebuked them for selling their produce on that day. ¹⁶Some men from Tyre, who lived in Jerusalem, were bringing in fish and all kinds of merchandise. They were selling it on the Sabbath to the people of Judah—and in Jerusalem at that!

¹⁷So I confronted the nobles of Judah. "Why are you profaning the Sabbath in this evil way?" I asked. ¹⁸"Wasn't it just this sort of thing that your ancestors did that caused our God to bring all this trouble upon us and our city? Now you are bringing even more wrath upon Israel by permitting the Sabbath to be desecrated in this way!"

¹⁹Then I commanded that the gates of Jerusalem should be shut as darkness fell every Friday evening, not to be opened until the Sabbath ended. I sent some of my own servants to guard the gates so that no merchandise could be brought in on the Sabbath day. ²⁰The merchants and tradesmen with a variety of wares camped outside Jerusalem once or twice. ²¹But I spoke sharply to them and said, "What are you doing out here, camping around the wall? If you do this again, I will arrest you!" And that was the last time they came on the Sabbath. ²²Then I commanded the Levites to purify themselves and to guard the gates in order to preserve the holiness of the Sabbath.

Remember this good deed also, O my God! Have compassion on me according to your great and unfailing love.

13:6 Nehemiah had returned to Persia after twelve years of service in Jerusalem (445–433 BC). The text does not say how long he stayed there, but it was probably no longer than a year or two. When he arrived back in Jerusalem, he found Tobiah living in the Temple storeroom (13:1-5). • King Artaxerxes of Persia is here identified as the king of Babylon because Persia had conquered the Babylonian empire. The thirty-second year of Artaxerxes was 433 BC.

13:8-9 I became very upset. . . . I demanded: When people rejected God's instructions, Nehemiah refused to be silent. • Everything associated with the Temple had to be purified and consecrated to God. The clothes that the priests and Levites wore (Exod 29), the priests themselves (Lev 8–9), the Temple building and altars (Lev 16:15-33), and all the holy things (1 Chr 23:28) were purified (cp. 2 Chr 29:5, 15-19).

13:10-12 With Tobiah using the storeroom, there had been no place to store tithes to feed the Levites and Temple singers (Num 18:21-24; see notes on 12:44-45, 47). They had to farm outside of Jerusalem (12:28-29) to support themselves and could not serve in the Temple.

13:13 These men had an excellent reputation: Cp. Acts 6:1-6.

13:14 Because he stood up for God, Nehemiah asked God to remember his deeds and not abandon him in his time of need. Perhaps he experienced opposition from those he had corrected. See similar refrains in 13:22, 29, 31.

13:15-31 Nehemiah instituted two additional reforms to restore proper Sabbath observance (13:15-22) and proper marriage practices (13:23-31). These two sections have similar structures: Nehemiah discovered a problem, corrected the problem, and asked God for his blessing.

13:15-16 Normal work was to cease on the Sabbath in order to keep it holy (Exod 20:8-11; 31:14-17; 35:2-3; Jer 17:19-27).

13:19 as darkness fell every Friday evening: Literally on the day before the Sabbath. The Sabbath began at sunset on Friday evening and lasted until sunset on Saturday evening.

13:22 Have compassion on me: Nehemiah's prayer implies that he felt the pressure of this unpopular decision. He knew that God's unfailing love, not his own popularity, would sustain him.

²⁴Furthermore, half their children spoke the language of Ashdod or of some other people and could not speak the language of Judah at all. ²⁵So I confronted them and called down curses on them. I beat some of them and pulled out their hair. I made them swear in the name of God that they would not let their children intermarry with the pagan people of the land.

²⁶"Wasn't this exactly what led King Solomon of Israel into sin?" I demanded. "There was no king from any nation who could compare to him, and God loved him and made him king over all Israel. But even he was led into sin by his foreign wives. ²⁷How could you even think of committing this sinful deed and acting unfaithfully toward God by marrying foreign women?"

²⁸One of the sons of Joiada son of Elia-shib the high priest had married a daughter of Sanballat the Horonite, so I banished him from my presence.

²⁹Remember them, O my God, for they have defiled the priesthood and the solemn vows of the priests and Levites.

³⁰So I purged out everything foreign and assigned tasks to the priests and Levites, making certain that each knew his work. ³¹I also made sure that the supply of wood for the altar and the first portions of the harvest were brought at the proper times.

Remember this in my favor, O my God.

13:23-24 The earlier marriage reforms (9:2; 10:28; Ezra 9:1–10:44) had not lasted. The children's inability to speak Hebrew (the language of Judah) was disastrous because they could not read or understand the Scriptures.

13:25 When Nehemiah called down curses on them, it was because the parents avoided Hebrew and did not teach their children the language of the Hebrew Bible. A curse called on God to remove his blessing on people. • I beat some of them and pulled out their hair: Apparently, some of the men did not accept Nehemiah's rebuke at first, so he made them swear in the name of God not to intermarry with pagans.

13:26-27 King Solomon had led the nation into sin by his foreign wives (1 Kgs 11). If intermarriage with pagans was allowed to continue, the same apostasy would overtake the community. Nehemiah would not let that happen.

13:28 Even the family of the high priest, who were supposed to be Israel's spiritual leaders, had participated in the sin of intermarriage with unbelieving foreigners (cp. Lev 21:14). Nehemiah banished the offender, stripping him of status and removing his rights in the Jewish community.

13:29 Remember them, O my God: Many would probably resent Nehemiah's aggressive attack on intermarriage in the family of the high priest. So he prayed for God's judgment to fall on these spiritual leaders who defiled the priesthood.

13:30-31 These final verses summarize Nehemiah's reform. The emphasis on making certain and making sure shows that Nehemiah checked to see that the people did what they agreed to. He held people accountable for their commitments and did not allow for half-hearted reform.

THE BOOK OF Esther

Esther's rags-to-riches drama illustrates how a woman with wisdom, courage, and willingness can affect the lives of thousands. With a praying community of supporters, and with God providentially working in the background, Esther accepted her role and put her life on the line to save others.

SETTING

The book of Esther describes events during the reign of King Xerxes of Persia (486–465 BC). In a previous generation (538 BC), Sheshbazzar had led about 50,000 people back from captivity in Babylonia (Ezra 1:1-5; 2:64-67). But many Jewish families, including Esther's, had stayed behind.

During Xerxes' reign, the Persian empire was near its peak. Xerxes and his military had accomplished great things, such as conquering Egypt. Wealth from taxes poured into the Persian capital of Susa, and Xerxes oversaw the construction of a luxurious new palace at Persepolis. However, Xerxes was a cruel king who ruled with tyrannical force. Esther entered Xerxes' court and was chosen to be his queen. Her challenge was to serve God and her people in time of crisis while being the faithful wife of a pagan king.

SUMMARY

When King Xerxes gave a lavish banquet for key leaders of Persia, Queen Vashti refused to show off her beauty, so Xerxes deposed her and searched for a new queen (1:1–2:4). Mordecai's cousin Esther was chosen (2:5–18).

Mordecai became a palace official. One day, he uncovered a plot against the king and reported it through Esther. Mordecai also refused to bow to Haman, Xerxes' highest official, which led to Haman's vindictive plot to kill all the Jews in the empire (2:19–3:15).

As the Jewish community prayed (4:16), Esther endangered her own life, approached the king, and invited him and Haman to a feast (4:1–17).

Haman had built a pole so that he could impale Mordecai (5:14), but King Xerxes made Haman honor Mordecai in the streets of the city, a bitter humiliation (6:1–14). Then Esther revealed Haman's plot as a personal attack. Haman was impaled on his own pole (7:1–10).

King Xerxes then allowed the Jewish people to defend themselves (8:1–14). The

◀ The Empire of Xerxes I, 486–465 BC. During Esther's time, Xerxes I was king of the vast Persian empire. The map shows the major towns and some of the provinces over which Xerxes ruled (1:1). The region of Judea was part of the Persian province "BEYOND THE RIVER," which consisted of the area from the EUPHRATES RIVER west to the MEDITERRANEAN SEA (see note on Ezra 4:10).

Jews rejoiced, Mordecai was promoted, and Haman's sons were executed (9:1-17). The Jewish people then defended themselves successfully and celebrated God's marvelous deliverance at the first festival of Purim.

AUTHOR & DATE

The text of Esther does not indicate who wrote the book or when it was written. Some early church fathers thought that Ezra wrote Esther, but Clement of Alexandria suggested Mordecai. Since there are many Persian words in the book and there is no Greek influence, the book was probably written between 460 BC (i.e., after the conclusion of Xerxes I's reign) and 331 BC (i.e., before the rise of the Greek empire under Alexander the Great).

PURPOSE

The book of Esther was written to explain to a Jewish audience how the festival of Purim originated. Purim was to be an annual remembrance of how God delivered his people from death (9:20-22), similar to their deliverance during the exodus from Egypt.

GENRE: HISTORY OR FICTION?

The book of Esther is a biographical narrative similar to the narrative of Joseph (Gen 37-48) and the book of Ruth. Some question whether this story is history. They allege that (a) the decree for widespread extermination of the Jews by a Persian king is implausible; (b) the slaughter of 75,000 enemies in one day by the Jews is implausible; (c) since only Persians were queens, Esther would never have been chosen; and (d) the large number of improbable coincidences suggests that this is fiction.

On the other hand, the historical accuracy of the book is supported because (a) the book uses authentic Persian names, titles, and customs; (b) elsewhere God works behind the scenes to use improbable coincidences to his glory (e.g., Gen 37-48; Ruth 1-4); (c) Esther hid her identity as a Jew until long after she became queen; and (d) kings do not usually oppose the slaughter of their enemies, which Haman said the Jews were. These factors testify to the authenticity and historical character of the book.

ADDITIONS TO THE BOOK OF ESTHER

Vulgate, and Josephus (a first-century Roman Jewish historian) all have many additional stories that are not included in the Hebrew text but were composed later. The longer additions mention God numerous times, whereas the Hebrew text does not. None of the additions contain authoritative original information; some just repeat information, some contradict information in the Hebrew version of Esther, and others are based on the imagination of later authors. Instead of inserting these additions where they fit chronologically and making them look like an authentic part of the story, Jerome, who translated and edited the Latin Vulgate, wisely collected them together at the end of the OT in the Deuterocanonical (or, Apocryphal) books that are included in Roman Catholic and Orthodox translations.

MEANING AND MESSAGE

Although the book of Esther never mentions God, its central purpose is to demonstrate that God works providentially to take care of his people. God used Xerxes' drunken arrogance to elevate Esther to a position of influence (chs 1–2). Haman's evil plans to kill the Jews were brought back on his own head through a series of unique and ironic circumstances, and the day of execution became a day of joy for God's people. The book of Esther reminds us that God providentially directs believers and unbelievers alike to accomplish his will.

The King's Banquet*

1 These events happened in the days of King Xerxes, who reigned over 127 provinces stretching from India to Ethiopia. ²At that time Xerxes ruled his empire from his royal throne at the fortress of Susa. ³In the third year of his reign, he gave a banquet for all his nobles and officials. He invited all the military officers of Persia and Media as well as the princes and nobles of the provinces. ⁴The celebration lasted 180 days—a tremendous display of the opulent wealth of his empire and the pomp and splendor of his majesty.

⁵When it was all over, the king gave a banquet for all the people, from the greatest to the least, who were in the fortress of Susa. It lasted for seven days and was held in the courtyard of the palace garden. ⁶The courtyard was beautifully decorated with white cotton curtains and blue hangings, which were fastened with white linen cords and purple ribbons to silver rings embedded in marble pillars. Gold and silver couches stood on a mosaic pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl, and other costly stones.

⁷Drinks were served in gold goblets of many designs, and there was an abundance of royal wine, reflecting the king's generosity. ⁸By edict of the king, no limits were placed on the drinking, for the king had

The name Xerxes comes from the Greek transliteration of the Persian Xshayarshan, which the Hebrew text renders 'akhashwerosh (Ahasuerus). His father, Darius I (521–486 BC), was king when Haggai and Zechariah encouraged the people of Judah to finish building the Temple in Jerusalem (see Ezra 4:24–6:22; Hag 1:1; Zech 1:1). • 127 provinces: Xerxes reigned over a vast empire stretching from India to Ethiopia (Hebrew to Cush).

1:4 The celebration lasted 180 days: Officials probably took turns attending different events planned during this six-month period of celebration, thus maintaining the nation's military and infrastructure throughout the celebration. • This tremendous display of pomp and splendor was designed to impress others with the king's greatness; it also illustrates Xerxes' pride.

1:5 A second, briefer banquet allowed members of every level of society (from the greatest to the least) to experience the king's majestic wealth.

Because of the large numbers of people who could attend, this continuous open house reception was held outdoors in the paved courtyard of the palace garden.

1:6 White and blue (or violet) were royal colors. Even the mosaic pavement was exquisitely opulent.

1:8 no limits were placed on the drinking: Often guests would drink only when the Persian king bade them with a toast (see Xenophon, Cyropaedia 8.8.18); at this banquet people were able to drink without restraint.

instructed all his palace officials to serve each man as much as he wanted.

⁹At the same time, Queen Vashti gave a banquet for the women in the royal palace of King Xerxes.

Queen Vashti Deposed

¹⁰On the seventh day of the feast, when King Xerxes was in high spirits because of the wine, he told the seven eunuchs who attended him—Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas—¹¹to bring Queen Vashti to him with the royal crown on her head. He wanted the nobles and all the other men to gaze on her beauty, for she was a very beautiful woman. ¹²But when they conveyed the king's order to Queen Vashti, she refused to come. This made the king furious, and he burned with anger.

¹³He immediately consulted with his wise advisers, who knew all the Persian laws and customs, for he always asked their advice.

¹⁴The names of these men were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan—seven nobles of Persia and Media. They met with the king regularly and held the highest positions in the empire.

¹⁶Memucan answered the king and his nobles, "Queen Vashti has wronged not only the king but also every noble and citizen throughout your empire. ¹⁷Women everywhere will begin to despise their husbands when they learn that Queen Vashti has refused to appear before the king. ¹⁸Before this day is out, the wives of all the king's nobles throughout Persia and Media will hear what the queen did and will start treating their husbands the same way. There will be no end to their contempt and anger.

¹⁹"So if it please the king, we suggest that you issue a written decree, a law of the Persians and Medes that cannot be revoked. It should order that Queen Vashti be forever banished from the presence of King Xerxes, and that the king should choose another queen more worthy than she. ²⁰When this decree is published throughout the king's vast empire, husbands everywhere, whatever their rank, will receive proper respect from their wives!"

²¹The king and his nobles thought this made good sense, so he followed Memucan's counsel. ²²He sent letters to all parts of the empire, to each province in its own script and language, proclaiming that every man should be the ruler of his own home and should say whatever he pleases.

Esther Is Chosen to Be Queen (2:1-18)

2 But after Xerxes' anger had subsided, he began thinking about Vashti and what she had done and the decree he had made. ²So his personal attendants suggested, "Let us search the empire to find beautiful young virgins for the king. ³Let the king appoint agents in each province to bring these beautiful young women into the royal harem at the fortress of Susa. Hegai, the king's eunuch in charge of the harem, will see that they are all given beauty treatments. ⁴After that, the young woman who most pleases the king will be made queen instead of Vashti." This

1:9 Since Vashti means the best, desired, beloved, this is possibly the title for a favored wife rather than her actual name. Ancient Greek historians refer to her as Amestris (e.g., Herodotus, Histories 7.114). Her son, Artaxerxes I, became king of Persia (465–424 BC) after Xerxes' death (see Ezra 4:7-23; 6:14; 7:1, 7, 11-26; 8:1; Neh 1:1; 2:1; 5:14; 13:6).

1:10 Xerxes was in high spirits: He was probably fairly drunk and apt to do something foolish. • Eunuchs were servants who had been castrated because their roles brought them into frequent contact with the women of the royal harem.

1:11 she was a very beautiful woman: The king wanted to display one of his prized possessions.

1:12 she refused to come: The queen's refusal is not explained. Perhaps she feared the drunken king would humiliate her in some way. • This made the king furious: The king's anger was probably heightened by his drunken state and by his humiliation before his male friends.

1:13 The king did not react immediately but consulted with his wise advisers, following his normal custom of checking with Persian legal advisers to see what could be done about his disobedient wife (1:15).

1:15 What penalty does the law provide: In his humiliation, the king no doubt wanted to punish Vashti to the fullest extent.

1:16-18 Queen Vashti has wronged: The adviser Memucan did not quote Persian law as precedent to guide the king's decision. His impetuous advice to the king turned Vashti's action into a potential crime by all women.

1:17 Women everywhere will begin to despise their husbands: Fear of consequences rather than facts or law motivated the council's decision.

1:19 issue a written decree . . . that cannot be revoked: The written decree would become unalterable law that could not be changed (8:8; Dan 6:8, 12).

1:22 The decree was published in each region in its own script and language so that the decree would be understood by every language group in the vast Persian empire. • every man should be the ruler of his own home: It was already the cultural norm throughout the ancient Near East at that time that men ruled their houses. The decree added legal enforcement of the custom. • and should say whatever he pleases: Or and should speak in the language of his own people.

advice was very appealing to the king, so he put the plan into effect.

⁵At that time there was a Jewish man in the fortress of Susa whose name was Mordecai son of Jair. He was from the tribe of Benjamin and was a descendant of Kish and Shimei. ⁶His family had been among those who, with King Jehoiachin of Judah, had been exiled from Jerusalem to Babylon by King Nebuchadnezzar. ⁷This man had a very beautiful and lovely young cousin, Hadassah, who was also called Esther. When her father and mother died, Mordecai adopted her into his family and raised her as his own daughter.

¹⁰Esther had not told anyone of her nationality and family background, because Mordecai had directed her not to do so. ¹¹Every day Mordecai would take a walk near the courtyard of the harem to find out about Esther and what was happening to her.

ments. ¹³When it was time for her to go to the king's palace, she was given her choice of whatever clothing or jewelry she wanted to take from the harem. ¹⁴That evening she was taken to the king's private rooms, and the next morning she was brought to the second harem, where the king's wives lived. There she would be under the care of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch in charge of the concubines. She would never go to the king again unless he had especially enjoyed her and requested her by name.

¹⁵Esther was the daughter of Abihail, who was Mordecai's uncle. (Mordecai had adopted his younger cousin Esther.) When it was Esther's turn to go to the king, she accepted the advice of Hegai, the eunuch in charge of the harem. She asked for nothing except what he suggested, and she was admired by everyone who saw her.

¹⁶Esther was taken to King Xerxes at the royal palace in early winter of the seventh year of his reign. ¹⁷And the king loved Esther more than any of the other young women. He was so delighted with her that he set the royal crown on her head and declared her queen instead of Vashti. ¹⁸To celebrate the occasion, he gave a great banquet in Esther's honor for all his nobles and officials, declaring a public holiday for the provinces and giving generous gifts to everyone.

2:6 His family: Literally He. Since King Jehoiachin was exiled in 597 BC (2 Kgs 24:6-16), over 100 years earlier, it was probably one of Mordecai's ancestors who was part of the group taken into Babylonian captivity. • Jehoiachin: Hebrew Jecooniah, a variant spelling of Jehoiachin.

2:7 Hadassah is a Hebrew name that means myrtle; Esther is a Persian name that means star.

2:9 ordered a special menu . . . beauty treatments: Hegai knew the king's taste and singled out the best prospects for special attention. • Hegai assigned seven of the best assistants to Esther, indicating that he thought she was one of the very best candidates for becoming the queen.

2:10 Probably Mordecai had already experienced some prejudice against Jews. Esther's Jewish background would later become the key to her exposing Haman's terrible plot.

2:12 The twelve months of preparation

no doubt involved training in court customs as well as beauty treatments, but the focus here is on physical beauty.

2:14 to the second harem: Or to another part of the harem. Each woman would spend one night with the king in his bedroom and then live essentially as a widow the rest of her life unless the king remembered her name and called for her. The women in the second harem lived an easy life in a luxurious setting under the care of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch.

2:15 Hegai apparently knew the king's preferences, so he was able to give Esther good advice, which she wisely accepted and followed.

2:16 in early winter: Literally in the tenth month, the month of Tebeth. A number of dates in the book of Esther can be cross-checked with dates in surviving Persian records and related accurately to our modern calendar. This month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred within the months of December 479 BC and January 478 BC.

2:17 he set the royal crown on her head: Now Esther had access to the king's heart as his favored wife. She was now in a place where God could use her to impact the thoughts and actions of the king.

2:18 he gave a great banquet in Esther's honor: Now the king honored his wife instead of putting her on display (cp. 1:11). • declaring a public holiday: The Hebrew word translated "public holiday" (hanakha) is related to the verb that means "rest" (nukh). The book as a whole describes how the Jewish people obtained rest from the threats of their enemies (see 9:16-22).

2:19 Even after all the young women had been transferred to the second harem: The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain. Since the queen had been chosen, those in waiting would join the other concubines. • and Mordecai had become a palace official: Literally and Mordecai was sitting in the gate of the king. Court cases were decided and much official business was conducted

Mordecai had become a palace official, ²⁰Esther continued to keep her family background and nationality a secret. She was still following Mordecai's directions, just as she did when she lived in his home.

²¹One day as Mordecai was on duty at the king's gate, two of the king's eunuchs, Bigthana and Teresh—who were guards at the door of the king's private quarters—became angry at King Xerxes and plotted to assassinate him. ²²But Mordecai heard about the plot and gave the information to Queen Esther. She then told the king about it and gave Mordecai credit for the report. ²³When an investigation was made and Mordecai's story was found to be true, the two men were impaled on a sharpened pole. This was all recorded in The Book of the History of King Xerxes' Reign.

Mordecai Will Not Honor Haman

3 Some time later King Xerxes promoted Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite over all the other nobles, making him the most powerful official in the empire. ²All the king's officials would bow down before Haman to show him respect whenever he passed by, for so the king had commanded. But Mordecai refused to bow down or show him respect.

³Then the palace officials at the king's gate asked Mordecai, "Why are you disobeying the king's command?" ⁴They spoke to him day after day, but still he refused to comply with the order. So they spoke to Haman about this to see if he would tolerate Mordecai's conduct, since Mordecai had told them he was a Jew.

Haman's Plot against the Jews

⁵When Haman saw that Mordecai would not bow down or show him respect, he was filled with rage. ⁶He had learned of Mordecai's nationality, so he decided it was not enough to lay hands on Mordecai alone. Instead, he looked for a way to destroy all the Jews throughout the entire empire of Xerxes.

Esther (2:7-20)

Esth 4:4-5:8; 7:1-9:32

Esther was queen of Persia during the reign of Xerxes I (486–465 BC). She was a woman of the Diaspora ("scattering"), descended from Jews who had been scattered among the nations at the time of the Exile. Her family had not returned to the land of Judah, as some Jews had (see Ezra 1–2), but had chosen to stay in the land of Persia, like many others. Noting how important her cousin Mordecai was in the Persian government makes us guess that her family had grown rich and comfortable.

Esther was an orphan and was raised by her cousin Mordecai, who became a minor official in the Persian government in Susa. She became queen after King Xerxes became displeased with Queen Vashti for refusing to attend a banquet when commanded to do so (1:11-12).

After Esther's coronation, she discreetly won Xerxes' confidence by informing him of an assassination plot (2:21-23). This later enabled her to rescue her people from a massacre planned by Haman, a high official to the king. Through her wise advice and brave action, Esther exposed Haman, he was executed, and the Jewish people were rescued. The Jewish Festival of Purim was instituted to celebrate these events.

at the gate. There he was able to hear about the plot against the king (2:21-23).

2:20 keep her family background and nationality a secret: That this is mentioned twice (see also 2:10) indicates how important it was for the rest of the story. • With humility, she was still following Mordecai's directions. She did not become conceited and forget her people or the family that raised her.

2:21 Bigthana (Hebrew Bigthan; cp. 6:2) might be the Bigtha of 1:10, one of the king's seven eunuchs. He and Teresh guarded the king's bedroom, so it would not have been hard for them to carry out their plot if they hadn't been discovered.

2:22 gave the information to Queen Esther: The quickest, safest way for the information to get to the king was through the queen. • Although Esther could have promoted herself by taking credit for this information, she gave Mordecai credit for the report, an important point later in the story (6:1-3).

2:23 impaled on a sharpened pole (literally hanged on a tree, or hanged on wood): This phrase has traditionally been translated hanged on a gallows, but inscriptions from ancient Persia show that impalement was a standard form of execution. Xerxes' father, Darius I, claimed to have impaled 3,000 Babylonians when he conquered Babylon. Sometimes criminals were executed first and then displayed on a stake, as with the execution of Haman's sons (9:5-14). • This was all recorded: Mordecai was not rewarded until much later (6:1-14).

• While various records of Xerxes' reign have been found, the particular book mentioned here no longer exists.

3:1-15 Haman's hatred for Mordecai develops into a plot to kill all the Jewish people.

3:2 It was a common custom to bow down before a superior (e.g., Gen 33:3). Since Mordecai served at the large gate to the palace and Haman entered the king's court through that gate, there were many opportunities for Mordecai to break the king's command and not bow before Haman.

3:6 Haman was not interested in justice; he wanted revenge. He was determined to do everything in his power to crush Mordecai, including exterminating his entire people—the Jews.

⁷So in the month of April, during the twelfth year of King Xerxes' reign, lots were cast in Haman's presence (the lots were called purim) to determine the best day and month to take action. And the day selected was March 7, nearly a year later.

⁸Then Haman approached King Xerxes and said, "There is a certain race of people scattered through all the provinces of your empire who keep themselves separate from everyone else. Their laws are different from those of any other people, and they refuse to obey the laws of the king. So it is not in the king's interest to let them live. ⁹If it please the king, issue a decree that they be destroyed, and I will give 10,000 large sacks of silver to the government administrators to be deposited in the royal treasury."

¹⁰The king agreed, confirming his decision by removing his signet ring from his finger and giving it to Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the enemy of the Jews.

¹¹The king said, "The money and the people are both yours to do with as you see fit."

¹²So on April 17 the king's secretaries were summoned, and a decree was written exactly as Haman dictated. It was sent to the king's highest officers, the governors of the respective provinces, and the nobles of each province in their own scripts and languages. The decree was written in the name of King Xerxes and sealed with the king's signet ring. ¹³Dispatches were sent by swift messengers into all the provinces of the empire, giving the order that all Jews—young and old, including women and children—must be killed, slaughtered, and annihilated on a single day. This was scheduled to happen on March 7 of the next year. The property of the Jews would be given to those who killed them.

¹⁴A copy of this decree was to be issued as law in every province and proclaimed to all peoples, so that they would be ready to do their duty on the appointed day. ¹⁵At the king's command, the decree went out by swift messengers, and it was also proclaimed in the fortress of Susa. Then the king and Haman sat down to drink, but the city of Susa fell into confusion.

3:7 in the month of April: Literally in the first month, the month of Nisan. This month of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurred within the months of April and May 474 BC; also see note on 2:16. • lots were cast . . . (the lots were called purim): Throwing the purim was like throwing dice. The Hebrews used lots from time to time to understand God's will (Lev 16:8-10; Neh 10:34). Persian astrologers used purim in the first month of the year to determine which days that year would bring good fortune. • March 7, nearly a year later: As in 3:13, which reads the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar; Hebrew reads in the twelfth month, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. The date selected was March 7, 473 BC; see also note on 2:16.

3:8 who keep themselves separate: Jews intermarried within tight-knit communities and resisted integration into the larger culture. • Their laws are different: They had a unique set of laws (eating and religious customs) and were to be separate from the sinful customs of the people around them (Lev 14:42-45; 15:31; 19:2, 26-37). • they refuse to obey the laws of the king: This accusation, which is false in general, probably refers to Mordecai's refusal to bow to Haman. • So it is not in the king's interest to let them live: Haman played on the king's fears and interests as Memucan had done in 1:16. Intolerance toward any particular group of people ran against the general Persian tendency to be respectful of other people's cultural and religious differences.

3:9 10,000 large sacks: Hebrew 10,000 talents, about 375 tons or 340 metric tons in weight. Haman tipped his hand by offering to bribe the king with a large sum of silver, which should have made the king suspicious of Haman's motives. The value of the proposed gift is so astronomical that Haman may have been exaggerating to show his intended generosity.

3:10-11 The king agreed with no inquiry. The king is presented as someone very irresponsible and easily manipulated. By removing his signet ring, the king gave up his control over official policies; by giving it to Haman, he signified that Haman had complete authority to seal the decree. • the enemy of the Jews: The narrator's new title for Haman is an ominous note regarding his power to persecute the Jews (see also 8:1; 9:10, 24). • The money and the people are both yours: It may appear that the king did not want the bribe, but 4:7 suggests that Haman did give the money. The king was following a customary protocol to make the bribe and his greed less obvious (cp. Gen 23:10-16). For the sake of public appearance the king pretended not to be interested in the money, but in reality he was.

3:12 So on April 17: Literally On the thirteenth day of the first month, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was April 17, 474 BC; see also note on 2:16. Haman's choice of the day before the Jewish Passover began (see Exod 12:6) was probably calculated to terrorize and demoralize the Jews. But as at the Exodus, God would deliver the Jews miraculously from a tyrant who was trying to destroy them.

3:13 The phrase killed, slaughtered, and annihilated is repeated with ironic effect in 8:11 and 9:5. • on March 7 of the next year: Literally on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. The date selected was March 7, 473 BC; see also note on 2:16. Haman's "lucky day" that was chosen by casting lots (3:7) was eleven months after the decree, by God's providence, giving time to overcome the decree. • The property of the Jews would be given to those who killed them: Haman ingeniously bribed the would-be executioners.

3:14-15 This decree carried the full weight of Xerxes' royal authority. • The foolish king and wicked Haman celebrated this occasion, but the people of the fortress of Susa were perplexed, bewildered, and confused at such a ruthless and unjust decree.

city, crying with a loud and bitter wail. ²He went as far as the gate of the palace, for no one was allowed to enter the palace gate while wearing clothes of mourning. ³And as news of the king's decree reached all the provinces, there was great mourning among the Jews. They fasted, wept, and wailed, and many people lay in burlap and ashes.

⁴When Queen Esther's maids and eunuchs came and told her about Mordecai, she was deeply distressed. She sent clothing to him to replace the burlap, but he refused it. ⁵Then Esther sent for Hathach, one of the king's eunuchs who had been appointed as her attendant. She ordered him to go to Mordecai and find out what was troubling him and why he was in mourning. ⁶So Hathach went out to Mordecai in the square in front of the palace gate.

⁷Mordecai told him the whole story, including the exact amount of money Haman had promised to pay into the royal treasury for the destruction of the Jews. ⁸Mordecai gave Hathach a copy of the decree issued in Susa that called for the death of all Jews. He asked Hathach to show it to Esther and explain the situation to her. He also asked Hathach to direct her to go to the king to beg for mercy and plead for her people. ⁹So Hathach returned to Esther with Mordecai's message.

¹⁰Then Esther told Hathach to go back and relay this message to Mordecai: ¹¹"All the king's officials and even the people in the provinces know that anyone who appears before the king in his inner court without being invited is doomed to die unless the king holds out his gold scepter. And the king has not called for me to come to him for thirty days." ¹²So Hathach gave Esther's message to Mordecai.

Haman hated Mordecai because Mordecai would not bow down as everyone else did when Haman passed by (3:1-5). Haman despised a man with integrity who would not obey laws that were against his own convictions. This personal hatred of Mordecai the Jew became a murderous desire to destroy all Jews (3:6). His charge against the Jewish people was what he hated in Mordecai: They did not assimilate with other people, they had unique laws and customs, and they did not obey some of the laws of the king (3:8). No other example of ethnic hatred in Scripture (e.g., Gen 46:33-34) is comparable to the hatred expressed by Haman.

Selfish pride, a desire to maintain power, and hatred for those who stand in the way have often been the basis for the persecution of racial or religious groups. Many people have died through the centuries because of such hatred. The Spanish Inquisition (1400s) and the recent Holocaust in Nazi Germany (1930s-40s) were other terrible attempts to wipe the Jewish people off the face of the earth. Today also, religious and ethnic hatred can lead to diabolical plans.

God disapproves of such hatred against any ethnic or religious group, and those who attempt to carry out such plots will eventually be held accountable by God (see Exod 20:5; Deut 30:7; Ps 21:7-11; 34:19-21; 44:7). God has saved the Jewish people and defeated their enemies, for God is faithful to all his promises (see Rom 9-11). He will similarly preserve his church through all persecution (see Matt 16:18; Rom 8:26-39).

4:1 Mordecai's dramatic response showed extreme grief and mourning (see 2 Sam 1:11; Ezra 9; Jon 3:5-9).

4:2 no one was allowed: The king did not want to hear all the sorry stories of misfortune and people pleading for mercy.

4:3 great mourning among the Jews: In these reports of lamenting, God's name is not mentioned, but the lamenting and fasting implies crying out in prayer for God to intervene and save his people (Exod 2:23-25; Ezra 9:5-15; Dan 9:1-19).

4:8 A copy of the decree with the king's seal would prove to Esther the seriousness of the situation. • to beg for mercy: Mordecai gave Esther no reasons to present to the king, only an appeal to the king's mercy and Esther's influence on him on behalf of her own people.

4:11 anyone who appears . . . without being invited is doomed to die: Access to the king was strictly controlled by his guards to prevent unwanted guests from wasting the king's time with petty requests. Since these were the official rules of the court, the danger to Esther's life was enormous. Apparently she ruled out requesting an audience with the king through a messenger, possibly because she would have to tell the messenger why she wanted to talk to the king. • has not called for me to come to him for thirty days: Esther had no guarantee of the king's favorable response.

4:12 Hathach: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads they.

4:13-14 Don't think . . . you will escape: Mordecai did not back down and did not excuse her because of the danger, and he reminded her that it would be more dangerous for her to say nothing to the king. • deliverance and relief for the Jews will arise from some other place: Mordecai knew God's promises and realized that God would not allow his chosen people to be annihilated (see Gen 12:3; 22:18; 28:14; Isa 60:1-5).

the Jews will arise from some other place, but you and your relatives will die. Who knows if perhaps you were made queen for just such a time as this?"

¹⁵Then Esther sent this reply to Mordecai: ¹⁶"Go and gather together all the Jews of Susa and fast for me. Do not eat or drink for three days, night or day. My maids and I will do the same. And then, though it is against the law, I will go in to see the king. If I must die, I must die." ¹⁷So Mordecai went away and did everything as Esther had ordered him.

Esther's First Banquet for the King

5 On the third day of the fast, Esther put on her royal robes and entered the inner court of the palace, just across from the king's hall. The king was sitting on his royal throne, facing the entrance. ²When he saw Queen Esther standing there in the inner court, he welcomed her and held out the gold scepter to her. So Esther approached and touched the end of the scepter.

³Then the king asked her, "What do you want, Queen Esther? What is your request? I will give it to you, even if it is half the kingdom!"

⁴And Esther replied, "If it please the king, let the king and Haman come today to a banquet I have prepared for the king."

⁵The king turned to his attendants and said, "Tell Haman to come quickly to a banquet, as Esther has requested." So the king and Haman went to Esther's banquet.

⁶And while they were drinking wine, the king said to Esther, "Now tell me what you really want. What is your request? I will give it to you, even if it is half the kingdom!"

⁷Esther replied, "This is my request and deepest wish. ⁸If I have found favor with the king, and if it pleases the king to grant my request and do what I ask, please come with Haman tomorrow to the banquet I will prepare for you. Then I will explain what this is all about."

Haman's Plan to Kill Mordecai

⁹Haman was a happy man as he left the banquet! But when he saw Mordecai sitting at the palace gate, not standing up or trembling nervously before him, Haman became furious. ¹⁰However, he restrained himself and went on home.

Then Haman gathered together his friends and Zeresh, his wife, ¹¹and boasted to them about his great wealth and his many children. He bragged about the honors the king had given him and how he had been promoted over all the other nobles and officials.

¹²Then Haman added, "And that's not all! Queen Esther invited only me and the king himself to the banquet she prepared for us. And she has invited me to dine with her and the king again tomorrow!" ¹³Then he added, "But this is all worth nothing as long as I see Mordecai the Jew just sitting there at the palace gate."

¹⁴So Haman's wife, Zeresh, and all his friends suggested, "Set up a sharpened pole that stands seventy-five feet tall, and in the morning ask the king to impale Mordecai on it. When this is done, you can go on your merry way to the banquet with the king." This pleased Haman, and he ordered the pole set up.

• perhaps you were made queen for just such a time as this: Esther's rise to power at this precise time was not just a lucky chance of fate—her position as Xerxes' favored wife and queen was a role that God had given her to influence history for the Jewish people.

4:16 fast for me: Esther was convinced, but she wanted as many Jews as possible to pray that God would intervene to save her life. • Do not eat or drink for three days, night or day: A total fast without any food or water often lasted only one day (Lev 16:29-31; Judg 20:26). The three-day length was consistent with the seriousness of the situation and the absolute need for God's intervention. • though it is against the law, I will go in to see the king: In spite of the danger, she determined that she must act for the sake of her people. • If I must die, I must die: She, like Mordecai, was a person of character who would do what was right in spite of personal danger.

5:2 he welcomed her and held out the gold scepter to her: She was not killed for entering the king's presence without an invitation (4:11, 16).

5:3 I will give it to you, even if it is half the kingdom! This conventional idiom meant the king would be generous toward her request. The king did not want anything to prevent Esther from speaking the full truth.

5:4 If it please the king: Esther showed proper deference (cp. 1:12).

5:8 please come . . . tomorrow: It was a customary protocol not to appear anxious about asking for a favor or negotiating an agreement. The delay provided opportunity for Xerxes to discover Mordecai's act of loyalty, which led to the foiling of Haman's plot (see 6:1-14).

5:9-14 This brief interlude emphasizes the depth of Haman's hatred for Mordecai.

5:9 Mordecai's fasting had ended and he was back at the gate operating in his official capacity. Not standing up or trembling was an even stronger refusal to show Haman honor (cp. 3:2-6).

5:14 A sharpened pole was a common device of execution (see also 2:23; Gen 40:19, 22; Josh 8:29). The Hebrew term has traditionally been translated gallows, but see the note on 2:23.

• Seventy-five feet (Hebrew 50 cubits [23 meters]) is unusually high, but Haman wanted to make an example out of Mordecai, with everyone viewing his dead body. The number might be a hyperbole for effect—50 cubits is an obviously round number—or it might reflect a stake placed high atop the city wall for public viewing.

4. THE KING HONORS MORDECAI AND EXECUTES HAMAN (6:1-7:10)

Haman Must Honor Mordecai

6 That night the king had trouble sleeping, so he ordered an attendant to bring the book of the history of his reign so it could be read to him. ²In those records he discovered an account of how Mordecai had exposed the plot of Bigthana and Teresh, two of the eunuchs who guarded the door to the king's private quarters. They had plotted to assassinate King Xerxes.

³"What reward or recognition did we ever give Mordecai for this?" the king asked.

His attendants replied, "Nothing has been done for him."

⁴"Who is that in the outer court?" the king inquired. As it happened, Haman had just arrived in the outer court of the palace to ask the king to impale Mordecai on the pole he had prepared.

⁵So the attendants replied to the king, "Haman is out in the court."

"Bring him in," the king ordered. ⁶So Haman came in, and the king said, "What should I do to honor a man who truly pleases me?"

Haman thought to himself, "Whom would the king wish to honor more than me?" ⁷So he replied, "If the king wishes to honor someone, ⁸he should bring out one of the king's own royal robes, as well as a horse that the king himself has ridden—one with a royal emblem on its head. ⁹Let the robes and the horse be handed over to one of the king's most noble officials. And let him see that the man whom the king wishes to honor is dressed in the king's robes and led through the city square on the king's horse. Have the official shout as they go, 'This is what the king does for someone he wishes to honor!'"

¹⁰"Excellent!" the king said to Haman. "Quick! Take the robes and my horse, and do just as you have said for Mordecai the Jew, who sits at the gate of the palace. Leave out nothing you have suggested!"

¹¹So Haman took the robes and put them on Mordecai, placed him on the king's own horse, and led him through the city square, shouting, "This is what the king does for someone he wishes to honor!" ¹²Afterward Mordecai returned to the palace gate, but Haman hurried home dejected and completely humiliated.

¹³When Haman told his wife, Zeresh, and all his friends what had happened, his wise advisers and his wife said, "Since Mordecai—this man who has humiliated you—is of Jewish birth, you will never succeed in your plans against him. It will be fatal to continue opposing him."

¹⁴While they were still talking, the king's eunuchs arrived and quickly took Haman to the banquet Esther had prepared.

Haman Is Exposed and Executed

7 So the king and Haman went to Queen Esther's banquet. ²On this second occasion, while they were drinking wine, the king again said to Esther, "Tell me what you want, Queen Esther. What is your request? I will give it to you, even if it is half the kingdom!"

³Queen Esther replied, "If I have found favor with the king, and if it pleases the king to grant my request, I ask that my life and the lives of my people will be spared. ⁴For my people and I have been sold to those who would kill, slaughter, and annihilate us. If we had merely been sold as

6:1 the king had trouble sleeping: God was working to protect Esther and Mordecai. • the book of the history of his reign: Ancient kings kept royal annals of their reigns.

6:2 Providentially, the king's servant happened to open the royal annals to the page describing how Mordecai had exposed the plot (2:21-23).

6:3 What reward or recognition did we ever give Mordecai? The Persian kings were known for generosity to their supporters, so the king was probably surprised that nothing had been done.

6:4-6 Just as the king was pondering what to do to honor Mordecai, Haman arrived to seek Mordecai's death. With great irony, the narrator recounts the king's consulting with him about how to reward Mordecai. • impale . . . on the pole: See note on 2:23.

6:7-9 Haman delighted in public acclaim and recognition. He wanted to be honored as the king, to wear kingly attire, and to ride the king's horse; in other words, he wanted to be king for a day. • Haman thought another one of the king's most noble officials would honor him through the streets of Susa. Instead, Haman himself would fill that role for Mordecai (6:10).

6:10-12 do just as you have said for Mordecai the Jew: With utter shock at this complete reversal, Haman could do nothing but obey the king's command, right down to the last detail.

6:13 Since Mordecai—this man who has humiliated you—is of Jewish birth, you will never succeed in your plans: Haman's wife and friends could see that this was more than just a series of coincidences. The text does not explain why Zeresh and the advisers felt that the fact of Mordecai's Jewish heritage would necessarily mean that Haman's plans would not succeed.

7:3-4 my life and the lives of my people: The statement that someone wanted to kill the queen and her family must have surprised and shocked the king. • my people and I have been sold: Esther carefully referred to the huge price Haman had paid the king to approve the decree (3:8-11). She also used the exact terminology of Haman's decree when she said that its purpose was to kill, slaughter, and annihilate (cp. 3:13). • If we had merely been sold as slaves, I could remain quiet: Esther humbly justifies her request as due to the severity of the attack on her and her people.

slaves, I could remain quiet, for that would be too trivial a matter to warrant disturbing the king."

⁵"Who would do such a thing?" King Xerxes demanded. "Who would be so presumptuous as to touch you?"

⁶Esther replied, "This wicked Haman is our adversary and our enemy." Haman grew pale with fright before the king and queen. ⁷Then the king jumped to his feet in a rage and went out into the palace garden.

Haman, however, stayed behind to plead for his life with Queen Esther, for he knew that the king intended to kill him. ⁸In despair he fell on the couch where Queen Esther was reclining, just as the king was returning from the palace garden.

The king exclaimed, "Will he even assault the queen right here in the palace, before my very eyes?" And as soon as the king spoke, his attendants covered Haman's face, signaling his doom.

⁹Then Harbona, one of the king's eunuchs, said, "Haman has set up a sharpened pole that stands seventy-five feet tall in his own courtyard. He intended to use it to impale Mordecai, the man who saved the king from assassination."

"Then impale Haman on it!" the king ordered. ¹⁰So they impaled Haman on the pole he had set up for Mordecai, and the king's anger subsided.

5. RESCUE FOR THE JEWS (8:1-9:19)

Xerxes' Decree to Help the Jews

8 On that same day King Xerxes gave the property of Haman, the enemy of the Jews, to Queen Esther. Then Mordecai was brought before the king, for Esther had told the king how they were related. ²The king took off his signet ring—which he had taken back from Haman—and gave it to Mordecai. And Esther appointed Mordecai to be in charge of Haman's property.

³Then Esther went again before the king, falling down at his feet and begging him with tears to stop the evil plot devised by Haman the Agagite against the Jews. ⁴Again the king held out the gold scepter to Esther. So she rose and stood before him.

⁵Esther said, "If it please the king, and if I have found favor with him, and if he thinks it is right, and if I am pleasing to him, let there be a decree that reverses the orders of Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, who ordered that Jews throughout all the king's provinces should be destroyed. ⁶For how can I endure to see my people and my family slaughtered and destroyed?"

⁷Then King Xerxes said to Queen Esther and Mordecai the Jew, "I have given Esther the property of Haman, and he has been impaled on a pole because he tried to destroy the Jews. ⁸Now go ahead and send a message to the Jews in the king's name, telling them whatever you want, and seal it with the king's signet ring. But remember that whatever has already been written in the king's name and sealed with his signet ring can never be revoked."

⁹So on June 25 the king's secretaries were summoned, and a decree was written exactly as Mordecai dictated. It was sent to the Jews and to the highest officers, the governors, and the nobles of all the 127 provinces stretching from India to Ethiopia. The decree was written in the scripts and languages of all the peoples of the empire,

7:5 Who would do such a thing? The king could hardly believe what he was hearing and could not imagine someone trying to do this atrocious thing. He asks for no details about Esther's accusations, assuming they were all true (cp. 3:10).

7:6-7 Esther finally identified this wicked Haman as the enemy. • Haman grew pale with fright: With this surprising and aggressive accusation by the queen and the evident rage of the king, Haman's doom suddenly became apparent.

7:8 he fell on the couch where Queen Esther was reclining: A major mistake, for no one should touch the queen, much less be on the same couch with her. • Will he even assault the queen . . . before my very eyes? This exaggerated rhetorical question implicates Haman with the worst possible motives.

7:9 seventy-five feet: Hebrew 50 cubits [23 meters]. See note on 5:14. • He intended to use it to impale Mordecai: Harbona, one of the king's seven eunuchs (1:10), was apparently no friend of Haman and was already aware of Haman's plot. • impale Haman on it! This great reversal of fortunes demonstrates the guiding hand of God. Regarding impalement, see note on 2:23.

8:1 Just as Haman had promised the wealth of the Jews to those who would kill them (3:13), Xerxes gave the property of Haman, the enemy of the Jews, to Queen Esther.

8:2 The signet ring that Haman had used to seal the decree to destroy the Jewish people (3:10) was now given to the Jewish person he had most wanted to destroy.

8:3 Esther probably expected the king to reverse Haman's decree right after he was killed, but that did not happen. This time she was much more insistent on raising the issue of Haman's plot against her people.

8:5 Esther was asking for the unusual favor of reversing a law signed with the king's seal. • the orders of Haman: Esther diplomatically avoided suggesting any responsibility on the king's part.

8:8 According to Persian law, whatever has already been written . . . can never be revoked (see Esth 1:19; Dan 6:8, 12; cp. Ps 148:6). However, a new decree with the king's royal seal could give different or competing directions.

including that of the Jews. ¹⁰The decree was written in the name of King Xerxes and sealed with the king's signet ring. Mordecai sent the dispatches by swift messengers, who rode fast horses especially bred for the king's service.

¹¹The king's decree gave the Jews in every city authority to unite to defend their lives. They were allowed to kill, slaughter, and annihilate anyone of any nationality or province who might attack them or their children and wives, and to take the property of their enemies. ¹²The day chosen for this event throughout all the provinces of King Xerxes was March 7 of the next year.

¹³A copy of this decree was to be issued as law in every province and proclaimed to all peoples, so that the Jews would be ready to take revenge on their enemies on the appointed day. ¹⁴So urged on by the king's command, the messengers rode out swiftly on fast horses bred for the king's service. The same decree was also proclaimed in the fortress of Susa.

¹⁵Then Mordecai left the king's presence, wearing the royal robe of blue and white, the great crown of gold, and an outer cloak of fine linen and purple. And the people of Susa celebrated the new decree. ¹⁶The Jews were filled with joy and gladness and were honored everywhere. ¹⁷In every province and city, wherever the king's decree arrived, the Jews rejoiced and had a great celebration and declared a public festival and holiday. And many of the people of the land became Jews themselves, for they feared what the Jews might do to them.

The Victory of the Jews

9 So on March 7 the two decrees of the king were put into effect. On that day, the enemies of the Jews had hoped to overpower them, but quite the opposite happened. It was the Jews who overpowered their enemies. ²The Jews gathered in their cities throughout all the king's provinces to attack anyone who tried to harm them. But no one could make a stand against them, for everyone was afraid of them. ³And all the nobles of the provinces, the highest officers, the governors, and the royal officials helped the Jews for fear of Mordecai. ⁴For Mordecai had been promoted in the king's palace, and his fame spread throughout all the provinces as he became more and more powerful.

⁵So the Jews went ahead on the appointed day and struck down their enemies with the sword. They killed and annihilated their enemies and did as they pleased with those who hated them. ⁶In the fortress of Susa itself, the Jews killed 500 men. ⁷They also killed Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, ⁸Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha, ⁹Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai, and Vaizatha—¹⁰the ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the enemy of the Jews. But they did not take any plunder.

¹¹That very day, when the king was informed of the number of people killed in the fortress of Susa, ¹²he called for Queen purposely match the account of sending out the original decree in 3:12. • to Ethiopia: Hebrew to Cush.

8:11 The king's decree did not permit the Jewish people to start a war but to defend themselves and plunder the property of those who attacked them (reversing the decree in 3:13). • The phrase kill, slaughter, and annihilate is an ironic repetition of the words in Haman's original edict (3:13; see also 9:5).

8:12 March 7 of the next year: Literally the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. The date selected was March 7, 473 BC; see also note on 2:16. This date was nearly a year after Haman's original decree was published (3:12).

8:13 The Hebrew word translated to take revenge could also mean to establish justice. In situations where civil government could not exercise authority over all the parties involved in a conflict, this law would allow people who were attacked to establish justice by redressing wrongs committed against them.

8:15 Just as the city of Susa had been in great confusion after Haman's original decree (3:15), now there was great rejoicing by all—they understood the injustice of the original decree and the justice of the new one.

8:17 many . . . became Jews themselves: That is, they became proselytes of Judaism.

9:1 on March 7: Literally on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was March 7, 473 BC; see also note on 2:16. • When that fateful day arrived, there were many enemies of the Jews who wanted to carry out Haman's wishes.

9:3-4 People saw that Mordecai was the man in charge, so they knew it would not be wise to oppose him.

9:5 They killed and annihilated their enemies: It was not an attack on defenseless people or a ruthless uncontrolled killing spree, but a victorious self-defense against their attackers. The phrase used here repeats the terminology of Haman's original decree (3:12).

9:6 Although most people in the fortress of Susa itself supported Mordecai, the Jews killed 500 men, a mini-revolt that probably consisted of killing Haman's relatives and close supporters.

9:7-10 They also killed . . . the ten sons of Haman: Now everything that Haman had boasted about (5:11) was gone, even his ten sons.

9:10 But they did not take any plunder: Although taking plunder from those who attacked was permitted (8:11), the Jews did not want anything to do with the defiled wealth of Haman's sons. Many years earlier, Abram had refused his portion of the plunder from the king of Sodom (Gen 14:21-23).

9:12 If the king had been disturbed by the high numbers, he would not have allowed another day of fighting (9:14-15). It seems more likely that the

Esther. He said, "The Jews have killed 500 men in the fortress of Susa alone, as well as Haman's ten sons. If they have done that here, what has happened in the rest of the provinces? But now, what more do you want? It will be granted to you; tell me and I will do it."

¹³Esther responded, "If it please the king, give the Jews in Susa permission to do again tomorrow as they have done today, and let the bodies of Haman's ten sons be impaled on a pole."

¹⁴So the king agreed, and the decree was announced in Susa. And they impaled the bodies of Haman's ten sons. ¹⁵Then the Jews at Susa gathered together on March 8 and killed 300 more men, and again they took no plunder.

¹⁶Meanwhile, the other Jews throughout the king's provinces had gathered together to defend their lives. They gained relief from all their enemies, killing 75,000 of those who hated them. But they did not take any plunder. ¹⁷This was done throughout the provinces on March 7, and on March 8 they rested, celebrating their victory with a day of feasting and gladness. ¹⁸(The Jews at Susa killed their enemies on March 7 and again on March 8, then rested on March 9, making that their day of feasting and gladness.) ¹⁹So to this day, rural Jews living in remote villages celebrate an annual festival and holiday on the appointed day in late winter, when they rejoice and send gifts of food to each other.

6. THE FESTIVAL OF PURIM (9:20-32)

²⁰Mordecai recorded these events and sent letters to the Jews near and far, throughout all the provinces of King Xerxes, ²¹calling on them to celebrate an annual festival on these two days. ²²He told them to celebrate these days with feasting and gladness and by giving gifts of food to each other and presents to the poor. This would commemorate a time when the Jews gained relief from their enemies, when their sorrow was turned into gladness and their mourning into joy.

So because of Mordecai's letter and because of what they had experienced, ²⁷the Jews throughout the realm agreed to inaugurate this tradition and to pass it on to their descendants and to all who became Jews. They declared they would never fail to celebrate these two prescribed days at the appointed time each year. ²⁸These days would be remembered and kept from generation to generation and celebrated by every family throughout the provinces and cities king was astonished that there were so many people who followed Haman and opposed the new regime directed by Mordecai. He was thinking of the political stability of the empire.

9:13 Possibly Esther knew that some of the people in Susa who had attacked Jews on the first day had gotten away and would be planning additional attacks to avenge the death of Haman. • impaled on a pole: See note on 2:23.

9:14 So the king agreed, and the decree was announced in Susa: It was not in the king's interest for there to be warring parties within the palace plotting to kill one another.

9:15 March 8: Literally the fourteenth day of the month of Adar, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar. This day was March 8, 473 BC; see also note on 2:16. • Once again, the Jews took the high moral ground and took no plunder from their enemies, though it was legally permitted (8:11; 9:10).

9:16 75,000 seems like quite a large number. The Old Greek translation has 15,000 and the Targum has 10,107 men. The Hebrew word translated thousands can also indicate an extended family or lineage, so it is possible that 75 extended families were killed (see notes on Exod 12:37; Judg 5:8).

9:17 on March 7, and on March 8: Literally on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, and on the fourteenth day they rested. 9:18 killed their enemies on March 7 and again on March 8, then rested on March 9: Literally killed their enemies on the thirteenth day and the fourteenth day, and then rested on the fifteenth day, of the Hebrew month of Adar.

9:19 The annual festival and holiday of Purim celebrates God's blessing of peace from their enemies (see Deut 25:19; Josh 21:44; 1 Sam 7:11-14). The narrator reports that the festival was celebrated to this day. Now, more than 2,400 years later, it is still celebrated annually by Jewish people. • in late winter: Literally on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar. This day of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar occurs in February or March. It is still the day on which Purim is celebrated. • The exchange of gifts of food demonstrated the unity of the people and their care for one another and helped them to spread an atmosphere of joy for everyone celebrating the festival.

9:21 on these two days: Literally on the fourteenth and fifteenth days of Adar, of the ancient Hebrew lunar calendar.

9:23-26a These verses summarize the events leading to the Festival of Purim. • impaled on a pole: See note on 2:23.

9:26b-28 This paragraph justifies Purim as an approved Jewish festival even though Moses did not authorize it along with other festival days.

of the empire. This Festival of Purim would never cease to be celebrated among the Jews, nor would the memory of what happened ever die out among their descendants.

²⁹Then Queen Esther, the daughter of Abihail, along with Mordecai the Jew, wrote another letter putting the queen's full authority behind Mordecai's letter to establish the Festival of Purim. ³⁰Letters wishing peace and security were sent to the Jews throughout the 127 provinces of the empire of Xerxes. ³¹These letters established the Festival of Purim—an annual celebration of these days at the appointed time, decreed by both Mordecai the Jew and Queen Esther. (The people decided to observe this festival, just as they had decided for themselves and their descendants to establish the times of fasting and mourning.) ³²So the command of Esther confirmed the practices of Purim, and it was all written down in the records.

7. THE GREATNESS OF XERXES AND MORDECAI (10:1-3)

10 King Xerxes imposed a tribute throughout his empire, even to the distant coastlands. ²His great achievements and the full account of the greatness of Mordecai, whom the king had promoted, are recorded in The Book of the History of the Kings of Media and Persia. ³Mordecai the Jew became the prime minister, with authority next to that of King Xerxes himself. He was very great among the Jews, who held him in high esteem, because he continued to work for the good of his people and to speak up for the welfare of all their descendants.

Purim (9:1-32)

Ps 37:23; 91:1-16
Prov 16:9, 33
Rom 8:28
1 Pet 3:12

The festival of Purim is the only OT festival not established by Moses (see chart, "Israel's Festivals," p. 235). Its name is derived from a word that means lots or dice (Hebrew purim, derived from Akkadian puru). It was a common practice in the ancient world to cast purim to determine whether God favored a particular course of action: A good number would indicate God's approval, a bad number his disapproval. Near the king's throne room at Susa in Persia, archaeologists found a small four-sided object with a number engraved on each side. A similar die inscribed with the word pur dates to the 800s BC. In the book of Esther, the Persian astrologers used purim to establish the best time to slaughter the Jews (3:7).

On the fateful day—March 7, 473 BC—God miraculously rescued his people from certain death, even as he had rescued the nation from Egypt at the Passover. Mordecai and Esther therefore formalized an annual celebration of God's rescue so that all future generations would remember what God had accomplished (9:28). The festival was widely celebrated thereafter among Jews (see 2 Maccabees 15:36; Josephus, Antiquities 11.6.13; perhaps John 5:1).

When God rescued his chosen people, the day for Jewish execution turned into a day of holy vengeance and was followed by a day of celebration. Today, Jewish people fast and pray to commemorate Esther's fasting. This fast is then followed by Purim, which is celebrated on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar (cp. the note on 9:19). On this joyous holiday they read Esther (with loud boos for Haman and hoorays for Mordecai) and have a time of feasting and rejoicing, with gifts for friends and for the poor. It is a celebration of how God providentially worked to care for his people so that they were not exterminated (9:1-17) and of how God continues to care for, provide for, and save his people (see also Gen 45:5; Ps 37:23; 91; Prov 16:9, 33; Dan 2:21; Acts 1:6-7; 2:22-23; 4:28-30; 17:25-27; Rom 8:28; 1 Pet 3:12).

9:29-32 The letter that Queen Esther . . . wrote provided further official endorsement to Mordecai's proposal (9:20-23).

10:1-2 King Xerxes imposed a tribute: Persian taxes on the provinces were heavy. This burden supported the Persian government's free spending.

10:2 The Book of the History of the Kings of Media and Persia was the Persian royal annals. While many ancient Persian records have survived, this reference to the greatness of Mordecai has not been found in any records excavated thus far.

10:3 Mordecai the Jew did not brag about himself as Haman did (5:11-12), but this righteous man who continually looked out for the good of others was rewarded with a high government position (prime minister) and the high esteem of his people (He was very great among the Jews).

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOKS OF POETRY AND WISDOM

"The wisdom literature is exciting, because it deals directly with life."

R. E. Murphy, The Tree of Life: An Exploration of Biblical Wisdom Literature, p. ix

"The final test of wisdom and character is the quality of community it engenders, a community of peace and righteousness whose arms can stretch wide enough to welcome the Kingdom of Peace."

W. P. Brown, Character in Crisis: A Fresh Approach to the Wisdom Literature of the Old Testament, p. 164

The books of wisdom and poetry (Job—Song of Songs) make a distinctive contribution to the canon of Scripture. The books of law and history (Genesis—Esther) present a narrative of God's interaction in Israel's past and express God's will to his people in the form of commands. The prophets (Isaiah—Malachi) boldly speak in the name of God. In comparison, the books of wisdom and poetry have a more experiential tone. In these books, humans express their joyful and troubled prayers to God (Psalms), offer wise advice for healthy living (Proverbs), struggle with the apparent unfairness of life (Job and Ecclesiastes), and celebrate God's creation of male and female (Song of Songs). Though these books are presented more from a human perspective than other parts of Scripture, God's voice speaks clearly and authoritatively.

SETTING

The OT books of poetry are set throughout the history of Israel from the time of Abraham (around 2000 BC) to the end of the OT period, several hundred years before Christ (around 400 BC).

The book of Job seems to be set during a very early period of time, perhaps before Abraham (though it might have been composed much later—see Job Introduction, "Author and Date of Composition," pp. 853–854).

The book of Psalms contains poems from as early as the time of Moses (Ps 90) and as late as the postexilic period, perhaps even as late as the last books of the OT (Pss 126, 137). The largest single group of psalms is associated with the sweet songster of Israel—David, who reigned around 1000 BC.

As for Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Song of Songs, their superscriptions all associate them with Solomon, the third king of Israel (971–931 BC), although portions of these books were compiled later (e.g., Prov 25–29 was compiled during the reign of Hezekiah, 728–686 BC). For more about the date and composition of each book, see that book's introduction.

THE BOOKS OF POETRY

The poetic books consist almost completely of poetry. The only non-poetic passages are found in Ecclesiastes and in the prologue and epilogue of Job. Hebrew poetry is a highly literary type of writing. Though these writings were composed in a historical context, they were written in such a way that any reader would have an easy time applying them to life. For instance, when we read Psalm 51, which was composed (according to its title) after Nathan confronted David about his sin with Bathsheba, we can apply it to our own lives as we express our repentance toward God. Similarly, the poetical form of Job makes us see that Job's struggle with undeserved suffering has implications for our own thinking about the apparent unfairness of life.

Poetry not only informs the intellect, it stimulates the imagination, arouses emotions, and appeals to the reader's will. Poetry addresses the whole person and shows that God is interested in more than just our brains. He wants to capture our hearts as well.

Poetry is compressed language. A poem says a lot using only a few words. As a result, poems should be the object of reflection and meditation—skimming is possible, but it is not a very productive way of reading poetry. Poetry is a less precise but more vivid manner of writing. Ambiguity is to be expected and often preserves a sense of the mystery of God.

Extensive use of imagery and metaphors in poetry provides a way to say a lot with a few words. Think how much the sentence, "The LORD is my shepherd" (Ps 23:1), communicates about who God is, how we relate to him, and how the psalmist feels toward him. It would take a page of prose to even begin to capture what is communicated here. Good readers of poetry must grow experienced at unpacking imagery.

The Poetry of Each Book

The Psalms and Song of Songs are good examples of lyric poetry—that is, poetry that expresses the internal thoughts and feelings of the poet. These books are written in a way that allows readers to imagine themselves as the speaker. That is why Christians find the psalms such a wonderful resource for their own prayers. It is also why the Song of Songs can be an inspiration to husbands and wives to praise the beauty of their spouse.

Job, on the other hand, is narrative and poetic dialogue. It tells a story about an innocent man who suffers and who ultimately encounters God, and it records an extended discussion between Job and his "friends" about the meaning of Job's suffering. The poetic form of the book of Job makes it easier for readers to identify with that story and learn lessons for themselves.

Proverbs and Ecclesiastes are didactic poetry—i.e., their aim is to teach. They both are interested in teaching a wise way to live. Proverbs uses poetry to give very practical advice about how to speak and act in the right way at the right time. Ecclesiastes wants to remind us that we cannot find ultimate meaning "under the sun"; Ecclesiastes keeps us from reading Proverbs in an overly optimistic manner, as if we could control and conquer life on our own resources.

Hebrew poetry occurs in other OT books as well. For instance, the books of the Pentateuch (Genesis—Deuteronomy) contain poems similar to psalms except that they are tied to specific historical occasions. For example, while Psalm 98 celebrates God's victories in general, Exodus 15 praises God for the defeat of the Egyptians at the Red Sea. The books of prophecy (Isaiah—Malachi) also utilize poetry to communicate their messages of judgment and salvation.

Literary Features of Hebrew Poetry

Hebrew poetry is identified by parallelism, a high frequency of figurative language, and a number of other secondary literary devices.

Parallelism. The normal unit of Hebrew poetry is the couplet of two parallel lines, although other formats do occur. Parallelism refers to the echoing effect between the clauses in a verse. Sometimes a verse sounds like it is saying the same thing two or more times. Psalm 131:1, for instance, might seem repetitive as the psalmist denies being prideful:

*LORD, my heart is not proud;
my eyes are not haughty.
I don't concern myself with matters too great or too awesome for me.*

However, a closer reading shows a progression: the psalmist begins by denying pride in his core personality ("heart"), then his demeanor ("eyes"), and finally in terms of his thoughts and actions.

For more on Hebrew parallelism, see Proverbs Introduction, "Genre and Style," pp. 1026–1027.

Figurative Language. Hebrew poetry uses figurative language very expressively. Its simplicity of form combines intensity of feeling and pictorial power, and allows great play of imagination. Metaphors, figures of speech, and word images communicate ideas and feelings in an intense, colorful way.

Acrostics. From time to time in the Psalms and in other poetic books we find acrostics. An acrostic is a poem in which every verse or every line in a stanza begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet (see Pss 9–10; 111; 112; 119; Prov 31:10–31; Lam 1–4). This literary device may have aided memorization, and it certainly imparts a sense of completeness and closure to the poem.

The acrostic form is just one of many different types of acoustic and word plays that Hebrew poets utilized as they wrote these poems. Unfortunately, it is impossible to fully represent these powerful literary devices in an English translation. The most important ones, however, are discussed in the study materials.

THE BOOKS OF WISDOM

In addition to being poetry, Job through Song of Songs can also be described as "wisdom literature," literature that was written to impart wisdom. Wisdom is not the same as intelligence or knowledge. Knowledge is a mastery of facts and ideas, and intelligence is the ability to gain that mastery. By contrast, wisdom is the ability to live life well. It is the ability to know the right time to say or do something, and it includes the proper expression of emotions in relationship to circumstances.

Proverbs is the most explicit of these books in its purpose of imparting wisdom—it clearly states as its purpose to make its readers wise (Prov 1:1–7). Ecclesiastes and Job contain the struggles of wise men as they seek to understand God's ways in the world; as we grapple with the same issues, we can gain wisdom. Song of Songs gives us God's wisdom in the important area of love and physical intimacy. The book of Psalms is the one book in this group that is not explicitly and pervasively concerned with wisdom, though there are many psalms that are classified as wisdom psalms (e.g., Pss 1, 37, 119; see "Wisdom Psalms," p. 937).

It is interesting to read the accounts of Joseph (Gen 37–50) and Daniel (Dan 1–6) in the light of wisdom literature. Both Joseph and Daniel illustrate the principles of wisdom in their words and actions. In the NT, the book of James is comparable to Proverbs both in its practical advice and in its understanding that wisdom comes "from above" (Jas 3:17).

PLACE IN THE HEBREW BIBLE: THE "WRITINGS"

The Hebrew Bible has a different order from the English Bible. In the English Bible, the books of poetry and wisdom appear between the books of history (Joshua—Esther) and the books of prophecy (Isaiah—Malachi). The Hebrew Bible has a different arrangement. It is divided into three parts: The "Torah" (Genesis—Deuteronomy) is the same as in the English Bible; but then the "Prophets" and the "Writings" both include some books that we would identify as historical and some that we would identify as prophetic. (See Old Testament Introduction, "The Canon of the Old Testament," pp. 4–5.)

In the Hebrew Bible, all of the poetic books are found in the third section, the "Writings." The first book in the Writings is the Psalms; Jesus even refers to this entire third section by the name "Psalms" (Luke 24:44). Then comes Job, followed by Proverbs. In the middle of the Writings are five books called the Megilloth ("Five Scrolls"), which include Song of Songs and Ecclesiastes. Each of the books in the Megilloth is associated with a Jewish festival—Song of Songs is associated with Passover, Ecclesiastes with the Festival of Weeks.

INTERPRETATION

The nature of Hebrew poetry and wisdom should remind the modern reader to consider a number of important interpretive principles.

The poet's message is given using only a few well-chosen words, written in a condensed style. This style requires the reader to avoid skimming the words; rather, we should take the time to reflect and meditate on how and what the poem says.

The poet has also carefully structured the poem so there are interesting echoes within a poem (see "Parallelism," facing page). Much of what a Hebrew poem says is in the relationships and parallels. Careful reading will discern these relationships and reveal their meaning.

The books of poetry use figurative language extensively. Particularly common are metaphors that compare two things that are essentially unlike each other except in some striking way (e.g., "The LORD is my shepherd," Ps 23:1). Metaphors call on the reader to reflect on the relationship between the two parts of the image. What is the poet trying to teach by making such comparisons? (See also "Metaphorical language," p. A35.)

While parallelism and imagery are two of the most important and frequently occurring poetic devices in the biblical poet's literary arsenal, there are a host of others. Many of these are lost in translations, so the study materials point out some of the most important.

It is important to remember that a poem is not only conveying information to its readers but also arousing their emotions and stimulating their imaginations. We should use both our minds and our hearts to read biblical poetry and wisdom.

The poets and wise teachers of Israel were not interested only in the internal life—they wrote so that we would live in ways that please God. Therefore, it is important for us as readers to ask the question, "What does this passage tell me about how God wants me to obey him?"

MEANING AND MESSAGE

The poetry and wisdom of the OT, like the books of law, history, and prophecy, are the word of God. However, in the books of poetry and wisdom, God speaks to us through the reflections, meditations, and prayers of human beings.

- The Psalms are the prayers of God's people, but their prayers provide authoritative descriptions of the true God and models for future prayers.
- The Song of Songs is a love poem, expressing the romantic desire that an unnamed man and an unnamed woman feel toward each other. In it, we learn the shape of God-pleasing romantic love in the context of marriage.
- Proverbs and Ecclesiastes describe the advice that fathers give their children (see Prov 1–9; Eccl 12:12), but that advice comes with God's own authority.

- Finally, the book of Job reports the human struggle to come to grips with suffering; here God speaks both through the human conversations and, at the end of the book, directly.

As the books of poetry and wisdom express the hearts of their human authors, they express God's own heart and thoughts. We see this most clearly in Jesus, who embodies what the human authors of these books expressed—a heart of devotion, human struggle, worship, and wisdom. As we read these books, God himself walks with us (see John 1:14; Heb 4:14–16).

THE BOOK OF Job

When suffering comes to us, we often ask why. The book of Job examines the suffering of one man who suffered precisely because he was blameless. His friends supposed that Job was guilty of some unknown sin. They tried to persuade him to repent, but Job did not accept their pat explanations. Finally, God appeared, but he did not give Job the answers he sought. Instead, God confronted him, changed his perspective, and blessed him.

SETTING

The book of Job unfolds early in the patriarchal age, before Israel became a nation. Job's wealth, like Abraham's, was in livestock and slaves (1:3; 42:12; see Gen 12:16; 32:5). He was his family's priest, as was a common practice before the law of Moses (1:5; 42:8; see Gen 4:4; 8:20; 12:7-8; 13:18; 15:9-10; 26:25; 33:20; 35:1-6; 46:1). During Job's time, the Sabeans and Chaldeans were nomadic raiders (1:15, 17), not important political and economic powers as in the late monarchical period (cp. Isa 45:14; Joel 3:8). The money was called the kesitah, which was used during the patriarchal age (42:11; see Gen 33:19; Josh 24:32). Only those who lived before the flood (Gen 1-6) and the patriarchs (Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob) matched or exceeded Job's longevity (42:16; see Gen 5:3-32; 25:7; 35:28; 47:28; 50:26). With Job, we return to the beginning of history, when mortals first struggled to know God and understand the world.

SUMMARY

The prose introduction to the book of Job (chs 1-2) provides the heavenly perspective on Job's suffering and sets the context for the human dialogue that forms the body of the work. Job was a righteous man whom God allowed Satan to test. In the heavenly courtroom, Satan argued that if God removed his blessings from Job, he would "surely curse you to your face" (1:11).

◀ The Setting of Job.

The book of Job is set in the LAND OF UZ, probably ancient Edom (see note 1:1), around the time of the patriarchs (around 2000 BC). • Eliphaz the Temanite (2:11; 4:1; 15:1; 22:1; 42:7, 9) was probably from TEMAN.

DUMAH Gen 25:14; Josh 15:52; 1 Chr 1:30

TEMA Job 6:19; Gen 25:15; Isa 21:14; Jer 25:23

TEMAN Gen 36:11, 15, 34, 42; Jer 49:7, 20; Ezek 25:13;

Amos 1:12; Obad 1:9

Instead, Job responded, "Praise the name of the LORD!" (1:21). "Should we accept only good things from the hand of God and never anything bad?" (2:10). Satan lost his challenge to Job's righteousness.

The story leaves the court of heaven and enters the council of humans as three of Job's friends come to sympathize with him. Their silent, seven-day vigil is apparently a genuine attempt to console Job (2:11-13). However, when Job breaks his silence with a bitter complaint (ch 3), his counselors begin to criticize and condemn him. In three rounds of debate (chs 4-27), their rhetoric varies from innuendo to blatant accusation. Job's friends argue that since God is righteous, he rewards each person according to what that person has done; therefore, Job's suffering must be the just punishment for some evil he has committed. To each of their speeches, Job responds by insisting that he is innocent and that his suffering is undeserved and unfair.

After the three rounds of dialogue between Job and his friends, a poetic interlude praises God as the sole source of wisdom (ch 28). When Job has made his final statement about his misery and his righteousness (chs 29-31), his three friends give up on him, saying that he is too self-righteous (32:1). Elihu (a new voice) then renews the human struggle to explain Job's suffering (chs 32-37). Finally, God arrives to challenge Job (chs 38-41). Instead of hearing Job's case, God demands answers and demonstrates his own power and sovereignty through the questions he poses. Job responds with repentance and acknowledges that he does not have the right to question God (42:1-6).

In the final prose section (42:7-17), God reaffirms Job's righteousness and faithfulness, pronounces judgment on Job's friends, and pours out final blessings on Job.

JOB AS HISTORY

The heavenly setting of the book's opening and closing tempts the modern reader to cast the book of Job as something like a parable. The poetic dialogues also suggest that it is something more than just a dry historical record. But history can be described in flights of poetry just as well as in plodding narrative (cp. Exod 14:21-31; 15:1-12; Pss 78; 105). The biblical record clearly suggests that the account of Job is historical (see "Setting," facing page). Ezekiel and James later referred to Job as an example of righteousness and endurance (Ezek 14:14, 20; Jas 5:11).

AUTHOR AND DATE OF COMPOSITION

The authorship and composition of Job is a riddle. Although the story has a patriarchal setting (around 2000 BC), the date of its composition appears to be much later. Commentators have suggested dates that range from the era of Israel's wilderness wanderings (Exodus—Numbers) to the era following the return from exile (Ezra—Nehemiah). The final composition of Job probably took place during the monarchy (1–2 Kings), when other wisdom materials such as Proverbs and Ecclesiastes were being accumulated.

Even if we accept that Job was a historical character, we still do not know who the author was, where he lived, or what level of society he came from. The author appears to have been a sage who was skilled in the use of proverbs (e.g., 4:2; 6:5-6), rhetorical questions (e.g., 21:29), and the art of eloquence. He also knew about plant and animal life, foreign culture, and antiquity, including the patriarchal period.

The book cannot be dated with certainty by reference to (1) events or people mentioned or implied in the book (the earliest reference to Job is during the Exile, in Ezek 14:14, 20); (2) theological ideas in the book that point to distinct dates; or (3) textual relationship to other material in the OT (e.g., cp. 3:3-10; Jer 20:14-18). Job may even have been edited over a period of time by a number of different people.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS

Ancient Parallels to Job. There are several parallels to the book of Job in ancient Near Eastern literature:

- The Canaanite "Legend of King Keret" tells of a king who loses his family in a series of natural disasters; his god El restores his family.¹
- The Egyptian document "Dispute over Suicide" (2000s BC) tells of a man who considers suicide and hopes that someone will take up his case with the heavenly council. Job wishes he had never been born, but he never considers suicide.²
- Also from Egypt, the story "Protests of the Eloquent Peasant" (2200s BC) tells of a robbery victim who is not treated justly. At first he is polite, but as he keeps returning to present his case, his language becomes increasingly strident. His appeal is not to his god but to local authorities.³
- From Babylonia, the story "I Will Praise the Lord of Wisdom" tells of a high-ranking, pious man who was struck down with illness and suffered the mockery of friends. Unlike Job, this man believed that he had committed some accidental sin, perhaps something that he never thought was wrong. Rather than maintain his innocence, he acknowledges his guilt and begs for mercy. His god restores his fortunes after a series of exorcisms that bring healing. In gratitude, he concludes with a long hymn of praise to his god, Marduk.⁴
- Also from Babylonia, the "Babylonian Theodicy" follows the same dialogue form that the book of Job uses: The sufferer complains, and his friends respond with rebukes. The arguments on both sides are remarkably similar to those in Job.⁵ Yet we also see key differences: (1) The "Babylonian Theodicy" is polytheistic, whereas Job is monotheistic; (2) its sufferer threatens to abandon his faith and give up obedience, even if he does end with a petition to his god and goddess. Job remains committed to the Lord throughout (e.g., 13:15-16).

Relationship to Israel's Wisdom Literature. The book of Job has the flavor of other OT wisdom literature. Job's friends follow lines of thought spelled out in Deuteronomy, Chronicles, and Proverbs. They argue that wisdom and righteousness lead to life and prosperity, while folly and wickedness lead to death and failure. Job joins the author of Ecclesiastes in questioning the simplistic, universal application of this doctrine. In effect, Job says, "Let's be realistic. Sometimes no one can explain suffering, so give me the benefit of the doubt and show me some sympathy."

MEANING AND MESSAGE

Though the book of Job does not clarify the meaning of suffering, it demonstrates that suffering is not necessarily God's retribution for sin. Job does not get an answer as to why bad things happen to good people, and neither do we. It is not the purpose of the book to explain suffering.

The central conflict of the book is between the integrity of the Creator and the integrity of a man. Heaven and earth appear to be at odds. It is too easy simply to line up with Job's three friends in denying Job's innocence. We can appeal to various NT passages that deny that any human is righteous (e.g., Rom 3:10, 23; Luke 18:19), but Job's righteousness is genuine and thorough. However, his obsession with his own rectitude sometimes borders on self-righteousness. He grows so adamant in defending his integrity that he seems ready to defy God. Job's three friends set out a view of God that is more orthodox, at least on the surface. These counselors are more than weak, imaginary straw men; they accurately develop most of the biblical ways of explaining suffering. Their theology is excellent, but their presumptuous applications go sour. They insist on a quid pro quo view of retribution, in which all the good and evil that people experience is directly related to what they have earned or deserved.

The book works within the basic commitments of OT Israel's faith. Job and all of the other speakers take seriously the covenantal ideas of blessing and cursing (Lev 26; Deut 28) and of sowing and reaping in this life (Ps 34:11-22; Gal 6:7; 1 Pet 3:10). They don't even consider solutions from outside the scope of biblical revelation (e.g., metaphysical dualism, polytheistic tensions, materialistic naturalism, deism, gnosticism, or stoicism). Instead, the book's speakers explore only biblical answers for the meaning of suffering as (1) punishment for sin (e.g., 4:7-9); (2) the inevitable lot of mortals, who tend toward sin (e.g., 15:14-16); (3) God's disciplinary work (e.g., 5:17-18; 33:15-28; 36:8-15; see Prov 3:11; Heb 12:2-13); (4) part of God's mysterious plan (11:7-8; 37:19, 23); or (5) a test imposed on earth to satisfy a heavenly dispute (e.g., 1:6-12).

Since life "under the sun" (see Ecclesiastes) is an arena too small to provide answers to all the great questions, the writer looks to the courts of heaven for a divine dimension to what takes place on earth. But the answer is not disclosed even there. Why did God entertain Satan's challenge in the first place?

In the end, God defends Job's innocence and rejects easy explanations of suffering. God also rejects Job's demands for an explanation. Since Job could not possibly understand the whole universe, he should not demand an explanation of how his suffering fits into that order. The world cannot be explained in terms that humans can fully understand.

The author of the book of Job knows what people think, what people say in whispers.

The book of Job thus offers a complex picture of God. Rather than deciding that he does not have to prove anything to Satan, "God chooses to get an open victory over Satan for his own glory."⁶ God does not even explain his role to Job. Instead, God challenges Job's right to question the integrity of divine justice (40:8).

The way to live through calamities is not just to keep a stiff upper lip but to bow reverently before God and trust his sovereign goodness. In the day of calamity, humans properly respond to God by worshiping him and blessing him for the wisdom and justice of his ways, regardless of how harsh the pain or dark the confusion. God's holy purposes for human suffering are sometimes hidden. Yet in the end, Job draws closer to God through his suffering: "I had only heard about you before, but now I have seen you with my own eyes" (Job 42:5).

Job's Integrity (1:1–5)

1 There once was a man named Job who lived in the land of Uz. He was blameless—a man of complete integrity. He feared God and stayed away from evil. ²He had seven sons and three daughters. ³He owned 7,000 sheep, 3,000 camels, 500 teams of oxen, and 500 female donkeys. He also had many servants. He was, in fact, the richest person in that entire area.

⁴Job's sons would take turns preparing feasts in their homes, and they would also invite their three sisters to celebrate with them. ⁵When these celebrations ended—sometimes after several days—Job would purify his children. He would get up early in the morning and offer a burnt offering for each of them. For Job said to himself, "Perhaps my children have sinned and have cursed God in their hearts." This was Job's regular practice.

Satan Tests Job the First Time (1:6–22) The Heavenly Council Meets

⁶One day the members of the ^aheavenly court came to present themselves before the LORD, and the ^bAccuser, Satan, came with them. ⁷"Where have you come from?" the LORD asked Satan.

Satan answered the LORD, "I have been patrolling the earth, watching everything that's going on."

1:1–2:13 God and Satan agree to a test that would bring about Job's troubles and confirm his integrity (1:20–21; 2:10). None of the book's characters ever learn of this heavenly council.

1:1 The opening phrase, There once was a man, can introduce either a parable (2 Sam 12:1) or history (1 Sam 25:2). • Job is also mentioned in Ezek 14:14, 20 and Jas 5:11. • Uz is east of the Jordan, either in Edom to the south (Gen 36:28; 1 Chr 1:42; Jer 25:19–20; Lam 4:21) or in Aram to the north (Gen 10:23; 22:21; 1 Chr 1:17, 42). Job was not an Israelite—he lived before the nation was born and outside its later territory. • Job was morally blameless—a man of complete integrity (1:8; 2:3; see Ps 25:21; 37:37; Prov 2:7; 20:11; 29:10). He did not claim to be perfect or sinless (6:24; 7:21; see also Eccl 7:20; Rom 3:23; 1 Jn 1:8), but he was righteous; his suffering did not result from guilt. He feared God (see Ps 111:10; Prov 1:7; 9:10; 2 Cor 7:1) and did not appeal to any of the ancient Near Eastern gods (9:8; 23:13; 31:26–28).

1:2–3 Job was prosperous in sons, daughters, livestock, and servants (cp. Gen 30:43; Deut 7:13; Ps 107:38). • Numbers such as seven and three (and 7,000 and 3,000) indicate the completeness of the blessing Job experienced (see 42:13; see also Ps 127:3–5; 128:3). • the richest person in that entire area: The figures that catalogue Job's wealth might not be exact, but they are realistic for a wealthy man of that time (cp. Nabal's wealth, 1 Sam 25:2).

1:5 Ritual washing and changing garments were common ways for individuals to purify themselves before offering a sacrifice (Gen 35:2; Exod 19:10, 14). • The common time for conscientious piety was early in the morning (see Gen 22:3; Ps 5:3; Mark 1:35). • cursed: The Hebrew term barak (literally blessed) is used here as a euphemism for cursing (cp. 1:11; 2:5, 9; 1 Kgs 21:10, 13; Ps 10:3). Job was concerned that his children might have committed this capital crime (Lev 24:10–16; 1 Kgs 21:9–13; cp. Job 1:11; 2:5, 9). Job understood that sinful attitudes in people's hearts constitute sin (Jer 17:9–10; Mark 7:21–23).

1:6–7 The members of the heavenly court (literally the sons of God) are heavenly beings; they may be either holy angels or rebellious demons (Gen 6:2, 4). They join God in his deliberations, including at creation (Gen 1:26) and in his rule over creation (Gen 3:22; Job 1:6; 2:1; 1 Kgs 22:19–22; Dan 3:13, 17, 23, 25; 7:9–14; Ps 82:1; 89:5, 7–8). • the Accuser, Satan (Hebrew the satan; similarly throughout this chapter): See "Satan, the Adversary," facing page). The account remains unclear as to whether Satan usually came with other members of the heavenly court to make a report or whether he was intruding as Job's adversary. • Where have you come from? The question was God's sovereign demand for a report from a subordinate (see Gen 3:9). • Satan was not patrolling to implement God's judgments (cp. 1 Chr 21:1–14; 2 Kgs 19:35 // Isa 37:36; Ezek 1:5–9) but to oppose God's purposes (2 Tim 2:26; 1 Pet 5:8).

⁸Then the LORD asked Satan, "Have you noticed my servant Job? He is the finest man in all the earth. He is blameless—a man of complete integrity. He fears God and stays away from evil."

⁹Satan replied to the LORD, "Yes, but Job has good reason to fear God. ¹⁰You have always put a wall of protection around him and his home and his property. You have made him prosper in everything he does. Look how rich he is! ¹¹But reach out and take away everything he has, and he will surely curse you to your face!"

¹²"All right, you may test him," the LORD said to ¹³Satan. "Do whatever you want with everything he possesses, but don't harm him physically." So ¹⁴Satan left the LORD's presence.

Satan Strikes Job's Household

¹³One day when Job's sons and daughters were feasting at the oldest brother's house, ^{14a}a messenger arrived at Job's home with this news: "Your oxen were plowing, with the donkeys feeding beside them, ¹⁵when the Sabeans raided us. They stole all the animals and killed all the farmhands. I am the only one who escaped to tell you."

¹⁶While he was still speaking, another messenger arrived with this news: "The fire of God has fallen from heaven and burned up your sheep and all the shepherds. I am the only one who escaped to tell you."

¹⁷While he was still speaking, a third messenger arrived with this news: "Three bands of Chaldean raiders have stolen your camels and killed your servants. I am the only one who escaped to tell you."

¹⁸While he was still speaking, another messenger arrived with this news: "Your sons and daughters were feasting in their oldest brother's home. ¹⁹Suddenly, a powerful wind swept in from the wilderness and hit the house on all sides. The house collapsed, and all your children are dead. I am the only one who escaped to tell you."

The book of Job includes "the satan" among the heavenly court (1:6; 2:1). The Hebrew word satan refers to an adversary or an accuser in court (chs 1–2; see Zech 3:1). God sometimes appoints angels as adversaries for righteous judgment and opposition to evildoers (e.g., Num 22:22, 32, where the verb satan is translated "block"; see also 1 Kgs 22:19-23; 1 Cor 5:5). The OT hints at the accuser's demonic character, but between the times of the OT and the NT, Satan became identified with the serpent in Eden (see Wisdom of Solomon 2:24). The NT refers to the chief demon as "(the) Satan" (Rev 20:2), along with numerous other names such as the devil (Matt 4:1-10), the tempter (1 Thes 3:5), Beelzeboul, the ruler of demons (see notes on Matt 12:24; Luke 11:15), the evil one (Matt 13:19, 38; 1 Jn 2:13-14; 3:12; 5:18), Beliar (see note on 2 Cor 6:15), the deceiver (Rev 12:9), the great seven-headed dragon and serpent of old (Rev 12:3, 9; 20:2), a murderer, and the father of lies (John 8:44).

Satan incited David's census (1 Chr 21:2; cp. 2 Sam 24:1), tempted and betrayed Jesus (Mark 1:13; 4:15; John 13:27), desired to test Peter as he had tested Job (Luke 22:31), enslaved sinners (Acts 26:18), and deceitfully opposed God's people (1 Cor 7:5; 2 Cor 11:14; 2 Thes 2:28). The adversary of God's people will be overcome in the end, when God defeats and imprisons him (Rev 12:9; 20:2).

1:8 my servant: This title was used for the patriarchs (Gen 26:24; Exod 32:13), the prophets (2 Kgs 17:13; Jer 7:25; Zech 1:6), and David (e.g., 2 Sam 7; Ps 18:1; 36:1). • He is blameless . . . fears God: See note on 1:1.

1:9-11 Job has good reason (Hebrew khinnam; see notes on 2:3; 9:17) to fear God: The wisdom tradition links piety with prosperity. Satan went a step further by suggesting that Job's piety was contingent upon his affluence.

1:10 wall of protection: See 1 Sam 25:16; Ps 5:12; 34:7; Zech 2:5; cp. Isa 5:5.

1:11-12 reach out . . . test him . . . Do whatever you want: Satan was God's agent; the hand he put forth was the Lord's as well as Satan's, for here they acted against everything Job possessed and later against Job himself (2:5-6).

• Job later cursed the day of his birth (3:1, 8), but he did not curse God (31:30), even when his distraught wife urged him to do so (2:9). • God allowed Satan to test Job to prove that Satan's cynicism was incorrect (1 Cor 10:11; see Jas 1:13; cp. Luke 22:31-32; John 19:11).

1:13-19 These attacks destroyed the blessings enumerated in 1:2-3; Job was left alone with the four ominous messengers who came to report and a wife who offered misguided counsel. • The repetition of while he was still speaking emphasizes the relentlessness of the attacks (see Jer 51:31). The repetition of I am the only one who escaped to tell you emphasizes the total obliteration of Job's resources.

1:15 The Sabeans were marauding bandit tribes from the desert (cp. Judg 6:3). By the 700s bc, the southern Sabeans would become a national power that traded in gold, precious stones, perfume, and slaves (Ps 72:10; Isa 43:3; 45:14; 60:6; Jer 6:20).

1:16 The fire of God . . . from heaven (20:26) might have been lightning (Lev 10:2; 1 Kgs 18:38; 2 Kgs 1:10-14), wildfire (Num 11:1-3), or volcanic activity (Gen 19:24).

1:19 That the wind . . . hit the house on all sides suggests that Job and his children were settled farmers living in houses rather than nomads living in tents.

Job Responds to the Disaster

²⁰Job stood up and tore his robe in grief. Then he shaved his head and fell to the ground to worship. ²¹He said,

"I came naked from my mother's womb,
and I will be naked when I leave.
The LORD gave me what I had,
and the LORD has taken it away.
Praise the name of the LORD!"

²²In all of this, Job did not sin by blaming God.

*Satan Tests Job the Second Time (2:1-10)
The Heavenly Council Meets*

2One day the members of the "heavenly court" came again to present themselves before the LORD, and the Accuser, Satan, came with them. ²"Where have you come from?" the LORD asked "Satan.

"Satan answered the LORD, "I have been patrolling the earth, watching everything that's going on."

³Then the LORD asked Satan, "Have you noticed my servant Job? He is the finest man in all the earth. He is blameless—a man of complete integrity. He fears God and stays away from evil. And he has maintained his integrity, even though you urged me to harm him without cause."

⁴Satan replied to the LORD, "Skin for skin! A man will give up everything he has to save his life. ⁵But reach out and take away his health, and he will surely curse you to your face!"

Satan Strikes Job's Body

⁶"All right, do with him as you please," the LORD said to Satan. "But spare his life." ⁷So Satan left the LORD's presence, and he struck Job with terrible boils from head to foot.

Job Responds to His Illness

⁸Job scraped his skin with a piece of broken pottery as he sat among the ashes. ⁹His wife said to him, "Are you still trying to maintain your integrity? Curse God and die."

¹⁰But Job replied, "You talk like a foolish woman. Should we accept only good things from the hand of God and never anything bad?" So in all this, Job said nothing wrong.

Job's Three Comforters Mourn with Him (2:11-13)

¹¹When three of Job's friends heard of the tragedy he had suffered, they got together and traveled from their homes to comfort and console him. Their names were Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite. ¹²When they saw Job from a distance, they scarcely recognized him. Wailing loudly, they tore their robes and threw dust into the air over their heads

1:20 Job tore his robe and shaved his head; both were common Near East rituals that demonstrated grief. These actions sometimes substituted for self-mutilation as a physical response to shock, horror, or bad news (2:12; Gen 37:29, 34; Judg 11:35; Jer 16:6; Ezek 7:18; Amos 8:10). • He fell to the ground, not to wail in despair, but to worship in hope (1 Pet 5:6).

2:1-3 This scene is an exact repetition of the scene presented in 1:6-8.

2:1 the members of the heavenly court: Literally the sons of God. • Satan: Hebrew and the satan; similarly throughout this chapter.

2:3 The phrase without cause (Hebrew khinnam) is a wordplay on Satan's question in 1:9. See also 9:17 and note.

2:5-7 reach out . . . do . . . as you please . . . left the LORD's presence: See 1:11-12 and note.

2:5 take away his health (literally strike his flesh and bones): Bones were thought to be the seat of health.

2:6 spare (literally guard/watch over): God ironically made Satan responsible for guarding Job's life (cp. 10:13-14; 13:27; 33:11).

2:7 This term for terrible boils was used for any inflamed, running sores (Exod 9:10; Lev 13:18-20; Deut 28:27, 35).

2:8 Job might have scraped his skin to relieve itching; the Greek OT says that it was "to scrape away the pus." • The ashes might refer to a place where lepers were quarantined, but Job was probably demonstrating his grief and dismay (30:19; Gen 18:27; 2 Sam 12:16; Isa 58:5; Jon 3:6).

2:9 Job's wife first summarized the essence of Job's temptation by echoing God's words (2:3); Job was trying to maintain his integrity. In her frustration and anguish, however, she then counseled Job to curse God and thus unknowingly fulfill Satan's prediction (1:11; 2:5).

2:10 Job's acceptance of bad as well as good things from God's hand demonstrates his righteousness and faith (cp. 1:21; 2 Sam 12:16-20; Luke 22:42). • By saying nothing wrong, Job controlled his tongue (Prov 13:3; 21:23; see Jas 3:2).

2:11 It might have taken several months for Job's friends (see note on 6:14-27) to hear of his afflictions (see 7:3). • The text implies that Job's friends were Edomites, a people who were famous for their wisdom (Jer 49:7; Obad 1:8). • Eliphaz the Temanite was probably a descendant of Esau's grandson Teman (Gen 36:10-11, 15); his land was located in Edom (Ezek 25:13; Amos 1:11-12). • The Bil- element in Bildad would remind Hebrew readers of names like Bilhan, a descendant of Esau (Gen 36:27; 1 Chr 1:42). The -dad element would remind them of names like Bedad, father of the Edomite king Hadad (Gen 36:35; 1 Chr 1:46). • Shuhite: No place named Shuah is known, but Abraham's son Shuah was sent to "a land in the east" (Gen 25:1, 6; 1 Chr 1:32; see note on 1:2-3). • The Greek OT lists Zophar instead of Zepho as one of Esau's grandsons (Gen 36:11, 15; 1 Chr 1:36). A Naamathite might reside in a town named Naamah, but no such location is known. Two OT women are named Naamah, but neither is a likely ancestor of Zophar (Gen 4:22; 1 Kgs 14:21).

2:12 they scarcely recognized him: This expression indicates the extreme suffering Job had experienced (cp. Isa 52:14; 53:3). • Job's friends mourned by wailing loudly, just as they would have done for a dead man. • tore their robes: See note on 1:20. • Throwing dust sometimes expressed anger or disdain (2 Sam 16:13; Acts 22:23), but here it signaled mourning (see Josh 7:6; 1 Sam 4:12; Neh 9:1; Lam 2:10).

DIALOGUES ABOUT SUFFERING (3:1–37:24) Job Curses the Day of His Birth (3:1-26)

3 At last Job spoke, and he cursed the day of his birth. ²He said:

³“Let the day of my birth be erased,
and the night I was conceived.

⁴Let that day be turned to darkness.
Let it be lost even to God on high,
and let no light shine on it.

⁵Let the darkness and utter gloom claim that day for its own.
Let a black cloud overshadow it,
and let the darkness terrify it.

⁶Let that night be blotted off the calendar, never again to be counted among the days of the year,
never again to appear among the months.

⁷Let that night be childless.

Let it have no joy.

⁸Let those who are experts at cursing—whose cursing could rouse Leviathan—curse that day.

⁹Let its morning stars remain dark.
Let it hope for light, but in vain;
may it never see the morning light.

¹⁰Curse that day for failing to shut my mother’s womb,
for letting me be born to see all this trouble.

¹¹“Why wasn’t I born dead?
Why didn’t I die as I came from the womb?

¹²Why was I laid on my mother’s lap?
Why did she nurse me at her breasts?

¹³Had I died at birth, I would now be at peace.

I would be asleep and at rest.

¹⁴I would rest with the world’s kings and prime ministers, whose great buildings now lie in ruins.

Job complained mightily and earned God’s rebuke for it, yet God ultimately confirmed his righteousness. Job’s fundamental complaint was that God did not allow him a fair hearing to demonstrate his innocence before God and man. Job’s friends attacked Job for trying to vindicate himself, but God upheld Job’s innocence. God rebuked Job for his overreaching self-defense with its implied criticism of God’s fairness. In a gracious but firm act of self-revelation, God rebuked Job and shifted his focus away from his troubles and toward God (chs 38–41).

In general, the Bible depicts complaining as wrong. For example, God judged the Israelites for grumbling about their hardships in the wilderness (Num 14:27-37). Nonetheless, God affirmed Job and rejected those who tried to stop him from complaining (42:7-8).

Scripture admonishes us to rejoice and give thanks in all situations (Eph 5:20; Phil 4:4; 1 Thes 5:16-18). If we want to complain in prayer, we should follow the pattern of the psalms, which lead us past ourselves and back to God. Scripture calls us to endure through suffering and to persist in prayer (Jas 5:10, 13). Job’s positive example (Jas 5:11) is not so much in how he responded to his troubles or to his comforters but in how he responded to God (40:4-5; 42:1-6).

2:13 Job’s friends sat on the ground to identify with Job’s suffering (see 2:8 and note). • The standard period for mourning the death of a notable person or for acknowledging other disastrous news was seven days and nights (Gen 50:10; 1 Sam 31:13; see also Ezek 3:14-15).

3:1-26 Job’s outburst did not mean that his integrity had cracked under the strain (42:7-8; Jas 5:11). Elijah and Jeremiah, both godly men, used the same hyperbolic language (1 Kgs 19:4; Jer 20:14-18).

3:1-10 Job spoke and thus put at risk his refusal to sin with his mouth (1:21; 2:10). • Job cursed the day of his birth in great detail. However, his words sound more like pitiful complaints. Job didn’t curse God as his creator, but he lamented the conditions of his existence.

3:5 Job longed for the sinister darkness of the underworld (Exod 10:22; Prov 4:19; Joel 2:2) and the gloom of death (10:21-22; 38:17) to claim the day of his birth.

3:8 The expression experts at cursing refers to professional cursers such as Balaam (Num 22–24). • The identification of Leviathan is disputed, ranging from an earthly creature to a mythical sea monster in ancient literature. See note on 7:12.

3:9 Venus and Mercury, the morning stars, herald the dawn (38:7).

3:10 shut my mother’s womb: Closing or opening the womb sometimes refers to conception (Gen 16:2; 20:18; 29:31; 30:22; 1 Sam 1:5-6), but here it refers to birth (see also 38:8).

3:11-24 Job’s language turns from curse to lamentation. Job alternates between repugnance for life and a romance with death. Seven times (see note on 1:2-3), Job laments his situation by asking why (3:11, 12, 16, 20, 23; see Ps 10:1; 22:1; Jer 20:18; Lam 5:20).

3:14 The dead were thought to continue their identities and social status after death. Perhaps Job wanted the world’s kings and prime ministers to acknowledge his own princely status (1:3).

- 15 I would rest with princes, rich in gold, whose palaces were filled with silver.
- 16 Why wasn't I buried like a stillborn child, like a baby who never lives to see the light?
- 17 For in death the wicked cause no trouble,
and the weary are at rest.
- 18 Even captives are at ease in death,
with no guards to curse them.
- 19 Rich and poor are both there,
and the slave is free from his master.
- 20 "Oh, why give light to those in misery,
and life to those who are bitter?
- 21 They long for death, and it won't come.
They search for death more eagerly than for hidden treasure.
- 22 They're filled with joy when they finally die,
and rejoice when they find the grave.
- 23 Why is life given to those with no future, those God has surrounded with difficulties?
- 24 I cannot eat for sighing;
my groans pour out like water.
- 25 What I always feared has happened to me.
What I dreaded has come true.
- 26 I have no peace, no quietness.
I have no rest; only trouble comes."

First Round of Speeches (4:1–14:22)

Eliphaz Responds to Job

4 Then Eliphaz the Temanite replied to Job:

- 2 "Will you be patient and let me say a word?
For who could keep from speaking out?

- 3 "In the past you have encouraged many
people;
you have strengthened those who were weak.
- 4 Your words have supported those who were falling;
you encouraged those with shaky
knees.
- 5 But now when trouble strikes, you lose
heart.
You are terrified when it touches you.
- 6 Doesn't your reverence for God give you confidence?
Doesn't your life of integrity give you hope?
- 7 "Stop and think! Do the innocent die?
When have the upright been destroyed?
- 8 My experience shows that those who plant trouble and cultivate evil will harvest the same.
- 9 A breath from God destroys them.
They vanish in a blast of his anger.
- 10 The lion roars and the wildcat snarls, but the teeth of strong lions will be broken.
- 11 The fierce lion will starve for lack of prey, and the cubs of the lioness will be scattered.
- 12 "This truth was given to me in secret,
as though whispered in my ear.
- 13 It came to me in a disturbing vision at night,
when people are in a deep sleep.
- 14 Fear gripped me,
and my bones trembled.

3:15 rich in gold, whose palaces were filled with silver: This might refer to treasure-filled tombs, but it more likely refers to the futile hoarding of wealth that ends in death (as in 3:14).

3:20 Job equated light with life (33:30; see John 1:4; 8:12). • Bitter might mean "short tempered" (Judg 18:25), "enraged" (2 Sam 17:8), "in deep anguish" (7:11; Prov 31:6), or "discontented" (1 Sam 1:10; 22:2).

3:21 People in misery long for death with the desperation of those who dig for hidden treasure.

4:1–14:22 This section begins three rounds of speeches by each of Job's three comforters, each with a response from Job (4:1–27:23). In this first round, Job's friends exhort him to seek God so that he can again enjoy prosperity.

4:1–2 Eliphaz the Temanite (see note on 2:11) was the most prominent and probably the oldest of Job's friends; his speeches are longer and more ornate than the others. • who could keep from speaking out? Eliphaz mimicked the urgency of a prophetic revelation (4:12-16; see Jer 20:9; Amos 3:8).

4:3–4 People . . . who were weak were depressed and suffered from low morale (Isa 13:7; 35:3; Ezek 7:17).

4:7 Job probably counted his children among the innocent dead (1:5), and even Eliphaz must have known that innocent blood is sometimes shed (cp. Deut 19:10; Prov 6:17; Jer 7:6).

4:8 The harvest metaphor illustrates the scriptural principle that behavior merits judgment (Prov 22:8; Hos 8:7; Rom 2:9-11; Gal 6:7-8). The NT describes the final judgment as a harvest (Matt 13:39). Jesus rejected simplistic attempts to analyze people's lives by this principle

(Luke 13:4; John 9:1-3).

4:9 They vanish in a blast of his anger: Eliphaz understood the wind of 1:19 as divine judgment (cp. Isa 40:7; Hos 13:15).

4:12–16 Eliphaz posed as a prophet, implying that God spoke to him in secret (Num 12:6); later God did speak to him, but not to affirm his counsel (42:7).

4:13 Eliphaz probably referred to the God-induced sleep associated with prophetic vision (33:15; Gen 15:12; Num 12:6; Isa 29:10).

4:14 Fear is common in God's presence (Gen 15:12; Dan 8:17-18; 10:8-10), but God tells his people not to be afraid (Gen 15:1; 26:24; Isa 40:9; 44:8). • Eliphaz's bones trembled like those of a prophet with terrible news to deliver (Jer 23:9; Hab 3:16).

Job 14:1

- 15 A spirit swept past my face, and my hair stood on end.
- 16 The spirit stopped, but I couldn't see its shape.
There was a form before my eyes.
In the silence I heard a voice say,
- 17 'Can a mortal be innocent before God?
Can anyone be pure before the Creator?'
- 18 "If God does not trust his own angels and has charged his messengers with foolishness,
- 19 how much less will he trust people made of clay!
They are made of dust, crushed as easily as a moth.
- 20 They are alive in the morning but dead
by evening,
gone forever without a trace.
- 21 Their tent-cords are pulled and the tent collapses,
and they die in ignorance.

- 5¹ "Cry for help, but will anyone answer
you?
Which of the angels will help you?
- 2 Surely resentment destroys the fool,
and ^hjealousy kills the simple.
- 3 I have seen that fools may be successful for the moment,
but then comes sudden disaster.
- 4 Their children are abandoned far from help;
they are crushed in court with no one to defend them.
- 5 The hungry devour their harvest,
even when it is guarded by brambles.
The thirsty pant after their wealth.
- 6 But evil does not spring from the soil, and trouble does not sprout from the earth.
- 7 People are born for trouble
as readily as sparks fly up from a fire.
- 8 "If I were you, I would go to God and present my case to him.

3 Jn 1:2

It was a common OT belief that righteous people would always prosper materially. Some hold this view today. The problem with this theology is that it can induce false guilt and accusations when prosperity does not come. Job's friends accepted this traditional theological view. They said that Job's troubles stood as evidence against him (19:5). They claimed that his suffering was punishment for sin (4:7-9) and pointed out that Job's penalty was probably less than he deserved (11:6). However, God's analysis of Job's life proved this idea to be false (42:7-8). God testified to his special relationship with Job and restored Job's good reputation as God's servant. He even restored Job's fortune (42:10-17).

Material well-being is not necessarily in opposition to spiritual blessing (cp. 3 Jn 1:2). Once we equate blessings with material gain, however, "the worries of this life, the lure of wealth, and the desire for other things" tend to crowd out our attention to spiritual blessings (Mark 4:19; Luke 6:25). We might even come to prefer physical stimulation, a craving for everything we see, and self-esteem based on what we own (even if we still owe many payments on it). This worldview is not Christian but characterizes worldly people (1 Jn 2:15-17).

Instead, we should regard hardships as occasions for spiritual growth (Jas 1:2-4). Job's suffering moved him from complaint to renewed humility that acknowledged God's righteous power (40:4-5; 42:2-6).

4:15 A spirit (or wind; also in 4:16) swept past my face: Wind is a physical display of God's powerful presence (38:1; Nah 1:3; Acts 2:2; cp. 1 Kgs 19:11). • my hair stood on end: Or its wind sent shivers up my spine.

4:17 As the characters in the book repeatedly acknowledge, no one is truly innocent or pure (see 9:2; 15:14; 25:4; 35:7) because all are depraved (Ps 14:3; 53:3; Rom 3:10-11). Eliphaz used these terms to mean that human beings are sinful creatures and God is the sinless Creator. Job and God used them to mean that Job had faithfully carried out the duties inherent in his relationship with God. Job and Eliphaz never agreed on the meaning of these terms. Later, God said that Eliphaz had spoken inaccurately (42:7).

4:18-21 The concept that God does not trust his own angels and that he charged his messengers with foolishness is otherwise unknown (but see Gen 6:1-4).

4:21 A tent was a common symbol for mortal life (Isa 38:12; 2 Cor 5:1; cp. Ecc 12:6).

5:1 The angels (literally the holy ones), probably a reference back to 4:18, are called "holy ones" because of their proximity to God, not because they were morally perfect (15:15; Dan 4:14; 8:13; Zech 14:5).

5:4 The court (literally the gate) was the site of legal and commercial deliberations in which Job had participated (29:7; see Deut 21:19-21; Ruth 4:1-11).

5:5 even when it is guarded by brambles: The meaning of the Hebrew for this phrase is uncertain.

5:8 To go to God meant lodging a formal appeal with God for assistance, counsel, or vindication, sometimes by way of repentance (Amos 5:4, 6) and possibly through a prophetic oracle (Gen 25:22; 1 Sam 9:9; 1 Kgs 22:8). • Job wanted to present his case to God (13:3, 15, 18; 23:3-8), and later he attempted to do so (chs 29-31).

- 9 He does great things too marvelous to understand.
He performs countless miracles.
- 10 He gives rain for the earth and water for the fields.
- 11 He gives prosperity to the poor and protects those who suffer.
- 12 He frustrates the plans of schemers
so the work of their hands will not succeed.
- 13 He traps the wise in their own cleverness so their cunning schemes are thwarted.
- 14 They find it is dark in the daytime, and they grope at noon as if it were
night.
- 15 He rescues the poor from the cutting words of the strong, and rescues them from the clutches of
the powerful.
- 16 And so at last the poor have hope,
and the snapping jaws of the wicked are shut.
- 17 "But consider the joy of those corrected
by God!
Do not despise the discipline of the Almighty when you sin.
- 18 For though he wounds, he also bandages.
He strikes, but his hands also heal.
- 19 From six disasters he will rescue you;
even in the seventh, he will keep you from evil.
- 20 He will save you from death in time of famine,
from the power of the sword in time of war.
- 21 You will be safe from slander and have no fear when destruction comes.

- 22 You will laugh at destruction and famine;
wild animals will not terrify you.
- 23 You will be at peace with the stones of the field,
and its wild animals will be at peace with you.
- 24 You will know that your home is safe.
When you survey your possessions,
nothing will be missing.
- 25 You will have many children;
your descendants will be as plentiful as grass!
- 26 You will go to the grave at a ripe old age, like a sheaf of grain harvested at the proper time!
- 27 "We have studied life and found all this to be true.
Listen to my counsel, and apply it to yourself."

Job Responds to Eliphaz

6 Then Job spoke again:

- 2 "If my misery could be weighed and my troubles be put on the scales, 3 they would outweigh all the sands of the sea.
That is why I spoke impulsively.
4 For the Almighty has struck me down with his arrows.
Their poison infects my spirit.
God's terrors are lined up against me.
5 Don't I have a right to complain?
Don't wild donkeys bray when they find no grass, and oxen bellow when they have no
food?
6 Don't people complain about unsalted
food?
Does anyone want the tasteless white of an egg?

5:9-16 Eliphaz's doxology praised God as the wonder-working Creator and Sustainer of the universe (5:9-10) and as the righteous Judge who brings down the powerful and lifts up the poor (5:11-16).

5:9-10 Job's region depended upon rain rather than irrigation (see 36:27-28).

5:13 God traps the wise in the cleverness of their words (Prov 12:13). Paul alluded to this verse in his rejection of worldly wisdom (1 Cor 1:19).

5:17 the discipline of the Almighty: See Deut 8:5; Prov 3:11-12; Rev 3:19.

5:19-26 six disasters . . . even in the seventh: This wisdom formula reflects a sense of completeness (cp. Prov 30:15-31).
• This list reflects Mosaic covenant blessings and curses (Lev 26; Deut 28). Eliphaz thought that people in right relationship with God would be free from famine (5:20, 22; see Lev 26:4-5, 10; Deut 28:4-6, 8, 11-12), war (i.e., death, 5:20) and the destruction it causes (5:21, 22; see Lev 26:6-8; Deut 28:7, 48), and slander. They will even be at peace with wild animals (5:23; see Lev 26:6) and the stones of the field. This peace might indicate fertile rather than stony fields (2 Kgs 3:19, 25; Matt 13:5), or it might symbolize wider harmony with the natural world (see Ps 91:11-12).

5:24 nothing will be missing: See Deut 28:11-12; cp. 1:6-19.

5:25 descendants . . . as plentiful as grass: See Gen 22:17; Lev 26:9; Deut 28:4, 11-12.

6:1-7:21 Job's response attacks his counselors (ch 6) and challenges God (ch 7). He excuses his passionate words by referencing the depths of his misery (6:2-3; 7:11). Job says that Eliphaz has failed to offer comfort or sympathy as a friend, having chosen instead to haggle over stale theological precepts.

6:3-4 In the OT, arrows are associated with supernatural peril, pestilence, and destructive ills (7:20; 16:12-13; Deut 32:23-24, 42; Ps 7:12-13; 38:2; 64:7; 91:5-6; Lam 2:4; 3:12-13; Ezek 5:16).

6:6 the tasteless white of an egg? Or the tasteless juice of the mallow plant? Job's riddle-like complaint probably refers both to Eliphaz's weak counsel and the detestable situation God had allowed him to endure.

Would I lie to your face?
- 29 Stop assuming my guilt,
for I have done no wrong.
- 30 Do you think I am lying?
Don't I know the difference between right and wrong?

- 7¹ "Is not all human life a struggle?
Our lives are like that of a hired hand,
2 like a worker who longs for the shade,
like a servant waiting to be paid.
3 I, too, have been assigned months of futility,
long and weary nights of misery.
4 Lying in bed, I think, 'When will it be morning?'
But the night drags on, and I toss till dawn.
5 My body is covered with maggots and scabs.
My skin breaks open, oozing with pus.

6:9 At one time, both Moses and Elijah wished that God would kill them (Num 11:15; 1 Kgs 19:4).

6:14-27 Job and his friends might have been bound by a covenant of loyalty and faithfulness (Hebrew khesed; see Gen 21:23; Exod 15:13; 1 Chr 16:34) that made them like brothers (6:14-15), protectors (6:21-23), and trusted friends (6:27).

6:14 but you accuse me without any fear of the Almighty: Or or he might lose his fear of the Almighty. Job accused his counselors of violating their covenant with him.

6:19 The city of Tema in the northern Arabian desert was at the junction of roads from Damascus to Mecca and from the Persian Gulf to Aqaba (Isa 21:14; Jer 25:23). It might have been named after one of Ishmael's descendants (Gen 25:15). It was not the same as Teman, Eliphaz's home in Edom (see note on 2:11). • Sheba, located in southwest Arabia, was a market city for precious commodities (Ps 72:10, 15; Isa 60:6; Jer 6:20; Ezek 27:22-23; 38:13).

6:27 even send an orphan into slavery (literally even gamble over an orphan): Job, the former protector of orphans (31:17, 21), used a proverbial example of his counselors' hard-heartedness toward the defenseless (see 17:5).

6:30 Don't I know the difference between right and wrong? (literally Can't my palate discern malice?): Job might have been echoing his earlier comment about a tasteless, revolting diet (6:6-7; see note on 6:6).

7:1 Human life has been a struggle since the Fall (Gen 3:17; 5:29; Eccl 1:2, 13-14; 2:11, 17; Rom 8:20-22).

7:2 A worker was to be paid at the end of each day (Lev 19:13; Deut 24:15; see Matt 29:8), though this did not always happen (Jer 22:13; Mal 3:5; Jas 5:4).

7:3 Job's trial might already have gone on for months. • The Hebrew term ('amal) that runs throughout Job is translated as "miser/miserable" (3:20; 7:3; 11:16; 16:2; 20:22) or as "trouble" (3:10; 4:8; 5:6; 7; 15:35).

7:5 Job's reference to maggots signified mortality (25:6) and the rampant corruption of Sheol (17:14; 21:26; 24:20; see Isa 14:11).

Job Cries Out to God

- 6 "My days fly faster than a weaver's shuttle.
They end without hope.
7 O God, remember that my life is but a breath, and I will never again feel happiness.
8 You see me now, but not for long.
You will look for me, but I will be gone.
9 Just as a cloud dissipates and vanishes, those who die will not come back.
10 They are gone forever from their home—never to be seen again.
11 "I cannot keep from speaking.
I must express my anguish.
My bitter ^{ksoul} must complain.
12 Am I a sea monster or a dragon that you must place me under guard?
13 I think, 'My bed will comfort me,
and sleep will ease my misery,' 14 but then you shatter me with dreams and terrify me with visions.
15 I would rather be strangled—rather die than suffer like this.
16 I hate my life and don't want to go on living.
Oh, leave me alone for my few remaining days.
- 17 "What are people, that you should make so much of us, that you should think of us so often?
18 For you examine us every morning and test us every moment.
19 Why won't you leave me alone,
at least long enough for me to swallow!
20 If I have sinned, what have I done to you,
O watcher of all humanity?
Why make me your target?
Am I a burden to you?
21 Why not just forgive my sin and take away my guilt?
For soon I will lie down in the dust and die.
When you look for me, I will be gone."

Bildad Responds to Job

8 Then Bildad the Shuhite replied to Job:

- 2 "How long will you go on like this?
You sound like a blustering wind.
3 Does God twist justice?
Does the Almighty twist what is right?
4 Your children must have sinned against him,
so their punishment was well deserved.
5 But if you pray to God and seek the favor of the Almighty,

Job 5:17-27

7:6-21 Job cried out to God, complaining that life was too brief (7:6-10). This complaint contrasts ironically with his earlier desire that God end it all (6:9).

7:7 Those who call upon God to remember are typically seeking covenant mercy (Ps 35:6; 106:4). • Job's declaration that life is but a breath (Hebrew ruakh) meant either that he was one breath away from death or that his life was like a passing wind (Ps 39:9, 11).

7:8 You see me now, but not for long: The Greek OT omitted this verse to avoid the implication that God would be unable to see Job in Sheol (see note on 7:9).

7:9 who die (literally who go down to Sheol): This is the first explicit mention of Sheol in Job. It is described as a place of rest from earthly pressures and distinctions (3:13-19) and as a dark dwelling place (10:21-22; 17:13) deep in the earth (11:8) that is covered in dust (17:16). It is the destiny of all the living (30:23) from which no one can return (10:21; see Gen 37:25; 2 Sam 12:12).

7:11 I cannot keep from speaking: Job echoed Eliphaz's inability to refrain from words (4:2).

7:12 The sea monster (Hebrew yam) and dragon (Hebrew tannin) represent chaotic opposition to God's orderly creation. In Canaanite mythology, Yam was the primordial sea god and Tannin was a sea monster (Jer 51:34) or a mythological deity of chaos (Ps 74:13-14). This kind of chaos is also represented in Job as Leviathan (3:8; Isa 27:1) or Rahab (9:13; 26:12; Isa 51:9). The Lord is sovereign over the sea and all that it represents (26:12; 38:8-11; Ps 89:9-10; Jer 5:22).

7:13-14 Job's sickbed dreams and visions echoed those of Eliphaz (4:12-16).

7:16 for my few remaining days: Literally for my days are a vapor (Hebrew hebel); see "Hebel, 'Vapor'" at Eccl 1:2, p. 1073.

7:17-18 that you should make so much of us: Cp. Ps 8:4-5, which treats the same thoughts positively. • examine (Hebrew paqad): In Ps 8:5, the same term means "to honor or care for"; Job used the term ironically, meaning "to be pestered" (cp. "attacked," Isa 26:14).

7:19 Won't you leave me alone (literally How long will you not look away from me): Job sought the opposite of the watchful care that faithful people usually seek (Num 6:25; Ps 27:9; 69:17; 80:3, 7, 19; Lam 1:9). • to swallow: This is equivalent to "a chance to catch my breath."

7:20 watcher of all humanity: Rather than praising God for his goodness expressed in watchfulness (Deut 32:10; Ps 25:21; Prov 24:12), Job blamed God for hostile surveillance, which actually characterizes Satan's activity (1:7). • Why is from the language of lament (see note on 3:11-24). • your target: See 6:4; Lam 3:12.

8:1 Like Eliphaz, Bildad the Shuhite (see 2:11) believed that Job's sufferings were God's retribution (8:3-6, 13; see 4:7-8; 5:2-3). This counselor revered the wisdom of the past (8:8-10; see 4:7, 27) and addressed Job with a mixture of instruction (8:3-6, 8-10; see 4:12-21; 5:9-16) and encouragement (8:5-7, 20-22; see 4:6; 5:19-26). His point was that Job should quit blustering. He advised Job to repent and allow God's justice to bring about restoration (8:1-7).

8:2 How long? Bildad's question might be an ironic parody of Job's question in 7:19.

8:3-4 According to Bildad, God does not twist justice, so the death of Job's children proved that they had sinned against God. Bildad divided people into the blameless (Hebrew tam, 8:20a; see 1:1) and the secretly wicked (Hebrew khanep, 8:13b). He believed that they could be differentiated by watching what God did to them.

6 and if you are pure and live with integrity, he will surely rise up and restore your happy home.

7 And though you started with little,
you will end with much.

8 "Just ask the previous generation.
Pay attention to the experience of our ancestors.

9 For we were born but yesterday and know nothing.
Our days on earth are as fleeting as a shadow.

10 But those who came before us will teach
you.
They will teach you the wisdom of old.

11 "Can papyrus reeds grow tall without a marsh?
Can marsh grass flourish without water?

12 While they are still flowering, not ready to be cut,
they begin to wither more quickly than grass.

13 The same happens to all who forget God.
The hopes of the godless evaporate.

14 Their confidence hangs by a thread.
They are leaning on a spider's web.

15 They cling to their home for security, but it won't last.
They try to hold it tight, but it will not endure.

16 The godless seem like a lush plant growing in the sunshine, its branches spreading across the garden.

17 Its roots grow down through a pile of stones;
it takes hold on a bed of rocks.

18 But when it is uprooted,
it's as though it never existed!

19 That's the end of its life, and others spring up from the earth to replace it.

20 "But look, God will not reject a person of integrity,
nor will he lend a hand to the wicked.

21 He will once again fill your mouth with laughter
and your lips with shouts of joy.

22 Those who hate you will be clothed with shame, and the home of the wicked will be destroyed."

Job Responds to Bildad

9 Then Job spoke again:

2 "Yes, I know all this is true in principle.

But how can a person be declared innocent in God's sight?

3 If someone wanted to take God to court, would it be possible to answer him
even once in a thousand times?

4 For God is so wise and so mighty.
Who has ever challenged him successfully?

5 "Without warning, he moves the mountains,
overturning them in his anger.

6 He shakes the earth from its place, and its foundations tremble.

7 If he commands it, the sun won't rise and the stars won't shine.

8 He alone has spread out the heavens and marches on the waves of the sea.

9 He made all the stars—the Bear and Orion,
the Pleiades and the constellations of the southern sky.

10 He does great things too marvelous to understand.
He performs countless miracles.

11 "Yet when he comes near, I cannot see
him.
When he moves by, I do not see him go.

8:7 you will end with much: Bildad's words were more true than he realized (42:12; cp. 5:19-26).

8:8-10 Bildad made the case for traditional wisdom by appealing to ancient tradition and history (Deut 4:32; Jer 18:13).

8:9 born but yesterday and know nothing: Bildad suggested that Job's generation was either born too late to be acquainted with ancient wisdom or was too young to have accumulated it.

8:11 Papyrus reeds grow as high as ten to fifteen feet.

8:12-13 To forget God does not mean to have a lapse of memory but to act as if God did not exist (see Ps 10:4; 14:1; Zeph 1:12) or cannot see (see 22:13-17; Ps 94:7).

8:16-17 In this parable, a plant with roots that grow down through a pile of stones gains stability by becoming entwined with the rocks.

9:1-35 Job responded to Bildad by describing God's cosmic and judicial power. His speech sounds like a complicated legal case, with a summons and response (9:3b, 14-16, 19b, 32), the possibility of self-incrimination (9:20), an arbiter (9:33-34), an accusatory question (9:12b), a legal sentence (9:22), and a declaration of guilt (9:28b-30).

9:3 If someone wanted to take God to court: Or If God wanted to take someone to court. Job later expressed the wish to meet God in court (13:3, 15, 23; 23:4).

9:5-6 When God moves the mountains and when the foundations of the earth tremble, it is a sign of his presence as lawgiver (Exod 19:18), judge (Jer 4:24), or rescuer (Ps 18:7; Isa 13:13; 29:6).

9:9 The Bear (also at 38:32) is commonly identified as Arcturus but might also refer to the constellations of Ursa Minor or Leo. • The Pleiades is a group of seven stars (38:31; Amos 5:8).

- 12 If he snatches someone in death, who can stop him?
Who dares to ask, 'What are you doing?'
- 13 And God does not restrain his anger.
Even the monsters of the ^asea are crushed beneath his feet.
- 14 "So who am I, that I should try to answer God or even reason with him?
- 15 Even if I were right, I would have no defense.
I could only plead for mercy.
- 16 And even if I summoned him and he responded,
I'm not sure he would listen to me.
- 17 For he attacks me with a storm and repeatedly wounds me without cause.
- 18 He will not let me catch my breath,
but fills me instead with bitter sorrows.
- 19 If it's a question of strength, he's the strong one.
If it's a matter of justice, who dares to summon him to court?
- 20 Though I am innocent, my own mouth would pronounce me guilty.
Though I am blameless, it would prove me wicked.
- 21 "I am innocent,
but it makes no difference to me—I despise my life.
- 22 Innocent or wicked, it is all the same to God.
That's why I say, 'He destroys both the blameless and the wicked.'
- 23 When a plague sweeps through,
he laughs at the death of the innocent.
- 24 The whole earth is in the hands of the wicked, and God blinds the eyes of the judges.
If he's not the one who does it, who is?
- 25 "My life passes more swiftly than a runner.
It flees away without a glimpse of happiness.

- 26 It disappears like a swift papyrus boat, like an eagle swooping down on its prey.
- 27 If I decided to forget my complaints, to put away my sad face and be cheerful,
- 28 I would still dread all the pain,
for I know you will not find me innocent, O God.
- 29 Whatever happens, I will be found guilty.
So what's the use of trying?
- 30 Even if I were to wash myself with soap and clean my hands with lye,
- 31 you would plunge me into a muddy ditch,
and my own filthy clothing would hate me.
- 32 "God is not a mortal like me,
so I cannot argue with him or take him to trial.
- 33 If only there were a mediator between us, someone who could bring us together.
- 34 The mediator could make God stop beating me, and I would no longer live in terror of his punishment.
- 35 Then I could speak to him without fear,
but I cannot do that in my own strength.

Job Pleads with God

- 10 ¹"I am disgusted with my life.
Let me complain freely.
My bitter soul must complain.
- ² I will say to God, 'Don't simply condemn me—tell me the charge you are bringing against me.
- ³ What do you gain by oppressing me?
Why do you reject me, the work of your own hands,
while smiling on the schemes of the wicked?

Do you see things only as people see them?

9:13 monsters of the sea (literally the helpers of Rahab): Job personified demonic powers as creatures like this mythical sea monster that represents chaos in ancient literature (26:12; Ps 89:11; Isa 51:9).

9:17 with a storm: Perhaps the words translated "with a storm" (bis'arah) is a double entendre with besa'arah ("for a hair"; i.e., "for the littlest thing"), which would parallel without cause (Hebrew khinnam; see notes on 1:9-11; 2:3).

9:18 catch my breath: See note on 7:19.

9:19 summon him: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads summon me.

9:20 it: Or he.

9:21 Job was indeed innocent (1:1, 7; 2:3), and he maintained this claim throughout the debate (23:11-12; 27:5; 31:1-40).

9:23 plague: Or disaster.

9:28 The word you makes it clear that this is a prayer, although the phrase O God is not explicit in the Hebrew.

9:30 wash myself: Job spoke of cleansing himself with the strongest soap to represent ridding himself of all sin (1:5; cp. Ps 26:6; Matt 27:24).

9:31 The muddy ditch (literally pit) can refer to the place of the dead (17:14; 33:18), so it might allude to the defilement of death. • The filthy clothing of guilt contrasts with the clean clothes of acquittal (Zech 3:3-5; see Isa 61:10; 64:6; Rev 19:8).

The book of Job invites us to examine the basis of our faith in God. Job’s loss of possessions and family members and the alienation of his friends shook his faith to its foundation. However, he kept his faith by trusting in God, and he gave the lie to Satan’s accusations.

Even in his complaints, Job acknowledged that only God could provide the answers he needed. When Job wished for death, it was to gain relief until God could deal with him under more favorable conditions (14:13). When Job desired a mediator (9:33-35), it was to facilitate finding favor with God. When Job complained that God didn’t listen, it was because he knew that his answers had to come from God (19:25-27). That is the very essence of faith.

Sin does bring suffering, but Satan’s accusation that suffering people must have sinned is not necessarily true (Isa 54:17; Rom 8:1). Some today blindly follow Job’s friends in equating godliness with blessing. But at its root, this equation expresses unbelief because it refuses to realize that “what we suffer now is nothing compared to the glory he will reveal to us later” (Rom 8:18). As the apostle Paul reminds us, “We must also share his suffering” (Rom 8:17).

We are not meant to know or understand everything (see Gen 2:17; Deut 29:29; Acts 1:7; 1 Thes 5:1-2). Some things are for God alone to comprehend and direct according to his sovereign will. Our response should be to accept in faith what he sends us. Even when we suffer, we can trust God (see Rom 8:26-39).

9:32-33 A mediator would not judge God and man but would work to bring them together (see 16:19-21).

10:8-11 A succession of images describes God’s role in creating Job. • You formed me with your hands . . . made me from dust: This was how a potter made a vessel (Isa 45:9; Jer 18:1-12). Although the potter has incontestable sovereignty over his clay (Isa 45:9;

Jer 18:5-12; Rom 9:20-25), Job was questioning God. • back to dust: This common motif in Job represents the temporary nature of life (4:19; 7:9-10, 21; 14:1-2, 10; see Gen 3:19). • You guided my conception and formed me in the womb: The Hebrew terminology (literally You poured me out like milk and curdled me like cheese) evokes graphic images of a newborn baby still covered with the creamy substance called vernix.

10:20-22 Earlier, Job had painted a fairly pleasant picture of Sheol (3:13-19); now he describes it as a land of darkness and utter gloom (see also 7:9-10; 14:7-22).

Zophar Responds to Job

11 Then Zophar the Naamathite replied to Job:

² "Shouldn't someone answer this torrent of words?

Is a person proved innocent just by a lot of talking?

³ Should I remain silent while you babble on?

When you mock God, shouldn't someone make you ashamed?

⁴ You claim, 'My beliefs are pure,' and 'I am clean in the sight of God.'

⁵ If only God would speak; if only he would tell you what he thinks!

⁶ If only he would tell you the secrets of wisdom, for true wisdom is not a simple matter. Listen! God is doubtless punishing you far less than you deserve!

⁷ "Can you solve the mysteries of God? Can you discover everything about the Almighty?

⁸ Such knowledge is higher than the ^bheavens—and who are you?

It is deeper than the underworld—what do you know?

⁹ It is broader than the earth and wider than the sea.

¹⁰ If God comes and puts a person in prison or calls the court to order, who can stop him?

¹¹ For he knows those who are false, and he takes note of all their sins.

¹² An empty-headed person won't become wise any more than a wild donkey can bear a human child.

¹³ "If only you would prepare your heart and lift up your hands to him in prayer!

¹⁴ Get rid of your sins, and leave all iniquity behind you.

¹⁵ Then your face will brighten with innocence.

You will be strong and free of fear.

¹⁶ You will forget your misery; it will be like water flowing away.

¹⁷ Your life will be brighter than the noonday.

Even darkness will be as bright as morning.

¹⁸ Having hope will give you courage.

You will be protected and will rest in safety.

¹⁹ You will lie down unafraid, and many will look to you for help.

²⁰ But the wicked will be blinded.

They will have no escape. Their only hope is death."

Job Responds to Zophar

12 Then Job spoke again:

² "You people really know everything, don't you?

And when you die, wisdom will die with you!

³ Well, I know a few things myself—and you're no better than I am.

Who doesn't know these things you've been saying?

⁴ Yet my friends laugh at me, for I call on God and expect an answer.

I am a just and ^cblameless man, yet they laugh at me.

⁵ People who are at ease mock those in trouble.

They give a push to people who are stumbling.

⁶ But robbers are left in peace, and those who provoke God live in safety—though God keeps them in his power.

⁷ "Just ask the animals, and they will teach you.

Ask the birds of the sky, and they will tell you.

11:1 Zophar the Naamathite (see note on 2:11), the most severe of Job's three friends, dealt only with the issue of sin.

11:2-3 this torrent of words: Verbosity is characteristic of fools (Prov 10:8, 14) and sinners (Prov 10:19), but Job was innocent. • mock God: Zophar viewed Job's words about God's justice as sinfully sarcastic (10:2-7, 13-15).

11:4 My beliefs are pure: Job was not defining doctrine but defending his own integrity.

11:5-6 punishing you . . . less than you deserve: Zophar believed that calamity indicated divine retribution for sins (cp. 34:36).

11:7 No one can discover everything about the Almighty (literally find out the limits of the Almighty), who is beyond the limits of the heavens, underworld, land, and sea (11:8-9).

11:8 than the underworld: Hebrew than Sheol. See note on 7:9.

11:12 any more than a wild donkey can bear a human child: Or any more than a wild male donkey can bear a tame colt. The Hebrew can be translated either way.

11:13-14 Zophar laid out three conditions for restoration (11:15): (1) prepare your heart, in an inward act that is not just a ritual; (2) lift up your hands, a symbolic gesture of prayer, appeal (Exod 9:29; Prov 1:24; Isa 1:15), or surrender; (3) leave all iniquity, not by sacrifice and remorse, but by quitting the sin (cp. Heb 11:6; Jas 4:8; 5:16).

12:1-14:22 In his longest speech thus far, Job addresses not only Zophar's remarks but the entire first round of speeches.

12:7-9 A switch from you (plural in 12:2-3) to you (singular here) probably indicates that Job is directing his comments to Zophar.

The book of Proverbs teaches that many counselors are good because they provide safety (Prov 11:14; 24:6) and improve our odds of success (Prov 15:22). The book of Job shows that counselors can also mislead, even when their theology is orthodox (12:17; see 26:3; 38:2; 42:3).

Job's comforters repeatedly elaborated on the biblical principle of sowing and reaping, which was deeply embedded in the covenant (Lev 26; Deut 28; Prov 1:31; 22:8; Hos 8:7; Gal 6:7-8). We can't simply reject their words because much of what they said is correct teaching about God's nature and his ways of working with human beings. However, Job's friends misapplied this principle (see 4:8). They didn't look at Job's life, point out where he had sown evil, and then threaten divine judgment. Instead, they ignored Job's faithful pattern of life, focused on his torment, and concluded that he was reaping the effects of sin. God eventually called these counselors liars, reminding us that even the most orthodox theology must be rightly applied in order to please God and build up others (Prov 15:2-4, 23; 25:11; Isa 50:4; Eph 4:29).

While it is good to weigh advice from various sources, we must compare the counsel of others with what we believe to be right before God (see, e.g., Acts 20:22; 21:4, 11, 13). God might use human counselors to help us define his will, but God himself guides us. Jesus Christ is our "Wonderful Counselor" (Isa 9:6; see Isa 28:29), who embodies "all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge" (Col 2:3). We must be led by God's Spirit (Rom 8:14).

12:7-8 ask the animals . . . birds . . . earth . . . fish: Job believed that the reason for his misery was obvious and that even nature would understand it (Prov 6:6). Later, God directed Job's attention to the animal kingdom to convince Job that he did not understand (chs 38-40).

12:9 that my disaster: Literally that this. • from the hand of the Lord: This is the only place in the dialogues (chs 3-27; 29-37) that the Hebrew Yahweh ("the LORD") is used. For Job, the dispute was not about who caused his misery but why it happened.

12:11 the mouth distinguishes between foods: See 6:6-7.

12:12 Wisdom belongs to the aged: Job's friends defended this opinion (8:8-10; 15:10; 32:6-9), but Job questioned it (12:20).

12:17 stripped of good judgment: The NLT adds "of good judgment" for clarity. In this image, God metaphorically strips leaders of their abilities. It could also refer to being stripped of the symbols of office or to becoming naked captives (12:18-19).

12:18 When God removes the royal robe of kings, he takes away the symbols of their authority (cp. 19:9). It could also be translated as "God loosens the bonds of kings," referring to the bondage they have imposed on others.

12:19 The priests are figuratively stripped of status (the NLT adds "of status" for clarity) or are actually stripped of priestly robes; they might even be naked captives (12:18).

12:21 pours disgrace upon princes: Cp. Ps. 107:40. • disarms (literally looses the belt of): The strong are no longer girded for battle.

12:22 uncovers mysteries (literally uncovers the deeps): This phrase might allude to Zophar's words that God's knowledge is "deeper than the underworld" (11:8). • darkness . . . deepest gloom: The OT often describes God as dwelling in darkness (1 Kgs 8:12; 2 Chr 6:1) and as manifesting himself through darkness (2 Sam 22:10, 12; Ps 18:9, 11), as when he gave the law at Sinai (Deut 4:11; 5:22-23) or when he comes in judgment (Zeph 1:15).

- ²³ He builds up nations, and he destroys them.
He expands nations, and he abandons them.
- ²⁴ He strips kings of understanding and leaves them wandering in a pathless wasteland.
- ²⁵ They grope in the darkness without a light.
He makes them stagger like drunkards.

Job Wants to Argue His Case

- 13 ¹ "Look, I have seen all this with my own eyes and heard it with my own ears, and now I understand.
- ² I know as much as you do.
You are no better than I am.
- ³ As for me, I would speak directly to the Almighty.
I want to argue my case with God himself.
- ⁴ As for you, you smear me with lies.
As physicians, you are worthless quacks.
- ⁵ If only you could be silent!
That's the wisest thing you could do.
- ⁶ Listen to my charge;
pay attention to my arguments.
- ⁷ "Are you defending God with lies?
Do you make your dishonest arguments for his sake?
- ⁸ Will you slant your testimony in his favor?
Will you argue God's case for him?
- ⁹ What will happen when he finds out what you are doing?
Can you fool him as easily as you fool people?
- ¹⁰ No, you will be in trouble with him if you secretly slant your testimony in his favor.

- ¹¹ Doesn't his majesty terrify you?
Doesn't your fear of him overwhelm you?
- ¹² Your platitudes are as "valuable as ashes.
Your defense is as fragile as a clay pot.
- ¹³ "Be silent now and leave me alone.
Let me speak, and I will face the consequences.
- ¹⁴ Why should I put myself in mortal danger and take my life in my own hands?
- ¹⁵ God might kill me, but I have no other "hope.
I am going to argue my case with him.
- ¹⁶ But this is what will save me—I am not godless.
If I were, I could not stand before him.
- ¹⁷ "Listen closely to what I am about to say.
Hear me out.
- ¹⁸ I have prepared my case;
I will be proved innocent.
- ¹⁹ Who can argue with me over this?
And if you prove me wrong, I will remain silent and die.

Job Asks How He Has Sinned

- ²⁰ "O God, grant me these two things, and then I will be able to face you.
- ²¹ Remove your heavy hand from me, and don't terrify me with your awesome presence.
- ²² Now summon me, and I will answer!
Or let me speak to you, and you reply.
- ²³ Tell me, what have I done wrong?
Show me my rebellion and my sin.
- ²⁴ Why do you turn away from me?
Why do you treat me as your enemy?
- ²⁵ Would you terrify a leaf blown by the wind?
Would you chase dry straw?
- ²⁶ "You write bitter accusations against me and bring up all the sins of my youth.
- ²⁷ You put my feet in stocks.
You examine all my paths.
You trace all my footprints.

12:23-24 Cp. Dan 2:21. • strips kings of understanding: See 12:18; cp. Dan 4:23, 32-33. • He . . . leaves them wandering in a pathless wasteland like the princes in Ps 107:40 (see 12:21).

12:25 Perhaps foolish counsel made the kings stagger like drunkards (12:17; see Isa 19:14); it resulted from "drinking" God's wrath (Ps 75:8; Jer 25:15-27).

13:1-2 Job appealed to experience, as his comforters had done (3:12-17; 5:2).

13:7-10 defending God with lies: False witnesses were forbidden even if speaking on God's behalf (Exod 20:16).

13:12 Ashes are worthless (cp. Isa 44:20).

13:15 but I have no other hope: An alternate reading in the Masoretic Text reads but I hope in him.

13:20-21 Job had contemplated finding an arbiter to remove God's heavy hand (9:33-34). Eliphaz had urged Job to accept God's chastening (5:17).

13:22-23 Job wanted God to summon him, and then Job would answer in his own defense; or Job would speak to God, and then God would reply to substantiate the charges against Job. Since God did not take the first option, Job initiated the second one (13:23). Eventually, God did summon Job (38:1-3; 40:1-2), and Job was unable to reply (40:3-5).

13:24 Why? See note on 3:11-24. • God can turn away in wrath (Deut 31:18; Isa 54:8; Jer 33:5) or refuse to show friendship (Ps 30:7; 69:17; 102:2). • Job, perhaps playing on his own name ('iyyob), denied that he was God's enemy ('oyeb).

13:25 In the OT, dry straw is a common image for what can be blown away ("chaff," Ps 83:13; Isa 40:24; Jer 13:24) or burned (Exod 15:7; Isa 47:14; Mal 4:1; see also "dry grass," Isa 5:24; 33:11), or for what is weak (41:20-21) and trifling (Isa 41:2).

Job 6:26

28 I waste away like rotting wood, like a moth-eaten coat.

14 ¹ "How frail is humanity!
How short is life, how full of
trouble!

² We blossom like a flower and then wither.

Like a passing shadow, we quickly disappear.

³ Must you keep an eye on such a frail creature
and demand an accounting from me?

⁴ Who can bring purity out of an impure person?
No one!

⁵ You have decided the length of our lives.
You know how many months we will live,
and we are not given a minute longer.

⁶ So leave us alone and let us rest!
We are like hired hands, so let us finish our work in peace.

⁷ "Even a tree has more hope!
If it is cut down, it will sprout again and grow new branches.

⁸ Though its roots have grown old in the earth
and its stump decays,

⁹ at the scent of water it will bud and sprout again like a new seedling.

¹⁰ "But when people die, their strength is gone.
They breathe their last, and then where are they?

¹¹ As water evaporates from a lake and a river disappears in drought,

¹² people are laid to rest and do not rise again.

Until the heavens are no more, they will not wake up nor be roused from their sleep.

¹³ "I wish you would hide me in the grave and forget me there until your anger has passed.

But mark your calendar to think of me
again!

¹⁴ Can the dead live again?

If so, this would give me hope through all my years of struggle, and I would eagerly await the release of death.

¹⁵ You would call and I would answer, and you would yearn for me, your handiwork.

¹⁶ For then you would guard my steps, instead of watching for my sins.

¹⁷ My sins would be sealed in a pouch, and you would cover my guilt.

¹⁸ "But instead, as mountains fall and crumble
and as ¹rocks fall from a cliff,

¹⁹ as water wears away the stones and floods wash away the soil, so you destroy people's hope.

²⁰ You always overpower them, and they pass from the scene.
You disfigure them in death and send them away.

²¹ They never know if their children grow up in honor or sink to insignificance.

²² They suffer painfully;
their life is full of trouble."

Second Round of Speeches (15:1–21:34)
Eliphaz Responds to Job

15 Then Eliphaz the Temanite replied:

² "A wise man wouldn't answer with such empty talk!

You are nothing but a windbag.

³ The wise don't engage in empty chatter.
What good are such words?

⁴ Have you no fear of God,
no reverence for him?

14:1–2 The flower is an image of life's brevity (Ps 90:5–6; 103:15–16; Isa 40:6–7). * A shadow passes swiftly (1 Chr
29:15; Ps 102:11).

14:3 keep an eye on: Job lamented
God's relentless surveillance (7:8, 17–20; 10:6, 14; 13:27).

14:12 do not rise again: Job himself did not have even the minimal evidence of resurrection found in the OT (2 Kgs 13:21; Isa 26:19; Dan 12:2; cp. Job 19:25). * Job was not focusing on the end of the universe when the heavens will be no more (Ps 102:25–26; Isa 34:4; 51:6; Heb 1:10–12) but on the eternity of the heavens (Ps 148:6; cp. Ps 72:5, 7, 17; 89:29, 37). His phrase refers to the permanency of death.

14:13 Since the grave is a permanent abode (14:10–12, see 3:13–19; 7:6–10; 10:20–22), Job could not even fulfill his request of 13:20–21 by hiding temporarily in the grave (Hebrew in Sheol).

14:16 guard my steps: Here, Job refers to God's providential care (10:12) rather than to his surveillance (13:27; 14:3).

14:17 If sins are sealed in a pouch they do not await a time of reckoning (Deut 32:34–35; Hos 13:12)—they are hidden forever. Job was requesting acquittal.

14:22 Job no longer saw Sheol as a haven (3:17–19; 14:13–17). The OT usually depicts the dead as being without feeling (Ps 88:12; Ecd 9:5; cp. Isa 50:11; 66:24); the doctrine that the dead suffer painfully is clearer in the NT (Luke 16:23, 28; Rev 14:11).

15:1–21:34 In this second round of speeches, Job's friends focus on the fate of the wicked and imply that Job's condition shows he has sinned.

15:2–3 You are nothing but a windbag
(literally You fill your belly with the east wind): Since the east wind was hot, it might represent heated (Exod 14:21;
Hos 13:15; Jon 4:8) or violent (27:21; Jer 18:17) speech.

15:4 Have you no fear of God? See note on 1:1.

- 5 Your sins are telling your mouth what to say.
Your words are based on clever deception.
- 6 Your own mouth condemns you, not I.
Your own lips testify against you.
- 7 "Were you the first person ever born?
Were you born before the hills were made?"
- 8 Were you listening at God's secret council?
Do you have a monopoly on wisdom?
- 9 What do you know that we don't?
What do you understand that we do not?
- 10 On our side are aged, gray-haired men much older than your father!
- 11 "Is God's comfort too little for you?
Is his gentle word not enough?"
- 12 What has taken away your reason?
What has weakened your vision, 13 that you turn against God and say all these evil things?
- 14 Can any mortal be pure?
Can anyone born of a woman be just?
- 15 Look, God does not even trust the angels.
Even the heavens are not absolutely pure in his sight.
- 16 How much less pure is a corrupt and sinful person with a thirst for wickedness!
- 17 "If you will listen, I will show you.
I will answer you from my own experience.
- 18 And it is confirmed by the reports of wise men who have heard the same thing from their fathers—
- 19 from those to whom the land was given long before any foreigners arrived.
- 20 "The wicked writhe in pain throughout their lives.
Years of trouble are stored up for the ruthless.
- 21 The sound of terror rings in their ears, and even on good days they fear the attack of the destroyer.
- 22 They dare not go out into the darkness for fear they will be murdered.
- 23 They wander around, saying, 'Where can I find bread?'
They know their day of destruction is near.
- 24 That dark day terrifies them.
They live in distress and anguish, like a king preparing for battle.
- 25 For they shake their fists at God,
defying the Almighty.
- 26 Holding their strong shields,
they defiantly charge against him.
- 27 "These wicked people are heavy and prosperous;
their waists bulge with fat.
- 28 But their cities will be ruined.
They will live in abandoned houses that are ready to tumble down.
- 29 Their riches will not last,
and their wealth will not endure.
Their possessions will no longer spread across the horizon.

15:29 Job 27:16-17

15:6 Your own mouth condemns you: Job feared that this would happen (9:20; see Matt 26:65).

15:7-8 When the Lord himself later issued a similar challenge, Job found it convicting (38:1-11).

15:8 The book's readers know about God's secret council (1:6-12; 2:1-6; see 1 Kgs 22:19-20; Ps 89:5-7), but Job and his company did not.

15:9-10 Aged, gray-haired men claim a monopoly on wisdom (8:8-10; 12:20; see 12:2).

15:12 What has weakened your vision (Or Why do your eyes flash with anger; Hebrew reads Why do your eyes blink): This sentence might be a metaphor for unbelief, or it could indicate winking like a schemer or blinking in disbelief.

15:14 Can any mortal be pure? Eliphaz repeated himself (4:17-19) and Job (7:17; 14:4). • anyone born of a woman:

Both "mortal" and "born of woman" imply weakness.

15:15 the angels: Literally the holy ones. • The heavens, traditionally associated with purity (Exod 24:10), were not absolutely pure; they had been defiled, perhaps by rebellious angels (1:6-7).

15:17-19 before any foreigners arrived: Eliphaz's contempt for foreign ideas is ironic because wisdom literature has a more international flavor than is characteristic of other OT writings.

15:20-35 The wicked also suffer everything that happened to Job (see 1:16-19)—attacks by marauders (15:21), loss of possessions (15:29), crumbled houses (15:28), and fire (15:30, 34).

15:21 Although Eliphaz generalized the terror that the wicked experience, Job had undergone similar experiences (3:25; 6:4; 9:34; 13:11, 21; 23:15; 27:20; 30:15). Bildad (18:11, 14) and Zophar (20:25) spoke of more terror to come. • The Sabeans and Chaldeans were examples of the destroyer (1:13-17), but this could refer to any destructive agent (1:18-19). Destroyers might be agents of Satan (1 Cor 10:10; Rev 9:11) or divine agents that punish wickedness (Exod 12:23; 2 Sam 24:16; 2 Chr 32:21; Acts 12:23; Heb 11:28). Eliphaz meant the latter.

15:22 for fear they will be murdered (literally he is marked for the sword): The wicked might be killed by murder or by the sword of God's wrath.

15:23 They wander around, saying, "Where can I find bread?": The Greek version reads He is appointed to be food for a vulture. Like the wicked (15:20), Job either experienced hunger (see 15:27) or (following the Greek OT) had been "appointed to be food for a vulture," which would parallel "marked for the sword" (15:22).

15:25 Job had complained earlier that God was treating him like a formidable foe (7:23; 13:24).

Job Responds to Eliphaz

- 16 Then Job spoke again:
2 "I have heard all this before.
What miserable comforters you are!
3 Won't you ever stop blowing hot air?
What makes you keep on talking?
4 I could say the same things if you were in my place.
I could spout off criticism and shake my head at you.
5 But if it were me, I would encourage you.
I would try to take away your grief.

- 6 Instead, I suffer if I defend myself,
and I suffer no less if I refuse to speak.
7 "O God, you have ground me down and devastated my family.
8 As if to prove I have sinned, you've reduced me to skin and bones.
My gaunt flesh testifies against me.
9 God hates me and angrily tears me apart.
He snaps his teeth at me and pierces me with his eyes.
10 People jeer and laugh at me.
They slap my cheek in contempt.
A mob gathers against me.
11 God has handed me over to sinners.
He has tossed me into the hands of
the wicked.
12 "I was living quietly until he shattered me.
He took me by the neck and broke me in pieces.
Then he set me up as his target,
13 and now his archers surround me.
His arrows pierce me without mercy.
The ground is wet with my blood.
14 Again and again he smashes against me, charging at me like a warrior.
15 I wear burlap to show my grief.
My pride lies in the dust.
16 My eyes are red with weeping;
dark shadows circle my eyes.
17 Yet I have done no wrong, and my prayer is pure.
18 "O earth, do not conceal my blood.
Let it cry out on my behalf.
19 Even now my witness is in heaven.
My advocate is there on high.

15:30 The burning sun (literally The flame) might be the scorching sun or a flame of judgment from God (15:34; see Num 16:31-35; Ps 106:17-18; Ezek 20:47). • The breath of God might be a desert wind or a more direct theophany (a manifestation of God's presence) that caused the burning of 15:34.

15:34 The flame of judgment (15:30) will burn the unjust gain of the godless.

16:4 Job might have wanted to shake his head in mockery or in horror (2 Kgs 19:21; Ps 22:7; 109:25; Isa 37:22; Jer 18:16; Lam 2:15; Matt 27:39).

16:7 Job's family here means his extended household, including his servants (1:15-19).

16:9-10 jeer and laugh at me: Job was the subject of mockery (cp. Ps 35:21; Isa 57:4; Lam 2:16; 3:46). • To slap the cheek was less an act of violence (Ps 3:7; Mic 5:1) than an insult (1 Kgs 22:24; Isa 50:6; Lam 3:30; Matt 26:67).

16:12 took me by the neck: This might refer to a wild animal with its prey (see 16:9), but it is more likely a military image that signaled defeat (Gen 49:8; Ps 18:40).

16:13 pierce me: Literally pierce my kidneys. • my blood: Literally my gall. The picture is of wounds to vital organs.

16:14 Again and again he smashes against me: It is as if Job represented a fortress that needed to be neutralized. • Job saw God as a warrior (cp. Exod 15:3; Ps 24:8) who did not defend him or offer him salvation (Jer 20:11; Zeph 3:17) but attacked him as though he were dangerous (6:12; see Isa 42:13).

16:15 Since Job insisted on his innocence, his wearing burlap (literally I sewed on burlap) was a sign of mourning, not penitence. Perhaps it was attached to indicate that he would never remove it because he could never be consoled (Gen 37:34-35). • My pride lies in the dust (literally I have buried my horn in the dust): A horn symbolized dignity and power (1 Sam 2:1; Ps 75:4-5; 89:17, 24; 92:10; 112:9; 148:14); cutting it off inflicted degrading humiliation (Ps 75:10; Jer 48:25; Zech 1:12).

16:17 done no wrong (or done no violence; Hebrew lo'-khamas): If violence is the meaning, Job was possibly denying that he was a formidable warrior who should be attacked (16:12-14; see also Isa 59:6; Jon 3:8). • Contrary to Eliphaz's charge (15:4-5) and Bildad's assumption (8:6), Job's prayer was pure because he was innocent (Gen 20:5; Isa 59:3).

16:18-22 Job expected his suffering to prove fatal (7:7, 21; 10:20-22); he pleaded with God to reveal his innocence even if he died first.

16:18 Job's blood would cry out that he had been innocent and that he had suffered undeservedly (cp. Gen 4:10-11; Isa 26:21; Ezek 24:7-8).

16:19-21 my witness is in heaven: Job wished for a benevolent third party who would mediate between him and God (see 9:32-35). Job wanted an

- ²⁰ My friends scorn me,
but I pour out my tears to God.
²¹ I need someone to mediate between God and me,
as a person mediates between friends.
²² For soon I must go down that road from which I will never return.

Job Defends His Innocence

- 17 ¹ "My spirit is crushed, and my life is nearly snuffed out.
The grave is ready to receive me.
² I am surrounded by mockers.
I watch how bitterly they taunt me.
³ "You must defend my innocence, O God, since no one else will stand up for me.
⁴ You have closed their minds to understanding,
but do not let them triumph.
⁵ They betray their friends for their own advantage,
so let their children faint with hunger.
⁶ "God has made a mockery of me among the people;
they spit in my face.
⁷ My eyes are swollen with weeping, and I am but a shadow of my former self.
⁸ The virtuous are horrified when they see me.
The innocent rise up against the ungodly.
⁹ The righteous keep moving forward, and those with clean hands become stronger and stronger.
¹⁰ "As for all of you, come back with a better argument, though I still won't find a wise man among you.

- ¹¹ My days are over.
My hopes have disappeared.
My heart's desires are broken.
¹² These men say that night is day;
they claim that the darkness is light.
¹³ What if I go to the grave and make my bed in darkness?
¹⁴ What if I call the grave my father, and the maggot my mother or my sister?
¹⁵ Where then is my hope?
Can anyone find it?
¹⁶ No, my hope will go down with me to the grave.
We will rest together in the dust!"

Bildad Responds to Job

- 18 Then Bildad the Shuhite replied:
² "How long before you stop talking?
Speak sense if you want us to answer!
³ Do you think we are mere animals?
Do you think we are stupid?
⁴ You may tear out your hair in anger,
but will that destroy the earth?
Will it make the rocks tremble?
⁵ "Surely the light of the wicked will be snuffed out.
The sparks of their fire will not glow.
⁶ The light in their tent will grow dark.
The lamp hanging above them will be quenched.
⁷ The confident stride of the wicked will be shortened.
Their own schemes will be their downfall.
⁸ The wicked walk into a net.
They fall into a pit.
⁹ A trap grabs them by the heel.
A snare holds them tight.

advocate from heaven (16:19; cp. Zech 3:1) who would eventually stand on the earth (19:25; cp. 1 Sam 24:15; John 14:16, 26; 15:26; 16:7; 1 Jn 2:1).

17:1 My spirit is crushed: This can refer to a properly contrite attitude (Ps 51:17), but more often it connotes an unbearably sad heart (Prov 18:14).

17:2 surrounded by mockers: Laments typically describe mockery as the response of the wicked to the distress of the righteous (Ps 22:7; 69:10-12; 89:50-52). In wisdom literature, mockery is directed against the right behavior (Prov 1:22; 9:7).

17:3-5 defend my innocence, O God (literally please keep my pledge with yourself): A pledge (Hebrew erabon) can be a deposit guaranteeing payment (Gen 38:17-20; Exod 22:26-27; Deut 24:10-14; see Prov 20:16; 27:13), so this might suggest atonement. It might also be another reference to Job's desire for an advocate to plead his case (see note on 16:19-21).

17:6 To spit in someone's face was even more insulting than a slap (16:10) because spit made the person unclean (Num 12:14).

17:8-9 Some scholars view these verses as being out of place, but perhaps Job was ironically quoting his opponents' words.

17:10-16 Job gave up on his comforters (6:15-21; 13:4-5; 16:2-3; cp. 12:2) and believed he would die a hopeless death.

17:13 to the grave (Hebrew to Sheol): The realm of the dead was visualized as a house (30:23; Ps 49:11; Eccl 12:5).

17:14 my father . . . mother . . . sister: This bitter parody of a family reunion in a graveyard shows how Job envisioned his impending death.

17:16 the grave (literally the bars of Sheol): Sheol—the abode of the dead—was seen as having a barred gate, allowing no escape.

18:2-3 How long before you stop talking? Bildad addressed Job in the plural, perhaps meaning "people like you."

18:5 The light of the wicked will be snuffed out could be a metaphor for a life of confused darkness (Prov 4:19); more likely, it indicates an early death (Prov 13:9; 24:20).

18:7 The stride that is shortened is the opposite of walking and running in the blessed life (Prov 4:12).

18:8-10 A series of hunting devices illustrates the biblical principle of retribution (see note on 34:11).

and calamity waits for them to stumble.

13 Disease eats their skin;
death devours their limbs.

and are brought down to the king of terrors.

15 The homes of the wicked will burn down;
burning sulfur rains on their houses.

16 Their roots will dry up, and their branches will wither.

17 All memory of their existence will fade from the earth;
no one will remember their names.

18 They will be thrust from light into darkness,
driven from the world.

19 They will have neither children nor grandchildren,
nor any survivor in the place where they lived.

20 People in the west are appalled at their fate;
people in the east are horrified.

21 They will say, "This was the home of a wicked person,
the place of one who rejected God."

Job Responds to Bildad

19 Then Job spoke again:

2 "How long will you torture me?
How long will you try to crush me with your words?

3 You have already insulted me ten times.
You should be ashamed of treating me so badly.

4 Even if I have sinned,
that is my concern, not yours.

5 You think you're better than I am, using my humiliation as evidence of my sin.

6 But it is God who has wronged me, capturing me in his net.

7 "I cry out, 'Help!' but no one answers me.
I protest, but there is no justice.

8 God has blocked my way so I cannot move.
He has plunged my path into darkness.

9 He has stripped me of my honor and removed the crown from my head.

10 He has demolished me on every side, and I am finished.
He has uprooted my hope like a fallen tree.

11 His fury burns against me;
he counts me as an enemy.

12 His troops advance.
They build up roads to attack me.
They camp all around my tent.

13 "My relatives stay far away, and my friends have turned against me.

14 My family is gone, and my close friends have forgotten me.

15 My servants and maids consider me a stranger.
I am like a foreigner to them.

16 When I call my servant, he doesn't come;
I have to plead with him!

17 My breath is repulsive to my wife.
I am rejected by my own family.

18 Even young children despise me.
When I stand to speak, they turn their backs on me.

19 My close friends detest me.
Those I loved have turned against me.

18:11-13 Bildad applies the biblical principle of retribution (18:8-10) to Job, as do Eliphaz (15:21-23) and Zophar (20:25).

18:13 death devours: Isaiah later reversed the figure and saw the Lord as swallowing up death (Isa 25:8; see 1 Cor 15:54).

18:15 The image of burning sulfur recalls the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen 19:24) and suggests the fate of all the wicked (Ps 11:6; Rev 19:20; 21:8).

18:17 Being forgotten by those who come later is a familiar curse against the wicked (see 18:19; Ps 34:16; 109:13; Prov 10:7).

18:19 This curse of childlessness (see 18:16; Ps 109:13; Isa 14:21-22) and Bildad's earlier cruelty (8:4) show that he regarded Job's condition as the just reward for his wickedness (1:18-19).

18:20 in the west . . . in the east: These phrases might refer to people from times past and times to come or to people from various places.

18:21 Bildad kept implying that Job had rejected God (15:4, 13, 25).

19:3 The number ten did not represent a specific count but an indefinite large number (e.g., Gen 31:7; Lev 26:26; Num 14:22; Dan 1:20).

19:6 Job was convinced that justice had been delayed (19:7) and that God had wronged him (19:8-12). Later, Elihu (34:12) and God himself (40:2) disagreed. • capturing me in his net (Or for I am like a city under siege): Job might have been responding to Bildad's accusation (18:8-10).

19:7 Help! (literally Violence!): Cp. Jer 20:8; Hab 1:2-3. • no one answers: See Ps 22:2; Lam 3:8; Hab 1:2-3.

19:8 blocked my way: See 3:23; 13:27; Ps 88:8; Lam 3:7, 9.

19:9 stripped me of my honor: See 12:17-19; 29:7-14, 20.

19:17 my own family: Job might have been referring to his tribal line, his parents, his own children, or his siblings.

19:19 Those I loved have turned against me: See 2:11; also 6:14-15, 21-23, 27; cp. Ps 41:9; 55:12-14, 20.

Zophar Responds to Job

20 Then Zophar the Naamathite replied:

² "I must reply
because I am greatly disturbed.

³ I've had to endure your insults,
but now my spirit prompts me to reply.

⁴ "Don't you realize that from the 19:20 escaped death by the skin of my teeth: This is an idiom for a narrow escape; the Hebrew could also mean that Job was reduced to a skeleton with a toothy skull.

19:21 The hand of God had struck Job under the permission he gave to Satan (1:11; 2:5).

19:22 persecute (literally pursue): Job complained that God had tracked him like a hunter (10:16) or a warrior (16:13).

19:23 Job wanted his words . . . inscribed on a monument, not in a book; Job desired a permanent record of his claim to innocence in response to Bildad's assertion that he would be forgotten (18:17).

19:25 Job's faith in a Redeemer could find fulfillment only in Christ; the same was true of his request for an advocate

(9:33) and a witness in heaven (16:19). The term "Redeemer" (Hebrew go'el) comes from both criminal and civil law. An individual could redeem or avenge wrongful bloodshed (Num 35:12-18) or redeem lost property, perhaps by buying back a slave or marrying the heir's widow (Lev 25:25, 47-49; 27:11-13; Ruth 3:13). The OT knew the Lord as redeemer (Exod 6:6; Ps 19:14; 103:4; Prov 23:10-11; Isa 43:1 ["ransomed"]; 54:5); NT believers know the Redeemer as the Lord Jesus Christ (Eph 1:7, 14; Heb 9:12; 1 Pet 1:18). Job wanted his Redeemer to declare his innocence (see 1:1 and note).

19:26 yet in my body I will see God! Or without my body I will see God. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain. Job had faith that he would be vindicated even if death came first.

19:27 I will see him for myself: The thought is the same as the psalmist's in "when I awake" (Ps 17:15). For Job, this hope could only be fulfilled in seeing God at the end of time (Matt 5:8; 1 Cor 13:12; 1 Jn 3:2; Rev 1:7) in transformed flesh (1 Cor 15:43-53; Phil 3:21).

19:29 Given the biblical principles against bearing false witness (13:7-11; see Matt 7:1-2; Jas 4:11-12), Job warned his friends that they should fear God's judgment. They did eventually face his judgment, but they also received mercy (42:7-8).

20:1 Zophar the Naamathite: See note on 2:11.

20:7 thrown away like their own dung: Cp. 1 Kgs 14:9-11; 2 Kgs 9:36-37; Ps 83:10; Jer 8:1-2.

20:10 Because stolen riches are illegotten, they provide no lasting benefit (20:18-21; Ps 109:10).

What did Job's original readers believe about life after death? Writers in the OT describe the realm of the dead as a place beneath the earth's surface to which people descend (Ezek 26:20). Sometimes they are swallowed alive (Num 16:31-33; Ps 55:15), but generally they are dragged down by the cords of death (Ps 18:4-5) to be consumed (24:19; Num 16:30; Ps 49:14; 141:7; Isa 5:14; 14:11). In the OT, the afterlife is generally regarded as a gloomy, hopeless place of no return (7:9; Isa 38:18).

In Job, the key images of the realm of the dead are dark and dusty Sheol (11:8; 14:13; 17:13, 16; 24:19; 26:6), a pit fouled with the filth of decomposition (Hebrew shakhat; see 9:31; 17:14; 33:18, 22, 24, 28, 30), and the grave (Hebrew qeber; see 3:22; 5:26; 10:19; 17:1; 21:32; 27:15).

The OT does give occasional hints of deliverance from the grave (see 1 Sam 2:6; Ps 16:10-11; 30:3; 49:15; 56:13; 73:24-26; 86:13; 139:7-10; Isa 26:19). These intimations give Job the hope that Sheol might relieve him of his troubles (3:13-22; 14:13-17) and that a redeemer might justify him even after death (19:25-26). But only the NT gives the full promise of redemption from death (1 Cor 15:50-58).

20:14-16 poisonous venom . . . cobras . . . viper: In the end, the wicked are no longer deadly to others (Matt 3:7; Rom 3:13) but only to themselves (Prov 23:29-35).

20:17 The streams of olive oil and rivers of milk and honey signify superabundant blessing (Exod 5:19; Deut 27:3; Joel 3:18).

20:20 Like the grave or death (Prov 27:20; 30:15-16), the wicked are always greedy and never satisfied (Eccl 5:19; Isa 57:20-21; Hab 2:5).

20:24 The wicked cannot escape trouble (cp. Isa 24:17-18; Jer 15:2-3; Amos 5:19; 9:1-2). When they try to escape one threat, they fall victim to another.

20:25 terrors of death: Although the words "of death" are not in the Hebrew, they are implied because the arrow-head glistens with blood (literally with gall), indicating a deadly hit on a vital organ (6:4; 16:13; Ps 7:12).

20:26 Images such as deepest darkness and wildfire are often associated with God's presence (Deut 4:11; 5:22-23; Heb 12:18) and especially with his judgment (Exod 9:23-24; 10:21-29).

20:27 heavens . . . will testify: Cp. Deut 4:26; 30:19; 31:28.

21:2 Job's friends insisted that they were delivering God's own message of comfort (15:11), but Job found no comfort in their words (16:2), so he asked for the consolation of their attentive silence (see 13:5).

- ³ Bear with me, and let me speak.
After I have spoken, you may resume mocking me.
- ⁴ "My complaint is with God, not with
people.
I have good reason to be so impatient.
- ⁵ Look at me and be stunned.
Put your hand over your mouth in shock.
- ⁶ When I think about what I am saying, I shudder.
My body trembles.
- ⁷ "Why do the wicked prosper, growing old and powerful?
- ⁸ They live to see their children grow up and settle down,
and they enjoy their grandchildren.
- ⁹ Their homes are safe from every fear, and God does not punish them.
- ¹⁰ Their bulls never fail to breed.
Their cows bear calves and never miscarry.
- ¹¹ They let their children frisk about like lambs.
Their little ones skip and dance.
- ¹² They sing with tambourine and harp.
They celebrate to the sound of the flute.
- ¹³ They spend their days in prosperity,
then go down to the grave in peace.
- ¹⁴ And yet they say to God, 'Go away.
We want no part of you and your ways.
- ¹⁵ Who is the Almighty, and why should we obey him?
What good will it do us to pray?'
- ¹⁶ (They think their prosperity is of their own doing,
but I will have nothing to do with that kind of thinking.)
- ¹⁷ "Yet the light of the wicked never seems to be extinguished.
Do they ever have trouble?
- Does God distribute sorrows to them in anger?
- ¹⁸ Are they driven before the wind like straw?
Are they carried away by the storm like chaff?
Not at all!
- ¹⁹ " 'Well,' you say, 'at least God will punish their children!'
But I say he should punish the ones who sin,
so that they understand his judgment.
- ²⁰ Let them see their destruction with their own eyes.
Let them drink deeply of the anger of the Almighty.
- ²¹ For they will not care what happens to their family
after they are dead.
- ²² "But who can teach a lesson to God, since he judges even the most powerful?
- ²³ One person dies in prosperity, completely comfortable and secure,
- ²⁴ the picture of good health, vigorous and fit.
- ²⁵ Another person dies in bitter poverty, never having tasted the good life.
- ²⁶ But both are buried in the same dust,
both eaten by the same maggots.
- ²⁷ "Look, I know what you're thinking.
I know the schemes you plot
against me.
- ²⁸ You will tell me of rich and wicked
people whose houses have vanished because of their sins.
- ²⁹ But ask those who have been around,
and they will tell you the truth.
- ³⁰ Evil people are spared in times of calamity
and are allowed to escape disaster.

21:6 When I think about what I am saying: Job was dismayed by his horrible task of complaining against God (13:3, 15-16, 22; 23:1-5) and discussing his terrors (6:4; 27:20; 30:15). • My body trembles: This reaction resembles that of Habakkuk (Hab 1:5; 3:16), Ezekiel (Ezek 3:14), and Daniel (Dan 8:27; 10:8-9).

21:8 In spite of assertions by Eliphaz (5:4), Bildad (18:19), and Zophar (20:10), Job noted that the wicked enjoy children and grandchildren, which should be the reward of the righteous (Prov 17:6) but was apparently not going to be his own reward (1:18-19; but see 42:13-16).

21:13 to the grave: Hebrew to Sheol. See note on 7:9.

21:17 light of the wicked never seems to be extinguished: Job countered Bildad (18:5-6, 18) and standard wisdom (Prov 13:9; 20:20; 24:20; see God's remarks, Job 38:15).

21:19 you say: Job was quoting and rebutting his friends' arguments. • God will punish their children: These were the words of Eliphaz (5:4) and Zophar (20:10), but Job thought God should punish the ones who sin (see Ezek 18:19-20).

21:22 The rhetorical answer is that no one can teach a lesson to God (Isa 40:13-14; 45:9; Rom 11:34; 1 Cor 2:16).

• The most powerful might refer to angels or demons (1 Cor 6:3; 2 Pet 2:4; Jude 1:6; Rev 20:1-3) or, more likely, to the powerful on earth (34:17-19).

21:24 vigorous and fit (literally the marrow of his bones [is] moist): Bones were thought to be the seat of health (see note on 2:5).

21:25 in bitter poverty: Job repeatedly complained about the apparent futility of existence (3:20; 7:11; 9:18; 10:1).

21:26 eaten by the same maggots: Cp. 17:14; Isa 14:11; see Job 19:26.

21:28 houses have vanished because of their sins: Job was echoing Bildad (8:22), Eliphaz (15:34), and Zophar (20:26).

All your explanations are lies!"

Third Round of Speeches (22:1–26:14)
Eliphaz Responds to Job

22 Then Eliphaz the Temanite replied:

² "Can a person do anything to help
God?

Can even a wise person be helpful to
him?

³ Is it any advantage to the Almighty if you are righteous?

Would it be any gain to him if you were perfect?

⁴ Is it because you're so pious that he accuses you

and brings judgment against you?

⁵ No, it's because of your wickedness!
There's no limit to your sins.

⁶ "For example, you must have lent money to your friend
and demanded clothing as security.
Yes, you stripped him to the bone.

⁷ You must have refused water for the thirsty and food for the hungry.

⁸ You probably think the land belongs to the powerful and only the privileged have a right to it!

⁹ You must have sent widows away empty-handed and crushed the hopes of orphans.

¹⁰ That is why you are surrounded by traps and tremble from sudden fears.

¹¹ That is why you cannot see in the darkness,
and waves of water cover you.

¹² "God is so great—higher than the heavens,
higher than the farthest stars.

¹³ But you reply, 'That's why God can't see what I am doing!
How can he judge through the thick darkness?

¹⁴ For thick clouds swirl about him, and he cannot see us.
He is way up there, walking on the vault of heaven.'

¹⁵ "Will you continue on the old paths where evil people have walked?

¹⁶ They were snatched away in the prime of life,
the foundations of their lives washed away.

¹⁷ For they said to God, 'Leave us alone!
What can the Almighty do to us?'

¹⁸ Yet he was the one who filled their homes with good things, so I will have nothing to do with that kind of thinking.

¹⁹ "The righteous will be happy to see the wicked destroyed, and the innocent will laugh in contempt.

²⁰ They will say, 'See how our enemies have been destroyed.
The last of them have been consumed in the fire.'

²¹ "Submit to God, and you will have peace;
then things will go well for you.

21:33 the earth gives sweet repose: Job viewed death as a relief (3:17-18).

21:34 They told lies about Job (13:4)
and about God (42:7).

22:1–26:14 In this third round of speeches, Job's friends explicitly accuse Job of being among the wicked and sharing their fate.

22:2–3 Eliphaz did not understand that God would gain pleasure from Job's righteousness (1:8; 2:3), as he does from every righteous person (1 Chr 29:17; Ps 147:10-11; Prov 11:1, 20; 12:22). God would also gain glory from Job's steadfast faith, which emphasized

the lie behind Satan's challenge (1:9-12; 2:4-6). • Job steadfastly claimed that he was perfect (23:10-12), as did God himself (1:1, 8; 2:3).

22:6 Demanding clothing as security for lent money was forbidden by the law and condemned by the prophets (Exod 22:26-27; Deut 24:10-13; Ezek 18:7-8; Amos 2:8). In contrast, Job had provided clothing for the poor (31:19-20).

22:9 The OT gives Israel the responsibility of caring for widows and orphans (Deut 10:18; 14:29) and repeatedly condemns their neglect as the worst of social evils (Exod 22:22-24; Deut 27:19).
Job agreed that it was wicked (24:3, 21)

but claimed that he was innocent (29:12-13; 31:16-18, 21).

22:12-14 That's why: Job had not claimed that God can't see, but others have (Ps 10:11; 73:11; 94:7).

22:18 I will have nothing to do with that kind of thinking: Eliphaz threw Job's words back at him (21:16b).

22:19-20 The righteous will be happy to see the wicked destroyed: They will be glad to see justice done and injustices avenged (see also Ps 58:10-11; Rev 19:1-4). Eliphaz's sentiment neglected God's desire that sinful people repent (see Ezek 33:11).

- ²² Listen to his instructions, and store them in your heart.
- ²³ If you return to the Almighty, you will be restored—
so clean up your life.
- ²⁴ If you give up your lust for money and throw your precious gold into the river,
- ²⁵ the ^kAlmighty himself will be your treasure.
He will be your precious silver!
- ²⁶ "Then you will take delight in the Almighty
and look up to God.
- ²⁷ You will pray to him, and he will hear
you,
and you will fulfill your vows to him.
- ²⁸ You will succeed in whatever you choose to do,
and light will shine on the road ahead
of you.
- ²⁹ If people are in trouble and you say,
'Help them,'
God will save them.
- ³⁰ Even sinners will be rescued; they will be rescued because your hands are pure."

Job Responds to Eliphaz

- 23 Then Job spoke again:
² "My complaint today is still a bitter one,
and I try hard not to groan aloud.
³ If only I knew where to find God,
I would go to his court.

- ⁴ I would lay out my case and present my arguments.
- ⁵ Then I would listen to his reply and understand what he says to me.
- ⁶ Would he use his great power to argue with me?
No, he would give me a fair hearing.
- ⁷ Honest people can reason with him, so I would be forever acquitted by my judge.
- ⁸ I go east, but he is not there.
I go west, but I cannot find him.
- ⁹ I do not see him in the north, for he is hidden.
I look to the south, but he is concealed.
- ¹⁰ "But he knows where I am going.
And when he tests me, I will come out as pure as gold.
- ¹¹ For I have stayed on God's paths;
I have followed his ways and not turned aside.
- ¹² I have not departed from his commands, but have treasured his words more than daily food.
- ¹³ But once he has made his decision, who can change his mind?
Whatever he wants to do, he does.
- ¹⁴ So he will do to me whatever he has planned.
He controls my destiny.
- ¹⁵ No wonder I am so terrified in his presence.
When I think of it, terror grips me.
- ¹⁶ God has made me sick at heart;
the Almighty has terrified me.

22:22 The term instructions (Hebrew torah, "law," Deut 17:11), used in Job only here, frequently refers to the Pentateuch (Genesis—Deuteronomy). • Listen . . . store: See Deut 4:1-2; 6:6-9; Ps 119:11; Prov 2:1-9. Job had done this (23:12).

22:23 return to the Almighty: Bildad (8:5-6) and Zophar (11:13-14) had already misapplied this biblical principle (Isa 55:6-7; Hos 14:1-2; Zech 1:3; Acts 26:20), and now Eliphaz also misapplies it.

22:24 precious gold (literally Ophir): Ophir was probably located in southern Arabia (see 1 Kgs 9:28; 22:48). The gold of Ophir was the standard in fine gold (Isa 13:12); queens wore it at weddings (Ps 45:9).

22:25 God promises to be his people's treasure (Ps 16:5; Isa 33:6; Matt 19:21; Mark 10:21); although they possess nothing, they will be rich (2 Cor 6:10; Jas 2:5).

22:27 Ironically, Job will pray, God will hear, and Eliphaz will reap the benefits

(42:8). • you will fulfill your vows: Vows were often stimulated by repentance and forgiveness (Hos 14:2; Jon 1:16; 2:9) and when seeking divine intervention (Judg 11:29-40; 1 Sam 1; Ps 22:25; 61:5, 8; 116:14, 18). Vows are binding (Num 30:2; Deut 23:23; Ps 22:25; 61:5, 8; 116:14, 18; Eccl 5:4-5).

22:29 This difficult text probably conveys the effectiveness of a righteous man's prayer. The principle (Ps 34:15, 17; 145:18; Prov 15:8, 29; Jas 5:16) is illustrated throughout Scripture (see, e.g., Gen 18:23-32; 19:29; 20:7, 17; 32:28; Exod 9:28-32; 17:11; 32:10-14; Rom 5:19).

23:2 Job dropped the doubt he had expressed earlier (9:14-20, 32) and here expressed confidence that he could successfully present his complaint.

23:4 present my arguments: Job wanted to make his case with God (13:3, 18, 22; 16:21; 31:35); Abraham pled directly with God regarding Sodom (Gen 18:25-32), and Moses did the same for Israel (Exod 32:12-13; Num 14:13-19).

23:6-7 Earlier, Job had believed that God was too strong for him to summon (9:19), so he had requested an arbiter (9:33-34) and asked God not to terrify him (13:21). Here he expressed more hope that God would grant him a fair hearing. • acquitted: Job did not want to be pardoned as a guilty man but to be declared innocent (13:18; see Ps 17:2-3; 26:1-3).

23:10 tests me: Job did not want the kind of chastising that would cleanse him like a refiner's fire (Prov 17:3; Zech 13:9; Mal 3:2-3). He wanted an examination that would prove that he had been as pure as gold and did not need to amend his life (22:23).

23:13-14 No one can change God's mind (9:12-13; 11:10; 12:14; 34:29; Num 23:19-20; Jas 1:7).

23:15-17 terrified in his presence: See Ps 24:14; 77:3; 88:16; 119:120. • Job had complained earlier of being plunged into darkness (19:8); Eliphaz (15:22; 22:1) and Bildad (18:6, 18) ascribed this fate to the wicked.

Job Asks Why the Wicked Are Not Punished

24 ¹ "Why doesn't the Almighty bring the wicked to judgment?

Why must the godly wait for him in vain?

² Evil people steal land by moving the boundary markers.

They steal livestock and put them in their own pastures.

³ They take the orphan's donkey and demand the widow's ox as security for a loan.

⁴ The poor are pushed off the path;
the needy must hide together for safety.

⁵ Like wild donkeys in the wilderness, the poor must spend all their time looking for food, searching even in the desert for food for their children.

⁶ They harvest a field they do not own, and they glean in the vineyards of the wicked.

⁷ All night they lie naked in the cold, without clothing or covering.

⁸ They are soaked by mountain showers, and they huddle against the rocks for want of a home.

⁹ "The wicked snatch a widow's child from her breast,
taking the baby as security for a loan.

¹⁰ The poor must go about naked, without any clothing.

They harvest food for others while they themselves are starving.

¹¹ They press out olive oil without being allowed to taste it, and they tread in the winepress as they suffer from thirst.

¹² The groans of the dying rise from the city,
and the wounded cry for help,
yet God ignores their moaning.

¹³ "Wicked people rebel against the light.
They refuse to acknowledge its ways or stay in its paths.

¹⁴ The murderer rises in the early dawn to kill the poor and needy;
at night he is a thief.

¹⁵ The adulterer waits for the twilight, saying, 'No one will see me then.'
He hides his face so no one will know
him.

¹⁶ Thieves break into houses at night and sleep in the daytime.
They are not acquainted with the light.

¹⁷ The black night is their morning.
They ally themselves with the terrors of the darkness.

¹⁸ "But they disappear like foam down a river.
Everything they own is cursed,
and they are afraid to enter their own vineyards.

¹⁹ The grave consumes sinners just as drought and heat consume snow.

²⁰ Their own mothers will forget them.
Maggots will find them sweet to eat.

24:1 bring . . . to judgment (literally set times): The times for God's judgment are set (Eccl 3:17; 8:6; Dan 2:21; Luke 21:22-24), but they are not known to us (Acts 1:7). They will be revealed at the proper moment (1 Tim 6:15; 1 Thes 5).

24:2-17 This inventory of criminal behaviors focuses first on crimes against the weak (24:2-12) and then on the criminals themselves (24:13-17).

24:2 The law, wisdom literature, and prophecy all condemned the moving of boundary markers (Deut 19:14; 27:17; Prov 22:28; 23:10; see note on Hos 5:10).

24:3 The law did not allow seizing necessary belongings as security or collateral for a loan (22:6-9; Deut 24:6, 10-13, 17-21).

24:6 glean in the vineyards of the wicked: Job was depicting the desperate condition of the poor. If their fields had been stolen like Naboth's vineyard (24:2; see 1 Kgs 21), the poor would harvest for the thieving owners what should have been their own crops; instead of owning the whole crop, they would get just the leftover pickings for themselves. Perhaps the point is that the poor were forced to glean from the fields of wicked people who left no gleanings (Lev 19:10; 23:22), instead of being able to glean from the righteous, who leave something for the poor (Lev 19:9-10; 23:22; Ruth 2).

24:7 Unjust lenders sometimes left debtors without clothing or covering, which they had seized as collateral on loans (22:6; Exod 22:26-27; Deut 24:11-13; Amos 2:8).

24:9 widow's child . . . security for a loan: See 2 Kgs 4:1; Neh 5:1-5; Matt 18:25.

24:11 without being allowed to taste it: These words, which are not in the original text, are implied by the parallel with starving and suffer from thirst. • To force workers to tread in the winepress

as they suffer from thirst violates the principle of letting workers enjoy some of the produce they are harvesting (see Deut 25:4; cp. 2 Tim 2:6).

24:12 ignores their moaning: It appeared to Job that contrary to God's own character (Exod 2:23-24; Ps 12:5), God neither relieved the plight of the wronged (24:2-12) nor hindered the wicked from harming their victims (24:13-17).

24:18-24 These sentiments appear to oppose Job's observations, so some scholars suggest that they were the words of Bildad or Zophar. However, Job might have been pronouncing curses on the wicked, sarcastically quoting his friends' views, or saying that the fate of the wicked presented by Eliphaz (5:2-7; 15:17-25), Bildad (8:8-19; 18:5-21), and Zophar (20:4-29) also overtakes the righteous (21:23-26).

24:19 The grave: Hebrew Sheol. See note on 7:9.

- No one will remember them.
Wicked people are broken like a tree in the storm.
- 21 They cheat the woman who has no son to help her.
They refuse to help the needy widow.
- 22 "God, in his power, drags away the rich.
They may rise high, but they have no assurance of life.
- 23 They may be allowed to live in security,
but God is always watching them.
- 24 And though they are great now, in a moment they will be gone like all others,
cut off like heads of grain.
- 25 Can anyone claim otherwise?
Who can prove me wrong?"

Bildad Responds to Job

- 25 Then Bildad the Shuhite replied:
- 2 "God is powerful and dreadful.
He enforces peace in the heavens.
- 3 Who is able to count his heavenly army?
Doesn't his light shine on all the
earth?
- 4 How can a mortal be innocent before
God?
Can anyone born of a woman be pure?
- 5 God is more glorious than the moon;
he shines brighter than the stars.
- 6 In comparison, people are maggots;
we ^amortals are mere worms."

Job Responds to Bildad

- 26 Then Job spoke again:
- 2 "How you have helped the powerless!

- How you have saved the weak!
3 How you have enlightened my stupidity!
What wise advice you have offered!
- 4 Where have you gotten all these wise sayings?
Whose spirit speaks through you?
- 5 "The dead tremble—
those who live beneath the waters.
- 6 The ^bunderworld is naked in God's presence.
The place of destruction is uncovered.
- 7 God stretches the northern sky over empty space
and hangs the earth on nothing.
- 8 He wraps the rain in his thick clouds, and the clouds don't burst with the weight.
- 9 He covers the face of the moon,
shrouding it with his clouds.
- 10 He created the horizon when he separated the waters;
he set the boundary between day and
night.
- 11 The foundations of ^cheaven tremble;
they shudder at his rebuke.
- 12 By his power the sea grew calm.
By his skill he crushed the ^dgreat sea monster.
- 13 His Spirit made the heavens beautiful, and his power pierced the gliding serpent.
- 14 These are just the beginning of all that he does,
merely a whisper of his power.
Who, then, can comprehend the thunder of his power?"

25:4 Eliphaz had said that it is nearly impossible to be innocent or pure (4:17-19; 15:14-16), and then only after suffering (22:21-23). Bildad claimed that only the totally blameless could hope to be pure (8:20).

26:2 Job's friends had not helped him (12:2; 16:4). Bildad's denial that acquittal was possible hit Job's most sensitive nerve (10:1-7; 13:3, 13-19; 16:18-21; 19:23-27; 23:2-7).

26:4 Eliphaz (4:15), Zophar (20:3), and Elihu (32:18; 33:4) all claimed to be prompted by the proper spirit (see Jer 29:8-9; 1 Cor 12:10; 1 Jn 4:1).

26:5-6 The underworld (Hebrew Sheol), the abode of all the dead, is located beneath the waters of the sea. • The place of destruction (Hebrew Abaddon) existed specifically for the wicked.

26:7 The Hebrew tsapon ("north," Gen 3:14) sometimes refers to the northern mountain of the Canaanite gods (the Canaanite equivalent of Olympus; see note on 37:22); here the NLT understands it to refer to the sky, stretched out over empty space (see Gen 1:6-8; Ps 104:2-3; Isa 40:22-23).

26:9 covers the face of the moon: Or covers his throne, or covers the view of his throne. If God's throne was in view, he might use clouds to shroud his lofty abode (Ps 104:3-13; Amos 9:6).

26:10 created the horizon: See Gen 1:6-10; Ps 104:6-9; Prov 8:29.

26:11 Mountains at the edge of the horizon might be the foundations [or "pillars," Judg 16:25-26] of heaven or the earth (9:6). They were thought to reach from below the waters of the sea (Jon

2:6) and up to the clouds to support the vaults of heaven.

26:12 the sea grew calm (cp. Exod 14:21; Mark 4:39): Or the sea was stirred up (cp. Isa 51:15; Jer 31:35). In either interpretation, God performed a miracle on behalf of his people. • crushed the great sea monster (Hebrew Rahab, a mythical sea monster that represents chaos in ancient literature): God's dominance over the sea demythologized popular beliefs about the sea's divinity. See also Ps 74:13-14; 89:9-10; Isa 27:1; 51:9-10.

26:13 His Spirit (or wind): God's authority clears the skies after a storm (26:12). • The gliding serpent corresponds to Yam and Rahab (see notes on 7:12; 26:12); it provides background for the image of Satan as a dragon (Isa 27:1; also Ps 74:13-14; see Gen 3:15; Rom 16:20; Rev 12:9; 20:2).

Job's Final Speeches (27:1–31:40) Job Speaks of Human Wisdom

27 Job continued speaking:

² “I vow by the living God, who has taken away my rights, by the Almighty who has embittered my soul—

³ As long as I live, while I have breath from God,

⁴ my lips will speak no evil, and my tongue will speak no lies.

⁵ I will never concede that you are right; I will defend my integrity until I die.

⁶ I will maintain my innocence without wavering.

My conscience is clear for as long as I live.

⁷ “May my enemy be punished like the wicked, my adversary like those who do evil.

⁸ For what hope do the godless have when God cuts them off and takes away their life?

⁹ Will God listen to their cry when trouble comes upon them?

¹⁰ Can they take delight in the Almighty? Can they call to God at any time?

¹¹ I will teach you about God’s power. I will not conceal anything concerning the Almighty.

¹² But you have seen all this, yet you say all these useless things to me.

¹³ “This is what the wicked will receive from God; this is their inheritance from the Almighty.

¹⁴ They may have many children, but the children will die in war or starve to death.

¹⁵ Those who survive will die of a plague, and not even their widows will mourn them.

¹⁶ “Evil people may have piles of money and may store away mounds of clothing.

¹⁷ But the righteous will wear that clothing, and the innocent will divide that money.

Job’s Innocence (27:5-6)

1 Kgs 8:46
Ps 25:7; 37:37; 51:17
Ezek 4:14
Rom 3:10, 23, 25; 4:4-5; 6:23
1 Cor 5:7; 13:12
2 Cor 4:18

Job’s comforters could not stomach the idea that any human could be truly innocent (4:17-19; 15:14-16; 25:4-6). Job’s claim to innocence also seems to conflict with the biblical teaching that “no one is righteous—not even one. . . . All fall short of God’s glorious standard” (Rom 3:10, 23). Was Job right in proclaiming his innocence?

Eliphaz and the others talked right past Job. When they denied that Job could be right or pure, they were referring to the absolute qualitative difference between the creature and the Creator, but Job was not claiming absolute purity. He acknowledged his youthful sins (13:26) and was aware of his need to have his sins and his guilt covered (14:16-17).

Nonetheless, Job repeatedly claimed to be a man of integrity and innocence in his relationship with God (13:14-18; 23:10-12; 27:3-6; 31:1-40). Even Eliphaz acknowledged that Job’s life was upright (4:6). Job’s faith made him doggedly pursue an audience with God and tenaciously believe in God’s justice despite his immediate experience. Job kept looking for his Redeemer (19:25). Although God’s justice might require a mediator (9:33-35), and it might not be evident before death (19:26), it guaranteed Job’s acquittal. No calamity would separate Job from the love of God, even if he did not yet know that this love came in Christ Jesus (Rom 8:35, 39). Job lived “by believing and not by seeing” (2 Cor 5:7; see also Rom 8:24; 1 Cor 13:12; 2 Cor 4:18; Heb 11:1-2; 1 Pet 1:6-8).

When held up to the light of Christ’s absolute righteousness, Job stands with all of us as a sinner. Job was not justified by his deeds but by his faith, and on that basis God declared that Job was “blameless—a man of complete integrity” (1:1, 8; 2:3; 42:7-8). God does the same for us when we, like Job, put our complete trust in him (see Rom 4:4-5; Jas 2:23).

27:1 Job continued speaking, no longer responding to the three friends but returning to the themes of his opening statement (3:1-26).

27:2 The Bible permits a vow by the living God (Ruth 3:13; 1 Sam 20:21; 25:26; 1 Kgs 17:1; 18:15; Jer 4:2), although sometimes it is done foolishly or falsely (1 Sam 14:39, 45; Jer 5:2). • Elihu later criticized

Job for saying that God had taken away his rights (34:5). • embittered . . . soul (7:11; 10:1; 21:25): Cp. Naomi (Ruth 1:20-21) and the widow from Shunem after the loss of her son (2 Kgs 4:27).

27:5-6 Job considered it profane and reprehensible to concede that his friends were right. Condemning the innocent, as they were doing to him, was an abomination (Exod 23:7; Prov 6:16-19; 17:15).

27:9-23 Some interpreters see a new speech here and ascribe it to Zophar because otherwise Zophar has no speech in this cycle (see also note on 28:1-28).

- 18 The wicked build houses as fragile as a spider's web, as flimsy as a shelter made of branches.
- 19 The wicked go to bed rich but wake to find that all their wealth is gone.
- 20 Terror overwhelms them like a flood,
and they are blown away in the storms of the night.
- 21 The east wind carries them away, and they are gone.
It sweeps them away.
- 22 It whirls down on them without mercy.
They struggle to flee from its power.
- 23 But everyone jeers at them and mocks them.

A Hymn to God's Wisdom

- 28 1 "People know where to mine silver and how to refine gold.
- 2 They know where to dig iron from the earth and how to smelt copper from rock.
- 3 They know how to shine light in the darkness and explore the farthest regions of the earth as they search in the dark for ore.
- 4 They sink a mine shaft into the earth far from where anyone lives.
They descend on ropes, swinging back and forth.
- 5 Food is grown on the earth above, but down below, the earth is melted as by fire.
- 6 Here the rocks contain precious lapis lazuli,
and the dust contains gold.
- 7 These are treasures no bird of prey can see,
no falcon's eye observe.
- 8 No wild animal has walked upon these treasures;
no lion has ever set his paw there.
- 9 People know how to tear apart flinty rocks and overturn the roots of mountains.

- 10 They cut tunnels in the rocks and uncover precious stones.
- 11 They dam up the trickling streams and bring to light the hidden treasures.
- 12 "But do people know where to find wisdom?
Where can they find understanding?
- 13 No one knows where to find it,
for it is not found among the living.
- 14 'It is not here,' says the ocean.
'Nor is it here,' says the sea.
- 15 It cannot be bought with gold.
It cannot be purchased with silver.
- 16 It's worth more than all the gold of Ophir, greater than precious onyx or lapis lazuli.
- 17 Wisdom is more valuable than gold and crystal.
It cannot be purchased with jewels mounted in fine gold.
- 18 Coral and jasper are worthless in trying to get it.
The price of wisdom is far above rubies.
- 19 Precious peridot from Ethiopia cannot be exchanged for it.
It's worth more than the purest gold.
- 20 "But do people know where to find wisdom?
Where can they find understanding?
- 21 It is hidden from the eyes of all humanity.
Even the sharp-eyed birds in the sky cannot discover it.
- 22 Destruction and Death say,
'We've heard only rumors of where wisdom can be found.'
- 23 "God alone understands the way to wisdom;
he knows where it can be found,
- 24 for he looks throughout the whole earth and sees everything under the heavens.

28:1-28 This section is a self-contained speech. No speaker is listed, so it could be a continuation of the preceding words (either Job's or Zophar's; see note on 27:9-23). However, some consider this a poetic interlude by the author of Job that sums up the argument to this point, emphasizes the failure of human wisdom, and lays the foundation for the Lord's speeches.

28:5 Miners melted rock by burning a fire in a mine for days or even weeks to melt out the ore. Some alternated fire with cold water to split the rocks.

28:13 Wisdom does not originate among the living. God is the source of true wisdom (28:23-28).

28:16-19 The metals, gemstones, and glass listed here were precious in the ancient world, but the speaker says that wisdom is much more precious than wealth. • from Ethiopia: Hebrew from Cush.

28:22 Destruction: Hebrew Abaddon (see note on 26:5-6).

28:23-27 When God looks throughout the whole earth (28:23), he sees his own wisdom expressed in his creation. God later showcased his wisdom for Job when he took him on a cosmic tour (Job 38-41).

Job Speaks of Former Blessings

29 Job continued speaking:

- 2 "I long for the years gone by
when God took care of me, 3 when he lit up the way before me and I walked safely through the darkness.
4 When I was in my prime,
God's friendship was felt in my home.
5 The Almighty was still with me,
and my children were around me.
6 My steps were awash in cream, and the rocks gushed olive oil
for me.
7 "Those were the days when I went to the city gate and took my place among the honored leaders.
8 The young stepped aside when they saw me,
and even the aged rose in respect at my coming.
9 The princes stood in silence and put their hands over their mouths.
10 The highest officials of the city stood quietly,
holding their tongues in respect.
11 "All who heard me praised me.
All who saw me spoke well of me.
12 For I assisted the poor in their need and the orphans who required help.
13 I helped those without hope, and they blessed me.

And I caused the widows' hearts to sing for joy.

- 14 Everything I did was honest.
Righteousness covered me like a robe,
and I wore justice like a turban.
15 I served as eyes for the blind and feet for the lame.
16 I was a father to the poor and assisted strangers who needed
help.
17 I broke the jaws of godless oppressors and plucked their victims from their teeth.
18 "I thought, 'Surely I will die surrounded by my family
after a long, good life.
19 For I am like a tree whose roots reach the water,
whose branches are refreshed with the dew.
20 New honors are constantly bestowed on me,
and my strength is continually renewed.'
21 "Everyone listened to my advice.
They were silent as they waited for me to speak.
22 And after I spoke, they had nothing to add,
for my counsel satisfied them.
23 They longed for me to speak as people long for rain.
They drank my words like a refreshing spring rain.
24 When they were discouraged, I smiled at
them.
My look of approval was precious to
them.
25 Like a chief, I told them what to do.
I lived like a king among his troops and comforted those who mourned.

Job Speaks of Present Anguish

- 30 "But now I am mocked by people younger than I,
by young men whose fathers are not worthy to run with my shepdogs.

28:28 fear of the Lord (see note on 1:1; Hebrew, 'adonay): In Job, this name for God appears only here, which might be one argument for understanding ch 28 as the narrator's own poem (see note on 28:1-28).

29:1-31:40 Job contrasts his former happiness, honor, and wealth (ch 29) with his loss of social dignity and divine friendship (ch 30). He concludes his speech with wide-ranging oaths of innocence (ch 31).

29:2 Although elsewhere Job uses the Hebrew shamar to describe what he perceived as God's oppressive surveillance (10:14; 13:27; 14:16), here it refers to God's kindly care ("watch(es) over," Ps 121:3-8).

29:7 The city gate was a town's administrative center (see Ruth 4:1-2, 11).

29:14 Job described his righteousness in royal terms. A robe is a common biblical image for righteousness (Ps 132:9; Isa 59:17; 61:10; Rom 13:14; Rev 19:8).

29:16 Job actively searched out and assisted strangers who needed help.

29:18 after a long, good life (literally after I have counted my days like sand): Job thought the length of his years would signify God's blessing, like the great number of Abraham's offspring (Gen 15:5; 32:12) or the abundance of Joseph's supplies in Egypt (Gen 41:49).

29:25 In the past, Job had comforted those who mourned (4:3-4). This verse is a prophetic mandate closely associated with the work of the Messiah (Isa 40:1; 61:1-3; Luke 4:18-19; cp. 2 Cor 1:3-4).

- ² A lot of good they are to me—
those worn-out wretches!
- ³ They are gaunt from poverty and hunger.
They claw the dry ground in desolate wastelands.
- ⁴ They pluck wild greens from among the bushes
and eat from the roots of broom trees.
- ⁵ They are driven from human society, and people shout at them as if they were thieves.
- ⁶ So now they live in frightening ravines, in caves and among the rocks.
- ⁷ They sound like animals howling among the bushes,
huddled together beneath the nettles.
- ⁸ They are nameless fools, outcasts from society.
- ⁹ “And now they mock me with vulgar
songs!
They taunt me!
- ¹⁰ They despise me and won’t come near me,
except to spit in my face.
- ¹¹ For God has cut my bowstring.
He has humbled me,
so they have thrown off all restraint.
- ¹² These outcasts oppose me to my face.
They send me sprawling and lay traps in my path.
- ¹³ They block my road and do everything they can to destroy me.
They know I have no one to help me.
- ¹⁴ They come at me from all directions.
They jump on me when I am down.
- ¹⁵ I live in terror now.
My honor has blown away in the wind, and my prosperity has vanished like a cloud.
- ¹⁶ “And now my life seeps away.
Depression haunts my days.
- ¹⁷ At night my bones are filled with pain, which gnaws at me relentlessly.
- ¹⁸ With a strong hand, God grabs my shirt.
He grips me by the collar of my coat.
- ¹⁹ He has thrown me into the mud.
I’m nothing more than dust and ashes.
- ²⁰ “I cry to you, O God, but you don’t answer.
I stand before you, but you don’t even look.
- ²¹ You have become cruel toward me.
You use your power to persecute me.
- ²² You throw me into the whirlwind and destroy me in the storm.
- ²³ And I know you are sending me to my death—
the destination of all who live.
- ²⁴ “Surely no one would turn against the needy
when they cry for help in their trouble.
- ²⁵ Did I not weep for those in trouble?
Was I not deeply grieved for the needy?
- ²⁶ So I looked for good, but evil came instead.
I waited for the light, but darkness fell.
- ²⁷ My heart is troubled and restless.
Days of suffering torment me.
- ²⁸ I walk in gloom, without sunlight.
I stand in the public square and cry
for help.
- ²⁹ Instead, I am considered a brother to jackals and a companion to owls.

30:2-3 In the past, the most honorable members of society spoke well of Job (29:11); now, the least honorable mocked him (30:1) and spit in his face (30:10). Cp. Ps 35:15; 69:12; Mark 14:65; 15:17-20.

30:5-6 live in frightening ravines, in caves and among the rocks: The wretched life of Job’s mockers resembled Israel’s situation under Midianite oppression (Judg 6:2), David’s life as he fled from Saul (1 Sam 22:1-2), and Elijah’s life as he awaited the Lord’s instruction (1 Kgs 17:3-8).

30:9 They taunt me! See also 17:6; cp. Ps 69:12; Lam 3:14, 63.

30:10 won’t come near me: See also 19:13-15; cp. Ps 88:8; Prov 19:7; Matt 26:56. • To spit in someone’s face was to display revulsion or contempt (Deut 25:9; Isa 50:6; Matt 26:67; 27:30; Mark 14:65).

30:12-14 The series of images presented here is drawn from a military advance against a fortified city. Job had already used this image for God’s attack on him (19:10-12). • The word translated traps might refer to siege ramps raised against a city’s walls.

30:15 terror: See also 6:4; 7:14; cp. Ps 88:15.

30:18 God grabs my shirt: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads my garment is disfigured. The Hebrew in this verse is difficult to translate; it could mean that Job feels like he’s in a chokehold and is about to be thrown into the mud (cp. 30:19).

30:19 dust and ashes: Earlier, Job was sitting “among the ashes” in anguish (2:8); later, he would “sit in dust and ashes to show . . . repentance” (42:6).

30:20-21 you don’t answer: This was

Job’s frequent complaint (7:20-21; 10:14-17; 13:25-28; 16:9-14; 19:6-9).

30:22 Job felt tossed into the whirlwind and blown about like worthless straw or chaff (9:17; 21:18; 27:21; Ps 1:4; Isa 17:13).

30:28 Before his testing began, Job had been respected in the public square (29:7-10, 21-25); he helped others who were in need (29:11-17).

30:29 I am considered: Job might have been expressing what he thought of himself, how others viewed him, or both. • By claiming that he was a brother to jackals and a companion to owls, Job might have been describing himself as in the throes of lament (Mic 1:8). Jackals were associated with desolation or ruin (see Ps 63:10; Isa 13:22; 34:13; 35:7; Jer 9:11; 10:22; 49:33; 51:37; Lam 5:18; Ezek 13:4; Mal 1:3).

Job Rests His Case, Claiming Innocence

31 ¹ "I made a covenant with my eyes not to look with lust at a young woman.

² For what has God above chosen for us?
What is our inheritance from the Almighty on high?

³ Isn't it calamity for the wicked and misfortune for those who do evil?

⁴ Doesn't he see everything I do and every step I take?

⁵ "Have I lied to anyone or deceived anyone?

⁶ Let God weigh me on the scales of justice,
for he knows my integrity.

⁷ If I have strayed from his pathway, or if my heart has lusted for what my eyes have seen,

or if I am guilty of any other sin, ⁸ then let someone else eat the crops I have planted.

Let all that I have planted be uprooted.

⁹ "If my heart has been seduced by a woman,
or if I have lusted for my neighbor's wife,

¹⁰ then let my wife serve another man;
let other men sleep with her.

¹¹ For lust is a shameful sin,
a crime that should be punished.

¹² It is a fire that burns all the way to hell.
It would wipe out everything I own.

¹³ "If I have been unfair to my male or female servants
when they brought their complaints
to me,

¹⁴ how could I face God?
What could I say when he questioned me?

¹⁵ For God created both me and my servants.
He created us both in the womb.

¹⁶ "Have I refused to help the poor, or crushed the hopes of widows?

¹⁷ Have I been stingy with my food and refused to share it with orphans?

¹⁸ No, from childhood I have cared for orphans like a father, and all my life I have cared for widows.

¹⁹ Whenever I saw the homeless without clothes and the needy with nothing to wear,

²⁰ did they not praise me for providing wool clothing to keep them warm?

²¹ "If I raised my hand against an orphan, knowing the judges would take my side,

²² then let my shoulder be wrenched out of place!

Let my arm be torn from its socket!

²³ That would be better than facing God's judgment.
For if the majesty of God opposes me,
what hope is there?

30:30 The skin of a person who lived in comfortable circumstances was protected from the sun and wind; dark skin indicated physical and social decline (Lam 4:8; 5:10).

31:1-40 Job called down curses on himself if he were guilty of the accusations made against him. Except for his mention of idolatry (31:26-27), Job addressed his fidelity to God in terms of the second half of the Ten Commandments, summarized by the command to "love your neighbor as yourself" (Lev 19:18; Rom 13:9).

31:1 Job's covenant with his eyes included a self-cursing oath (cp. Matt 5:28-29). Perhaps lust of the eyes was at the head of Job's list because the eye is the first instrument of sin (Gen 3:6). • To look with lust at a young woman violates the spirit of the seventh (Deut 5:18, see Matt 5:27-28), and potentially the tenth (Deut 5:21), commandment.

31:5-8 If Job had lied to anyone as part of a business deal, it would violate the eighth commandment (Deut 5:19); if it occurred in court, it would violate the ninth (Deut 5:20). This sin would merit fiery judgment (Rev 21:8). • If Job lusted for what his eyes had seen, he would violate the tenth commandment (Deut 5:21). • then let someone else eat: This was a self-curse.

31:9-10 Whether she seduced him or he waited for her (24:15-16), if Job lusted for his neighbor's wife he would break the seventh (Deut 5:18, Matt 5:27-28) and tenth (Deut 5:21) commandments. • serve: Literally grind for. This might refer to servitude (Exod 11:5) or to sexual intercourse.

31:11 The Hebrew term zimmah (shameful sin) is associated with sexual crimes such as incest ("wicked act," Lev 18:17), gang-rape ("terrible crime," Judg 20:6), and prostitution (Ezek 23:49).

31:12 to hell (Hebrew to Abaddon; see note on 26:5-6): The association of fire with hell or the grave is rare in the OT (cp. Deut 32:22).

31:13-15 unfair to . . . servants: This might refer to violations of the fourth commandment (Deut 5:12-15). • God created both me and my servants: Job extended the implications of being created in God's image to the poor (Prov 14:31; 22:2) and even to slaves.

31:21 knowing the judges would take my side: Job was respected and regarded as a member of the elite class (29:7-10).

31:22-23 If an arm was used in sinful action (31:21), having it torn from its socket would be a fitting punishment and better than facing God's judgment (cp. Matt 5:28-30).

- ²⁴ "Have I put my trust in money or felt secure because of my gold?
²⁵ Have I gloated about my wealth and all that I own?
²⁶ "Have I looked at the sun shining in the skies,
or the moon walking down its silver pathway,
²⁷ and been secretly enticed in my heart to throw kisses at them in worship?
²⁸ If so, I should be punished by the judges, for it would mean I had denied the God of heaven.
²⁹ "Have I ever rejoiced when disaster struck my enemies, or become excited when harm came their way?
³⁰ No, I have never sinned by cursing anyone or by asking for revenge.
³¹ "My servants have never said,
'He let others go hungry.'
³² I have never turned away a stranger but have opened my doors to everyone.
³³ "Have I tried to hide my sins like other people do,
concealing my guilt in my heart?
³⁴ Have I feared the crowd or the contempt of the masses,
so that I kept quiet and stayed indoors?
³⁵ "If only someone would listen to me!
Look, I will sign my name to my defense.

Let the Almighty answer me.
Let my accuser write out the charges against me.
³⁶ I would face the accusation proudly.
I would wear it like a crown.
³⁷ For I would tell him exactly what I have done.
I would come before him like a prince.
³⁸ "If my land accuses me and all its furrows cry out together, ³⁹ or if I have stolen its crops or murdered its owners, ⁴⁰ then let thistles grow on that land instead of wheat, and weeds instead of barley."

Job's words are ended.

Elihu's Speeches (32:1–37:24)
Elihu Responds to Job's Friends

32 further to him because he kept insisting on his innocence.

²Then Elihu son of Barakel the Buzite, of the clan of Ram, became angry. He was angry because Job refused to admit that he had sinned and that God was right in punishing him. ³He was also angry with Job's three friends, for they made God appear to be wrong by their inability to answer Job's arguments. ⁴Elihu had waited for the others to speak to Job because they were older than he. ⁵But when he saw that they had no further reply, he spoke out angrily. ⁶Elihu son of Barakel the Buzite said,

Job 15:10

31:24 Have I put my trust in . . . my gold: Job left the consequence of this oath unstated because the if-then pattern was now established (31:5-23). He rejected Eliphaz's implied judgment (22:24-25; see Ps 52:7; 62:10; 1 Tim 6:10, 17).

31:25 gloated about my wealth: See Deut 8:17-18; cp. Isa 10:12-14; Dan 4:28-30; Hos 12:8.

31:26-28 Like adultery (cp. 31:1, 9-12), worshiping the sun and moon was a capital crime. Both were sins of the eye that enticed the heart, and both types of sin were tried before judges.

31:26 Have I looked at the sun . . . or the moon: This oath denies violation (cp. Jer 8:2; 44:17; Ezek 8:16; Acts 7:43) of the first commandment (Deut 5:7; see Deut 4:19; 17:2-7).

31:27 secretly enticed in my heart: See 31:9. • throw kisses at them in worship: Cp. 1 Kgs 19:18; Hos 13:2.

31:28 In Israel, the judges (see 31:11) were to punish idol worship by execution (Deut 17:2-7). • Denying the God of heaven violated the first commandment (Deut 5:7).

31:29-30 rejoiced when disaster struck my enemies: See Prov 24:17-18; cp. 2 Sam 16:5-8. • Cursing anyone violated the spirit of the sixth commandment (Deut 5:17; see Matt 5:21-22). • It was against God's will to ask for revenge (Matt 5:43-44; Rom 12:14; Jas 3:6-10; 1 Pet 3:9).

31:31-32 never turned away a stranger: The OT values hospitality (Gen 18:1-13; 19:2-3; Judg 19:20-21), and the NT commands it (Matt 25:35; Rom 12:13; 1 Tim 3:2; Heb 13:2; 1 Pet 4:9).

31:35 sign my name: Job wanted to make the proceedings official (19:23-24).

31:36 face the accusation proudly (literally carry it on my shoulder; cp. Exod 28:12; Isa 22:22): He would take full responsibility for his actions.

31:37 A prince who had been wrongly accused had the right to come before his king to make an appeal.

31:38 The land was the chief witness to crimes committed upon it (20:27; see Gen 4:10; cp. Jas 5:4).

31:40 let thistles grow: Job's curse on himself echoed God's primal curse on Adam (Gen 3:17-18; cp. Isa 7:25; Zeph 2:9).

32:1–37:24 Having completed three cycles of speeches between Job and his three friends, we now hear from a new voice. Elihu has not been previously introduced, but he is a young man who has listened to everything the others have said.

32:1 Job's three friends (see 2:11) failed to comfort him (6:14-30; 13:4; 16:2; 19:21; 42:10).

32:2 the Buzite: Buz had connections with Aram (Gen 22:21) and Arabia (Jer 25:23), as did Uz (1:1). • Elihu repeatedly stated that he was angry; he probably regarded his anger as righteous zeal (Ps 69:9).

32:3 God: As in ancient Hebrew scribal tradition; the Masoretic Text reads Job.

"I am young and you are old,
so I held back from telling you what I think.

7 I thought, 'Those who are older should speak,
for wisdom comes with age.'

8 But there is a spirit within people,
the breath of the Almighty within them,
that makes them intelligent.

9 Sometimes the elders are not wise.
Sometimes the aged do not understand justice.

10 So listen to me,
and let me tell you what I think.

11 "I have waited all this time, listening very carefully to your arguments,
listening to you grope for words.

12 I have listened,
but not one of you has refuted Job or answered his arguments.

13 And don't tell me, 'He is too wise for us.
Only God can convince him.'

14 If Job had been arguing with me,
I would not answer with your kind of logic!

15 You sit there baffled, with nothing more to say.

16 Should I continue to wait, now that you are silent?
Must I also remain silent?

17 No, I will say my piece.
I will speak my mind.

18 For I am full of pent-up words, and the spirit within me urges me on.

19 I am like a cask of wine without a vent, like a new wineskin ready to burst!

20 I must speak to find relief,
so let me give my answers.

21 I won't play favorites or try to flatter anyone.

22 For if I tried flattery,
my Creator would soon destroy me.

Elihu Presents His Case against Job

33 ¹ "Listen to my words, Job; pay attention to what I have to say.

² Now that I have begun to speak, let me continue.

³ I speak with all sincerity;
I speak the truth.

⁴ For the Spirit of God has made me, and the breath of the Almighty gives me life.

⁵ Answer me, if you can;
make your case and take your stand.

⁶ Look, you and I both belong to God.
I, too, was formed from clay.

⁷ So you don't need to be afraid of me.
I won't come down hard on you.

⁸ "You have spoken in my hearing, and I have heard your very words.

⁹ You said, 'I am pure; I am without sin;
I am innocent; I have no guilt.

¹⁰ God is picking a quarrel with me,
and he considers me his enemy.

¹¹ He puts my feet in the stocks and watches my every move.'

¹² "But you are wrong, and I will show you why.
For God is greater than any human being.

¹³ So why are you bringing a charge against
him?
Why say he does not respond to people's complaints?

¹⁴ For God speaks again and again, though people do not recognize it.

¹⁵ He speaks in dreams, in visions of the
night,

32:4-7 Elihu's deference to elders followed a well-known principle (see also 12:12; 15:10; Lev 19:32; 1 Tim 5:1; 1 Pet 5:5).

32:8-9 The spirit (or Spirit; also in 32:18) within people might not be the prophetic Spirit that Elihu later appeals to (33:14-15), as Eliphaz had done (4:12-17; cp. 32:18-20). This spirit might simply exist by virtue of creation (33:4; Gen 2:7; Acts 17:25).

32:15-16 As translated, the phrase you sit there . . . you are silent is addressed to Job's friends. An alternate translation is they sit there . . . they are silent, in which case Elihu is speaking to Job about his friends.

32:18-20 The length of Elihu's speech (chs 32-37) demonstrates that he truly was full of pent-up words. • Elihu probably thought the spirit (Hebrew ruakh) within him was prophetic urgency (32:8, 19-20; Ps 39:3), but the reader might find him full of wind (Hebrew ruakh; see note on 15:2-3). • Like Zophar, Elihu must speak to find relief (cp. 20:2).

33:1 Listen: Elihu begged to be heard (33:1; 34:2, 16), which is what Job had also sought (13:6).

33:5 By inviting Job to make his case, Elihu acted as though he were God, or at least the arbiter that Job had been seeking (9:32-35).

33:7 you don't need to be afraid of me (literally my terror shall not make you afraid): God's terrors (6:4; 7:14; 9:34; 13:21; 23:15) had been thrown in Job's face by Eliphaz (15:21, 24; 22:10), Bildad (18:11, 14), and Zophar (20:25).

• Elihu promised not to come down hard on Job, but later he broke his word (34:7-9, 33-37).

33:9 You said: Job claimed to be pure and without sin, using various terms (9:21; 10:6-7; 11:4; 13:23-24; 15:14-16; 16:17; 31:1-40).

33:11 Job frequently complained about God's surveillance (7:20; 10:14; 13:27); he wanted relief from having his every move scrutinized (14:16; 29:2).

33:13 Job's central complaint was that God does not respond (9:16; 19:7; 23:2-7).

33:15 He speaks in dreams: See, e.g., Gen 15:12; 20:3; 31:24; 40:1-41:36; Dan 2:1-45; Joel 2:28; Acts 16:9-10.

when deep sleep falls on people as they lie in their beds.
¹⁶ He whispers in their ears and terrifies them with warnings.
¹⁷ He makes them turn from doing wrong;
he keeps them from pride.
¹⁸ He protects them from the grave,
from crossing over the river of death.
¹⁹ "Or God disciplines people with pain on their sickbeds,
with ceaseless aching in their bones.
²⁰ They lose their appetite for even the most delicious food.
²¹ Their flesh wastes away,
and their bones stick out.
²² They are at death's door;
the angels of death wait for them.
²³ "But if an angel from heaven appears—a special messenger to intercede for a person and declare that he is upright—²⁴ he will be gracious and say,
'Rescue him from the grave,
for I have found a ransom for his life.'
²⁵ Then his body will become as healthy as a child's,
firm and youthful again.
²⁶ When he prays to God,
he will be accepted.
And God will receive him with joy and restore him to good standing.
²⁷ He will declare to his friends,
'I sinned and twisted the truth,
but it was not worth it.
²⁸ God rescued me from the grave, and now my life is filled with light.'
²⁹ "Yes, God does these things again and again for people.

³⁰ He rescues them from the grave
so they may enjoy the light of life.
³¹ Mark this well, Job. Listen to me, for I have more to say.
³² But if you have anything to say, go ahead.
Speak, for I am anxious to see you justified.
³³ But if not, then listen to me.
Keep silent and I will teach you wisdom!"

Elihu Accuses Job of Arrogance

34 Then Elihu said:
² "Listen to me, you wise men.
Pay attention, you who have knowledge.
³ Job said, 'The ear tests the words it hears just as the mouth distinguishes between foods.'
⁴ So let us discern for ourselves what is right;
let us learn together what is good.
⁵ For Job also said, 'I am innocent, but God has taken away my rights.
⁶ I am innocent, but they call me a liar.
My suffering is incurable, though I have not sinned.'
⁷ "Tell me, has there ever been a man like Job,
with his thirst for irreverent talk?
⁸ He chooses evil people as companions.
He spends his time with wicked men.
⁹ He has even said, 'Why waste time trying to please God?'
¹⁰ "Listen to me, you who have understanding.
Everyone knows that God doesn't sin!
The Almighty can do no wrong.

33:18 from crossing over the river of death: This phrase may also be translated from passing [i.e., dying] by the sword. Both translations fit the context (cp. 36:12).

33:22 angels of death wait for them: Cp. Exod 12:23; 2 Sam 24:16; 1 Cor 10:10.

33:23 An angel from heaven would intercede, taking the role of the mediator Job longed for (see 5:1; 9:33-34; 16:18-21).

33:24 The ransom is ultimately found in Christ (Matt 20:28; Rom 3:24-25; 1 Tim 2:6; 1 Pet 1:18-19).

33:26 God will receive him with joy: Cp. Num 6:24-26; Ps 67:1; Acts 2:28; Jude 1:24.

33:27 but it was not worth it: Greek version reads but he [God] did not punish me as my sin deserved (cp. 11:6).

33:32 For Elihu to say that he was anxious to see Job justified sounds ironic; he had entered the discussion in the first place "because Job refused to admit that he had sinned" (32:1-5).

34:3-4 ear tests . . . mouth distinguishes: Elihu echoed Job's earlier complaint about the other counselors' weak argument regarding the "wisdom of the aged" (12:11-12; see 6:30; Heb 5:14).

34:5-6 Job had claimed to be innocent: See 9:20-21; 13:18; 27:6.

34:6 Eliphaz had accused Job of being a liar (15:5), fulfilling Job's earlier worry (6:28-29). • My suffering (literally My arrow): For the link with the Lord's arrows, see 6:4; 16:13; Jer 10:19; 15:18; 30:12, 15; Lam 3:12; Mic 1:9; Nah 3:19.

34:9 Elihu later repeated this accusation (35:3; cp. Ps 73:13; Zeph 1:12; Mal 3:14), but he misrepresented Job's words (9:22-23; 21:15). Job had actually condemned those who held this view (21:14-16).

34:10-15 The passage attaches three ideas to the truth that God can do no wrong (34:10, 12): (1) God pays back all people according to their behavior (34:11); (2) as the Creator, God is not answerable to anyone (34:13); and (3) every living being depends upon God for its existence, and God can withdraw that gift without doing anything wrong (34:14-15; cp. Rom 9:19-29).

34:11 according to their deeds: Cp. Ps 62:12; Prov 24:12; Jer 32:19; Ezek 33:20; Matt 16:27; Rom 2:6; Gal 6:7-8; 1 Pet 1:17. The ultimate harvest will take place at the end of time (2 Cor 5:10; Rev 2:23; 20:52; 22:12).

Job 9:30-31; 34:9

11 He repays people according to their deeds.

He treats people as they deserve.

12 Truly, God will not do wrong.

The Almighty will not twist justice.

13 Did someone else put the world in his care?

Who set the whole world in place?

14 If God were to take back his spirit and withdraw his breath,

15 all life would cease, and humanity would turn again to dust.

16 "Now listen to me if you are wise. Pay attention to what I say.

17 Could God govern if he hated justice? Are you going to condemn the almighty judge?

18 For he says to kings, 'You are wicked,' and to nobles, 'You are unjust.'

19 He doesn't care how great a person may be, and he pays no more attention to the rich than to the poor. He made them all.

20 In a moment they die. In the middle of the night they pass away; the mighty are removed without human hand.

21 "For God watches how people live; he sees everything they do.

22 No darkness is thick enough to hide the wicked from his eyes.

23 We don't set the time when we will come before God in judgment.

24 He brings the mighty to ruin without asking anyone, and he sets up others in their place.

25 He knows what they do, and in the night he overturns and destroys them.

26 He strikes them down because they are wicked, doing it openly for all to see.

27 For they turned away from following him.

They have no respect for any of his ways.

28 They cause the poor to cry out, catching God's attention.

He hears the cries of the needy.

29 But if he chooses to remain quiet, who can criticize him?

When he hides his face, no one can find him, whether an individual or a nation.

30 He prevents the godless from ruling so they cannot be a snare to the people.

31 "Why don't people say to God, 'I have sinned, but I will sin no more'?

32 Or 'I don't know what evil I have done—tell me. If I have done wrong, I will stop at once'?

33 "Must God tailor his justice to your demands?

But you have rejected him!

The choice is yours, not mine.

Go ahead, share your wisdom with us.

34 After all, bright people will tell me, and wise people will hear me say,

35 'Job speaks out of ignorance; his words lack insight.'

36 Job, you deserve the maximum penalty for the wicked way you have talked.

37 For you have added rebellion to your sin; you show no respect, and you speak many angry words against God."

Elihu Reminds Job of God's Justice

35 Then Elihu said:

² "Do you think it is right for you to claim,

'I am righteous before God'?

³ For you also ask, 'What's in it for me? What's the use of living a righteous life?'

⁴ "I will answer you and all your friends, too.

34:17 The implied answer was that God could not govern if he hated justice (cp. Rom 3:4-7; 7:7, 13; 9:14; Gal 2:17; 6:14).

* Later, God also asked if Job was going to condemn the almighty judge (40:8).

34:19 doesn't care how great a person may be: Impartiality flows from God's justice (Acts 10:34; Rom 2:11; Gal 2:6; Eph 6:9; Col 3:25; 1 Pet 1:17).

34:22 The wicked might try to hide in darkness (Jer 23:24), but they will fail

(Ps 139:11-12; cp. Amos 9:2-3). God brings everything to light (1 Cor 4:5).

34:23 We don't set the time: Elihu rejected Job's wish for a quick (21:19), published time of judgment (24:1).

34:24 God knows everything without asking anyone (34:25). * sets up others in their place: Dan 2:21; 5:28-30.

34:26 When God renders justice openly, it leads to proper fear among the wicked (Deut 21:21; 1 Tim 5:20) and to public rejoicing among the righteous (cp. Exod 14:30-31).

34:31 Why don't people say? Elihu was indirectly asking, "Job, why won't you admit it?"

34:36 deserve the maximum penalty: Zophar had also said that Job was being punished less than he deserved (11:6).

35:4-8 Elihu attempted to answer his

- ⁵ Look up into the sky, and see the clouds high above you.
- ⁶ If you sin, how does that affect God?
Even if you sin again and again,
what effect will it have on him?
- ⁷ If you are good, is this some great gift to him?
What could you possibly give him?
- ⁸ No, your sins affect only people like yourself, and your good deeds also affect only humans.
- ⁹ "People cry out when they are oppressed.
They groan beneath the power of the mighty.
- ¹⁰ Yet they don't ask, 'Where is God my Creator, the one who gives songs in the night?'
- ¹¹ Where is the one who makes us smarter than the animals and wiser than the birds of the sky?'
- ¹² And when they cry out, God does not answer because of their pride.
- ¹³ But it is wrong to say God doesn't listen, to say the Almighty isn't concerned.
- ¹⁴ You say you can't see him,
but he will bring justice if you will only wait.
- ¹⁵ You say he does not respond to sinners with anger
and is not greatly concerned about wickedness.
- ¹⁶ But you are talking nonsense, Job.
You have spoken like a fool."

36 Elihu continued speaking:
² "Let me go on, and I will show you the truth.

For I have not finished defending
God!

³ I will present profound arguments for the righteousness of my Creator.

⁴ I am telling you nothing but the truth,

for I am a man of great knowledge.

⁵ "God is mighty, but he does not despise anyone!

He is mighty in both power and
understanding.

⁶ He does not let the wicked live but gives justice to the afflicted.

⁷ He never takes his eyes off the innocent, but he sets them on thrones with kings

and exalts them forever.

⁸ If they are bound in chains and caught up in a web of trouble,

⁹ he shows them the reason.
He shows them their sins of pride.

¹⁰ He gets their attention and commands that they turn from evil.

¹¹ "If they listen and obey God, they will be blessed with prosperity throughout their lives.

All their years will be pleasant.

¹² But if they refuse to listen to him,
they will cross over the river of death, dying from lack of understanding.

¹³ For the godless are full of resentment.
Even when he punishes them,
they refuse to cry out to him for help.

¹⁴ They die when they are young, after wasting their lives in immoral living.

¹⁵ But by means of their suffering, he rescues those who suffer.
For he gets their attention through adversity.

¹⁶ "God is leading you away from danger,
Job,
to a place free from distress.
He is setting your table with the best food.

¹⁷ But you are obsessed with whether the godless will be judged.
Don't worry, judgment and justice will be upheld.

own question (35:2), but his answer did not add to what Zophar (11:8-9), Eliphaz (22:12), Bildad (25:5-6), and Job (9:8-10) had already said. Elihu failed to recognize that all sin wrongs God (Gen 39:9; Matt 25:41-46; cp. Prov 19:17).

35:13-14 These verses can also be translated as follows: ¹³*Indeed, God does not listen to their empty plea; / the Almighty is not concerned. /* ¹⁴*How much less will he listen when you say you do not see him, / and that your case is before him and you're waiting for justice.*

35:15-16 Elihu echoed and then rejected Job's words (9:24; 12:6-10; 21:7-15, 17). • wickedness: As in Greek and Latin versions; the meaning of this Hebrew word is uncertain.

35:16 Elihu echoed his earlier accusation (34:35); later, God would agree (38:2).

36:4 I am a man of great knowledge (literally one who is perfect in knowledge is with you): Elihu was probably claiming to be completely sincere or saying that his logic was flawless.

keep you from distress?

Elihu Reminds Job of God's Power

22 "Look, God is all-powerful.

Who is a teacher like him?

23 No one can tell him what to do, or say to him, 'You have done wrong.'

24 Instead, glorify his mighty works, singing songs of praise.

25 Everyone has seen these things, though only from a distance.

26 "Look, God is greater than we can understand.

His years cannot be counted.

27 He draws up the water vapor and then distills it into rain.

28 The rain pours down from the clouds, and everyone benefits.

29 Who can understand the spreading of the clouds
and the thunder that rolls forth from heaven?

30 See how he spreads the lightning around
him
and how it lights up the depths of the sea.

31 By these mighty acts he nourishes the
people,
giving them food in abundance.

32 He fills his hands with lightning bolts and hurls each at its target.

33 The thunder announces his presence;
the storm announces his indignant
anger.

37¹ "My heart pounds as I think of this.

It trembles within me.

2 Listen carefully to the thunder of God's voice

as it rolls from his mouth.

3 It rolls across the heavens, and his lightning flashes in every direction.

4 Then comes the roaring of the thunder—
the tremendous voice of his majesty.

He does not restrain it when he speaks.

5 God's voice is glorious in the thunder.
We can't even imagine the greatness of his power.

6 "He directs the snow to fall on the earth and tells the rain to pour down.

7 Then everyone stops working so they can watch his power.

8 The wild animals take cover and stay inside their dens.

9 The stormy wind comes from its chamber, and the driving winds bring the cold.

10 God's breath sends the ice, freezing wide expanses of water.

11 He loads the clouds with moisture, and they flash with his lightning.

12 The clouds churn about at his direction.
They do whatever he commands throughout the earth.

13 He makes these things happen either to punish people or to show his unfailing love.

14 "Pay attention to this, Job.

Stop and consider the wonderful miracles of God!

15 Do you know how God controls the storm
and causes the lightning to flash from his clouds?

16 Do you understand how he moves the clouds
with wonderful perfection and skill?

17 When you are sweltering in your clothes and the south wind dies down and everything is still,

36:18 But watch out, or you may be seduced by wealth: Or But don't let your anger lead you to mockery.

36:19 Could all your wealth: Or Could all your cries for help.

36:31 The Hebrew yadin can mean he governs or he nourishes, which parallels food in abundance (38:26; Ps 65:9-13; 104:13-15, 27-28). The more common meaning for yadin is "judge," which would mean that God does all things to bless his people and judge his enemies

(37:11-13; 38:22-23; see Gen 6:17;
19:24; Exod 9:23-25; Josh 10:11-14;
1 Sam 12:18).

36:33 the storm announces his indignant anger (36:29; 37:2; 2 Sam 22:14);
Or even the cattle know when a storm is coming. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain. Cp. 37:8.

37:2 The OT often associates thunder with God's voice (36:29, 33; 37:5; 38:1; Exod 19:16-19; Ps 104:7).

37:7 everyone stops working . . . watch his power: The ending of the agricultural work season gave people time to meditate on God's providential control.

37:13 The same act by God can serve more than one function, such as storms that both destroy enemies and give God's people victory (Josh 10; Judg 4;
1 Sam 7:10-11; Ps 18:7-15; 105:32-33).

37:17 The hot south wind caused the sweltering conditions.

- ¹⁸ he makes the skies reflect the heat like a bronze mirror.
Can you do that?
- ¹⁹ "So teach the rest of us what to say to God.
We are too ignorant to make our own arguments.
- ²⁰ Should God be notified that I want to speak?
Can people even speak when they are confused?
- ²¹ We cannot look at the sun,
for it shines brightly in the sky
when the wind clears away the clouds.
- ²² So also, golden splendor comes from the mountain of God.
He is clothed in dazzling splendor.
- ²³ We cannot imagine the power of the ^aAlmighty;
but even though he is just and righteous,
he does not destroy us.
- ²⁴ No wonder people everywhere fear him.
All who are wise show him reverence."

THE LORD CHALLENGES JOB (38:1–42:6)

The LORD Challenges Job a First Time (38:1–40:5)

The LORD's Challenge

38 Then the LORD answered Job from the whirlwind:

- ² "Who is this that questions my wisdom with such ignorant words?
- ³ Brace yourself like a man,
because I have some questions for you,
and you must answer them.
- ⁴ "Where were you when I laid the foundations of the earth?
Tell me, if you know so much.
- ⁵ Who determined its dimensions and stretched out the surveying line?

- ⁶ What supports its foundations, and who laid its cornerstone
- ⁷ as the morning stars sang together and all the angels shouted for joy?
- ⁸ "Who kept the sea inside its boundaries
as it burst from the womb, ⁹ and as I clothed it with clouds and wrapped it in thick darkness?
- ¹⁰ For I locked it behind barred gates, limiting its shores.
- ¹¹ I said, 'This far and no farther will you come.
Here your proud waves must stop!'
- ¹² "Have you ever commanded the morning to appear and caused the dawn to rise in the east?
- ¹³ Have you made daylight spread to the ends of the earth, to bring an end to the night's wickedness?
- ¹⁴ As the light approaches, the earth takes shape like clay pressed beneath a seal;
it is robed in brilliant colors.
- ¹⁵ The light disturbs the wicked and stops the arm that is raised in violence.
- ¹⁶ "Have you explored the springs from which the seas come?
Have you explored their depths?
- ¹⁷ Do you know where the gates of death are located?
Have you seen the gates of utter gloom?
- ¹⁸ Do you realize the extent of the earth?
Tell me about it if you know!
- ¹⁹ "Where does light come from,
and where does darkness go?
- ²⁰ Can you take each to its home?
Do you know how to get there?

37:20 speak when they are confused? Or speak without being swallowed up? Punishment as severe as death might result from contesting God's judgment (see notes at 13:14).

37:22 from the mountain of God (or from the north; or from the abode; Hebrew from Zaphon): In the literature of the ancient city of Ugarit, Zaphon was the northern mountainous abode of Baal; here it figuratively refers to God's lofty home in the heavens (see Isa 14:13-14).

37:23 cannot imagine the power of the Almighty: Cp. 11:7; 26:14; Rom 11:33; 1 Tim 6:16. • he is just and righteous: Cp. 9:4, 19; 12:13; Ps 62:11; 66:3; 93:1; 99:4.

38:1–42:6 Finally, the LORD answered Job. In this final section, the Lord challenges Job's overreaching self-defense with a display of his works that remind Job of God's transcendent greatness.

38:1–40:5 God challenges Job, who acknowledges his inability to judge the moral world by demonstrating his ignorance of the natural world's cosmic (38:4-21) and meteorological elements (38:22-38), animals, and birds (38:39–39:30).

38:1-3 God challenged Job from out of the whirlwind. The OT commonly associates storms with God's presence (2 Kgs 2:1, 11; Ezek 1:4; Nah 1:3). Job finally had an audience with God (13:22-23).

38:2 questions my wisdom: God's accusation sounds like a charge made by Eliphaz (15:2) and Elihu (34:35; 35:16) to which Job eventually admitted guilt (42:3).

38:7 The morning stars are personified in parallel construction with the angels (literally the sons of God; 1:6; 2:1).

38:10-11 locked it behind barred gates: The sea is depicted as a dangerous creature kept under control.

38:14 it is robed in brilliant colors: Or its features stand out like folds in a robe. The rising sun brings out the colors, shapes, and textures of things.

21 But of course you know all this!
For you were born before it was all created,
and you are so very experienced!

22 "Have you visited the storehouses of the snow
or seen the storehouses of hail?

23 (I have reserved them as weapons for the time of trouble,
for the day of battle and war.)

24 Where is the path to the source of light?
Where is the home of the east wind?

25 "Who created a channel for the torrents of rain?

Who laid out the path for the lightning?

26 Who makes the rain fall on barren land,
in a desert where no one lives?

27 Who sends rain to satisfy the parched ground
and make the tender grass spring up?

28 "Does the rain have a father?
Who gives birth to the dew?

29 Who is the mother of the ice?
Who gives birth to the frost from the heavens?

30 For the water turns to ice as hard as rock, and the surface of the water freezes.

31 "Can you direct the movement of the stars—
binding the cluster of the Pleiades or loosening the cords of Orion?

32 Can you direct the constellations through the seasons or guide the Bear with her cubs across the heavens?

33 Do you know the laws of the universe?
Can you use them to regulate the
earth?

34 "Can you shout to the clouds and make it rain?

35 Can you make lightning appear and cause it to strike as you direct?

36 Who gives intuition to the heart and instinct to the mind?

37 Who is wise enough to count all the clouds?

Who can tilt the water jars of heaven

38 when the parched ground is dry and the soil has hardened into clods?

39 "Can you stalk prey for a lioness and satisfy the young lions' appetites

40 as they lie in their dens or crouch in the thicket?

41 Who provides food for the ravens when their young cry out to God and wander about in hunger?

39 ¹ "Do you know when the wild goats give birth?
Have you watched as deer are born in the wild?

² Do you know how many months they carry their young?
Are you aware of the time of their delivery?

³ They crouch down to give birth to their young and deliver their offspring.

⁴ Their young grow up in the open fields, then leave home and never return.

⁵ "Who gives the wild donkey its freedom?

Who untied its ropes?

⁶ I have placed it in the wilderness;
its home is the wasteland.

⁷ It hates the noise of the city and has no driver to shout at it.

⁸ The mountains are its pastureland, where it searches for every blade of grass.

⁹ "Will the wild ox consent to being tamed?

Will it spend the night in your stall?

¹⁰ Can you hitch a wild ox to a plow?
Will it plow a field for you?

38:21 you were born before it was all created: Cp. Prov 8:25. This sarcasm resembles that of Eliphaz (15:7).

38:22-23 Snow and hail are kept in divine storehouses such as those for the deep seas and winds (Ps 33:7; 135:7; Jer 10:13; 51:16). God uses these elements as weapons (36:32; Isa 30:30; Ezek 13:11-13; Rev 16:21) in the storms he sends on the day of battle and war (e.g., Josh 10:11; Judg 5:20-21; 1 Sam 7:10).

38:24-27 The east wind blows off the desert to scorch crops (Gen 41:6, 23, 27; Jer 4:11; Jon 4:8) and dry up seas (Exod 14:21; Isa 11:15). It is an arid contrast to the torrents of rain that cause flooding. • Beneficial rain to satisfy the parched ground (Ps 104:10-11; 107:35; Isa 35:7; 58:11) stands in contrast to both scorching winds (38:24) and flooding rains (38:25).

38:31-32 Pleiades . . . Orion . . . the Bear with her cubs: See note on 9:9.

38:36 heart . . . mind: These words can also be translated ibis . . . rooster. The Egyptians thought the ibis was wise about the flooding of the Nile, the most important seasonal event in Egypt; and Israel's rabbis thought the rooster could forecast rain or that its crow distinguished day from night. The idea would then be Who taught the ibis and the rooster? See also Ps 51:6; Prov 2:6; Jas 1:5, 17.

39:5-7 wild donkey . . . hates (literally scorns) the noise of the city: This is the first in a series of animals that scorn others who are their inferiors in some way (cp. 39:18, 22; 41:29). These images illustrate how God scorns the opposition of a man like Job (see Ps 2:4).

39:9-12 Now extinct and already rare by Moses' time, the wild ox was the most powerful land animal in early Canaan. This OT symbol of strength (Num 23:22; 24:8; Deut 33:17; Ps 29:6; 92:10) was never tamed (cp. Gen 1:28; 9:2; Ps 8:5-6).

- 11 Given its strength, can you trust it?
Can you leave and trust the ox to do your work?
- 12 Can you rely on it to bring home your grain
and deliver it to your threshing floor?
- 13 "The ostrich flaps her wings grandly, but they are no match for the feathers of the stork.
- 14 She lays her eggs on top of the earth, letting them be warmed in the dust.
- 15 She doesn't worry that a foot might crush them or a wild animal might destroy them.
- 16 She is harsh toward her young,
as if they were not her own.
She doesn't care if they die.
- 17 For God has deprived her of wisdom.
He has given her no understanding.
- 18 But whenever she jumps up to run, she passes the swiftest horse with its rider.
- 19 "Have you given the horse its strength or clothed its neck with a flowing mane?
- 20 Did you give it the ability to leap like a locust?
Its majestic snorting is terrifying!
- 21 It paws the earth and rejoices in its strength
when it charges out to battle.
- 22 It laughs at fear and is unafraid.
It does not run from the sword.
- 23 The arrows rattle against it,
and the spear and javelin flash.
- 24 It paws the ground fiercely and rushes forward into battle when the ram's horn blows.
- 25 It snorts at the sound of the horn.
It senses the battle in the distance.
It quivers at the captain's commands and the noise of battle.

- 26 "Is it your wisdom that makes the hawk soar
and spread its wings toward the south?
- 27 Is it at your command that the eagle rises to the heights to make its nest?
- 28 It lives on the cliffs, making its home on a distant, rocky crag.
- 29 From there it hunts its prey, keeping watch with piercing eyes.
- 30 Its young gulp down blood.
Where there's a carcass, there you'll find it."

40 Then the LORD said to Job, 2 "Do you still want to argue with
the Almighty?
You are God's critic, but do you have the answers?"

Job Responds to the LORD

3 Then Job replied to the LORD,

- 4 "I am nothing—how could I ever find the answers?
I will cover my mouth with my hand.
5 I have said too much already.
I have nothing more to say."

The LORD Challenges Job a Second Time (40:6–42:6)

The LORD Challenges Job Again

6 Then the LORD answered Job from the whirlwind:

- 7 "Brace yourself like a man,
because I have some questions for you,
and you must answer them.
- 8 "Will you discredit my justice and condemn me just to prove you are right?
- 9 Are you as strong as God?
Can you thunder with a voice like his?
- 10 All right, put on your glory and splendor, your honor and majesty.

39:13-18 In the ancient Near East, the ostrich had a reputation as a bird that God had deprived of wisdom.

39:14-16 The ostrich is a symbol of neglect for her young (Lam 4:3) because she (1) lays her eggs on top of the earth; (2) appears to leave her eggs to die when a predator approaches them (although she is probably attempting to lure the predator away from the nest); and (3) lays her eggs with several other hens in one nest, so most of the eggs are not her own.

39:18 passes (literally scorns) the swiftest horse with its rider: See 39:7, 22; 41:29.

39:24 The ram's horn was sounded in combat to call for the charge (Josh 6:4-6).

39:30 Where there's a carcass, there you'll find it—feeding on the remains (Ezek 39:17-19; Matt 24:28; Luke 17:37).

40:1-2 The Greek OT omits this conclusion to God's first speech.

40:3-5 Job's brief and humble response does not acknowledge guilt, but it does admit his insignificance (40:4). He had previously thought that he could approach God like a prince (31:37) or even cross-examine him (13:22-23).

40:4 I am nothing (cp. 42:6): Job was not repenting from sin; like Abraham, he recognized his unworthiness (Gen 18:27). * Job had asked his comforters to cover their mouth to acknowledge shock (21:5); here he does so himself in reaction to his own rash words.

40:5 Job had nothing more to say; he had no further charges against God, nor would he make a rebuttal.

40:6-7 The Lord repeated his earlier challenge (see 38:1-3).

40:8 Job's words (10:7; 27:2; 31:35-37) had angered Elihu (32:2; 34:5); now God himself challenged them.

For its teeth are terrible!

- ¹⁶ They are so close together that no air can get between them.
- ¹⁷ Each scale sticks tight to the next.
They interlock and cannot be

40:11-12 Job could not do God's work of humbling the proud (Isa 2:11-12, 17; Jas 4:6; 1 Pet 5:5-6) apart from God's authority (Mal 4:3; Rom 16:20).

40:15-24 Following a list of natural animals (39:1-30), God described Behemoth (40:15-24) and Leviathan (41:1-34) as creatures that man cannot tame. Job couldn't tame the wild donkey or ox (39:5-12), let alone Behemoth and Leviathan (40:15-24), but God created them and could control them, and Job had to acknowledge it (41:2). • The identification of Behemoth is disputed, ranging from an earthly creature to a mythical sea monster in ancient literature. Here it seems to be a natural creature: (1) It is an animal that God made, just as he made Job (40:15); (2) it is not a dreadful predator but eats grass like an ox (40:15); and (3) it is in a poem describing God's creation of the natural order, rather than in a mythological story of the world's formation. Most commentators identify Behemoth with the hippopotamus, a huge, grass-eating animal (40:15-19) that lies in the river among the lotus plants and reeds (40:21). Like the wild ox, Behemoth is powerful (40:16-18, 24; 39:11), yet is essentially peaceful (40:20-23).

40:21 lotus plants: Or bramble bushes; also in 40:22.

41:1-8 Verses 41:1-8 are numbered 40:25-32 in the Hebrew text.

41:1 The identification of Leviathan is disputed, ranging from an earthly creature to a mythical sea monster in ancient literature (see also 3:8; Ps 74:14; 104:26; Isa 27:1). Unlike the peaceful Behemoth (40:15-24), Leviathan was menacing. Most commentators identify Leviathan with the crocodile, with its terrible jaws (41:14) and armored hide (41:15-17, 23), thrashing the water (41:31-32). But Leviathan is a fire-breathing dragon (41:18-21) that wraps its coils around the sun to cause an eclipse (3:8-9). The background for Leviathan is the seven-headed sea monster that represents chaos in ancient Near Eastern mythology. In the biblical record, this unruly maritime monster is a frequent biblical image for chaos and wickedness, whose head the Lord crushes (Ps 74:14; Isa 27:1; cp. Job 9:13; 26:12; Ps 89:9-10; Isa 30:7; 51:9). Later in the Bible, Satan is linked to the ancient serpent (Gen 3) and unruly dragon (Rev 12:9; 20:2), whose head Christ and his followers crush (Rom 16:20).

41:9-34 Verses 41:9-34 are numbered 41:1-26 in the Hebrew text.

41:13 its double layer of armor? As in Greek version; Hebrew reads its bridle? (41:1-2, 8-9).

- 18 "When it sneezes, it flashes light!
Its eyes are like the red of dawn.
19 Lightning leaps from its mouth;
flames of fire flash out.
20 Smoke streams from its nostrils like steam from a pot heated over burning rushes.
21 Its breath would kindle coals, for flames shoot from its mouth.
22 "The tremendous strength in Leviathan's neck strikes terror wherever it goes.
23 Its flesh is hard and firm and cannot be penetrated.
24 Its heart is hard as rock, hard as a millstone.
25 When it rises, the mighty are afraid, gripped by terror.
26 No sword can stop it,
no spear, dart, or javelin.
27 Iron is nothing but straw to that creature, and bronze is like rotten wood.
28 Arrows cannot make it flee.
Stones shot from a sling are like bits of grass.
29 Clubs are like a blade of grass, and it laughs at the swish of javelins.
30 Its belly is covered with scales as sharp as glass.
It plows up the ground as it drags through the mud.
31 "Leviathan makes the water boil with its commotion.
It stirs the depths like a pot of ointment.
32 The water glistens in its wake, making the sea look white.
33 Nothing on earth is its equal,
no other creature so fearless.
34 Of all the creatures, it is the proudest.
It is the king of beasts."

Job Responds to the LORD

- 42 Then Job replied to the LORD:
2 "I know that you can do anything,
and no one can stop you.
3 You asked, 'Who is this that questions my wisdom with such ignorance?'
It is I—and I was talking about things I knew nothing about,
things far too wonderful for me.
4 You said, 'Listen and I will speak!
I have some questions for you,
and you must answer them.'
5 I had only heard about you before, but now I have seen you with my own eyes.
6 I take back everything I said, and I sit in dust and ashes to show my repentance."

EPILOGUE: THE LORD VINDICATES JOB

(42:7-17)

The LORD's Verdict

7 After the LORD had finished speaking to Job, he said to Eliphaz the Temanite: "I am angry with you and your two friends, for you have not spoken accurately about me, as my servant Job has. 8 So take seven bulls and seven rams and go to my servant Job and offer a burnt offering for yourselves. My servant Job will pray for you, and I will accept his prayer on your behalf. I will not treat you as you deserve, for you have not spoken accurately about me, as my servant Job has." 9 So Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite did as the LORD commanded them, and the LORD accepted Job's prayer.

The LORD Restores Job

10 When Job prayed for his friends, the LORD restored his fortunes. In fact, the LORD gave him twice as much as before! 11 Then all his brothers, sisters, and former friends came

Job 2:11; 19:13

42:1-6 Job understood the message of God's speeches: I know that you can do anything. Nothing is too hard for God (Gen 18:14; Jer 32:17; Matt 19:26) and nothing can stop his plan (23:13; Isa 14:27; 46:10). Job realized how unlike God he was.

42:5 now I have seen you: Up to this point, Job had not seen God (see 23:8); now, like Isaiah, he had been in God's presence and was overwhelmed by God's holiness (Isa 6:1).

42:7 Eliphaz the Temanite was the spokesman for the friends, which probably indicates his seniority (see note on 2:11). Eliphaz had falsely implied that his advice originated in prophetic visions (4:12-16); now God did speak to him, but not to affirm his message.

• Unlike his three friends (cp. 13:7-10), Job had spoken accurately about God. Job's blunt questions were better suited to arriving at the truth about God than the friends' superficial orthodox doctrine.

42:8-9 The Lord made Job the mediator that Job had hoped to find for himself (9:33; 16:19-21; 19:25) and that Elihu desired to be (chs 32-37). • go to my servant Job: God wanted Job's friends to be reconciled with Job before they presented their offerings (Matt 5:23-24). • My servant Job will pray for you; he had also prayed for his children (1:5; cp. Jas 5:16; 1 Jn 5:16). • When the LORD accepted Job's prayer, it ironically fulfilled

Eliphaz's promise (22:26-30).

42:10 Job's fortunes probably included his health (42:16-17). God created humans in order to bless them, not curse them. • twice as much: See note on 42:16.

42:11 Although Job was restored, he still needed to be consoled and comforted for the loss of his children. Following Job's own earlier practice (4:4; 16:5), his family and former friends took up where the three other friends left off (2:11; cp. 2 Cor 7:6). • The gift of money (Hebrew a kesitah; the value or weight of the kesitah is no longer known) was not so much charity to provide a financial basis for Job's restored fortune as it was to honor and seek the favor of an

and feasted with him in his home. And they consoled him and comforted him because of all the trials the LORD had brought against him. And each of them brought him a gift of money and a gold ring.

¹²So the LORD blessed Job in the second half of his life even more than in the beginning. For now he had 14,000 sheep, 6,000 camels, 1,000 teams of oxen, and 1,000 female donkeys. ¹³He also gave Job seven more sons and three more daughters. ¹⁴He named his first daughter Jemimah, the second Keziah, and the third Keren-happuch. ¹⁵In all the land no women were as lovely as the daughters of Job. And their father put them into his will along with their brothers.

¹⁶Job lived 140 years after that, living to see four generations of his children and grandchildren. ¹⁷Then he died, an old man who had lived a long, full life.

For as long as people have read Job's story, they have struggled with the tension between the positive and negative aspects of Job's character. The book's approval of Job in the opening prologue is unequivocal (1:1, 8; 2:3), yet we later hear God interrogate Job: "Who is this that questions my wisdom with such ignorant words?" (38:2). "Will you discredit my justice and condemn me just to prove you are right?" (40:8).

God's questions have led various interpreters to accuse Job of talking too much and even of confusing God's work with the work of Satan. Some contemporary interpretations side with Job's counselors in blaming Job for his suffering. Still others follow Eliphaz (5:17-27) and Elihu (33:15-33; 36:7-17) in arguing that Job's suffering was God's loving and sanctifying chastisement. Even the faithful are not exempt from that (Heb 12:6-12; see Prov 3:11-12), but this explanation flies in the face of the rationale given in the book's opening verses.

Job suffered because God wanted to prove Job's integrity to Satan. God's own judgment of Job's life was positive from start to finish (1:1, 8; 2:3; 42:7). This perspective carries through to the NT, where Job is shown as an example of endurance that we should imitate (Jas 5:11). To understand Job, we need to see his reactions as normal. He does not stand like a rock in reverent stoicism as though he were unaffected by his trials. Neither does he trumpet heroic defiance of his troubles, as though they could never get him down. He reacts in a natural human way. Job rages, protests, moans, and even vacillates between confidence and despair, but he never gives up. He does not curse God, and he does not make a false confession of guilt in the hope that God will then let up on him. Although Job could not understand his situation, he knows that his answer will be found in God (19:25-27).

influential man (e.g., Prov 18:16), and perhaps even to assuage disfavor (e.g., Gen 32:20; 33:10; 43:11; 1 Sam 25:27).

• A gold ring was worn in a woman's nose (Gen 24:47; Prov 11:22; Isa 3:21) or on the ears of either men or women (Gen 35:4; Exod 32:2-3; Judg 8:24).

42:12 When God blessed Job, it ironically fulfilled Bildad's promise (8:7).

42:14 The beautiful names of Job's new daughters spoke of Job's renewed and pleasant good fortunes. • Jemimah means "soft-voiced turtledove" (see Song 2:14).

• Keziah means "cassia" or "cinnamon flower" (see Ps 45:8). • Keren-happuch means "horn of antimony," which refers to a lustrous container for cosmetics.

42:15 their father put them into his will: Daughters normally inherited only when there were no male heirs (Num 27; 36). Perhaps Job's unusual action expressed his superabundant prosperity; only a wealthy man could afford to pass some of his wealth to the families into which his daughters would marry.

42:16 140 years was twice the normal life span (Ps 90:10). If the analogy of double restoration holds (42:10), Job might have been 70 already and then lived another 140 years. A lifespan of 210 years would not be out of keeping with the patriarchal setting of the book

42:17 Like Abraham and Isaac, who also died at a ripe old age (Gen 25:8; 35:29), Job lived a long, full life, fulfilling Eliphaz's promise (5:26), which was based on God's general promise (Deut 6:2; Ps 91:16). • At the end of the book, the Greek OT adds a note declaring that Job will rise from the dead at the resurrection. It goes on to provide information about where and when Job and his descendants lived.

THE BOOK OF Psalms

The Lord Jesus and the apostles loved the book of Psalms and quoted from it; beyond that, they lived out of it. These ancient prayers and praises of Israel are also God's inspired word. The psalms provide a bridge to cross between the Old and New Testaments, and the themes addressed in the psalms find further development in the NT. Jesus connects with the dynasty of David in its mission, its disappointments, and its failures. Where David's dynasty has failed, Jesus gives hope. His sinlessness, his identification with the suffering of the members of David's dynasty, his perfect obedience, and his exaltation open up new perspectives on the many questions raised in the Psalter. Yet we are still living by faith; the hope of the book of Psalms, that God's people will completely fulfill his purposes and that all nations will submit to the Messiah, still remains for the future (see 1 Cor 15:25-27).

BACKGROUND

The psalms, like all Scripture, are inspired and given by God (2 Tim 3:16). And yet, each psalm originated with a human author as a prayer or praise to the Lord. The psalms are diverse, composed as the responses of God's people to him. The psalms include laments, psalms of praise, wisdom, thanksgiving, reflections on God's mighty acts, celebrations of God's revelation, and worship.

The book of Psalms reflects a long process of collection. For a thousand years, poets wrote these poems while people recited and collected them. The Temple liturgy encouraged both the collection and the writing of psalms. Gradually editors incorporated smaller collections into larger collections, shaping five collections into the one book of Psalms.

SUMMARY

The first two psalms serve as an introduction to the entire Psalter (the book of Psalms). Psalm 1 introduces the Lord's instruction in wisdom, while Ps 2 introduces God's rule over a rebellious, sinful world. In Ps 1, the person of God's choice is godly and wise, delights in God, lives by divine instruction, and is not influenced by evildoers. Psalm 2 speaks of the rebellion of the nations and of the wicked, the judgment of rebellious nations, and the protection of the godly.

Reading Ps 1 in the context of the entire Psalter raises three questions: (1) Is there forgiveness for sins? (2) Why do the godly suffer? and (3) Why do the wicked prosper? Reading Ps 2 in the context of the Psalter raises two similar questions: (1) Why do the nations prosper? and (2) Why were the kings of David's line not victorious? The psalmists wrestle with these questions and offer different perspectives. Some of the poets quietly accept their problems, while others wrestle with God, question him, or become exasperated. New questions and issues develop out of their dialogues with God.

THE COMPOSITION OF THE PSALMS

The process of editing the Psalter into one book took place over time and was completed following the exile to Babylon. There are several markers of editorial activity:

1. The editors placed Pss 1 and 2 as an introduction to the whole book of Psalms. Both psalms give an idealized portrayal: Psalm 1 is a portrayal of the ideal godly person who lives by God's instruction. Psalm 2 portrays the Messiah, the ideal king of Israel. The rest of the Psalter develops and deepens these portrayals, while at the same time expressing how neither the people of God nor their king were able to fulfill God's ideals and bring about the happiness and peace of God's kingdom. The Psalter therefore testifies to Jesus as the ideal godly man and king of Israel, the Messiah who alone has pleased God and by whom alone redemption, happiness, and peace are secure.

2. Individual psalms were collected in units. The editors arranged these smaller groupings of psalms into five larger collections: Book One (Pss 1–41, with a doxology and double Amen in 41:13), Book Two (Pss 42–72, with a doxology and double Amen in 72:19), Book Three (Pss 73–89, with a doxology and double Amen in 89:52), Book Four (Pss 90–106, with a doxology and Amen in 106:48), and Book Five (Pss 107–150, without a doxology).

3. Books One (Pss 1–41) and Two (Pss 42–72) form the first stage of the collection. The shift from David (Pss 3–32, 34–41) in Book One to collections of psalms in Book Two (the sons of Korah, Pss 42–49; Asaph, Ps 50; David, Pss 51–65, 68–70; Solomon, Ps 72) reveals a thematic shift from David as the sole model and teacher to other perspectives opened by these psalms. At the end of Book Two, the editor comments, "This ends the prayers of David son of Jesse" (72:20). This comment remained in place even when Books Three, Four, and Five (with additional psalms of David) were added to the collection.

4. The addition of Book Three (Pss 73–89) marks the second stage. Book Three shares with Book Two its preference of the name Elohim for God (Pss 42–83) and its diversity of collections (Asaph, Pss 73–83; sons of Korah, Pss 84–85, 87–88; David, Ps 86). Psalm 73 breaks the spell cast by the magnificent vision of the messianic kingdom in Ps 72, as it questions God's justice and power. This issue comes to a head again in Ps 89, the last psalm of Book Three.

5. The psalms of Book Four (Pss 90–106) wrestle with questions raised at the time of the Exile, when it seemed that God's covenant with David had been dissolved (see Ps 89). Several psalms encourage individual growth in character and godliness (Pss 91–92) in response to the crisis. Most psalms in this collection present God as the true and faithful king whose kingdom extends to every part of creation (Pss 93–100). He still loves the people, the flock of his pasture (Ps 100), but they have to listen to him (Pss 95, 100). He is the source of forgiveness, and his compassion assures the exilic community that the Lord still cares for his people. The review of redemptive history from creation to the Exile (Pss 104–106) explains both God's wisdom and Israel's folly as a framework for understanding the Exile. The benediction of Ps 106:48 is included in 1 Chr 16:36 and might indicate that Book Four was completed in the postexilic era (when Chronicles was compiled).

6. Book Five (Pss 107–150) was then added to the Psalter. It includes a number of smaller collections: the Egyptian Hallel (Pss 111–118, including three hallelujah hymns, Pss 111–113, and the Great Hallel, Pss 114–118), the Torah psalm (Ps 119), the Songs of Ascents (Pss 120–134), eight psalms of David (Pss 138–145), and five concluding hallelujah hymns (Pss 146–150). Book Five sets out the thematic progression of affliction, lament, God's rescue, and praise. The opening psalm (Ps 107) begins this pattern, and its final verse (107:43) points to the importance of wisdom in discerning God's ways. Psalm 119, the longest psalm, celebrates the wisdom of God and the word of God. The Lord's historic care for Israel in the wilderness (Pss 114–118, 135–136) prepares exilic and postexilic Israel to read David's final prayers (Pss 138–145) in a new way: David looks forward to the full coming of God's kingdom (Ps 145). The hallelujah psalms affirm the truthfulness of this hope (Ps 146–150).

7. Additions appear to have been made to already-existing psalms. This may explain the prayer for the restoration of Zion (51:18–19) and for God's blessing on Jerusalem (69:34–36). Changes in the circumstances of God's people may have occasioned the addition of new lines in each case.

8. The available manuscripts reveal some flexibility in the organization and titles of the psalms. Both the Hebrew and Greek editions of the Psalter contain 150 psalms, but with differing divisions and numbering as well as differences regarding which psalms have titles. The Greek text combines both Pss 9–10 and Pss 114–115 into one psalm each, but it splits both Pss 116 and 147 into two. Differences between the Hebrew and English numbering are indicated in the notes.

By the time of Jesus Christ, the Psalter was well known as the book of Psalms (Luke 20:42; Acts 1:20). It was part of the third section of the Hebrew canon, called the Writings (Luke 24:44; see Old Testament Introduction, "The Canon of the Old Testament," p. 4).

AUTHORS

Many of the psalms are associated with David, but not all of them; less than half (seventy-three of them) are connected with him. Others are connected with Asaph (Pss 50, 73–83), the sons of Korah (Pss 42–49, 84–85, 87), Solomon (Pss 72, 127), Heman (Ps 88), Ethan (Ps 89), and Moses (Ps 90).

Psalms 1–72, p. 18

Of the 116 psalms with a title (see "Psalm Titles," below), most identify a person. The person named may be the author, but not necessarily. The Hebrew preposition le before the name (often translated "of") can mean "for," "dedicated to," "concerning," "to," or "by." So, ledavid (often translated "of David") could be interpreted as "for David," "dedicated to David," "concerning David," or "by David." While many psalms "of David" may have been written by him, there are several reasons for caution. The titles occasionally have two names, such as David and Jeduthun or Asaph (Pss 39, 62, 77). It is possible that the other individual was the actual author of the psalm. Furthermore, the psalms whose titles connect them with an episode of David's life (Pss 3, 7, 18, 34, 51, 52, 54, 56, 57, 59, 60, 63, 142) provide little or no specific connection with those episodes. For example, the title in Ps 51 connects the psalm with David's sin and Nathan's rebuke. The psalm speaks of sin, forgiveness, and a broken spirit, but any mention of the specifics of the sin is notoriously absent. In addition, several psalms "of David" seem to assume the existence of the Temple, which was not constructed until after David's death (see Ps 5:7; 122:TITLE; 138:2). Similarly, the title of Ps 30 connects David with the dedication of the Temple, and Ps 69 does not seem to fit with what is known of David's life. Finally, some textual traditions vary in the mention of David in the heading (e.g., Pss 122, 124). It is possible, therefore, that ledavid should be understood in many cases as meaning "for/dedicated to/concerning David" rather than "by David." Such psalms evoke his persona as the chief representative of the dynasty of David without implying that he himself was the author of the psalm. Still, there are many psalms that could have been authored by David himself.

LITERARY ISSUES

The title Psalms for the collection comes from the Greek word psalmos ("song"; see Luke 24:44; 20:42), which translates the Hebrew mizmor, a word frequently found in the titles of individual psalms (e.g., see Ps 3:TITLE, "psalm"). The word mizmor is related to a verb meaning "to play a stringed instrument." The psalms were originally accompanied by instruments and were part of the oral tradition of Israel before they were collected into groupings. The Hebrew title of the Psalter is tehillim ("praises"), a word that is related to the expression hallelujah ("praise Yahweh").

Psalm Titles. The psalm titles, or short superscriptions accompanying most of the psalms, give information such as the author (see above), the type of psalm (e.g., song, prayer), a musical notation, a notation on the use of the psalm, a historical context, or a dedication. Much of the information is not well understood. As a result, many scholars do not place much emphasis on the psalm titles in the interpretation of the psalms.

In the Hebrew text, the psalm titles are typically numbered as verse 1. As a result, the verse numbers through the entire psalm differ from the numbers in the NLT and most English translations.

Interlude (Hebrew Selah). This word is found seventy-one times in the book of Psalms. The meaning of the word is uncertain, though it is probably a musical or literary term. In the NLT it is consistently rendered Interlude.

The theological richness of the psalms emerges out of a profound knowledge of God rooted in relationship.

Groupings of the Psalms. The psalms can be grouped in a number of ways:

- By the names they use for God: Yahweh ("the LORD," Pss 1–41) and Elohim ("God," Pss 42–72).
- By the names in the titles: David (Pss 3–32, 34–41, etc.), the sons of Korah (Pss 42–49, 84–85, 87–88), and Asaph (Pss 50, 73–83).
- By genre (see below).
- Many of the psalms are in collections within the Psalter: e.g., the Songs of Ascents (Pss 120–134). Other collections were recognized in Jewish tradition, such as the Egyptian Hallel (Pss 113–118) and the hallelujah hymns (Pss 146–150).
- By thematic connections, such as God's kingship (Pss 93–100), or the storyline from creation to the Exile (Pss 104–106).

Genres of the Psalms. The psalm titles often designate the genre of a psalm. The most frequent genre designation in a psalm's title is "psalm" (Hebrew mizmor), a song originally accompanied by stringed instruments. Less frequent are the words maskil ("psalm, a chant": Pss 32, 42, 44–45, 52–55, 74, 88, 89), miktam ("psalm, a chant": Pss 16, 56–60), shir ("song": Pss 45, 120–135), shiggayon ("psalm," a generic or musical term: Ps 7), tepillah ("prayer": Pss 17, 86, 90) and tehillah ("psalm of praise": Ps 145), higgayon ("meditation," meaning unknown: Ps 9:16), and todah (psalm of thanksgiving: Ps 100).

In addition to the genre identifications that are found in the Hebrew text, the psalms may also be divided into three main categories:

1. Wisdom or instructional psalms (Pss 1, 15, 24, 33, 34, 37, 73, 90, 107);
2. Psalms of lament (most psalms in books I—III), which can be subdivided into individual laments and community laments;
3. Hymns of praise or thanksgiving (Pss 8, 19, 29, 65, 67, 114), which can similarly be divided into individual and community hymns.

The psalms of praise include several subgenres, including "royal" psalms about the king (Pss 2, 45, 72, 89, 110); psalms ascribing kingship to the Lord (Pss 93, 95–99); hymns about creation (Pss 19, 29, 104); and hymns about Zion (Pss 46, 48, 84, 87).

Another way of reading the psalms is based on the movement in many psalms from instruction to a problem and from a problem to a renewal in commitment and character. The Psalter as a collection of five books is largely instructional in nature. It is "instruction" (torah, "law," 1:2) and has the purpose of teaching God's people how to live.

THE PSALMS IN ISRAEL'S WORSHIP

The collection of 150 lyric poems known as the Psalter contains much information on music-making in ancient Israel. The majority of psalms are songs of praise, thanksgiving, prayer, and repentance. There are also historic odes that relate great national events (for example, Ps 30, "a song at the dedication of the Temple," and Ps 137, which portrays the sufferings of the Jews in captivity). Such psalms played a role in the life of the community; however, the exact nature of that role is uncertain.

MEANING AND MESSAGE

The psalms provide windows into the souls of the ancient saints who wrote them. Their theological reflections are not easy or simple-

*The Psalter
... promises
Christ's death and resurrection so clearly—and pictures his kingdom and the condition and nature of all Christendom—that it might well be called a little Bible. In it is comprehended most beautifully everything that is in the

minded, but the psalmists' faith, when tried, is purified. The psalms model depth of character, wisdom, honesty, and authenticity. They prepare God's people for the coming of Jesus Christ as the perfect Adam (human) and as the king, the descendant of David who has absolute integrity.

The prayers in the Psalter are more than models to be imitated: They are God's instructions for righteous living, part of his torah ("instruction"; see Pss 1, 19, 119). God teaches who he is, what he has done, and what he expects from his people. The psalms are God-centered, instructing God's people to be like God, to receive his correction, and to discern error in themselves. Through the psalms, God encourages his people individually and as communities to worship him vibrantly. The psalms and their musical accompaniments bear witness about God to the world.

The psalmists reflected on the transitory nature of life, on suffering, and on the many kinds of adversity that human beings experience. As the psalmists faced alienation and pain, they longed for God's presence, provision, and protection (e.g., Ps 23), and for a lasting glory. Even the psalms connected with David often reveal a humble, rather than a victorious, David—a humiliated David more often than a glorious and royal David. The psalmists lived in a world full of alienation, and they longed for redemption. They experienced shame, and they trusted in the Lord to vindicate them with his glorious presence.

The Psalter illustrates the failures of Israel and of David's dynasty. The best of the godly Israelites and of the Davidic kings were unable to bring in the condition of happiness and peace that Pss 1 and 2 speak of (see also Ps 72). The psalms are God's exhortation to each person to cultivate wisdom, to trust in him, to live by grace, and to have hope in the coming one who would bring God's blessings to a needy world.

Jesus and the apostles understood Jesus' life and ministry in light of the psalms (see Matt 13:34-35; 21:16, 42; 23:39; John 2:17; 15:25; 19:24, 28, 36; Acts 2:22-35; 4:11; 13:32-38; Rom 15:3; 1 Cor 15:25-27; Eph 4:7-10; 1 Pet 2:7). Jesus entered the world of humans and lived out the patterns found in the psalms, including humiliation, suffering, death, vindication, and glory. He is the only human being who has completely pleased God (Ps 1). He is the Messiah and King (Ps 2) who has become our means of redemption, happiness, and peace.

PSALM 1

- ¹ Oh, the joys of those who do not follow the advice of the wicked, or stand around with sinners, or join in with mockers.
- ² But they delight in the law of the LORD, meditating on it day and night.
- ³ They are like trees planted along the riverbank, bearing fruit each season. Their leaves never wither, and they prosper in all they do.
- ⁴ But not the wicked! They are like worthless chaff, scattered by the wind.

- ⁵ They will be condemned at the time of judgment. Sinners will have no place among the godly.
- ⁶ For the LORD watches over the path of the godly, but the path of the wicked leads to destruction.

PSALM 2

- ¹ Why are the nations so angry? Why do they waste their time with futile plans?
- ² The kings of the earth prepare for battle; the rulers plot together against the LORD and against his anointed one.

Book One (Pss 1–41) Book One reveals God's purpose in the world, God's order in creation, and the significance of wisdom. It issues an invitation to dwell on the mountain of the Lord and gives insights into the psalmist's life and struggles.

Pss 1–8 Psalms 1 and 8 form an inclusio (set of literary bookends) that describes what God expects of the ideal person (cp. Pss 19, 33, 104, 145), contrasts the godly person with the wicked, and extols the godly person's dignity. Jesus the Messiah (Ps 2)—the sovereign Lord (Heb 2:6-8; see 1 Cor 15:27) and perfection of humanity—embodies this ideal.

Pss 1–2 The first two psalms are an introduction to the entire Psalter. Psalm 1 introduces the Lord's instruction in wisdom, while Ps 2 introduces God's rule over a rebellious, sinful world. Together, these psalms invite people to leave the way of folly that leads to destruction and to enter the way of God that leads to wisdom and salvation. The NT affirms that God will rule the nations through Jesus Christ, his appointed agent (Heb 1:5; Rev 12:5; 19:15).

Ps 1 This wisdom psalm sets the tone for the whole Psalter. The psalmist strongly contrasts the happiness of the godly with the condemnation of the wicked; in the end, the way of wisdom will triumph. This idealization of the godly person (as in Ps 8) highlights the Lord's expectations of his people and especially of the coming Messiah (Ps 2). The people of Israel did not live up to this ideal, and neither did the kings of David's dynasty. Not even the best of them could bring in the triumph of righteousness described in Pss 1, 2, and 72. In the NT, the apostles' use of the Psalter to describe the life and ministry of Jesus the Messiah confirms that Jesus alone fulfills the ideal of the godly person presented in the psalms. Only Jesus could please God and secure redemption, happiness, and peace. Psalm

1 introduces the hopeful anticipation of the final hallelujah (Ps 150), when the Lord will remove all evil from his creation and prosper his children.

1:1-2 The Lord gives true happiness to all who reject evil and delight in him.

1:1 Oh, the joys: This Hebrew term (ashrey) is used twenty-six times in Psalms. Some translations render it as "blessed," but a different term (barak) is used in contexts of blessing (5:12; 45:2; 107:38). • The godly do not permit themselves to live under the influence of sinners. Those who do not fear the Lord are wicked (36:1); they are the enemies of those who love God, those who do right, and the poor and oppressed (see 10:2-13; 37:14). The wicked might appear pious (50:16) and sometimes enjoy temporary prosperity (37:35), but sorrow (32:10) and destruction (1:4-6) await them when their deeds catch up with them (9:16). • Those who go astray (25:8) in rebellion against the Lord (78:17) are sinners; they commit heinous crimes such as adultery and murder (cp. Ps 51). • Join in with: This expression (literally sit in the seat of) depicts a life in bondage to sin (cp. 1:2; 26:3-7; Deut 6:7). • Mockers hate the Lord, scorn his wisdom, and insult anyone who attempts to correct them (Prov 9:7-8). They seek only the "wisdom" that justifies their actions. These brash people have little regard for the Lord, his plans, or his children (see 86:14; 119:51, 69, 78, 85, 122). These three terms (wicked, sinners, mockers) apply to all kinds of ungodly people.

1:2 The law (Hebrew torah) of the LORD is the full revelation of God's instructions (see note on Deut 4:44). • Meditating is a process of inner reflection that can be positive (1:2; 63:6; 77:12; 143:5) or negative (see 2:1; 38:12). The Lord's word is the object of godly meditation (119:48). • Day and night includes all times, whether one is walking, standing, sitting, or sleeping (see Deut 6:7).

1:3-5 The future belongs to the godly.

1:3 Well-watered trees endure and bear abundant fruit (cp. Jer 17:8).

1:4 The coming time of judgment (1:5) will carry off the wicked and their deeds (35:5; 83:13; Isa 17:13; see note on Jer 13:24).

1:5 The wicked cannot abide the scrutiny of the Lord's judgment; they are already condemned (see 5:5; 7:6; 101:7).

1:6 The Lord's care for the righteous and the demise of the wicked both demonstrate the Lord's principle of retribution (see Gal 6:7-10). The brief and futile lives of the wicked will end, whereas the Lord and his saints will triumph (see 9:5, 6, 18; 10:16; 37:20; 73:27; 92:9; cp. 142:4; Isa 57:1). • The godly (see 5:12; 14:5) are joyful (1:1) because the LORD protects and cares for them, hears them when they cry out for justice, and secures their future (see 121:3-4). • A person's path is his life and character.

Ps 2 This royal psalm pertains to the Lord's appointment of a king descended from David. It celebrates the mission of all the kings in David's line, and it introduces the hope of an ideal ruler who will accomplish the Lord's goal of bringing all nations into submission (2:11) or to destruction (2:9). The NT identifies Jesus as this descendant (see Acts 13:33; 1 Cor 15:25-27; Heb 1:5; 5:5; Rev 19:15).

2:1-3 Their futile paths lead to death (1:4, 6), but fallen human beings unite in opposing the true God and his Messiah.

2:1 plans: The Hebrew verb rendered "meditate" in 1:2 here suggests an attitude of opposing the Lord in speech (Isa 59:13) or in thought (38:12; Prov 24:2).

2:2 The kings hate the Lord's established order in the world, so they desire to be independent of him (see 36:4). They scheme about dominating the Lord's people (31:13; see 83:1-4). Their goal is to subvert the Lord's rule in the world by overthrowing his anointed

3 "Let us break their chains," they cry,
"and free ourselves from slavery to God."

4 But the one who rules in heaven laughs.
The Lord scoffs at them.

5 Then in anger he rebukes them, terrifying them with his fierce fury.

6 For the Lord declares, "I have placed my chosen king on the throne in Jerusalem, on my holy mountain."

7 The king proclaims the LORD's decree:
"The LORD said to me, 'You are my son.
Today I have become your Father.

8 Only ask, and I will give you the nations
as your inheritance,
the whole earth as your possession.

9 You will break them with an iron rod and smash them like clay pots."

10 Now then, you kings, act wisely!
Be warned, you rulers of the earth!

Royal Psalms (Ps 2)

Pss 18, 20, 21, 45,
61, 72, 89, 101, 110,
132, 144

The royal psalms all have some reference to the king, the nature of his rule, and his relationship to God. Psalms 2, 18, 20, 21, 45, 61, 72, 89, 101, 110, 132, and 144 are usually regarded as the royal psalms. Belief in God's kingship is the foundation of the royal psalms (Ps 2). Each king in David's dynasty served as messianic agent—i.e., he represented God's kingship. As God's representative, the Davidic king was expected to uphold the qualities of justice, righteousness, faithfulness, and peace (72:1-3).

The royal psalms express the hope and aspirations of the dynasty of David. But with its corruption and failure, the dynasty came to an apparent end (89:38-45). Yet hope remained alive for the future of a king descended from David who would serve as God's agent. The royal psalms maintain this hope for a king whose perfect obedience would guarantee the continuity of David's dynasty and the perpetual benefits of his reign. In this sense, the royal psalms may also be called messianic psalms in that they express hope in a messianic agent, an ideal king descended from David. Jesus stated that the psalmists wrote of him (Luke 24:44), and other NT writers affirmed the identification of Jesus as the Messiah. Some of the most significant links are as follows:

- Psalm 2 is associated with Israel's king, the descendant of David. Nevertheless, it speaks of a universal vindication and rule that far transcends even David's or Solomon's reigns (see Acts 13:33; Heb 1:5; 5:5).
- Psalm 45 is a marriage psalm for one of the Davidic kings, possibly Solomon, yet it speaks of a permanent rule (45:6).
- Psalm 110 is the most frequently quoted messianic psalm (see Matt 22:43-45; Acts 2:34-35; Heb 1:13; 5:5-10; 6:20; 7:21). It speaks of the privileges, universal victory, and continuing priesthood of David and his successors. Such language would be hyperbole, and possibly misleading, except for its fulfillment in Jesus. In contrast to the angels who are privileged to stand in God's presence (Luke 1:19), Christ the Son sits in the place of power and authority over all things at God's right hand (Heb 1:13).

one (or his messiah); the Lord chose the kings of David's dynasty to establish his kingdom throughout the earth. The NT confirms that Jesus, the appointed and anointed Son of God (Acts 4:26; 13:33; Heb 1:5; 5:5), fulfills the role in which these earlier kings failed.

2:3 break their chains: These kings believe that acknowledging the true God and his chosen ruler will result in their enslavement (Isa 28:22; 52:2; cp. Lam 3:7; Rom 1:1; 1 Cor 7:22; Titus 1:1).

2:4-6 The Lord finds the human threat insignificant. He provided a solution long before their rebellion. He will end their agitation through the appointment of a human agent, a descendant of David's line who will rule the nations.

2:4 rules in heaven: The Lord's place in the universe is so certain that he scoffs at humans who boast that they can rebel against his power and authority (see 37:13; 59:8).

2:6 my chosen king: The Lord establishes his anointed ruler. • in Jerusalem: Hebrew on Zion. See "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947.

2:7-9 The Lord adopted the king of David's dynasty to conquer rebellious nations by force (see 89:26-27).

2:7 my son (or Son). Today I have become your Father (or Today I reveal you as my son): People in the ancient Near East commonly accepted a father-son relationship between gods and kings. In Israel, the Lord adopted kings as his sons. God set David apart as his most excellent and exalted son (89:27). All descendants of David were the Lord's representatives or agents. As an eternal member of the Godhead (John 1:1) and a descendant of David (Acts 13:33; Heb 1:5; 5:5), Jesus is the true Son of God.

2:8 In an example of the suzerain-vassal relationship between the Lord and Israel's king (see Deuteronomy Introduction, "Literary Form," p. 314), the Lord invites the king to ask for favors (see 21:2, 4). • All nations will be subject to David's descendant, the Messiah.

2:9 The Lord gives his anointed ruler the power to conquer the nations as his inheritance (Isa 11:4; Rev 2:27; 12:5; 19:15), breaking their rebellion, resistance, and independence. • break: Greek version reads rule. Cp. Rev 2:27.

2:10 It pleases the Lord when his people submit to him and seek his protection. The wise accept the Lord's rebuke and desire to repent.

- ¹¹ Serve the LORD with reverent fear, and rejoice with trembling.
¹² Submit to God's royal son, or he will become angry,
and you will be destroyed in the midst of all your activities—
for his anger flares up in an instant.
But what joy for all who take refuge in him!

PSALM 3

*A psalm of David, regarding the time
David fled from his son Absalom.*

- ¹ O LORD, I have so many enemies;
so many are against me.
² So many are saying,
"God will never rescue him!"

Interlude

- ³ But you, O LORD, are a "shield around me;
you are my glory, the one who holds my head high.

- ⁴ I cried out to the LORD, and he answered me from his holy mountain. Interlude

- ⁵ I lay down and slept,
yet I woke up in safety,
for the LORD was watching over me.

- ⁶ I am not afraid of ten thousand
enemies
who surround me on every side.

- ⁷ Arise, O LORD!
Rescue me, my God!
Slap all my enemies in the face!
Shatter the teeth of the wicked!
⁸ Victory comes from you, O LORD.
May you bless your people.

PSALM 4

For the choir director: A psalm of David, to be accompanied by stringed instruments.

- ¹ Answer me when I call to you,
O God who declares me innocent.
Free me from my troubles.
Have mercy on me and hear my prayer.

- ² How long will you people ruin my reputation?
How long will you make groundless accusations?
How long will you continue your lies?

Interlude

- ³ You can be sure of this:
The LORD set apart the godly for himself.
The LORD will answer when I call to
him.

- ⁴ Don't sin by letting anger control you.
Think about it overnight and remain silent. Interlude

- ⁵ Offer sacrifices in the right spirit, and trust the LORD.

2:11-12 rejoice: Rulers must welcome the Son as their true and only King. • Submit to God's royal son (or Submit to God's royal Son, or kiss the son; the meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain): Kissing was an expression of submission (Hos 13:2). • The Lord gives joy to all who fear him (1:1-2) and trust him (18:30; 34:22; 119:1-3).

Ps 3-7 This group of psalms moves readers from the orderly world of Ps 1-2 to a disoriented one. The Lord's anointed cries out while facing enemies, ferocious opposition, evil schemes, and the Lord's apparent distance.

Ps 3 This psalm laments that the expectations raised by Ps 1-2 have not been met. But even when beset by enemies, godly people need not question the Lord's just dealings. Rather, they can confidently trust his goodness and expect God to rescue them.

3:TITLE This sad episode in David's life (see 2 Sam 15-18) helps readers keep the promises of Ps 2 in perspective. The Lord granted victory to his anointed king (Ps 2), but the manner and timing of this victory remained in God's hands.

3:1-2 The psalmist's many enemies speak brazenly (4:6; 40:15; see notes on 2:3; 12:4) and question the Lord's ability to rescue (10:11; 22:7-8; 71:10).

Their words haunt him because it seems that the Lord will not answer his prayer. • These enemies wield great power (cp. 2:1-3); unlike Ps 2, this psalm does not resolve the crisis.

3:2 Interlude: Hebrew Selah. The meaning of this word is uncertain, though it is probably a musical or literary term. It is rendered Interlude throughout the Psalms.

3:3-4 The psalmist's eyes turn from his enemies to the Lord.

3:3 The psalmist contrasts the contention of his enemies (3:2) with the Lord's provision. The Lord is a shield for his people; he turns their defeat and shame into victory and glory (see notes on 4:2; 27:6; 140:7).

3:5 By refocusing on the Lord (3:3-4) in the midst of his crisis, the psalmist can rest, confident of his safety (see note on 4:8). The Lord cares for his servant; he protects him and keeps his mind and heart from fear (37:17; 54:4; 119:116; 145:14; see note on 121:4).

3:6 The psalmist's peaceful confidence in the Lord's protection and care shields him from evil and gives him a new sense of reality (23:4; 27:1, 3; 46:1; 56:4, 11; 91:5-6; 118:6).

3:7-8 The psalmist does not seek revenge; instead, he waits for the Lord's vengeance (see note on Ps 94). • Arise: The psalmist calls upon the Lord to take action now.

Ps 4 This individual lament includes a prayer for rescue (4:1), a rebuke of the adversary (4:2-3), an exhortation to the godly (4:4-5), and an expression of confidence (4:6-8).

4:1 Waiting for the Lord's answer allows for growth in patience and for the refinement of living faith (38:15).

4:2 The opponents of the godly place their hope in delusions, treachery, and idolatry. • my reputation (or my glory): The honor of the psalmist, or possibly of the Lord, is at stake.

4:4 Angry feelings are not sinful, but letting anger control you leads to sin (see 37:7-8; cp. Eph 4:26-27, 31-32). • Instead of acting on their emotions, the godly think about their circumstances overnight. They might be disturbed as they sleep, but silence opens their hearts to trust in the Lord (4:5).

4:5 Offer sacrifices in the right spirit: Redirecting emotions toward the Lord prevents a godly individual from doing too much self-reflection (40:6-8; 51:17).

PSALM 5

For the choir director: A psalm of David, to be accompanied by the flute.

1 O LORD, hear me as I pray; pay attention to my groaning.

2 Listen to my cry for help, my ^kKing and my God, for I pray to no one but you.

3 Listen to my voice in the morning, LORD. Each morning I bring my requests to you and wait expectantly.

4 O God, you take no pleasure in wickedness;

you cannot tolerate the sins of the wicked.

5 Therefore, the proud may not stand in your presence, for you hate all who do evil.

6 You will destroy those who tell lies. The LORD detests murderers and deceivers.

7 Because of your unfailing love, I can enter your house; I will worship at your Temple with deepest awe.

8 Lead me in the right path, O LORD, or my enemies will conquer me. Make your way plain for me to follow.

9 My enemies cannot speak a truthful word.

Their deepest desire is to destroy others.

Their talk is foul, like the stench from an open grave.

Their tongues are filled with flattery.

▲ Messiah in the Psalms (2:2). In the NT, the writers of the Gospels, Acts, the Letters, and the book of Revelation strongly connect Jesus with the Psalter. Jesus completes David's dynasty. Although the earlier kings failed, there is now hope. Jesus' sinlessness, his identification with Israel's kings, his perfect obedience, and his exaltation open up new perspectives on the many questions raised in the Psalter. We are still living by faith. The hope of the Psalter is that all nations will submit to God's king, the Messiah (cp. 1 Cor 15:25-27).

4:6 your face (or the light of your face): The psalmist seeks God's favor and peace (Num 6:25-26), which can transform darkness into light (see 27:1). Confident trust in the Lord is an antidote to anger, resentment, jealousy, and materialism.

4:8 Peace comes from God's blessing and protection (4:6; see 37:11).

Ps 5 This morning prayer (5:3) expresses unwavering confidence in the Lord's help and protection. The psalmist asks for and awaits God's response (5:1-3). He describes the schemes of the wicked in detail but does not get lost in his circumstances. The psalmist also knows that the wicked cannot coexist with God (5:4-6, 9; see 1:5). He keeps returning to the Lord (5:7-8, 10; see 5:1-3), and then he prays for the godly community (5:10-12; see 3:8b).

5:1-2 The request hear me appears in several prayers as a call for God's attention during a time of trouble (39:12; 84:8; 143:1), as does pay attention (17:1; 54:2; 130:2). The needy ask their God, "Are you listening?"

5:3 The psalmist begins and ends each day with prayer, awaiting new expressions of God's fidelity and goodness (143:8). • wait expectantly: The psalmist does not demand God's grace but places hope in it (see Mic 7:7; Hab 2:1).

5:5 the proud: Mockers (see note on 1:1), the wicked (73:3; 75:4), and the arrogant (10:2) use their mouths to twist truth and challenge the faith of the godly. • The Lord allows only the godly into his presence (see 1:5). His holiness and justice do not tolerate oppression or those who do evil. • you hate: The Lord rejects proud sinners (see also 11:5).

5:7 God promises his unfailing love—his covenant goodness and faithfulness—to his people (see 25:6; 69:16; Lam 3:32). • your house: The godly long to come into God's presence with reverence and awe (see Heb 12:28).

5:8 God guides those who are obedient, submissive, and patient in waiting for him to lead, provide, and protect them (27:11; 43:3; 143:10), not those who expect God simply to endorse their own decisions. • Following the right path of wisdom leads to the Lord (27:11; 61:2; 139:24).

5:9-10 The psalmist again describes the vile acts of the wicked, who cannot stand in God's presence.

5:9 with flattery: Greek version reads with lies. Cp. Rom 3:13, where Paul quotes from this verse in his description of the depravity of all people.

- ¹⁰ O God, declare them guilty.
Let them be caught in their own traps.
Drive them away because of their many sins,
for they have rebelled against you.
- ¹¹ But let all who take refuge in you rejoice;
let them sing joyful praises forever.
Spread your protection over them, that all who love your name may be filled with joy.
- ¹² For you bless the godly, O LORD;
you surround them with your shield of love.

PSALM 6

*For the choir director: A psalm of David,
to be accompanied by an eight-stringed instrument.*

- ¹ O LORD, don't rebuke me in your anger or discipline me in your rage.
- ² Have compassion on me, LORD, for I am weak.
Heal me, LORD, for my bones are in agony.
- ³ I am sick at heart.
How long, O LORD, until you restore me?
- ⁴ Return, O LORD, and rescue me.
Save me because of your unfailing
love.

- ⁵ For the dead do not remember you.
Who can praise you from the grave?
- ⁶ I am worn out from sobbing.
All night I flood my bed with weeping, drenching it with my tears.
- ⁷ My vision is blurred by grief;
my eyes are worn out because of all my enemies.
- ⁸ Go away, all you who do evil,
for the LORD has heard my weeping.
- ⁹ The LORD has heard my plea;
the LORD will answer my prayer.
- ¹⁰ May all my enemies be disgraced and terrified.
May they suddenly turn back in shame.

- ¹ I come to you for protection, O LORD my God.
Save me from my persecutors—
rescue me!
- ² If you don't, they will maul me like a lion, tearing me to pieces with no one to rescue me.
- ³ O LORD my God, if I have done wrong or am guilty of injustice,
- ⁴ if I have betrayed a friend or plundered my enemy without cause,

5:11 A blessing rests on all who take refuge in God (see 18:30). • Joy and praise make good companions. The godly rejoice when they see evidence of God's rescue. They sing joyful praises as a new song (see 33:3). When the Lord restores peace to this world, puts down evil, and rewards the righteous, they will have lasting joy (9:2-4; 53:6; 90:14-15; 118:24). • The children of God, who find refuge in him, love his name. To love his name is to love his very character.

5:12 The psalmist extends his concern beyond himself to all the godly. • A shield, here an image of God's protection, deflects spears and arrows from its bearer.

Ps 6 The occasion for this lament might have been sickness or a mental or spiritual depression from which the psalmist sought healing.

6: TITLE to be accompanied by an eight-stringed instrument: Literally with stringed instruments; according to the sheminith.

6:1-3 The psalmist asks for God's favor and restoration at a difficult time.

6:1 don't rebuke me . . . or discipline me: The psalmist does not explicitly connect God's discipline with sin here (cp. 39:8-11), but it might be implied.

6:2-3 In his longing for God's response to his prayer, the psalmist grew physically weak (6:6; see 77:3; 119:81; 142:1-3; see also Ps 101). Fasting might have played a part in his agony, but this is not mentioned.

6:4-5 The experience was so painful that the psalmist might as well have been dead, or perhaps he feared for his life.

6:5 from the grave? Hebrew from Sheol? In the OT, Sheol is the abode of the dead. It is not necessarily associated with punishment.

6:6-7 The psalmist is exhausted to the depths of his being from the anguish of his spiritual distance from the Lord (31:9; 22:1; 31:10; 102:5). • When eyes dim, the body is failing (see 13:3; 31:9; 38:10; Matt 6:22).

6:8-10 In a closing note of triumph, the psalmist reasserts his confidence in the Lord.

Ps 7 This psalm consists of a lament (7:1-2), an oath of innocence (7:3-5), an appeal to God's justice (7:6-9), an affirmation of God's just kingship (7:10-16), and a concluding hymn of praise (7:17).

7: TITLE Cush, an unknown person of the tribe of Benjamin, remained hostile to David.

7:1 Persecutors (a common term for "enemies") intentionally seek out people in order to destroy them (31:15; 56:1-2; 71:11; 143:3).

7:2 Like a lion, a wicked enemy relentlessly and violently pursues its prey (10:9; 17:12; 22:13, 21; 35:17; 57:4), but God promises victory (91:13).

7:3-5 The psalmist swears to his innocence, making himself vulnerable to scrutiny (7:9).

7:3 The psalmist does not claim to be without sin, but he knows that he does not deserve the brutal attacks of his opponents (see 35:7).

Interlude

6 Arise, O LORD, in anger!
Stand up against the fury of my
enemies!
Wake up, my God, and bring justice!
7 Gather the nations before you.
Rule over them from on high.
8 The LORD judges the nations.
Declare me righteous, O LORD,
for I am innocent, O Most High!
9 End the evil of those who are wicked,
and defend the righteous.
For you look deep within the mind and
heart,
O righteous God.

10 God is my shield, saving those whose hearts are true and right.
11 God is an honest judge.
He is angry with the wicked every day.

12 If a person does not repent,
God will sharpen his sword;
he will bend and string his bow.
13 He will prepare his deadly weapons and shoot his flaming arrows.
14 The wicked conceive evil;
they are pregnant with trouble and give birth to lies.
15 They dig a deep pit to trap others,
then fall into it themselves.
16 The trouble they make for others
backfires on them.
The violence they plan falls on their own heads.
17 I will thank the LORD because he is just;
I will sing praise to the name of the LORD Most High.

▲ Musical Notations in the Psalms (Ps 5). These musical notations are not well understood.

7:5 trample: Cp. 44:5; 60:12; 91:13; 108:13. • into the ground . . . in the dust: Disgrace and shame can lead to death and the grave (143:3; see 13:3-4).

7:6-9 With this appeal to God for justice in the world, the psalmist also submits to God's examination.

7:6 God's judgment brings justice, despite the chaos created by adversaries (see 7:11).

7:8 The judgment is against the defendants (the nations) and in favor of the righteous plaintiff (the psalmist; see 43:1). • Although not innocent of all sin, the psalmist is a person of authentic integrity (see 15:2; 25:21; 41:12; 78:72; cp. Job 1:1, 8; 9:20, 22).

7:9 God examines the mind and heart of each person (see 11:3-4; 26:2; 139:1, 23).

7:10-13 The psalmist moves from his own situation (7:1-9) to speak for all the godly who long for redemption (7:10-16). He depicts God as the righteous King who vindicates his subjects when they cry out for rescue.

7:11 The honest Lord cannot be bought or bribed, nor does he abuse his power (9:4; cp. 82:1-8).

7:12-13 sword . . . bow . . . deadly weapons . . . flaming arrows: As the Divine Warrior, God (literally he) takes the offensive on behalf of himself and his people.

7:14 Evil begins with small words or steps, and gives birth to increasingly worse deeds as time goes on (see Isa 59:4-5).

7:17 I will thank . . . sing praise: The laments in Pss 3-7 usually move from lament to praise, as does the Psalter as a whole. • Most High: This is an ancient designation for God (see note on 91:1). • God is just and reliable, so his order prevails in this world.

Ps 8 Psalm 8 opens the second segment of Book One (Pss 8-14). The psalmist celebrates God's creation and the dignity of the ideal human being (see Ps 1). Instead of the world of enemies, wicked people, and distorted justice that is presented in Pss 3-7, this psalm promotes an image of the world as God originally created it. A weary person can envision a place of dignity in God's world.

8: TITLE to be accompanied by a stringed instrument: Hebrew according to the gittith.

8:1 The LORD (Hebrew Yahweh), the covenant God of Israel (Exod 3:15), also holds the title of Lord (Hebrew adonay), the king of the earth. • The word translated majestic (sometimes translated "mighty") can describe kings (136:18), heroes (16:3), mountains (76:4), or waves breaking on the seashore (93:4).

For the choir director: A psalm of David, to be sung to the tune "Death of the Son."

- ¹ I will praise you, LORD, with all my heart;
I will tell of all the marvelous things you have done.
- ² I will be filled with joy because of you.
I will sing praises to your name,

Ps 34:16; 40:15

While all are awe-inspiring and mighty, the created order pales in comparison with the Lord. • A person's name embodies his reputation. • The earth and the heavens reveal the Lord's splendor. All creation worships and praises the Lord (66:4; 113:3; 145:21).

8:2 to tell of your strength: Greek version reads to give you praise. Cp. Matt 21:16. • silencing: The loud noise of the oppressors contrasts with the praise of God. In the end, the praise of God will overwhelm the sound of evil (31:18; 63:11; 101:5; 143:12). • Those who oppose God seethe with vindictive anger (2:1-3; 44:16; cp. 149:6-7).

8:3-5 In light of God's awesome glory, it might seem that people would be insignificant to him. However, he has crowned them with glory and honor and placed them over all creation.

8:3 The nations around Israel worshiped heavenly objects as deities. The sun, moon, and stars are indeed immense and glorious, but they are merely the work of your fingers, a reason to praise the Almighty.

8:4 what are mere mortals that you should think about them, / human beings that you should care for them? Literally what is man that you should think of him, / the son of man (or son of Adam) that you should care for him? See also 144:3. • human beings (literally son of Adam): The Hebrew idiom son of man (or son of Adam) means a human being. Through the influence of Dan 7:13-14, it became a title with divine overtones in the NT. See Heb 2:6-8, where this passage is quoted.

8:5 Yet you made them only a little lower than God: Or Yet you made them only a little lower than the angels; Hebrew reads Yet you made him [i.e., man] a little lower than Elohim. Humans bear God's image; the Lord has endowed humans with dignity and charged them to rule (Gen 1:26-27). Hebrews 2:6-8 applies these words to Jesus Christ, the ideal human who fully realized God's purposes. • them: Literally him (i.e., man).

8:6 gave them (literally him, i.e., man) charge of everything: The psalmist is still referring to humans in general. Paul applies these words to Jesus as the perfect man who has made the created order—even death (1 Cor 15:25-27)—subject to God and his glory. The NT connects these themes of creation and salvation with Jesus Christ (John 1:1-2, 14; Col 1:16).

8:7-8 Wild animals, including birds and fish, remind readers of God's creation of the animal world in Gen 1. Contrary to beliefs among Israel's neighbors in the ancient Near East, animals are not sacred.

Pss 9–10 This hymn celebrates the Lord's kingship and victory over evil. It might also serve as a response to the laments of Pss 3–7. Some believe that Pss 9 and 10 should be read together as one psalm in two parts because Pss 9 includes a title and Ps 10 does not, and although several letters are missing or inverted, the two psalms connect as an acrostic of the Hebrew alphabet (see note on Ps 25; other such alphabetic acrostics are Pss 25, 34, 37, 111–112, 119, 145). The ancient Greek and Latin translations treat Pss 9 and 10 as one.

9: TITLE This psalm was originally sung to the tune "Death of the Son," but that tune is no longer known. So also with the tunes mentioned in Pss 22, 45, 56–60, 69, 75, and 80.

9:1 The verb translated praise is translated "thank" in 7:17, suggesting a close connection between Pss 7 and 9 (see 7:17; 8:1-2). With all my heart expresses the psalmist's deep devotion and commitment (86:12; 111:1; 119:10; 138:1). • I will tell: These stories educate the next generation (78:4; 145:4); when they are not remembered, a generation might easily depart from the Lord (78:11, 32). • The marvelous things include the Lord's judgments on the enemies of his people (9:4) and his care for the oppressed (9:9). The wonders in creation, in redemption, and in revelation reveal his character and show his power (89:5; 111:4; 119:18, 27). His powerful manifestations evoke public praise (9:1; 26:7; 75:1).

9:2 filled with joy . . . sing praises: The psalmist often connects joy with praises, as one leads to the other (5:11-12; 32:11; 67:4; 90:14; 92:4). • Most High: See note on 91:1.

9:3-6 The psalmist celebrates God's judgment of the wicked, which is a testimony to the Lord's reliable promise to establish his kingdom on earth (1:6; Ps 2).

9:3 retreated . . . staggered: The Lord overpowers even powerful enemies (see 27:2). Israel also experienced judgment when it resisted the Lord (107:12).

9:4 The throne represents the Lord's royal authority.

6 The enemy is finished, in endless ruins;
the cities you uprooted are now forgotten.

7 But the LORD reigns forever, executing judgment from his throne.

8 He will judge the world with justice and rule the nations with fairness.

9 The LORD is a shelter for the oppressed, a refuge in times of trouble.

10 Those who know your name trust in you, for you, O LORD, do not abandon those who search for you.

11 Sing praises to the LORD who reigns in Jerusalem.
Tell the world about his unforgettable
deeds.

12 For he who avenges murder cares for the helpless.
He does not ignore the cries of those who suffer.

13 LORD, have mercy on me.
See how my enemies torment me.
Snatch me back from the jaws of
death.

14 Save me so I can praise you publicly at Jerusalem's gates,

so I can rejoice that you have rescued me.

15 The nations have fallen into the pit they dug for others.
Their own feet have been caught in the trap they set.

16 The LORD is known for his justice.
The wicked are trapped by their own deeds. Quiet Interlude

17 The wicked will go down to the grave.
This is the fate of all the nations who ignore God.

18 But the needy will not be ignored
forever;
the hopes of the poor will not always be crushed.

19 Arise, O LORD!
Do not let mere mortals defy you!
Judge the nations!

20 Make them tremble in fear, O LORD.
Let the nations know they are merely human. Interlude

PSALM 10

1 O LORD, why do you stand so far away?
Why do you hide when I am in trouble?

2 The wicked arrogantly hunt down the poor.

9:5 God created the heavens and the earth with a word (Gen 1), and he can bring nations to an end with a word (see 2:5). Evil and those who do evil will come to an absolute end (109:13; Rev 21:4; see note on 69:28).

9:7-10 The godly do not put their hope in corruptible human government but in God's everlasting rule of justice and fairness (see Pss 96-100).

9:9 The Lord provides shelter in dangerous circumstances and refuge from powerful and oppressive people. The Psalter includes many similar images of the Lord, such as fortress (18:2; 31:2), refuge (59:16-17), rock (18:2; 42:9), strength (18:1), and strong tower (144:2).
These images occur frequently in the royal prayers (see 9:9; 18:30). • Even oppressed, afflicted, and marginalized people (10:17; 74:21) can enjoy divine protection. • The times of trouble (10:1; 20:1) stand in contrast with appointed times when the Lord openly bestows his favor upon the afflicted (69:13; 102:13;
see 107:6).

9:10 Alienation from the Lord might be part of an individual's experience (22:1; 42:9; 119:8), yet the psalms affirm that the Lord will not abandon his people (16:10; 37:25, 28).

9:11-12 Recognition that the Lord's judgment falls on some of the wicked (9:3-6) and that God promises to judge all evil (9:7-10) motivates praise. The psalmist calls on the godly community to join him.

9:11 The psalm connects the idea that God reigns (or sits, or is enthroned) with a place, such as heaven (2:4; see 47:9), Jerusalem (Hebrew Zion; also in 9:14), "between the cherubim" (80:1; 99:1), "on high" (113:5), or "at the right hand" (110:1). Since the Lord rules the world, all people must know of his unforgettable deeds of salvation (see 9:1; 64:9; 66:16; 105:1).

9:12 The Lord avenges and saves his servants (18:46) by righteously judging his enemies on earth (58:11). The godly do not seek revenge; they wait for the Lord to vindicate them (94:1-2; Deut 32:35; Rom 12:19).

9:13 The psalmist returns from a vision of the glorious future to the reality of facing his enemies (9:3). • The jaws (literally gates) are a vivid image of the powerful grip of death (see 13:3-4).

9:14 Jerusalem's gates provide an intentional contrast to "the gates of death"
(see note on 9:13).

9:16 Quiet Interlude: Hebrew Higgayon Selah. The meaning of this phrase is uncertain.

9:17 to the grave: Hebrew to Sheol. See note on 6:5.

9:18 Hope requires waiting for the Lord's rescue or justice (25:3, 5, 21). The godly find hope, rest, and quietness as they await the Lord (see 1:6; 27:14).

9:19-20 The psalmist ends his lament with a prayer for the Lord's intervention and divine vengeance. • mere mortals
... merely human: Humans who have received authority and glory sometimes become oppressive and assume glory for themselves (see 8:4; 10:18).

Ps 10 The lament of Ps 9:13-20 continues in Ps 10 (see note on Pss 9-10), but the mood changes from confident assertion to anguished questioning. The psalmist prays for rescue, believing that the Lord, as a just king, takes care of the needy.

10:1 The opening questions set the mood. The Lord does not seem to hear the prayers of his people (22:1, 19; see 2 Kgs 4:27; Isa 1:15).

10:2-11 Wicked and oppressive people might prosper, leaving ugly consequences. Evil can be as dramatic as the psalmist portrays it here, or it could be more subtle.

10:2 The wicked brazenly defy God with their acts and speech (17:10; 31:18;

- Let them be caught in the evil they plan for others.
- ³ For they brag about their evil desires; they praise the greedy and curse the LORD.
- ⁴ The wicked are too proud to seek God. They seem to think that God is dead.
- ⁵ Yet they succeed in everything they do. They do not see your punishment awaiting them. They sneer at all their enemies.
- ⁶ They think, "Nothing bad will ever happen to us! We will be free of trouble forever!"
- ⁷ Their mouths are full of cursing, lies, and threats. Trouble and evil are on the tips of their tongues.
- ⁸ They lurk in ambush in the villages, waiting to murder innocent people. They are always searching for helpless victims.
- ⁹ Like lions crouched in hiding, they wait to pounce on the helpless. Like hunters they capture the helpless and drag them away in nets.
- ¹⁰ Their helpless victims are crushed; they fall beneath the strength of the wicked.
- ¹¹ The wicked think, "God isn't watching us! He has closed his eyes and won't even see what we do!"
- ¹² Arise, O LORD! Punish the wicked, O God! Do not ignore the helpless!
- ¹³ Why do the wicked get away with despising God?

- They think, "God will never call us to account."
- ¹⁴ But you see the trouble and grief they cause. You take note of it and punish them. The helpless put their trust in you. You defend the orphans.
- ¹⁵ Break the arms of these wicked, evil people! Go after them until the last one is destroyed.
- ¹⁶ The LORD is king ^bforever and ever! The godless nations will vanish from the land.
- ¹⁷ LORD, you know the hopes of the helpless. Surely you will hear their cries and comfort them.
- ¹⁸ You will bring justice to the orphans and the oppressed, so mere people can no longer terrify them.

PSALM 11

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- ¹ I trust in the LORD for protection. So why do you say to me, "Fly like a bird to the mountains for safety!"
- ² The wicked are stringing their bows and fitting their arrows on the bowstrings. They shoot from the shadows at those whose hearts are right.
- ³ The foundations of law and order have collapsed. What can the righteous do?"
- ⁴ But the LORD is in his holy Temple; the LORD still rules from ^cheaven.

59:12; 73:8; 123:4). Although the Lord will deal with them (31:23), they disturb the righteous (see 5:4-6) prior to their condemnation and judgment.

10:3 Unlike those who have evil desires, the godly wait for justice (10:17).

10:4 God is dead: See 10:11; 14:1.

10:6-7 Despite their evil ways (5:9; 28:3; Rom 3:14), the wicked expect a future free of trouble such as the righteous will enjoy. • cursing, lies, and threats: Greek version reads cursing and bitterness. Cp. Rom 3:14.

10:8 The wicked rely on outright violence (11:5; 37:32) and deception (Prov 12:6; 23:27-28).

10:12-15 With confidence that the wicked will be held responsible for their deeds and that the Lord will care for the helpless, the psalmist prays intensely for rescue from evil.

10:14 Because the Lord cares for the afflicted, he will take note and punish evildoers (see 72:14; 116:15).

10:15 The psalmist strongly invokes a curse as he prays (see "Prayers for Vengeance" at Ps 137, p. 1017). • Arms represent an ability to wage war (18:34; 44:3).

10:16 As the true and just king, God will bring the wicked to an end, as he promises (1:6).

10:17-18 The psalmist expresses his confidence in the Lord.

10:18 Mere people (see note on 8:4) misuse their power and enslave the very people God wants them to serve (see 9:19-20; Luke 22:25-26).

Ps 11 The psalmist affirms his faith in the righteous God. Even though the world appears hopelessly chaotic, both the godly and the wicked can count on God's justice. The godly can depend on him as a refuge and shelter.

11:1 God provides protection (or refuge; see 5:11; 9:9; 25:20) when the foundations of justice collapse. • The mountains provide another place of refuge (see 121:1; see note on 30:6-7).

11:2-3 In the inevitable battle between the evil and the godly, the wicked cannot tolerate the righteous, so they victimize them. This seems to leave the godly with nothing but questions.

11:2 The wicked live in the shadows and create gloom for the godly (82:5; 139:11; 143:3; Prov 4:19).

11:3 The wicked create a world of darkness (see 82:5).

11:4 The righteous King rules from heaven, where his throne is untouched by human corruption (see

- He watches everyone closely, examining every person on earth.
5 The LORD examines both the righteous and the wicked.
He hates those who love violence.
6 He will rain down blazing coals and burning sulfur on the wicked, punishing them with scorching winds.
7 For the righteous LORD loves justice.
The virtuous will see his face.

PSALM 12

*For the choir director: A psalm of David,
to be accompanied by an eight-stringed
instrument.*

- 1 Help, O LORD, for the godly are fast disappearing!
The faithful have vanished from the
earth!
2 Neighbors lie to each other, speaking with flattering lips and deceitful hearts.
3 May the LORD cut off their flattering lips and silence their boastful tongues.

- 4 They say, "We will lie to our hearts' content.
Our lips are our own—who can stop us?"
5 The LORD replies, "I have seen violence done to the helpless,
and I have heard the groans of the poor.
Now I will rise up to rescue them,
as they have longed for me to do."
6 The LORD's promises are pure, like silver refined in a furnace, purified seven times over.
7 Therefore, LORD, we know you will protect the oppressed, preserving them forever from this lying generation,
8 even though the wicked strut about,
and evil is praised throughout the land.

PSALM 13

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- 1 O LORD, how long will you forget me?
Forever?
How long will you look the other way?
2 How long must I struggle with anguish in my soul,

The Poor and Needy (Ps 10)

Ps 9:18; 10:2; 12:5;
22:1-31; 34:1-22;
35:10; 37:14; 40:17;
41:1; 49:2; 68:10;
69:33; 70:5; 72:2-4;
12:13; 74:21; 82:3-4; 107:41; 109:16;
140:12

The poor and needy are oppressed, persecuted people. They hunger and thirst for righteousness, but are deprived of it by the structures of society or the rapacious people around them (14:6; 37:14; 109:16). In their distress, they take refuge in the Lord (see 107:4-9), and they cry out to the Lord (25:16-18; 74:19; 76:9), who has promised to care for them (1:6). They have faith in him and wait hopefully for the Lord to appear and bring justice (1:18; 70:5).

One psalmist confessed that he had cried out to the Lord all his life (88:15). Much of life might be lived in anguish (90:15; see Ps 102). Affliction might be a form of discipline that gives training in righteousness (119:71, 75). The psalms testify that the Lord hears the cry of the poor (10:17-18; 12:5; 22:24; 34:6; 35:10; 74:21-23; 82:4; 86:1; 107:41; 109:22, 31; 113:5-7; 140:12) and that they will be satisfied (22:26; 132:15). Then the godly will rejoice (34:2; 69:32).

Like the Lord, the messianic king brings justice to his afflicted people (72:2, 4, 12), yet he confesses that he, too, is needy (40:17). The Davidic kings before Christ did not bring ultimate justice. Jesus identifies with our human situation (Isa 53:4, 7); he is the hope of those who recognize their poverty and their need (see Matt 5:3-12).

2:4). He examines everyone and sees everything that happens on earth (see 14:2-3).

11:5 hates: See 5:4-6; Prov 6:16-18.
• Wicked deeds result in destruction and violence (58:2; 73:6; 74:20).

11:6 God rained blazing coals and burning sulfur on Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen 19) as symbols of judgment (18:8; 120:4; 140:10).

11:7 The godly are assured of the Lord's favorable presence when they see his face (see 23:6).

Ps 12 This community lament seeks the Lord's help against the prevalence of evil. Because of the Lord's answer, the godly can face the future knowing that God protects them.

12: TITLE to be accompanied by an eight-stringed instrument: Hebrew according to the sheminith.

12:1-4 Evil becomes so pervasive that the godly pray for rescue (Isa 57:1; Mic 7:2; cp. 1:6; 37:20; 58:7; 104:35).

12:3 May the LORD cut off: See "Prayers for Vengeance" at Ps 137, p. 1017.

12:4 The words they say reveal the character of the wicked. They deceive and overpower the godly and arrogantly question the Lord's purposes.

12:6 The godly can rely on the LORD's promises, but not on the lies of the wicked (12:2-4). • Seven times means totally or completely.

12:7-8 The godly know that the Lord cares, even though the wicked continue to oppress them. The Lord sees the corrupt and foolish people who praise evildoers (see 9:19-20; 14:2-6).

Ps 13 The psalmist's piercing cry for help becomes a confident song of hope.

13:1-2 how long? The fourfold repetition expresses agitation and deep anguish (79:5).

13:2 A sense of anguish and sorrow closes off any perspective of hope (6:3). Unless the Lord answers the psalmist's prayers (22:1), death seems inescapable, with sorrow in my heart every day?

How long will my enemy have the upper hand?

- ³ Turn and answer me, O LORD my God!
Restore the sparkle to my eyes, or I will die.
- ⁴ Don't let my enemies gloat, saying, "We have defeated him!"
Don't let them rejoice at my downfall.
- ⁵ But I trust in your unfailing love.
I will rejoice because you have rescued me.
- ⁶ I will sing to the LORD
because he is good to me.

PSALM 14

Ps 14:1-7 // Ps 53:1-6

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- ¹ Only fools say in their hearts,
"There is no God."
They are corrupt, and their actions are
evil;
not one of them does good!
- ² The LORD looks down from heaven
on the entire human race;
he looks to see if anyone is truly wise,
if anyone seeks God.
- ³ But no, all have turned away;
all have become corrupt.
No one does good,
not a single one!
- ⁴ Will those who do evil never learn?
They eat up my people like bread and wouldn't think of praying to the LORD.

- ⁵ Terror will grip them,
for God is with those who obey him.
- ⁶ The wicked frustrate the plans of the oppressed,
but the LORD will protect his people.
- ⁷ Who will come from Mount Zion to rescue Israel?
When the LORD restores his people,
Jacob will shout with joy, and Israel
will rejoice.

PSALM 15

A psalm of David.

- ¹ Who may worship in your sanctuary,
LORD?
Who may enter your presence on your holy hill?
- ² Those who lead "blameless lives and do what is right,
speaking the truth from sincere hearts.
- ³ Those who refuse to gossip or harm their neighbors or speak evil of their friends.
- ⁴ Those who despise flagrant sinners, and honor the faithful followers of
the LORD,
and keep their promises even when it hurts.
- ⁵ Those who lend money without charging interest,
and who cannot be bribed to lie about the innocent.
Such people will stand firm forever.

torturous, and slow (6:6; 32:3; 55:4; 61:2; 102:5; 116:3). The psalmist hardly knows how to pray; he longs for God's redemption (25:17-18; 31:10; 38:8; 39:2).

13:3-4 Only the Lord can bring enlightenment and relief. The psalmist longs for the Lord's vindication so that his foes will not rejoice.

13:3 The psalmist's affliction feels like death (22:15; 55:4; 88:15; 94:17; 116:3).

13:5-6 The psalmist no longer hears the ridicule of his foes. Instead, because of his trust in the Lord, he is full of joy.

Ps 14 This wisdom psalm contains some characteristics of lament and prophetic speech. The ideals of Ps 8 have run aground on the reality of foolish human attitudes and sinful actions. With the exception of vv 5-6, this psalm parallels Ps 53.

14:1-3 Paul uses phrases from the Greek translation of this passage in his description of the depravity of all people (Rom 3:10-12).

14:1 Also known as fools, the wicked speak to themselves, think, scheme (10:4; 6, 11), and make claims; however, because they do not heed God's revelation, they possess no understanding (14:1; 39:8; 53:1; 74:18; 74:22).

14:2-3 From heaven (33:13; 80:14; 102:19), the Lord sees the wicked, who stand out as vile sinners (11:3-5). The entire human race lacks wisdom and fails to live up to the glory originally given to them (10:4-11; see Rom 1-3).

14:3 have become corrupt: Greek version reads have become useless. Cp. Rom 3:12.

14:4 The evil live at the expense of others (27:2; 44:11; 53:4; see Isa 5:8) and have no reverence or knowledge of God (79:6).

14:5 Though the wicked perish (1:5-6), God is with the godly.

14:7 The psalmist prays for the renewal of God's relationship with his people. Jacob* is a synonym for Israel (see Gen 35:9-10).

Pss 15-19 The psalms in this section affirm integrity and purity (17:15; 18:20-26; 19:13-14). They refer to people as dwelling in God's presence (16:9-11; 17:15) and as not being shaken (15:5; 16:8).

Ps 15 In this wisdom poem, the psalmist contrasts the lifestyle of the godly with the actions of fools (Ps 14). The questions in this psalm invite readers to examine themselves and to look away from problems with the wicked. The question of who dwells in God's presence leads into a description of godly character qualities (cp. 24:3-6; Isa 33:14-16).

15:1 Only the godly may reside in the Lord's presence (5:4). As his guests, they experience his hospitality and protection. sanctuary* (or tent): In David's time, God's sanctuary was a tent (the Tabernacle; see 1 Sam 21:6; 2 Sam 6:17; 7:6; 12:20; 1 Chr 6:32).

15:2 The godly speak truthfully and act faithfully in their relationships. Unlike the wicked, they are open and transparent (12:2-4).

15:5 The Lord prohibited Israel from charging interest to people in need (Exod 22:25-27). * The assurance of PSALM 16 A psalm of David.

- ¹ Keep me safe, O ^aGod,
for I have come to you for refuge.
- ² I said to the LORD, "You are my Master!
Every good thing I have comes from
you."
- ³ The godly people in the land are my true heroes!
I take pleasure in them!
- ⁴ Troubles multiply for those who chase after other gods.
I will not take part in their sacrifices of blood or even speak the names of their gods.
- ⁵ LORD, you alone are my inheritance, my cup of blessing.
You guard all that is mine.
- ⁶ The land you have given me is a pleasant
land.
What a wonderful inheritance!
- ⁷ I will bless the LORD who guides me;
even at night my heart instructs me.
- ⁸ I know the LORD is always with me.
I will not be shaken, for he is right beside me.
- ⁹ No wonder my heart is glad, and I rejoice.
My body rests in safety.
- ¹⁰ For you will not leave my soul among the ^bdead or allow your holy one to rot in the grave.

- ¹¹ You will show me the way of life, granting me the ^ajoy of your presence and the pleasures of living with you
forever.

PSALM 17 A prayer of David.

- ¹ O LORD, hear my plea for justice.
Listen to my cry for help.
Pay attention to my prayer,
for it comes from honest lips.
- ² Declare me innocent,
for you see those who do right.
- ³ You have tested my thoughts and examined my heart in the night.
You have scrutinized me and found nothing wrong.
I am determined not to sin in what I say.
- ⁴ I have followed your commands, which keep me from following cruel and evil people.
- ⁵ My steps have stayed on your path;
I have not wavered from following
you.
- ⁶ I am praying to you because I know you will answer, O ^bGod.
Bend down and listen as I pray.
- ⁷ Show me your unfailing love in wonderful ways.

God's presence keeps the godly from destruction (16:8; 46:5; 125:1). Their circumstances might shake them temporarily, but they ultimately stand firm (30:6; 94:18; 112:6).

Ps 16 In this psalm of confidence, the poet moves quickly from a short petition (16:1), to expressions of passionate commitment to God and his people (16:2-6), to a conclusion of confident praise (16:7-11).

16:1 TITLE A psalm: Hebrew miktam. This may be a literary or musical term.

16:1 The psalmist feels safe because the Lord alone offers security (16:5-6), guidance (16:7-8), and the joy of his presence (16:9-11).

16:2 I said to the LORD: The various writers of the psalms pray, lament, and praise the Lord throughout the Psalter, and the Lord answers them (see 12:5-6).

16:4 The psalmist dissociates himself from ungodly worship, rituals, and words (see 15:3-5).

16:5 The cup of blessing represents God's provision for all the psalmist's needs (23:5; see 116:13; cp. 75:8; Isa 51:17).

16:6 The land is God's gift for his people (Deut 18:8).

16:7-8 God's instruction brings life (16:11; see 5:8; 23:1-3; 32:8; 73:24).

• The psalmist so deeply depends on the Lord for strength and joy that he senses that God is right beside him (16:11; see 73:23; 109:31; 110:1, 5; 121:5). • Peter quoted 16:8-11 in his sermon on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:25-28).

16:9-11 Knowing that not even death can separate him from the Lord strengthens the psalmist's confidence. He fears a separation (see 13:3-4), but he remains confident of seeing the Lord (see 11:7).

16:9 and I rejoice: Greek version reads and my tongue shouts his praises. Cp. Acts 2:26.

16:10 The psalmist expresses his confidence that life continues beyond death. The apostles applied this text to the resurrection of Jesus (Acts 2:25-33; 13:35). • among the dead: Hebrew in Sheol. See note on 6:5. • your holy one: Or your Holy One; see 86:2.

16:11 You will show me the way of life,

/ granting me the joy of your presence: Greek version reads You have shown me the way of life, / and you will fill me with the joy of your presence. Cp. Acts 2:28. • with you: See 16:7-8; 110:1.

Ps 17 The psalmist pleads for God's protection and vindication, affirms his own integrity, and prays that the Lord will prevail against his fierce enemies.

17:1 comes from honest lips: Deception characterizes the wicked. The godly reject such deceit as a failure of character and pray for rescue from such people (5:6; 43:1; 120:2). They love honesty, truth, and integrity (15:2-3; 24:4; 101:7).

17:3-5 The psalmist declares his innocence (17:1) and commits himself to integrity by being open to God's examination.

17:3 Though he is not perfect, the psalmist commits himself to the Lord. He does not want to sin through deception, flattery, or gossip (see 10:7; 15:2-3; 17:1).

17:6-9 This prayer for God's care returns to the petition begun in 17:1-2 for redemption from evil.

By your mighty power you rescue those who seek refuge from their
enemies.

⁸ Guard me as you would guard your own eyes.

Hide me in the shadow of your wings.

⁹ Protect me from wicked people who attack me,
from murderous enemies who surround me.

¹⁰ They are without pity.
Listen to their boasting!

¹¹ They track me down and surround me,
watching for the chance to throw me to the ground.

¹² They are like hungry lions, eager to tear me apart—
like young lions hiding in ambush.

¹³ Arise, O LORD!
Stand against them, and bring them to their knees!
Rescue me from the wicked with your sword!

¹⁴ By the power of your hand, O LORD, destroy those who look to this world for their reward.
But satisfy the hunger of your treasured ones.

May their children have plenty, leaving an inheritance for their descendants.

¹⁵ Because I am righteous, I will see you.
When I awake, I will see you face to face and be satisfied.

PSALM 18

Ps 18:1-50 // 2 Sam 22:1-51

For the choir director: A psalm of David, the servant of the LORD. He sang this song to the LORD on the day the LORD rescued him from all his enemies and from Saul. He sang:

you are my strength.

² The LORD is my rock, my fortress, and my savior;
my God is my rock, in whom I find protection.

He is my shield, the power that saves me,
and my place of safety.

³ I called on the LORD, who is worthy of praise,
and he saved me from my enemies.

⁴ The ropes of death entangled me;
floods of destruction swept over me.

⁵ The grave wrapped its ropes around me;
death laid a trap in my path.

⁶ But in my distress I cried out to the LORD;
yes, I prayed to my God for help.
He heard me from his sanctuary;
my cry to him reached his ears.

⁷ Then the earth quaked and trembled.
The foundations of the mountains shook;
they quaked because of his anger.

⁸ Smoke poured from his nostrils;
fierce flames leaped from his mouth.
Glowing coals blazed forth from him.

⁹ He opened the heavens and came down;
dark storm clouds were beneath his feet.

Exod 20:21
Ps 97:2; 144:5

17:8 as you would guard your own eyes (literally as the pupil of your eye): This metaphor expresses God's care and affection for the psalmist (see Deut 32:10). • The shadow of God's wings is a place of his protection from enemies and adversity (36:7; 57:1; 61:4; 63:7; 91:4).

17:13-14 The psalmist confidently prays for the Lord's victory, knowing that God possesses more power than the evildoers. The psalmist finds his joy in the Lord's inheritance (16:5), whereas the wicked search for joy in this world.

17:15 see you face to face: The psalmist does not allow temporary concerns raised by adversaries to stand in the way of his experiencing a real and lasting relationship with the Lord.

Ps 18 This royal drama of divine rescue (also found with minor variations in 2 Sam 22) encourages readers who are following the laments and requests for rescue in Pss 16 and 17. The psalmist describes the dramatic nature of God's rescue in three different ways (18:7-15, 16-19, 30-36). The psalm also extends hope that a future Son of David will be totally victorious over evil (18:43-50; cp. Ps 2).

18:TITLE David was a faithful servant of the LORD, charged with the responsibility of establishing God's kingdom on earth (see 78:70; 132:10; 144:10). • The Lord rescued David from all his enemies when he enabled David to conquer them (see 2 Sam 8:1-14).

18:2 A shield is an image of protection, salvation, and victory (7:10; 18:2, 30, 35; 84:11; 91:4; 115:9, 10, 11; 119:114; 144:2). It evokes a response of trust, waiting, and godly confidence.

18:3 God deserves praise for his greatness and faithfulness (48:1; 96:4; 145:3).

18:5 The grave: Hebrew Sheol. See note on 6:5.

18:6 God dwells in his sanctuary, the heavenly temple (102:19; see 14:2-3). He knows everything, sees everyone, and will vindicate the godly (see 11:3-7).

18:7-15 The psalmist depicts the Lord's descent from heaven to earth with phenomena such as earthquakes, flames, smoke, darkness, and rain. Creation shudders at God's marvelous coming as the Divine Warrior (see 97:2-5) and Judge (see 50:1-6).

18:7 The destabilization of the whole earth will be a means of God's judgment (77:17-18; 96:9; 97:4; 99:1; 104:32; Isa 29:6; Mic 1:3-4; Nah 1:2-6; Hag 2:7, 21).

18:8 his nostrils . . . his mouth: The psalmist likens God to an angry person or a fierce creature (see Job 41:12-22). • The terrifying images of smoke, flames, and glowing coals express God's wrath against sin.

18:9-11 The Lord's sovereignty extends over all of nature (see 104:2-4; 148:5-6).

Ps 37:34; 119:33,
102:103

- 10 Mounted on a mighty angelic being, he flew, soaring on the wings of the wind.
- 11 He shrouded himself in darkness, veiling his approach with dark rain clouds.
- 12 Thick clouds shielded the brightness around him and rained down hail and burning coals.
- 13 The LORD thundered from heaven;
the voice of the Most High resounded amid the hail and burning coals.
- 14 He shot his arrows and scattered his enemies;
great bolts of lightning flashed,
and they were confused.
- 15 Then at your command, O LORD,
at the blast of your breath,
the bottom of the sea could be seen,
and the foundations of the earth were laid bare.

- 16 He reached down from heaven and rescued me;
he drew me out of deep waters.
- 17 He rescued me from my powerful enemies, from those who hated me and were too strong for me.
- 18 They attacked me at a moment when I was in distress, but the LORD supported me.
- 19 He led me to a place of safety;
he rescued me because he delights in me.
- 20 The LORD rewarded me for doing right;
he restored me because of my innocence.
- 21 For I have kept the ways of the LORD;
I have not turned from my God to follow evil.
- 22 I have followed all his regulations;
I have never abandoned his decrees.
- 23 I am blameless before God;
I have kept myself from sin.
- 24 The LORD rewarded me for doing right.
He has seen my innocence.

Salvation in the Psalms (Ps 18)

Ps 3:7-8; 6:4; 7:10;
14:7; 16:9-11; 17:7;
18:17-20, 27-28,
46-48; 20:6; 22:4-5;
25:4-14; 27:1; 31:1-2, 15-16; 32:1-5;
33:18-19; 34:6-7,
17-19; 40:16-17;
43:5; 46:1-11; 62:1-8; 70:4-5; 72:12-14;
80:1-19; 91:1-16;
98:1-3; 107:1-43;
121:1-8; 149:4

The psalmists experienced God's salvation (see 32:1-5) as rescue from evil in the world. They were well acquainted with grief (69:18). It seemed to them that God had abandoned them and that the wicked took advantage of the apparent injustice to ridicule the godly (3:2; 71:11).

While waiting for rescue, the psalmists had faith that the Lord was with them, keeping guard over them (Pss 46, 121), and would not abandon them (16:10; 94:14; see also 7:10; 31:2; 62:6-7; 144:2). The psalmists cried out for rescue, knowing that they were completely dependent on the Lord (31:15; 35:17; 69:13).

God graciously rescues his needy servants and answers their prayers (20:6, 9; 28:8; 34:6, 18; 40:13; 76:9; 107; 145:19; 149:4). When the Lord rescues his people, he receives glory through their thanksgiving, praise, and testimony (50:15; 79:9; 85:9). God's mighty acts are recorded in Scripture so that his people will praise him for what he has done and trust him to rescue them.

The Psalter encourages the godly to identify themselves with these stories of salvation. For example, in Ps 18 the psalmist describes his anguish, his lament, and the Lord's salvation (18:17, 19, 20, 43, 48) in such a manner that all the humble are invited to look to the Lord in hope (72:12). The Lord has rescued the psalmist, and the Lord will save his people again.

Salvation excludes the wicked (69:27; 119:155), who ridicule those whose hope is in the Lord's rescue (22:8). They may call to the Lord in their hour of judgment, but he will not rescue them (18:27; 50:22; 78:22). Hope in God's salvation requires a life of faith (119:123) and love of the Lord (60:5; 108:6). Such faith casts out fear (34:4) because the Lord does what is right (71:2).

The Lord Jesus came to save sinners. He ministered to the needy and the marginalized, though he died under oppression. He rescues people from themselves, from Satan, from death, and from adversity. He has the power to vindicate the faithful, judge sinners, and completely save all of God's children. He will renew all things, while excluding the wicked from his everlasting salvation.

18:10 a mighty angelic being (Hebrew a cherub): See notes on 1 Chr 28:18; 2 Chr 3:10-13.

18:12 and burning coals: Or and lightning bolts; also in 18:13.

18:19 Because God loves and delights in the psalmist (see 18:1), he will save him (37:23; 41:11; 91:14-16).

18:20-24 The psalmist affirms that loyalty is rewarded. He puts his trust in the Lord (see 16:1) and commits himself to living with integrity (see Pss 1, 15, 24; see also 19:12-14).

18:21 kept the ways of the LORD: The psalmist faithfully obeys God's instructions (see 25:8-10). • not turned . . . to follow evil: The psalmist rejects the way of folly (see Pss 1, 14) and chooses the way of wisdom (see Pss 1, 15).

- 25 To the faithful you show yourself faithful;
to those with integrity you show integrity.
- 26 To the pure you show yourself pure, but to the crooked you show yourself shrewd.
- 27 You rescue the humble,
but you humiliate the proud.
- 28 You light a lamp for me.
The LORD, my God, lights up my darkness.
- 29 In your strength I can crush an army;
with my God I can scale any wall.
- 30 God's way is perfect.
All the LORD's promises prove true.
He is a shield for all who look to him for protection.
- 31 For who is God except the LORD?
Who but our God is a solid rock?
- 32 God arms me with strength, and he makes my way perfect.
- 33 He makes me as surefooted as a deer, enabling me to stand on mountain heights.
- 34 He trains my hands for battle;
he strengthens my arm to draw a bronze bow.
- 35 You have given me your shield of victory.
Your right hand supports me;
your help has made me great.
- 36 You have made a wide path for my feet to keep them from slipping.
- 37 I chased my enemies and caught them;
I did not stop until they were conquered.
- 38 I struck them down so they could not get up;
they fell beneath my feet.
- 39 You have armed me with strength for the battle;
you have subdued my enemies under my feet.
- 40 You placed my foot on their necks.
I have destroyed all who hated me.
- 41 They called for help, but no one came to their rescue.
They even cried to the LORD, but he refused to answer.
- 42 I ground them as fine as dust in the wind.
I swept them into the gutter like dirt.
- 43 You gave me victory over my accusers.
You appointed me ruler over nations;
people I don't even know now serve me.
- 44 As soon as they hear of me, they submit;
foreign nations cringe before me.
- 45 They all lose their courage and come trembling from their strongholds.
- 46 The LORD lives! Praise to my ^kRock!
May the God of my salvation be exalted!
- 47 He is the God who pays back those who harm me;
he subdues the nations under me and rescues me from my enemies.
- 48 You hold me safe beyond the reach of my enemies;
you save me from violent opponents.
- 49 For this, O LORD, I will praise you among the nations;
I will sing praises to your name.
- 50 You give great victories to your king;
you show unfailing love to your anointed, to David and all his descendants forever.

18:25-29 The faithful God remains true to his character. He loves faithfulness, blamelessness, and purity, and he hates the perverse (see 1:6).

18:26 The pure have clean hands (see 18:20-24). • to the crooked you show yourself shrewd: The Lord knows each person's character, and he justly responds to them in kind.

18:27 proud: The Lord hates pride (101:5; 131:1; see Prov 6:16-17; 21:4; 30:13).

18:28 light a lamp: The Lord renews the psalmist's life, helping him overcome the darkness of adversity (see 112:4; 119:105).

18:29 scale any wall: God helps his servants fight their battles.

18:30-36 The psalmist experiences God's rescue and provision of victory.

18:30 perfect: God's character has integrity (see 18:26). • God promises to protect his people, and he does so. • Seeking God's protection entails trust and faith. Regardless of his feelings or external circumstances, the psalmist makes a deep commitment to the Lord. He experiences joy (5:11; 64:10) as he awaits the Lord's rescue (57:1).

18:32-34 The psalmist's victories come from the Lord. He completely depends on God.

18:36 A wide path represents freedom and safety (see 4:8; 119:35).

18:37-42 With help from the Divine Warrior, the psalmist experienced victory over his enemies.

18:40 Placing a foot on the necks of the enemy represents total victory (see Josh 10:23-26).

18:43-45 With God's victorious help, the psalmist achieved military and political success, thus fulfilling the history of David's dynasty (Ps 2). The previous laments find some resolution in this psalm.

18:46-50 The psalmist again reflects on the Lord's victories. God's marvelous rescue and the king's victory are cause for celebration.

18:47 God vindicates his servant and so fulfills his mission (Ps 2; see 47:3; 144:2).

18:49 The psalmist's vision of praise . . . among the nations motivated Paul in his mission to the Gentiles (Rom 15:9).

18:50 God appointed David, his anointed ruler, to bring order into God's world (see Ps 2). Both David and his descendants received this responsibility.

PSALM 19

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- 1 The ^aheavens proclaim the glory of God.
The skies display his craftsmanship.
 - 2 Day after day they continue to speak;
night after night they make him known.
 - 3 They speak without a sound or word;
their voice is never heard.
 - 4 Yet their message has gone throughout
the earth,
and their words to all the world.
- God has made a home in the heavens for the sun.
- 5 It bursts forth like a radiant bridegroom
after his wedding.
It rejoices like a great athlete eager to run the race.
 - 6 The sun rises at one end of the heavens and follows its course to the other end.
Nothing can hide from its heat.

- 7 The ^binstructions of the LORD are ^cperfect, reviving the ^dsoul.
The decrees of the LORD are trustworthy, making wise the simple.
- 8 The commandments of the LORD are
right,
bringing joy to the heart.
The commands of the LORD are clear, giving insight for living.
- 9 Reverence for the LORD is pure, lasting forever.

The laws of the LORD are true;
each one is fair.

- 10 They are more desirable than gold,
even the finest gold.
They are sweeter than honey,
even honey dripping from the comb.
- 11 They are a warning to your servant,
a great reward for those who obey
them.
- 12 How can I know all the sins lurking in
my heart?
Cleanse me from these hidden faults.
- 13 Keep your servant from deliberate sins!
Don't let them control me.
Then I will be free of guilt and innocent of great sin.
- 14 May the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be pleasing to you,
O LORD, my rock and my ^eredeemer.

PSALM 20

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- 1 In times of trouble, may the LORD answer your cry.
May the name of the God of Jacob keep you safe from all harm.
- 2 May he send you help from his sanctuary and strengthen you from Jerusalem.
- 3 May he remember all your gifts and look favorably on your burnt offerings. Interlude

Ps 19 God's wisdom is manifest in heaven (19:1-4), in nature (19:4-6), in his instruction (19:7-11), and in the life of the psalmist (19:12-14). Like Ps 8, this hymn uses creation to motivate reflection—it is a peaceful oasis after the drama of the lament and victory psalms. The psalm begins with creation as a source of wisdom, then moves to God's word as the perfect source of wisdom, and ends with the human need for redemption.

19:1-4 The created order is an arena of God's wisdom, and the heavens are the place of God's dwelling (2:4; see 8:1; 57:5; 89:6; 115:3). From heaven, God observes humanity (11:4; 14:2; 33:13; 53:2; 80:14; 102:19) and comes to the rescue of his servants (18:6-8, 13; 20:6; 57:3; 76:8; 144:5). The heavens remain unaffected by human failures and rebellions (see 2:1-4). They display God's qualities of fidelity, righteousness (36:5; 50:6; 57:10; 85:11; 89:2, 5; 97:6; 108:4), and wisdom (136:5; see 119:89-90). The heavens reveal the Lord's glory (see 19:1) and give evidence of his presence and handiwork.

19:1 The glory of God refers to the splendor or manifest presence of the Creator (113:4). • God (Hebrew 'el): El is an ancient designation for God that signifies his creative power (see note on Gen 1:1).

19:3-4 God's wisdom does not need to be spoken. Through creation, it is seen, felt, and experienced. Paul applied this text to condemn Israel for its lack of receptivity to Jesus Christ (Rom 10:18). • They speak without a sound or word; their voice is never heard: Or There is no speech or language where their voice is not heard. The Hebrew can be translated either way. • The sun is part of God's creation, but it is not a deity, as people of other nations in the ancient Near East commonly believed.

19:7-11 God's instructions to humans reveal his character and wisdom. God's instruction is precious and pleasant (119:103). It nourishes the person (Prov 16:24; 24:14) and is of more value than objects of human worth (81:13-16).

19:12-14 The psalmist knows his faults, so he prays to remain faithful and commits himself to the Lord.

19:13 An individual who commits deliberate sins does so with an insolent (86:14) or arrogant (119:21, 69) attitude.

• The great sin is rebellion (see 32:1).

19:14 words of my mouth . . . meditation of my heart: The psalmist desires to please God in everything he says and thinks (see Luke 6:45; Rom 12:1-2).

Pss 20-24 This sequence of psalms expresses the experience of moving from confidence and commitment (Pss 20-21), through anguish and abandonment (Ps 22), and finally to comfort, insight, and hope (Pss 23-24).

Ps 20 This royal prayer for God's victory (20:1-5) leads to confidence in God's rescue (20:6-8) and a communal request for God's response (20:9).

20:1-5 The community prays for the king's protection and victory.

20:1 The term God of Jacob affectionately expresses God's ancient relationship with his people (see 24:6; 46:7, 11; 75:9; 76:6; 81:1, 4; 84:8; 94:7; 114:7; 146:5). • keep you safe from all harm: See 59:1-2.

20:2 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion. See "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947.

20:3 Gifts and burnt offerings express submission to the Lord (cp. 40:6).

- ⁴ May he grant your heart's desires and make all your plans succeed.
- ⁵ May we shout for joy when we hear of your victory and raise a victory banner in the name of our God.
May the LORD answer all your prayers.
- ⁶ Now I know that the LORD rescues his anointed king.
He will answer him from his holy heaven
and rescue him by his great power.
- ⁷ Some nations boast of their chariots and horses,
but we boast in the name of the LORD
our God.
- ⁸ Those nations will fall down and collapse,
but we will rise up and stand firm.
- ⁹ Give victory to our king, O LORD!
Answer our cry for help.

PSALM 21

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- ¹ How the king rejoices in your strength,
O LORD!
He shouts with joy because you give him victory.
- ² For you have given him his heart's desire;
you have withheld nothing he requested. Interlude
- ³ You welcomed him back with success and prosperity.
You placed a crown of finest gold on his head.
- ⁴ He asked you to preserve his life,
and you granted his request.

- The days of his life stretch on
forever.
- ⁵ Your victory brings him great honor, and you have clothed him with splendor and majesty.
- ⁶ You have endowed him with eternal blessings
and given him the joy of your presence.
- ⁷ For the king trusts in the LORD.
The unfailing love of the Most High will keep him from stumbling.
- ⁸ You will capture all your enemies.
Your strong right hand will seize all who hate you.
- ⁹ You will throw them in a flaming furnace
when you appear.
The LORD will consume them in his anger;
fire will devour them.
- ¹⁰ You will wipe their children from the face of the earth;
they will never have descendants.
- ¹¹ Although they plot against you,
their evil schemes will never succeed.
- ¹² For they will turn and run when they see your arrows aimed at
them.
- ¹³ Rise up, O LORD, in all your power.
With music and singing we celebrate your mighty acts.

* Ps 27:10

20:4-5 make all your plans succeed . . . answer all your prayers: These requests could be those stated in 21:3-6 (cp. 27:4).

20:5 Troops carried a victory banner to battle, under which they gathered and roused one another to action (see Isa 11:10, 12).

20:6-8 An individual member of the community (20:1-5) responds with a word of assurance and confidence in God's help.

20:6 God chose his anointed king to be his ruler (see 2:7).

20:7 chariots and horses: These were instruments of war (see 33:16-17; 76:6; 147:10; Isa 30:16; 31:1-3).

Ps 21 God's people thank him for giving victory to the king.

21:2 The king has experienced his heart's desire—God's protection and blessing (see 20:5; see also 2:8).

21:3-6 The king returned victorious from battle and received honor from the people. His greatest honor came from God, who gave him blessings, life, and his presence.

21:3 success and prosperity: See Prov 10:6.

21:4 God offers a rich quality of life (61:6-7; 91:14-16; 128:4-6) characterized by his presence (16:11; 23:6; 27:4; 36:9), joy (16:11), goodness (23:6; 34:14-15), and protection (41:2; 61:7).

21:6 God's eternal blessings also bring fullness of life in the present (see Ps 133).

21:7 The king enjoyed victory not because of his strength or intrinsic goodness but because God honored his faith.

21:8-12 As long as even a single enemy opposed the king's authority, God's kingdom was not fully present. This prayer requests victory over all evil in the world.

21:9 The flaming furnace and fire portray the severity of God's judgment on the wicked. In the OT, this image often refers to hell (11:6; 18:8; 50:3; 68:2; 78:21; 79:5; 80:16; 89:46; 97:3; 104:4; 140:10; see Isa 66:24).

21:10 children . . . descendants: Evil will end when God destroys all opposition to himself (109:13; cp. 18:50; 22:30-31; 25:13; 102:28).

21:13 Rise up (or be exalted, as in 57:5, 11; 108:5) expresses communal praise and joy in God's greatness and power.

Ps 22 All previous laments pale in comparison with this outcry against the enemy and God's abandonment. The psalm contains two main sections: the lament (22:1-21) and praise for

*John 19:28

Why are you so far away when I groan
for help?
2 Every day I call to you, my God, but you do not answer.
Every night I lift my voice, but I find no relief.
3 Yet you are holy,
enthroned on the praises of Israel.
4 Our ancestors trusted in you,
and you rescued them.
5 They cried out to you and were saved.
They trusted in you and were never disgraced.
6 But I am a worm and not a man.
I am scorned and despised by all!
7 Everyone who sees me mocks me.
They sneer and shake their heads,
saying,
8 "Is this the one who relies on the LORD?
Then let the LORD save him!
If the LORD loves him so much,
let the LORD rescue him!"
9 Yet you brought me safely from my mother's womb

and led me to trust you at my mother's breast.
10 I was thrust into your arms at my birth.
You have been my God from the moment I was born.
11 Do not stay so far from me, for trouble is near,
and no one else can help me.
12 My enemies surround me like a herd of bulls;
fierce bulls of Bashan have hemmed me in!
13 Like lions they open their jaws
against me,
roaring and tearing into their prey.
14 My life is poured out like water,
and all my bones are out of joint.
My heart is like wax,
melting within me.
15 My strength has dried up like sunbaked clay.
My tongue sticks to the roof of my mouth.
You have laid me in the dust and left me for dead.

Psalms of Suffering (Ps 22)

Pss 16, 40, 69, 102, 109
Isa 42:1-9;
52:13-53:12
Matt 27:46
Luke 23:34
Heb 10:5-10

The four psalms of suffering (also called "Passion Psalms"; Pss 16, 22, 40, 69) address the deep distress experienced by God's servant.

Psalm 22 is the most remarkable of the psalms of suffering. In this psalm, God's servant suffers though he is righteous. There is no suggestion of any sin, so the psalmist's suffering appears completely unjustified. There is no prayer for vengeance (see Ps 137) despite bitter persecution, like the sinless Christ (2 Cor 5:21) who even prayed for his executioners (Luke 23:34). Jesus recited part of Ps 22 when he was on the cross (22:1; see Matt 27:46), and the psalm has other noteworthy connections with the crucifixion (e.g., 22:6-8, 14-18).

The other psalms of suffering are also associated with Jesus Christ. Psalm 16:10 anticipates Christ's triumph over death (cp. Acts 2:24-31). Psalm 40:6-8 foreshadows the self-giving, redemptive work of Christ (Heb 10:5-10). Psalm 60 refers to isolation as resulting from commitment to God's cause (69:8-9). It anticipates the part Judas played in what was fundamentally God's work in Christ (69:25-26; 109:8; Isa 53:10; Acts 1:20).

redemption (22:22-31), which leads naturally to Ps 23. The apostles saw in this psalm an expression of the sufferings of Jesus Christ, who ultimately fulfilled the purpose of David's humiliation, rejection by people, and divine abandonment (Matt 27:35, 39, 43, 46; Mark 15:34; John 19:23-24, 28; Heb 2:12).

22:1-21 The psalmist alternates between reflections on his present dire circumstances and memories of the Lord's past faithfulness; he ends with a prayer for rescue.

22:1-2 A deep sense of alienation from God overwhelms the psalmist (see 10:1).

22:3 God, the holy King, is set apart from all his creation, but he chooses to reveal himself to Israel. • God greatly desires that his people offer praises to him.

22:6-8 Both the Lord and people reject the psalmist. He vividly describes his anguish (22:1-2); he lives like a lowly animal.

22:7 Everyone mocks the psalmist's confidence in the Lord (see 3:2; Matt 27:43), which shames him (44:13-14; 74:10; 89:50; 109:25).

22:9-11 The psalmist reflects on his past relationship with God (see 22:3-5). The Lord has been his very life.

22:9 The Lord took care of the psalmist before he could do anything for himself (see 71:6; 139:13).

22:12-18 The psalmist returns to expressing his anguish and suffering (see 22:1-2, 6-8). His trouble comes from human beings who act like beasts.

22:12 Bashan, a region known for its herds and vegetation, produced strong bulls (68:30).

22:14 The psalmist's sense of being poured out like water expresses a meaningless, transitory existence that leaves him depleted.

22:15 Facing adversity is as horrible as dying of thirst (see 137:6). • Jesus may have had this verse in mind when he said, "I am thirsty" (John 19:28).

16 My enemies surround me like a pack of dogs;
an evil gang closes in on me.
They have pierced my hands and feet.
17 I can count all my bones.
My enemies stare at me and gloat.
18 They divide my garments among themselves and throw dice for my clothing.
19 O LORD, do not stay far away!
You are my strength; come quickly to my aid!
20 Save me from the sword;
spare my precious life from these dogs.
21 Snatch me from the lion's jaws and from the horns of these wild oxen.
22 I will proclaim your name to my brothers and sisters.
I will ^apraise you among your assembled people.
23 Praise the LORD, all you who fear him!
Honor him, all you descendants of Jacob!
Show him reverence, all you descendants of Israel!
24 For he has not ignored or belittled the suffering of the needy.
He has not turned his back on them,
but has listened to their cries for help.

25 I will praise you in the great assembly.
I will fulfill my vows in the presence of those who worship you.
26 The poor will eat and be satisfied.
All who seek the LORD will praise
him.
Their hearts will rejoice with everlasting joy.
27 The whole earth will acknowledge the LORD and ^areturn to him.
All the families of the nations will bow down before him.
28 For royal power belongs to the LORD.
He rules all the nations.
29 Let the rich of the earth feast and worship.
Bow before him, all who are mortal,
all whose lives will end as dust.
30 Our children will also serve him.
Future generations will hear about the wonders of the Lord.
31 His righteous acts will be told to those not yet born.
They will hear about everything he has done.

22:16 The wild pack of dogs represents fierce and unscrupulous people. • They have pierced: As in some Hebrew manuscripts and Greek and Syriac versions; Most Hebrew manuscripts read They are like a lion at.

22:17-18 I can count all my bones: The psalmist's enemies have utterly shamed him by taking his garments (see 6:2). Jesus also suffered this disgrace (see Matt 27:35). • stare at me and gloat: Enemies make the psalmist the object of their scorn (see 35:24, 26; 38:16; 55:3; cp. 59:10). • throw dice: Literally cast lots. The casting of lots was sometimes a way for godly people to find God's direction (Lev 16:8; Num 27:21; Acts 1:24-26). Here, the lots are thrown simply as a game of chance. The soldiers threw dice for Jesus' clothing after the crucifixion (Matt 27:35; Mark 15:24; Luke 23:34; John 19:24).

22:19-21 The psalmist faces his troubles by praying for God's rescue. Only the Lord has the strength to ward off dogs, lions, and oxen.

22:20 The sword makes evident the lethal intent of the enemy.

22:22 I will proclaim your name: The writer to the Hebrews ascribes these words to Jesus (Heb 2:12). • my brothers and sisters: The literal reading in the Hebrew is my brothers. In the NT quotation, the Greek translation picks up the broader meaning as "my brothers and sisters."

22:23 The godly respond with awe (see 22:25).

22:24 Unlike his response to the wicked (see 21:8-12), God cares about the needy and hears their prayers (51:17; 69:33; 102:17).

22:25-31 The psalmist vows to praise the Lord, the great King of the earth (22:27-28) who cares for the needy. God alone deserves praise.

22:25 The great assembly might include all nations (22:27; 26:12; 35:18).

22:26 God knows his people's needs and addresses them (63:5; 81:16; 103:5; 107:9; 132:15; 145:16; 147:14).

22:27 families of the nations: All clans and tribes of humanity (see Gen 12:3; Rev 5:9-10) will live in submission to the Lord (96:1-3; see note on 2:8; see also Pss 2; 72; Isa 2:2-4; 1 Cor 15:25-27).

22:28 The universal kingdom belongs to God alone (Obad 1:21).

22:29 The Lord invites all people, rich and poor (22:26), to the banquet as long as they worship him.

22:30 Future generations will join those from the past who praised the Lord (22:3-5). The descendants of the godly will receive blessings (22:30-31), unlike the offspring of the wicked (21:10).

22:31 The Lord's acts of redemption (40:9; 50:6; 71:15, 16, 24; 97:6) demonstrate that he is righteous (see 4:1). His righteousness provides the character required for rule, judicial decisions, and relationships. This virtue leads to harmony and order (see 50:6).

Pss 23-28 These psalms develop the importance of integrity (25:4-7, 12-14, 21; 26:6, 11; 27:7-12), God's shepherd-ing care (23:1; 28:9), God's guidance (23:2-3; 25:5; 27:11), God's goodness (23:6; 25:7-8; 27:13), and living in his house (23:6; 26:8; 27:4, 8).

Ps 23 This psalm of trust and confidence in the Lord has been a favorite of God's people for generations. It expresses assurance of God's presence in the midst of adversity. It evokes images of the Good Shepherd (23:1-3; see Ezek 34:12; John 10:11) and of the messianic banquet (23:5-6; see Isa 25:6; Rev 19:9).

23:1-3 People in the ancient Near East commonly viewed their rulers as shepherds.

23:1 The Lord promises to take care of his children (34:9-10; Isa 51:14). He demonstrated this ability to Israel in the wilderness (Deut 2:7) and in the Promised Land (Deut 8:9).

PSALM 24

A psalm of David.

- 1 The ^eearth is the LORD's, and everything
in it.
The world and all its people belong
to him.
- 2 For he laid the earth's foundation on the seas
and built it on the ocean depths.
- 3 Who may climb the mountain of the
LORD?

God's Presence (Ps 24:3-6)

Ps 4:6; 13:1; 21:6;
27:9; 44:3; 24; 67:1;
69:17; 88:14; 89:46;
102:2; 104:29; 143:7

Scripture writers often express the desire to experience God's close presence. In the experience of intimacy, God's rich goodness and love (21:6; 44:3) are all that people need (4:6). The absence of God's presence is distressing and damaging.

The poets of Israel often spoke of God's face as a way of expressing his presence or absence. They sought his face (24:6; 27:8; 105:4; 119:58). When his face shone or was turned toward his people, they experienced his presence in blessing, provision, and protection (67:1). God's hiding his face from his people was a picture of divine abandonment (13:1; 27:9; 44:24; 69:17; 88:14; 89:46; 102:2; 104:29; 143:7), as if God were not seeing or hearing them (10:11; 11:1; 42:3). The absence of God creates dismay, shame, and chaos, and may cause death (30:7; 44:24; 104:29).

The psalmists prayed for God's presence as they requested a change in their circumstances (31:16; 67:1; 69:17; 80:3, 7, 19) or as they reflected on answers to prayer (see 44:3). The godly long to be invited into God's presence (11:7; 16:9-11; 17:15). His presence alone satisfies their deepest longing (17:15; see Prov 16:15) and gives them lasting pleasure (1:2; 111:2; see also 22:8; 37:4; 40:6, 8; 43:4; 73:25). Everything about God delights them.

God's favor and goodness are experienced in his presence (23:6). God is the true good of the godly (16:2; 73:1), and he protects them (84:11). Hence, God's goodness and his Temple are closely linked (65:4). God shows his goodness by manifesting his presence (27:13; 31:19; 34:8, 10; 86:17; 103:5), and he satisfies his needy people (107:9; 116:7, 12). Goodness may be synonymous with God's unfailing love (23:6; 25:7; 69:16). In connection with the land or crops, goodness is understood as blessing, abundance, and prosperity (4:6; 21:3; 65:11; 68:10; 85:12; 106:5; 122:9; 128:2). God's goodness and presence promote health and vitality in his people (34:12-22).

23:2 Sheep rest after they have eaten their fill (Zeph 3:13; see Isa 11:7; cp. Isa 13:20; 27:10). • The Lord leads the sheep for their own benefit (see 5:8). • Sheep only drink from still water, so the shepherd seeks out peaceful streams for his flock.

23:3 Cp. 19:7; the Lord's word renews my strength. • The Lord guides by rescuing his people from evil (23:4-5; see 31:3), bringing them back to himself (5:8; 61:2), caring (48:14; 139:10), ruling (67:4), counseling (73:24), protecting (78:53; 107:30; 143:11), and instructing them in wisdom (27:11; see Prov 4:11). • The Lord's name guarantees the relationship; he guards his reputation against any accusation of his abandoning his people or allowing them to sin

23:4 darkest valley: Or dark valley of death. • The shepherd used his rod and staff to fend off danger.

23:5 A feast demonstrates the Lord's care and mercy toward his people (see 22:26, 29). Although enemies can watch, they cannot trouble the guests. • The ritual of anointing the head with oil showed guests honor (92:9-11), hospitality, and refreshment (104:15; 133:2).

23:6 The Lord expresses his unfailing love through the goodness of his presence and other benefits that he alone provides (69:16; 86:17; 109:21; see 18:6; 61:4). He actively bestows care that is greater than the temporary trials imposed by enemies (7:1).

Ps 24 The shepherd of Ps 23, who is also the King of the whole world, takes possession of Zion.

24:1-2 The kingdom belongs to the Creator, the Great King (cp. 22:27).

24:1 The Lord created and now rules the earth and everything in it (see 1 Cor 10:25-26). He sees all its people (33:14), regardless of their status (49:1-2).

24:2 God created everything in an orderly and stable manner (see 89:11; 102:25; 104:5).

24:3-6 The citizens of the King's realm include all who seek him. The Lord invites them to enter his presence.

- Who may stand in his holy place?
 4 Only those whose hands and hearts are pure, who do not worship idols
 and never tell lies.
 5 They will receive the LORD's blessing and have a right relationship with God their savior.
 6 Such people may seek you and worship in your presence, O God of Jacob. Interlude
 7 Open up, ancient gates!

 8 Who is the King of glory?
 The LORD, strong and mighty;

 Open up, ancient doors,
 and let the King of glory enter.
 10 Who is the King of glory?

PSALM 25

A psalm of David.

- 1 O LORD, I give my life to you.
 2 I trust in you, my God!
 Do not let me be disgraced,
 or let my enemies rejoice in my defeat.
 3 No one who trusts in you will ever be disgraced,
 but disgrace comes to those who try to deceive others.

- 4 Show me the right path, O LORD;
 point out the road for me to follow.
 5 Lead me by your truth and teach me,
 for you are the God who saves me.
 All day long I put my hope in you.
 6 Remember, O LORD, your compassion and unfailing love, which you have shown from long ages past.
 7 Do not remember the rebellious sins of my youth.
 Remember me in the light of your
 unfailing love,
 for you are merciful, O LORD.
 8 The LORD is good and does what is right;
 he shows the proper path to those who go astray.
 9 He leads the humble in doing right, teaching them his way.
 10 The LORD leads with unfailing love and faithfulness
 all who keep his covenant and obey his demands.
 11 For the honor of your name, O LORD, forgive my many, many sins.
 12 Who are those who fear the LORD?
 He will show them the path they should choose.
 13 They will live in prosperity, and their children will inherit the
 land.
 14 The LORD is a friend to those who fear
 him.
 He teaches them his covenant.

24:3 These questions invite readers to look away from their problems with the wicked and to examine themselves (see 15:1). • God's holy place is the holy mountain, a reference both to Jerusalem and to heaven.

24:4 Those with pure hands have not shed blood or injured relationships between people (see 9:12; 15:2-5). • Those with pure hearts commit themselves fully to the Lord, as evidenced in strength of character, transparency, and selflessness (51:10; 73:1; see Matt 5:8).

24:10 The LORD of Heaven's Armies reigns from his home, the Temple in Jerusalem (84:3-5). He excludes sin and sinners (24:3-6) but protects all who dwell in Zion.

Ps 25 This psalm is a Hebrew acrostic poem; each verse begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. This individual lament includes instruction in wisdom and a community lament; it begins and ends with an affirmation of trust in the Lord (25:1-3, 15-22). The psalmist prays for guidance (25:4-7) and encourages the godly to practice a lifestyle of wisdom (25:12-14). In addition to the enemies who trouble him, the psalmist confesses his sins (25:7, 11, 18) as part of his anguish. Trust develops with understanding God's character: He is compassionate, faithful, and good (25:8-10).

25:1-3 The psalmist expresses confidence that the godly will be vindicated and his enemies will not succeed (see 25:15-22).

25:1 The psalmist commits himself to the Lord instead of to idols (see 24:3-4).

25:2 Enemies would rejoice by singing a victory song.

25:4-7 In this prayer for guidance, compassion, and forgiveness, the psalmist turns to the Lord for instruction in wisdom. He confesses his past failures and acknowledges that his hope lies with his merciful Savior.

25:4-6 The right path, the path of wisdom (see 5:8), means being open to instruction that leads to life (27:11; 43:3; 73:24; 119:12).

25:5 Biblical hope does not mean wishing for an event to turn out favorably. Hope trusts the Lord's will and gives the courage to face disappointments (33:22; 130:5).

25:6 compassion: See also 51:1; 57:1; 103:8.

25:8-10 The Lord keeps his people close to himself.

25:11 The psalmist again asks forgiveness for his many sins (25:7; 32:1-5). The sins of Israel's kings demonstrated the weaknesses inherent in David's dynasty and the reasons for its failure in OT Israel (see Ps 89).

25:12-15 Those who fear the Lord will receive further instruction and experience God's presence (25:14) and blessing (25:13).

25:13 prosperity: See 23:6. • inherit the land: Unlike the wicked, who will perish (1:6), the godly have a secure future. In the end, God will bless them, and their blessings will endure (see 37:9, 11, 22, 29, 34; Isa 57:13; Matt 5:5).

15 My eyes are always on the LORD, for he rescues me from the traps of
my enemies.

16 Turn to me and have mercy,
for I am alone and in deep distress.

17 My problems go from bad to worse.
Oh, save me from them all!

18 Feel my pain and see my trouble.
Forgive all my sins.

19 See how many enemies I have and how viciously they hate me!

20 Protect me! Rescue my life from them!
Do not let me be disgraced, for in you
I take refuge.

21 May integrity and honesty protect me,
for I put my hope in you.

22 O God, ransom Israel from all its troubles.

PSALM 26

A psalm of David.

1 Declare me innocent, O LORD,
for I have acted with integrity;
I have trusted in the LORD without waving.

2 Put me on trial, LORD, and cross-examine me.

Test my motives and my heart.
3 For I am always aware of your unfailing
love,
and I have lived according to your ^btruth.

4 I do not spend time with liars or go along with hypocrites.

5 I hate the ^cgatherings of those who do
evil,
and I refuse to join in with the wicked.

6 I wash my hands to declare my innocence.

I come to your altar, O LORD,
7 singing a song of ^dthanksgiving and telling of all your wonders.

8 I love your sanctuary, LORD, the place where your glorious presence ^edwells.

9 Don't let me suffer the fate of sinners.
Don't condemn me along with murderers.

10 Their hands are dirty with evil schemes, and they constantly take bribes.

11 But I am not like that; I live with integrity.
So redeem me and show me mercy.

12 Now I stand on solid ground, and I will publicly praise the LORD.

PSALM 27

A psalm of David.

1 The LORD is my light and my salvation—
so why should I be afraid?

The LORD is my fortress, protecting me from danger,
so why should I tremble?

2 When evil people come to devour me, when my enemies and foes attack me,
they will stumble and fall.

3 Though a mighty army surrounds me, my heart will not be afraid.
Even if I am attacked,
I will remain confident.

25:15-22 The psalmist expresses confidence in the Lord, commits to a life of integrity, and prays for rescue.

25:15 the traps of my enemies: See 5:9-10; 31:4; 140:5; Prov 3:26.

25:17-18 The psalmist can find no relief (see 4:1; 13:1-2) as his problems go from bad to worse. He associates his anguish with sin, but he does not elaborate on the nature of his sin (see 25:7, 11).

25:19-20 Knowing that the Lord hates violent people (see 11:5), the psalmist pleads with God to deal with these enemies.

25:21 Just as it opened, the psalm closes with a commitment of trust and hope (see 9:18; 25:5).

Ps 26 In this individual lament, the psalmist prays for redemption on the basis of his own innocence and the Lord's justice.

26:1-3 The psalmist opens himself to divine examination of his life, especially in the areas of his character and devotion.

26:3 For God's truth to become part of one's character requires a habitual commitment.

26:4-5 Because of his devotion to the Lord (26:1-3), the psalmist dissociates himself from evil people (see 1:1).

26:6-8 The psalmist demonstrates his loyalty to the Lord through pious rituals, praise, and acknowledgment of the Lord's presence in the Temple.

26:6 Ritual purity required the worshiper to wash his hands, symbolic of separation from evil and evildoers (see 73:13). • The altar symbolizes God's presence (43:4).

26:8 The sanctuary symbolized the manifest presence of the Lord (see 18:6).

26:9 Don't let me suffer: The end of the godly cannot be the same as that of the wicked.

26:12 The psalmist's footing on solid ground represents salvation (cp. 143:10).

• publicly: Or in the great assembly at the Temple (26:6-8; 22:25).

Ps 27 This psalm mixes two genres—a psalm of confidence (27:1-6) and an individual lament (27:7-14)—held together by the theme of longing for the Lord's presence. The psalmist focuses on the Lord; his circumstances are secondary. The strength of the psalmist's faith is expressed in his openness to the Lord's instruction, timing, and priorities.

27:1-3 The psalmist acknowledges the Lord at the center of his life (27:1). Because of God's presence, he engages his adversaries with confidence. They cannot intimidate him or penetrate his inner security.

27:1 Light expresses the Lord's goodness (27:13; see 4:6; 23:6; 31:19; 38:10; 43:3; 56:13).

27:2 The psalmist's enemies seek to devour him by living at his expense (see note on 14:4).

27:3 remain confident: See 25:2; 26:1.

- ⁴ The one thing I ask of the LORD—the thing I seek most—is to live in the house of the LORD all the days of my life,
delighting in the LORD's perfections and meditating in his Temple.
- ⁵ For he will conceal me there when troubles come;
he will hide me in his sanctuary.
He will place me out of reach on a high ¹rock.
- ⁶ Then I will hold my head high above my enemies who surround me.
At his sanctuary I will offer sacrifices with shouts of joy, singing and ²praising the LORD with music.
- ⁷ Hear me as I pray, O LORD.
Be merciful and answer me!
- ⁸ My heart has heard you say, "Come and talk with me." And my heart responds, "LORD, I am coming."
- ⁹ Do not turn your back on me.
Do not reject your servant in anger.
You have always been my helper.
Don't leave me now; don't abandon me,
O God of my salvation!
- ¹⁰ Even if my father and mother ³abandon me,
the LORD will hold me close.
- ¹¹ Teach me how to live, O LORD.
Lead me along the right path,
for my enemies are waiting for me.
- ¹² Do not let me fall into their hands.
For they accuse me of things I've never done;
with every breath they threaten me with violence.

- ¹³ Yet I am confident I will see the LORD's goodness
while I am here in the land of the living.
- ¹⁴ Wait patiently for the LORD.
Be brave and courageous.
Yes, wait patiently for the LORD.

PSALM 28

A psalm of David.

- ¹ I pray to you, O LORD, my rock.
Do not turn a deaf ear to me.
For if you are silent,
I might as well give up and die.
- ² Listen to my prayer for mercy
as I cry out to you for help, as I lift my hands toward your holy sanctuary.
- ³ Do not drag me away with the wicked—
with those who do evil—those who speak friendly words to their neighbors
while planning evil in their hearts.
- ⁴ Give them the punishment they so richly deserve!
Measure it out in proportion to their wickedness.
Pay them back for all their evil deeds!
Give them a taste of what they have done to others.
- ⁵ They care nothing for what the LORD has done
or for what his hands have made.
So he will tear them down,
and they will never be rebuilt!
- ⁶ Praise the LORD!
For he has heard my cry for mercy.

27:4-6 Searching for and enjoying the Lord's presence provides the psalmist's foundation for confidence and security. He lives in the assurance of God's protection and looks forward to offering sacrifices of thanksgiving and praise (see 18:6).

27:5 sanctuary (or tabernacle): This early shrine was the Israelites' place of worship before the Temple was constructed.

27:6 hold my head high: A sign of victory. • The granting of the request of 27:4 prompts sacrifices with shouts of joy.

27:7-12 The psalmist requests the Lord's mercy, presence, and instruction. God is the psalmist's greatest good; enemies and other circumstances are peripheral.

27:7-8 Unlike the wicked (10:4), who only want a temporary advantage (78:34-36), the godly search for the Lord as a thirsty person searches for water in the desert (63:1; 105:4; 119:2, 10; Matt 6:33). They act wisely (34:10, 14) while waiting for the Lord to resolve their crisis (34:4; 69:6; 77:2; 119:58).

27:13-14 The psalmist expresses confidence and hope in the Lord's presence. To live in faith means to wait patiently in recognition of the Lord's goodness. Such a life is not always pleasant for the godly (42:2-3, 43:5), but their future is secure (37:9; 130:7; see 9:18).

Ps 28 In this individual lament, the psalmist pleads for justice and mercy. He expresses confidence in the Lord's strength and faithfulness, and he intercedes for the Lord's people.

28:1-2 The psalmist urges the Lord to listen; his urgency flows out of the tension between his deep relationship with the Lord and the adversity he faces.

28:1 if you are silent: The psalmist appeals to the Lord to take action (35:22; 50:3; 83:1; 109:1).

28:2 It was common to lift up one's hands in a gesture of devoted prayer (63:4; 134:2).

28:3-5 The psalmist curses his enemies, asking God for retribution and vindication.

28:5 The wicked do not acknowledge the difference between the sacred and the common, so they have no respect for the Lord's creation, redemption, or revelation.

28:6-8 The psalmist anticipates rescue because of his confidence in the Lord's justice.

king.
- ⁹ Save your people!
Bless Israel, your special possession.
Lead them like a shepherd,
and carry them in your arms forever.

PSALM 29

A psalm of David.

- ¹ Honor the LORD, you ^kheavenly beings; honor the LORD for his glory and
strength.
- ² Honor the LORD for the glory of his name.
^aWorship the LORD in the splendor of his holiness.
- ³ The voice of the LORD echoes above the
sea.
The God of glory thunders.
The LORD thunders over the mighty
sea.
- ⁴ The voice of the LORD is powerful;
the voice of the LORD is majestic.
- ⁵ The voice of the LORD splits the mighty cedars;
the LORD shatters the cedars of Lebanon.

- ⁶ He makes Lebanon's mountains skip like a calf;
he makes Mount Hermon leap like a young wild ox.
- ⁷ The voice of the LORD strikes with bolts of lightning.
- ⁸ The voice of the LORD makes the barren wilderness quake;
the LORD shakes the wilderness of Kadesh.
- ⁹ The voice of the LORD twists mighty oaks and strips the forests bare.
In his Temple everyone shouts, "Glory!"
- ¹⁰ The LORD rules over the floodwaters.
The LORD reigns as king forever.
- ¹¹ The LORD gives his people strength.
The LORD blesses them with ^bpeace.

PSALM 30

A psalm of David. A song for the dedication of the Temple.

- ¹ I will ^cexalt you, LORD, for you rescued me.
You refused to let my enemies triumph over me.
- ² O LORD my God, I cried to you for help, and you restored my health.
- ³ You brought me up from the grave,
O LORD.
You kept me from falling into the pit
of death.
- ⁴ Sing to the LORD, all you godly ones!
Praise his holy name.

28:7 my strength and shield: The Lord protects the psalmist (see 59:9, 17).

28:9 The poem closes with intercession for the Lord's people. • Bless Israel, your special possession: Literally Bless your inheritance. See 29:11; 133:3.

Ps 29 This nature hymn in praise of the Creator declares that the Lord holds all power over nature. God uses the same unsurpassed strength to care for his people.

29:1-2 The psalmist issues a call to honor the Lord for his power (cp. 96:7-8). • you heavenly beings (literally you sons of God): Angels or deities who, some believed, held special powers. The psalmist did not believe in other deities but called on people who thought they were real to look to the Lord as the only God.

29:3-9 The word translated voice (Hebrew qol) can also mean "noise" (1 Kgs 1:45) or "thunder" (Joel 3:16). The Lord's voice is awe-inspiring, and it dominates whatever rumblings people might attribute to other deities.

29:3 God (Hebrew 'el): See note on 19:1.

29:5 The cedars of Lebanon were known for their size and quality (see Isa 2:13).

29:6 Lebanon's mountains and Hermon are high mountains to the north of Israel. • The Lord can cause even immense mountains to shake at his command (see 114:4). • Mount Hermon: Hebrew Sirion, another name for Mount Hermon.

29:8 The wilderness of Kadesh was located south of Judah. God's voice can be heard throughout the land, from the north (29:6) to the south.

29:9 twists mighty oaks: Or causes the deer to writhe in labor. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

29:10 The image of powerful floodwaters connects with the Genesis flood (Gen 6:17). The Lord reigns as king over the whole created order; no one contests his kingdom.

29:11 The ruler of nature blesses his people with peace (see 28:8-9; 37:11; 133:3).

Ps 30 This individual thanksgiving psalm opens in praise to the Lord for his salvation (30:1-3), then contrasts God's favor with his anger (30:4-7), and ends with a transformation from mourning to dancing (30:8-12).

30:1 Perhaps David wrote this psalm in advance for the dedication of the Temple, making his own experience representative of the nation's.

30:1-3 The psalmist praises God for his triumph over adversity, which he likens to salvation from the grave.

30:1 I will exalt you is a call to lift up the Lord's name in praise and thanksgiving (34:3; 81:1; 99:5, 9; 107:32; 118:28; 145:1; see Exod 15:1; Isa 25:1). • you rescued me: God pulled the psalmist from death (30:3). • In his justice and care, God refused to let the psalmist's enemies triumph (see 26:9; 27:12; 28:3; 31:8).

30:3 from the grave: Hebrew from Sheol. See note on 6:5.

30:4 The godly should celebrate the Lord's acts of rescue with song and praise (33:21; 97:12; 103:1; 105:3; 145:21).

- ⁵ For his anger lasts only a moment,
but his favor lasts a lifetime!
Weeping may last through the night,
but joy comes with the morning.
- ⁶ When I was prosperous, I said, “Nothing can stop me now!”
- ⁷ Your favor, O LORD, made me as secure as a mountain.
Then you turned away from me, and I was shattered.
- ⁸ I cried out to you, O LORD.
I begged the Lord for mercy, saying,
- ⁹ “What will you gain if I die,
if I sink into the grave?
Can my dust praise you?
Can it tell of your faithfulness?
- ¹⁰ Hear me, LORD, and have mercy on me.
Help me, O LORD.”
- ¹¹ You have turned my mourning into joyful dancing.
You have taken away my clothes of mourning and clothed me with joy,
- ¹² that I might sing praises to you and not be silent.
O LORD my God, I will give you thanks
forever!

PSALM 31

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- ¹ O LORD, I have come to you for
protection;
don't let me be disgraced.
Save me, for you do what is right.
- ² Turn your ear to listen to me;
rescue me quickly.
Be my rock of protection,
a fortress where I will be safe.
- ³ You are my rock and my fortress.
For the honor of your name, lead me out of this danger.

- ⁴ Pull me from the trap my enemies set
for me,
for I find protection in you alone.
- ⁵ I entrust my spirit into your hand.
Rescue me, LORD, for you are a faithful God.
- ⁶ I hate those who worship worthless idols.
I trust in the LORD.
- ⁷ I will be glad and rejoice in your
unfailing love,
for you have seen my troubles, and you care about the anguish of my soul.
- ⁸ You have not handed me over to my
enemies
but have set me in a safe place.
- ⁹ Have mercy on me, LORD, for I am in distress.
Tears blur my eyes.
My body and soul are withering away.
- ¹⁰ I am dying from grief;
my years are shortened by sadness.
Sin has drained my strength;
I am wasting away from within.
- ¹¹ I am scorned by all my enemies and despised by my neighbors—even my friends are afraid to come near me.
When they see me on the street,
they run the other way.
- ¹² I am ignored as if I were dead,
as if I were a broken pot.
- ¹³ I have heard the many rumors
about me,
and I am surrounded by terror.
My enemies conspire against me,
plotting to take my life.
- ¹⁴ But I am trusting you, O LORD, saying, “You are my God!”

31:14
Ps 140:6; 143:9

30:6-7 Nothing can stop me now! The psalmist confesses his presumptuous attitude (cp. 32:3-4). • secure as a mountain: In the psalms, this phrase creates a powerful image of stability and of God's control (see 11:1; 18:7; 36:6; 46:2; 72:3; 76:4; 83:14; 97:5; 114:4, 6; 125:2). • I was shattered: The absence of God's favor destroys the security of the proud (cp. 104:27-30).

30:8-12 The psalmist faced death (also in 30:1-3)—perhaps literally, perhaps figuratively. But when he turned to the Lord, the Lord rescued him and turned his mourning into joyful dancing. Only God's favor can permanently and powerfully overcome human failure and the depths of despair.

Ps 31 The psalmist encourages the godly to find refuge in the Lord and wait for his salvation. Despite having had a death-like experience, he testifies to the Lord's faithfulness. This psalm foreshadows the suffering of Jesus (Luke 23:46).

31:1-5 The Lord offers refuge to anyone who comes to him for protection. The psalmist trusts in and submits to the Lord. See also 71:1-3.

31:2 The psalmist issues an urgent call for the Lord to pay attention to his desperate situation (71:2; 88:2; 102:2).

31:5 I entrust my spirit into your hand: Whether he lives or dies, the psalmist will trust his Lord. Jesus uttered these words on the cross just before he died (Luke 23:46).

31:6-8 Trust in the Lord requires confidence that he has our best interests at heart.

31:8 A safe place literally means a broad place, in contrast to a “narrow” or constricted place of distress (see 18:19).

31:9-13 In this prayer for mercy, the psalmist wedges a description of the intensity of suffering and the pain of rejection between two affirmations of trust (31:6, 14).

31:10 wasting away from within: This is a powerful description of how despair takes a toll on our physical well-being.

31:14-18 Hope does not confide in frail and changeable human beings but only in the Lord. The sufferer entrusts himself to God while waiting for the Lord's justice.

- 15 My future is in your hands.
Rescue me from those who hunt me down relentlessly.
- 16 Let your favor shine on your servant.
In your unfailing love, rescue me.
- 17 Don't let me be disgraced, O LORD, for I call out to you for help.
Let the wicked be disgraced;
let them lie silent in the grave.
- 18 Silence their lying lips—those proud and arrogant lips that accuse the godly.
- 19 How great is the goodness you have stored up for those who fear
you.
You lavish it on those who come to you for protection, blessing them before the watching world.
- 20 You hide them in the shelter of your presence,
safe from those who conspire against
them.
You shelter them in your presence, far from accusing tongues.
- 21 Praise the LORD,
for he has shown me the wonders of his unfailing love.
He kept me safe when my city was under attack.
- 22 In panic I cried out,
"I am cut off from the LORD!"
But you heard my cry for mercy and answered my call for help.
- 23 Love the LORD, all you godly ones!
For the LORD protects those who are loyal to him,
but he harshly punishes the arrogant.

- 24 So be strong and courageous,
all you who put your hope in the LORD!

PSALM 32

A psalm of David.

- 1 Oh, what joy for those whose disobedience is forgiven, whose sin is put out of sight!
- 2 Yes, what joy for those whose record the LORD has cleared of guilt,
whose lives are lived in complete honesty!
- 3 When I refused to confess my sin,
my body wasted away,
and I groaned all day long.
- 4 Day and night your hand of discipline was heavy on me.
My strength evaporated like water in the summer heat. Interlude
- 5 Finally, I confessed all my sins to you and stopped trying to hide my guilt.
I said to myself, "I will confess my rebellion to the LORD."
And you forgave me! All my guilt is gone. Interlude
- 6 Therefore, let all the godly pray to you while there is still time, that they may not drown in the floodwaters of judgment.
- 7 For you are my hiding place;
you protect me from trouble.
You surround me with songs of victory. Interlude
- 8 The LORD says, "I will guide you along the best pathway for your life.
I will advise you and watch over you.

31:15 My future is in your hands: To relinquish control of timing is one way to express submission.

31:17 The psalmist, who did not deserve to be disgraced, invokes the principle of retribution (see note on 1:6). • In the grave: Hebrew in Sheol.

31:19-24 The psalmist thanks the Lord for answering his prayer (31:1-18) and rescuing him.

31:19-20 Since the godly are under the Lord's protection and shelter, evil has no power over them.

31:21-22 Praise the LORD: The psalmist expresses his joy at the experience of God's goodness and love. Throughout his ordeal, the Lord has cared for him.

31:23-24 Out of his own pain and renewed awareness of the Lord's goodness, the psalmist turns to others who suffer. He holds out the promise of God's loving care for those who persevere in hoping for the Lord.

Ps 32 This wisdom psalm of confession and thanksgiving encourages and exhorts the godly to learn from the psalmist's experience of sin, denial, confession, and forgiveness. This psalm was one of the seven psalms of penitence used in the early church (also Pss 6, 38, 51, 102, 130, 143).

32:TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.

32:1-2 The Lord's forgiveness restores people to fellowship with him, clears them of guilt, and gives them great joy. Paul quoted this text when explaining justification by faith alone (Rom 4:4-8).

32:2 of guilt: Greek version reads of sin. Cp. Rom 4:7.

32:3-5 The psalmist acknowledges his own sin (see 19:12-13; 25:7, 11, 15-22) and his resistance to confessing sin.

The Lord pressed him hard until he confessed his guilt.

32:4 The psalmist attributes his suffering directly to the Lord's hand of discipline (cp. 38:2; 39:10).

32:5 God has forgiven the guilt and rebellion of 32:1. The Lord's nature is to reconcile and forgive (78:38; 85:2; 130:4), but he requires confession and repentance.

32:6 The godly will learn from the psalmist's experience to pray for forgiveness before it is too late.

32:7 The Lord promises to be his people's hiding place (31:20). Instead of being overwhelmed by terror (31:13), the psalmist is surrounded by songs of victory.

32:8 God interrupts the psalmist's teaching with a message that invites the godly to receive the Lord's wisdom (see 5:8; 23:3; 25:4-6).

⁹ Do not be like a senseless horse or mule that needs a bit and bridle to keep it under control."

¹⁰ Many sorrows come to the wicked, but unfailing love surrounds those who trust the LORD.

¹¹ So rejoice in the LORD and be glad, all you who obey him!
Shout for joy, all you whose hearts are pure!

PSALM 33

¹ Let the godly sing for joy to the LORD; it is fitting for the pure to praise him.
² Praise the LORD with melodies on the lyre;
'make music for him on the ten-stringed harp.
³ Sing a new song of praise to him; play skillfully on the harp, and sing with joy.
⁴ For the word of the LORD holds true, and we can trust everything he does.
⁵ He loves whatever is just and good; the unfailing love of the LORD fills the earth.
⁶ The LORD merely spoke, and the heavens were created.
He breathed the word, and all the stars were born.
⁷ He assigned the sea its boundaries and locked the oceans in vast reservoirs.
⁸ Let the whole world fear the LORD, and let everyone stand in awe of him.
⁹ For when he spoke, the world began!
It appeared at his command.

¹⁰ The LORD frustrates the plans of the nations and thwarts all their schemes.

¹¹ But the LORD's plans stand firm forever; his intentions can never be shaken.

¹² What joy for the nation whose God is the LORD, whose people he has chosen as his inheritance.

¹³ The LORD looks down from heaven and sees the whole human race.

¹⁴ From his throne he observes all who live on the earth.

¹⁵ He made their hearts, so he understands everything they do.

¹⁶ The best-equipped army cannot save a ^bking, nor is great strength enough to save a warrior.

¹⁷ Don't count on your warhorse to give you victory—for all its strength, it cannot save you.

¹⁸ But the LORD watches over those who fear him, those who ^rely on his unfailing love.

¹⁹ He rescues them from death and keeps them alive in times of famine.

²⁰ We put our hope in the LORD.
He is our help and our shield.

²¹ In him our hearts rejoice, for we trust in his holy name.

²² Let your unfailing love surround us, LORD, for our hope is in you alone.

Ps 115:9
Isa 8:17

32:9 The senseless person is not wise. Rejecting the Lord's counsel ruins life and makes one like an animal (see Isa 1:3; Jas 3:3).

32:10 Difficulties common to all of life will ensnare the wicked, whereas the Lord promises to protect the godly with his care.

Ps 33 This hymn of creation (see also Pss 8, 19, 104, 145) might be a continuation of Ps 32. It exhorts readers to praise God (33:1-3), to recognize the power of his word in creation (33:4-7), and to fear the Creator (33:8-11). It offers hope to forgiven sinners (Ps 32) that they can live a new life in the fear of the Lord and under divine protection.

33:1-3 The psalmist exhorts the godly to praise the Lord with melodies, with a new song, and with skillfully-played music.

33:4-7 God's word displays his character and his power.

33:7 The nations surrounding Israel thought that the sea had divine power, but it is under God's control, within boundaries that he set (see 104:8-10).

33:8-11 Fear of the Lord begins with awe for God and for his powerful word. His word created everything and continues to order and sustain creation. He frustrates the plans of people who oppose his plans.

33:8 The power of the Lord extends to all the nations (see Ps 2; 96:1-3).

33:10 The plans and schemes of the mighty will not prevail, except by God's will (see Isa 8:9-10).

33:11 God's word still orders creation and will do so forever. • God's intentions are marvelous (40:5; 92:5).

33:12 People who fear God are chosen as his inheritance (see 33:13-19); this excludes rebellious people (78:62).

33:13-19 From the heavens, the Lord searches out and cares for anyone who fears him (see 14:2-3).

33:16-17 army . . . great strength . . . warhorse: Even military might is under God's control (see 33:10-11; Eccl 9:11). • strength: See note on 33:22.

33:18 God watches over all who live by his counsel (32:8). He protects, rescues, and remains close to them (34:15-22).

33:20-22 The godly respond to this magnificent vision of God's power in creation and in the affairs of the world with an affirmation of trust, commitment, joy, and hope as they pray and wait for God's rescue.

33:22 Using a play on words, the psalmist contrasts his people's sure hope (Hebrew yakhal) in the Lord with the supposed strength (33:17; Hebrew khayil) of the horses of the wicked.

PSALM 34

A psalm of David, regarding the time he pretended to be insane in front of Abimelech, who sent him away.

- 1 I will praise the LORD at all times.
I will constantly speak his praises.
- 2 I will boast only in the LORD;
let all who are helpless take heart.
- 3 Come, let us tell of the LORD's greatness;
let us ^aexalt his name together.
- 4 I prayed to the LORD, and he answered me.
He freed me from all my fears.
- 5 Those who look to him for help will be radiant with joy;
no shadow of shame will darken their faces.
- 6 In my desperation I prayed, and the LORD listened;
he saved me from all my troubles.
- 7 For the ^aangel of the LORD is a guard;
he surrounds and defends all who fear him.
- 8 Taste and see that the LORD is good.
Oh, the ^bjoys of those who take refuge
in him!
- 9 Fear the LORD, you his godly people, for those who fear him will have all they need.
- 10 Even strong young lions sometimes go hungry,
but those who trust in the LORD will lack no good thing.
- 11 Come, my children, and listen to me, and I will teach you to fear the LORD.

- 12 Does anyone want to live a life that is long and prosperous?
- 13 Then keep your tongue from speaking
evil
and your lips from telling lies!
- 14 Turn away from evil and do good.
Search for ^cpeace, and work to maintain it.
- 15 The eyes of the LORD watch over those who do right;
his ears are open to their cries for help.
- 16 But the LORD turns his face against those who do evil;
he will erase their memory from the
earth.
- 17 The LORD hears his people when they call to him for help.
He rescues them from all their troubles.
- 18 The LORD is close to the brokenhearted;
he ^drescues those whose spirits are crushed.
- 19 The righteous person faces many
troubles,
but the LORD comes to the rescue
each time.
- 20 For the LORD protects the bones of the righteous;
not one of them is broken!
- 21 Calamity will surely destroy the wicked, and those who hate the righteous will be punished.
- 22 But the LORD will redeem those who serve him.
No one who takes refuge in him will be condemned.

Ps 34 This psalm is a Hebrew acrostic poem; each verse begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. The acrostic is missing one letter (waw) and has an additional verse at the end (34:22). This wisdom psalm includes a thanksgiving hymn (34:1-7) that celebrates the Lord's care for and protection of godly sufferers. It also includes an invitation to wisdom (34:8-14) and an exposition of wisdom concerning the Lord's care for the needy and the suffering of the wicked (34:15-22).

34:1 TITLE Abimelech is another name for Achish (see 1 Sam 21:10-15). The body of the psalm makes no explicit connection to this event.

34:1-3 The psalmist exhorts the helpless to join him in praise.

34:5-6 The psalmist narrates his experiences of answered prayer.

34:7 The angel of the Lord represented the Lord's presence during the wilderness journey. He protected Israel from the forces of Egypt (Exod 14:19-20), and he will guard all the godly (91:11).

34:8-14 The godly encourage everyone to seek wisdom, to fear the Lord, and to place themselves under the protection of the Lord's angel.

34:9-10 Fear of the Lord includes reverence and respect, and it motivates a life of wisdom (see Prov 1:7; 9:10).

34:11-13 Wisdom contains three components: fearing the Lord (34:11), doing good (34:14), and rejecting evil (34:13).

34:11 Anyone who listens, even children, can become wise followers of God.

34:12-16 Peter quotes this passage in his instructions for peaceful living (1 Pet 3:10-12).

34:13 Godly people control their words; speaking evil and telling lies are foolish (see 10:7; cp. 17:1).

34:14 The way of peace leads to harmony and order, whereas evil destroys them (see 37:11).

34:15-16 The Lord distinguishes between wise and foolish people; he shows his concern for the wise by rescuing them from trouble (34:15, 17-20), but he destroys the foolish (34:16, 21).

34:18 Those who are brokenhearted possess a spirit of deep contrition and dependence on the Lord. God accepts this spirit as a proper sacrifice (51:17). The wicked hate the brokenhearted (109:16), but the Lord heals them (147:3; see Isa 57:15; 61:1).

34:19-22 The godly might suffer, but the Lord will reward them in the end. Similarly, the wicked might prosper for a time, but ultimately they will perish (1:6; 34:15-16).

34:20 Bones represent a person's entire being (see 6:2). • not one of them is broken: John applied this statement to Jesus at the crucifixion (John 19:36).

PSALM 35

A psalm of David.

- ¹ O LORD, oppose those who oppose me.
Fight those who fight against me.
- ² Put on your armor, and take up your shield.
Prepare for battle, and come to my aid.
- ³ Lift up your spear and javelin against those who pursue me.
Let me hear you say,
"I will give you victory!"
- ⁴ Bring shame and disgrace on those trying to kill me;
turn them back and humiliate those who want to harm me.
- ⁵ Blow them away like chaff in the wind—
a wind sent by the angel of the LORD.
- ⁶ Make their path dark and slippery,
with the angel of the LORD pursuing them.
- ⁷ I did them no wrong, but they laid a trap for me.
I did them no wrong, but they dug a pit to catch me.
- ⁸ So let sudden ruin come upon them!
Let them be caught in the trap they set for me!
Let them be destroyed in the pit they dug for me.
- ⁹ Then ^eI will rejoice in the LORD.
I will be glad because he rescues me.
- ¹⁰ With every bone in my body I will praise him:
"LORD, who can compare with you?
Who else rescues the helpless from the strong?
Who else protects the helpless and poor from those who rob them?"
- ¹¹ Malicious witnesses testify against me.
They accuse me of crimes I know nothing about.
- ¹² They repay me evil for good.
I am sick with despair.

- ¹³ Yet when they were ill, I grieved for them.
I denied myself by fasting for them,
but my prayers returned unanswered.
- ¹⁴ I was sad, as though they were my friends or family, as if I were grieving for my own mother.
- ¹⁵ But they are glad now that I am in trouble;
they gleefully join together against me.
I am attacked by people I don't even know;
they slander me constantly.
- ¹⁶ They mock me and call me names;
they snarl at me.
- ¹⁷ How long, O Lord, will you look on and do nothing?
Rescue me from their fierce attacks.
Protect my life from these lions!
- ¹⁸ Then I will thank you in front of the great assembly.
I will praise you before all the people.
- ¹⁹ Don't let my treacherous enemies rejoice over my defeat.
Don't let those who hate me without cause gloat over my sorrow.
- ²⁰ They don't talk of peace;
they plot against innocent people who mind their own business.
- ²¹ They shout, "Aha! Aha!
With our own eyes we saw him do it!"
- ²² O LORD, you know all about this.
Do not stay silent.
Do not abandon me now, O Lord.
- ²³ Wake up! Rise to my defense!
Take up my case, my God and my Lord.
- ²⁴ Declare me not guilty, O LORD my God, for you give justice.
Don't let my enemies laugh about me in my troubles.
- ²⁵ Don't let them say, "Look, we got what we wanted!
Now we will eat him alive!"

Ps 56:1
Lam 2:16

Ps 35 In this lament, the Lord's troubled servant calls for God to see his circumstances and vindicate him.

35:4-10 The psalmist longs for the Lord's salvation. The language seems vindictive, but it arises from a desire for justice and for the Lord to care for the needy and oppressed.

35:6 A path that is dark and slippery suggests instability and untimely doom under the Lord's judgment (see 69:23; 73:18; 82:5; 107:10; 143:3). • The angel of the LORD is an agent of judgment as well as salvation.

35:10 Nothing in the universe can compare with the Lord (see 86:8; 89:6, 8; Isa 40:18, 25).

35:11-18 The psalmist presents the Lord with the reasons for his suffering. Evil has many faces. He is tired and worn out, and he knows that only the Lord can help him.

35:11 Malicious witnesses want nothing but violence (see 11:4-6; 54:3).

35:16 The psalmist's attackers snarl to express their bitter envy.

35:19-25 In this prayer for vindication, the psalmist's crisis looms so large that a resolution must be found in the Lord. The psalmist has taken the high road, believing that vengeance belongs to the Lord. God's patience hardens the hearts of the wicked and gives them reasons to justify their evil lifestyle.

35:19 John applied this claim of innocence (see also 69:4) to Jesus (John 15:25).

35:21, 25 Aha! . . . Look! Both words translate the same expression of glee (Hebrew he'akh).

PSALM 36

*For the choir director: A psalm of David,
the servant of the LORD.*

1 Sin whispers to the wicked, deep within their hearts.

They have no fear of God at all.

2 In their blind conceit, they cannot see how wicked they really are.

3 Everything they say is crooked and deceitful.

They refuse to act wisely or do good.

4 They lie awake at night, hatching sinful plots.

Their actions are never good.

They make no attempt to turn from
evil.

5 Your unfailing love, O LORD, is as vast as
the heavens;
your faithfulness reaches beyond the clouds.

6 Your righteousness is like the mighty mountains,
your justice like the ocean depths.
You care for people and animals alike,
O LORD.

7 How precious is your unfailing love,
O *God!

All humanity finds shelter in the shadow of your wings.

8 You feed them from the abundance of your own house, letting them drink from your river of delights.

9 For you are the fountain of life,
the light by which we see.

10 Pour out your unfailing love on those who love you;
give justice to those with honest hearts.

11 Don't let the proud trample me or the wicked push me around.

12 Look! Those who do evil have fallen!
They are thrown down, never to rise
again.

PSALM 37

A psalm of David.

1 Don't worry about the wicked or envy those who do wrong.

2 For like grass, they soon fade away.
Like spring flowers, they soon wither.

3 Trust in the LORD and do good.
Then you will live safely in the land and prosper.

35:26-28 The psalmist calls on the Lord to judge the wicked and to rescue the godly and bring them joy.

Ps 36 This lament contrasts the world of folly devised by the wicked with the world of wisdom created and sustained by the Lord. The wicked care only about themselves, whereas the Lord cares for all of creation. He will intervene to bring about justice in his world. The righteous will enjoy his protection, but the wicked will perish.

36:1-4 Fools despise what is wise and good as they pursue evil.

36:1 no fear of God: Paul includes this phrase in his description of the depravity of all people (Rom 3:18).

36:5-9 As the source of wisdom, the Lord is reliable and incomparable. His faithful care extends to all parts of the created order.

36:5-6 God's all-encompassing goodness surpasses that of the created order. God graciously meets his people's practical needs.

36:6-9 All creatures live by God's grace (1 Tim 4:10).

36:7-8 God invites all humanity to the banquet in his house (cp. Prov 9:1-6).

36:9 Light represents salvation and celebration (18:25-29; 27:1; cp. 35:6).

36:10-11 Since God's wisdom extends to all of creation, it protects the godly.

36:12 The psalmist remains confident that the disorder caused by the wicked (36:1-4) will end when they meet their demise.

Ps 37 This psalm is a Hebrew acrostic poem; each stanza begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. It elaborates on the problems posed in Ps 36: How should the godly respond to the reality of evil? When will the Lord bring justice? Why does he permit the wicked to destroy his created order? Psalm 37 offers clear responses that reduce the tensions of life (37:1-9, 34) and promise that the meek will have a future (37:10-11, 39-40). The alternating contrast between the godly and the wicked emphasizes the futility of folly (37:12-24, 27-33). The personal observations of the psalmist add a human touch (37:25-26, 35-38). He encourages viewing the inheritance of the land from a long-range perspective: The earth belongs to the Lord, who will give it to those he blesses—the lowly and godly who trust in him, put their hope in him, and follow him (see 37:9, 11, 22, 29, 34; see also Isa 57:13; Matt 5:5).

37:1-9 The wise respond to evil by trusting in the Lord. Trust includes five dimensions: (1) renouncing irritability and envy (37:1-2); (2) delighting in the Lord (37:3-4); (3) submitting to the Lord (37:5-6); (4) practicing patience in hope (37:7); and (5) avoiding anger (37:8-9).

37:1 envy: The jealous desire to have what others enjoy leads to further sin (73:3; Prov 3:31; Jas 1:14-15; 4:1-2).

37:2 Finite existence is part of the human condition (see 90:5-6; 92:7; 102:4, 11; 103:15; 129:6; Isa 40:7-8).

37:3-4 The antidote to irritability and envy (37:1) is trust in the Lord.

37:3 To do good means cultivating a devotion to wisdom (see 34:14; Prov 3:5-7).

- 4 Take delight in the LORD, and he will give you your heart's desires.
- 5 Commit everything you do to the LORD.
Trust him, and he will help you.
- 6 He will make your innocence radiate like the dawn,
and the justice of your cause will shine like the noonday sun.
- 7 Be still in the presence of the LORD,
and wait patiently for him to act.
Don't worry about evil people who prosper
or fret about their wicked schemes.
- 8 Stop being angry!
Turn from your rage!
Do not lose your temper—
it only leads to harm.
- 9 For the wicked will be destroyed,
but those who trust in the LORD will possess the land.
- 10 Soon the wicked will disappear.
Though you look for them, they will be gone.
- 11 The lowly will possess the land and will live in peace and prosperity.
- 12 The wicked plot against the godly;
they snarl at them in defiance.
- 13 But the Lord just laughs, for he sees their day of judgment
coming.
- 14 The wicked draw their swords and string their bows to kill the poor and the oppressed, to slaughter those who do right.
- 15 But their swords will stab their own hearts,
and their bows will be broken.
- 16 It is better to be godly and have little than to be evil and rich.
- 17 For the strength of the wicked will be shattered,
but the LORD takes care of the godly.
- 18 Day by day the LORD takes care of the innocent,
and they will receive an inheritance that lasts forever.
- 19 They will not be disgraced in hard times;
even in famine they will have more than enough.
- 20 But the wicked will die.
The LORD's enemies are like flowers in a field—
they will disappear like smoke.
- 21 The wicked borrow and never repay,
but the godly are generous givers.
- 22 Those the LORD blesses will possess the
land,
but those he curses will die.
- 23 The LORD directs the steps of the godly.
He delights in every detail of their lives.
- 24 Though they stumble, they will never fall,
for the LORD holds them by the hand.
- 25 Once I was young, and now I am old.
Yet I have never seen the godly abandoned or their children begging for bread.
- 26 The godly always give generous loans to others,
and their children are a blessing.
- 27 Turn from evil and do good,
and you will live in the land forever.
- 28 For the LORD loves justice, and he will never abandon the godly.

He will keep them safe forever,
but the children of the wicked will die.

37:4 To take delight in the LORD means aligning with the Lord's way in order to enjoy him.

37:6 Justice occurs when the Lord's will triumphs and the godly experience his rescue (Isa 45:8; 51:5-6; 58:8, 10-11).

37:7 Be still: We should let the Lord be God rather than taking matters into our own hands.

37:8 Irritability and anger quickly corrode character.

37:9-11 The wicked will not possess the land; those who trust in the LORD will. The Lord promises an inheritance because he is committed to caring for his people.

37:11 The Lord is the author of peace

(85:10)—he brings peace to a chaotic world (29:11; 37:11; 85:8; 147:14). His wisdom guides the lowly into the way of peace (119:165; Matt 5:5).

37:12-17 The wicked seek to destroy the Lord's order, but he defeats them.

37:12-13 The wicked snarl to express their bitter envy. They plot to bring an end to the godly, but the Lord derides them because they cannot succeed (2:4).

37:14-15 The weapons of the wicked will turn against them (cp. 7:12-13).

37:16 Being wise with modest means is better than having prosperity and power (Prov 15:16; 16:8, 19; 17:1; 28:6) and being wicked.

37:18-20 The Lord cares for the blameless in this life and for eternity, but the wicked will perish.

37:20 Smoke depicts the temporary nature of life (68:2; 102:3).

37:21 To borrow and never repay is a behavior of a crooked lifestyle. • Generous givers freely share what they freely receive from the Lord (see 111:5; 112:5).

37:23-24 The rectitude and strength of a godly person's life comes from the Lord (see Prov 4:12; 14:15; 16:9; 20:24).

37:25-26 The Lord does not abandon his children or their descendants.

32 The wicked wait in ambush for the godly,
looking for an excuse to kill them.

33 But the LORD will not let the wicked or let the godly be condemned when they are put on trial.

34 Put your hope in the LORD.

Wisdom Psalms (Ps 37)

Pss 1, 14, 25, 34, 39,
49, 73, 78, 90–91,
111–112, 127–128,
131, 133, 139

Some psalms are called wisdom psalms because they make a case for the primary importance of wisdom or instruct readers in dealing with questions, issues, and doubts that arise in life (see Pss 1, 14, 25, 34, 37, 39, 49, 73, 78, 90, 91, 111, 112, 127, 128, 131, 133, 139). Many other psalms contain elements of wisdom teaching (see Pss 18, 27, 31, 32, 40, 62, 92, 94, 107, 144, 146).

In the ancient Near East, wisdom had to do with ordering life and society, pleasing God and other people, and carefully observing life, society, and nature. In Israel, wisdom shares these concerns but is distinct in the centrality it gives to fear of the Lord. God alone is the center and focus of life (76:7), and proper fear of him opens the path of wisdom (111:10). Fear of the Lord is a disposition of absolute submission to and trust in the Lord (40:3; 112:7; 115:11), which leads to purity of life (19:9). Psalm 34 defines the fear of the Lord as a search for abundant life (34:12) that begins with seeking the Lord (34:4).

The way of wisdom is the way of godliness. Psalm 1 invites all readers of the Psalter to delight in God, his revelation, and the lifestyle that results from his care for the wise. The lives of the godly demonstrate inner consistency, growth, and beauty as they increasingly reflect God's righteousness and justice, love and fidelity, compassion and grace. They practice godliness from the heart—from the inside out.

Wisdom enlarges a person's perspective on life. A wise person desires to see life from God's point of view. This search means living in submission and trust under the sovereign King who maintains the order and harmony of creation. Seeking God encourages an orderly and peaceful life (104:24; 139:14) and motivates obedience (19:7; 25:12; 51:6; 112:1; 119:98). The wise imitate God, and their lives are full of joy even when they are suffering hardship. They praise the Lord amidst all circumstances of life (22:23, 25). They face life confidently because the Lord is with them (23:4; 27:1, 3; 33:18; 49:5; 91:1–16).

In contrast to the way of the wise is the way of the fool, or the wicked. Such people perceive themselves as powerful and continually boast of their accomplishments. They do not accept limitations. They brag, oppress, steal, and deprive others of their happiness. They have no fear of the Lord (36:1; 55:19). The poets of Israel repeatedly warned the people to be wary of the path of folly, lest God's judgment overtake the foolish (2:10–11; 33:8; 64:9; 94:8).

Jesus Christ came into the world as God in the flesh. He embodies all the qualities of wisdom. Through him, we can walk in the way of wisdom since he suffered for our sins (Col 2:2–3).

that they receive their rightful portion of the land as their inheritance. The wicked might try to ambush the godly, but they will not succeed.

37:30 The godly base their counsel on the Lord's wisdom.

37:31 They have made God's law their own: The godly internalize God's wisdom and instructions (see 119:11; Jer 24:7; 31:31–34).

37:35–36 The wicked might appear to be flourishing like a tree (cp. 52:8; 92:12–13), but they eventually die and are forgotten (37:2).

37:39–40 The Lord provides strength for his people.

PSALM 38

A psalm of David, asking God to remember him.

- ¹ O LORD, don't rebuke me in your anger or discipline me in your rage!
- ² Your arrows have struck deep, and your blows are crushing me.
- ³ Because of your anger, my whole body is sick;
my health is broken because of my sins.
- ⁴ My guilt overwhelms me—
it is a burden too heavy to bear.
- ⁵ My wounds fester and stink because of my foolish sins.
- ⁶ I am bent over and racked with pain.
All day long I walk around filled with grief.
- ⁷ A raging fever burns within me,
and my health is broken.
- ⁸ I am exhausted and completely crushed.
My groans come from an anguished heart.
- ⁹ You know what I long for, Lord;
you hear my every sigh.
- ¹⁰ My heart beats wildly, my strength fails,
and I am going blind.
- ¹¹ My loved ones and friends stay away,
fearing my disease.
Even my own family stands at a distance.
- ¹² Meanwhile, my enemies lay traps to kill me.
Those who wish me harm make plans to ruin me.
All day long they ^aplan their treachery.
- ¹³ But I am deaf to all their threats.

- I am silent before them as one who cannot speak.
- ¹⁴ I choose to hear nothing, and I make no reply.
 - ¹⁵ For I am waiting for you, O LORD.
You must answer for me, O Lord my God.
 - ¹⁶ I prayed, "Don't let my enemies gloat over me or rejoice at my downfall."
 - ¹⁷ I am on the verge of collapse, facing constant pain.
 - ¹⁸ But I confess my sins;
I am deeply sorry for what I have done.
 - ¹⁹ I have many aggressive enemies;
they hate me without reason.
 - ²⁰ They repay me evil for good and oppose me for pursuing good.
 - ²¹ Do not abandon me, O LORD.
Do not stand at a distance, my God.
 - ²² Come quickly to help me,
O Lord my savior.

PSALM 39

For Jeduthun, the choir director: A psalm of David.

- ¹ I said to myself, "I will watch what I do and not sin in what I say.
I will hold my tongue
when the ungodly are around me."
- ² But as I stood there in silence—not even speaking of good things—the turmoil within me grew worse.
- ³ The more I thought about it,
the hotter I got,
igniting a fire of words:
- ⁴ "LORD, remind me how brief my time on earth will be.

Ps 38 This lament and prayer for healing is an acrostic that uses the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet. The psalmist's suffering is associated with his unconfessed sin. He confesses his sin and entrusts his case to the Lord.

38:TITLE asking God to remember him: The meaning of this phrase is uncertain (also in 70:TITLE).

38:1-17 These verses form a prelude to the psalmist's confession (38:18) and describe his woeful condition.

38:1-4 The psalmist's sins had triggered the Lord's anger and rage, resulting in the arrows and blows of discipline and rebuke; as a result, his whole body is sick.

38:3 Sin can lead to sickness and even death (1 Cor 11:30). Whether the psalmist actually felt physically ill or his sickness was a metaphor for emotional turmoil, he knew that it came from God and threatened his life (see 32:3; 39:10).

38:4 The psalmist's burden results from sin (see 40:12; 41:4; cp. Gen 4:13).

38:5-8 The severity of God's punishment brings anguish that affects every part of the psalmist's being.

38:9-12 The psalmist longs for a restored relationship with God, but he feels alienated. He finds himself lost and alone as his friends disappear.

38:13 The psalmist suffers quietly before his opponents (see Isa 53:7).

38:15 The Lord alone will resolve the conflict (9:18; 27:14; 37:9, 34).

38:17-20 No longer able to endure his suffering and teetering on the verge of collapse (cp. 15:5), the psalmist confesses his sin (see 32:5).

38:19 That the psalmist's enemies hate him without reason compounds his pain.

38:22 Asking the Lord to act quickly in times of great need is common in the Psalter (22:19; 31:2; 40:13; 69:17; 70:1; 71:12; 79:8; 102:2; 141:1; 143:7). However, wisdom and experience teach that God's people must often wait for him to act (27:14; 37:7; Isa 8:17; 40:31).

Ps 39 This prayer for rescue reflects the psalmist's discouragement, which comes from having a limited perspective on his situation.

39:TITLE Jeduthun was a levitical singer appointed by David along with Asaph (1 Chr 9:16; 16:38; 25:1).

39:1-3 Suffering in silence only intensifies the psalmist's anguish, pain, and inner turmoil.

39:4-6 Because of his suffering and sin, the psalmist concludes that life is meaningless and fleeting (see Job 7:7-10; Isa 40:6-8). He had expected a wicked life to have those qualities (see

Acts 20:20, 27

Remind me that my days are numbered—
how fleeting my life is.

- 5 You have made my life no longer than the width of my hand.
My entire lifetime is just a moment
to you;
at best, each of us is but a ^bbreath."

Interlude

- 6 We are merely moving shadows, and all our busy rushing ends in ^cnothing.
We heap up wealth,
not knowing who will spend it.
7 And so, Lord, where do I put my hope?
My only hope is in you.
8 Rescue me from my rebellion.
Do not let fools mock me.
9 I am silent before you; I won't say a word, for my punishment is from you.
10 But please stop striking me!
I am exhausted by the blows from your hand.
11 When you discipline us for our sins, you consume like a moth what is precious to us.
Each of us is but a breath.

Interlude

- 12 Hear my prayer, O LORD!
Listen to my cries for help!
Don't ignore my tears.
For I am your guest—
a traveler passing through,
as my ancestors were before me.
13 Leave me alone so I can smile again before I am gone and exist no more.

PSALM 40

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- 1 I waited patiently for the LORD to help me,
and he turned to me and heard my cry.

- 2 He lifted me out of the pit of despair,
out of the mud and the mire.
He set my feet on solid ground and steadied me as I walked along.
3 He has given me a new song to sing,
a hymn of praise to our God.
Many will see what he has done and be amazed.
They will put their trust in the LORD.

- 4 Oh, the joys of those who trust the LORD, who have no confidence in the proud or in those who worship idols.
5 O LORD my God, you have performed many wonders for us.
Your plans for us are too numerous to list.
You have no equal.
If I tried to recite all your wonderful
deeds,
I would never come to the end of them.
6 You take no delight in sacrifices or offerings.
Now that you have made me listen, I finally understand—you don't require burnt offerings or sin offerings.
7 Then I said, "Look, I have come.
As is written about me in the Scriptures:
8 I take joy in doing your will, my God, for your ^dinstructions are written on
my heart."
9 I have told all your people about your justice.
I have not been afraid to speak out,
as you, O LORD, well know.
10 I have not kept the good news of your justice hidden in my heart;
I have talked about your faithfulness and saving power.

37:2, 20; 103:15-16), but now whether a person is godly or not seems to be irrelevant.

39:4-5 how fleeting my life is: This perspective comes out of suffering (see 78:39; 89:47-48; 90:3-10). The human lifetime is but a moment to God (90:4), as temporary as a breath (see 39:11; 144:4).

39:8 The idea that rebellion brings on suffering is a common thread in Pss 32, 38-41.

39:9-11 The psalmist links suffering with God's discipline, assuming that it is punishment for his sin.

39:11 The Lord uses discipline to correct his children (38:1, 3, 7; 40:12; see Prov 3:11-12; Heb 12:5-6).

39:12 A guest (or foreigner) had no rights of land ownership (see Lev 25:23).
The patriarchs had lived as guests in Canaan (105:23).

39:13 Unlike the psalmist's earlier request that God stay close to him (38:21-22), his present desire for God to leave him alone echoes Job's disposition (Job 7:17-19).

Ps 40 This psalm includes a thanksgiving song (40:1-10) followed by a lament (40:11-17). The thanksgiving song includes the reason for the thanksgiving (40:1-5), an affirmation of commitment (40:6-8), and a public testimony of God's character (40:7-10).
The lament concerns the psalmist's troubles because of his sins (40:11-12) and is followed by two prayers for vindication (40:13-15, 17).

40:1-5 The psalmist thanks the Lord for his rescue and testifies that God can be trusted.

40:6 The Lord delights in the attitude and character of the person making an offering more than in the offering itself.
• *Now that you have made me listen,
I finally understand:* Greek version reads You have given me a body. In Heb 10:5-7, the writer quotes from the Greek version of 40:6-8. He casts the words as something Jesus said as he left heaven and came into the world.

40:7 As is written about me in the Scriptures: Moses had recorded God's requirements for Israel's kings in Deut 17:14-15.

I have told everyone in the great assembly of your unfailing love and faithfulness.

- ¹¹ LORD, don't hold back your tender mercies from me.
Let your unfailing love and faithfulness always protect me.
- ¹² For troubles surround me—too many to count!
My sins pile up so high
I can't see my way out.
They outnumber the hairs on my head.
I have lost all courage.
- ¹³ Please, LORD, rescue me!
Come quickly, LORD, and help me.
- ¹⁴ May those who try to destroy me
be humiliated and put to shame.
May those who take delight in my trouble be turned back in disgrace.
- ¹⁵ Let them be horrified by their shame, for they said, "Aha! We've got him now!"
- ¹⁶ But may all who search for you
be filled with joy and gladness in you.
May those who love your salvation repeatedly shout, "The LORD is great!"
- ¹⁷ As for me, since I am poor and needy,
let the Lord keep me in his thoughts.
You are my helper and my savior.
O my ^eGod, do not delay.

PSALM 41

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- ¹ Oh, the joys of those who are kind to the poor!
The LORD rescues them when they are in trouble.

- ² The LORD protects them and keeps them alive.
He gives them prosperity in the land and rescues them from their enemies.
- ³ The LORD nurses them when they are sick and restores them to health.
- ⁴ "O LORD," I prayed, "have mercy on me.
Heal me, for I have ^esinned against you."
- ⁵ But my enemies say nothing but evil
about me.
"How soon will he die and be forgotten?" they ask.
- ⁶ They visit me as if they were my friends,
but all the while they gather gossip,
and when they leave, they spread it everywhere.
- ⁷ All who hate me whisper about me, imagining the worst.
- ⁸ "He has some fatal disease," they say.
"He will never get out of that bed!"
- ⁹ Even my best friend, the one I trusted completely,
the one who shared my food, has turned against me.
- ¹⁰ LORD, have mercy on me.
Make me well again, so I can pay them back!
- ¹¹ I know you are pleased with me, for you have not let my enemies
triumph over me.
- ¹² You have preserved my life because I am innocent;
you have brought me into your presence forever.

- ¹³ Praise the LORD, the God of Israel, who lives from everlasting to everlasting.
^bAmen and ^bamen!

40:11 The psalmist prays that the Lord will be true to his character when answering this plea for mercy.

40:12-17 The psalmist is troubled both by his adversities and his own sins and prays for rescue. • This passage is repeated almost verbatim as Ps 70.

Ps 41 In this wisdom psalm, the psalmist prays for healing (41:4, 10), laments his distress (41:5-9), and expresses confidence in the Lord's blessing (41:1-3, 11-12).

41:1 The poor who suffer hardship have special protection under God's law (Lev 14:21; 19:10); they receive God's justice and godly rule (72:13; 82:3-4). The word translated poor is often a synonym for the godly (113:7; see Zeph 3:12).

41:3 when they are sick: This illness might be physical or spiritual (see 6:2; Ps 38).

41:4 The psalmist applies the blessing to himself (41:12). Apparently he has taken care of the poor (41:1), but he has sinned against the Lord in other ways. Out of his pain, he cries for healing while confessing his sin. The Lord alone can grant the restoration that brings true joy (30:2; 107:20-21).

41:5-9 The psalmist's enemies disguise themselves as friends, while his friends openly become his enemies.

41:5 How soon will he die? The psalmist's opponents regard his suffering as a divine judgment (cp. 1:6).

41:9 the one who shared my food:

Eating together was a sign of unity (Acts 2:42). Refusing to eat with someone indicated hostility (1 Cor 5:11). Jesus experienced the same kind of betrayal (John 13:1, 18).

41:11-12 The psalmist knows that the Lord has forgiven him and will bless him.

41:13 This doxology closes Book One (Pss 1-41). Cp. 106:48.

Book Two (Pss 42-72) Book Two includes psalms by many authors: eighteen psalms of David (Pss 51-65, 68-70), eight psalms of the descendants of Korah (Pss 42-49), one psalm ascribed to Asaph (Ps 50), one to Solomon (Ps 72), and several with no author credited. 2. BOOK TWO (PSS 42–72)

PSALM 42

For the choir director: A psalm of the descendants of Korah.

- ¹ As the deer longs for streams of water,
so I long for you, O God.
- ² I thirst for God, the living God.
When can I go and stand before him?
- ³ Day and night I have only tears for food, while my enemies continually taunt me, saying,
“Where is this God of yours?”
- ⁴ My heart is breaking as I remember how it used to be:
I walked among the crowds of worshippers,

leading a great procession to the house of God,
singing for joy and giving thanks amid the sound of a great celebration!

- ⁵ Why am I discouraged?
Why is my heart so sad?
I will put my hope in God!
I will praise him again—
my Savior and ⁶my God!
- Now I am deeply discouraged,
but I will remember you—even from distant Mount Hermon, the source of the Jordan,
from the land of Mount Mizar.
- ⁷ I hear the tumult of the raging seas as your waves and surging tides sweep over me.

Questions and Doubt (Pss 42–43)

108:10-11; 114:5-6;
119:82, 84; 137:4;
147:17

The psalmists are not afraid to ask questions and express doubts. These questions clarify life issues. The intensity of the mood or the significance of an issue can be judged by the number of questions asked. For example, the psalmist of 4:2 asks three questions of his adversaries, and there are five questions in 13:1-2. The psalms with the greatest number of questions raise some of the most significant issues, such as God's perceived abandonment (Pss 42–43, 74, 89) and the prosperity of the wicked (Ps 73).

Questions about God ask whether the Lord is the true God (94:9-10; 121:1) and why he seems to have abandoned the godly (77:7). Questions call attention to the success of the wicked (10:13), the impotence of the godly (11:3), the election of Zion (68:16), the power of God (114:5-6; 147:17), the folly of the nations (2:1), and the issue of injustice (82:2). The psalmists question, examine, challenge, doubt, and occasionally despair over God's seeming lack of concern.

Questions may also lead to praise and worship: “Who can list the glorious miracles of the LORD? Who can ever praise him enough?” (106:2). The question, “Who will come from Mount Zion to rescue Israel?” (53:6) calls attention to the answer: The Lord rescues his people. For many questions, the implied answer brings praise to the Lord: “Whom have I in heaven but you? I desire you more than anything on earth” (73:25; 89:8). Questions may also express wonder at God's grace (8:4; 130:3; 144:3). Asking good questions can be the beginning of a dialogue with the Lord that leads us along the path of wisdom and results in worship and praise.

Pss 42–43 These psalms, like Pss 9 and 10, form a unit comprising a lament with a bittersweet refrain of hope (42:5, 11; 43:5). In many Hebrew manuscripts these two psalms are combined as one. The historical context is uncertain; these psalms might be the voice of God's people in exile, confessing their loyalty to God as he punishes them for their prevailing apostasy. The psalmist longs for such fellowship with God as he enjoyed in Jerusalem (42:4); his memories only make him more discouraged. As the psalmist cries out to God, he recalls God's love and faithfulness (42:8), which moves him to plead for vindication (43:1-4).

42:1 psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term. • The descendants of Korah were members of a Levitical choir appointed by David to serve as Temple singers (see 1 Chr 6:22-38; 9:19-34; 2 Chr 20:19). Their ancestor Korah was the apostate who had rebelled against Moses and whom the earth swallowed up (Exod 6:24; Num 16).

42:1-4 The psalmist's longing for God comes from being geographically distant from the Temple as he remembers the past. • The verb translated longs is found only here and in Joel 1:20 (“cry out”); in both cases it refers to extreme thirst in a waterless desert (see 63:1; 143:6; see also 84:2).

42:3 Having tears for food speaks of great grief (80:5; 102:9; see 6:6; 56:8; 126:5; 119:136). • The wicked try to hold God to their timetable and deny his power to intervene.

42:4 The psalmist recalls leading a great procession as a member of the Levitical choir, possibly during the high holy days.

42:5-6 The psalmist encourages himself with questions and answers.

42:5 The psalmist feels depressed, but it does not incapacitate him. He remembers that the living God is his Savior. This verse is repeated in 42:11 and 43:5.

42:6 Mount Hermon is a high mountain range northeast of Israel. The source of the Jordan is by Dan at the foot of Mount Hermon. • Mount Mizar might be a peak in the Mount Hermon range.

42:7 The raging seas, waves, and surging tides conjure images of God's wrath (see 88:7).

- ⁸ But each day the Lord pours his unfailing love upon me, and through each night I sing his songs, praying to God who gives me life.
- ⁹ "O God my rock," I cry, "Why have you forgotten me? Why must I wander around in grief, oppressed by my enemies?"
- ¹⁰ Their taunts break my bones. They scoff, "Where is this God of yours?"
- ¹¹ Why am I discouraged? Why is my heart so sad? I will put my hope in God! I will praise him again—my Savior and my God!

PSALM 43

- ¹ Declare me innocent, O God! Defend me against these ungodly people. Rescue me from these unjust liars.
- ² For you are God, my only safe haven. Why have you tossed me aside? Why must I wander around in grief, oppressed by my enemies?
- ³ Send out your light and your truth; let them guide me. Let them lead me to your holy mountain, to the place where you live.
- ⁴ There I will go to the altar of God, to God—the source of all my joy. I will praise you with my harp, O God, my God!
- ⁵ Why am I discouraged? Why is my heart so sad? I will put my hope in God! I will praise him again—my Savior and my God!

PSALM 44

For the choir director: A psalm of the descendants of Korah.

- ¹ O God, we have heard it with our own ears—our ancestors have told us of all you did in their day, in days long ago:
- ² You drove out the pagan nations by your power and gave all the land to our ancestors. You crushed their enemies and set our ancestors free.
- ³ They did not conquer the land with their swords; it was not their own strong arm that gave them victory. It was your right hand and strong arm and the blinding light from your face that helped them, for you loved them.
- ⁴ You are my King and my God. You command victories for Israel.
- ⁵ Only by your power can we push back our enemies; only in your name can we trample our foes.
- ⁶ I do not trust in my bow; I do not count on my sword to save me.
- ⁷ You are the one who gives us victory over our enemies; you disgrace those who hate us.
- ⁸ O God, we give glory to you all day long and constantly praise your name.
- Interlude*
- ⁹ But now you have tossed us aside in dishonor. You no longer lead our armies to battle.

Ps 43:2; 60:10; 74:1

42:8 The psalmist sees rays of hope. A life oriented to God includes songs of joy and praying for justice and vindication (42:9-10; 43:1-4).

42:9-10 The psalmist brings his many doubts, discouragements, and questions directly to God.

43:1-4 The psalmist turns to the Lord for rescue from his troubles, for guidance, for restoration, and for vindication.

43:2 tossed me aside: Other psalms similarly ask whether God has rejected his people (44:9; 23; 60:1; 10; 74:1; 77:7; 88:14; 89:38; 108:11).

43:3 In this prayer for God's redemption, light and truth are viewed as guides (see 18:25-29; 27:1; 85:10-13; 89:14-18; see also 119:105; John 3:19; Eph 5:8; 1 Thes 5:5-7). • The Temple on the mountain in Jerusalem symbolized

God's holy presence among his people (15:1; 43:3; 99:5; 9; 132:7).

43:5 This verse is repeated in 42:5, 11.

Ps 44 This national lament after defeat in battle continues the tone of the previous two psalms, including reflecting on an unspecified moment in Israel's history and calling on God for salvation. The people recite God's past acts of rescue (44:1-3), acknowledge God's power to save (44:4-8), describe their humiliation in exile (44:9-16), claim their innocence and lament the injustice of their current situation (44:17-22), and cry for vindication (44:23-26).

44:TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.

44:1 we have heard . . . of all you did: The story of redemption encompasses the story of God's favor and power in his past acts of rescue (see 78:1-4; see also Pss 105-106).

44:2 God drove out the pagan nations during the conquests recorded in Joshua.

44:3 Though the Israelites used swords and other weapons (44:6), they would have lost their battles without the light of the Lord's favor (see 18:25-29; 27:1; 89:15).

44:4-8 God's people feel confident about his mighty acts; he was with them in the past, and he is their king in the present.

44:4 Israel: Literally for Jacob. The names "Jacob" and "Israel" are often interchanged throughout the Old Testament, referring sometimes to the individual patriarch and sometimes to the nation.

44:9-16 The people have experienced defeat (44:9-12), so they understand suffering and disgrace (44:13-16).

Song 1:3; 4:13-14

- 10 You make us retreat from our enemies and allow those who hate us to plunder our land.
- 11 You have butchered us like sheep and scattered us among the nations.
- 12 You sold your precious people for a pittance,
making nothing on the sale.
- 13 You let our neighbors mock us.
We are an object of scorn and derision to those around us.
- 14 You have made us the butt of their jokes;
they shake their heads at us in scorn.
- 15 We can't escape the constant humiliation;
shame is written across our faces.
- 16 All we hear are the taunts of our mockers.
All we see are our vengeful enemies.
- 17 All this has happened though we have not forgotten you.
We have not violated your covenant.
- 18 Our hearts have not deserted you.
We have not strayed from your path.
- 19 Yet you have crushed us in the jackal's desert home.
You have covered us with darkness and death.
- 20 If we had forgotten the name of our God or spread our hands in prayer to foreign gods,
- 21 God would surely have known it, for he knows the secrets of every
heart.
- 22 But for your sake we are killed every day;
we are being slaughtered like sheep.
- 23 Wake up, O Lord! Why do you sleep?
Get up! Do not reject us forever.
- 24 Why do you look the other way?
Why do you ignore our suffering and oppression?

- 25 We collapse in the dust, lying face down in the dirt.
- 26 Rise up! Help us!
Ransom us because of your unfailing
love.

PSALM 45

For the choir director: A love song to be sung to the tune "Lilies." A psalm of the descendants of Korah.

- ¹ Beautiful words stir my heart.
I will recite a lovely poem about the
king,
for my tongue is like the pen of a skillful poet.
- ² You are the most handsome of all.
Gracious words stream from your lips.
God himself has blessed you forever.
- ³ Put on your sword, O mighty warrior!
You are so glorious, so majestic!
- ⁴ In your majesty, ride out to victory,
defending truth, humility, and justice.
Go forth to perform awe-inspiring
deeds!
- ⁵ Your arrows are sharp, piercing your enemies' hearts.
The nations fall beneath your feet.
- ⁶ Your throne, O God, endures forever and ever.
You rule with a scepter of justice.
- ⁷ You love justice and hate evil.
Therefore God, your God, has ^aanointed you, pouring out the oil of joy on you more than on anyone else.
- ⁸ Myrrh, aloes, and cassia perfume your robes.
In ivory palaces the music of strings entertains you.

44:11 scattered us among the nations: This probably refers to the Exile (see 51:18-19; 89:38-51; 106:40-47; 137).

44:22 Paul quotes this verse as a parenthetical aside in his list of things that cannot separate us from Christ's love (Rom 8:36).

44:23-26 In the end, God's people can turn to the Lord and trust him for rescue. Their petition for God to remedy their situation is as strong as their lament about God's rejection.

44:23 Wake up: Biblical authors often call for God's attention in a crisis (35:23; 44:23; 73:20; 80:2; Mark 4:38).

Ps 45 This psalm celebrates a royal wedding; it might have been sung on many occasions and not just at one wedding. As God's representative, the king carried the responsibility of dispensing justice and maintaining order in God's world (see Ps 2).

45:TITLE The tune "Lilies" is no longer known (see also Ps 69). • psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.

45:2 This general description of the king's symbolic status anticipates his permanent legacy (45:16). That the Lord has blessed him and charged him to bear God's attributes is symbolized by his handsome appearance and gracious words.

45:3-5 The psalmist expounds on the royal splendor the king showed when fighting his enemies.

45:3 Glory and majesty belong to the Lord (96:6; 111:3).

45:4 As God's agent of truth, humility, and justice (see 72:1-2, 4, 7), the king can carry out awe-inspiring deeds (65:5; 96:4).

45:6-9 The king is like a god among humans; he is anointed by God, he has received a mighty throne, and he dispenses justice as he rules forever. • The writer to the Hebrews applies 45:6-7 to Jesus as he argues that the Son is greater than the angels (Heb 1:8-9).

45:6 Your throne, O God: Or Your divine throne. • Justice characterizes God's rule, as it should characterize the king's administration.

45:8 Fine spices mixed with oil create distinctive perfumes. • The king's palaces were wood paneled with ivory inlays (cp. Amos 3:15; 6:4).

9 Kings' daughters are among your noble women.
At your right side stands the queen, wearing jewelry of finest gold from Ophir!

10 Listen to me, O royal daughter; take to heart what I say.

Forget your people and your family far away.

11 For your royal husband delights in your beauty;
honor him, for he is your lord.

12 The princess of Tyre will shower you with gifts.

The wealthy will beg your favor.

13 The bride, a princess, looks glorious in her golden gown.

14 In her beautiful robes, she is led to the king, accompanied by her bridesmaids.

15 What a joyful and enthusiastic procession as they enter the king's palace!

16 Your sons will become kings like their father.

You will make them rulers over many lands.

17 I will bring honor to your name in every generation.

Therefore, the nations will praise you forever and ever.

PSALM 46

For the choir director: A song of the descendants of Korah, to be sung by soprano voices.

1 God is our refuge and strength, always ready to help in times of trouble.

2 So we will not fear when earthquakes come and the mountains crumble into the sea.

3 Let the oceans roar and foam.
Let the mountains tremble as the waters surge! Interlude

4 A river brings joy to the city of our God, the sacred 'home of the 'Most High.

5 God dwells in that city; it cannot be destroyed.
From the very break of day, God will protect it.

6 The nations are in chaos,
and their kingdoms crumble!
God's voice thunders,
and the earth melts!

7 The LORD of Heaven's Armies is here among us;
the God of Israel is our fortress.

Interlude

8 Come, see the glorious works of the LORD:
See how he brings destruction upon the world.

9 He causes wars to end throughout the earth.
He breaks the bow and snaps the spear;
he burns the shields with fire.

10 "Be still, and know that I am God!
I will be honored by every nation.
I will be honored throughout the world."

11 The LORD of Heaven's Armies is here among us;
the God of Israel is our fortress.

45:9 Marriages often sealed diplomatic connections between kings; the women became part of the harem (see 1 Kgs 11:1-3).

45:10-12 The bride is a representative of the king. Powerful people and nations try to gain her favor in order to get close to the king. This is a great honor, and she is encouraged to give herself fully to her new position.

45:12 The princess of Tyre: Literally The daughter of Tyre. Israel traded with Tyre, a powerful city-state. The noblest woman of the city bears a wedding gift to her counterpart, the new queen, who represents an honored kingdom.

Ps 46 This psalm of Zion celebrates God's special presence in Jerusalem (see also Pss 48, 76, 87, 122), inviting confidence in the Lord because the citizens of Zion enjoy his protection.

46:TITLE sung by soprano voices: Hebrew according to "alamoth ("maidens"; see also note on 1 Chr 15:20). In worship, a choir or a group of instrumentalists performed this hymn.

46:1-3 Even when faced with natural disasters, the citizens of Zion express no fear.

46:4-6 The strong city where God dwells protects its inhabitants. They enjoy the river flowing inside the city. This river contrasts with the turbulent waters (the powers of the nations) outside the city.

46:4 Like the streams flowing through Eden, this river brings the water of life, restoration, and healing (36:8-9; see Gen 2:10; Ezek 47; Rev 22:2).

46:5 From the very break of day: In the ancient Near East, enemies attacked cities during the day; even during the most dangerous times, the Lord will protect the place where his name dwells.

46:6 People and nations live in chaos, characterized by opportunism (83:2), busyness (39:6), and noise. Psalmists also used this word to describe the snarling of dogs (59:6, 14) and the groaning of the needy (77:3). These people shake, totter, and crumble, unlike the city of God (cp. 15:5). In contrast, when the godly feel disturbed, they cry out for God's help (42:5, 11; 43:5; 55:17).

46:7 This refrain reminds readers of the identity of the God of Zion. • among us: Hebrew 'immanu, part of the name Immanuel, "God with us" (Isa 7:14; 8:8; Matt 1:23). • God of Israel: Literally of Jacob; also in 46:11. See note on 44:4.

46:8-9 This invitation to trust in the Lord offers a perspective on God's interactions with human powers.

46:8 Israel saw the Lord's glorious works in the wilderness (107:24; 111:2), but the wicked, who have no concern for them (28:5), are left desolate (73:19).

PSALM 47

For the choir director: A psalm of the descendants of Korah.

- 1 Come, everyone! Clap your hands!
Shout to God with joyful praise!
- 2 For the LORD Most High is awesome.
He is the great King of all the earth.
- 3 He subdues the nations before us, putting our enemies beneath our feet.
- 4 He chose the Promised Land as our inheritance,
the proud possession of Jacob's descendants, whom he loves.

Interlude

- 5 God has ascended with a mighty shout.
The LORD has ascended with trumpets blaring.
- 6 Sing praises to God, sing praises;
sing praises to our King, sing praises!
- 7 For God is the King over all the earth.
Praise him with a psalm.
- 8 God reigns above the nations, sitting on his holy throne.
- 9 The rulers of the world have gathered together with the people of the God of Abraham.
For all the kings of the earth belong to God.
He is highly honored everywhere.

PSALM 48

A song. A psalm of the descendants of Korah.

- 1 How great is the LORD,
how deserving of praise,

- in the city of our God,
which sits on his holy mountain!
- 2 It is high and magnificent;
the whole earth rejoices to see it!
Mount Zion, the holy mountain, is the city of the great King!
- 3 God himself is in Jerusalem's towers, revealing himself as its defender.
- 4 The kings of the earth joined forces and advanced against the city.
- 5 But when they saw it, they were stunned;
they were terrified and ran away.
- 6 They were gripped with terror and writhed in pain like a woman in labor.
- 7 You destroyed them like the mighty ships of Tarshish shattered by a powerful east wind.
- 8 We had heard of the city's glory,
but now we have seen it ourselves—
the city of the LORD of Heaven's Armies.
It is the city of our God;
he will make it safe forever.

Interlude

- 9 O God, we meditate on your unfailing love
as we worship in your Temple.
- 10 As your name deserves, O God,
you will be praised to the ends of the earth.
Your strong right hand is filled with victory.
- 11 Let the people on Mount Zion rejoice.
Let all the towns of Judah be glad because of your justice.

psalmist's vision (see also 12:5-6; 32:8).
• know that I am God: The Lord will do what he promises (Isa 45:3; 49:23; 60:16). • God will be exalted (Ps 47; Isa 6:1); he will judge the nations and rescue his people (see 57:11; 89:13; 108:5-6; 118:16).

Ps 47 This psalm celebrates God's kingship over all the earth; it tells of God's victory in dealing with Israel and the nations. Both Israel (47:3-4) and the nations (47:9) participate in God's kingdom.

47:1-2 As the sovereign king over the nations, God requires praise.

47:1 People clap their hands in praise and recognition of marvelous deeds (47:3-4; see 98:8; Isa 55:12; cp. Nah 3:19).

47:3-4 The Lord made Israel victorious, especially under David (see 18:40-50). God's mighty deeds of redemption manifest his love for Israel.

47:4 Jacob's descendants: Jacob was the father of all Israelites (Gen 32:28); the name Jacob often represents the nation of Israel. • God loves and commits himself to Jacob (see 78:68; 127:2; see Rom 11:28).

47:5-6 The psalmist portrays the Lord as returning to heaven, having accomplished his victories. For a portrayal of his descent, see 18:9-16.

47:5 trumpets: Or ram's horns (see 81:3). At times, ram's horns were sounded in celebration (98:5-6; 2 Kgs 11:14; 1 Chr 15:28).

47:7 People from all the earth (see 96:1-3) will worship God. • psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.

Ps 48 This song of Zion (see also Pss 46, 76, 87, 122) explicitly views Jerusalem (Zion) as the city of the Great King where the godly find protection (48:1-3). God rules from Zion in faithfulness, righteousness, and justice, and he inspires his subjects with confidence and joy (48:9-11). They commit themselves to seeing the glory of Zion for themselves so that they can tell the next generation about it (48:8, 12-14).

48:2 Mount Zion, the holy mountain: Or Mount Zion, in the far north; Hebrew reads Mount Zion, the heights of Zaphon. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

48:3 God dwells in Zion to protect it from all enemies (see 46:5).

48:7 The ships of Tarshish, built for long voyages, represent human accomplishment (see also 2 Chr 9:21; Isa 2:16). Their destruction might be the event mentioned in 1 Kgs 22:48.

48:9-11 The psalmist joyfully celebrates the Lord's presence in the midst of the community, reflecting on the faithfulness, righteousness, and justice of God's rule.

- ¹² Go, inspect the city of Jerusalem.
Walk around and count the many towers.
- ¹³ Take note of the fortified walls, and tour all the citadels, that you may describe them
to future generations.
- ¹⁴ For that is what God is like.
He is our God forever and ever,
and he will guide us until we die.

PSALM 49

For the choir director: A psalm of the descendants of Korah.

- ¹ Listen to this, all you people!
Pay attention, everyone in the world!
- ² High and low,
rich and poor—listen!
- ³ For my words are wise,
and my thoughts are filled with insight.
- ⁴ I listen carefully to many proverbs and solve riddles with inspiration from a harp.
- ⁵ Why should I fear when trouble comes,
when enemies surround me?
- ⁶ They trust in their wealth and boast of great riches.
- ⁷ Yet they cannot redeem themselves from death
by paying a ransom to God.
- ⁸ Redemption does not come so easily, for no one can ever pay enough
- ⁹ to live forever
and never see the grave.
- ¹⁰ Those who are wise must finally die,
just like the foolish and senseless, leaving all their wealth behind.
- ¹¹ The grave is their eternal home,
where they will stay forever.

They may name their estates after themselves,

- ¹² but their fame will not last.
They will die, just like animals.
- ¹³ This is the fate of fools, though they are remembered as being wise.

Interlude

- ¹⁴ Like sheep, they are led to the ^agrave,
where death will be their shepherd.
In the morning the godly will rule over
them.
Their bodies will rot in the ^agrave, far from their grand estates.
- ¹⁵ But as for me, God will redeem my life.
He will snatch me from the power of the grave.

Interlude

- ¹⁶ So don't be dismayed when the wicked grow rich and their homes become ever more splendid.
- ¹⁷ For when they die, they take nothing
with them.
Their wealth will not follow them into
the grave.
- ¹⁸ In this life they consider themselves fortunate and are ^bapplauded for their success.
- ¹⁹ But they will die like all before them and never again see the light of day.
- ²⁰ People who boast of their wealth don't understand;
they will die, just like animals.

PSALM 50

He is the shepherd King (95:7) who will guide (see 5:8; 23:2) the sheep of his flock (77:20).

Ps 49 In this wisdom psalm, a wise teacher warns against enemies, whom he portrays as living a rich lifestyle and caring only for themselves (49:5-9).
They cannot keep anyone alive, least of all themselves, even in their memories (49:10-12). Like fattened animals, they are led to slaughter (49:14-20).

49:1-4 The wisdom teacher invites everyone to the hall of wisdom; he promises to instruct with a proverb and a riddle.

49:2 Anyone who will listen can gain wisdom (Prov 1:5, 8, 33).

49:4 The teacher used both proverbs and riddles for instruction in wisdom
(see Prov 1:5-6).

49:5-8 If enemies who live for material rewards cannot sustain themselves, how can they give life to others?

49:7 they cannot redeem themselves from death: Some Hebrew manuscripts read no one can redeem the life of another. The Hebrew can be translated either way.

49:11-12 The teacher brings wisdom through irony. Everyone dies, and even those with estates named after them will be forgotten.

49:13-15 The teachers of false wisdom cannot rescue themselves from death.
Only God has that power.

49:13 though they are remembered as being wise: The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

49:14 The teachers of false wisdom will go to the grave (Hebrew Sheol; also in 49:15) and to death in the underworld.
See note on 6:5.

49:16-20 The wicked might have rich, luxurious lives, but they forget that they cannot avoid death.

the godly and the ungodly in turn that outward performance of sacrificial rituals and recitation of the law are worth-

Zion is the Hebrew name for the mountain in Jerusalem where the Temple was located (see 2 Sam 5:7; see also 2 Chr 3:1). On the one hand, Zion is synonymous with Jerusalem, and the NLT often translates Zion as "Jerusalem" (69:35; 87:2; 97:8; 132:13). Zion is the actual city of Jerusalem that was destroyed in 586 BC (see 79:1; 102:13; 126:1; 137:1) and again in AD 70.

On the other hand, Zion is the city of God that transcends geographical location. Zion is God's universal kingdom, pictured as the city in which he dwells (74:2; 76:2; 84:7; 135:21; see Isa 26). The prophets and poets of Israel speak of the city of God as being more extensive than the physical city. The citizens of this city come from Judah, Israel, and the nations (see 87:5-6; Heb 12:22-24). It is on a high mountain (48:2) at the center of God's kingdom on earth (99:2; 132:13), and his throne is in Zion (see note on 9:11). Therefore, godly prayers and praise focus on Zion (53:6; 65:1; 137:1; 147:12; 149:2) and redemption is sought there (14:7; 20:2; 50:2; 53:6; 133:3).

Zion is also symbolic of God's protection and blessings (51:18; 128:5; 134:3; see Pss 46; 48). Anyone who trusts in the Lord is as secure as Mount Zion (125:1), but those who reject the Lord also reject Zion and have no future (129:5-8). Zion is the mother of all the nations (87:4-6). Members of the Davidic dynasty are the legitimate heirs who rule over Zion as agents to establish God's universal kingdom (2:6; 110:2).

The NT likewise speaks of a heavenly Jerusalem, the spiritual home of those from all nations who have been reborn through faith in Jesus Christ (Gal 4:24-26; Heb 12:22-24; Rev 3:12; 21:2-4). The book of Hebrews speaks of Zion as the mother city. Abraham sought it in faith (Heb 11:10), and all men and women of faith are its citizens (Heb 12:22-24). Because the Lord knows no geographical limitations (1 Kgs 8:27), the true Zion he inhabits is in the hearts of all who worship him (22:3).

50:4-6 The Lord is coming to bring righteousness. This hope encourages his faithful people, but those who have been unfaithful will not experience blessing when the heavens above and the earth below testify against them (cp. Deut 30:19; 31:28; 32:1; Isa 1:2). The Lord comes to restore order to the world (5:8; 22:31; 33:5; 40:9; 50:6; 71:16; 97:6).

50:7-13 The psalmist delivers a message against those who regard the sacrificial rituals as more important than having a proper heart attitude.

50:9 Unlike pagan gods, God does not need food; instead, he wants his people to serve him with a right heart (50:14-15).

50:10 I own the cattle on a thousand hills: God has no needs; he possesses everything.

50:14 Thankfulness means looking beyond self-interest to express gratitude for God's blessings (see 51:15-17; 54:6).

• True sacrifice requires offering one's self to the glory of God (50:23; Rom 12:1-2).

50:15 God's response to his people's cry is to rescue them.

- ¹⁶ But God says to the wicked:
 “Why bother reciting my decrees and pretending to obey my covenant?”
- ¹⁷ For you refuse my discipline and treat my words like trash.
- ¹⁸ When you see thieves, you approve of
 them,
 and you spend your time with adulterers.
- ¹⁹ Your mouth is filled with wickedness, and your tongue is full of lies.
- ²⁰ You sit around and slander your brother—your own mother’s son.
- ²¹ While you did all this, I remained silent, and you thought I didn’t care.
 But now I will rebuke you, listing all my charges against you.
- ²² Repent, all of you who forget me,
 or I will tear you apart,
 and no one will help you.
- ²³ But giving ^athanks is a sacrifice that truly honors me.
 If you keep to my path,
 I will reveal to you the salvation of God.”

PSALM 51

For the choir director: A psalm of David, regarding the time Nathan the prophet came to him after David had committed adultery with Bathsheba.

- ¹ Have mercy on me, O God, because of your ^aunfailing love.

- Because of your great compassion, blot out the stain of my sins.
- ² Wash me clean from my guilt.
 Purify me from my sin.
- ³ For I recognize my ^brebellion;
 it haunts me day and night.
- ⁴ Against you, and you alone, have I sinned;
 I have done what is evil in your sight.
 You will be proved right in what you say, and your judgment against me is just.
- ⁵ For I was born a sinner—yes, from the moment my mother conceived me.
- ⁶ But you desire honesty from the womb, teaching me wisdom even there.
- ⁷ Purify me from my sins, and I will be clean;
 wash me, and I will be whiter than snow.
- ⁸ Oh, give me back my joy again;
 you have broken me—
 now let me rejoice.
- ⁹ Don’t keep looking at my sins.
 Remove the stain of my guilt.
- ¹⁰ Create in me a clean heart, O God.
^bRenew a loyal spirit within me.
- ¹¹ Do not banish me from your presence, and don’t take your Holy ^aSpirit
 from me.

50:16-21 This message is against the wicked, who only pretend to listen to God.

50:17 my discipline . . . my words: The wicked may observe rituals, but they reject more important matters such as justice, mercy, and faithfulness (cp. Matt 23:23-24).

50:21 Because he is patient, God remained silent.

50:22-23 The wicked will experience God’s justice, while the godly will see God’s everlasting salvation.

50:22 God will tear the wicked apart like a lion tearing its prey (Isa 5:29; 31:4; Ezek 19:3; cp. Ps 7:2; 22:13).

Pss 51–65 These psalms of David share a common thread in their reflection on the experience of evil. In Ps 51, the psalmist confesses the evil he has done and asks God’s forgiveness. Psalms 52–64 lament specific evils that David experienced. A song of praise (Ps 65) brings David’s laments to an end.

Ps 51 This moving prayer for restoration asks for God’s favor, mercy, forgiveness, and cleansing. Out of a broken spirit, the psalmist confesses and accepts responsibility for his sin (51:3-6), then petitions God to remove his guilt and renew him inwardly (51:7-12). The psalmist then recommits himself to a lifestyle of wisdom and joy in the service of God and others (51:13-17).

51:1 TITLE regarding the time Nathan . . . Bathsheba: See 2 Sam 11:1-27. The text of the psalm contains no explicit reference to this event.

51:1-2 The repentant offender has nothing to offer God. He needs God’s favor, mercy, forgiveness, and blessing before he can experience renewal and restoration.

51:1 A prayer for God’s mercy and kindness is part of the genre of lament. Sometimes the plea comes from the psalmist’s acknowledgment of his weakness and sin, as here (see also 6:2; 9:13; 25:16; 31:9; 41:4, 10). At other times, it arises from the psalmist’s commitment to the Lord (see 26:11; 27:7; 119:29, 58, 132). In each case, God’s mercy brings an inner renewal.

51:2 Wash me . . . Purify me: The psalmist prays for cleansing and release from the guilt of his sin (51:7; see 26:6; Isa 1:16, 18; 4:4).

51:3-6 The psalmist accepts the consequences of his sin against God. He knows that there is nothing good in him unless God renews his life.

51:4 Against . . . you alone: This is hyperbole—the psalmist knows he also sinned against human beings (2 Sam 11:2-4, 15-17), but his offense against God is more important. He expects God to rebuke him and will accept whatever verdict God renders (see Rom 3:4). • and your judgment against me is just: Greek version reads and you will win your case in court. Cp. Rom 3:4, where Paul quotes the Greek translation of this verse.

51:5 I was born a sinner: The psalmist is not making excuses but is acknowledging the depth of his sinfulness. From the time we are conceived, we all share in the human condition of sinfulness.

51:6 from the womb: Or from the heart; Hebrew reads in the inward parts.

51:7 Purify me from my sins (literally Purify me with the hyssop branch; see Exod 12:22; Lev 14:4; John 19:29; Heb 9:19): The psalmist depends on God to purify and renew him (see Isa 1:18).

51:8 Regaining joy is a gracious gift from God. • you have broken me: The psalmist’s whole being feels broken (6:2; cp. 34:20).

51:10-12 God’s Spirit renews and recreates the human spirit.

51:10 A loyal spirit yields the inner qualities of constancy and perseverance.

PSALM 52

For the choir director: A psalm of David, regarding the time Doeg the Edomite said to Saul, "David has gone to see Ahimelech."

1 Why do you boast about your crimes, great warrior?
Don't you realize God's justice continues forever?

2 All day long you plot destruction.
Your tongue cuts like a sharp razor;
you're an expert at telling lies.

3 You love evil more than good and lies more than truth. Interlude

4 You love to destroy others with your words,
you liar!

5 But God will strike you down once and for all.
He will pull you from your home and uproot you from the land of the living. Interlude

6 The righteous will see it and be amazed.
They will laugh and say,

7 "Look what happens to mighty warriors who do not trust in God.
They trust their wealth instead and grow more and more bold in their wickedness."

8 But I am like an olive tree, thriving in the house of God.
I will always trust in God's unfailing
love.

9 I will praise you forever, O God, for what you have done.
I will trust in your good name in the presence of your faithful people.

PSALM 53

Ps 53:1-6 // Ps 14:1-7

For the choir director: A meditation; a psalm of David.

1 Only fools say in their hearts,
"There is no God."
They are corrupt, and their actions are evil;
not one of them does good!

51:11 your Holy Spirit: Or your spirit of holiness. Only the power of the Holy Spirit can change the human will to make it "loyal" (51:10) and "willing to obey" (51:12).

51:13 As he learns from his sin and its consequences, the psalmist wants to teach others.

51:14 shedding blood: This idiom includes any injustice, not just homicide (9:12; 58:10; see 2 Sam 11:14-26; cp. Isa 1:15-17).

51:18-19 rebuild the walls of Jerusalem: These verses were probably added as a prayer for national restoration after the Exile (see Pss 42-43); the entire community in exile identified with the spirit of the psalm.

51:19 Sacrifices offered in the right spirit come from a heart that is right with God and with others (see 15:2-5; 24:3-6; 50:14; Matt 5:23-24).

Ps 52 Wicked people use words to destroy relationships and communities. They foolishly think that they can be heroes by their words (52:1-4), but their fate suddenly overtakes them (52:5-7). In contrast, the godly renew their commitment to the Lord (52:8-9) and find their future secure in him.

52:TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term. • This psalm refers to an incident in 1 Sam 21:1-10; 22:9-10. The accuser, Doeg the Edomite, is a paradigm of evil.

52:1-4 Liars foolishly deceive themselves by thinking that they can be heroes by their words. They believe themselves innocent of any charges of evildoing, though they love evil and cause destruction. Those who speak curses, sarcasm, bitterness, arrogant boasting, and deceptions (31:18; 34:13; 59:7, 12; 120:2-3; 140:3, 9) bring about chaos, alienation, and destruction (Jas 3:5). Their sharp words cut like swords and daggers (55:21; 57:4; 64:3), the fangs of a snake (140:3), or a razor.

52:3 Deceptive speech changes one's character.

52:5-7 God's judgment on the wicked will come suddenly and forcibly. The godly rejoice in God's justice, not in the misfortunes of the wicked.

52:5 God will strike the wicked down like a pagan altar, idol, or unclean vessel (Exod 34:13; Lev 11:35; 2 Kgs 10:27).

52:6 In Hebrew, the verbs here translated see and be amazed sound almost alike.

52:8-9 The psalmist commits himself to a life of trust in the Lord. • An olive tree lives a long time when cared for (1:3; 128:3). The psalmist desires to be close to the Lord, his Savior and the source of his blessing (18:6; 23:6).

Ps 53 This psalm parallels Ps 14, differing only in verse 5.

53:TITLE A meditation; a psalm: Hebrew according to makhalth; a maskil. These may be literary or musical terms.

53:1-3 Paul uses the Greek translation of this passage in his description of the depravity of all people (Rom 3:10-12).

- ² God looks down from heaven
on the entire human race;
he looks to see if anyone is truly wise,
if anyone seeks God.
- ³ But no, all have turned away;
all have become corrupt.
No one does good,
not a single one!
- ⁴ Will those who do evil never learn?
They eat up my people like bread
and wouldn't think of praying to God.
- ⁵ Terror will grip them,
terror like they have never known before.
God will scatter the bones of your
enemies.
You will put them to shame, for God has rejected them.
- ⁶ Who will come from Mount Zion to rescue Israel?
When God restores his people,
Jacob will shout with joy, and Israel
will rejoice.

PSALM 54

For the choir director: A psalm of David, regarding the time the Ziphites came and said to Saul, "We know where David is hiding." To be accompanied by stringed instruments.

- ¹ Come with great power, O God, and
rescue me!
Defend me with your might.
- ² Listen to my prayer, O God.
Pay attention to my plea.
- ³ For strangers are attacking me;
violent people are trying to kill me.
They care nothing for God.

Interlude

- ⁴ But God is my helper.
The Lord keeps me alive!

- ⁵ May the evil plans of my enemies be turned against them.
Do as you promised and put an end to them.
- ⁶ I will sacrifice a voluntary offering to
you;
I will praise your name, O LORD,
for it is good.
- ⁷ For you have rescued me from my troubles
and helped me to triumph over my enemies.

PSALM 55

For the choir director: A psalm of David, to be accompanied by stringed instruments.

- ¹ Listen to my prayer, O God.
Do not ignore my 'cry for help!
- ² Please listen and answer me,
for I am overwhelmed by my troubles.
- ³ My enemies shout at me,
making loud and wicked threats.
They bring trouble on me
and angrily hunt me down.
- ⁴ My heart pounds in my chest.
The terror of death assaults me.
- ⁵ Fear and trembling overwhelm me,
and I can't stop shaking.
- ⁶ Oh, that I had wings like a dove;
then I would fly away and rest!
- ⁷ I would fly far away to the quiet of the wilderness.

Interlude

- ⁸ How quickly I would escape—far from this wild storm of hatred.
- ⁹ Confuse them, Lord, and frustrate their plans,
for I see violence and conflict in the city.

Ps 54 In this individual lament, occasioned by violent and godless people (54:3), the psalmist turns to God in prayer and maintains his focus on God's help (54:4). He prays for God to save him from evil and to judge his enemies (54:5, 7).

54:TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term. • The psalm refers to the account of 1 Sam 23:19-20, when the Ziphites were bent on violence.

54:3 The strangers were alienated from the covenant community (see 109:11; Prov 5:10). • Proud and violent people hold no regard for God or for other people (see 35:11, 25; 86:14; Prov 11:16).

54:6-7 In anticipation of God's response, the mood of the psalm changes from gloom to thanksgiving.

54:6 A voluntary offering is a sacrifice of praise (see "Grain Offering" and "Peace Offering" in chart, "Israel's Sacrifices," p. 197). Sacrifices of praise are the kind of offering God most desires (see 50:14-15, 23).

Ps 55 The psalmist is faced with adversaries whose leader is a former friend (55:12-14), and he is overwhelmed with anguish. He turns to the Lord in prayer and commits himself to the Lord for redress (55:22-23). Jesus experienced similar suffering when his friend (Judas) betrayed him. He also experienced the answer to the psalmist's prayer: (1) by taking the place of the wicked and receiving their judgment (Isa 53:7-9), and (2) by committing himself to the Father, who rescued (Luke 23:46) and rewarded him (Isa 53:10-12).

55:TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.

55:1-3 The occasion for this prayer is an attack by an enemy.

55:4-8 In the experience of deep anguish, the psalmist confesses that his adversity has become unbearable and he seeks an escape.

- ¹⁰ Its walls are patrolled day and night against invaders, but the real danger is wickedness within the city.
- ¹¹ Everything is falling apart; threats and cheating are rampant in the streets.
- ¹² It is not an enemy who taunts me—
I could bear that.
It is not my foes who so arrogantly insult me—
I could have hidden from them.
- ¹³ Instead, it is you—my equal,
my companion and close friend.
- ¹⁴ What good fellowship we once enjoyed as we walked together to the house of God.
- ¹⁵ Let death stalk my enemies;
let the grave swallow them alive,
for evil makes its home within them.

- ¹⁶ But I will call on God, and the LORD will rescue me.
- ¹⁷ Morning, noon, and night
I cry out in my distress, and the LORD hears my voice.
- ¹⁸ He ransoms me and keeps me safe from the battle waged against me, though many still oppose me.
- ¹⁹ God, who has ruled forever, will hear me and humble them.
- Interlude*
- For my enemies refuse to change their ways;
they do not fear God.
- ²⁰ As for my companion, he betrayed his friends;
he broke his promises.
- ²¹ His words are as smooth as butter,
but in his heart is war.
His words are as soothing as lotion,
but underneath are daggers!
- ²² Give your burdens to the LORD, and he will take care of you.
He will not permit the godly to slip and fall.

- ²³ But you, O God, will send the wicked down to the pit of destruction.
Murderers and liars will die young,
but I am trusting you to save me.

PSALM 56

For the choir director: A psalm of David, regarding the time the Philistines seized him in Gath. To be sung to the tune "Dove on Distant Oaks."

- ¹ O God, have mercy on me,
for people are hounding me.
My foes attack me all day long.
- ² I am constantly hounded by those who slander me,
and many are boldly attacking me.
- ³ But when I am afraid,
I will put my trust in you.
- ⁴ I praise God for what he has promised.
I trust in God, so why should I be afraid?
What can mere mortals do to me?
- ⁵ They are always twisting what I say;
they spend their days plotting to harm me.
- ⁶ They come together to spy on me—watching my every step, eager to kill me.
- ⁷ Don't let them get away with their wickedness;
in your anger, O God, bring them down.
- ⁸ You keep track of all my sorrows.
You have collected all my tears in your bottle.
You have recorded each one in your book.
- ⁹ My enemies will retreat when I call to you for help.
This I know: God is on my side!
- ¹⁰ I praise God for what he has promised;
yes, I praise the LORD for what he has promised.
- ¹¹ I trust in God, so why should I be afraid?
What can mere mortals do to me?

55:12-20 The psalmist's enemy was once a friend; memories of that close relationship bring him pain (see 31:11).

55:15 let the grave: Hebrew let Sheol (see note on 6:5). See "Prayers for Vengeance" at Ps 137, p. 1017.

55:19-21 God is good and faithful, but the psalmist's enemies and so-called friend are deceitful and wicked.

55:22-23 The psalmist commits all his cares to the LORD.

55:23 To die young means that one fails to experience God's full blessing (cp. Prov 3:2, 16).

Ps 56 This individual lament moves from petition to confidence two times (56:1-4, 5-13).

56: TITLE A psalm: Hebrew miktam. This may be a literary or musical term. • David was seized by Philistines concerned about his loyalties and brought before King Achish (1 Sam 21:10-15).

56:4 mere mortals: Or mere flesh, in contrast to the immortal and infinitely more powerful God (see Isa 2:22).

56:5-7 The psalmist specifies his charge against his attackers as he prays for their evil to cease.

56:8 The psalmist makes a play on the Hebrew words translated sorrows (Hebrew nod) and bottle (Hebrew no'd). The word translated "sorrows" can also be translated "wanderings."

56:11 mere mortals (Hebrew 'adam): The psalm also uses two other words for man: 'enosh ("people," 56:1) and basar ("mere mortals," 56:4). All express the ideas of mortality and finitude.

¹² I will fulfill my vows to you, O God, and will offer a sacrifice of thanks for your help.

¹³ For you have rescued me from death;
you have kept my feet from slipping.
So now I can walk in your presence,
O God,
in your life-giving light.

PSALM 57

*For the choir director: A psalm of David, regarding the time he fled from Saul and went into the cave. To be sung to the tune
"Do Not Destroy!"*

¹ Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy!
⁴ I look to you for protection.
I will hide beneath the shadow of your wings
until the danger passes by.

² I cry out to God Most High, to God who will fulfill his purpose
for me.

³ He will send help from heaven to rescue me,
disgracing those who hound me.

Interlude

My God will send forth his unfailing love and faithfulness.

⁴ I am surrounded by fierce lions who greedily devour human prey—whose teeth pierce like spears and arrows,
and whose tongues cut like swords.

⁵ Be exalted, O God, above the highest
heavens!
May your glory shine over all the
earth.

⁶ My enemies have set a trap for me.
I am weary from distress.
They have dug a deep pit in my path,
but they themselves have fallen into it.

Interlude

⁷ My heart is confident in you, O God;
my heart is confident.
No wonder I can sing your praises!

⁸ Wake up, my heart!
Wake up, O lyre and harp!
I will wake the dawn with my song.

⁹ I will thank you, Lord, among all the
people.
I will sing your praises among the nations.

¹⁰ For your 'unfailing love is as high as the heavens.
Your faithfulness reaches to the clouds.

¹¹ Be exalted, O God, above the highest heavens.
May your glory shine over all the earth.

PSALM 58

For the choir director: A psalm of David, to be sung to the tune "Do Not Destroy!"

¹ Justice—do you rulers know the meaning of the word?

Do you judge the people fairly?

² No! You plot injustice in your hearts.
You spread violence throughout the land.

³ These wicked people are born sinners; even from birth they have lied and gone their own way.

⁴ They spit venom like deadly snakes; they are like cobras that refuse to listen,

Ps 57 The psalmist's cry for mercy and protection quickly turns into an affirmation of trust and confidence in the Lord (57:1-4). When the wicked fall into their own traps (57:6), the psalmist will praise the Lord (57:7-10).

57:1 shadow of your wings: This may be a literary or musical term.

• David . . . fled from Saul and went into the cave: See 1 Sam 22:1 or 24:1-8.

57:1 shadow of your wings: As a bird protects its young, God protects the one who trusts in him (see 17:8).

57:2 God Most High (Hebrew 'elohim-'elyon) is a generic title for God, who is more powerful than all real or imagined supernatural beings (see 91:1; 97:9; Gen 14:18-22). • who will fulfill his purpose: Or who will end my [trouble], or who deals kindly with me.

57:3-4 These verses are a prayer for rescue from powerful enemies. The metaphor of fierce lions describes human enemies; the psalmist feels unable to escape them without God's intervention (see also 35:11-21; 124:6).

57:5 This verse is repeated in 57:11 and 108:5. • God's glory—his manifest presence that excludes all evil (8:1; 19:1-4; 24:7)—will fill the whole created order (Isa 6:3).

57:7-11 This section is repeated with a few modifications in 108:1-5.

57:7-8 The poet is confident that God will end the night of evil (cp. 56:13).

57:10-11 God's glory extends to the whole universe, as will praise for his unfailing love and faithfulness.

Ps 58 The administration of justice is a mark of good government. God expects nothing less from his people. The psalmist condemns Israel's leaders for abusing their power, and he calls on the Lord to rain down his curses upon the wicked. The demonstration of divine justice will reassure the godly that God is just.

58:1 TITLE A psalm: Hebrew miktam. This may be a literary or musical term.

58:1-5 The administrators of justice were furthering their own interests rather than those of the needy. The absence of justice gradually resulted in a violent society.

58:1 rulers (or gods): This designation was used for high officials and administrators of justice (82:1, 6). Elsewhere, it might refer to angelic creatures (89:7) or to the gods of the nations (82:1; Dan 11:36).

58:3 All human beings are born sinners (see 51:5); however, whereas the wicked indulge their sinful nature, the godly fight against it (Rom 7:19-23; Jas 4:1-10).

58:4 Venom here means poisonous speech (see 140:3).

PSALM 59

*For the choir director: A psalm of David, regarding the time Saul sent soldiers to watch David's house in order to kill him.
To be sung to the tune "Do Not Destroy!"*

- 1 Rescue me from my enemies, O God.
Protect me from those who have come to destroy me.
- 2 Rescue me from these criminals;
save me from these murderers.
- 3 They have set an ambush for me.
Fierce enemies are out there waiting,
LORD,
though I have not sinned or offended
them.
- 4 I have done nothing wrong,
yet they prepare to attack me.

Wake up! See what is happening and help me!

5 O LORD God of Heaven's Armies, the God of Israel,
wake up and punish those hostile
nations.
Show no mercy to wicked traitors.

Interlude

- 6 They come out at night, snarling like vicious dogs
as they prowl the streets.
- 7 Listen to the filth that comes from their mouths;
their words cut like swords.
"After all, who can hear us?" they sneer.
- 8 But LORD, you laugh at them.
You scoff at all the hostile nations.
- 9 You are my strength; I wait for you to
rescue me,
for you, O God, are my fortress.
- 10 In his unfailing love, my God will stand
with me.
He will let me look down in triumph on all my enemies.

- 11 Don't kill them, for my people soon forget such lessons;
stagger them with your power, and bring them to their knees,
O Lord our shield.
- 12 Because of the sinful things they say,
because of the evil that is on their lips,
let them be captured by their pride,
their curses, and their lies.
- 13 Destroy them in your anger!
Wipe them out completely!
Then the whole world will know that God reigns in Israel.

Interlude

- 14 My enemies come out at night,
snarling like vicious dogs
as they prowl the streets.
- 15 They scavenge for food
but go to sleep unsatisfied.

58:6 The psalmist calls on God to break the destructive power of the wicked.

58:7 Make their weapons useless in their hands: Or Let them be trodden down and wither like grass. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

58:8 When moving over dry ground, snails dry up.

58:9-10 God's judgment will come suddenly. The certainty of vindication brings joy to the godly.

58:11 Vindication is the reward of those who live for God.

Ps 59 The psalmist laments the power of enemies who conspire with other nations.

59:TITLE A psalm: Hebrew miktam. This may be a literary or musical term. • the time Saul sent soldiers to watch David's house: See 1 Sam 19:11-18.

59:1-2 Protect me (or place me on high): When surrounded by evil, the godly pray for God to set them apart for himself and protect them.

59:4-5 The psalmist asks God to show the treacherous, deceptive, and wicked traitors no mercy (see 25:2).

59:6-8 The wicked threaten like vicious dogs, but the Lord responds with scorn.

59:11-13 The psalmist prays that the wicked will be forced to endure the same agonizing pain they have caused.

59:13 in Israel: Literally in Jacob. See note on 44:4.

59:14-16 The wicked will go unsatisfied, but the psalmist will praise the Lord's power and unfailing love.

59:15 but go to sleep unsatisfied: Or and growl if they don't get enough. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

- 16 But as for me, I will sing about your power.
Each morning I will sing with joy about your unfailing love.
For you have been my refuge,
a place of safety when I am in distress.
- 17 O my Strength, to you I sing praises, for you, O God, are my refuge,
the God who shows me unfailing love.

PSALM 60

For the choir director: A psalm of David useful for teaching, regarding the time David fought Aram-naharaim and Aram-zobah, and Joab returned and killed 12,000 Edomites in the Valley of Salt. To be sung to the tune "Lily of the Testimony."

- 1 You have rejected us, O God, and broken our defenses.
You have been angry with us; now restore us to your favor.
- 2 You have shaken our land and split it open.
Seal the cracks, for the land trembles.
- 3 You have been very hard on us, making us drink wine that sent us reeling.
- 4 But you have raised a banner for those who fear you—a rallying point in the face of attack.

Interlude

- 5 Now rescue your beloved people.
Answer and save us by your power.
- 6 God has promised this by his holiness:
"I will divide up Shechem with joy.
I will measure out the valley of Succoth.

- 7 Gilead is mine,
and Manasseh, too.
Ephraim, my helmet, will produce my warriors,
and Judah, my scepter, will produce my kings.
- 8 But Moab, my washbasin, will become my servant,
and I will wipe my feet on Edom
and shout in triumph over Philistia."
- 9 Who will bring me into the fortified city?
Who will bring me victory over Edom?
- 10 Have you rejected us, O God?
Will you no longer march with our armies?
- 11 Oh, please help us against our enemies,
for all human help is useless.
- 12 With God's help we will do mighty things,
for he will trample down our foes.

PSALM 61

For the choir director: A psalm of David, to be accompanied by stringed instruments.

- 1 O God, listen to my cry!
Hear my prayer!
- 2 From the ends of the earth,
I cry to you for help
when my heart is overwhelmed.
Lead me to the towering rock of safety,
- 3 for you are my safe refuge,
a fortress where my enemies cannot reach me.
- 4 Let me live forever in your sanctuary, safe beneath the shelter of your wings!

60:1 Hebrew mikdam. This may be a literary or musical term.
• useful for teaching: This psalm was taught to young people as part of their education. • regarding the time: See 2 Sam 8:13-14. • Aram-naharaim and Aram-zobah refer to the Arameans of northwest Mesopotamia and Syria (see note on Gen 24:10). • The tune "Lily of the Testimony" is unknown today.

60:1-4 When God's people experience his discipline, they affirm their loyalty and await God's answer.

60:3 wine (Hebrew yayin) that sent us reeling: Yayin, the generic Hebrew term meaning "wine," is often associated with drunkenness (2 Sam 13:28; Isa 5:11; 28:7-8; cp. Ps 104:15; Deut 14:26; Isa 55:1); it symbolized God's judgment of the wicked (75:8; Jer 51:7).

60:4 God raised a banner over his people to serve as a rallying point and as a source of pride and confidence.

• The fear of God that leads to wisdom (111:10) is not weakness; it provides the perspective and strength required to do what is right.

60:5-12 This section is repeated verbatim in 108:6-13.

60:5 The psalmist prays for rescue based on the special relationship between God and his people.

60:6-8 The Lord responds with a message of promise. He shares his land with his people as spoils of war.

60:6 by his holiness: Or in his sanctuary. • Shechem and Succoth represent Israel's heartland.

60:9 Destroying a defeated invader's capital (the fortified city) would help to ensure that they would not attack again. The capital of Edom was Bozrah, located to the southeast of Israel. Only God could grant victory.

Pss 61-63 In these royal prayers, the psalmist longs for God's presence. All three psalms concern themselves with the king's security.

Ps 61 The lamenting psalmist petitions God to protect him and lead him into his presence (61:4-5). He prays for God to extend and protect the king's rule and makes vows to praise God.

61:2 the ends of the earth: This expression has the connotation of a cry that comes from a place far away from God.
• The psalmist's heart is overwhelmed with deep anguish.

61:4 The poet longs for God's presence and seeks entrance into God's home on earth for divine protection and care. To be received into God's sanctuary (literally tent) is the greatest good (see 15:1; 23:6; 24:3-6). The Hebrew word translated sanctuary recalls the Tabernacle and the tent that David built for the Ark (1 Chr 15:1). See also note on John 1:14.
• The shelter of your wings symbolizes God's protection and care (see 9:9; 17:8).

PSALM 62

For Jeduthun, the choir director: A psalm of David.

1^b I wait quietly before God, for my victory comes from him.

2 He alone is my rock and my salvation, my fortress where I will never be shaken.

3 So many enemies against one man—
all of them trying to kill me.
To them I'm just a broken-down wall or a tottering fence.

4 They plan to topple me from my high position.
They delight in telling lies about me.

They praise me to my face but curse me in their hearts.

Interlude

5 Let all that I am wait quietly before God, for my hope is in him.

6 He alone is my rock and my salvation,
my fortress where I will not be shaken.

7 My victory and honor come from God alone.

He is my refuge, a rock where no enemy can reach me.

8 O my people, trust in him at all times.
Pour out your heart to him,
for God is our refuge. Interlude

9 Common people are as worthless as a puff of wind,
and the powerful are not what they appear to be.

If you weigh them on the scales, together they are lighter than a breath of air.

10 Don't make your living by extortion or put your hope in stealing.
And if your wealth increases,
don't make it the center of your life.

11 God has spoken plainly, and I have heard it many times:

Trust in the Lord (Ps 62)

130:5-6; 141:8
Prov 3:5; 22:19
Isa 26:4; 40:31
Jer 17:7
Heb 10:35

The Lord's loving character leads people to trust in him (13:5; 21:7; 32:10; 52:8; 143:8; 17:7; 36:7). His name and reputation also encourage people's trust (9:10; 20:7; 33:21). The godly reject idolatry and any commitment that detracts from their absolute trust in the Lord (31:6; 14; 44:6; 49:6; 13; 52:7).

For the godly, every adversity in life is an occasion for growth in trust (9:9; 25:2; 46:1; 55:23; 57:1; 59:16; 62:8; 78:7). They are not afraid of life (56:3-4, 11; 112:7) but grow more confident (112:7; 119:42; 125:1). David confides that he trusted in the Lord when he was still a nursing child (22:9-10). Trust in the Lord is a form of wisdom that focuses on the Lord (141:8), the rejection of folly and evil, and the pursuit of the Lord's way (31:19; 37:3, 5; 115:11).

The Lord rescues, cares for, and rewards his people who trust in him (7:1; 16:1; 25:20; 26:1; 31:1-2, 4, 19; 34:22; 37:40; 86:2). They are blessed (2:12; 22:4-5, 8; 34:8; 40:4; 84:12) as they long for God's redemption (37:7, 34; 38:15; 40:1; 119:84, 166; 130:5-6). Faith in the Lord gives reason to rejoice and praise the Lord (5:11; 18:30-36; 28:7; 40:3; 56:4; 64:10).

61:5 you have heard my vows: The psalmist's vows might also be a part of ceremonial sacrifices (66:13-15; 76:11; 116:14, 18). He praises and thanks God for his rescue. • The inheritance refers to the promise of the land (see Ps 60), the sacredness of the Temple, the joy of God's presence (119:111), or any similar reward (16:6; 37:9, 11, 18, 22, 29, 34; 127:3).

Ps 62 This psalm expresses confidence in the king and offers prayer for him. The king rests in God despite his difficulties. Although his deceptive and powerful adversaries push hard against him, he remains undaunted. He encourages himself and his people to trust in God and to see their human adversaries from God's perspective, where they appear frail, fleeting, and deceptive (62:9).

62:TITLE Jeduthun: See 1 Chr 25:1; also in Pss 39 and 77.

62:3-4 The enemies desire to topple the king with lies and cunning.

62:4 My high position refers to the royal throne.

62:5-8 The psalmist encourages himself and others to place their hope in God.

62:9-12 Unlike God, humans are transient beings. Even when they thrive, their prosperity is fleeting.

62:9 not what they appear to be: People often try to look stronger and better than they are.

62:10 The crime of extortion means using intimidation and threats to make others give up what is theirs, while stealing is taking what belongs to others.

Power, O God, belongs to you;
¹² unfailing love, O Lord, is yours.
 Surely you repay all people
 according to what they have done.

PSALM 63

A psalm of David, regarding a time when David was in the wilderness of Judah.

¹ O God, you are my God;
 I earnestly search for you.
 My soul thirsts for you;
 my whole body longs for you in this parched and weary land where there is no water.
² I have seen you in your sanctuary and gazed upon your power and glory.
³ Your unfailing love is better than life itself;
 how I praise you!
⁴ I will praise you as long as I live, lifting up my hands to you in prayer.
⁵ You satisfy ¹me more than the richest feast.
 I will praise you with songs of joy.
⁶ I lie awake thinking of you,
¹meditating on you through the night.
⁷ Because you are my helper,
 I sing for joy in the shadow of your wings.
⁸ I cling to you;
 your strong right hand holds me securely.
⁹ But those plotting to destroy me will come to ruin.
 They will go down into the depths of
 the earth.

¹⁰ They will die by the sword and become the food of jackals.
¹¹ But the king will rejoice in God.
 All who swear to tell the truth will praise him,
 while liars will be silenced.

PSALM 64

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

¹ O God, listen to my complaint.
 Protect my life from my enemies' ¹threats.
² Hide me from the plots of this evil mob, from this gang of wrongdoers.
³ They sharpen their tongues like swords and aim their bitter words like arrows.
⁴ They shoot from ambush at the innocent, attacking suddenly and fearlessly.
⁵ They encourage each other to do evil and plan how to set their traps in secret.
 "Who will ever notice?" they ask.
⁶ As they plot their crimes, they say,
 "We have devised the perfect plan!"
 Yes, the human heart and mind are cunning.
⁷ But God himself will shoot them with his arrows,
 suddenly striking them down.
⁸ Their own tongues will ruin them, and all who see them will shake their heads in scorn.
⁹ Then everyone will be afraid;
 they will proclaim the mighty acts of God
 and realize all the amazing things he does.

Prov 18:6-7

62:11-12 Strength and unfailing love remain in balance only in God. He cares for his people by ridding the world of evildoers (see 1:6).

Ps 63 The king longs for God's presence so vividly that he eats, drinks, and sees God's goodness. Though worn out and harassed by the wicked, the king sees God, and this animates him with praise. God becomes his life (63:3), while the wicked perish (63:9).

63:1 Together, soul and whole body refer to a person's entire being. • parched and weary land: When David was living in the desert, he also found himself in a spiritual wasteland, separated from God's people and the sanctuary.

63:2 The psalmist remembers that he had found God to be present in his sanctuary (see 18:6; 61:4; 62:5, 11-12).

63:3 better than life itself: The highest quality of life is found in relationship with God (see 4:7; 63:5; Prov 16:8).

63:6-8 The psalmist reflects and meditates on God's presence through the night. In the absence of light, God is the light. The quietness of the night and the longing for dawn provide time to focus on the true significance of life with the Lord.

63:6 Meditating on God requires focused awareness, concentration, thought, and reflection (see 1:2).

63:9 The wicked were plotting to destroy the psalmist's life through deception and lies, but they would meet their end. • The depths of the earth refers to the place of the dead.

63:10 Wild jackals are associated with desolation and abandonment (Isa 13:20-22; 34:10-15; Jer 9:11; 49:33; 51:37; Lam 5:18; Mal 1:3). The wicked will not receive honor in death; their bodies will be left to scavenging animals (Eccl 6:3; Jer 22:18-19; 36:29-30).

Ps 64 This lament decries the destructive plots and arrogant attitude of the wicked (64:1-6). The psalmist turns to God in prayer and takes heart in God's justice because whatever the wicked do will be undone by the righteous judge. The godly will rejoice and grow in wisdom as they reflect on God's mighty acts.

64:1-6 These verses form a prayer for rescue from bold and powerful liars.

64:3 their tongues . . . bitter words: Liars use their speech to kill. This description might also refer to practicing magic.

64:6 The enemies create a perfect plan to harm the innocent without getting caught. • Human beings will sink to unthinkable depths with evil words, acts, or plans (83:3; see Jer 17:9).

64:7-10 What God does is righteous. God undoes what is wicked and pays the wicked back with what they planned for others.

- 10 The godly will rejoice in the LORD and find shelter in him.
And those who do what is right will praise him.

PSALM 65

For the choir director: A song. A psalm of David.

- 1 What mighty praise, O God, belongs to you in Zion.
We will fulfill our vows to you,
2 for you answer our prayers.
All of us must come to you.
- 3 Though we are overwhelmed by our sins,
you ^aforgive them all.
- 4 What joy for those you choose to bring near,
those who live in your holy courts.
What festivities await us
inside your holy Temple.
- 5 You faithfully answer our prayers with awesome deeds,
O God our savior.
You are the hope of everyone on earth,
even those who sail on distant seas.
- 6 You formed the mountains by your power and armed yourself with mighty
strength.
- 7 You quieted the raging oceans with their pounding waves and silenced the shouting of the nations.
- 8 Those who live at the ends of the earth stand in awe of your wonders.
From where the sun rises to where it sets,
you inspire shouts of joy.
- 9 You take care of the earth and water it, making it rich and fertile.

The river of God has plenty of water;
it provides a bountiful harvest of grain,
for you have ordered it so.

- 10 You drench the plowed ground with rain, melting the clods and leveling the ridges.
You soften the earth with showers and bless its abundant crops.
- 11 You crown the year with a bountiful
harvest;
even the hard pathways overflow with abundance.
- 12 The grasslands of the wilderness become a lush pasture,
and the hillsides blossom with joy.
- 13 The meadows are clothed with flocks of sheep,
and the valleys are carpeted with grain.
They all shout and sing for joy!

PSALM 66

For the choir director: A song. A psalm.

- 1 Shout joyful praises to God, all the earth!
- 2 ^bSing about the glory of his name!
Tell the world how glorious he is.
- 3 Say to God, "How awesome are your deeds!
Your enemies cringe before your mighty power.
- 4 Everything on earth will worship you;
they will sing your praises, shouting your name in glorious songs."

Interlude

- 5 Come and see what our God has done, what awesome miracles he performs for people!
- 6 He made a dry path through the Red Sea,
and his people went across on foot.
There we rejoiced in him.

Ps 65 This psalm recounts the reasons why all people should praise and revere God for his almighty power and merciful care for his universe.

65:1-3 Praise is the appropriate response to God's majestic deeds in redemption (65:3-5) and in nature (65:5-13).

65:1 God alone deserves praise and is worthy to have vows made to him.

65:2 All of us means all humans.

65:3 you forgive: God graciously removes the guilt of sin (see 32:5).

65:4 those you choose to bring near: This includes people from Israel and from other nations. • Only those whom God sees as blameless live in his holy courts (Pss 15, 24). • At the Temple, God's earthly palace, all nations can gather to experience God's holy presence. No structure can separate humans from God (see Rev 21:22).

65:6-7 God brought order to the mountains, the raging oceans, and the pounding waves (see 95:4-5; 104:6-9). • The psalmist compares the chaotic forces of nature with the rebellion of the nations (see Ps 2; 33:6-11; 46:6).

65:8 All over the world (Job 38:13; see Ps 50:1-3 and note), people should stand in awe of the Lord.

65:9-13 The created order provides clear evidence of God's power (65:6-8). He shows his love by maintaining nature. Everything praises the Lord as all the parts fit together harmoniously.

65:9 The river of God and all rivers demonstrate God's victorious power and goodness through the order in nature and the regularity of the harvests (see 1:3; 36:8; 46:4; Ezek 47:6-12; Zech 14:8; Rev 22:1).

65:13 Nature bursts out in praise of the Creator (see 79:13; 96:11-13; 148:3-5, 7-12; Isa 55:12-13).

Ps 66 This anonymous psalm includes two hymns (66:1-12, 13-20) that praise God for his redemption.

66:1-4 The psalmist exhorts nature to join in a mighty chorus to praise God's glory, name, and power.

66:2 The glory of his name represents the perfection of God's character.

66:3 God conquers his enemies (see 18:44; 59:11; 81:15).

66:5-7 The story of the Exodus and God's victory over the sea evokes responses of astonishment (66:5) and worship (66:6). God works miracles . . . for people in order to redeem them for himself.

66:6 Red Sea: Literally the sea.

- ⁷ For by his great power he rules forever.
He watches every movement of the
nations;
let no rebel rise in defiance.

Interlude

- ⁸ Let the whole world bless our God and loudly sing his praises.
⁹ Our lives are in his hands, and he keeps our feet from stumbling.
¹⁰ You have tested us, O God;
you have purified us like silver.
¹¹ You captured us in your net and laid the burden of slavery on our backs.
¹² Then you put a leader over us.
We went through fire and flood, but you brought us to a place of great abundance.
¹³ Now I come to your Temple with burnt offerings
to fulfill the vows I made to you—¹⁴ yes, the sacred vows that I made when I was in deep trouble.
¹⁵ That is why I am sacrificing burnt offerings to you—
the best of my rams as a pleasing aroma,
and a sacrifice of bulls and male goats.

Interlude

- ¹⁶ Come and listen, all you who fear God,
and I will tell you what he did for me.
¹⁷ For I cried out to him for help, praising him as I spoke.
¹⁸ If I had not confessed the sin in my heart,
the Lord would not have listened.
¹⁹ But God did listen!
He paid attention to my prayer.

- ²⁰ Praise God, who did not ignore my prayer
or withdraw his unfailing love
from me.

PSALM 67

For the choir director: A song. A psalm, to be accompanied by stringed instruments.

- ¹ May God be merciful and bless us.
May his face smile with favor on us.

Interlude

- ² May your ways be known throughout the
earth,
your saving power among people everywhere.
³ May the nations praise you, O God.
Yes, may all the nations praise you.
⁴ Let the whole world sing for joy, because you govern the nations with justice
and guide the people of the whole world.

Interlude

- ⁵ May the nations praise you, O God.
Yes, may all the nations praise you.
⁶ Then the earth will yield its harvests, and God, our God, will richly bless us.
⁷ Yes, God will bless us, and people all over the world will fear
him.

PSALM 68

For the choir director: A song. A psalm of David.

- ¹ Rise up, O God, and scatter your
enemies.
Let those who hate God run for their lives.

66:7 God's power brings redemption. The same word occurs in 65:6 for God's power in creation (see also 80:2).

66:8-10 The orderly lives of the redeemed reflect the order of God's world. The Lord protects them from evil and purifies them.

66:9 God guides his people into wisdom and away from folly (17:5; 37:31; 121:3).

66:10 You have tested us, O God: As the silversmith heats silver to remove the dross, God's discipline removes sin from his people (see 12:6).

66:11 God decrees and permits the many trying circumstances his people experience.

66:12 Then you put a leader over us: Or You made people ride over our heads. This expression possibly refers to a foreign ruler who kept the Israelites in submission.

66:15 Vows often included sacrifices of thanksgiving, including burnt offerings (see 20:3; 40:6; 50:8; 51:19).

66:16-20 The private testimony in the conclusion of the psalm parallels the public praise of its opening (66:1-4).

66:18 Confession leads to restoration (see 32:5).

Ps 67 In this anonymous prayer for God's blessing, the psalmist addresses the knowledge and worship of God among the nations (cp. 64:9; 65:8). The prayer requests that God's name be kept holy and that his kingdom come (cp. Matt 6:9-13).

67:1-2 This prayer is based on the priestly blessing found in Num 6:24-26. God's goodness to Israel affects his reputation among the nations (see 96:1-3).

67:3 God's international reputation leads to his praise among the nations

(see 138:4), whose turmoil and rebelliousness will cease when they join Israel in praise of God. • One God rules over all, and the nations will give thanks for God's just rule (see 67:4).

67:4 God brings the ultimate justice that human beings desire (96:10; 98:9).

67:6-7 Bountiful harvests are evidence of God's blessing (Gen 26:12; Isa 30:23).

• all over the world: See 2:8; 96:1-3.

• All will fear him, joining with Israel to acknowledge the God of Israel.

Ps 68 This prayer for God's victorious rule traces God's march from Sinai to Zion (68:7, 16-18, 24). He rescued the nation of Israel from Egypt, guided it through the wilderness, brought it into the Promised Land, and established his kingdom. He is a caring and victorious God, whose nature is unchanging. Therefore, the godly hope and rejoice in the prospect of God's universal dominion.

2 Blow them away like smoke.
Melt them like wax in a fire.
Let the wicked perish in the presence of God.

3 But let the godly rejoice.
Let them be glad in God's presence.
Let them be filled with joy.

4 Sing praises to God and to his name!
Sing loud praises to him who rides
the clouds.

His name is the LORD—
rejoice in his presence!

5 Father to the fatherless, defender of widows—
this is God, whose dwelling is holy.

6 God places the lonely in families;
he sets the prisoners free and gives them joy.

But he makes the rebellious live in a sun-scorched land.

7 O God, when you led your people out from Egypt,
when you marched through the dry wasteland, Interlude

8 the earth trembled, and the heavens poured down rain
before you, the God of Sinai, before God, the God of Israel.

9 You sent abundant rain, O God, to refresh the weary land.

10 There your people finally settled, and with a bountiful harvest, O God, you provided for your needy
people.

11 The Lord gives the word, and a great army brings the good news.

12 Enemy kings and their armies flee, while the women of Israel divide the plunder.

13 Even those who lived among the sheepfolds found treasures—doves with wings of silver and feathers of gold.

14 The ⁴Almighty scattered the enemy
kings
like a blowing snowstorm on Mount Zalmon.

15 The mountains of Bashan are majestic, with many peaks stretching high into the sky.

16 Why do you look with envy, O rugged mountains,
at Mount Zion, where God has chosen to live,
where the LORD himself will live
forever?

17 Surrounded by unnumbered thousands of chariots,
the Lord came from Mount Sinai into his sanctuary.

18 When you ascended to the heights,
you led a crowd of captives.
You received gifts from the people, even from those who rebelled against
you.
Now the LORD God will live among us
there.

68:1-3 These verses form a prayer for God to rise up and scatter his enemies, as he did when Israel entered the Promised Land (cp. Num 10:35-36; Josh 6-12).

68:2 Both smoke and wax represent a transitory existence (22:12-18; 37:20; 102:3).

68:3 The lot of the godly contrasts with that of the wicked (see 1:6).

68:4-6 The psalmist praises God's powerful and compassionate reign.

68:4 him who rides the clouds: This is an ancient description of Baal, a Canaanite deity. The psalmist applies it to the LORD as the true "Rider of the Clouds" (see 68:33; 104:3). God wields power over the clouds and the rain.

68:5 God, the father of all marginalized and needy people, shows them compassion and protects their rights (see 10:14, 18; 69:33; 82:3). • Like his dwelling, the Lord is holy. The supreme example of the holy God coming down to rescue humanity is Jesus Christ.

68:6 God released Israel from slavery in Egypt (Exod 20:2; see Ps 69:33), and he still sets the prisoners free. • The sun-scorched desert represents alienation from God and separation from blessing.

68:8-10 The earth trembled as in an earthquake (see Exod 19:18). • the heavens poured down rain: Wells in the desert and rain showers in Canaan supplied an abundance of water.

68:11 a great army (or a host of women) brings: The Hebrew suggests women singers caroling the good news of victory (see 68:25; Exod 15:20).

68:13 The seminomadic pastoral people who lived among the sheepfolds were surprised to receive silver and gold carvings from the battle.

68:14 The Almighty (Hebrew Shaddai) is an ancient designation for God (see 91:1; Gen 17:1). • The identification of Mount Zalmon is uncertain; it was possibly a mountain in Bashan (see 68:15).

68:15 Bashan is a plateau northeast of Jerusalem and east of the Sea of Galilee that was known for its woods and pastureland (see 22:12; Isa 2:13). The mountains might have included Mount Hermon to the north of the plateau or Mount Zalmon, which might be Jebel ed-Druze on the east.

68:16 Why do you look with envy? Bashan is physically much more impressive than the mountains around Jerusalem, but it was not the home of the Lord. Only Mount Zion enjoyed the privilege of providing God's dwelling place.

68:17 Chariots, the ultimate weapon of the armed forces in the psalmist's day, are an image of the Lord's power to grant victory (20:7; 44:3).

68:18 When you ascended to the heights: The Most High established his reign victoriously in Zion. • a crowd of captives . . . gifts: This is an image of a victorious ruler leading the victory march after battle. Paul applied this image to Jesus Christ (Eph 4:8-13).

19 Praise the Lord; praise God our savior!
For each day he carries us in his arms.

Interlude

20 Our God is a God who saves!
The Sovereign LORD rescues us from death.

21 But God will smash the heads of his enemies, crushing the skulls of those who love their guilty ways.

22 The Lord says, "I will bring my enemies down from Bashan;
I will bring them up from the depths of the sea.

23 You, my people, will wash your feet in their blood, and even your dogs will get their share!"

24 Your procession has come into view,
O God—
the procession of my God and King as he goes into the sanctuary.

25 Singers are in front, musicians behind;
between them are young women playing tambourines.

26 Praise God, all you people of Israel;
praise the LORD, the source of Israel's life.

27 Look, the little tribe of Benjamin leads the way.
Then comes a great throng of rulers from Judah and all the rulers of Zebulun and Naphtali.

28 Summon your might, O God.
Display your power, O God, as you have in the past.

29 The kings of the earth are bringing tribute to your Temple in Jerusalem.

30 Rebuke these enemy nations—these wild animals lurking in the reeds, this herd of bulls among the weaker calves.

Make them bring bars of silver in humble tribute.
Scatter the nations that delight in war.

31 Let Egypt come with gifts of precious metals;
let Ethiopia bring tribute to God.

32 Sing to God, you kingdoms of the earth.
Sing praises to the Lord.

Interlude

33 Sing to the one who rides across the ancient heavens, his mighty voice thundering from the sky.

34 Tell everyone about God's power.
His majesty shines down on Israel;
his strength is mighty in the heavens.

35 God is awesome in his sanctuary.
The God of Israel gives power and strength to his people.

Praise be to God!

PSALM 69

For the choir director: A psalm of David, to be sung to the tune "Lilies."

1 Save me, O God,
for the floodwaters are up to my neck.

2 Deeper and deeper I sink into the mire;
I can't find a foothold.

I am in deep water,
and the floods overwhelm me.

my throat is parched.

Jon 2:3

69:3
Ps 6:6; 119:82, 123
Isa 38:14

68:19-20 The Divine Warrior cares for his people like a shepherd; the people praise him.

68:19 Like a caring father or a shepherd, God carries his people in his arms (see 55:22; 68:5-6).

68:21 God will smash the heads of his enemies: Cp. Gen 3:15.

68:22 God will deal with all enemies, whether from high places (represented by Bashan) or low (the depths of the sea).

68:23 wash: As in Greek and Syriac versions; Hebrew reads shatter.

68:24-27 A great company joins together in the pilgrimage to Zion.

68:28-31 The people pray for God's success and for victory over the enemy nations (68:1-3).

68:29 The conquered kings will bring gifts to the Lord.

68:30 Hostile and rebellious people delight in warfare and insurrection (see 2:1-3).

68:31 of precious metals: Or of rich cloth. • Ethiopia: Hebrew Cush.

68:32-35 The psalmist calls for the people to praise God, who is victorious over his enemies.

68:32 The term kingdoms of the earth includes all nations and power structures.

68:34 When the Lord demonstrates his power, majesty, and strength against the nations, he strengthens his people (see 68:28; 96:4-6).

Pss 69–72 These last four psalms of Book Two contrast with the psalms describing God's mighty acts in creation and in redemption, capped by God's march to Zion (Pss 65–68). Psalms 69–71 portray the king's anguish, and Ps 72 responds with a prayer for God to bless the king.

Ps 69 In this individual lament, the poet expresses his vulnerability, humiliation, and overwhelming pain, asking God to vindicate him for the sake of the righteous.

69:TITLE to the tune "Lilies": Psalm 45 also notes this tune, but Ps 45 celebrates the glory of kingship, whereas Ps 69 is the cry of a tired king who feels abandoned by the Lord.

69:1-2 The psalmist sees himself as almost drowning but still surviving chaotic forces and alienation from God (see 42:7; 69:14, 15; Isa 8:8).

2 Chr 28:9
Isa 53:4

- 4 Those who hate me without cause outnumber the hairs on my head. Many enemies try to destroy me with lies, demanding that I give back what I didn't steal.
- 5 O God, you know how foolish I am; my sins cannot be hidden from you.
- 6 Don't let those who trust in you be ashamed because of me, O Sovereign LORD of Heaven's Armies. Don't let me cause them to be humiliated, O God of Israel.
- 7 For I endure insults for your sake; humiliation is written all over my face.
- 8 Even my own brothers pretend they don't know me; they treat me like a stranger.
- 9 Passion for your house has consumed me, and the insults of those who insult you have fallen on me.
- 10 When I weep and fast, they scoff at me.
- 11 When I dress in burlap to show sorrow, they make fun of me.
- 12 I am the favorite topic of town gossip, and all the drunks sing about me.
- 13 But I keep praying to you, LORD, hoping this time you will show me favor. In your unfailing love, O God, answer my prayer with your sure salvation.
- 14 Rescue me from the mud; don't let me sink any deeper! Save me from those who hate me, and pull me from these deep waters.

- 15 Don't let the floods overwhelm me, or the deep waters swallow me, or the pit of death devour me.
- 16 Answer my prayers, O LORD, for your unfailing love is wonderful. Take care of me, for your mercy is so plentiful.
- 17 Don't hide from your servant; answer me quickly, for I am in deep trouble!
- 18 Come and redeem me; free me from my enemies.
- 19 You know of my shame, scorn, and disgrace. You see all that my enemies are doing.
- 20 Their insults have broken my heart, and I am in despair. If only one person would show some pity; if only one would turn and comfort me.
- 21 But instead, they give me poison for food; they offer me sour wine for my thirst.
- 22 Let the bountiful table set before them become a snare and their prosperity become a trap.
- 23 Let their eyes go blind so they cannot see, and make their bodies shake continually.
- 24 Pour out your fury on them; consume them with your burning anger.
- 25 Let their homes become desolate and their tents be deserted.
- 26 To the one you have punished, they add insult to injury; they add to the pain of those you have hurt.

69:4 John applied this lament to Jesus (John 15:25).

69:5-6 The psalmist confesses his sins and prays that God's response to him will encourage others in similar conditions to place their hope in the Lord.

69:7-12 Mistreated and abandoned by family, friends, and community, the psalmist turns to the Lord for comfort, relief (69:13-18), and redress (69:22-28).

69:9 Though the psalmist concerns himself with God and all that is holy, insults have been his earthly reward. This verse was later applied to Jesus' anger at the Temple's money changers (John 2:17) and to his undeserved suffering (Rom 15:3).

69:10-12 When the psalmist denies himself normal comforts to seek God in prayer, the wicked ridicule him.

69:13-18 The psalmist's only recourse is to pray for rescue and relief from his enemies.

69:19-21 Alone and misunderstood, the psalmist confesses that he cannot bear his doubts. His heart has been broken by his problems.

69:21 poison: Or gall, a bitter substance. * sour wine for my thirst: This description applies to Jesus' suffering (Matt 27:34, 48; Luke 23:36; John 19:28-29).

69:22-28 See "Prayers for Vengeance" at Ps 137, p. 1017.

69:22-23 The psalmist wants God to transfer his suffering (69:3) to his enemies. Paul applied these words to the unbelieving Jews of his day (Rom 11:9-10).

69:22 Let the bountiful table set before them become a snare / and their prosperity become a trap: Greek version reads Let their bountiful table set before them become a snare, / a trap that makes them think all is well. / Let their blessings cause them to stumble, / and let them get what they deserve. Cp. Rom 11:9, where Paul quotes from the Greek translation of this verse.

69:23 and make their bodies shake continually: Greek version reads and let their backs be bent forever. Cp. Rom 11:10, where Paul quotes from the Greek translation.

69:25 Peter quoted this verse after the death of Judas Iscariot (Acts 1:20).

- ²⁷ Pile their sins up high,
and don't let them go free.
- ²⁸ Erase their names from the Book of Life;
don't let them be counted among the righteous.
- ²⁹ I am suffering and in pain.
Rescue me, O God, by your saving power.
- ³⁰ Then I will praise God's name with singing, and I will honor him with thanksgiving.
- ³¹ For this will please the LORD more than sacrificing cattle, more than presenting a bull with its horns and hooves.
- ³² The humble will see their God at work and be glad.
Let all who seek God's help be encouraged.
- ³³ For the LORD hears the cries of the needy;
he does not despise his imprisoned
people.
- ³⁴ Praise him, O heaven and earth,
the seas and all that move in them.
- ³⁵ For God will save Jerusalem and rebuild the towns of Judah.
His people will live there and settle in their own land.
- ³⁶ The descendants of those who obey him will inherit the land, and those who love him will live there in safety.

PSALM 70

For the choir director: A psalm of David, asking God to remember him.

- ¹ Please, God, rescue me!
Come quickly, LORD, and help me.
- ² May those who try to kill me
be humiliated and put to shame.

- May those who take delight in my trouble
be turned back in disgrace.
- ³ Let them be horrified by their shame, for they said, "Aha! We've got him now!"
- ⁴ But may all who search for you
be filled with joy and gladness in you.
May those who love your salvation repeatedly shout, "God is great!"
- ⁵ But as for me, I am poor and needy;
please hurry to my aid, O God.
You are my helper and my savior;
O LORD, do not delay.

PSALM 71

- ¹ O LORD, I have come to you for
protection;
don't let me be disgraced.
- ² Save me and rescue me,
for you do what is right.
Turn your ear to listen to me,
and set me free.
- ³ Be my rock of safety
where I can always hide.
Give the order to save me,
for you are my rock and my fortress.
- ⁴ My God, rescue me from the power of
the wicked,
from the clutches of cruel oppressors.
- ⁵ O LORD, you alone are my hope.
I've trusted you, O LORD, from childhood.
- ⁶ Yes, you have been with me from birth;
from my mother's womb you have cared for me.
No wonder I am always praising you!
- ⁷ My life is an example to many, because you have been my strength and protection.
- ⁸ That is why I can never stop praising
you;
I declare your glory all day long.

69:29-33 The psalmist prays that his pain will turn to praise.

69:31 Making a vow often included a sacrifice (20:3; 51:19; cp. 50:13-14; 51:16).

69:32-33 despise: See 22:24; cp. Matt 25:36; Heb 13:3.

69:34-36 The psalmist prays for Zion, offering a new petition from a new circumstance. He applies the prayer (69:1-33) to the desperate condition of Judah (see 51:18-19).

69:35 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion. See "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947.

Ps 70 This psalm, nearly identical to 40:13-17, contains an urgency (70:1, 5) that fits with the surrounding psalms (cp. 69:17; 71:12).

70:TITLE asking God to remember him: The meaning of this phrase is unknown (also found in 38:TITLE).

Ps 71 This untitled lament by an aging believer is more of a confession of confidence and hope than the cry of someone abandoned by God. The psalmist experienced God's power and protection in his youth (71:5-8) and now prays for rescue from the adversaries who stalk him in his old age (71:9-13). Even in the midst of his peril, he continues to tell of God's past faithfulness and looks forward with hope to a time when he can testify to the next generation that God is faithful and righteous.

71:1-4 The poet has learned to acknowledge God as the reliable rock who will do what is right toward him and his oppressors. See also 31:1-3.

71:5-6 The psalmist has trusted God throughout his life (see 22:9).

9 And now, in my old age, don't set me aside.
Don't abandon me when my strength is failing.

10 For my enemies are whispering
against me.

They are plotting together to kill me.

11 They say, "God has abandoned him.
Let's go and get him,
for no one will help him now."

12 O God, don't stay away.
My God, please hurry to help me.

13 Bring disgrace and destruction on my accusers.

Humiliate and shame those who want to harm me.

14 But I will keep on hoping for your help;
I will praise you more and more.

15 I will tell everyone about your righteousness.
All day long I will proclaim your saving power,
though I am not skilled with words.

16 I will praise your mighty deeds,
O Sovereign LORD.
I will tell everyone that you alone are just.

17 O God, you have taught me from my earliest childhood, and I constantly tell others about the wonderful things you do.

18 Now that I am old and gray,
do not abandon me, O God.
Let me proclaim your power to this new generation,
your mighty miracles to all who come after me.

19 Your righteousness, O God, reaches to the highest heavens.
You have done such wonderful things.
Who can compare with you, O God?

20 You have allowed me to suffer much hardship,
but you will restore me to life again and lift me up from the depths of the earth.

21 You will restore me to even greater honor and comfort me once again.

22 Then I will praise you with music on the harp, because you are faithful to your promises, O my God.
I will sing praises to you with a lyre,
O Holy One of Israel.

Music in Ancient Israel (Ps 71:22-23)

Gen 4:21
Exod 28:34-35
2 Sam 6:5
2 Chr 7:6

The earliest nomadic peoples made music. The first musician mentioned in the Bible is "Jubal . . . the first of all who play the harp and flute" (Gen 4:21). Music and sound were significant from the beginning of Israel's worship in the Tabernacle. In Exodus 28:34-35, Aaron's robe is described as having bells attached to the lower hem that sounded as he entered the Holy Place. In the OT, the first liturgical music mentioned is in the narrative of the transfer of the Ark—David and the Israelites sang, played instruments, and danced to the glory of the Lord (2 Sam 6:5).

This music bore little resemblance to the stately ceremony of Solomon's Temple that is described later (2 Chr 7:1-6). Singers and musicians for the Temple worship were chosen from the tribe of Levi (1 Chr 25:1, 7). They rotated their participation in the weekday, Sabbath, and high holy day services.

David is recognized as inventing the musical instruments used in the Temple (2 Chr 7:6). In the postexilic era, the Levitical singers that are mentioned were the descendants of Asaph, the singing-master appointed by David (Ezr 2:41; Neh 7:44; 11:22-23). From passages such as these, we understand that liturgical music and organization originated in David's time.

71:9-18 The aging believer turns to the Lord for hope. As questions from his adversaries get under his skin and his own strength fails, he asks God to answer his prayers. He does not seek answers to prayer for himself but so that he can tell the story to the next generation.

71:9 The poet prays for continued fellowship with God (see 9:10; 51:11). In his weakness, he needs the Lord's strength even more (see 143:7).

71:10 In their plotting, the psalmist's enemies take counsel and scheme together (2:2; 21:11; 31:13; 35:4; 63:9-10).

71:14 The psalmist contrasts his own goodness with his enemies' evil; he centers his life in the Lord, even during hard times (see 9:17-18; 27:13-14).

71:15 though I am not skilled with words: Or though I cannot count it. The Hebrew can be translated either way.

71:19-21 God's righteous character provides encouragement and strength in the midst of suffering. The wounded psalmist confesses faith in God's ability to transform his misery and weakness into abundant life.

71:20 lift me up from the depths: The psalmist hopes for the renewal of an abundant earthly life. This later became grounds for belief in the resurrection of the dead.

71:21 Being assured of God's comfort also assures the poet of God's presence, care, and goodness (23:4, 6; 86:17). God's comfort enhances the psalmist's sense of being alive (see 119:50).

- ²³ I will shout for joy and sing your praises, for you have ransomed me.
- ²⁴ I will tell about your righteous deeds
all day long,
for everyone who tried to hurt me has been shamed and humiliated.

PSALM 72

A psalm of Solomon.

- ¹ Give your love of justice to the king,
O God,
and righteousness to the king's son.
- ² Help him judge your people in the right way;
let the poor always be treated fairly.
- ³ May the mountains yield prosperity for all,
and may the hills be fruitful.
- ⁴ Help him to defend the poor,
to rescue the children of the needy,
and to crush their oppressors.
- ⁵ May they fear you as long as the sun shines,
as long as the moon remains in the sky.
Yes, forever!
- ⁶ May the king's rule be refreshing like spring rain on freshly cut grass, like the showers that water the earth.

- ⁷ May all the godly flourish during his reign.
May there be abundant prosperity until the moon is no more.
- ⁸ May he reign from sea to sea, and from the Euphrates River to the ends of the earth.
- ⁹ Desert nomads will bow before him;
his enemies will fall before him in the dust.
- ¹⁰ The western kings of Tarshish and other distant lands
will bring him tribute.
The eastern kings of Sheba and Seba will bring him gifts.
- ¹¹ All kings will bow before him,
and all nations will serve him.
- ¹² He will rescue the poor when they cry to
him;
he will help the oppressed, who have no one to defend them.
- ¹³ He feels pity for the weak and the needy,
and he will rescue them.
- ¹⁴ He will redeem them from oppression and violence,
for their lives are precious to him.
- ¹⁵ Long live the king!
May the gold of Sheba be given to him.
May the people always ^apray for him and bless him all day long.

• Isa 45:20

71:22-24 As he awaits God's rescue, the psalmist prepares himself to declare with instruments and voice that God is faithful and righteous.

Ps 72 This royal psalm closes Book Two, with 72:18-20 functioning as an epilogue to all of Book Two. The psalmist reflects on the prospects of David's royal line and on Zion (see Pss 46, 48). He prays that Israel's kings will be good and prosperous, extending the Lord's blessing on his people throughout the whole earth. The surpassing righteousness and dominion sought in this prayer foreshadow the coming of Jesus, the Son of David.

72:1-7 The blessings of justice create a balance in nature, resulting in harmony, prosperity, and fertility.

72:1 love of justice . . . righteousness: Kings in the ancient Near East were expected to represent justice; the standard for Israel's kings was much higher because the Lord was their model.

72:3 The administration of justice transforms the earth into fruitfulness, abundance, harmony, and goodness (see Isa 32:16-17).

72:4 A just ruler will defend the poor against injustice, rescue them from violence, and bring their oppressors to account for their wrongdoing.

72:5 May they fear you: In Hebrew, this clause seems to be a response to the enforcement of justice. The Greek version reads May they endure, which makes this a prayer for longevity (21:4; 72:15, 17).

72:6-7 The administration of justice is refreshing like spring rain, enabling the godly to flourish (see Isa 45:8) like flowers. • until the moon is no more: This phrase means forever (see 89:36-37).

72:8-11 The anointed king will rule over the whole world. Even hostile nations will submit to him. In the ancient Near East, bearing gifts to the king acknowledged his success and his reputation (see 1 Kgs 10).

72:8-9 from sea to sea: This phrase represents the whole world. • Solomon's kingdom extended from the Euphrates River (literally the river) in the east to the Philistine territory in the west (1 Kgs 4:21; see Ps 80:8-11; 89:19-25), where the Mediterranean Sea appeared to be at the ends of the earth (see 2:8). Everyone will bow before this king, including the desert nomads (72:9), his enemies, and all the kings of the world (see Mic 7:17).

72:10 The western kings of Tarshish came from a major colony in the western basin of the Mediterranean.

The eastern kings of Sheba came from an area in southern Arabia, home of the queen of Sheba (1 Kgs 10). • Seba was probably located somewhere south of Egypt, perhaps on the western shore of the Red Sea across from Sheba. • The gifts offered to the king represented a tribute and a token of submission.

72:11 All kings and all nations must submit to the messianic king. The hope expressed in Ps 2:10-11 will be realized (see 96:1-3; 1 Cor 15:25) when other leaders and peoples bow before and serve this king.

72:12-14 The anointed king will rescue the needy. He is not only the judge but also a father to the poor (10:14, 17; 68:5).

72:12 To rescue the poor means to bring an end to the rule of their oppressors.

72:13 Like a father, the king feels pity for those in need (see Mal 3:17).

72:15-17 The just kingdom will be long-lasting and universal. The summary combines the themes of abundance of crops, longevity, tribute of the nations, and the prayer of the nations.

72:15 The people will bless him, fulfilling God's promise to Abraham (Gen 12:3; see Ps 133:3).

3. BOOK THREE (PSS 73–89)

PSALM 73

A psalm of Asaph.

- 1 Truly God is good to Israel, to those whose hearts are pure.
- 2 But as for me, I almost lost my footing.
My feet were slipping, and I was almost gone.

- 3 For I envied the proud
when I saw them prosper despite their wickedness.
- 4 They seem to live such painless lives;
their bodies are so healthy and strong.
- 5 They don't have troubles like other people;
they're not plagued with problems like everyone else.
- 6 They wear pride like a jeweled necklace and clothe themselves with cruelty.
- 7 These fat cats have everything their hearts could ever wish for!
- 8 They scoff and speak only evil;
in their pride they seek to crush others.
- 9 They boast against the very heavens,
and their words strut throughout the earth.
- 10 And so the people are dismayed and confused, drinking in all their words.
- 11 "What does God know?" they ask.
"Does the Most High even know what's happening?"
- 12 Look at these wicked people—enjoying a life of ease while their riches multiply.
- 13 Did I keep my heart pure for nothing?
Did I keep myself innocent for no reason?

72:16 the trees of Lebanon: Lebanon was renowned for its lumber (see note on 2 Chr 2:8).

72:18-19 This doxology concludes Book Two of the Psalter.

72:20 This parenthetical note ends Book Two, which consists mostly of prayers of David. Books Three to Five were probably compiled after Book Two; they include additional psalms of David (Pss 86, 101, 103, 108–110, 122, 124, 131, 133, 138–145).

Book Three (Pss 73–89) Book Three begins with the problem of inequity in the world: The wicked enjoy prosperity while the righteous suffer. Psalm 73 also prepares readers to contemplate the collapse of David's dynasty, which forms the context for the end of Book Three (Ps 89). • Book Three consists of two collections: (1) psalms by Asaph that focus on the restoration of God's people and the judgment of his enemies (Pss 73–83); and (2) psalms by the "Sons of Korah" (Pss 84–89).

Pss 73–75 The apparent prosperity of the wicked (Ps 73) and God's apparent rejection of his people (Ps 74) raise questions about his justice. God is sovereign over the whole world, and he determines the time for judgment (Ps 75).

Ps 73 This wisdom psalm (see "Wisdom Psalms" at Ps 37, p. 937) examines the injustice of the prosperity of the wicked. The psalmist affirms that God is good to the godly but his own experience differs (73:2-12). Nearly overcome by his doubts (73:13-16), the psalmist meets the Lord in the sanctuary and gains a perspective that stretches beyond his life and renews his confidence in God (73:17-26). His disturbing doubts stir a greater passion for truth. He knows that he can trust God and that God will rescue him (73:27-28).

73:1 Asaph was a Levitical singer appointed by David (1 Chr 6:39); his descendants were singers and instrumentalists (1 Chr 15:16-17). Many of the psalms of Asaph (Pss 50, 73–83) were probably written by Asaph's descendants at a later time in Israel's history (e.g., Ps 74).

73:1 People whose hearts are pure are renewed by God's Spirit (51:10), commit themselves to lives of godliness, keep away from anything that is sinful, and enjoy God's presence (see 24:3-4 and notes).

73:2-3 The poet sees the prosperity of the wicked as unfair (see 72:7) and resents it. • The psalmist's feet were slipping from the way of wisdom and godliness (see 17:5; 37:31), but God kept him from falling off the trail entirely (38:16; 66:9; 94:18; 121:3). • when I saw them prosper: Cp. 72:3, 7.

73:4-12 The psalmist presents a caricature of the bliss of the wicked (cp. Ps 1).

73:6 The proud adorn themselves with pride and cruelty rather than wisdom (Prov 1:9).

73:9 The proud boast, claiming that they own everything and are not subject to anyone (see 2:1-3).

73:13-17 Recognizing the ramifications of his discouragement and doubt, the psalmist turns to the Lord and receives special insight.

73:13-14 These rhetorical questions expect a discouraging "yes" for an answer. The psalmist wonders if godliness has become a meaningless ritual (see Mal 3:14-15). • My heart refers to his whole being. • The psalmist's pain comes from discipline and rebuke (39:11; Prov 1:23, 25; 12:1).

- ¹⁴ I get nothing but trouble all day long;
every morning brings me pain.
- ¹⁵ If I had really spoken this way to others,
I would have been a traitor to your
people.
- ¹⁶ So I tried to understand why the wicked
prosper.
But what a difficult task it is!
- ¹⁷ Then I went into your sanctuary, O God, and I finally understood the destiny of
the wicked.
- ¹⁸ Truly, you put them on a slippery path and send them sliding over the cliff to destruction.
- ¹⁹ In an instant they are destroyed, completely swept away by terrors.
- ²⁰ When you arise, O Lord, you will laugh at their silly ideas as a person laughs at dreams in the morning.
- ²¹ Then I realized that my heart was bitter,
and I was all torn up inside.
- ²² I was so foolish and ignorant—
I must have seemed like a senseless animal to you.
- ²³ Yet I still belong to you;
you hold my right hand.
- ²⁴ You guide me with your counsel, leading me to a glorious destiny.
- ²⁵ Whom have I in heaven but you?
I desire you more than anything on
earth.
- ²⁶ My health may fail, and my spirit may grow weak,
but God remains the ^hstrength of my
heart;
he is mine forever.
- ²⁷ Those who desert him will perish, for you destroy those who abandon
you.

- ²⁸ But as for me, how good it is to be near
God!
I have made the ^hSovereign LORD my shelter, and I will tell everyone about the wonderful things you do.

PSALM 74

A psalm of Asaph.

- ¹ O God, why have you rejected us so long?
Why is your anger so intense against the sheep of your own pasture?
- ² Remember that we are the people you chose long ago,
the tribe you redeemed as your own special possession!
And remember Jerusalem, your home here on earth.
- ³ Walk through the awful ruins of the city;
see how the enemy has destroyed
your sanctuary.
- ⁴ There your enemies shouted their victorious battle cries;
there they set up their battle standards.
- ⁵ They swung their axes
like woodcutters in a forest.
- ⁶ With axes and picks,
they smashed the carved paneling.
- ⁷ They burned your sanctuary to the ground.
They defiled the ^hplace that bears your name.
- ⁸ Then they thought, "Let's destroy everything!"
So they burned down all the places where God was worshiped.
- ⁹ We no longer see your miraculous signs.
All the ^kprophets are gone, and no one can tell us when it will end.

73:15-16 If the psalmist had verbalized his suspicions about the futility of godly living, he would have discouraged God's people and given God's enemies an opportunity to blaspheme (cp. John 13:20). Instead, the psalmist internalizes the problem and reflects on it.

73:17-20 At this time, God's sanctuary was the Temple in Jerusalem. There, in God's presence, the psalmist receives special insight (cp. 18:6). • God deals with the wicked over the long term. He waits patiently and gives them time to repent (Ezek 33:11; 2 Pet 3:9); those who do not repent will get what they deserve.

73:21-22 The psalmist's feelings about the prosperity of the wicked had given him a bitter spirit.

73:24 The Lord leads the godly through their troubles and changes their misery into splendor.

73:25-26 Nothing in heaven or on earth is better than being near God.

Ps 74 The psalmist laments the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem (586 BC) with vivid imagery, questions, fresh memories, and a direct appeal for the Lord to act (74:19-23).

74: TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.

74:1-2 In the aftermath of Jerusalem's fall, it seemed that God had forgotten his special covenant relationship with his people.

74:1 God rejected his people because their sin aroused his anger (106:34-46). • Like a tender shepherd, God cares for his people, the sheep of his pasture (Ps 23; 100:3).

74:2 The Lord chose and redeemed Israel from Egypt in the Exodus (cp. Exod 15:13). • your own special possession: This is another expression for "your people" (28:9; 78:62; 94:14; 106:40). • Jerusalem: Hebrew Mount Zion. See "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947.

74:3-8 Like a guide, the psalmist points out to the Lord what took place during the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BC.

10 How long, O God, will you allow our enemies to insult you?
Will you let them dishonor your name forever?

11 Why do you hold back your strong right hand?
Unleash your powerful fist and destroy them.

12 You, O God, are my king from ages past, bringing ^asalvation to the earth.

13 You split the sea by your strength and smashed the heads of the sea monsters.

14 You crushed the heads of Leviathan and let the desert animals eat him.

15 You caused the springs and streams to gush forth, and you dried up rivers that never run dry.

16 Both day and night belong to you;
you made the starlight and the sun.

17 You set the boundaries of the earth, and you made both summer and winter.

18 See how these enemies insult you,
LORD.
A foolish nation has dishonored your name.

19 Don't let these wild beasts destroy your turtledoves.
Don't forget your suffering people forever.

20 Remember your covenant promises, for the land is full of darkness and violence!

21 Don't let the downtrodden be humiliated again.
Instead, let the poor and needy praise your name.

22 Arise, O God, and defend your cause.
Remember how these fools insult you all day long.

23 Don't overlook what your enemies have said or their growing uproar.

PSALM 75

For the choir director: A psalm of Asaph.
A song to be sung to the tune "Do Not Destroy!"

¹ We thank you, O God!
We give thanks because you are near.
People everywhere tell of your wonderful deeds.

² God says, "At the time I have planned,
I will bring justice against the wicked.

³ When the earth quakes and its people live in turmoil,
I am the one who keeps its foundations firm. Interlude

⁴ "I warned the proud, 'Stop your boasting!'
I told the wicked, 'Don't raise your fists!'

⁵ Don't raise your fists in defiance at the heavens or speak with such arrogance.' "

⁶ For no one on earth—from east or west, or even from the wilderness—should raise a defiant fist.

⁷ It is God alone who ^bjudges;
he decides who will rise and who will fall.

⁸ For the LORD holds a cup in his hand that is full of foaming wine mixed with spices.

He pours out the wine in judgment,
and all the wicked must drink it,
draining it to the dregs.

⁹ But as for me, I will always proclaim what God has done;
I will sing praises to the God of Jacob.

¹⁰ For God says, "I will break the strength of the wicked,
but I will increase the power of the godly."

74:12 my king from ages past: The psalmist acknowledges God's power and his historical bond with Israel (5:2; 44:4; 84:3).

74:14 The identification of Leviathan is disputed, ranging from an earthly creature to a mythical sea monster in ancient literature (see 104:26; Job 3:8; 41:1, 12, 22, 31; Isa 27:1). Here, its multiple heads point to the mythical monster.

74:15 springs and streams to gush forth: God provided water in the desert for his people (see 68:8-9; Exod 17:6); he dried up the Red Sea (Exod 14:21) and the Jordan River (Josh 3:17).

74:16 starlight: Or moon; Hebrew reads light.

74:19-23 The poet urges God to act.

Ps 75 This hymn of thanksgiving includes two direct messages from God that provide assurance of his justice (75:2-3, 10). The Lord rebukes arrogant people who defy him, promising to forcibly humble them (75:4-8). Together, the community and the psalmist respond with thanksgiving for God's character (75:1, 9).

75:2-8 The Lord will bring justice in his own time.

75:4-5 The wicked arrogantly defy the heavens—the dwelling place of God. Through their boasting they insist that they are wiser than God.

75:6 No creature has the right to rebel against its Creator.  should raise a defiant fist:* Literally should lift.

75:7-8 The Lord alone is the Judge, with the power to exalt and humble (see 1 Sam 2:7; Luke 1:52).

PSALM 76

*For the choir director: A psalm of Asaph.
A song to be accompanied by stringed instruments.*

- ¹ God is honored in Judah;
his name is great in Israel.
² Jerusalem is where he lives;
Mount Zion is his home.
³ There he has broken the fiery arrows of the enemy,
the shields and swords and weapons of war. Interlude
- ⁴ You are glorious and more majestic than the everlasting mountains.
⁵ Our boldest enemies have been plundered.
They lie before us in the sleep of
death.
No warrior could lift a hand against us.
⁶ At the blast of your breath, O God of Jacob,
their horses and chariots lay still.
⁷ No wonder you are greatly feared!
Who can stand before you when your anger explodes?
⁸ From heaven you sentenced your
enemies;
the earth trembled and stood silent before you.
⁹ You stand up to judge those who do evil,
O God,
and to rescue the oppressed of the earth. Interlude
- ¹⁰ Human defiance only enhances your glory,
for you use it as a weapon.

- ¹¹ Make vows to the LORD your God, and keep them.
Let everyone bring tribute to the Awesome One.
¹² For he breaks the pride of princes, and the kings of the earth fear him.

PSALM 77

For Jeduthun, the choir director: A psalm of Asaph.

- ¹ I cry out to God; yes, I shout.
Oh, that God would listen to me!
² When I was in deep trouble,
I searched for the Lord.
All night long I prayed, with hands lifted toward heaven,
but my soul was not comforted.
³ I think of God, and I moan, overwhelmed with longing for his help. Interlude
- ⁴ You don't let me sleep.
I am too distressed even to pray!
⁵ I think of the good old days,
long since ended,
⁶ when my nights were filled with joyful
songs.
I search my soul and ponder the difference now.
⁷ Has the Lord rejected me forever?
Will he never again be kind to me?
⁸ Is his unfailing love gone forever?
Have his promises permanently failed?
⁹ Has God forgotten to be gracious?
Has he slammed the door on his compassion? Interlude
- ¹⁰ And I said, "This is my fate;

Ps 76 This psalm appears to celebrate a victory. The victory might have been recent, such as over the Assyrians (see note on 76:TITLE; see also Isa 37); or the psalm might be recalling God's great acts of rescue in the past.

76:TITLE to be accompanied by stringed instruments: Greek version reads for the Assyrian.

76:1-3 God's victory over Zion's enemies foreshadows his worldwide victory over all his enemies.

76:2 Jerusalem: Hebrew Salem, another name for Jerusalem (see Gen 14:18).

76:3 God brings an end to the attacks of his enemies (see 46:9).

76:4-6 The psalmist praises God for his achievement and for his glorious majesty.

76:4 The victorious king's splendor, glory, and majesty are greater than anything in the created order (8:1; 29:4; 111:3). • than the everlasting mountains: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads than mountains filled with beasts of prey.

76:7-9 The needy await their victorious God, while the wicked stand in fear of him.

76:7 The word translated feared (Hebrew nora) is a wordplay on the word translated "glorious" in 76:4 (Hebrew na'or).

76:10 for you use it as a weapon: The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

Ps 77 The psalmist laments that God has turned away from him, even though he feels innocent. He reflects on his situation (77:3, 6, 12) and finds hope (see 25:5) in remembering God's past deeds (77:11).

77:1-3 The night provides a special opportunity for prayer and meditation (77:6, 11; see 6:6; 16:7; 17:3; 30:5; 63:6; 119:55, 62, 148).

77:3 I think of God: God's people inevitably face difficult times, but recalling his mighty acts at the beginning of their relationship assures them of God's commitment. • Feeling overwhelmed, the psalmist is unable to deal with the crisis (142:3; 143:4).

77:4-6 As the psalmist meditates at night, he feels so disturbed that he cannot sleep or speak. He has pleasant memories of the past, but he cannot look beyond the present moment into the future.

77:7-9 The psalmist questions his status before God.

77:7 Feeling rejected (see 43:2), the psalmist asks if the situation is permanent.

Interlude

- 16 When the Red Sea saw you, O God, its waters looked and trembled!
The sea quaked to its very depths.
- 17 The clouds poured down rain;
the thunder rumbled in the sky.
Your arrows of lightning flashed.
- 18 Your thunder roared from the whirlwind;
the lightning lit up the world!
The earth trembled and shook.
- 19 Your road led through the sea, your pathway through the mighty waters—
a pathway no one knew was there!
- 20 You led your people along that road like a flock of sheep, with Moses and Aaron as their shepherds.

PSALM 78

A psalm of Asaph.

- 1 O my people, listen to my instructions.
Open your ears to what I am saying,

- 2 for I will speak to you in a parable.
I will teach you hidden lessons from our past—
- 3 stories we have heard and known, stories our ancestors handed down to us.
- 4 We will not hide these truths from our children;
we will tell the next generation about the glorious deeds of the LORD, about his power and his mighty wonders.
- 5 For he issued his laws to Jacob;
he gave his instructions to Israel.
He commanded our ancestors to teach them to their children, 6 so the next generation might know
them—
even the children not yet born—and they in turn will teach their own children.
- 7 So each generation should set its hope anew on God,
not forgetting his glorious miracles and obeying his commands.
- 8 Then they will not be like their ancestors—
stubborn, rebellious, and unfaithful, refusing to give their hearts to God.
- 9 The warriors of Ephraim, though armed with bows, turned their backs and fled on the day of battle.
- 10 They did not keep God's covenant and refused to live by his instructions.
- 11 They forgot what he had done—
the great wonders he had shown
them,
- 12 the miracles he did for their ancestors on the plain of Zoan in the land of Egypt.

77:10-12 The memories of God's mighty works in the past fill the psalmist's mind.

77:10 The psalmist fears that God's hand of protection (44:3; 77:15; Exod 6:6) and favor (16:7-8; 110:1) is now against him for no apparent reason.

77:13-15 This central section of the poem reflects on God as the holy and powerful redeemer.

77:16 the Red Sea: Literally the waters. The Canaanites attributed divine power to the sea, but God is the one who made the sea and uses it for his own purposes.

Ps 78 This wisdom psalm exhorts the people to learn wisdom and faithfully pass it on.

78: TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.

78:1-8 The prologue is an invitation to learn wisdom.

78:2 The psalmist recites Israel's story (78:5-72) in a parable in order to teach wisdom and insight. • Jesus quoted this verse to explain why he taught in parables (Matt 13:35).

78:3-4 This story of what God has done should be told from generation to generation (see Deut 6:20-25; Prov 4:1-4).

78:5-6 The telling of the story should motivate God's people to obey what he commanded (Deut 6:4-9).

78:7-8 God holds each generation responsible for its own response, which should be to maintain faith and hope

(see 9:18; 27:14) and avoid being stubborn, rebellious, and unfaithful (see Deut 9:6-7; 10:16; 30:6; 31:27).

78:9-11 Ephraim, the second son of Joseph, received a special blessing from Jacob (Gen 48:15-20; 49:22-26; Deut 33:13-17). The land that his descendants received included fertile valleys and strategic roads (Judg 8:2). However, the people of Ephraim did not live in obedience to God's gracious covenant.

78:12-16 The focus shifts from Ephraim (78:9-11) to Israel as a whole as the psalmist reflects on God's power in Egypt (see 81:4-7) and in the wilderness.

78:12 The miracles are the ten plagues against Egypt that God performed during Israel's captivity (Exod 7-12).

- 13 For he divided the sea and led them through, making the water stand up like walls!
- 14 In the daytime he led them by a cloud,
and all night by a pillar of fire.
- 15 He split open the rocks in the wilderness to give them water, as from a gushing spring.
- 16 He made streams pour from the rock, making the waters flow down like a river!
- 17 Yet they kept on sinning against him, rebellious against the Most High in the desert.
- 18 They stubbornly tested God in their hearts, demanding the foods they craved.
- 19 They even spoke against God himself,
saying,
"God can't give us food in the wilderness.
- 20 Yes, he can strike a rock so water gushes out, but he can't give his people bread and meat."
- 21 When the LORD heard them, he was furious.
The fire of his wrath burned against Jacob.
Yes, his anger rose against Israel,
- 22 for they did not believe God or trust him to care for them.
- 23 But he commanded the skies to open;
he opened the doors of heaven.
- 24 He rained down 'manna for them to eat;
he gave them bread from heaven.
- 25 They ate the food of angels!
God gave them all they could hold.
- 26 He released the east wind in the heavens and guided the south wind by his mighty power.
- 27 He rained down meat as thick as dust—birds as plentiful as the sand on the seashore!
- 28 He caused the birds to fall within their camp and all around their tents.
- 29 The people ate their fill.
He gave them what they craved.
- 30 But before they satisfied their craving, while the meat was yet in their mouths,
- 31 the anger of God rose against them,
and he killed their strongest men.
He struck down the finest of Israel's young men.
- 32 But in spite of this, the people kept sinning.
Despite his wonders, they refused to trust him.
- 33 So he ended their lives in failure, their years in terror.
- 34 When God began killing them,
they finally sought him.
They repented and took God seriously.
- 35 Then they remembered that God was their ^arock, that God ^bMost High was their redeemer.
- 36 But all they gave him was lip service;
they lied to him with their tongues.
- 37 Their hearts were not loyal to him.
They did not keep his covenant.
- 38 Yet he was merciful and 'forgave their sins and did not destroy them all.
Many times he held back his anger and did not unleash his fury!
- 39 For he remembered that they were merely mortal, gone like a breath of wind that never returns.
- 40 Oh, how often they rebelled against him in the wilderness
and grieved his heart in that dry wasteland.
- 41 Again and again they tested God's patience and provoked the Holy One of Israel.
- 42 They did not remember his power and how he rescued them from their enemies.

78:13 God divided the sea when Israel crossed through the Red Sea (see Exod 14–15).

78:14 God used a cloud and a pillar of fire to guide and protect Israel in the wilderness (Exod 13:21–22).

78:17–31 Israel rebelled in the wilderness despite God's abundant provision.

78:23–25 Abundance comes through the doors of heaven (Gen 8:2; 2 Kgs 7:2; Mal 3:10). • Israel ate manna for forty years in the wilderness (Exod 16:31–36; John 6:31).

78:26–31 God powerfully satisfied the people's desires, but they did not respond with gratitude or faith. Therefore, God exercised his justice.

78:32–39 Israel's rebellion resulted in God's judgment, but even their short-lived and insincere repentance motivated God to exercise forbearance.

78:33 An entire generation died in the wilderness (Num 14:22–23, 28–35).

78:34–39 Israel's continued existence, in spite of the people's rebellion and unbelief (78:7–8), was due to God's compassion.

78:34 They repented: This demonstration of zeal was not sincere.

78:35–39 The Israelites remembered the right doctrine (9:9; 91:1), but they did not allow God to change their hearts (Lev 26:41). • God Most High: Hebrew 'el-'elyon.

78:40–55 The Israelites rebelled even though the Lord had rescued them from powerful plagues.

43 They did not remember his miraculous signs in Egypt, his wonders on the plain of Zoan.

44 For he turned their rivers into blood, so no one could drink from the streams.

45 He sent vast swarms of flies to consume them and hordes of frogs to ruin them.

46 He gave their crops to caterpillars; their harvest was consumed by locusts.

47 He destroyed their grapevines with hail and shattered their sycamore-figs with sleet.

48 He abandoned their cattle to the hail,
their livestock to bolts of lightning.

49 He loosed on them his fierce anger—
all his fury, rage, and hostility.
He dispatched against them
a band of destroying ʾangels.

50 He turned his anger against them;
he did not spare the Egyptians' lives
but ravaged them with the plague.

51 He killed the oldest son in each Egyptian family,
the flower of youth throughout the land of Egypt.

52 But he led his own people like a flock of sheep, guiding them safely through the wilderness.

53 He kept them safe so they were not afraid;
but the sea covered their enemies.

54 He brought them to the border of his holy land, to this land of hills he had won for them.

55 He drove out the nations before them;
he gave them their inheritance by lot.
He settled the tribes of Israel into their homes.

56 But they kept testing and rebelling against God Most High.
They did not obey his laws.

57 They turned back and were as faithless as their parents.
They were as undependable as a crooked bow.

58 They angered God by building shrines to other gods;
they made him jealous with their idols.

59 When God heard them, he was very angry, and he completely rejected Israel.

Rev 6:15-17; 11:18;
19:11-16

The psalmists understood Israel's exodus from Egypt as an object lesson about God's anger (78:18-64). God expressed his anger against the Egyptians while sparing his people (78:49-50). But Israel became the object of his wrath during the wilderness journey, when the people provoked the Lord to anger through their rebelliousness (78:31; 106:29, 32; see Rom 2:5). God took an oath that that rebellious generation would not enter his place of rest (95:8-11), and they died in the wilderness. But he restrained his wrath (78:38) and did not destroy Israel as it deserved.

The Lord is just and righteous in his judgment (7:11); he is patient and slow to anger (86:15; 103:8; 145:8). The wicked have stirred up God's wrath and deserve his judgment (see 2:5, 12; 21:9; 56:7; 59:13; 69:24; 79:6; see also Rom 1:18). The purpose of his wrath is to remove evildoers and extend his kingdom. Evil must come to an end, and the wicked must perish for the godly to inherit the earth (Ps 37).

God's people experience his wrath when they sin. The experience, though painful, is brief in comparison to their joy in God's mercy and goodness (30:5). He will not be angry forever (103:9). God's wrath brings death (106:23), but his forgiveness and mercy restore his people (see 85:2-7).

God is love, and he loves people with justice and holiness. In love for us, he poured out his anger on Jesus Christ (Rom 3:25; 5:9). Jesus received the full brunt of God's wrath so that he could atone for our sins and reconcile us to God. He saves his people (1 Jn 2:2) and rules from heaven at God's right hand (Heb 2:17). Jesus is now the agent of God's wrath against the wicked (2:5-9; 110:5-7; Eph 5:6; Rev 6:15-17; 11:18; 19:11-16).

78:51 throughout the land of Egypt:
Literally in the tents of Ham.

78:56-64 Israel's rebellion desecrated

the Promised Land. The people built shrines to false gods and worshiped idols (78:58) during the period of the judges (e.g., Judg 2:11; 3:7; 17-18).

78:60 God abandoned his dwelling at Shiloh because of the people's idol worship (1 Sam 4:11; Jer 7:12).

PSALM 79

A psalm of Asaph.

- ¹ O God, pagan nations have conquered your land,
your special possession.
They have defiled your holy Temple and made Jerusalem a heap of ruins.
- ² They have left the bodies of your servants
as food for the birds of heaven.
The flesh of your godly ones has become food for the wild animals.
- ³ Blood has flowed like water all around
Jerusalem;
no one is left to bury the dead.
- ⁴ We are mocked by our neighbors, an object of scorn and derision to those around us.
- ⁵ O LORD, how long will you be angry with us? Forever?
How long will your jealousy burn like fire?
- ⁶ Pour out your wrath on the nations that refuse to acknowledge you—on kingdoms that do not call upon your name.
- ⁷ For they have devoured your people Israel, making the land a desolate wilderness.
- ⁸ Do not hold us guilty for the sins of our ancestors!
Let your compassion quickly meet our needs,
for we are on the brink of despair.
- ⁹ Help us, O God of our salvation!
Help us for the glory of your name.
Save us and ^dforgive our sins for the honor of your name.
- ¹⁰ Why should pagan nations be allowed to scoff,
asking, "Where is their God?"
Show us your vengeance against the nations,

Ps 115:2

78:67 The tribe of Ephraim was not completely rejected, but God favored Judah (78:68).

78:68-69 In the choice of Mount Zion instead of Shiloh as God's sanctuary on earth, God moved from the north to the south (see Ps 69).

78:70-72 The God who had turned against his own people (78:62) chose David, a shepherd (Gen 46:34; 1 Sam 16:10-11), to become their shepherd (78:52; cp. 23:1).

Ps 79 This lament describes the occasion of Jerusalem's fall in 586 BC. The early history of Israel's rebellions described in Ps 78 provoked God's wrath, resulting in the desolation of Zion described here as the defilement of the Temple and the disgraced bodies that littered the landscape. The psalmist then prays for forgiveness and rescue (79:8-9), as well as for God to pay back the nation's enemies (79:12-13). Other psalms lamenting the Exile include Ps 42-44, 102, 107, 126, 137.

79:1-4 The poet laments the desecration of the Temple and the success of the enemy.

79:1 your special possession: This phrase might refer to the land, the Temple (see 61:5), or the people (see 79:2; 78:71).

79:5-8 The intensity of God's judgment surprises the people; they cry out in despair for compassion, forgiveness, and relief. Verses 6-7 are repeated almost verbatim in Jer 10:25.

79:6 The repentant among God's people ask him not to vent his anger on them but on their wicked and unrepentant enemies.

79:7 devoured your people Israel: Literally devoured Jacob. See note on 44:4.

79:8 The people's accumulation of past sins contributed to the Exile (2 Kgs 17:7-23; 24:3-4); however, the people perished because of their own sins (Jer 31:30; Ezek 18:20).

79:9-11 The people ask God to rescue them. Although Israel's sins caused the tragedy, the pagan nations must also be held responsible for the bloodshed.

PSALM 80

For the choir director: A psalm of Asaph, to be sung to the tune "Lilies of the Covenant."

¹ Please listen, O Shepherd of Israel, you who lead Joseph's descendants like a flock.

O God, enthroned above the cherubim, display your radiant glory

² to Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh.
Show us your mighty power.
Come to rescue us!

³ Turn us again to yourself, O God.
Make your face shine down upon us.
Only then will we be saved.

⁴ O LORD God of Heaven's Armies, how long will you be angry with our prayers?

⁵ You have fed us with sorrow and made us drink tears by the bucketful.

⁶ You have made us the scorn of neighboring nations.
Our enemies treat us as a joke.

⁷ Turn us again to yourself, O God of Heaven's Armies.
Make your face shine down upon us.
Only then will we be saved.

⁸ You brought us from Egypt like a grapevine;
you drove away the pagan nations and transplanted us into your land.

⁹ You cleared the ground for us, and we took root and filled the land.

¹⁰ Our shade covered the mountains;
our branches covered the mighty cedars.

¹¹ We spread our branches west to the Mediterranean Sea;
our shoots spread east to the Euphrates River.

¹² But now, why have you broken down our walls
so that all who pass by may steal our fruit?

¹³ The wild boar from the forest devours it,
and the wild animals feed on it.

¹⁴ Come back, we beg you, O God of Heaven's Armies.
Look down from heaven and see our plight.

Take care of this grapevine

¹⁵ that you yourself have planted, this son you have raised for yourself.

¹⁶ For we are chopped up and burned by our enemies.
May they perish at the sight of your frown.

¹⁷ Strengthen the man you love,
the ^eson of your choice.

79:12 The Exile resulted in national suffering and in individual searching for the Lord. • pay back: See 1:6; 94:2; Jer 32:18. • The expression seven times signifies something complete. • Israel's neighbors included Edom, Moab, and Ammon (see 137:7; 2 Kgs 24:2; Obad 1:1-21).

Ps 80 This psalm of lament might originate with the remnant of the northern kingdom after its fall in 722 bc. The people call on God as their Shepherd and as the God of Heaven's Armies in the hope that he will return to them and restore them. They remember the Exodus and their special relationship with the Lord and conclude with an expression of renewed commitment to him (80:18).

80:TITLE The tune "Lilies of the Covenant" is unknown today.

80:1-3 The psalmist urgently calls upon the Lord to act.

80:1-2 God is the Shepherd of Israel: See also 23:1; 28:9; 78:52-53. • radiant glory . . . power: These expressions (145:11) refer to God's manifest presence.

80:3 This verse is repeated (with an increasing crescendo) in 80:7, 19.

80:4-7 The people cry out for rescue from the shame of their recent defeat. The enemy's victory is less devastating, however, than the knowledge that they themselves are objects of God's wrath.

80:6 the scorn: As in Syriac version; Hebrew reads the strife.

80:8-11 Israel has a glorious past, beginning with its redemption from Egypt.

80:8-9 Israel had been a prosperous grapevine (Gen 1:28; Gal 5:22-23) that God transplanted into the land of Canaan at the time of the conquest. However, the people forgot the source of their prosperity and chose to do evil (Isa 5:1-7; Hos 10:1).

80:10-11 Solomon's kingdom had extended west to the Mediterranean Sea and east to the Euphrates River (literally west to the sea, . . . east to the river; see 72:8-9; 89:25; 1 Kgs 4:21).

80:12 broken down our walls: God no longer defended Israel (Isa 5:5).

80:13 The surrounding nations were ceremonially unclean, like a wild boar or vicious wild animals.

80:15 Israel was the son that God had brought out of Egypt (see Hos 11:1) and planted in the Holy Land.

80:16-19 The community prays for God to change their desperate situation and restore them. They are still the Lord's chosen people.

80:17 The son of your choice was probably the northern kingdom of Israel, although it might allude to the king of David's dynasty (110:1).

- ¹⁸ Then we will never abandon you again.
Revive us so we can call on your name once more.
- ¹⁹ Turn us again to yourself, O LORD God of Heaven's Armies.
Make your face shine down upon us.
Only then will we be saved.

PSALM 81

For the choir director: A psalm of Asaph, to be accompanied by a stringed instrument.

- ¹ Sing praises to God, our strength.
Sing to the God of Jacob.
- ² Sing! Beat the tambourine.
Play the sweet lyre and the harp.
- ³ Blow the ram's horn at new moon, and again at full moon to call a festival!
- ⁴ For this is required by the decrees of Israel;
it is a regulation of the God of Jacob.
- ⁵ He made it a law for Israel when he attacked Egypt to set us free.
- I heard an unknown voice say, ⁶ "Now I will take the load from your shoulders;
I will free your hands from their heavy tasks.
- ⁷ You cried to me in trouble, and I saved
you;
I answered out of the thundercloud and tested your faith when there was no water at Meribah. Interlude
- ⁸ "Listen to me, O my people, while I give you stern warnings.
O Israel, if you would only listen
to me!

- ⁹ You must never have a foreign god;
you must not bow down before a false
god.
- ¹⁰ For it was I, the LORD your God, who rescued you from the land of Egypt.
Open your mouth wide, and I will fill it with good things.
- ¹¹ "But no, my people wouldn't listen.
Israel did not want me around.
- ¹² So I let them follow their own stubborn desires,
living according to their own ideas.
- ¹³ Oh, that my people would listen to me!
Oh, that Israel would follow me,
walking in my paths!
- ¹⁴ How quickly I would then subdue their
enemies!
How soon my hands would be upon their foes!
- ¹⁵ Those who hate the LORD would cringe before him;
they would be doomed forever.
- ¹⁶ But I would feed you with the finest wheat.
I would satisfy you with wild honey from the rock."

PSALM 82

A psalm of Asaph.

- ¹ God presides over heaven's court;
he pronounces judgment on the heavenly beings:
- ² "How long will you hand down unjust decisions
by favoring the wicked? Interlude
- ³ "Give justice to the poor and the orphan; uphold the rights of the oppressed and the destitute.

Ps 81 This warning message invites Israel to worship only the Lord and to enjoy the fullness of his blessing.

81:1 TITLE to be accompanied by a stringed instrument: Hebrew according to the gittith.

81:1-3 As a prelude to the message of warning, the psalmist invites Israel to contemplate their God in song and dance.

81:2 An Israelite tambourine was a hand drum—a round frame covered with a skin, used as a percussion instrument during festivities, often to accompany dancing (68:25; 149:3; 150:4). • The sweet lyre and the harp, both stringed instruments, are the instruments most frequently mentioned in the psalms (e.g., 33:2; 57:8; 71:22; 150:3).

81:3 The ram's horn mustered armies and announced special holy days (47:5; 98:6). • new moon: The first day of the lunar month marked a festival.

81:4-5 The festival, a time to celebrate and listen to the Lord, took place at God's appointed time.

81:5 for Israel: Literally for Joseph. The tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh (the sons of Joseph) are used here to refer to the entire nation of Israel.

81:6-7 The Lord heard Israel's cry in Egypt and rescued them from oppressive slavery.

81:8-10 God pleads with his people to remember the covenant and the Ten Commandments.

81:10 God emphasizes that he and no one else rescued Israel. • The nation should open its mouth wide to take in God's word (cp. Deut 8:3; Ezek 3:1).

81:11-16 The Lord helps Israel to understand that their failure was not because of his weakness.

81:13-14 God wants to give his children his goodness, but only if they listen (Isa 1:18-19; 28:12; 48:18-19; see Deut 6:3).

• God promises to subdue the enemies (Deut 9:3) of those who walk the paths of obedience and loyalty. He will also richly feed his people (Isa 1:19).

Ps 82 God condemns those who mistreat the helpless.

82:1 God presides and stands ready to render judgment (see Isa 3:13). • heaven's court: See Job 1:6. • heavenly beings: See notes on 29:1-2; 58:1.

82:2 Since justice marks God's reign (89:4), he opposes favoring the wicked. So the psalmist is perplexed and cries out to God for justice (82:3-4, 8).

4 Rescue the poor and helpless; deliver them from the grasp of evil
people.

5 But these oppressors know nothing;
they are so ignorant!

They wander about in darkness, while the whole world is shaken to the core.

6 I say, 'You are gods;
you are all children of the 'Most High.

7 But you will die like mere mortals and fall like every other ruler.' "

8 Rise up, O God, and judge the earth, for all the nations belong to you.

PSALM 83

A song. A psalm of Asaph.

1 O God, do not be silent!
Do not be deaf.

Do not be quiet, O God.

2 Don't you hear the uproar of your
enemies?

Don't you see that your arrogant enemies are rising up?

3 They devise crafty schemes against your
people;

they conspire against your precious
ones.

4 "Come," they say, "let us wipe out Israel
as a nation.

We will destroy the very memory of its existence."

5 Yes, this was their unanimous decision.
They signed a treaty as allies against
you—

6 these Edomites and Ishmaelites;
Moabites and Hagrites;

7 Gebalites, Ammonites, and Amalekites;
and people from Philistia and Tyre.

8 Assyria has joined them, too, and is allied with the descendants of Lot. Interlude

9 Do to them as you did to the Midianites and as you did to Sisera and Jabin at the Kishon River.

10 They were destroyed at Endor, and their decaying corpses fertilized
the soil.

11 Let their mighty nobles die as Oreb and Zeeb did.

Let all their princes die like Zebah and Zalmunna,

12 for they said, "Let us seize for our own use these pasturelands of God!"

13 O my God, scatter them like tumbleweed, like chaff before the wind!

14 As a fire burns a forest and as a flame sets mountains ablaze,

15 chase them with your fierce storm;
terrify them with your tempest.

16 Utterly disgrace them until they submit to your name,
O LORD.

17 Let them be ashamed and terrified
forever.

Let them die in disgrace.

18 Then they will learn that you alone are called the LORD, that you alone are the Most High, supreme over all the earth.

82:5 The unjust oppressors cannot bring or restore order. They wander about in darkness, unmoved by circumstances even when the whole world order falls apart around them (cp. 11:3).

82:6-7 The gods (see notes on 29:1-2; 58:1), like mere mortals, cannot escape the judgment common to human rulers. Jesus quoted from this passage in John 10:34.

82:8 The nations belong to God; he will take over the realms formerly ruled by local deities and give them to his people, just as he did with the Promised Land.

Ps 83 This community lament asks God for rescue and victory. The terse poetry suggests difficult times. A powerful coalition desires to destroy Israel (83:1-4) and allies itself against God (83:5-8). Recalling the fate of others who came against Israel (83:9-12), the psalmist prays that the same will happen to these enemies (83:13-16) so that God will receive honor among them (83:17-18). It is unclear whether this psalm arose out of a specific historical instance of opposition by these nations, or if it is a poetic collage of nations representing Israel's enemies.

83:1-4 The enemy has successfully intimidated God's people, so the poet prays that the Lord will hear and act.

83:5-8 signed a treaty: The allies agreed to fight against God and his people. The nations that are named in the alliance were situated around Israel and Judah.

83:6-7 The Edomites, descendants of Esau, were located to the southeast of Judah (see Gen 25:30; 32:3; 36:1-8). • Ishmaelites were desert-dwelling descendants of Hagar. • Moabites and Ammonites descended from Lot; both were located to the east of Israel and Judah. • The Hagrites were possibly located north of the Ammonites (1 Chr 5:10).

83:7 The Gebalites probably came from Gebal/Byblos on the coast of Lebanon. • The Amalekites were located south of Israel in the Negev. • Philistia was southwest of Judah, by the Mediterranean Sea.

• Tyre was a port city on the Mediterranean, northwest of Israel.

83:8 Assyria was northeast of Israel and north of the Persian Gulf. • The descendants of Lot were the Moabites and the Ammonites (83:6-7).

83:9-18 The psalmist prays that God will miraculously destroy the new coalition as he did three other enemies; doing so would bring him glory.

83:9-11 The Midianites, ruled by Zebah and Zalmunna and led by Oreb and Zeeb, were Israel's enemy in the days of Gideon (Judg 7:1-8:5). Barak's coalition defeated Sisera and Jabin (Judg 4).

83:12 The coalition's motivation for wiping out Israel was to acquire the land (see Jer 3:19).

83:13 tumbleweed . . . chaff: This dry plant material easily blows away (see Isa 17:13).

83:14-15 fire . . . fierce storm . . . tempest: These are images of God's manifestation in judgment (see note on 18:7-15; Isa 29:6).

PSALM 84

For the choir director: A psalm of the descendants of Korah, to be accompanied by a stringed instrument.

- ¹ How lovely is your dwelling place,
O LORD of Heaven's Armies.
- ² I long, yes, I faint with longing to enter the courts of the LORD.
With my whole being, body and soul,
I will shout joyfully to the living God.
- ³ Even the sparrow finds a home, and the swallow builds her nest and raises her young
at a place near your altar,
O LORD of Heaven's Armies, my King and my God!
- ⁴ What joy for those who can live in your house,
always singing your praises.

Interlude

- ⁵ What joy for those whose strength comes from the LORD, who have set their minds on a pilgrimage to Jerusalem.
- ⁶ When they walk through the Valley of Weeping,
it will become a place of refreshing springs.
The autumn rains will clothe it with blessings.
- ⁷ They will continue to grow stronger, and each of them will appear before God in Jerusalem.

- ⁸ O LORD God of Heaven's Armies, hear my prayer.
Listen, O God of Jacob. Interlude
- ⁹ O God, look with favor upon the king, our ^kshield!
Show favor to the one you have anointed.
- ¹⁰ A single day in your courts is better than a thousand anywhere else!
I would rather be a gatekeeper in the house of my God than live the good life in the homes of
the wicked.
- ¹¹ For the LORD God is our sun and our ^ashield.
He gives us grace and glory.
The LORD will withhold no good thing from those who do what is right.
- ¹² O LORD of Heaven's Armies, what ^bjoy for those who trust in you.

PSALM 85

For the choir director: A psalm of the descendants of Korah.

- ¹ LORD, you poured out blessings on your
land!
You restored the fortunes of Israel.
- ² You ^cforgave the guilt of your people—
yes, you covered all their sins.

Interlude

- ³ You held back your fury.
You kept back your blazing anger.

Ps 84 The psalmist expresses his deep spiritual longing for God's presence. He faints with longing as he reflects on the Temple and on pilgrims making the journey to Jerusalem (84:1-7). He prays for himself and for the community (84:8-9). The conclusion of the psalm (84:10-12) clarifies that the Temple represents God—the psalmist truly longs for God's presence. He knows that God's goodness is greater than life and that only God can give his people favor and honor (84:10-11).

84:TITLE to be accompanied by a stringed instrument: Hebrew according to the gittith.

84:1-4 The psalmist is far from the Temple. He turns toward it in hopeful reflection.

84:3 The poet envies the birds that have nesting places in and around the Temple.

84:4 The priests and Temple personnel lived in the Temple.

84:5-7 The pilgrimage to Jerusalem reenacted the Exodus, when God marvelously provided for his people (see 78:15-16; 105:41). The psalmist imagines the pains of travel turning to the joy of arrival.

84:5 Travelers needed strength to meet the challenges of pilgrimage by foot along unpaved paths, in all kinds of weather and with the possibility of assaults.

84:6 The Valley of Weeping (or Valley of Poplars; Hebrew reads valley of Baca) probably refers to the anguish that lonely pilgrims endured (see 23:4), rather than to an actual location. • refreshing springs . . . autumn rains: Even when pilgrims feel totally exhausted, the prospect of drawing near to the Lord renews their spirits (cp. Isa 35:6-10; 41:18-20; 43:17-20; 49:10).

84:7 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion. See "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947.

84:9 Both kings and priests were anointed to dedicate them for service (see 132:17; Exod 28:41; 1 Sam 9:16; 16:1-13; cp. Isa 61:1; Acts 10:38).

84:10 The psalmist viewed being in God's presence as much better than being anywhere else.

84:11 Some people worshiped the sun as a god, but the true God provides all that anyone needs.

Ps 85 The psalmist leads the postexilic community in lament and prayer for full redemption. He ponders God's past rescue of Israel from exile (85:1-3), longs for greater evidence of God's goodness, and leads the community in prayer for full restoration (85:4-7). God responds with a message of peace (85:8-9), and the psalm concludes with a lyrical outburst at the grandeur of God's salvation (85:10-13).

85:1-5 Though the psalmist gratefully acknowledges God's goodness, he also asks God whether his wrath will last forever.

85:1 God restored the fortunes of Israel by bringing the nation back from exile (see 14:7; 126:1). • of Israel: Literally of Jacob. See note on 44:4.

85:2 When God forgave the guilt of their sins, he gave the people the possibility of fellowship with him (see 32:5).

- 4 Now restore us again, O ^dGod of our salvation.
Put aside your anger against us once more.
- 5 Will you be angry with us always?
Will you prolong your wrath to all generations?
- 6 Won't you revive us again,
so your people can rejoice in you?
- 7 Show us your unfailing love, O LORD, and grant us your salvation.
- 8 I listen carefully to what ^eGod the LORD is saying,
for he speaks peace to his faithful people.
But let them not return to their foolish ways.
- 9 Surely his salvation is near to those who fear him,
so our land will be filled with his glory.
- 10 Unfailing love and truth have met together.
Righteousness and peace have kissed!
- 11 Truth springs up from the earth, and righteousness smiles down from heaven.
- 12 Yes, the LORD pours down his blessings.
Our land will yield its bountiful harvest.
- 13 Righteousness goes as a herald before him,
preparing the way for his steps.

PSALM 86

A prayer of David.

- 1 Bend down, O LORD, and hear my prayer;
answer me, for I need your help.

- 2 Protect me, for I am devoted to you.
Save me, for I serve you and trust you.
You are my God.
- 3 Be merciful to me, O Lord,
for I am calling on you constantly.
- 4 Give me happiness, O Lord,
for I give myself to you.
- 5 O Lord, you are so good, so ready to forgive, so full of unfailing love for all who ask for your help.
- 6 Listen closely to my prayer, O LORD;
hear my urgent cry.
- 7 I will call to you whenever I'm in trouble,
and you will answer me.
- 8 No pagan god is like you, O Lord.
None can do what you do!
- 9 All the nations you made will come and bow before you, Lord;
they will praise your holy name.
- 10 For you are great and perform wonderful deeds.
You alone are God.
- 11 Teach me your ways, O LORD,
that I may live according to your ^struth!
Grant me purity of heart,
so that I may ^hhonor you.
- 12 With all my ⁱheart I will ^ppraise you,
O Lord my God.
I will give glory to your name forever,
13 for your love for me is very great.
You have rescued me from the depths of death.
- 14 O God, insolent people rise up against me;
a violent gang is trying to kill me.
You mean nothing to them.

85:6-7 This prayer for renewal is based on God's unfailing love for his people.

85:8-9 When God the LORD speaks, his faithful people listen. He promises them peace, meaning wholeness and well-being (see 37:11). They fear the Lord and know that he and his salvation are near to them. • The Lord does not tolerate foolish ways, such as those that resulted in the Exile.

85:10-13 In the glorious world of renewal and salvation, all the qualities of God's care—love, truth, righteousness, and peace—come together and transform the created order into something new (see Isa 32:15-20).

85:13 Righteousness is like a messenger preparing the world for God's coming in response to the prayers of his people (85:4-7; 89:14).

Ps 86 The psalmist invokes God's help and praises his character in a lament prompted by the presence of evil (86:14, 17). All people will worship the gracious and almighty God (86:8-10). To this end, the poet commits himself to a lifestyle of ethical integrity (86:11) and praising the Lord (86:12-13). The last stanza contrasts the qualities of evil people with those of the Lord (86:14-17).

86:TITLE This is the only psalm connected with David in Book Three.

86:1-4 God's devoted servant prays for mercy. The psalmist sees himself as a member of the covenant community and as a citizen of the world.

86:5-7 The psalmist appeals to God to remain true to his character, which is the basis for hope.

86:5 The psalmist recounts the catalog of divine perfections (Exod 34:6-7), especially God's willingness to forgive sin (see 32:5; 85:2; 145:7-10).

86:8-10 All the nations must submit themselves to the Lord and worship him (45:17; 117:1; 148:7-11).

86:11 The poet responds to the Lord by seeking faithful instruction in the truth. • An individual with purity of heart has integrity and wholeness (see 73:1).

86:12-13 In anticipation of God's rescue, the psalmist praises him and trusts in his goodness.

86:13 of death: Hebrew of Sheol. See note on 6:5.

86:14-17 The arrogant exist both inside and outside the community. The psalmist asks for a vision of God's character; God is so great that just a glimpse of his goodness will shut the mouths of the wicked.

- ¹⁵ But you, O Lord,
are a God of compassion and mercy, ^{*}slow to get angry and filled with unfailing love and faithfulness.
- ¹⁶ Look down and have mercy on me.
Give your strength to your servant;
save me, the son of your servant.
- ¹⁷ Send me a sign of your favor.
Then those who hate me will be put to shame,
for you, O Lord, help and comfort me.

PSALM 87

A song. A psalm of the descendants of Korah.

- ¹ On the holy mountain stands the city founded by the LORD.
- ² He loves the city of Jerusalem more than any other city in Israel.
- ³ O city of God,
what glorious things are said of you!
Interlude
- ⁴ I will count ^aEgypt and Babylon among those who know me—also Philistia and Tyre, and even distant Ethiopia.
They have all become citizens of
Jerusalem!
- ⁵ Regarding Jerusalem it will be said, “Everyone enjoys the rights of citizenship there.”
And the Most High will personally bless this city.
- ⁶ When the LORD registers the nations, he will say,
“They have all become citizens of Jerusalem.” Interlude

- ⁷ The people will play flutes and sing,
“The source of my life springs from Jerusalem!”

PSALM 88

For the choir director: A psalm of the descendants of Korah. A song to be sung to the tune “The Suffering of Affliction.” A psalm of Heman the Ezrahite.

- ¹ O LORD, God of my salvation,
I cry out to you by day.
I come to you at night.
- ² Now hear my prayer;
listen to my cry.
- ³ For my life is full of troubles, and death draws near.
- ⁴ I am as good as dead,
like a strong man with no strength left.
- ⁵ They have left me among the dead,
and I lie like a corpse in a grave.
I am forgotten,
cut off from your care.
- ⁶ You have thrown me into the lowest pit,
into the darkest depths.
- ⁷ Your anger weighs me down; with wave after wave you have engulfed me. Interlude
- ⁸ You have driven my friends away by making me repulsive to them.
I am in a trap with no way of escape.
- ⁹ My eyes are blinded by my tears.
Each day I beg for your help, O LORD;
I lift my hands to you for mercy.
- ¹⁰ Are your wonderful deeds of any use to the dead?
Do the dead rise up and praise you? Interlude

86:15 God has mercy on his people (51:1); he is gracious (25:6), slow to get angry (103:8; 145:8), and filled with unfailing love and faithfulness (Hebrew khesed and 'emeth; 143:1). This verse repeats a theme first expressed in Exod 34:7; Num 14:18 (cp. 103:8; 145:8; Neh 9:17; Joel 2:13; Jon 4:2).

Ps 87 This psalm envisions Jerusalem as the city of God where all the nations are citizens.

87:1 Jerusalem was Israel's capital and the location of the Temple, God's earthly palace (see Ps 84).

87:2 This verse reads literally He loves the gates of Zion more than all the dwellings of Jacob. See note on 44:4.

87:4 As great as Zion is, it will be even greater when it becomes an international city where believers from all the nations have citizenship. • Egypt: Hebrew Rahab, the name of a mythical sea monster that represents chaos in ancient literature. The name is used here as a poetic name for Egypt (Isa 30:7). In other passages Rahab refers to the sea monsters themselves (89:10; see Job 9:13). • God keeps a record of all who confess him as their Lord (Dan 7:10; Rev 13:8). • Ethiopia: Hebrew Cush.

87:5-6 Jerusalem (Hebrew Zion) becomes the international city where all God's children are citizens.

87:7 will play flutes: Or will dance.

Ps 88 In this lament, the psalmist sees himself as cast out from God's presence. At first, he calls on the Lord. When he finds no relief from his suffering, he presents three charges against God (88:6-7, 8-12, 13-17).

88:TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term. • Heman the Ezrahite might be a sage from Solomon's time (1 Kgs 4:31), a descendant of Judah (1 Chr 2:6), or a member of the Levitical family charged with singing at the Temple (1 Chr 15:17; 2 Chr 5:12).

88:1-5 The psalmist calls on the LORD for salvation.

88:3 death: Hebrew Sheol, the place of the dead.

88:6-7 In his first charge, the psalmist blames the Lord for his demise. God's overpowering anger did not make sense. • The phrase the darkest depths implies the place of the dead (143:3; see Lam 3:6) or the depths of the sea (68:22; 69:1-2).

88:8-12 In his second charge, the psalmist claims that God has isolated him and caused his loneliness (cp. 31:11; 38:11). Loneliness was a curse in a culture where relationships were more important than personal achievement.

Ps 47:2; 96:4

- 11 Can those in the grave declare your unfailing love?
Can they proclaim your faithfulness in the place of destruction?
- 12 Can the darkness speak of your wonderful deeds?
Can anyone in the land of forgetfulness talk about your righteousness?
- 13 O LORD, I cry out to you.
I will keep on pleading day by day.
- 14 O LORD, why do you reject me?
Why do you turn your face from me?
- 15 I have been sick and close to death since my youth.
I stand helpless and desperate before your terrors.
- 16 Your fierce anger has overwhelmed me.
Your terrors have paralyzed me.
- 17 They swirl around me like floodwaters all day long.
They have engulfed me completely.
- 18 You have taken away my companions and loved ones.
Darkness is my closest friend.

PSALM 89

A psalm of Ethan the Ezrahite.

- 1 I will sing of the LORD's unfailing love forever!
Young and old will hear of your faithfulness.
- 2 Your unfailing love will last forever.
Your faithfulness is as enduring as the heavens.
- 3 The LORD said, "I have made a covenant with David, my chosen servant.
I have sworn this oath to him:
- 4 'I will establish your ^bdescendants as kings forever;
they will sit on your throne from now until eternity.' " Interlude
- 5 All heaven will praise your great wonders, LORD;
'myriads of angels will praise you for your faithfulness.
- 6 For who in all of heaven can compare with the LORD?
What ^cmightiest angel is anything like the LORD?
- 7 The highest angelic powers stand in awe of God.

The Exile in the Psalms (Ps 89)

Ps 107:1-22; 126:1-6
Lev 26:27-45
Deut 28:36-37, 63-68; 30:1-5
2 Kgs 17:5-23;
24:1-25:21
Ezra 5:12
Isa 5:13; 27:13;
52:1-12; 59:10
Jer 2:37; 3:18; 4:13
Ezek 6:9; 20:41;
37:1-14
Amos 5:11
Mic 6:14-15

Israel's kings repeatedly rebelled against God, and the people of Israel sinned and broke their covenant with him. God therefore declared that he would bring the curses of the covenant upon them and their nation (see Deut 28:15-68; cp., e.g., Isa 59:10; Jer 4:13; Amos 5:11; Mic 6:14-15). In his wrath, God sent the Assyrian and Babylonian armies to execute this sentence, and all but a few of the Israelites were taken into exile (see 2 Kgs 24:1-25:21).

The Exile shaped many of the psalms; we see its impact working behind the scenes in their images and themes. The grief, anguish, and confusion of the Exile are distilled into several questions that the psalmist addresses: How long will God's wrath last (89:46)? Does God understand human frailty (89:47-48)? Is God true to his nature (89:49)? Is God just in not avenging his people (89:50-51)? Has God abandoned David's royal line (89:38-39)?

These questions were on the minds of God's people during and after the Exile. Some of their doubts raise questions concerning God's ability to rule. Rather than dismissing these questions, wise readers listen, reflect, and study the answers that Scripture gives. The definitive answer came in the Lord Jesus Christ (see Isa 52:1-54:17; Luke 1:46-55, 67-79; 4:18-19; Rom 6:6, 16-22; Heb 12:22-24). However, those who experienced the Exile could only dimly foresee his coming. They asked these hard questions and lived without clear answers.

88:11 in the place of destruction?
Hebrew in Abaddon?

88:13-17 In his third charge, the psalmist accuses the Lord of rejecting him. The force and apparent cruelty of the psalmist's suffering overwhelm him.

88:18 The psalmist restates his second and first charges.

Ps 89 Book Three (Pss 73-89) begins and ends with weighty questions. Though Ps 89 begins with a praise-filled account of how the Lord exalted the throne of David (89:1-37), the psalmist protests the Lord's apparent rejection of his covenant with David (89:38-51; see 2 Sam 7:8-16).

89: TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.
• Ethan the Ezrahite was a wise man (see 88: TITLE and note; 1 Kgs 4:31).

89:1 God's unfailing love gives reason to celebrate forever.

89:3-4 The psalmist restates God's covenant with David (see also 89:19-37).

89:3 The Lord has sworn by his own holiness (89:35; see 110:4).

89:5-8 God is the absolute standard of faithfulness, commitment, and order. The angelic beings and the heavens testify to his constancy.

89:5 Praise for God's greatness (see 8:1) comes from the inhabitants of heaven who witness his faithfulness.

89:6 mightiest angel: Literally son of God (see note on 29:1-2).

- He is far more awesome than all who surround his throne.
- ⁸ O LORD God of Heaven's Armies!
Where is there anyone as mighty as you, O LORD?
You are entirely faithful.
- ⁹ You rule the oceans.
You subdue their storm-tossed waves.
- ¹⁰ You crushed the great ^asea monster.
You scattered your enemies with your mighty arm.
- ¹¹ The heavens are yours, and the earth is yours;
everything in the world is yours—you created it all.
- ¹² You created north and south.
Mount Tabor and Mount Hermon praise your name.
- ¹³ Powerful is your arm!
Strong is your hand!
Your right hand is lifted high in glorious strength.
- ¹⁴ Righteousness and justice are the foundation of your throne.
Unfailing love and truth walk before you as attendants.
- ¹⁵ Happy are those who hear the joyful call to worship, for they will walk in the light of your presence, LORD.
- ¹⁶ They rejoice all day long in your wonderful reputation.
They ^eexult in your righteousness.
- ¹⁷ You are their glorious strength.
It pleases you to make us strong.
- ¹⁸ Yes, our ^aprotection comes from the LORD, and he, the Holy One of Israel, has given us our king.
- ¹⁹ Long ago you spoke in a vision to your faithful people.
- You said, "I have raised up a warrior.
I have selected him from the common people to be king.
²⁰ I have found my servant David.
I have ^banointed him with my holy oil.
²¹ I will steady him with my hand;
with my powerful arm I will make him strong.
²² His enemies will not defeat him,
nor will the wicked overpower him.
²³ I will beat down his adversaries before him and destroy those who hate him.
²⁴ My faithfulness and unfailing love will be with him,
and by my authority he will grow in power.
²⁵ I will extend his rule over the sea,
his dominion over the rivers.
²⁶ And he will call out to me, 'You are my Father, my God, and the ^cRock of my salvation.'
²⁷ I will make him my firstborn son,
the mightiest king on earth.
²⁸ I will love him and be kind to him forever;
my covenant with him will never end.
²⁹ I will preserve an heir for him;
his throne will be as endless as the days of heaven.
³⁰ But if his descendants forsake my instructions and fail to obey my regulations, ³¹ if they do not obey my decrees and fail to keep my commands, ³² then I will punish their sin with the rod, and their disobedience with beating.
³³ But I will never stop loving him nor fail to keep my promise to him.
³⁴ No, I will not break my covenant;
I will not take back a single word I said.

89:9-13 In this hymn, the psalmist celebrates God's comprehensive and powerful sovereignty over nature.

89:9-10 the great sea monster: The Hebrew term Rahab refers to a mythical sea monster that represents chaos in ancient literature (see 87:4 and note). The Lord rules over all parts of the created order, including evil. • You scattered your enemies: The Lord will crush (Luke 1:51) evil powers that oppose him (2:1-3). • with your mighty arm: This phrase represents God's strength (89:13).

89:12 Mount Tabor was in northern Israel. Mount Hermon formed the extreme northern border of the nation.

89:14-18 God rules wisely over creation. The qualities of righteousness, justice, and faithfulness fit the profile of a wise ruler. The happy people who live under his rule enjoy his protection.

89:15-16 Those who are wise worship God, walk in his light, rejoice in their relationship with him, and exult in his character.

89:17-18 The Lord protects his people with the same power by which he established the created order.

89:19-37 The Lord chose David as his son and as king of Israel (see 2:4-6; 2 Sam 7:8-16) to provide protection for his people.

89:20 I have anointed him: This is the verb from which anointed one (Hebrew messiah) is derived.

89:26-29 The Lord adopted David as his son, appointed him as his commander over the nations, and promised to support him forever. Verse 26 recalls a verse from David's song of praise (2 Sam 22:47).

89:27 David would be the most eminent of earthly kings. The Hebrew word translated mightiest is the same as the designation for God as "Most High" ('elyon).

89:29 The Lord writes his faithfulness in heaven, on the canvas of his universe (see 89:2). He records his commitment to the dynasty of David in the same way.

89:30-37 The Lord disciplines but does not reject his erring children. He foresees violation of trust and subsequent punishment, but he commits himself to uphold the covenant. His fidelity to David corresponds to his faithfulness to the created order.

- Interlude*
- 38 But now you have rejected him and cast him off.
You are angry with your anointed king.
39 You have renounced your covenant with
him;
you have thrown his crown in the dust.
40 You have broken down the walls and ruined every fort defending him.

41 Everyone who comes along has robbed
him,
and he has become a joke to his 42 You have strengthened his enemies and made them all rejoice.

43 You have made his sword useless and refused to help him in battle.
44 You have ended his splendor and overturned his throne.
45 You have made him old before his time and publicly disgraced him.

Interlude

- 46 O LORD, how long will this go on?
Will you hide yourself forever?
How long will your anger burn like
fire?
47 Remember how short my life is, how empty and futile this human existence!

- 48 No one can live forever; all will die.
No one can escape the power of the grave.
- Interlude*
- 49 Lord, where is your unfailing love?
You promised it to David with a faithful pledge.
50 Consider, Lord, how your servants are disgraced!
I carry in my heart the insults of so many people.
51 Your enemies have mocked me, O LORD; they mock your anointed king wherever he goes.
52 Praise the LORD forever!
Amen and amen!

4. BOOK FOUR (PSS 90–106)

PSALM 90

A prayer of Moses, the man of God.

- 1 Lord, through all the generations
you have been our home!
2 Before the mountains were born, before you gave birth to the earth and the world,
from ^kbeginning to ^kend, you are God.
3 You turn people back to dust, saying,
"Return to dust, you ^amortals!"
4 For you, a thousand years are as a passing day,
as brief as a few night hours.
5 You sweep people away like dreams that disappear.
They are like grass that springs up in the morning.
6 In the morning it blooms and flourishes,
but by evening it is dry and withered.

89:35 holiness: The Lord is wholly distinct from the created order (22:3); his character is totally pure. He does as he pleases (115:3), and he chooses to be faithful (89:1; 115:1); therefore, he cannot lie.

89:38 You are angry: The harshness of God's wrath perplexes the psalmist.

89:40 broken down the walls: The Lord's people are completely vulnerable.

89:42 Although the Lord promised to strengthen David, he secretly strengthened David's enemies.

89:46-47 The psalmist wonders if he will live to see the end of the Lord's anger. Our lifetimes are short, like a day in the Lord's sight (90:4, 10).

89:48 of the grave: Hebrew of Sheol. See note on 6:5.

89:50 The phrase your servants refers to the community loyal to the Lord.

89:52 This doxology concludes all of Book Three (Pss 73–89); it is not intended to be read as part of Ps 89. It stands in stark contrast to the anguish and questioning of Ps 89. Cp. 41:13; 106:48.

Book Four (Pss 90–106) Book Four can be understood as a poetic response to the problem of the Exile and the apparent suspension of David's royal line (see Ps 89). The response is that the Lord rules over the created order; his kingdom overcomes all chaos, anarchy, and confusion.

Ps 90 Although the Lord's people have made their home in him for generations, their sin widens the gap between them and their infinite Lord. The Lord's wrath against a person's sin might last a lifetime and yet be only a taste of his displeasure with sin. This lamentable situation calls the community to seek the Lord's light. Taking the first step means seeking restoration with the Lord on the basis of his compassion and love (90:13-14). He alone makes his servants glad and blesses their future generations (90:16-17).

90:TITLE Moses led God's people from slavery in Egypt to Mount Sinai, where he received the law and established God's covenant with Israel. • the man of God: Moses enjoyed a special relationship with God (Deut 33:1).

90:1-2 The Lord becomes the home of the godly; he has provided shelter for countless generations. The word translated home is not used frequently in the Psalter. It describes a place of safety where the Lord meets his needy people and cares for them (68:5; 71:3).

90:2 The Lord is the eternal God. • The Lord gave birth to the earth by creating it.

90:3-6 Unlike God, humans are mortal and transitory.

- ⁷ We wither beneath your anger;
we are overwhelmed by your fury.
⁸ You spread out our sins before you—our secret sins—and you see them all.
⁹ We live our lives beneath your wrath, ending our years with a groan.
¹⁰ Seventy years are given to us!
Some even live to eighty.
But even the best years are filled with pain and trouble;
soon they disappear, and we fly away.
¹¹ Who can comprehend the power of your anger?
Your wrath is as awesome as the fear
you deserve.
¹² Teach us to realize the brevity of life,
so that we may grow in wisdom.
¹³ O LORD, come back to us!
How long will you delay?
Take pity on your servants!
¹⁴ Satisfy us each morning with your
unfailing love,
so we may sing for joy to the end of our lives.
¹⁵ Give us gladness in proportion to our former misery!
Replace the evil years with good.
¹⁶ Let us, your servants, see you work
again;
let our children see your glory.
¹⁷ And may the Lord our God show us his approval
and make our efforts successful.
Yes, make our efforts successful!

PSALM 91

- ¹ Those who live in the shelter of the ^bMost High

- will find rest in the shadow of the “Almighty.”
² This I declare about the LORD:
He alone is my refuge, my place of safety;
he is my God, and I trust him.
³ For he will rescue you from every trap and protect you from deadly disease.
⁴ He will cover you with his feathers.
He will shelter you with his wings.
His faithful promises are your armor
and protection.
⁵ Do not be afraid of the terrors of the
night,
nor the arrow that flies in the day.
⁶ Do not dread the disease that stalks in darkness,
nor the disaster that strikes at midday.
⁷ Though a thousand fall at your side, though ten thousand are dying around you,
these evils will not touch you.
⁸ Just open your eyes,
and see how the wicked are punished.
⁹ If you make the LORD your refuge,
if you make the Most High your shelter, ¹⁰ no evil will conquer you;
no plague will come near your home.
¹¹ For he will order his ^cangels to protect you wherever you go.
¹² They will hold you up with their hands so you won't even hurt your foot on a stone.
¹³ You will trample upon lions and cobras;
you will crush fierce lions and serpents under your feet!

- ¹⁴ The LORD says, “I will rescue those who love me.”

Luke 10:19

90:7-10 Sinners cannot escape God's wrath because the Lord sees their sins. Their fleeting lives are filled with afflictions.

90:9-10 A groan of sorrow (Ezek 2:10) sums up a life spent in facing the consequences of sin. • Humans cause trouble (see 10:6) and receive pain in return.

90:11-12 In the search for wisdom, no one can comprehend the Lord (see Isa 40:13). The appropriate human response to the Lord is godly fear (see 60:4). The Lord alone can teach humans to follow the path of wisdom (25:4-6).

90:13-17 The psalmist prays for the Lord's favor and restoration.

90:13 The phrase your servants refers to the community of those loyal to the Lord.

90:15 The psalmist calls upon the Lord to give the people gladness to replace their mourning (see 92:4-5).

90:16 The children represent future generations in contrast to the generations past (90:1).

90:17 Humans waste their efforts unless the Lord makes them successful (44:3).

Ps 91 This wisdom psalm expresses confidence in the Almighty God, who provides a shelter for those who take refuge in him. They receive redemption, life, and glory from the Lord, who loves and cares for those who seek him.

91:1-2 The Lord is an ancient shelter (see 90:1), open to those who seek refuge in him.

91:1 The Most High is an ancient title that expresses the Lord's exalted status (Gen 14:19) as the ruler and protector of the godly.

91:3-4 The psalmist invites the godly to trust in the Lord and find protection in him.

91:3 God protects the godly from deadly disease and even a destructive word.

91:4 The armor might refer to a body shield, while protection refers to a small shield worn on the arm. • wings: See note on 17:8.

91:5-8 The godly should not be afraid, because the Lord watches over them. These promises do not guarantee an escape from trouble, but they create an expectation of the Lord's goodness.

91:6 The reference to disease represents any kind of affliction.

91:9-13 The poet again invites the godly to seek refuge in the Lord and enjoy the benefits of divine protection.

91:11 he will order his angels: Satan cited these words when he tempted Jesus (Matt 4:6; Luke 4:10-11), but God makes this promise for those who obey him (91:14), not for those who arrogantly test him (Matt 4:4, 7).

91:14-16 The godly can trust the Lord's protection and provision.

PSALM 92

A psalm. A song to be sung on the Sabbath Day.

1 It is good to give thanks to the LORD, to *sing praises to the Most High.

2 It is good to proclaim your unfailing love in the morning,
your faithfulness in the evening,

3 accompanied by a ten-stringed instrument, a harp,
and the melody of a lyre.

4 You thrill me, LORD, with all you have done for me!

I sing for joy because of what you have done.

5 O LORD, what great works you do!
And how deep are your thoughts.

6 Only a simpleton would not know, and only a fool would not understand
this:

7 Though the wicked sprout like weeds and evildoers flourish,
they will be destroyed forever.

8 But you, O LORD, will be exalted 'forever.

9 Your enemies, LORD, will surely perish;
all evildoers will be scattered.

10 But you have made me as strong as a wild ox.

You have anointed me with the finest oil.

11 My eyes have seen the downfall of my
enemies;
my ears have heard the defeat of my wicked opponents.

12 But the godly will flourish like palm trees
and grow strong like the cedars of Lebanon.

13 For they are transplanted to the LORD's own house.
They flourish in the courts of our God.

14 Even in old age they will still produce fruit;
they will remain vital and green.

15 They will declare, "The LORD is just!
He is my *rock!
There is no evil in him!"

PSALM 93

1 The LORD is king! He is robed in majesty.
Indeed, the LORD is robed in majesty and armed with strength.
The world stands firm and cannot be shaken.

91:14 Those who love the Lord will obey him (Deut 30:20; 1 Jn 5:3) and seek his protection (91:1; 145:18).

91:15 The Lord promises to answer the prayers of his people. • The Psalter often speaks of people honoring the Lord (50:15); here, God promises to honor the godly who risk everything for his sake (62:7; 71:21; 84:11).

91:16 A long life on earth represents just a small part of the Lord's goodness and eternal friendship (23:6).

Ps 92 Thanksgiving and praise open this psalm. The Lord—the Most High—is faithful and just in discerning between the godly and the wicked. The godly will enjoy a glorious, vigorous future, while the wicked will perish.
The wise see and understand the Lord's works as they reveal his justice (92:6-7, 11, 15). The wicked, like grass, are quickly destroyed (92:7-10).

92: TITLE on the Sabbath Day: Jewish tradition assigned one psalm to each day of the week: Sunday (Ps 24), Monday (Ps 48), Tuesday (Ps 82), Wednesday (Ps 94), Thursday (Ps 81), Friday (Ps 93), and the Sabbath (Ps 92). This is the only psalm that indicates this use in its title.

92:1-3 The psalmist offers praise and thanksgiving for God's unfailing love

and faithfulness.

92:4-7 Fools perish because they do not understand the Lord's marvelous works and eternal plans.

92:4-5 The Lord acts and the psalmist responds in praise (92:4). God's acts spring from his thoughts (92:5).

92:5-6 The Lord's thoughts do not make sense to the simpleton or the fool, the immoral person who desires no wisdom
(Prov 1:22; 10:23).

92:7 Even when the ungodly seem to grow luxuriantly (73:3-5), they have no future (92:9; see 1:6; 90:5-6; Isa 40:6-8).

92:8-10 The glory of the Lord provides the reason for the poet's renewed strength and glory, and for the imminent defeat of the enemy.

92:8 The transcendent Lord stays above the world of human experience. From this exalted place, he rules and judges (7:7), celebrates his victories (68:18; see Ps 47), comes to rescue the needy (102:19), brings an end to the wicked
(92:7-8), and receives praise (148:1).

92:10 as strong as a wild ox: The Lord allows the psalmist to share his exaltation (92:8), thus ensuring victory.

92:11-15 The psalmist understands the Lord's mighty acts. He shares in the glory of the wise of heart.

92:12 Carvings of palm trees (1 Kgs 6:29, 32, 35; 7:36) adorned the Temple, and builders made rich use of cedars (1 Kgs 5:6). The trees represent the godly, who are planted in the very courts of the Temple.

92:13 The Temple area consisted of the LORD's own house and the courts that surrounded it.

92:15 There is no evil in him! The Lord is consistently just; he rightly judges everyone (see Zeph 3:5).

Ps 93-100 These psalms challenge the doubts created by the Exile (see Ps 89) and answer the questions asked in Ps 90:11, 13. The Lord has established a kingdom (Ps 93) that is characterized by the punishment of the wicked (Ps 94), reverent obedience among his people (Ps 95), justice for the poor (Ps 96), celebration in Zion (Ps 97), salvation for Israel (Ps 98), holiness (Ps 99), and praise (Ps 100).

Ps 93 The everlasting Lord gloriously establishes his kingship (cp. Ps 47, 99-100).

93:1 robed in majesty: The Lord stands victorious both before and after battle (see 45:3).

- ² Your throne, O LORD, has stood from time immemorial.
You yourself are from the everlasting past.
- ³ The floods have risen up, O LORD.
The floods have roared like thunder;
the floods have lifted their pounding waves.
- ⁴ But mightier than the violent raging of the seas, mightier than the breakers on the shore—
the LORD above is mightier than these!
- ⁵ Your royal laws cannot be changed.
Your reign, O LORD, is holy forever and ever.

PSALM 94

- ¹ O LORD, the God of vengeance,
O God of vengeance, let your glorious justice shine forth!
- ² Arise, O Judge of the earth.
Give the proud what they deserve.
- ³ How long, O LORD?
How long will the wicked be allowed to gloat?
- ⁴ How long will they speak with arrogance?
How long will these evil people boast?
- ⁵ They crush your people, LORD, hurting those you claim as your own.
- ⁶ They kill widows and foreigners and murder orphans.
- ⁷ "The LORD isn't looking," they say,
"and besides, the God of Israel doesn't care."

- ⁸ Think again, you fools!
When will you finally catch on?
- ⁹ Is he deaf—the one who made your ears?
Is he blind—the one who formed your eyes?
- ¹⁰ He punishes the nations—won't he also punish you?
He knows everything—doesn't he also know what you are doing?
- ¹¹ The LORD knows people's thoughts;
he knows they are worthless!
- ¹² Joyful are those you discipline, LORD, those you teach with your instructions.
- ¹³ You give them relief from troubled times until a pit is dug to capture the wicked.
- ¹⁴ The LORD will not reject his people;
he will not abandon his special possession.
- ¹⁵ Judgment will again be founded on justice, and those with virtuous hearts will pursue it.
- ¹⁶ Who will protect me from the wicked?
Who will stand up for me against evildoers?
- ¹⁷ Unless the LORD had helped me,
I would soon have settled in the silence of the grave.
- ¹⁸ I cried out, "I am slipping!"
but your unfailing love, O LORD, supported me.
- ¹⁹ When doubts filled my mind, your comfort gave me renewed hope and cheer.

93:3-4 God's victory over natural chaos gives the psalmist confidence that the Lord will also defeat his present enemies (cp. Jer 46:8; 47:2).

93:5 Through his stable rule and royal laws, the Lord orders the world. • Your reign (literally your house): The house from which God reigns might be the Lord's heavenly palace or the earthly Temple.

Ps 94 This plea for the Lord's justice includes both communal and individual expressions of lament (94:1-7, 16-23). The psalmist gives voice to the pain and suffering caused by the wicked, but he also depicts the comfort and stability of the Lord's protection. He calls on the Lord to avenge the needy against the arrogant and foolish, he rebukes such people for their folly (94:8-11), and he pronounces a blessing on the wise (94:12-15).

94:1-7 After the community falls victim to the wicked (94:5-7), they pray that the Lord will render justice (see 7:11; 9:12).

94:2 Just as the Lord's enemies rise up against him and his people (3:7; 93:3), he must arise and make retribution against the enemy (see 79:12; Isa 65:6).

94:6 widows . . . foreigners . . . orphans: The Lord's law protects needy people (Deut 24:17; 27:19), but they remain vulnerable in society.

94:7 The wicked think that they can get away with their vile acts and speech, foolishly assuming that God isn't looking or doesn't care. • of Israel: Literally of Jacob. See note on 44:4.

94:8-11 The psalmist rebukes human folly.

94:9 It is preposterous that those with ears and eyes would imagine their Creator to be deaf and blind.

94:10 punishes: This word also carries the idea of "warns" (2:10), "disciplines" (6:1; 94:12), or "instructs" (16:7). The Lord disciplines his people to purify their character (Prov 3:11-12; Heb 12:6-11). He punishes his enemies by giving them what they deserve (1:6; Rom 6:23).

94:11 While the Lord's thoughts are deep, people's thoughts are worthless (cp. 92:5; 1 Cor 3:20).

94:12-15 True to his nature, the Lord rewards those who live by his wise instruction (see note on 1:2) and makes them happy according to his promises.

94:13 God's relief includes his comfort and rescue.

94:14 Even when it seems that he has, the LORD will not reject his people.

94:16-23 The psalmist's prayer resumes (see 94:1-7) with a desperate cry for the Lord's justice; it concludes with the hopeful expectation that evil will end.

94:16 Only God has the power to stand up to the wicked (see 2:2).

94:18-19 The psalmist's experience of slipping contrasts with God's promise to stand with him (94:12-13; see 15:5; 93:1).

PSALM 95

1 Come, let us sing to the LORD!

Let us shout joyfully to the Rock of our salvation.

2 Let us come to him with thanksgiving. Let us sing psalms of praise to him.

3 For the LORD is a great God, a great King above all gods.

4 He holds in his hands the depths of the earth and the mightiest mountains.

5 The sea belongs to him, for he made it. His hands formed the dry land, too.

6 Come, let us worship and bow down. Let us kneel before the LORD our maker, for he is our God.

We are the people he watches over, the flock under his care.

If only you would listen to his voice today!

8 The LORD says, "Don't harden your hearts as Israel did at Meribah, as they did at Massah in the wilderness.

9 For there your ancestors tested and tried my patience, even though they saw everything I did.

10 For forty years I was angry with them, and I said,

"They are a people whose hearts turn away from me.

They refuse to do what I tell them."

11 So in my anger I took an oath: "They will never enter my place of rest."

Col 3:10

The Psalter portrays Israel's view of God as the Creator, the great King over the world of nature and nations. God created and established the world, and he rules over it (95:4–5; 96:10; see 24:2; 78:69). The whole of creation is his handiwork. The Creator governs and cares for all that he made.

Several psalms celebrate the manifestation of God's glory in creation (Pss 8, 19, 29, 33, 89, and 104). Psalm 8 centers on God's endowing human beings with splendor and vesting them as his rulers in creation. Psalm 19 encourages reflection on creation in order to cultivate wisdom. Psalm 29 reveals God's power in the world and the stability of his creation. Psalm 33 exalts God's governance, order, and wisdom in creation and fosters the importance of wisdom. Psalm 89 lays the foundation of God's covenant with David on his commitment to creation (89:9–18).

Psalms 93–100 anticipate the worldwide dominion of God. When he comes into the world, he brings harmony and peace. The earth already belongs to him, and the Creator has demonstrated his power in history. Psalm 104 is a creation hymn that reworks the six days of creation into a marvelous lyric in praise of God's wisdom.

The psalms call upon all nations to acknowledge and praise God and to show their acceptance of his sovereign rule over all nations (see 9:11; 47:1–2, 7–9; 66:8; 67; 117:1).

Ps 95 This call to worship urges the people to respond to the Lord, the Shepherd, and to follow him faithfully. The previous generation, who refused to obey, did not receive the blessings of the Promised Land.

95:3–5 The Lord is the great King over the whole universe.

95:3 above all gods: The psalmist refutes idolatry and paganism (96:4–6; 135:15–18; see also Isa 46:5–7).

95:4–5 The whole created order owes its existence to the sovereign Lord alone—not to various gods.

95:6–7 The great King cares for his people as a shepherd cares for his flock (Isa 40:11). • The LORD our maker, the Creator of heaven and earth, also made a people for himself (Isa 45:9–12; 51:12–16).

95:8–11 If people want to enter into the Lord's rest, they need to respond immediately (see Heb 3:7–4:11).

95:8 To harden your hearts means to be stubborn and resist the Lord's grace (see Num 20:2–13; see also Matt 13:3–23; John 12:37–43; Eph 4:17–32; Heb 3:6–19; 4:6–11).

95:9 Israel's ancestors . . . saw the wonders of the Lord, but they foolishly did not try to grasp their significance (see 92:5–6).

95:11 The generation of Israel that wandered in the wilderness for forty years failed to enter the place of rest that Israel enjoyed after the conquest of the land (1 Kgs 8:56; see Deut 12:9). The Lord promised them the land and gave it to them (Isa 28:12), but they did not obey him (Isa 28:1). The warning reminds every generation of the need to obey in faith. • The rest that God provides includes peace, provision, and protection (132:14–18). The author of Hebrews challenged a new generation to enter the rest provided by Jesus Christ (Heb 3:7–4:13).

Ps 96:1-13 // 1 Chr 16:23-33

- ¹ Sing a new song to the LORD!
Let the whole earth sing to the LORD!
- ² Sing to the LORD; praise his name.
Each day proclaim the good news that he saves.
- ³ Publish his glorious deeds among the
nations.
Tell everyone about the amazing things he does.
- ⁴ Great is the LORD! He is most worthy of

but the LORD made the heavens!
- ⁶ Honor and majesty surround him;
strength and beauty fill his sanctuary.
- ⁷ O nations of the world, recognize the LORD;
recognize that the LORD is glorious and strong.
- ⁸ Give to the LORD the glory he deserves!
Bring your offering and come into his courts.
- ⁹ Worship the LORD in all his holy splendor.
Let all the earth tremble before him.
- ¹⁰ Tell all the nations, "The LORD reigns!"
The world stands firm and cannot be shaken.
He will judge all peoples fairly.

- ¹¹ Let the heavens be glad, and the earth
rejoice!
Let the sea and everything in it shout his praise!
- ¹² Let the fields and their crops burst out with joy!
Let the trees of the forest sing
for joy
- ¹³ before the LORD, for he is coming!
He is coming to judge the earth.
He will judge the world with justice,
and the nations with his truth.

- ¹ The LORD is king!
Let the earth rejoice!
Let the farthest coastlands be glad.
- ² Dark clouds surround him.
^aRighteousness and justice are the foundation of his throne.
- ³ Fire spreads ahead of him and burns up all his foes.
- ⁴ His lightning flashes out across the world.
The earth sees and trembles.
- ⁵ The mountains melt like wax before the LORD,
before the Lord of all the ^aearth.
- ⁶ The heavens proclaim his righteousness;
every nation sees his glory.

Ps 50:6

Ps 96 This psalm establishes the Lord's universal kingship (see Ps 93) and prepares for the coming of the Lord to bring justice and righteousness into the world. The psalmist invites everyone to worship the Lord (96:1-3), the glorious Creator of all the earth (96:4-6), because worship is due to him alone (96:7-9). The universe joins in praise as the righteous Judge establishes a new order (96:10-13). • This psalm (along with 105:1-15; 106:1, 47-48) is included in David's song of praise recorded in 1 Chr 16.

96:1 Three psalms open with the exhortation to sing a new song (Pss 96, 98, 149); the song celebrates the Lord's universal kingship (see 33:3).

96:4-6 The gods of the nations are as nothing before the glorious and majestic Creator of the earth.

96:4 Great is the LORD! . . . most worthy of praise: With this refrain, the poet exalts the Lord over all the gods (95:3) and nations (99:2). He inspires awe more than anyone or anything else (76:7, 12; 89:7; 99:3; 111:9). He is beyond human possession or comprehension. The story of what he does to redeem his people causes them to praise him.

96:5 The LORD made the heavens, an even greater task than creating the earth. The idols, made by human hands (115:4), created nothing.

96:6 Honor and majesty: The Lord is glorious (96:6; 104:1; 148:13), and so are his works in nature (8:1) and in redemption (111:3; 145:5).

96:7 nations of the world (literally families of the nations): Families and clans represent subdivisions of the nations (see Gen 12:3). • The nations must respond to the Lord's glory (8:1; 19:1-4; 24:7).

96:8 The courts of God's sanctuary were usually off-limits to non-Jewish people. In this psalm the nations of the world—the non-Jews—are invited in (65:4; 84:2, 10; 100:4; 116:19; 135:2; Isa 1:12).

96:9 Worshipers should tremble in awe (96:4; see 18:7-15; 97:4) at the splendor of the Lord's majesty and holiness (Heb 12:25).

96:10 The Lord's coming means the end of injustice. He rules fairly (9:8; 96:13; 98:9) and inaugurates an era of harmony and order not experienced since Eden. • The Lord's reign over the world is founded on "the strong pillars of righteousness and justice" (89:14), so it cannot be shaken (cp. 11:3).

96:11-13 The psalmist exhorts the created order to respond with joy to the news of the Lord's coming. Cp. a similar theme in 98:7-9.

96:12 All of nature will experience renewal in God's presence (65:13; 72:6, 16; Isa 44:23; 55:12; Rom 8:21-22).

Ps 97 God is greatly exalted over the gods and over all the earth. Awe-inspiring phenomena accompany his coming. Even the created order is visibly affected and the wicked perish, but the people of Zion love his coming and rejoice.

97:1 The farthest coastlands represent the most remote parts of the world.

97:2-4 Dark clouds . . . Fire . . . lightning: This language shows that the Lord is coming in judgment (see note on 18:7-15).

97:5-7 The created order stirs at the coming of its King. He alone deserves worship.

97:6 As the Lord enters the world, the testimony of his righteousness resounds from above (50:6). • Every nation will view the open display of the Lord's glory (see 8:1; 19:1-4a; 24:7; Isa 40:5).

- all who brag about their worthless gods—for every god must bow to him.
8 Jerusalem has heard and rejoiced, and all the towns of Judah are glad because of your justice, O LORD!
9 For you, O LORD, are ^asupreme over all
the earth;
you are exalted far above all gods.
10 You who love the LORD, hate evil!
He protects the lives of his godly
people
and rescues them from the power of
the wicked.
11 Light shines on the godly, and ^cjoy on those whose hearts are
right.
12 May all who are godly rejoice in the LORD and praise his holy name!

PSALM 98

A psalm.

- 1 Sing a new song to the LORD,
for he has done wonderful deeds.
His right hand has won a mighty victory;
his holy arm has shown his saving
power!
2 The LORD has announced his victory and has revealed his righteousness to every nation!
3 He has remembered his promise to love and be faithful to Israel.
The ends of the earth have seen the victory of our God.
4 Shout to the LORD, all the earth;
break out in praise and sing for joy!

- 5 Sing your praise to the LORD with the harp,
with the harp and melodious song, 6 with trumpets and the sound of the ram's horn.
Make a joyful symphony before the LORD, the King!
7 Let the sea and everything in it shout his praise!
Let the earth and all living things join in.
8 Let the rivers clap their hands in glee!
Let the hills sing out their songs of joy
9 before the LORD,
for he is coming to judge the earth.
He will judge the world with justice,
and the nations with fairness.

PSALM 99

- 1 The LORD is king!
Let the nations tremble!
He sits on his throne between the cherubim.
Let the whole earth quake!
2 The LORD sits in majesty in Jerusalem, ^dexalted above all the nations.
3 Let them praise your great and awesome
name.
Your name is holy!
4 Mighty King, lover of justice,
you have established fairness.
You have acted with justice and righteousness throughout Israel.
5 ^eExalt the LORD our God!
Bow low before his feet, for he is holy!
6 Moses and Aaron were among his priests;
Samuel also called on his name.

97:7 At the Lord's coming, when every god must bow to him, those who worship other gods will face their own folly (see 95:3-5).

97:8-12 Jerusalem (Hebrew Zion) rejoices at the news of the Lord's coming, for he brings justice and rescues the upright of heart.

97:11 The godly people of integrity (see Prov 2:7, 21; 3:32; 11:6, 11; 14:2), whose hearts are right, maintain a relationship with the Lord and with others (94:15; 125:4). The wicked plan the downfall of the godly (11:2), but the Lord rescues them (11:1; 36:10). Then the sorrows of the godly turn to joy and praise (32:11; 64:10; 111:1; 119:7).

Ps 98 This psalm celebrates the Lord's kingship. The Lord is Israel's true King, its champion and savior. His people sing a new song celebrating his victorious power and faithfulness to them. The Lord displays his righteous rule to all the nations throughout the earth, which will culminate in a worldwide kingdom of justice (98:2, 9). Consequently, all the earth must worship and rejoice together because the Lord is coming (98:4-6).

98:2-3 The Lord makes known his righteousness and faithfulness (see also Isa 52:10).

98:4-6 The psalmist invites the whole earth to worship the King (see 96:1).

98:6 The Temple musicians used trumpets to call people together for meetings (cp. 81:3).

98:7-9 The created order is personified as rejoicing at the coming of the righteous Judge (see 93:3-4; 96:11-13).

Ps 99 The psalmist calls the nations to worship the Lord, the king of the earth who rules from Zion (see note on Ps 93).

99:1-5 The Lord is the holy and righteous King (Isa 6:1-5). Mount Zion, the location of the Lord's Temple, metaphorically stands as the highest point on earth (113:4; Isa 2:2; 6:1). From this summit, the Great King (47:2) can see, rule over, and receive praise from all nations and peoples.

99:1 It is fitting to tremble and quake in response to the Lord's holiness (see 96:9). • The throne between the cherubim refers to the cover of the Ark of the Covenant (Exod 25:17-22).

99:2 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion. See "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947.

99:4 The qualities of the Lord's rule include strength, justice, love, fairness, and righteousness (see 93:4; 97:2, 6-7, 12; 98:2-3, 9; 138:6). • Israel: Literally Jacob. See note on 44:4.

99:6-8 God showed favor by responding to his people in the past, while holding sinners accountable.

99:6 Moses and Samuel were great models and leaders who had prayed on behalf of the Lord's people (Exod 32:31-32; 1 Sam 12:23).

They cried to the LORD for help, and he answered them.

⁷ He spoke to Israel from the pillar of cloud, and they followed the laws and decrees he gave them.

⁸ O LORD our God, you answered them.
You were a 'forgiving God to them, but you punished them when they went wrong.

⁹ Exalt the LORD our God, and worship at his holy mountain in Jerusalem,
for the LORD our God is holy!

PSALM 100

A psalm of thanksgiving.

¹ Shout with joy to the LORD, all the earth!

² Worship the LORD with gladness.
Come before him, singing with joy.

³ Acknowledge that the LORD is God!
He made us, and we are his.
We are his people, the sheep of his pasture.

⁴ Enter his gates with ^athanksgiving;
go into his courts with praise.
^bGive thanks to him and praise his name.

⁵ For the LORD is good.
His unfailing love continues ^cforever, and his faithfulness continues to each generation.

PSALM 101

A psalm of David.

¹ I will sing of your love and justice, LORD.
I will praise you with songs.

² I will be careful to live a blameless life—when will you come to help me?

I will lead a life of integrity in my own home.

³ I will refuse to look at anything ^dvile and vulgar.

I hate all who deal crookedly;
I will have nothing to do with them.

⁴ I will reject perverse ideas and stay away from every evil.

⁵ I will not tolerate people who slander their neighbors.
I will not endure conceit and pride.

⁶ I will search for faithful people to be my companions.
Only those who are above reproach will be allowed to serve me.

⁷ I will not allow deceivers to serve in my house,
and liars will not stay in my presence.

⁸ My daily task will be to ferret out the wicked
and free the city of the LORD from their grip.

PSALM 102

A prayer of one overwhelmed with trouble, pouring out problems before the LORD.

¹ LORD, hear my prayer!
Listen to my plea!

² Don't turn away from me in my time of distress.
Bend down to listen, and answer me quickly when I call
to you.

³ For my days disappear like smoke, and my bones burn like red-hot coals.

⁴ My heart is sick, withered like grass, and I have lost my appetite.

⁵ Because of my groaning,
I am reduced to skin and bones.

⁶ I am like an owl in the desert, like a little owl in a far-off wilderness.

Ps 100 This psalm calls all nations to come to Jerusalem to worship the Lord and acknowledge his goodness to Israel.

100:3 and we are his: As in an alternate reading in the Masoretic Text; the other alternate and some ancient versions read and not we ourselves. The LORD is the one who determines who his people are. • the sheep of his pasture: God will guide and protect his people (23:1, 4).

100:4 Gates and courts were part of the Temple in Jerusalem.

Ps 101 This hymn expresses a commitment to live with integrity and to avoid evil. Jesus meets this ideal.

101:2 in my own home (literally in my house): This commitment to integrity might refer to private life at home. Some interpreters view my house as referring to the king's palace; the commitment would then refer to the policies of his administration. • Leading a life of integrity means choosing a wise lifestyle.

101:4-5 The psalmist hates what the Lord hates (Prov 6:16-19; see Ps 5:5; 11:4-5). • Perverse ideas come from corrupt human hearts (18:26).

101:6 The psalmist surrounds himself with people who are also committed to integrity (101:2).

101:7-8 The psalmist commits himself to ridding his house and the city of the LORD—representing the entire kingdom—of all evil.

Ps 102 A frail and afflicted human being prays for the Lord's compassion on Jerusalem and for his presence with its inhabitants.

102:1-2 The psalmist appeals to the Lord not to turn away (or hide your face). Israel experienced his turning his face away during their exile.

102:3 Smoke is an image of transitory life (37:20; 68:2). • The psalmist's bones represent his whole being (see 6:2; 34:19-22).

102:4 Like dried grass, the psalmist senses his life ebbing away.

102:5 skin and bones: The psalmist has wasted away because of his anguish (see 102:9; 109:24).

102:6 The owl was associated with ruin and desolation (Isa 34:11, 15).

7 I lie awake,
lonely as a solitary bird on the roof.

8 My enemies taunt me day after day.
They mock and curse me.

9 I eat ashes for food.
My tears run down into my drink

10 because of your anger and wrath.
For you have picked me up and thrown me out.

11 My life passes as swiftly as the evening shadows.
I am withering away like grass.

12 But you, O LORD, will sit on your throne
forever.
Your fame will endure to every generation.

13 You will arise and have mercy on Jerusalem—
and now is the time to pity her,
now is the time you promised to help.

14 For your people love every stone in her walls
and cherish even the dust in her streets.

15 Then the nations will tremble before the
LORD.

The kings of the earth will tremble before his glory.

16 For the LORD will rebuild Jerusalem.
He will appear in his glory.

17 He will listen to the prayers of the destitute.

He will not reject their pleas.

18 Let this be recorded for future generations,
so that a people not yet born will
praise the LORD.

19 Tell them the LORD looked down from his heavenly sanctuary.

He looked down to earth from heaven 20 to hear the groans of the prisoners, to release those condemned to die.

21 And so the LORD's fame will be celebrated in Zion,
his praises in Jerusalem,

22 when multitudes gather together and kingdoms come to worship the
LORD.

23 He broke my strength in midlife, cutting short my days.

24 But I cried to him, "O my God, who lives
forever,
don't take my life while I am so young!"

25 Long ago you laid the foundation of the earth
and made the heavens with your hands.

26 They will perish, but you remain forever;
they will wear out like old clothing.
You will change them like a garment and discard them.

27 But you are always the same;
you will live forever.

28 The children of your people will live in security.
Their children's children will thrive in your presence."

PSALM 103

A psalm of David.

¹ Let all that ^kI am praise the LORD;
with my whole heart, I will praise his holy name.

102:7-8 The psalmist cannot sleep (see 63:6-8). Like a bird on the roof, he feels isolated from both friends (see 88:8) and enemies.

102:10 The psalmist blames the Lord for his troubles.

102:11 The psalmist's existence seems empty and transitory (102:4; 109:23; 144:4).

102:12-17 The topic changes from the psalmist's miseries to the Lord's glory. A vision of the Lord's compassionate kingship gives him confidence in Zion's future.

102:12 forever . . . to every generation: The frailty of humans (102:3-11) contrasts with the permanence of the Lord.

102:13 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion; also in 102:16. • Now is the time for the Lord to restore Jerusalem from exile (see 75:2; Jer 29:10; Dan 9:1-19).

102:15-16 When the Lord arises (102:13), the nations will tremble with fear because they will see his glory (see 8:1; 19:1-4a; 24:7). The rebuilding of Zion and the Temple portray God's glory and fulfill this promise. An even greater fulfillment will come with the New Jerusalem (Rev 21).

102:17 The people of Israel were destitute (or naked) during the Exile.

102:18-22 The Lord will have mercy; Jews and Gentiles alike will worship him.

102:18 Let this be recorded: The written record stands as a memorial to the Lord's goodness.

102:19 The heavenly sanctuary refers to God's holy place on high (see 92:8-10).

102:22 The multitudes—both Jews and Gentiles—will join in the worship of the Lord (see 96:7, 9; 106:48; Isa 2:2-4; 43:10-13; 57:15; 60:3-7).

102:23-28 Although the psalmist suffers in the present, he bases his hope for the future on the Lord's past faithfulness.

102:24 The psalmist draws a contrast between his days (102:23) and God's years (cp. 90:4).

102:25-27 In contrast with the permanence of the Creator, the created order will wear out like a piece of clothing (see Isa 40:28). • The writer to the Hebrews describes this passage as having been addressed to Jesus, the Son (Heb 1:10-12).

102:28 The Lord's presence provides the basis for the security and happiness of his people (23:6).

Ps 103 This psalm celebrates the Lord's perfection, compassion, forgiveness, and goodness. The structure of the psalm is an acrostic poem, with one verse for each letter in the Hebrew alphabet (see also Pss 9–10, 25, 34, 37, 38, 111, 112, 119, 145).

103:1-6 The psalmist offers praise for the Lord's goodness.

- ² Let all that I am praise the LORD;
may I never forget the good things he does for me.
- ³ He forgives all my sins and heals all my diseases.
- ⁴ He ^aredeems me from death and crowns me with ^blove and tender mercies.
- ⁵ He fills my life with good things.
My youth is ^crenewed like the eagle's!
- ⁶ The LORD gives righteousness and ^djustice to all who are treated unfairly.
- ⁷ He revealed his character to Moses and his deeds to the people of Israel.
- ⁸ The LORD is compassionate and merciful, ^eslow to get angry and filled with unfailing love.
- ⁹ He will not constantly accuse us,
nor remain angry forever.
- ¹⁰ He does not punish us for all our sins;
he does not deal harshly with us, as we deserve.
- ¹¹ For his unfailing love toward those who fear him
is as great as the height of the heavens above the earth.
- ¹² He has removed our ^fsins as far from us as the east is from the west.
- ¹³ The LORD is like a father to his children, tender and ^gcompassionate to those who fear him.
- ¹⁴ For he knows how weak we are;
he remembers we are only dust.
- ¹⁵ Our days on earth are like grass;
like wildflowers, we bloom and die.

- ¹⁶ The wind blows, and we are gone—
as though we had never been here.
- ¹⁷ But the love of the LORD remains forever with those who fear him.
His salvation extends to the children's children
- ¹⁸ of those who are faithful to his covenant, of those who obey his
commandments!
- ¹⁹ The LORD has made the heavens his ^hthrone;
from there he rules over everything.

- ²⁰ Praise the LORD, you ⁱangels, you mighty ones who carry out his plans,
listening for each of his commands.
- ²¹ Yes, praise the LORD, you ^jarmies of angels who ^kserve him and do his will!
- ²² Praise the LORD, everything he has created,
everything in all his kingdom.

Let all that I am praise the LORD.

PSALM 104

- ¹ Let all that I am praise the LORD.
O LORD my God, how great you are!
You are robed with honor and majesty.
- ² You are dressed in a robe of light.
You stretch out the starry curtain of the
heavens;
- ³ you lay out the rafters of your home in the rain clouds.
You make the clouds your chariot;
you ride upon the wings of the wind.

103:7–8 The Lord revealed himself to Moses in distinctive ways that ensured his relationship with his people (see Exod 34:6–7; Num 14:18).

103:9 If the Lord were to constantly accuse or remain angry forever, no one would be left (see Isa 54:7–8; 57:16).

103:11–12 The Lord's love and forgiveness are infinite and complete.

103:13 The LORD is like a father to his children: This analogy forms the basis for Jesus' teaching about God's fatherhood (see Matt 5:43–48; 6:1; 10:19–20; 12:50; Luke 6:36; 12:29–32; John 8:31–59; 15:1–8; see also 2 Sam 7:14; Jer 3:19; 31:9; Mal 1:6; 2 Cor 6:16–18).

103:14–16 The Lord compassionately cares for frail humans (see 37:2; 90:5; 92:7; 102:4; Isa 40:6–8).

103:17–19 the love of the LORD remains forever: The Lord's kingdom is everlasting, so he commits himself to his people across many generations.

103:18 To obey God means to be faithful and loyal to him.

103:20–21 The psalmist exhorts the Lord's angels, his servants and messengers, to praise the Lord.

103:22 God's kingdom extends over all things, so all things are called to praise the Lord. • The concluding phrase takes us back to 103:1–2.

Ps 104 This creation hymn (see also Pss 8, 33, 145) exalts God's goodness and majesty. The psalmist reflects on the present world, the original creation, and a future new creation. He sees both creations as marvelously and wisely made (cp. 139:14), as the work of the Lord's Spirit (104:30; Gen 1:2; 2 Cor 3:6).

104:1 Let all that I am praise the LORD: Pss 103 and 104 each open and close with this commitment to praise (103:1–2, 22; 104:1, 35). • how great you are! This acclamation expresses praise for rescue (see also 35:27; 40:16; 70:4).

104:2–4 The psalmist interacts with two of the days of creation (see Gen 1:1–8), when God created the heavens and light.

104:3 This poetic portrayal envisions the clouds as beams that support heaven.

104:4 The winds are your messengers; / flames of fire are your servants: Greek version reads He sends his angels like the winds, / his servants like flames of fire. Cp. Heb 1:7, where the Greek version is quoted. • Wind and lightning are seen as divine messengers. The Lord uses weather phenomena as he desires (77:17–18; 78:26; 135:7; 148:5–6). • The psalmist interacts with day three of creation (Gen 1:9–13). The Lord is master of water and earth.

so they would never again cover the
earth.

10 You make springs pour water into the ravines,
so streams gush down from the mountains.

11 They provide water for all the animals, and the wild donkeys quench their thirst.

12 The birds nest beside the streams and sing among the branches of the trees.

13 You send rain on the mountains from your heavenly home,
and you fill the earth with the fruit of your labor.

14 You cause grass to grow for the livestock and plants for people to use.
You allow them to produce food from
the earth—

15 wine to make them glad, olive oil to soothe their skin,
and bread to give them strength.

16 The trees of the LORD are well cared for—the cedars of Lebanon that he planted.

17 There the birds make their nests, and the storks make their homes in the cypresses.

18 High in the mountains live the wild goats,
and the rocks form a refuge for the hyraxes.

19 You made the moon to mark the seasons, and the sun knows when to set.

Praise Psalms (Ps 103)

Pss 9, 18, 32, 34,
46-48, 93, 96-99,
113, 116, 124, 129,
136, 138

The Hebrew title of the book of Psalms means "Praises," and that title accurately defines a large number of the psalms. God is praised for his nature and for his great acts in creation and history. Praise psalms were written for individual use and for the community.

Individual praise (Pss 9, 18, 32, 34, 116, 138). It was customary in Temple worship to give verbal thanks before the whole assembly whenever a vow-offering or a thank-offering was made (see, e.g., 22:22-26; 66:13-20; 116:17-19). Such opportunities for personal praise and testimony must have added warmth and significance to worship. Each act of rescue and every experience of God's mercy became part of the cumulative, ongoing story of salvation. Worship was not simply a recital of God's deeds in earlier centuries.

Communal praise (Pss 103, 113, 124, 129, 136). When the community gathered, they praised the Lord in song for his acts in history (Ps 103) or for a specific recent manifestation of his mercy (Pss 124, 129). In Ps 103, the psalmist praises God for his mercy to each individual (103:1-5) and to the whole community (103:6-14). The frailty of humanity contrasts with God's constancy (103:15-18); his universal and absolute rule merits universal praise (103:19-22).

104:6 At first, water covered the earth.

104:7 The Lord created dry ground on day three of creation (Gen 1:9-13).

104:8 The earth originates in God's will.

104:9-10 The Lord reigns over all bodies of water, including those on land. He replaced chaotic waters with order and abundance, and the earth became a splendid place for animals and humans, with water refreshing the ground, the birds, and the animals.

104:9 The Lord set a firm boundary for the seas to protect the land. God's sovereignty over sea and land was an argument against the existence of Baal, whom the Canaanites celebrated as victorious over the waters (see Ps 29).

104:11-18 The psalmist celebrates animal, plant, and human life, as well as the Lord's abundant provision for all of it (Gen 1:9-30).

104:14 people to use: People are the managers of the created order, and they receive nourishment from the work of their hands.

104:15 While both can be misused (cp. Prov 21:17), the Lord provides wine and olive oil as gifts to enhance life. Life is sustained by basic food, represented by bread.

104:17-18 The storks migrated from northern Europe and resided in Palestine during the winter. • hyraxes (or *coney*s, or rock badgers): These animals are about the size of a rabbit and live in rocky places.

104:19-23 The psalmist rejoices in the order of night and day, marking day four of creation (Gen 1:14-19). This cycle gives all creatures an opportunity to live.

104:19 the moon to mark the seasons: Ancient Israel based its calendar on the cycles of the moon (see chart, p. 145). • the sun knows when to set: This is a poetic description from the perspective of normal observation. The sun goes down at a regular time every evening.

²⁰ You send the darkness, and it becomes night, when all the forest animals prowl about.

²¹ Then the young lions roar for their prey, stalking the food provided by God.

²² At dawn they slink back into their dens to rest.

²³ Then people go off to their work,
where they labor until evening.

²⁴ O LORD, what a variety of things you have made!

In wisdom you have made them all.
The earth is full of your creatures.

²⁵ Here is the ocean, vast and wide, teeming with life of every kind,
both large and small.

²⁶ See the ships sailing along,
and Leviathan, which you made to play in the sea.

²⁷ They all depend on you to give them food as they need it.

²⁸ When you supply it, they gather it.
You open your hand to feed them,
and they are richly satisfied.

²⁹ But if you turn away from them, they panic.

When you take away their breath,
they die and turn again to dust.

³⁰ When you give them your ^abreath, life is created, and you ^brenew the face of the earth.

³¹ May the glory of the LORD continue forever!

The LORD takes pleasure in all he has made!

³² The earth trembles at his glance;
the mountains smoke at his touch.

³³ I will sing to the LORD as long as I live.

I will praise my God to my last breath!

³⁴ May all my thoughts be pleasing to him,
for I rejoice in the LORD.

³⁵ Let all sinners vanish from the face of the earth;
let the wicked disappear forever.

Let all that I am praise the LORD.

Praise the LORD!

PSALM 105

Ps 105:1-15 // 1 Chr 16:8-22

Let the whole world know what he has done.

² Sing to him; yes, sing his praises.
Tell everyone about his wonderful deeds.

³ Exult in his holy name;
rejoice, you who worship the LORD.

⁴ Search for the LORD and for his strength; continually seek him.

⁵ Remember the wonders he has performed, his miracles, and the rulings he has given,

104:20-23 Cycles of darkness and dawn mark the days on earth. • Some creatures live nocturnally, while others become active during the day.

104:24-26 The Lord's works testify to his wisdom. All parts fit together—land and sea, night and day, land creatures and sea creatures. The Lord's wisdom makes life orderly and wonderful.

104:25 The ocean, . . . teeming with life of every kind (see Gen 1:20-21), exemplifies the Lord's creative activities.

104:26 ships sailing: Commercial vessels engaged in sea trade were one of the wonders of the ancient Near East (see Isa 2:16; 23:1, 3). • The identification of Leviathan is disputed, ranging from an earthly creature to a mythical sea monster in ancient literature. The psalmist says that this feared creature is nothing but the Lord's pet.

104:27-30 All life depends on the gracious sustenance of the Lord of life and death (cp. Matt 6:11).

104:29-30 When you give them your breath: Or When you send your Spirit. Life on earth is only possible as the Lord's gift, symbolized by his breath (Hebrew ruakh, "breath, wind, spirit"). The Lord's Spirit is the agent of renewal (Isa 32:15-20).

104:31-35 The psalmist moves from describing the known creation to anticipating the new creation, when the Lord will renew the created order into a world without sinners.

104:31 The Lord reveals his presence in the created order (see 8:1; 19:1-4; 24:7) and takes pleasure in his new creation (see Isa 65:19).

104:32 The trembling earth and the smoking mountains represent the Lord's coming in judgment against sinners and salvation for his faithful people (see 18:7-15).

104:35 The Lord will remove all forms of evil that defile his creation. • The concluding phrase takes us back to 104:1 (see also 103:1-2, 22; 146:1).

Ps 105 This hymn praises the Lord's faithfulness to Abraham and his descendants in all their journeys—from Ur to Canaan (105:12), to Egypt (105:17, 23), through the wilderness (105:37, 41), and back to Canaan (105:44). All of this fulfilled the Lord's promise to Abraham (105:9, 42), which was the basis for Israel's very existence. Joseph, whose suffering was changed into glory, is a paradigm of encouragement for Israel (105:16-25). • Verses 1-15 (along with 96:1-13; 106:1, 47-48) are included in David's song of praise recorded in 1 Chr 16.

105:1-5 The poet begins with the exhortation, Give thanks (see also 106:1; 107:1; 118:1; 136:1). The other psalms continue with the refrain, "for he is good!" The rest of Ps 105 tells of God's goodness.

105:6-11 The story of Israel is based on the Lord's commitment to Abraham. Even when a question arises about the future of God's covenant with David (Ps 89), God's covenant with Abraham stands, as does the spiritual bond between God and Israel, Abraham's descendants.

6 you children of his servant Abraham, you descendants of Jacob, his chosen ones.

7 He is the LORD our God.
His justice is seen throughout the land.

8 He always stands by his covenant—the commitment he made to a thousand generations.

9 This is the covenant he made with Abraham
and the oath he swore to Isaac.

10 He confirmed it to Jacob as a decree, and to the people of Israel as a never-ending covenant:

11 “I will give you the land of Canaan as your special possession.”

12 He said this when they were few in number,
a tiny group of strangers in Canaan.

13 They wandered from nation to nation,
from one kingdom to another.

14 Yet he did not let anyone oppress them.
He warned kings on their behalf:

15 “Do not touch my chosen people, and do not hurt my prophets.”

16 He called for a famine on the land of Canaan,
cutting off its food supply.

17 Then he sent someone to Egypt ahead of
them—
Joseph, who was sold as a slave.

18 They bruised his feet with fetters and placed his neck in an iron collar.

19 Until the time came to fulfill his dreams,
the LORD tested Joseph's character.

20 Then Pharaoh sent for him and set him
free;
the ruler of the nation opened his prison door.

21 Joseph was put in charge of all the king's household;
he became ruler over all the king's possessions.

22 He could instruct the king's aides as he pleased and teach the king's advisers.

23 Then Israel arrived in Egypt;
Jacob lived as a foreigner in the land of Ham.

24 And the LORD multiplied the people of Israel
until they became too mighty for their
enemies.

25 Then he turned the Egyptians against the Israelites, and they plotted against the LORD's servants.

26 But the LORD sent his servant Moses, along with Aaron, whom he had chosen.

27 They performed miraculous signs
among the Egyptians, and wonders in the land of Ham.

28 The LORD blanketed Egypt in darkness, for they had defied his commands to let his people go.

29 He turned their water into blood, poisoning all the fish.

30 Then frogs overran the land and even invaded the king's bedrooms.

31 When the LORD spoke, flies descended on the Egyptians,
and gnats swarmed across Egypt.

32 He sent them hail instead of rain, and lightning flashed over the land.

33 He ruined their grapevines and fig trees and shattered all the trees.

34 He spoke, and hordes of locusts came—young locusts beyond number.

35 They ate up everything green in the land, destroying all the crops in their fields.

36 Then he killed the oldest son in each Egyptian home,
the pride and joy of each family.

37 The LORD brought his people out of Egypt, loaded with silver and gold;

105:8 The covenant is the Lord's irrevocable oath to be the Father of Abraham and his descendants (see Gen 12:1-9; 15:1-21).

105:11 God promised the land of Canaan to Abraham's descendants as their special possession, where they could live as God's people (105:44-45; Gen 12:7; 15:7-21).

105:12-15 The Lord protected Israel's patriarchs.

105:15 Abraham was one of the nation's prophets (Gen 20:7).

105:16-22 These verses tell the story of Joseph (see Gen 37-41).

105:19 his dreams: Literally his word. * tested Joseph's character: See Gen 39:6-12.

105:22 instruct: As in Greek and Syriac versions; Hebrew reads bind or imprison.

105:23-25 These verses tell the story of Israel's affliction in Egypt (see Exod 1:1-14).

105:23 Egypt (Hebrew mitsrayim) was in the land of Ham (see map, p. 39).

105:26-36 The psalmist recounts the story of Moses and the plagues in Egypt (Exod 7:20-12:30).

105:28 had defied: As in Greek and Syriac versions; Hebrew reads had not defied.

105:37-45 The Exodus and the conquest of Canaan fulfilled God's promise to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (105:9-10). Unlike Ps 78, the poet recites the Lord's goodness without commenting on Israel's history of rebellion (cp. Ps 106).

105:37 not one . . . stumbled: The Lord protected all of his people (cp. 9:3).

- and not one among the tribes of Israel even stumbled.
- ³⁸ Egypt was glad when they were gone, for they feared them greatly.
- ³⁹ The LORD spread a cloud above them as a covering and gave them a great fire to light the darkness.
- ⁴⁰ They asked for meat, and he sent them quail; he satisfied their hunger with manna—bread from heaven.
- ⁴¹ He split open a rock, and water gushed out to form a river through the dry wasteland.
- ⁴² For he remembered his sacred promise to his servant Abraham.
- ⁴³ So he brought his people out of Egypt with joy, his chosen ones with rejoicing.
- ⁴⁴ He gave his people the lands of pagan nations, and they harvested crops that others had planted.
- ⁴⁵ All this happened so they would follow his decrees and obey his instructions.

Praise the LORD!

PSALM 106

Ps 106:1, 47-48 // 1 Chr 16:34-36

Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good!
His faithful love endures forever.

² Who can list the glorious miracles of the LORD?

Who can ever praise him enough?

³ There is ^ajoy for those who deal ^ajustly with others and always do what is right.

- ⁴ Remember me, LORD, when you show favor to your people; come near and rescue me.
- ⁵ Let me share in the prosperity of your chosen ones.
Let me rejoice in the joy of your people;
let me praise you with those who are your heritage.
- ⁶ Like our ancestors, we have sinned.
We have done wrong! We have acted wickedly!
- ⁷ Our ancestors in Egypt were not impressed by the LORD's miraculous deeds.
They soon forgot his many acts of kindness to them.
Instead, they rebelled against him at the Red Sea.
- ⁸ Even so, he saved them—to defend the honor of his name and to demonstrate his mighty power.
- ⁹ He commanded the Red Sea to dry up.
He led Israel across the sea as if it were a desert.
- ¹⁰ So he rescued them from their enemies and redeemed them from their foes.
- ¹¹ Then the water returned and covered their enemies;
not one of them survived.
- ¹² Then his people ^bbelieved his promises.
Then they sang his praise.
- ¹³ Yet how quickly they forgot what he had done!
They wouldn't wait for his counsel!
- ¹⁴ In the wilderness their desires ran wild, testing God's patience in that dry wasteland.

105:39 The Lord's presence was as evident to all as a fire in the darkness (Exod 13:22).

105:42-45 The story of redemption is also the story of the Lord's faithfulness.

105:44 Canaan was a land of pagan nations (see 111:6). The psalmist might also be reflecting on God's promise to Abraham (Gen 24:60) regarding the lands given to Isaac (Gen 26:3).

105:45 The Lord planned for Israel to testify about him by obeying him; Israel was to be his model people.

Ps 106 The Israelite community in exile confessed the Lord's goodness and justice and their own historic sinfulness. From the humble state of exile, they pleaded for redemption and restoration, asking to be gathered back from all the places the Lord had scattered them in his wrath. The psalm does not end in despair but with the memory of the Lord's former mercy and the hope that his mercy will be renewed (106:44-48). Israel failed, but the Lord is constant. • Verses 1, 47-48 (along with 96:1-13; 105:1-15) are included in David's song of praise recorded in 1 Chr 16.

106:1 Praise the LORD! This refrain (Hebrew haleluyah) characterizes four small subgroups in the psalms: 104-106, 111-113, 115-117, 146-150.

106:2-3 Wise people who practice justice and righteousness receive encouragement to proclaim the Lord's great acts.

106:4-5 The poet prays individually for the Lord's favor before leading the community confession that follows.

106:6-13 The community joins together to confess their sins and their ancestors' many acts of unbelief.

106:6 The story of Israel's redemption encompasses their sinful response from the days of the ancestors to the present (106:43). The themes of sin and divine wrath both open and close Book Four (90:1-9; 106:6, 23, 43).

106:7 at the Red Sea: Literally at the sea, the sea of reeds. See note on Exod 13:18.

106:9 Red Sea: Literally sea of reeds; also in 106:22. See Exod 14:15-31.

106:13 They wouldn't wait: God's impatient people did not trust him to work according to his will (e.g., see Exod 15:24; 16:2-3; 17:1-3; Num 14:26-45; 21:4-9).

- 15 So he gave them what they asked for,
but he sent a plague along with it.
- 16 The people in the camp were jealous of Moses and envious of Aaron, the LORD's holy priest.
- 17 Because of this, the earth opened up;
it swallowed Dathan and buried Abiram and the other rebels.
- 18 Fire fell upon their followers;
a flame consumed the wicked.
- 19 The people made a calf at Mount Sinai; they bowed before an image made of gold.
- 20 They traded their glorious God for a statue of a grass-eating bull.
- 21 They forgot God, their savior, who had done such great things in Egypt—
- 22 such wonderful things in the land of Ham,
such awesome deeds at the Red Sea.
- 23 So he declared he would destroy them.
But Moses, his chosen one, stepped between the LORD and the people.
He begged him to turn from his anger and not destroy them.
- 24 The people refused to enter the pleasant
land,
for they wouldn't believe his promise to care for them.
- 25 Instead, they grumbled in their tents and refused to obey the LORD.
- 26 Therefore, he solemnly swore that he would kill them in the wilderness,
- 27 that he would scatter their descendants
among the nations,
exiling them to distant lands.

- 28 Then our ancestors joined in the worship of Baal at Peor;
they even ate sacrifices offered to the dead!
- 29 They angered the LORD with all these things,
so a plague broke out among them.
- 30 But Phinehas had the courage to intervene,
and the plague was stopped.
- 31 So he has been regarded as a righteous man ever since that time.
- 32 At Meribah, too, they angered the LORD, causing Moses serious trouble.
- 33 They made Moses angry,
and he spoke foolishly.
- 34 Israel failed to destroy the nations in the
land,
as the LORD had commanded them.
- 35 Instead, they mingled among the pagans and adopted their evil customs.
- 36 They worshiped their idols,
which led to their downfall.
- 37 They even sacrificed their sons and their daughters to the demons.
- 38 They shed innocent blood,
the blood of their sons and daughters.
By sacrificing them to the idols of Canaan,
they polluted the land with murder.
- 39 They defiled themselves by their evil
deeds,
and their love of idols was adultery in the LORD's sight.
- 40 That is why the LORD's anger burned against his people, and he abhorred his own special possession.

106:15 he sent a plague: See Exod 32:35; Num 11:33.

106:16-18 The people became jealous because they presumed to have the same privileges as God's appointed priests (see Num 16:1-35). • the earth opened up: See Num 16:28-33.

106:19-23 they bowed before an image: The people forgot their Savior and committed the sin of idolatry (see Exod 32:1-6).

106:19 at Mount Sinai: Hebrew at Horeb, another name for Sinai.

106:22 The land of Ham is Egypt.

106:24-25 The people disobeyed God's command when they refused to enter the pleasant land (the Promised Land; see Jer 3:19). • they wouldn't believe his promise: See Num 13:25-14:12.

106:26-27 God's judgment when Israel refused to obey was death and exile (Num 14:26-30). The occasion for these severe judgments seems to have been disobeying God's word (106:24-25) and provoking the Lord's wrath (106:28-46).

106:28-39 Israel's idolatry outside of the land came with them into their land. Their nature did not change; they continued to provoke the Lord to anger by their actions.

106:28 the worship of Baal at Peor: See Num 25:3; Deut 4:3.

106:30-33 Phinehas, who executed a flagrantly apostate Israelite man (Num 25:3-8), is an even better model of a righteous man than Moses, who failed at Meribah (Num 20:11-13).

106:33 They made Moses angry:

Literally They embittered his spirit. As a result, he spoke foolishly and disobeyed the Lord (see Num 20:12).

106:34 Israel continued to disobey the word of the Lord while living in the Promised Land. Rather than destroying the nations, Israel accepted them and their ways (see Judg 2:1-3, 11-15; 3:5-6).

106:37 Pagan gods were demons (see Deut 32:17).

106:39 Idolatry, like adultery, defiles God's people (see Lev 18:24; Hos 5:3).

106:40-46 The psalmist returns to the Babylonian exile (106:26-27). The Lord judged Israel severely, but he also restrained his wrath, remembering the covenant he had made with Abraham.

106:40 God abhorred Israel's sin, as he does all sin.

⁴¹ He handed them over to pagan nations, and they were ruled by those who hated them.

⁴² Their enemies crushed them and brought them under their cruel
power.

⁴³ Again and again he rescued them, but they chose to rebel against him, and they were finally destroyed by their sin.

⁴⁴ Even so, he pitied them in their distress and listened to their cries.

⁴⁵ He remembered his covenant with them and relented because of his unfailing
love.

⁴⁶ He even caused their captors to treat them with kindness.

⁴⁷ Save us, O LORD our God!
Gather us back from among the nations, so we can thank your holy name and rejoice and praise you.

⁴⁸ Praise the LORD, the God of Israel, who lives from everlasting to everlasting!
Let all the people say, "Amen!"
Praise the LORD!

5. BOOK FIVE (PSS 107–150)

PSALM 107

¹ Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good!
His faithful love endures forever.

² Has the LORD ⁸redeemed you? Then speak out!
Tell others he has ⁸redeemed you from your enemies.

³ For he has gathered the exiles from many lands,
from east and west,
from north and south.

⁴ Some wandered in the wilderness, lost and homeless.

⁵ Hungry and thirsty,
they nearly died.

⁶ "LORD, help!" they cried in their trouble, and he rescued them from their distress.

⁷ He led them straight to safety, to a city where they could live.

⁸ Let them praise the LORD for his great
love
and for the wonderful things he has done for them.

⁹ For he satisfies the thirsty and fills the hungry with good things.

¹⁰ Some sat in darkness and deepest gloom, imprisoned in iron chains of misery.

¹¹ They rebelled against the words of God, scorning the counsel of the Most High.

¹² That is why he broke them with hard labor;
they fell, and no one was there to help
them.

106:43-44 When Israel was finally destroyed, the destruction was not complete. The Lord pitied them, so he left a remnant.

106:45 He remembered . . . and relented: Unlike Israel, the Lord is faithful to his covenant (105:8).

106:46 As harsh as the Exile was, the Lord still protected his people (see 2 Kgs 25:27-29).

106:47 Gather us back: The community prays for restoration from exile (see 102:19-22; 107:3; see also Isa 11:12; 40:11; 43:5; 54:7; 56:8; 66:18).

106:48 This doxology concludes Book Four (cp. 41:13; 89:52). • from everlasting to everlasting! The reference to God's eternal nature links to the opening of Book Four (Ps 90:1-2). • Let all the people say, "Amen!": The Hebrew word amen means "It is true." The godly accept the Lord's will in exile and his promise to be their God.

Book Five (Pss 107–150) This final book of the Psalter was shaped in the context of Israel's return from exile in Babylon. God's sovereign power and loving faithfulness to his covenant people were demonstrated as he restored and exalted them. The uncertainty in Book Four about the future of David's royal line (see 89:38) finds positive resolution in Book Five. The psalms of David occur in greater number in this final book than they do in Books Three and Four, and David is remembered for the covenant he received and for his devotion to the Lord (e.g., Ps 132). Thus, there remains the prospect of a coming King. Book Five contains two early liturgical collections: the "Egyptian Hallel" (Pss 113–118) and the "Great Hallel" (Pss 120–136; hallel means "praise"). The Great Hallel is largely made up of a collection known as the "Songs of Ascents" or "Pilgrim Psalms" (Pss 120–134). The Psalter then returns to its roots with a collection of David's psalms dominated by lament (Pss 138–145), followed by a section of praise to conclude the whole book of Psalms (Pss 146–150).

Ps 107 This psalm is a hymn of praise to God the Redeemer. After an introduction exhorting the redeemed to praise God for his goodness (107:1-3), the poet brings together four case studies of people whom the Lord redeemed from adversity (107:4-32). He then sums up the Lord's sovereignty (107:33-42) and concludes with an invitation to discern God's unfailing love in all areas of life (107:43).

107:2 The redeemed might be all who came out of exile.

107:3 exiles: People came from all nations where the people of Israel and Judah had been scattered. • and south: Literally and sea.

107:4-9 Those who were lost in the wilderness thank God for his rescue. The wilderness might be a metaphor for leaving the path of wisdom (1:1; Prov 4:10-15).

107:6 The psalmist does not specify the occasion of his trouble and distress. The generic nature of the adversity permits readers in a variety of circumstances to identify with the laments.

107:7-8 God led them like a shepherd (see 23:1). • Verse 8 is a refrain that is repeated in 107:15, 21, 31.

107:10-16 The psalmist calls for thanksgiving and praise from people in despair over the consequences of their rebellion.

107:11 God's counsel includes his instruction and will.

13 "LORD, help!" they cried in their trouble,
and he saved them from their distress.

14 He led them from the darkness and deepest gloom;
he snapped their chains.

15 Let them praise the LORD for his great love
and for the wonderful things he has done for them.

16 For he broke down their prison gates of bronze;
he cut apart their bars of iron.

17 Some were fools; they rebelled and suffered for their sins.

18 They couldn't stand the thought of food, and they were knocking on death's door.

19 "LORD, help!" they cried in their trouble,
and he saved them from their distress.

20 He sent out his word and healed them, snatching them from the door of death.

21 Let them praise the LORD for his great
love
and for the wonderful things he has done for them.

22 Let them offer sacrifices of ^hthanksgiving and sing joyfully about his glorious acts.

23 Some went off to sea in ships, plying the trade routes of the world.

24 They, too, observed the LORD's power in action,
his impressive works on the deepest
seas.

25 He spoke, and the winds rose, stirring up the waves.

26 Their ships were tossed to the heavens and plunged again to the depths;
the sailors cringed in terror.

27 They reeled and staggered like drunkards and were at their wits' end.

28 "LORD, help!" they cried in their trouble,
and he saved them from their distress.

29 He calmed the storm to a whisper and stilled the waves.

30 What a blessing was that stillness as he brought them safely into harbor!

31 Let them praise the LORD for his great
love
and for the wonderful things he has done for them.

32 Let them exalt him publicly before the congregation
and before the leaders of the nation.

33 He changes rivers into deserts, and springs of water into dry, thirsty
land.

34 He turns the fruitful land into salty
wastelands,
because of the wickedness of those who live there.

35 But he also turns deserts into pools of
water,
the dry land into springs of water.

36 He brings the hungry to settle there and to build their cities.

37 They sow their fields, plant their vineyards,
and harvest their bumper crops.

38 How he blesses them!
They raise large families there,
and their herds of livestock increase.

39 When they decrease in number and become impoverished through oppression, trouble, and sorrow,

40 the LORD pours contempt on their princes, causing them to wander in trackless
wastelands.

41 But he rescues the poor from trouble and increases their families like flocks of sheep.

42 The godly will see these things and be glad,
while the wicked are struck silent.

43 Those who are wise will take all this to
heart;
they will see in our history the faithful love of the LORD.

(Lam 5:13), the people fell. While this might be expected of the wicked (9:3; 27:2), it was unlike the Israelites' flight from Egypt (105:37).

107:17-22 Fools who received what they deserved but were rescued from death offer thanksgiving to the Lord.

107:20 The Lord creates (Gen 1:3) and sustains the universe (Heb 1:3) simply by speaking (147:18); when he speaks, people are also healed (Matt 8:8).

107:23-32 Sailors give thanks to the Lord when he saves them from the chaos and peril of the sea.

107:25-29 The same God who speaks and brings about the sailors' distress can also calm the storm with just a word (cp. Jon 1:4; Matt 8:26).

107:32 This call for public praise expands the refrains in 107:21-22 and 107:31.

107:33-42 These two sections (107:33-38, 39-42) expand the theme of the Lord's sovereignty over things that humans cannot control.

107:33-35 The Lord can choose to make the earth fertile or barren (74:15; Isa 35:6-7).

107:38 God's presence can be seen in the abundance of his people's families and herds (127:3; 133:3; cp. 109:8).

107:39 People often become impoverished when their rulers practice oppression.

107:40 In his contempt for human rulers, the Lord rectifies their corruption on earth.

107:41 The large families of the poor are evidence of God's blessing.

107:42-43 Justice prevails in God's world (1:6), and Israel's history demonstrates God's faithful love.

PSALM 108

A song. A psalm of David.

- ¹ My heart is confident in you, O God;
no wonder I can sing your praises with all my heart!
- ² Wake up, lyre and harp!
I will wake the dawn with my song.
- ³ I will thank you, LORD, among all the
people.
I will sing your praises among the
nations.
- ⁴ For your unfailing love is higher than the
heavens.
Your faithfulness reaches to the clouds.
- ⁵ Be exalted, O God, above the highest
heavens.
May your glory shine over all the
earth.
- ⁶ Now rescue your beloved people.
Answer and save us by your power.
- ⁷ God has promised this by his holiness:
"I will divide up Shechem with joy.
I will measure out the valley of Succoth.
- ⁸ Gilead is mine,
and Manasseh, too.
Ephraim, my helmet, will produce my warriors, and Judah, my scepter, will produce my kings.
- ⁹ But Moab, my washbasin, will become my servant,
and I will wipe my feet on Edom
and shout in triumph over Philistia."
- ¹⁰ Who will bring me into the fortified
city?
Who will bring me victory over Edom?
- ¹¹ Have you rejected us, O God?
Will you no longer march with our armies?
- ¹² Oh, please help us against our enemies,
for all human help is useless.

- ¹³ With God's help we will do mighty things,
for he will trample down our foes.

PSALM 109

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- ¹ O God, whom I praise, don't stand silent and aloof
- ² while the wicked slander me and tell lies about me.
- ³ They surround me with hateful words and fight against me for no reason.
- ⁴ I love them, but they try to destroy me with accusations
even as I am praying for them!
- ⁵ They repay evil for good,
and hatred for my love.
- ⁶ They say, "Get an evil person to turn against him.
Send an ^aaccuser to bring him to trial.
- ⁷ When his case comes up for judgment,
let him be pronounced guilty.
Count his prayers as sins.
- ⁸ Let his years be few;
let someone else take his position.
- ⁹ May his children become fatherless, and his wife a widow.
- ¹⁰ May his children wander as beggars and be driven from their ruined homes.
- ¹¹ May creditors seize his entire estate, and strangers take all he has earned.
- ¹² Let no one be kind to him;
let no one pity his fatherless children.
- ¹³ May all his offspring die.
May his family name be blotted out in the next generation.
- ¹⁴ May the LORD never forget the sins of his fathers;
may his mother's sins never be erased
from the record.
- ¹⁵ May the LORD always remember these
sins,
and may his name disappear from human memory.

Ps 108 This psalm combines two excerpts from David's other psalms (cp. 57:5, 7-11; 60:5-12).

108:7 by his holiness: Or in his sanctuary.

Ps 109 The psalmist begins this lament with a general charge against his accusers: They do evil in return for good (109:1-5). At the end of the psalm, he turns to the Lord in prayer, asking for his protection (109:21-25) and vengeance (109:26-31).

109:1 The psalmist sees no evidence that God cares (see 28:1).

109:4-5 The psalmist's acts of kindness and godliness (see 35:12-14) have only met with stubborn opposition and expressions of hatred.

109:6-19 The NLT translates these verses as the words of the psalmist's accusers; Hebrew lacks They say, which makes it unclear who is speaking.

109:8-11 Family members of those guilty of capital crimes often died with the perpetrator (Num 16:1-33; Josh 7:1-25) or had their property confiscated (1 Kgs 21:13-16).

109:8 The wicked person apparently held a position of leadership. Peter referred to this psalm in regard to Judas Iscariot (Acts 1:20-26).

109:13 If one's family name was blotted out, it meant there was no offspring to carry on the family name or remember its history (see Prov 10:7).

109:14 Children inherit the sinful nature of their parents (51:5; Exod 20:5; Eph 2:3). The speaker wants the Lord to punish the perpetrator for the guilt of family members who went before him (cp. Matt 23:35-36).

Ps 96:9

16 For he refused all kindness to others;
he persecuted the poor and needy, and he hounded the brokenhearted to death.

17 He loved to curse others;
now you curse him.

He never blessed others;
now don't you bless him.

18 Cursing is as natural to him as his clothing,
or the water he drinks,
or the rich food he eats.

19 Now may his curses return and cling to him like clothing;
may they be tied around him like a belt."

20 May those curses become the LORD's punishment
for my accusers who speak evil of me.

21 But deal well with me, O Sovereign LORD, for the sake of your own reputation!

Rescue me
because you are so faithful and good.

22 For I am poor and needy, and my heart is full of pain.

23 I am fading like a shadow at dusk;
I am brushed off like a locust.

24 My knees are weak from fasting,
and I am skin and bones.

25 I am a joke to people everywhere; when they see me, they shake their heads in scorn.

26 Help me, O LORD my God!
Save me because of your unfailing
love.

27 Let them see that this is your doing, that you yourself have done it, LORD.

28 Then let them curse me if they like,
but you will bless me!

When they attack me, they will be disgraced!
But I, your servant, will go right on rejoicing!

29 May my accusers be clothed with disgrace;
may their humiliation cover them like a cloak.

30 But I will ^agive repeated thanks to the LORD,
^bpraising him to everyone.

31 For he stands beside the needy, ready to save them from those who condemn them.

PSALM 110

A psalm of David.

¹ The LORD said to my Lord,
"Sit in the place of honor at my right hand
until I humble your enemies, making them a footstool under your feet."

² The LORD will extend your powerful kingdom from Jerusalem;
you will rule over your enemies.

³ When you go to war,
your people will serve you willingly.
You are arrayed in holy garments, and your strength will be renewed each day like the morning dew.

109:16 The defendant committed capital crimes and did not exercise even basic decency.

109:18 Cursing is the accused person's whole way of life.

109:20 The psalmist appeals to the principle of retribution (see 94:23).

109:21-25 Vulnerable and miserable, the psalmist appeals to his Lord for help. The accusations have killed his inner spirit and even his physical stamina.

109:21 The Lord's reputation is at stake. If the wicked triumph, others could think that the Lord is also wicked and be drawn to that wickedness (1:1).

109:23 A shadow at dusk suggests a transitory, empty existence (102:11; 144:4); a single locust could easily be brushed off one's clothing.

109:26-31 These verses form a prayer for God's presence and for vindication. The psalmist wants everyone to see that he is vindicated by the Lord, not by any human agent.

109:28 The Lord's servant demonstrates loyalty and obedience.

109:29 The psalmist had been accused of being clothed with curses (109:18); now he asks that his accusers be clothed with disgrace and humiliation.

Ps 110 Jesus and the apostles cite this psalm to explain Jesus' unique ministry and status as the Messiah (Matt 22:43-45; Acts 2:32-36). It reaffirms God's covenant with David and gives hope for the future (see 2 Sam 7:8-16).

110:1 The king of Israel had the great privilege of being the Lord's adopted son (Ps 2; 1 Chr 22:10), but he fell (Ps 89). This decree restores and heightens his position. • The LORD: Hebrew Yahweh, the name of God (see Exod 3:6-14; 6:2-8; 20:2). • my Lord: or my lord (Hebrew 'adoni), which means "my master" or "my superior." The psalmist viewed God's messianic ruler as his superior. The NT frequently cites this psalm to validate Jesus' claim to be the Messiah (Matt 22:44-45; Mark 12:36-37; Luke 20:42-44; Acts 2:34-35; Heb 1:13).

• The Lord's right hand represents his authority, strength, presence, and benefits. The Lord chose the descendant of David and raised him up to be close to him (80:17). Jesus claimed this position for himself (Matt 26:64; Mark 14:62; 16:19; Luke 22:69), and the apostles announced that Jesus, having ascended to heaven, sits at the right hand of the Father (Acts 2:33; 5:31; 7:55-56; Rom 8:34; Eph 1:20; Col 3:1; Heb 1:3; 8:1; 10:12; 12:2). • Ancient Near Eastern kings were sometimes portrayed as placing their feet on the backs of their conquered enemies as on a footstool (see Heb 10:12-13).

110:2-3 The kingdom will expand and increase, beginning from Jerusalem, until all enemies are conquered.

• Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion. See "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947.

⁴ The LORD has taken an oath and will not break his vow:
“You are a priest forever in the order of Melchizedek.”

⁵ The Lord stands at your right hand to protect you.
He will strike down many kings when his anger erupts.

⁶ He will punish the nations and fill their lands with corpses;
he will shatter heads over the whole earth.

⁷ But he himself will be refreshed from brooks along the way.
He will be victorious.

PSALM 111

¹ Praise the LORD!

I will thank the LORD with all my heart
as I meet with his godly people.

² How amazing are the deeds of the LORD!
All who delight in him should ponder them.

³ Everything he does reveals his glory and majesty.

His righteousness never fails.

⁴ He causes us to remember his wonderful works.

How gracious and merciful is our LORD!

⁵ He gives food to those who fear him;
he always remembers his covenant.

⁶ He has shown his great power to his people by giving them the lands of other nations.

⁷ All he does is just and good,
and all his commandments are trustworthy.

⁸ They are forever true,
to be obeyed faithfully and with integrity.

⁹ He has paid a full ransom for his people.
He has guaranteed his covenant with them forever.

What a holy, awe-inspiring name he has!

¹⁰ Fear of the LORD is the foundation of true wisdom.

All who obey his commandments will grow in wisdom.

Praise him forever!

¹ Praise the LORD!

How joyful are those who fear the LORD and delight in obeying his commands.

² Their children will be successful everywhere;

110:4 The Lord had made an unbreakable oath and covenant, so his apparent rejection of David's dynasty (89:38) in the Exile had led to a crisis. The placement of Ps 110 in Book Five reaffirms the future of the dynasty: David's descendant must conform to God's standard of integrity (Ps 101). His ministry will be transformed as he serves under God's kingship (Pss 93–100). • You are a priest forever: The role of God's messianic ruler changes. The priestly kingship of David and his descendants extended to serving as patrons of the Temple. David had the Ark brought to Jerusalem (2 Sam 6:15) and arranged for the Temple service (1 Chr 6:31-48; 15:11-26; 16:4-42; 23:4-32; 25:1). Solomon supervised the Temple construction (1 Kgs 5–7). Even so, Israel's kingship was separate from its priesthood. In the messianic kingdom, the king would also minister as priest, as Melchizedek, king of Salem (Gen 14:18), had done. The NT develops the ministry of Jesus Christ as a fulfillment of this new order (see Heb 5:6-10; 6:20–7:25).

110:5-7 The new priestly role of David's descendant does not rescind his old role as conquering ruler. He must still bring the nations under his rule (110:2-3; see Ps 2).

110:5-6 at your right hand: This position brings help and protection (see 16:7-8; 108:13). • The Lord will strike down rebellious kings. Rebellion against the Lord is a capital offense (Ps 2; Rom 6:23).

110:7 God's messianic ruler obtains victory as a vigorous person, as if he had received nourishment from brooks along the way (110:3).

Pss 111–117 The refrain Praise the LORD! (Hebrew halelu yah) characterizes this group of psalms.

Ps 111 This psalm is a Hebrew acrostic poem; after the introductory note of praise, each line begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. • This wisdom psalm contains many references to the works of the Lord that reveal his character. God is righteous, gracious, compassionate, faithful, just, trustworthy, upright, holy, and awe-inspiring (111:3, 4, 7, 8, 9). God's character gives hope in the covenant relationship (111:5). He rescued Israel from Egypt (111:9), gave them the land (111:6), and provides for his people (111:5). However, God demands that the beneficiaries of this relationship also be people of righteousness and integrity.

111:1-5 The godly praise God and delight themselves in his great works. His mighty acts reflect his righteousness, grace, and compassion (see 116:5-7). All who submit themselves to him experience his glory.

111:5 God takes care of his people's needs, even providing food. He remembers his covenant with Abraham (see 105:8-11).

111:6-8 Giving Israel the lands of other nations was just and good because the Lord was executing his justice on those he dispossessed and showing grace to the Israelites. However, if the Israelites do not live faithfully and with integrity, they will also be dispossessed. The Lord's people must reflect his character.

111:9 The people of the Exodus generation went free because of God's grace.

111:10 True wisdom is the source of life (Prov 3:18; 9:11; Eccl 7:12); it begins with the fear of the LORD (Prov 9:10).

Ps 112 This psalm is a Hebrew acrostic poem; after the introductory note of praise, each line begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. • The psalm reiterates the themes of wisdom and the fear of the Lord (Ps 111). The wise have reason to be happy (112:1-5) and vigorous (112:6-10).

112:1-5 The fear of the Lord leads to a life of wisdom that honors God and blesses the family and community. The godly joyfully imitate God; their obedience is not slavish.

112:2-3 successful: All will know the children of godly people (see 127:4) because the godly leave a legacy for their children (see 1:3; cp. Matt 6:20).

an entire generation of godly people will be blessed.

³ They themselves will be wealthy,
and their good deeds will last forever.

⁴ Light shines in the darkness for the godly.
They are generous, compassionate,
and righteous.

⁵ Good comes to those who lend money generously and conduct their business fairly.

⁶ Such people will not be overcome by evil.
Those who are righteous will be long remembered.

⁷ They do not fear bad news;
they confidently trust the LORD to care for them.

⁸ They are confident and fearless and can face their foes triumphantly.

⁹ They share freely and give generously to those in need.

Their good deeds will be remembered
forever.

They will have influence and honor.

¹⁰ The wicked will see this and be infuriated.

They will grind their teeth in anger; they will slink away, their hopes thwarted.

¹ Praise the LORD!

Yes, give praise, O servants of the LORD.
Praise the name of the LORD!

² Blessed be the name of the LORD
now and forever.

³ Everywhere—from east to west—
praise the name of the LORD.

⁴ For the LORD is high above the nations;
his glory is higher than the heavens.

⁵ Who can be compared with the LORD
our God,
who is enthroned on high?

⁶ He stoops to look down on heaven and on earth.

⁷ He lifts the poor from the dust and the needy from the garbage dump.

⁸ He sets them among princes, even the princes of his own people!

⁹ He gives the childless woman a family, making her a happy mother.

Praise the LORD!

PSALM 114

¹ When the Israelites escaped from Egypt—
when the family of Jacob left that foreign land—

² the land of Judah became God's sanctuary,
and Israel became his kingdom.

³ The Red Sea saw them coming and hurried out of their way!
The water of the Jordan River turned away.

112:4-5 The godly imitate God by being generous, compassionate, and righteous (51:1; 111:1-10; 2 Cor 9:9). They lend money to the poor without charging interest (15:5; 112:9; Exod 22:25).

112:6 The honesty and compassion of the wise keeps them from stumbling (15:5; 37:23-24), ensuring that they will be long remembered (Prov 10:7).

112:8 Because the godly joyfully expect God to prevail and rescue them, they face their foes triumphantly (59:10; 112:4; 118:7).

112:9 Paul quotes this verse in his instructions about generous giving (2 Cor 9:9).

112:10 The wicked . . . grind their teeth in anger out of their bitter envy (35:16; 37:12). The vigor and reputation of the godly cause conflict with those who want them dead. • The wicked will slink away out of fear and shame.

Pss 113-118 These psalms form what is known as the "Egyptian Hallel" (hallel means "praise") because Jews use the collection in the celebration of Passover, which was instituted at the beginning of the exodus from Egypt. Psalms 113-114 are recited before the Passover meal and Pss 115-118 afterward.

Ps 113 This hymn of praise exalts the greatness of the Lord's name and glory. God is greatly exalted and glorious in heaven (113:4); he also stoops down to take care of the lowly and needy on earth (113:5-9).

113:1-3 The name of the LORD (Hebrew Yahweh; see Exod 3:15) reveals his being, character, and reputation. He is exalted in time (now and forever) and in space (from east to west).

113:4 The Lord's glory reaches to the heavens (57:5, 11; 99:2; 108:5; 138:6; Isa 6:1; 57:15) and throughout the world of human relationships.

113:5-9 The incomparable Lord intimately involves himself in caring for people on earth.

113:6 The Lord stoops to the world's level to be directly involved with his people (see 138:6; Phil 2:6-8).

113:7-8a These phrases are a quotation from Hannah's prayer of praise (1 Sam 2:8-9a).

113:9 A childless woman was customarily treated with disdain (Gen 16:4);

the Lord has the power to make her a happy mother, as he made Sarah (Gen 21:2), Rebekah (Gen 25:21), Rachel (Gen 30:23), and Hannah (1 Sam 1:20). • God's greatness and goodness provide ample reason to praise him.

Ps 114 This lyrical celebration of the Lord's power in nature recalls Israel's beginning as a nation at the Exodus (114:1-2) and upon their entry to the Promised Land (114:3-6). It promotes reverence for the God of Jacob (114:7-8).

114:1-2 At the time of Israel's exodus from Egypt and their entrance into the Promised Land, Israel was one holy kingdom (Exod 19:5-6). • The separate references to the land of Judah and Israel indicate that the psalm was composed after the kingdom was divided (1 Kgs 12:16-17; cp. 1 Sam 11:8; 1 Kgs 1:35), and probably after the Exile. The land of Judah became God's sanctuary because the people worshiped God; his Tabernacle and later his Temple were located there.

114:3-4 The Red Sea: Literally the sea; also in 114:5. • hurried out of their way: The waters divided for Israel to escape Egypt (77:17-18; Exod 14). • The Jordan River turned away when Israel arrived

- ⁴ The mountains skipped like rams, the hills like lambs!
⁵ What's wrong, Red Sea, that made you hurry out of their way?
What happened, Jordan River, that you turned away?
⁶ Why, mountains, did you skip like rams?
Why, hills, like lambs?
⁷ Tremble, O earth, at the presence of the Lord,
at the presence of the God of Jacob.
⁸ He turned the rock into a pool of
water;
yes, a spring of water flowed from solid rock.

PSALM 115

- ¹ Not to us, O LORD, not to us, but to your name goes all the glory for your unfailing love and faithfulness.
² Why let the nations say,
"Where is their God?"
³ Our God is in the heavens, and he does as he wishes.
⁴ Their idols are merely things of silver and gold,
shaped by human hands.
⁵ They have mouths but cannot speak,
and eyes but cannot see.
⁶ They have ears but cannot hear,
and noses but cannot smell.
⁷ They have hands but cannot feel,
and feet but cannot walk, and throats but cannot make a sound.

- ⁸ And those who make idols are just like
them,
as are all who trust in them.
⁹ O Israel, trust the LORD!
He is your helper and your shield.
¹⁰ O priests, descendants of Aaron, trust
the LORD!
He is your helper and your shield.
¹¹ All you who fear the LORD, trust the LORD!
He is your helper and your shield.
¹² The LORD ⁸remembers us and will bless us.
He will bless the people of Israel and bless the priests, the descendants of Aaron.
¹³ He will bless those who fear the LORD, both great and lowly.
¹⁴ May the LORD richly bless both you and your children.
¹⁵ May you be blessed by the LORD,
who made heaven and earth.
¹⁶ The heavens belong to the LORD, but he has given the earth to all humanity.
¹⁷ The dead cannot sing praises to the LORD,
for they have gone into the silence of
the grave.
¹⁸ But we can praise the LORD
both now and forever!
Praise the LORD!

to cross over (see Josh 3). • skipped like rams: God's presence caused the mountains to quake (Exod 19:16-20).

114:8 The Lord miraculously provided for his people in hard times after the Exile, just as he had done in the wilderness after the Exodus.

Ps 115 In this hymn of thanksgiving for God's blessings, the community ascribes all glory to the name of the Lord, who is the true source of hope and blessing. Meanwhile, those who trust in idols are greatly disappointed. The blessing of the Creator of heaven and earth extends to future generations (115:14), and especially to the priesthood (115:12).

115:1-3 The community confesses their faith that God will rescue them for the glory of his name.

115:2-3 Where is their God? People deny God's presence or power when he does not act as they think he should (cp. 14:1; 42:3, 10). However, God is in the heavens—he has all power, authority, and knowledge. He does as he wishes, not what people think he should do. He works out his plans in accord with his will (Eph 1:11) and acts in his own time and in ways he chooses.

115:4-11 This entire section is repeated in 135:15-20. • Unlike the Lord (95:3-5), idols cannot do anything; they are good for nothing.

115:8 Worshiping idols leads one astray and corrupts those who trust in them (Isa 44:20).

115:9-11 Israel . . . priests . . . you who fear the LORD: The psalmist calls on all those in the God-fearing community to commit their ways to the living God. The threefold address assures them that the Lord is their true helper and shield (cp. 118:2-4).

115:12-13 The groups named in 115:9-11 receive assurance of the Lord's blessing, regardless of their social status (see 113:8).

115:14-15 The psalmist blesses (107:37-38, 41) all who trust in and fear the Lord. The Creator will care for the families of those who fear him. • who made heaven and earth: This statement speaks of the Lord's all-encompassing power in creation.

115:16-18 The heavens belong to the LORD: God's exaltation begins in heaven (113:4), far above the gods of the nations. Of course, the earth also belongs to him (47:9; 95:4). • The dead cannot participate in God's blessings. The living praise God in thanksgiving for his blessings (79:13).

Ps 116 This hymn of thanksgiving rejoices in God's character and in rescue from death (116:1-11). It gives an assurance of God's protection in life and reminds the godly that the Lord watches over them even at death. The psalmist commits to living as God's servant and resolves to honor him publicly (116:12-19).

116:1-4 The psalmist praises the Lord for answering his prayers and rescuing him from death.

- 2 Because he bends down to listen,
I will pray as long as I have breath!
- 3 Death wrapped its ropes around me;
the terrors of the ^hgrave overtook me.
I saw only trouble and sorrow.
- 4 Then I called on the name of the LORD:
"Please, LORD, save me!"
- 5 How kind the LORD is! How good he is!
So ⁱmerciful, this God of ours!
- 6 The LORD protects those of childlike faith;
I was facing death, and he saved me.
- 7 Let my soul be at rest again,
for the LORD has been good to me.
- 8 He has saved me from death,
my eyes from tears,
my feet from stumbling.
- 9 And so I walk in the LORD's presence
as I live here on earth!
- 10 I believed in you, so I said,
"I am deeply troubled, LORD."
- 11 In my anxiety I cried out to you,
"These people are all liars!"
- 12 What can I offer the LORD for all he has done for me?
- 13 I will lift up the cup of salvation and praise the LORD's name for saving me.
- 14 I will keep my promises to the LORD
in the presence of all his people.
- 15 The LORD cares deeply when his loved ones die.
- 16 O LORD, I am your ^servant;
yes, I am your ^servant, born into your household;
you have freed me from my chains.

- 17 I will offer you a sacrifice of thanksgiving
and call on the name of the LORD.
- 18 I will fulfill my vows to the LORD
in the presence of all his people—
- 19 in the house of the LORD
in the heart of Jerusalem.

Praise the LORD!

PSALM 117

- 1 Praise the LORD, all you nations.
Praise him, all you people of the earth.
- 2 For his unfailing love for us is powerful;
the LORD's faithfulness endures
forever.

Praise the LORD!

PSALM 118

- 1 Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good!
His faithful love endures forever.
- 2 Let all Israel repeat:
"His faithful love endures forever."
- 3 Let Aaron's descendants, the priests, repeat:
"His faithful love endures forever."
- 4 Let all who fear the LORD repeat:
"His faithful love endures forever."
- 5 In my distress I prayed to the LORD, and the LORD answered me and set me free.
- 6 The LORD is for me, so I will have no fear.
What can mere people do to me?
- 7 Yes, the LORD is for me; he will help me.
I will look in triumph at those who hate me.

ment to the Lord (see 18:1; Deut 6:5) on the basis of what the Lord has done.

116:2 Because the Lord responds to the cry of his people (107:41; 113:6-8), the psalmist now strongly believes in prayer.

116:3 of the grave: Hebrew of Sheol.
See note on 6:5. • It isn't clear if the psalmist's crisis was a literal near-death experience or if he was using the term figuratively.

116:4 This is the first of three times that the psalmist calls on the Lord's name (i.e., reputation).

116:5-7 The gracious, righteous, and compassionate Lord (see 111:1-5) rescued and gave rest to the psalmist.

116:6 People with childlike faith readily receive his wisdom and instruction
(19:7-11; Matt 18:3-4).

116:8-11 The psalmist's near-death crisis made him more aware of life and of walking before the Lord. Though he had been in anguish, the Lord was faithful.
However, people are all liars.

116:9 I walk in the Lord's presence: The psalmist already lived with integrity, but since his experience of deep distress, he now enjoys open fellowship with the Lord (see 56:13; cp. Job 42:5).

116:10 I believed in you: Paul quotes
this phrase in 2 Cor 4:13.

116:12-14 The Lord's gracious gifts are so great that the psalmist can do nothing to repay his debt. Keeping his promises publicly demonstrates his gratitude.
• All he has done for the psalmist includes answers to prayer, rescue, and life. • The cup of salvation overflows with God's blessings (23:5), unlike the cup of judgment (75:8). • The psalmist makes promises ("vows," 116:18) to praise the Lord publicly (116:17-18).

116:15-19 No one lives or dies outside of God's will. Having been given a second chance at life, the poet readily commits himself to the Lord with renewed acts of public devotion.

Ps 117 This psalm, the shortest in the Psalter, invites all . . . people of the earth to praise the Lord because of his unfailing love and enduring faithfulness.

117:1 Paul quotes this verse to show that Gentiles would eventually praise
the God of Israel (Rom 15:11).

Ps 118 With an exultant testimony, the psalmist gives thanks for the Lord's goodness and encourages others to trust in his faithful love (118:1-4, 29).
This poem is the last of the Egyptian
Hallel (Pss 113-118).

118:2-4 Israel . . . Aaron's descendants
. . . all who fear the Lord: These three groups represent the whole of the covenant community (cp. 115:9-11; 135:19-20).

118:5-9 The Lord alone is the psalmist's helper.

118:6-7 The Lord is for me: Cp. Rom
8:31; Heb 13:6. • God's presence cancels out the need to fear mere people (56:11). The psalmist joyfully expects God's rescue (59:10; 112:8).

- ⁸ It is better to take refuge in the LORD than to trust in people.
⁹ It is better to take refuge in the LORD than to trust in princes.
¹⁰ Though hostile nations surrounded me, I destroyed them all with the authority of the LORD.
¹¹ Yes, they surrounded and attacked me, but I destroyed them all with the authority of the LORD.
¹² They swarmed around me like bees; they blazed against me like a crackling fire. But I destroyed them all with the authority of the LORD.
¹³ My enemies did their best to kill me, but the LORD rescued me.
¹⁴ The LORD is my strength and my song; he has given me victory.
¹⁵ Songs of joy and victory are sung in the camp of the godly. The strong right arm of the LORD has done glorious things!
¹⁶ The strong right arm of the LORD is raised in triumph. The strong right arm of the LORD has done glorious things!
¹⁷ I will not die; instead, I will live to tell what the LORD has done.
¹⁸ The LORD has punished me severely, but he did not let me die.
¹⁹ Open for me the gates where the righteous enter, and I will go in and thank the LORD.

- ²⁰ These gates lead to the presence of the LORD, and the godly enter there.
²¹ I thank you for answering my prayer and giving me victory!
²² The stone that the builders rejected has now become the cornerstone.
²³ This is the LORD's doing, and it is wonderful to see.
²⁴ This is the day the LORD has made. We will rejoice and be glad in it.
²⁵ Please, LORD, please save us. Please, LORD, please give us success.
²⁶ Bless the one who comes in the name of the LORD. We bless you from the house of the LORD.
²⁷ The LORD is God, shining upon us. Take the sacrifice and bind it with cords on the altar.
²⁸ You are my God, and I will praise you! You are my God, and I will ^aexalt you!
²⁹ Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good! His faithful love endures forever.

PSALM 119

Aleph (א)

- ¹ Joyful are people of ^aintegrity, who follow the ^binstructions of the LORD.
² Joyful are those who obey his laws and search for him with all their hearts.
³ They do not compromise with evil, and they walk only in his paths.

118:8-9 Trusting in the Lord is better than placing confidence in even the most powerful human leaders (118:6; 146:3).

118:10-12 Strength comes in the name of the Lord, declared by the threefold mention of the attackers, the Lord's name, and victory. • Even when hostile people blazed . . . like a crackling fire, the Lord caused them to subside like burning thorns (see Isa 9:18; 10:17).

118:14-18 The psalmist celebrates the victory of the Lord's strong right arm, which kept him from death.

118:17-21 God has restored the psalmist from death to life, so he praises the Lord publicly (cp. 116:6, 12-19).

118:22-24 The psalmist sees his own salvation as the beginning of a new day in which the Lord will do great things.

118:22 The cornerstone (or keystone) of a building or an arch gives the structure its shape and foundation. It is the most important of all the stones. The Lord chooses and places this stone for his sanctuary (Isa 28:16). Jesus referred to himself as this cornerstone (Matt 21:42; Mark 12:10-11; Luke 20:17; see Acts 4:11; Eph 2:20; 1 Pet 2:6-7).

118:24 This is the day the Lord has made: The day of the Lord's victory has already arrived, although its completion awaits another day (118:25).

118:25-29 The psalmist concludes with prayer and thanksgiving, anticipating an even greater revelation of God's victory and rescue.

118:26 The one who comes in the name of the Lord brings the Lord's complete victory (see 118:10-12). • During Jesus' triumphant entry into Jerusalem, the crowds called out various blessings, including phrases taken from this verse (Matt 21:9; Mark 11:9; Luke 19:38; John 12:13). Jesus himself quoted this passage as he wept over Jerusalem (Matt 23:39; Luke 13:35).

Ps 119 This psalm is a Hebrew acrostic poem; there are twenty-two stanzas, one for each successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. Each of the eight verses within each stanza begins with the Hebrew letter named in its heading. Psalm 119 combines elements of wisdom, lament, praise, thanksgiving, and confession. Eight Hebrew words are used frequently, translated as "instructions," "laws," "words," "regulations," "statutes," "commands," "decrees," "commandments," and "promises." Together, these words encourage love for and obedience to God's instructions, as found in the Scriptures (see 2 Tim 3:14-17). The expression of deep commitment to these instructions unifies the psalm.

119:1-8 Aleph (א): God, the author of these instructions, commands that his followers live by them. The psalmist prays to be given the grace to live by that revelation.

119:1-4 The wise are happy. They are people of integrity (see 84:11) who follow the path of divine instruction. They obey God's revelation and search for it with all their hearts (see 27:7; 119:10, 45, 94, 155), but they reject all forms of evil. Cp. 1:1-2.

- 4 You have charged us to keep your commandments carefully.
5 Oh, that my actions would consistently reflect your decrees!
6 Then I will not be ashamed when I compare my life with your commands.
7 As I learn your righteous regulations,
I will thank you by living as I should!
8 I will obey your decrees.
Please don't give up on me!

Beth (ב)

- 9 How can a young person stay pure?
By obeying your word.
10 I have tried hard to find you—don't let me wander from your commands.
11 I have hidden your word in my heart, that I might not ‘sin against you.’
12 I praise you, O LORD;
teach me your decrees.
13 I have recited aloud
all the regulations you have given us.
14 I have rejoiced in your laws
as much as in riches.
15 I will study your commandments and reflect on your ways.
16 I will delight in your decrees and not forget your word.

Gimel (ג)

- 17 Be good to your servant,
that I may live and obey your word.
18 Open my eyes to see the wonderful truths in your ‘instructions.’
19 I am only a foreigner in the land.
Don't hide your commands from me!
20 ‘I am always overwhelmed with a desire for your regulations.

- 21 You rebuke the arrogant;
those who wander from your commands are cursed.
22 Don't let them scorn and insult me,
for I have obeyed your laws.
23 Even princes sit and speak against me, but I will meditate on your decrees.
24 Your laws please me;
they give me wise advice.

Daleth (ד)

- 25 I lie in the dust;
revive me by your word.
26 I told you my plans, and you answered.
Now teach me your decrees.
27 Help me understand the meaning of your commandments,
and I will meditate on your wonderful deeds.
28 I weep with sorrow;
encourage me by your word.
29 Keep me from lying to myself;
give me the privilege of knowing your instructions.
30 I have chosen to be faithful;
I have determined to live by your regulations.
31 I cling to your laws.
LORD, don't let me be put to shame!
32 I will pursue your commands, for you expand my understanding.

He (ה)

- 33 Teach me your decrees, O LORD;
I will keep them to the end.
34 Give me understanding and I will obey
your ‘instructions’;
I will put them into practice with all
my heart.
35 Make me walk along the path of your
commands,

119:4 To keep God's commandments means to guard them by obeying them.

119:9-16 Beth (ב): The psalmist is determined to pursue purity and encourages the cultivation of wisdom through God's principles (119:9) and instructions (119:10-16).

119:9 A young person tends toward foolishness (Prov 22:15) and can easily make mistakes that destroy his life (Prov 7:6-23). Youth is also the best time to develop personal discipline and pursue wisdom (see 34:11; Prov 1:4). • To stay pure means to remain uncorrupted by wickedness and sin and to develop the integrity of life defined in Ps 15.

119:10 The student asks God the teacher to discipline him so that he will not wander.

119:14 God's wisdom is far greater than any riches humans seek (119:72, 127; Prov 3:14-15).

119:15 The way of wisdom includes meditating on God's ways (see 119:1, 3). The wise reflect on the implications of God's word.

119:17-24 Gimel (ג): Like a foreigner in hostile territory, God's servant needs God's guidance.

119:17-18 The psalmist seeks to please the Lord with a full and obedient life of praise (118:17; 119:25, 77, 116, 144, 175). Only the Lord can remove his adversaries and enable him to see the wonderful truths found in God's instructions.

119:20-21 The arrogant are probably those who mock the psalmist (119:22-23).

119:23-24 Those who meditate on

God's instructions receive wise advice from them.

119:25-32 Daleth (ד): Though the poet feels anguish and sorrow, he entreats the Lord to revive him because he wants to obey the Lord. Suffering and death may result from the Lord's chastening (118:17-18; 119:67, 71, 75), but his instruction revives the weary soul (see 119:12).

119:29 lying to myself: Self-deception is a fruit of sinful human nature (Jer 17:9); it leads to folly. • Access to God's word is a privilege, not a right.

119:33-40 He (ה): As a student, the poet asks his teacher, God, to renew life and to transform disgrace into righteousness.

for that is where my happiness is found.

³⁶ Give me an eagerness for your laws rather than a love for money!

³⁷ Turn my eyes from worthless things, and give me life through your word.

³⁸ Reassure me of your promise, made to those who fear you.

³⁹ Help me abandon my shameful ways; for your regulations are good.

⁴⁰ I long to obey your commandments! Renew my life with your goodness.

Waw (ו)

⁴¹ LORD, give me your unfailing love, the salvation that you promised me.

⁴² Then I can answer those who taunt me, for I trust in your word.

⁴³ Do not snatch your word of truth from me, for your regulations are my only ^ahope.

⁴⁴ I will keep on obeying your instructions ^bforever and ever.

⁴⁵ I will walk in freedom, for I have devoted myself to your commandments.

⁴⁶ I will speak to kings about your laws, and I will not be ashamed.

⁴⁷ How I delight in your commands! How I love them!

⁴⁸ I honor and love your commands. I meditate on your decrees.

Zayin (ז)

⁴⁹ Remember your promise to me; it is my only hope.

⁵⁰ Your promise revives me; it comforts me in all my troubles.

⁵¹ The proud hold me in utter contempt, but I do not turn away from your instructions.

⁵² I meditate on your age-old regulations; O LORD, they comfort me.

⁵³ I become furious with the wicked, because they reject your instructions.

⁵⁴ Your decrees have been the theme of my songs wherever I have lived.

⁵⁵ I ^creflect at night on who you are, O LORD;

therefore, I obey your instructions.

⁵⁶ This is how I spend my life: obeying your commandments.

Heth (ח)

⁵⁷ LORD, you are mine!

I promise to obey your words!

⁵⁸ With all my heart I want your blessings. Be merciful as you promised.

⁵⁹ I pondered the direction of my life, and I turned to follow your laws.

⁶⁰ I will hurry, without delay, to obey your commands.

⁶¹ Evil people try to drag me into sin, but I am firmly anchored to your instructions.

⁶² I rise at midnight to thank you for your just regulations.

⁶³ I am a friend to anyone who fears you—anyone who obeys your commandments.

⁶⁴ O LORD, your unfailing love fills the earth; teach me your decrees.

Teth (ט)

⁶⁵ You have done many good things for ^dme, LORD, just as you promised.

⁶⁶ I ^ebelieve in your commands; now teach me good judgment and knowledge.

⁶⁷ I used to wander off until you disciplined me; but now I closely follow your word.

⁶⁸ You are good and do only good; teach me your decrees.

⁶⁹ Arrogant people smear me with lies, but in truth I obey your commandments with all my heart.

119:37 through your word: Some manuscripts read in your ways.

119:41-48 Waw (ו): The psalmist prays that God's word would continue to be the source of his love and salvation.

119:41-43 The psalmist asks to be saved from enemies who speak harshly (see 42:10; 44:16; 89:50-51; 102:8).

119:44-46 The psalmist is determined to obey the Lord.

119:47-48 The psalmist finds delight in God's word in spite of pain (119:92, 143).

119:49-56 Zayin (ז): The psalmist asks God to remember his word as the psalmist also remembers God's word and his name. Remembrance expresses devotion.

119:52 The age-old regulations are the Torah (God's "instructions" or "law"), a term that refers to the books of Genesis—Deuteronomy. See Introduction to the Pentateuch, "Literary Genres," p. 12.

119:57-64 Heth (ח): The psalmist seeks God's favor and unfailing love. Although surrounded by evildoers, he remains a loyal servant of the Lord.

word keeps him standing firm (see 119:16).

119:64 God's goodness fills the earth; the whole created order provides evidence of his goodness (see Isa 6:3; 11:9).

119:65-72 Teth (ט): The psalmist describes himself as a penitent sinner who gratefully accepts the Lord's discipline.

119:65-68 Good judgment and knowledge come from wisdom (111:10). • The psalmist admits that he used to wander off like a stray sheep (119:176). • You disciplined me: See 119:25-29. • You are good and do only good: God's character is perfect (97:2; Jas 1:17; 1 Jn 1:5).

but I delight in your instructions.

71 My suffering was good for me, for it taught me to pay attention to your decrees.

72 Your instructions are more valuable to me than millions in gold and silver.

Yodh (י)

73 You made me; you created me.
Now give me the sense to follow your commandments.

74 May all who fear you find in me a cause
for joy,
for I have put my hope in your word.

75 I know, O LORD, that your regulations are ^a*fair*;
you disciplined me because I needed it.

76 Now let your unfailing love comfort me, just as you promised me, your servant.

77 Surround me with your tender mercies
so I may live,
for your instructions are my delight.

78 Bring disgrace upon the arrogant people who lied about me;
meanwhile, I will concentrate on your
commandments.

79 Let me be united with all who fear you,
with those who know your laws.

80 May I be ^b*blameless* in keeping your decrees;
then I will never be ashamed.

Kaph (כ)

81 I am worn out waiting for your rescue, but I have put my hope in your word.

82 My eyes are straining to see your promises come true.
When will you comfort me?

83 I am shriveled like a wineskin in the smoke,
but I have not forgotten to obey your decrees.

84 How long must I wait?
When will you punish those who persecute me?

85 These arrogant people who hate your instructions
have dug deep pits to trap me.

86 All your commands are trustworthy.
Protect me from those who hunt me down without cause.

87 They almost finished me off, but I refused to abandon your commandments.

88 In your unfailing love, spare my life;
then I can continue to obey your laws.

Lamedh (ל)

89 Your ^e*eternal* word, O LORD, stands firm in heaven.

90 Your faithfulness extends to every generation,
as enduring as the earth you created.

91 Your regulations remain true to this day,
for everything serves your plans.

92 If your instructions hadn't sustained me with joy,
I would have died in my misery.

93 I will never forget your commandments, for by them you give me life.

94 I am yours; rescue me!
For I have worked hard at obeying
your commandments.

95 Though the wicked hide along the way to kill me,
I will quietly keep my mind on your laws.

96 Even perfection has its limits, but your commands have no limit.

Mem (מ)

97 Oh, how I love your ^d*instructions*!
I think about them all day long.

98 Your commands make me wiser than
my enemies,
for they are my constant guide.

99 Yes, I have more insight than my teachers,
for I am always thinking of your laws.

100 I am even wiser than my ^e*elders*, for I have kept your commandments.

119:73-80 Yodh (י): In this prayer for comfort and compassion, the psalmist commits himself to his Creator, who has afflicted him. He wants God to pay back his enemies for the wrongs they have done. He also prays to receive the gift of life. He not only prays for himself but also considers the whole community of the godly, asking that God's answers to prayer would encourage them.

119:73-76 As God's child, the psalmist asks for divine wisdom.

119:81-88 Kaph (כ): The psalmist is worn out from waiting for the Lord, but his hope is in God's future rescue.

119:85-88 God's word is trustworthy, in contrast to the deceptions of the enemies who hunt the psalmist down without cause (see 119:78).

119:89-96 Lamedh (ל): The stability of God's wisdom gives understanding. God's word provides order and a framework for living, even when under pressure from adversaries.

119:95 The wicked intended to kill the psalmist, but destruction (1:6) was their own fate.

119:96 Even perfection has its limits: Humans cannot fully understand God's ways (see Eccl 3:11).

119:97-104 Mem (מ): The instruction and wisdom of God through his word are far superior to the best that human teachers can offer.

119:97-102 make me wiser: God's word provides wisdom and perspective. God is the true source of wisdom.

¹⁰¹ I have refused to walk on any evil path, so that I may remain obedient to your word.

¹⁰² I haven't turned away from your regulations,
for you have taught me well.

¹⁰³ How sweet your words taste to me;
they are sweeter than honey.

¹⁰⁴ Your commandments give me
understanding;
no wonder I hate every false way of life.

Nun (נ)

¹⁰⁵ Your word is a lamp to guide my feet and a light for my path.

¹⁰⁶ I've promised it once, and I'll promise it
again:

I will obey your righteous regulations.

¹⁰⁷ I have suffered much, O LORD;
restore my life again as you promised.

¹⁰⁸ LORD, accept my offering of praise, and teach me your regulations.

¹⁰⁹ My life constantly hangs in the balance, but I will not stop obeying your instructions.

¹¹⁰ The wicked have set their traps for me, but I will not turn from your commandments.

¹¹¹ Your laws are my treasure;
they are my heart's delight.

¹¹² I am determined to keep your decrees to the very end.

Samekh (ס)

¹¹³ I hate those with divided loyalties,
but I love your 'instructions.

¹¹⁴ You are my refuge and my shield;
your word is my source of hope.

¹¹⁵ Get out of my life, you evil-minded people, for I intend to obey the commands of my God.

¹¹⁶ LORD, sustain me as you promised, that I may live!

Do not let my hope be crushed.

¹¹⁷ Sustain me, and I will be rescued; then I will meditate continually on your decrees.

¹¹⁸ But you have rejected all who stray from your decrees.

They are only fooling themselves.

¹¹⁹ You skim off the wicked of the earth like scum;

no wonder I love to obey your laws!

¹²⁰ I tremble in fear of you;
I stand in awe of your regulations.

Ayin (א)

¹²¹ Don't leave me to the mercy of my
enemies,
for I have done what is just and
right.

¹²² Please guarantee a blessing for me.
Don't let the arrogant oppress me!

¹²³ My eyes strain to see your rescue, to see the 'truth of your promise fulfilled.

¹²⁴ I am your 'servant; deal with me in
unfailing love,
and teach me your decrees.

¹²⁵ Give discernment to me, your servant;
then I will understand your laws.

¹²⁶ LORD, it is time for you to act, for these evil people have violated
your instructions.

¹²⁷ Truly, I love your commands more than gold, even the finest gold.

¹²⁸ Each of your commandments is right.
That is why I hate every false way.

Pe (פ)

¹²⁹ Your laws are wonderful.
No wonder I obey them!

¹³⁰ The teaching of your word gives light, so even the simple can understand.

¹³¹ I pant with expectation, longing for your commands.

¹³² Come and show me your mercy,
as you do for all who love your name.

¹³³ Guide my steps by your word,
so I will not be overcome by evil.

¹³⁴ Ransom me from the oppression of evil
people;

then I can obey your commandments.

¹³⁵ Look upon me with love;
teach me your decrees.

119:103-104 Wisdom is preferable to even the finest food (19:10; 81:16).
• The psalmist had already rejected the delusion offered by the way of folly (see 119:18, 78, 86, 163).

119:105-112 Nun (נ): The psalmist's devotion to God's word comes from within his being (119:112) and guides his external life.

119:105-106 The Lord's word is a lamp that provides perspective, hope, and guidance in darkness (18:25-29; 119:130). Even more, this light gives life

(Prov 6:23).

119:108-112 offering of praise: This Hebrew expression is unique in the OT (cp. 50:23). • The psalmist is vulnerable to his opponents because of his commitment to a wise life.

119:113-120 Samekh (ס): The psalmist declares his hatred of evil and his love for God and his ways.

119:113 The godly hate the wicked and their deeds (5:4-6; cp. Ezek 33:11).

119:121-128 Ayin (א): The servant of the Lord strains to endure the evil around him. He boldly petitions the Lord to rescue him immediately!

119:125 Simply possessing God's law does not provide any benefits. The psalmist knows that only as the Lord gives discernment will he understand it.

119:129-136 Pe (פ): The psalmist prays earnestly for God to speak to him as he suffers from his adversities.

136 Rivers of tears gush from my eyes because people disobey your instructions.

Tsadhe (צ)

137 O LORD, you are righteous, and your regulations are fair.

138 Your laws are perfect and completely trustworthy.

139 I am overwhelmed with indignation, for my enemies have disregarded your words.

140 Your promises have been thoroughly tested;
that is why I love them so much.

141 I am insignificant and despised, but I don't forget your commandments.

142 Your justice is ^eeternal, and your instructions are ^kperfectly true.

143 As pressure and stress bear down on me,
I find joy in your commands.

144 Your laws are always right; help me to understand them so I may live.

Qoph (ק)

145 I pray with all my heart; answer me,
LORD!

I will obey your decrees.

146 I cry out to you; rescue me, that I may obey your laws.

147 I rise early, before the sun is up;
I cry out for help and put my hope in your words.

148 I stay awake through the night, thinking about your promise.

149 In your faithful love, O LORD, hear my cry;

let me be revived by following your
regulations.

150 Lawless people are coming to attack me;
they live far from your instructions.

151 But you are near, O LORD, and all your commands are ^atrue.

152 I have known from my earliest days that your laws will last forever.

Resh (ר)

153 Look upon my suffering and rescue me, for I have not forgotten your instructions.

154 Argue my case; take my side!
Protect my life as you promised.

155 The wicked are far from rescue, for they do not bother with your decrees.

156 LORD, how great is your mercy;
let me be revived by following your
regulations.

157 Many persecute and trouble me,
yet I have not swerved from your laws.

158 Seeing these traitors makes me sick at heart,
because they care nothing for your word.

159 See how I love your commandments,
LORD.

Give back my life because of your unfailing love.

160 The very essence of your words is ^btruth;
all your just regulations will stand
forever.

Shin (ש)

161 Powerful people harass me without cause,
but my heart trembles only at your word.

162 I rejoice in your word like one who discovers a great treasure.

163 I hate and abhor all falsehood,
but I love your instructions.

164 I will ^cpraise you seven times a day because all your regulations are just.

165 Those who love your instructions have great ^dpeace and do not stumble.

166 I long for your rescue, LORD, so I have obeyed your commands.

167 I have obeyed your laws,
for I love them very much.

119:137-144 Tsadhe (צ): God is righteous, and his word is right and just, especially in contrast to the deceptions of the wicked.

119:139 The psalmist's indignation (cp. 69:9) comes from seeing the wicked disregard God's word.

119:141 The psalmist is greatly troubled by his oppressors (see 119:143; cp. Isa 53).

119:145-152 Qoph (ק): The psalmist prays to the Lord at night. Although God appears to be distant, he is nearby.

119:145-148 I pray and I cry out translate the same Hebrew verb. • I rise early and I stay awake translate the same Hebrew verb.

119:150-151 Coming to attack me (or are coming near to me) is a Hebrew wordplay on but you are near. The wicked remain far from God's instructions, whereas the psalmist stays near, so he does not need to fear.

119:153-160 Resh (ר): This petition for life can be found throughout Ps 119, but it is concentrated in this stanza.

119:161-168 Shin (ש): The psalmist looks beyond his adversaries to the peace of God. This perspective allows him to praise God throughout the day.

119:161-164 my heart trembles . . . I rejoice: Fear, trembling, and joy mark the psalmist's devotion to God. • God's word is a treasure. • In the OT, seven signifies wholeness.

- 168 Yes, I obey your commandments and laws because you know everything I do.
Taw (ת)
- 169 O LORD, listen to my cry;
give me the discerning mind you promised.
- 170 Listen to my prayer;
rescue me as you promised.
- 171 Let praise flow from my lips,
for you have taught me your decrees.
- 172 Let my tongue sing about your word, for all your commands are right.
- 173 Give me a helping hand,
for I have chosen to follow your commandments.
- 174 O LORD, I have longed for your rescue, and your instructions are my delight.
- 175 Let me live so I can praise you,
and may your regulations help me.
- 176 I have wandered away like a lost sheep;
come and find me,
for I have not forgotten your commands.

PSALM 120

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

- 1 I took my troubles to the LORD;
I cried out to him, and he answered my prayer.
- 2 Rescue me, O LORD, from liars and from all deceitful people.
- 3 O deceptive tongue, what will God do to you?

- How will he increase your punishment?
- 4 You will be pierced with sharp arrows and burned with glowing coals.
- 5 How I suffer in far-off Meshech.
It pains me to live in distant Kedar.
- 6 I am tired of living among people who hate peace.
- 7 I search for peace;
but when I speak of peace, they want war!

PSALM 121

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

- 1 I look up to the mountains—
does my help come from there?
- 2 My help comes from the LORD,
who made heaven and earth!
- 3 He will not let you stumble;
the one who watches over you will not slumber.
- 4 Indeed, he who watches over Israel never slumbers or sleeps.
- 5 The LORD himself watches over you!
The LORD stands beside you as your protective shade.
- 6 The sun will not harm you by day,
nor the moon at night.
- 7 The LORD keeps you from all harm and watches over your life.
- 8 The LORD keeps watch over you as you come and go,
both now and forever.

119:169-176 Taw (ת): God's servant petitions the Lord one final time; he still feels like a lost sheep.

119:176 God, the Great Shepherd, seeks out his lost sheep (23:1; Luke 15:4-6).

Pss 120–134 These short, appealing songs were sung during pilgrims' journeys to Jerusalem for the national festivals three times per year (Deut 16:16). The title of these psalms includes the Hebrew word for stairs, which some take to mean "ascending to Jerusalem." These psalms (sometimes called the Songs of Ascents) take the reader on a pilgrimage to Jerusalem to praise God for his goodness to Israel throughout history.

Ps 120 This short, individual lament expresses the psalmist's trust that the Lord will deal with deceptive evildoers. It also laments living as a stranger among hateful liars. The psalmist's picture of his life in a foreign land might have been a reality as he set out for Jerusalem, or it might depict his feelings and concerns as he begins his pilgrimage. Overwhelmed with injustice, he trusts

God and looks forward to arriving in the Lord's presence.

120:1-2 The psalmist is surrounded by liars, so he makes his lament to the LORD, the only one who can help him.

120:3-4 The psalmist dialogues with the liars who surround him. He feels reassured that the Lord will judge them. • The Divine Warrior (see 7:12-13; 11:4-6) will throw sharp arrows and glowing coals on the liars.

120:5-7 The psalmist feels the anguish of alienation, isolation, and perpetual conflict.

120:5 Meshech was a Japhethite territory far to the north of Canaan. Kedar was an Ishmaelite territory in Arabia. Violent people lived in both locations. Meshech was the home of a famous slave trade (Ezek 27:13; cp. Exod 21:16) and Kedar of renowned warriors (Isa 21:16-17). These places can be understood as representative of the apostate, violent land where the psalmist suffered.

120:6-7 peace: See 37:11; 122:6-9; 125:5; 128:6.

Ps 121 The leader of the group of pilgrims uses word pictures to assure the group of the Lord's presence during the journey.

121:1 The mountains were known for their idolatrous worship (Deut 12:2), and Israel was enticed to the hilltop shrines (Hos 4:13). This verse can be understood as a rhetorical question expecting a negative answer: The gods of the hilltop shrines cannot rescue anyone. Others understand the mountains to be a symbol of the Lord's strength (95:4). In that case, the question would be interpreted literally (Where does my help come from?), with the answer given in the next verse.

121:4-6 The Creator (121:2) is the guardian of Israel. • God stands beside Israel, supporting and caring for the godly (see 16:7-8). • Both the sun and the moon were regarded as deities in the ancient Near East, but the Creator limits their power. They, too, praise the Lord (148:3).

121:4 God watches over his own, even and especially when they face many troubles (12:5, 7; 69:29; 91:14; 146:9).

PSALM 122

*A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.
A psalm of David.*

- ¹ I was glad when they said to me,
"Let us go to the house of the LORD."
- ² And now here we are,
standing inside your gates, O Jerusalem.
- ³ Jerusalem is a well-built city;
its seamless walls cannot be breached.
- ⁴ All the tribes of Israel—the LORD's people—make their pilgrimage here.
They come to give thanks to the name of
the LORD,
as the law requires of Israel.
- ⁵ Here stand the thrones where judgment is given,
the thrones of the dynasty of David.
- ⁶ Pray for ^apeace in Jerusalem.
May all who love this city prosper.
- ⁷ O Jerusalem, may there be peace within your walls
and prosperity in your palaces.
- ⁸ For the sake of my family and friends,
I will say,
"May you have peace."
- ⁹ For the sake of the house of the LORD
our God,
I will seek what is best for you,
O Jerusalem.

PSALM 123

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

- ¹ I lift my eyes to you,
O God, enthroned in heaven.
- ² We keep looking to the LORD our God for his mercy,
just as servants keep their eyes on their master,

as a slave girl watches her mistress for the slightest signal.

- ³ Have mercy on us, LORD, have mercy,
for we have had our fill of contempt.
- ⁴ We have had more than our fill of the scoffing of the proud and the contempt of the arrogant.

PSALM 124

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem. A psalm of David.

- ¹ What if the LORD had not been on our side?
Let all Israel repeat:
- ² What if the LORD had not been on our side
when people attacked us?
- ³ They would have swallowed us alive in their burning anger.
- ⁴ The waters would have engulfed us;
a torrent would have overwhelmed us.
- ⁵ Yes, the raging waters of their fury would have overwhelmed our very lives.
- ⁶ Praise the LORD,
who did not let their teeth tear us
apart!
- ⁷ We escaped like a bird from a hunter's trap.
The trap is broken, and we are free!
- ⁸ Our help is from the LORD,
who made heaven and earth.

PSALM 125

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

- ¹ Those who trust in the LORD are as secure as Mount Zion; they will not be defeated but will endure forever.

Ps 122 Jerusalem is here idealized as the city of God, the city of David, and the city of faith. A group of people on a pilgrimage joyfully arrive in the city (122:1-2). The poet sings an ode to Jerusalem (122:3-5) and prays for the city's peace (122:6-9).

122:1 The central sanctuary was the house of the LORD. This phrase originally referred to the Tabernacle (Exod 23:19; 34:26).

122:2 Several psalms celebrate or look forward to being inside the gates of the city (9:14; 87:2; 100:4; 118:19).

122:3-5 Jerusalem is a metaphor for God's heavenly dwelling. David was the archetype for God's chosen rulers.

122:3 In the time of David and Solomon, Jerusalem was renowned as a place of security (1 Kgs 10:6-7).

122:4 Each of the people of Israel belonged to one of the tribes, and all of the tribes belonged to the Lord. • To give thanks is to present an offering acceptable to the Lord (50:14, 23; 100:4; 118:19). • as the law requires of Israel: See Exod 23:17; Deut 16:16.

122:5 the thrones where judgment is given: In the eras of David and Solomon (1 Kgs 3:28), Jerusalem was the home of wisdom and justice; it would be so again (Isa 9:7).

122:6-9 Prayers for the peace of Jerusalem are motivated by love of family and God's sanctuary.

Ps 123 This lament on the psalmist's lowly position expresses vivid trust in the Lord (123:1-2). The psalmist prays for God's favor on the community, as the reality of evil surrounds them (123:3-4). The poet looks beyond Jerusalem (Ps 122) to God's throne in heaven.

Ps 124 This thanksgiving song describes what might happen if the Lord were not present with his people.

124:1-2 The negative rhetorical questions emphasize the positive idea that the LORD was indeed on their side.

124:4-5 the raging waters of their fury: The enemies could have overwhelmed the Israelites and wiped them out if the Lord had not been with his people (cp. 69:15; Jer 46:8).

124:6-8 The enemies of God's people, like lions or bears who tear their prey with their teeth (see 57:4; Prov 28:15), had their mouths shut by the Lord (Dan 6:22).

Ps 125 The psalmist expresses the community's confidence in the Lord's protection (125:1-2) and prays for peace (125:3-5).

- ² Just as the mountains surround
Jerusalem,
so the LORD surrounds his people,
both now and forever.
- ³ The wicked will not rule the land of the godly,
for then the godly might be tempted to do wrong.
- ⁴ O LORD, do good to those who are good,
whose hearts are in tune with you.
- ⁵ But banish those who turn to crooked ways, O LORD.
Take them away with those who do
evil.

May Israel have peace!

PSALM 126

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

- ¹ When the LORD brought back his exiles to Jerusalem,
it was like a dream!
- ² We were filled with laughter,
and we sang for joy.
And the other nations said,
"What amazing things the LORD has done for them."
- ³ Yes, the LORD has done amazing things for us!
What joy!
- ⁴ Restore our fortunes, LORD,
as streams renew the desert.
- ⁵ Those who plant in tears will harvest with shouts of joy.
- ⁶ They weep as they go to plant their seed, but they sing as they return with the harvest.

PSALM 127

*A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.
A psalm of Solomon.*

- ¹ Unless the LORD builds a house,
the work of the builders is wasted.
Unless the LORD protects a city, guarding it with sentries will do no good.
- ² It is useless for you to work so hard from early morning until late at night,
anxiously working for food to eat;
for God gives rest to his loved ones.
- ³ Children are a gift from the LORD;
they are a reward from him.
- ⁴ Children born to a young man are like arrows in a warrior's hands.
- ⁵ How joyful is the man whose quiver is full of them!
He will not be put to shame when he confronts his accusers at the city gates.

PSALM 128

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

- ¹ How joyful are those who fear the LORD—
all who follow his ways!
- ² You will enjoy the fruit of your labor.
How joyful and prosperous you will be!
- ³ Your wife will be like a fruitful
grapevine,
flourishing within your home.
Your children will be like vigorous young olive trees
as they sit around your table.

125:3 The godly might be tempted through peer pressure and cultural domination.

125:4-5 People who reject the straight path of the upright are fools (Prov 2:12-15). God pours out his goodness on the godly (see 122:6-9).

Ps 126 This hymn celebrates Israel's return from exile (126:1-3). The psalmist prays for full restoration (126:4-6).

126:1-3 The Lord brought about Israel's restoration from exile, just as he had brought Israel out of Egypt (114:1). The restoration transformed the weeping of the Lord's people into laughter and showed the Lord's character to the nations (9:11; 64:9; Isa 12:4). • Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion (see "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947).

126:4-6 The prophets had spoken of the restoration as a time when the wilderness would change into the Garden of Eden (Isa 51:3; Ezek 47); the reality fell far short of paradise. Here the restoration community prays for full redemption (see Hag 2:19). • as streams renew the desert: The seasonal rains filled the dry river beds (wadis), and the land turned green again. The prayer looks for a similar transformation of Israel's fortunes, a fulfillment of the imagery of the "Second Exodus" in Isaiah (see "The Second Exodus" at Isa 52:11-12, p. 1185). • The harvest represents God's full restoration.

Ps 127 Blessing and protection come from God. Without his presence, there is no success (127:1-2). This is particularly true for children, who are God's gift (127:3-5).

127:1-2 Unless: These conditional sentences emphasize the positive idea that the Lord will protect the city (cp. 124:1-2). • Human effort is futile unless the Lord blesses it (see 44:3). • from early morning until late at night: This depicts an aggressive and competitive lifestyle.

• God's loved ones enjoy a quiet night's sleep (3:5; 4:8).

127:3-5 Children are one of God's blessings. The words translated "children" (Hebrew banim) and "builders" (banim, 127:1) form a wordplay. Having children builds a family.

127:4-5 like arrows: God uses children to protect the reputation of his people against the wicked (cp. 120:4; 7:12-13).

Ps 128 The godly, who fear the Lord, will know true happiness (128:1-2). The Lord is with them (see 127:1-2), building their home life (128:3-4) and blessing them across the generations (128:5-6).

128:1-2 Enjoying the fruit of one's labor means gaining benefit from whatever work one does.

128:3 Like vigorous young olive trees, children are saplings filled with potential. Olive oil symbolizes God's blessing (104:15; Num 18:12; Jer 31:12; Hag 2:19).

- 4 That is the LORD's blessing for those who fear him.
- 5 May the LORD continually bless you from Zion.
May you see Jerusalem prosper as long as you live.
- 6 May you live to enjoy your
grandchildren.
May Israel have peace!

PSALM 129

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

- 1 From my earliest youth my enemies have persecuted me.
Let all Israel repeat this:
- 2 From my earliest youth my enemies have
persecuted me,
but they have never defeated me.
- 3 My back is covered with cuts, as if a farmer had plowed long furrows.
- 4 But the LORD is good;
he has cut me free from the ropes of the ungodly.
- 5 May all who hate Jerusalem be turned back in shameful defeat.
- 6 May they be as useless as grass on a rooftop, turning yellow when only half grown,
7 ignored by the harvester, despised by the binder.
- 8 And may those who pass by refuse to give them this blessing:
"The LORD bless you;
we bless you in the LORD's name."

PSALM 130

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

- 1 From the depths of despair, O LORD,
I call for your help.
- 2 Hear my cry, O Lord.
Pay attention to my prayer.
- 3 LORD, if you kept a record of our sins, who, O Lord, could ever survive?
- 4 But you offer forgiveness, that we might learn to fear you.
- 5 I am counting on the LORD;
yes, I am counting on him.
I have put my hope in his word.
- 6 I long for the Lord
more than sentries long for the dawn, yes, more than sentries long for the dawn.
- 7 O Israel, ^hhope in the LORD;
for with the LORD there is unfailing
love.
His redemption overflows.
- 8 He himself will redeem Israel from every kind of sin.

PSALM 131

*A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.
A psalm of David.*

- 1 LORD, my heart is not proud;
my eyes are not haughty.
I don't concern myself with matters too great or too awesome for me to grasp.
- 2 Instead, I have calmed and quieted myself, like a weaned child who no longer cries for its mother's milk.

128:4-6 God will continually bless all who fear him (133:3) from his dwelling in Zion (20:2; 50:2; 110:2), no matter where they live. • grandchildren: God's blessings extend from generation to generation for the faithful (79:12-13; 89:1; 100:4-5; 103:17-19).

Ps 129 The psalmist briefly reviews Israel's history of trouble (129:1-2) and redemption (129:3-4). He concludes with curses against the enemies and blessings on the godly (129:5-6).

129:1-2 Israel's earliest youth as a nation was during its sojourn in Egypt.

129:3-4 the LORD is good: He rescued Israel from Egypt, from many enemy attacks, and from the Babylonian exile.

129:5 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion (see "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947).

129:6-8 Grass on a rooftop had shallow roots and would scorch easily. A crop was ignored by the harvester when the yield was low. The enemies who had sown hurt among God's people would gain little.

Ps 130 Beginning with himself as a representative of the community, the psalmist cries for God's mercy (130:1-3) out of deep distress. He places his hope in the Lord (130:4-6), knowing that the Lord will rescue when and as he chooses. Based on this confidence, the psalmist invites Israel to wait for the Lord (130:7-8).

130:1-3 A cry from the depths is from a place of deep distress (cp. 69:2, 14; Isa 51:10; Ezek 27:34). Out of the frailty of his being, the psalmist prays for divine favor.

130:3 The psalmist knows that his sins make him guilty and deserving of God's judgment.

130:4-6 The good news comes in God's readiness to forgive sinners. His grace encourages people to fear him and hope in him.

130:5 God's word imparts hope (119:42-43, 49; 147:11).

130:7-8 Israel is invited to hope in the LORD (9:18; 27:14; 131:3) because the Lord pays the costly price for redemption and covers whatever sin separates humans from him (see also 111:9; Exod 6:6-8; 2 Sam 7:23-24; Isa 43:1-4; Titus 2:14; Heb 9:12; 1 Pet 1:18).

Ps 131 Out of his contentment in the Lord, the psalmist invites Israel to seek their rest in God (131:3).

131:1 The heart represents the whole being (see 27:8). • God hates arrogance, which is a foolish way of life (Prov 6:16-19). • The psalmist does not trouble himself with matters that properly belong to the Lord.

131:2 The psalmist calmed and quieted himself, surrendering his ambitions and taming his ego (Gal 2:20). • like a weaned child: The psalmist sees himself as a contented child.

Yes, like a weaned child is my soul within me.

³ O Israel, 'put your hope in the LORD—now and always.

PSALM 132

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

¹ LORD, remember David and all that he suffered.
² He made a solemn promise to the LORD.
He vowed to the Mighty One of Israel,
³ "I will not go home;
I will not let myself rest.
⁴ I will not let my eyes sleep nor close my eyelids in slumber ⁵ until I find a place to build a house for
the LORD,
a sanctuary for the Mighty One of Israel."
⁶ We heard that the Ark was in Ephrathah;
then we found it in the distant countryside of Jaar.
⁷ Let us go to the sanctuary of the LORD;
let us worship at the footstool of his throne.
⁸ Arise, O LORD, and enter your resting place, along with the 'Ark, the symbol of your power.
⁹ May your priests be clothed in godliness;
may your loyal servants sing for joy.
¹⁰ For the sake of your servant David, do not reject the king you have anointed.
¹¹ The LORD swore an oath to David with a promise he will never take back:
"I will place one of your descendants on your throne.

¹² If your descendants obey the terms of my covenant
and the laws that I teach them, then your royal line will continue forever and ever."

¹³ For the LORD has chosen Jerusalem;
he has desired it for his home.
¹⁴ "This is my resting place forever," he said.
"I will live here, for this is the home I desired.
¹⁵ I will bless this city and make it prosperous;
I will satisfy its poor with food.
¹⁶ I will clothe its priests with godliness;
its faithful servants will sing for joy.
¹⁷ Here I will increase the power of David;
my anointed one will be a light for my
people.
¹⁸ I will clothe his enemies with shame, but he will be a glorious king."

PSALM 133

*A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.
A psalm of David.*

¹ How wonderful and pleasant it is when brothers live together in harmony!
² For harmony is as precious as the anointing oil that was poured over Aaron's head, that ran down his beard
and onto the border of his robe.
³ Harmony is as refreshing as the dew from Mount Hermon that falls on the mountains of Zion.
And there the LORD has pronounced his blessing,
even life everlasting.

Ps 132 This psalm celebrates the Lord's faithfulness to David. When David wanted to bring the Ark into Jerusalem (132:1-5), the Lord granted the request and made Jerusalem his earthly home (132:6-10). The choice of Jerusalem marked God's election of David's line (132:11-13), of Zion (132:14-17), and of the priesthood (132:9, 16).

132:2 the Mighty One of Israel: Literally of Jacob; also in 132:5. See note on 44:4.

132:6-10 These verses form a recollection of David's moving the Ark of the Covenant to Jerusalem (2 Sam 6:1-15) and of the Lord's oath to David (2 Sam 7:4-16).

132:6 Ephrathah is Bethlehem (Gen 35:19; 48:7). • Jaar is the singular form of the plural "Jearim." The Ark was at Kiriath-jearim for twenty years in Samuel's time (1 Sam 7:1-2).

132:8-10 These verses are a quotation from Solomon's prayer at the dedication of the Temple (2 Chr 6:41-42).

132:9 The priests were to exhibit righteousness in their lives (132:16; Mal 2:6).

132:11-12 The LORD swore an oath to David (2 Sam 7:4-16): God's promise is unconditional, but the covenant is not (If . . . then). Those who break God's covenant can expect the discipline of God's judgment (see 89:30-37).

132:13-17 The psalmist recounts the selection of Jerusalem and of the priests.

132:13 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion (see "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947).

132:17 anointed one: The ruler God chose and established (see Pss 1-8) would never cease to provide light for the Lord's people. This light would burn continually (see 1 Kgs 11:36; 2 Kgs 8:19).

132:18 The adversaries will be humiliated, in contrast to the glorious king (132:9, 16).

Ps 133 In this wisdom psalm (see Ps 1), peaceful and harmonious relationships manifest the presence of God.

133:1-2 The psalmist tells of the joy of consecrated relationships.

133:1 Brothers are related by blood, by profession, or by commitment.

133:2 The anointing oil was the oil used to ordain and consecrate Aaron for service in his office (see Exod 29:7). • head . . . beard . . . border of his robe: The oil consecrated Aaron completely.

133:3 The dew represents the richness of divine blessings; in Jerusalem, it comes from moist winds from the Mediterranean Sea. Mount Hermon, which is capped with snow, is a place of abundant moisture. • A blessing is God's life-giving power, a guarantee of his

A song for pilgrims ascending to Jerusalem.

¹ Oh, praise the LORD, all you servants of the LORD, you who serve at night in the house of the LORD.

² Lift your hands toward the sanctuary, and praise the LORD.

³ May the LORD, who made heaven and earth, bless you from Jerusalem.

¹ Praise the LORD!

Praise the name of the LORD!

Praise him, you who serve the LORD,

² you who serve in the house of the LORD,
in the courts of the house of our God.

³ ^kPraise the LORD, for the LORD is good;
celebrate his lovely name with music.

⁴ For the LORD has ^achosen Jacob for himself,
Israel for his own special treasure.

⁵ I know the greatness of the LORD—that our Lord is greater than any other god.

⁶ The LORD does whatever pleases him throughout all heaven and earth, and on the seas and in their depths.

⁷ He causes the clouds to rise over the whole earth.
He sends the lightning with the rain and releases the wind from his storehouses.

⁸ He destroyed the firstborn in each Egyptian home, both people and animals.

⁹ He performed miraculous signs and wonders in Egypt against Pharaoh and all his people.

¹⁰ He struck down great nations and slaughtered mighty kings—

¹¹ Sihon king of the Amorites, Og king of Bashan,
and all the kings of Canaan.

¹² He gave their land as an inheritance,
a special possession to his people Israel.

¹³ Your name, O LORD, endures forever;
your fame, O LORD, is known to every generation.

¹⁴ For the LORD will give justice to his people and have compassion on his servants.

¹⁵ The idols of the nations are merely things of silver and gold,
shaped by human hands.

¹⁶ They have mouths but cannot speak,
and eyes but cannot see.

¹⁷ They have ears but cannot hear,
and mouths but cannot breathe.

¹⁸ And those who make idols are just like them,
as are all who trust in them.

¹⁹ O Israel, praise the LORD!
O priests—descendants of Aaron—
praise the LORD!

²⁰ O Levites, praise the LORD!
All you who fear the LORD, praise the LORD!

²¹ The LORD be praised from Zion, for he lives here in Jerusalem.

Praise the LORD!

provision and protection (5:12; 41:2), secured by his presence (21:6; 67:1). Even the other nations will ultimately be blessed (Ps 67; 72:17). Zion is the focal point of God's blessing (134:3; 147:13). • God gives life everlasting to human beings.

Ps 134 In the last of the pilgrims' songs (Pss 120–134), the travelers call the Temple workers to praise the Lord. In return, they will receive a much-anticipated blessing.

134:1-2 Those who serve at night were the priests and Levites (see also 135:2).

134:3 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion (see "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947).

Ps 135 God, the Creator and the Lord of history, "made heaven and earth" (134:3). He deserves praise because, unlike idols, he redeems his people.

135:4 The synonyms Jacob and Israel include all twelve tribes. The Lord cherishes his chosen people. They are his treasure out of all the kingdoms of the world (Exod 19:5-6).

135:5 The Lord is superior to any real or imagined supernatural being (see 95:3-5; 115:4-8).

135:6 God is sovereign over the whole created order—he does whatever pleases him. • The phrase heaven and earth refers to all of creation.

135:7 The psalmist tells of God's sovereignty over the weather (Ps 29; 77:17-18; 78:26; 104:4; 147:8-9; 148:5-6).

135:8-12 The Lord was sovereign over the Exodus and the conquest of the Promised Land.

135:8-11 In the tenth and culminating plague against Egypt, God destroyed the firstborn of each family. • The miraculous signs and wonders are the ten plagues (see Exod 7–11; Deut 4:34; Neh 9:10).

135:13-18 The Lord's name and character stand in contrast to idols.

135:15-20 This entire section is repeated in 115:4-11.

135:15-18 Idols corrupt the thinking because they are merely things made by humans; they cannot speak, see, hear, or breathe (Isa 41:22-24; 44:9, 18; Rom 1:21-23).

135:19-21 The groups named here comprised the covenant community (see 115:9-11).

PSALM 136

- ¹ Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good!
His faithful love endures forever.
- ² Give thanks to the God of gods.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ³ Give thanks to the Lord of lords.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ⁴ Give thanks to him who alone does mighty miracles.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ⁵ Give thanks to him who made the heavens so skillfully.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ⁶ Give thanks to him who placed the earth among the waters.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ⁷ Give thanks to him who made the heavenly lights—
His faithful love endures forever.
- ⁸ the sun to rule the day,
His faithful love endures forever.
- ⁹ and the moon and stars to rule the night.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹⁰ Give thanks to him who killed the firstborn of Egypt.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹¹ He brought Israel out of Egypt.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹² He acted with a strong hand and powerful arm.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹³ Give thanks to him who parted the Red Sea.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹⁴ He led Israel safely through,
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹⁵ but he hurled Pharaoh and his army into the Red Sea.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹⁶ Give thanks to him who led his people through the wilderness.
His faithful love endures forever.

- ¹⁷ Give thanks to him who struck down mighty kings.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹⁸ He killed powerful kings—
His faithful love endures forever.
- ¹⁹ Sihon king of the Amorites,
His faithful love endures forever.
- ²⁰ and Og king of Bashan.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ²¹ God gave the land of these kings as an inheritance—
His faithful love endures forever.
- ²² a special possession to his servant Israel.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ²³ He remembered us in our weakness.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ²⁴ He saved us from our enemies.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ²⁵ He gives food to every living thing.
His faithful love endures forever.
- ²⁶ Give thanks to the God of heaven.
His faithful love endures forever.

PSALM 137

- ¹ Beside the rivers of Babylon, we sat and wept
as we thought of Jerusalem.
- ² We put away our harps, hanging them on the branches of poplar trees.
- ³ For our captors demanded a song from us.
Our tormentors insisted on a joyful hymn:
“Sing us one of those songs of Jerusalem!”
- ⁴ But how can we sing the songs of the LORD
while in a pagan land?
- ⁵ If I forget you, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget how to play the harp.
- ⁶ May my tongue stick to the roof of my mouth

Ps 136 This is the last of the Great Hallel psalms (Pss 120–136; see note on Book Five at Ps 107). It distinctively repeats the refrain His faithful love endures forever in every verse. The hymn is framed by a call to praise (136:1-3, 26). It proclaims the Lord as the Creator of all and the Redeemer of Israel, both in the distant (136:10-22) and in the recent past (136:23-24).

136:1-3 The psalmist invites the community to praise the Lord, who is good and full of love, the true Lord of humanity. Verse 1 alludes to the poetic expression in 2 Chr 5:13.

136:10-22 The psalmist recounts the early history of Israel's redemption.

136:13 Red Sea: Literally sea of reeds;

also in 136:15. See note on Exod 13:18.

136:23-24 The psalmist relates the recent history of Israel's redemption, although the circumstances are not specified.

136:25 The Lord provides for all of his creatures.

136:26 The phrase God of heaven is an exilic and postexilic designation for the Lord; it is found in Ezra (Ezra 1:2; 5:11, 12; 6:9, 10; 7:12; etc.), Nehemiah (Neh 1:5; 2:4, 20; etc.), and Daniel (Dan 2:18, 19, 37, 44).

Ps 137 In response to the pain of exile (137:1-4), the psalmist resolves to remember Jerusalem even though the memories cause him pain (137:4-6). He also writes an astounding imprecation, or prayer for vengeance (137:7-9).

137:1 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion; also in 137:3 (see “Mount Zion, the City of God” at Ps 48, p. 947).

137:2-4 Because the music of Jerusalem was tied to the joys of life in the Promised Land, the Exile removed any occasion for singing joyous songs. The Babylonians wanted the Judeans to sing and dance for them, but the exiles' grief made doing so either distasteful or impossible. The songs celebrating the Lord speak of his power and goodness, but his people were filled with doubts and questions. They hung their harps in trees, perhaps signifying the death of their joy under God's curse (Deut 21:23).

on the day the armies of Babylon captured Jerusalem.

"Destroy it!" they yelled.
"Level it to the ground!"

⁸ O Babylon, you will be destroyed.
Happy is the one who pays you back for what you have done to us.

⁹ Happy is the one who takes your babies and smashes them against the rocks!

PSALM 138

A psalm of David.

¹ I give you thanks, O LORD, with all my heart;
I will ⁴ sing your praises before the gods.
² I bow before your holy Temple as I worship.
I praise your name for your unfailing love and faithfulness;
for your promises are backed by all the honor of your name.
³ As soon as I pray, you answer me;
you encourage me by giving me
strength.

Rev 6:10

The psalmists sometimes asked the Lord to execute vengeance against their adversaries. It was not unusual for a psalmist to pray for the violent destruction of his enemies as a manifestation of divine justice.

How does one defend this kind of prayer? Is this a form of Jewish or Christian jihad (an Arabic word meaning "striving," sometimes meaning "holy war")? In contrast with jihad, the psalmist called on God, not humans, to act.

Divine justice is defined in Ps 1:6: The Lord loves the righteous and destroys the wicked. The wicked are subversive, corrupt, and thoroughly committed to evil; they live in opposition to God and to everything that God does. The wicked shake the foundations of God's kingdom, of ethics, and of society.

Prayers for termination of the wicked arose out of the psalmists' concern with justice and righteousness and out of their confidence in God. They argued that evil is inconsistent with God's nature and that the removal of evil is the only way for his kingdom to thrive. The poets of Israel did not simply invoke God's judgment on anyone with whom they could not get along. God charges the gods and their followers with the evil of injustice in Ps 82 and holds all humans accountable to his divine standard of justice and righteousness. These were also the standards that guided the psalmists.

The psalmists were intimately acquainted with grief. They had suffered and been oppressed and marginalized by bullies, leaders, and kings from inside and outside of Israel. Their prayers were full of faith and hope, asking how long the Lord would tolerate their suffering and confessing that the Lord alone could rescue them from evil. They expressed deep longing for his redemption. Through these prayers for justice and vindication, the godly may rest in peace as they await God's rescue. By the principle of retribution, they asked the Lord to inflict upon the wicked the suffering that they had endured (5:10; 6:10; 7:9; 8:2; 9:19-20; 28:4; 37:8-10, 36; 56:7; 104:35; 137:9; 139:19).

Prayers for the end of evil are appropriate as long as God is recognized as arbiter, judge, and executor. Do we truly see evil as evil, or do we perceive it merely as an inconvenience? The prayer for the coming of God's kingdom implies the removal of evil. The cruelty inflicted on the wicked has been transformed through the cruel crucifixion of Jesus Christ. Jesus will judge and bring an end to evil (see Rev 19:11-21). Christians are to love as Christ loved (John 13:34), pray for their enemies, and forgive them (Matt 5:38-48; Col 3:13).

137:5-6 The psalmist pledges his loyalty to Jerusalem, the city at the center of God's reign and the location of fellowship with him.

137:7-9 The poet witnessed the betrayal of God's people from Judah by the Edomites, so he curses Edom. The long rivalry between Edom and Judah came to a head during Judah's last days, when the Edomites handed the Judeans over to the Babylonians (Obad 1:10-11) and rejoiced in Jerusalem's fall. • This prayer for vengeance is shocking (see "Prayers for Vengeance," above).

Pss 138-145 In this final collection of psalms of David, praise and wisdom psalms (Pss 138-139, 145) form a frame around five poems of lament (Pss 140-144).

Ps 138 In this wisdom psalm, the Lord is presented as the God of gods. He rescued his people and has a perfect plan for them as individuals. The nations will join Israel in glorifying God.

138:1-3 The Lord receives praise before the gods of the nations.

- 4 Every king in all the earth will thank you,
LORD,
for all of them will hear your words.
- 5 Yes, they will sing about the LORD's ways, for the glory of the LORD is very great.
- 6 Though the LORD is great, he cares for the humble,
but he keeps his distance from the proud.
- 7 Though I am surrounded by troubles, you will protect me from the anger of
my enemies.
You reach out your hand,
and the power of your right hand saves me.
- 8 The LORD will work out his plans for my life—
for your faithful love, O LORD, endures
forever.
Don't abandon me, for you made me.
- PSALM 139
For the choir director: A psalm of David.
- 1 O LORD, you have examined my heart and know everything about me.
- 2 You know when I sit down or stand up.
You know my thoughts even when I'm far away.
- 3 You see me when I travel and when I rest at home.
You know everything I do.
- 4 You know what I am going to say even before I say it, LORD.
- 5 You go before me and follow me.
You place your hand of blessing on my head.
- 6 Such knowledge is too wonderful for me, too great for me to understand!
- 7 I can never escape from your Spirit!
I can never get away from your presence!
- 8 If I go up to heaven, you are there;
if I go down to the "grave," you are there.
- 9 If I ride the wings of the morning,
if I dwell by the farthest oceans, 10 even there your hand will guide me,
and your strength will support me.
- 11 I could ask the darkness to hide me and the light around me to become night—
12 but even in darkness I cannot hide from you.
To you the night shines as bright as day.
Darkness and light are the same to
you.
- 13 You made all the delicate, inner parts of my body
and knit me together in my mother's womb.
- 14 Thank you for making me so wonderfully complex!
Your workmanship is marvelous—how well I know it.
- 15 You watched me as I was being formed in utter seclusion, as I was woven together in the dark of the womb.
- 16 You saw me before I was born.
Every day of my life was recorded in your book.
Every moment was laid out before a single day had passed.
- 17 How precious are your thoughts about me, O God.
They cannot be numbered!

138:4-5 As the Lord's glory fills the earth, the world's population must willingly submit to him. Every king (cp. Ps 2) will join the community of praise as they hear the LORD's ways of truth and love.

138:6-8 The exalted God takes care of the humble (138:6), especially his servant the psalmist (138:7-8).

138:6 God's holiness and excellence are great, beyond the scope of humanity (see 99:2; 113:4; Isa 6:1; 57:15).

138:8 The psalmist expresses confidence in the Lord's plans, which are perfect, and prays for God's continued involvement. The psalmist sees himself as part of God's plans (see 9:10; 139:14).

Ps 139 In this wisdom psalm, the psalmist opens every aspect of his being, character, behavior, and speech to God's examination. As hard as life is, he wants to ensure his own growth in wisdom so that he does not come under God's judgment of the wicked (141:5; 142:3; 143:8, 10; 144:3-4). Further, the poet recognizes that he cannot escape from the Lord. His sense of stress disappears when he considers the Lord's loving care for him, even before birth (139:13-18). He then invites the Lord to continue examining him as he walks in the path of wisdom (139:23-24).

139:1-6 The Lord knows the psalmist well; God has examined him thoroughly, in an inescapable examination that is painful at times (Job 7:17-19).

139:2 The phrase sit down or stand up refers to daily activities (cp. Deut 6:6-9).

139:3-6 The Lord's omniscience and omnipotence provide comfort to the godly, but they imprison the hearts of the wicked (2:3).

139:6 The Lord's wonderful understanding lies beyond the psalmist's ability to comprehend (see Judg 13:18).

139:7-12 The psalmist expresses his awe at the Lord's omnipresence.

139:8 down to the grave (Hebrew to Sheol): God has total access to his entire creation—even the most hard-to-reach places. See note on 6:5.

139:9 ride the wings of the morning: This poetic expression describes traveling eastward, as far as the sunrise, if that were possible. • the farthest oceans: This expression takes the traveler in the opposite direction, far to the west.

139:13 The delicate, inner parts of the body include a person's very being. • Even when hidden in his mother's womb, the psalmist was guided by the Lord.

139:17 How precious are your thoughts about me (or How precious to me are your thoughts): God's investigation reveals loving care. Fellowship with the Lord provides riches beyond description.

PSALM 140

For the choir director: A psalm of David.

- 1 O LORD, rescue me from evil people.
Protect me from those who are violent,
- 2 those who plot evil in their hearts and stir up trouble all day long.
- 3 Their tongues sting like a snake;
the venom of a viper drips from their lips. Interlude
- 4 O LORD, keep me out of the hands of the wicked.
Protect me from those who are violent,
for they are plotting against me.
- 5 The proud have set a trap to catch me;
they have stretched out a net;
they have placed traps all along the way. Interlude
- 6 I said to the LORD, "You are my God!"
Listen, O LORD, to my cries for mercy!
- 7 O Sovereign LORD, the strong one who
rescued me,

131:1; 138:1; 140:2;
147:3

The Hebrew words leb and lebab (both meaning "heart") are hard to translate because they rarely refer to the physical human heart. Rather, the heart is the center of one's being, an image for a person's thought life, reflections, and will. The story of the heart reveals a person's commitment and direction in life.

The hearts of the wicked are cunning and scheming (58:2; 64:6; 140:2). They are deceptive, hypocritical (28:3; 41:6; 55:21; 62:4), lacking in integrity, greedy, and jealous (10:3; 62:10; 141:4). As time goes on, they become more arrogant (14:1; 101:5; 131:1), callous, and stubborn (17:10; 73:7; 78:8; 81:12; 95:8, 10; 119:70). Their only commitment is to themselves (78:37); their destructive way of life (5:9; 101:4) leads to their own destruction.

The psalmists openly confess their sorrow, trouble, anguish, and despair (13:2; 22:14; 25:17; 38:8, 10; 40:12; 55:4; 61:2; 69:20; 73:21, 26; 109:22; 143:4; 147:3). Through their pain, their hearts grow. They pray intensely (62:8; 119:80, 145), long for God (84:2), trust in him (28:7), and open their hearts to God's examination (7:9; 17:3; 26:2; 139:1-6, 23). Their commitment does not waver, and their lives are pure (24:4; 51:10; 73:1, 13) and contented (131:1), even when broken.

As their broken hearts (34:17-18; 51:17) are healed by the Lord (147:3), they become strong, confident (27:3, 14; 31:24; 57:7; 108:1; 112:7-8; 138:3), and vital (22:26; 69:32; 119:32). In the end, the Lord gives them the desires of their hearts (20:4; 21:2; 37:4) and then satisfies them. This fills the godly with joy and praise (4:7; 9:1; 13:5; 16:7, 9; 19:8; 30:12; 33:21; 86:12; 89:50; 102:4; 104:15; 105:3; 111:1; 119:7, 111; 138:1).

139:19-24 The psalmist's sense of awe leads him to consider the wicked and to reflect on himself. The Lord, as the examiner of all people, judges the wicked for their destructive acts and speech; thus, the psalmist prays that he will not be among them.

139:21 / hate: Rejection of evil is a mark of wisdom (see 1:1; 5:4-6).

139:23-24 The psalmist's prayer against the wicked leads him also to reflect on himself; he does not presume that he is righteous. This prayer has been repeated by believers over the centuries.

139:24 The path of wisdom leads to everlasting life (see 1:6; Prov 4:18; 6:23).

Ps 140 In this individual lament, the psalmist artistically sketches God's enemies with all their evil intents. He prays for the Lord's protection and rescue with confidence in God's strength and justice. He foresees the evil as being judged by fire (140:9-11) and himself as being vindicated and dwelling in the Lord's presence (140:13).

140:1-3 The psalmist prays for the Lord to rescue him from wicked people.

140:3 sting like a snake . . . a viper: These creatures depict the wicked as very corrupt people (see Prov 23:32; Isa 14:29; Rom 3:13).

140:4-5 The psalmist asks for divine protection (see Ps 121), praying that the Lord will keep him safe from the many schemes of the wicked.

140:7 The expression Sovereign LORD comes from combining the name Yahweh with the title Adonai (Master). See also 68:20; 69:6; 71:16; 73:28; 109:21; 140:7; 141:8.

you protected me on the day of battle.

⁸ LORD, do not let evil people have their way.

Do not let their evil schemes succeed, or they will become proud.

Interlude

⁹ Let my enemies be destroyed by the very evil they have planned
for me.

¹⁰ Let burning coals fall down on their heads.
Let them be thrown into the fire or into watery pits from which they can't escape.

¹¹ Don't let liars prosper here in our land.
Cause great disasters to fall on the violent.

¹² But I know the LORD will help those they persecute;
he will give justice to the poor.

¹³ Surely righteous people are praising your name;
the godly will live in your presence.

PSALM 141

A psalm of David.

¹ O LORD, I am calling to you. Please hurry!
Listen when I cry to you for help!

² Accept my prayer as incense offered to
you,
and my upraised hands as an evening offering.

³ Take control of what I say, O LORD, and guard my lips.

⁴ Don't let me drift toward evil or take part in acts of wickedness.
Don't let me share in the delicacies of those who do wrong.

⁵ Let the godly strike me!
It will be a kindness!

If they correct me, it is soothing medicine.
Don't let me refuse it.

But I pray constantly against the wicked and their deeds.

⁶ When their leaders are thrown down from a cliff,
the wicked will listen to my words and find them true.

⁷ Like rocks brought up by a plow, the bones of the wicked will lie scattered without burial.

⁸ I look to you for help, O Sovereign LORD.
You are my refuge; don't let them kill me.

⁹ Keep me from the traps they have set
for me,
from the snares of those who do wrong.

¹⁰ Let the wicked fall into their own nets, but let me escape.

PSALM 142

A psalm of David, regarding his experience in the cave. A prayer.

¹ I cry out to the LORD;
I plead for the LORD's mercy.

² I pour out my complaints before him and tell him all my troubles.

³ When I am overwhelmed,
you alone know the way I should turn.
Wherever I go,
my enemies have set traps for me.

⁴ I look for someone to come and help me, but no one gives me a passing thought!
No one will help me;
no one cares a bit what happens to me.

⁵ Then I pray to you, O LORD.
I say, "You are my place of refuge.
You are all I really want in life.

⁶ Hear my cry,
for I am very low.
Rescue me from my persecutors,
for they are too strong for me.

140:9-11 The psalmist prays for God's judgment on the wicked.

140:10 The poet wants fire to descend on his enemies, and he wants them thrown into pits so they can never attack again. The language foreshadows the NT teaching on hell (Matt 5:22, 29-30; 10:28; 18:9; Mark 9:43-47; Luke 12:5; Jas 3:6; 2 Pet 2:4).

Ps 141 The psalmist prays for rescue and wisdom, and he envisions the end of evil. The principle of retribution (141:10) unifies the psalm.

141:1-2 The psalmist prays urgently for rescue. He does not have at hand either incense or an evening offering (Exod 29:38-39), but his prayers and devotion are the reality that those elements represent (cp. Isa 1:13; Rev 5:8). • Upraised hands are a posture of prayer (28:2; 88:9; 143:6; Exod 9:29; 1 Tim 2:8).

141:3-5 Wisdom sometimes requires protection from oneself. One could say or think things that lead to the evil path (Prov 13:3; 21:23). • Wisdom opens itself to correction from godly people (see Prov 3:11; 9:8; 15:31; 19:25).

141:7 the bones of the wicked will lie scattered without burial: Literally our bones will be scattered at the mouth of Sheol. See note on 6:5.

Ps 142 The psalmist faces severe persecution, so he cries to the Lord, and the Lord will rescue him.

142:TITLE psalm: Hebrew maskil. This may be a literary or musical term.

• regarding his experience in the cave: See note on 57:TITLE.

142:1-3 Though overwhelmed by his persecutors (142:6), the psalmist looks to the Lord for wisdom.

142:3-4 The psalmist reaches a point of despair (see 77:3), and the Lord cares for him in his distress. The psalmist commits himself to the Lord's wisdom (see Ps 139) but laments his entrapment by the wicked (5:9-10; 140:5; 141:9; 142:3).

142:5 Though he is alone, the psalmist's trust remains in the Lord, who is his life (see 9:9; 16:5; 27:13).

142:6-7 Though overwhelmed by loneliness and trouble, the psalmist focuses on the Lord's goodness and protection.

A psalm of David.

- 1 Hear my prayer, O LORD;
listen to my plea!
Answer me because you are faithful
and righteous.
- 2 Don't put your servant on trial, for no one is innocent before you.
- 3 My enemy has chased me.
He has knocked me to the ground and forces me to live in darkness like those in the grave.
- 4 I am losing all hope;
I am paralyzed with fear.
- 5 I remember the days of old.
I ponder all your great works and think about what you have done.
- 6 I lift my hands to you in prayer.
I thirst for you as parched land thirsts for rain. Interlude
- 7 Come quickly, LORD, and answer me, for my depression deepens.
Don't turn away from me,
or I will die.
- 8 Let me hear of your unfailing love each morning,
for I am trusting you.
Show me where to walk,
for I give myself to you.
- 9 Rescue me from my enemies, LORD;
I run to you to hide me.
- 10 Teach me to do your will,
for you are my God.

May your gracious Spirit lead me forward on a firm footing.

- 11 For the glory of your name, O LORD, preserve my life.
Because of your faithfulness, bring me out of this distress.
- 12 In your unfailing love, silence all my
enemies
and destroy all my foes,
for I am your servant.

PSALM 144

A psalm of David.

- 1 Praise the LORD, who is my rock.
He trains my hands for war and gives my fingers skill for battle.
- 2 He is my loving ally and my fortress,
my tower of safety, my rescuer.
He is my shield, and I take refuge in him.
He makes the nations submit to me.
- 3 O LORD, what are human beings that you should notice them, mere mortals that you should think about them?
- 4 For they are like a breath of air;
their days are like a passing shadow.
- 5 Open the heavens, LORD, and come down.
Touch the mountains so they billow
smoke.
- 6 Hurl your lightning bolts and scatter your enemies!
Shoot your arrows and confuse them!
- 7 Reach down from heaven and rescue me;
rescue me from deep waters,
from the power of my enemies.
- 8 Their mouths are full of lies;
they swear to tell the truth, but they lie instead.

He knows that the Lord alone is his Redeemer, so he offers his praise.

142:7 His experience of confinement and duress is like being in prison (see 107:10).

Ps 143 In this lament, the psalmist feels overwhelmed by constant harassment from his foes, so he turns to the Lord's love, righteousness, and faithfulness. He remembers God's acts in the past and yearns for the renewal of the Lord's love. He opens himself to God's wisdom because he knows that instruction will lead to life.

143:1-2 The psalmist prays for God's love and mercy.

143:2 All people are guilty before God (Rom 3:20-24).

143:3-4 I am losing all hope: The psalmist confesses his desperation as his life slips away under oppressive and ruthless foes.

143:5-6 Remembering God's acts from the past reassures the psalmist of God's faithfulness (42:4; 63:6; 77:3, 6; 119:55).

143:6 The psalmist's thirst is a deep longing for God's redemption (see 42:1-2).

143:7-10 The psalmist petitions the Lord for a renewal of his love.

143:7 The psalmist experiences depression. He feels that he is dying from anguish (31:10; 119:87), exhausted (39:10; 71:9; 119:81), fainting with longing (84:2), and overwhelmed by the weariness of life (90:7, 9).

143:8-10 The psalmist prays for wisdom (see 5:8; 25:4-6; Ps 138; 143:10). • your gracious Spirit: The Spirit brings God's goodness (see 23:6).

143:11 To preserve means in this case to restore from despair (80:19; 85:6; 138:7).

143:12 A prayer for vindication and renewal of life concludes the psalm.

Ps 144 This lament begins with an exclamation of love for the Lord. The community then reflects on the transitory nature of life (144:3-4). The psalmist prays for divine intervention and anticipates victory (144:5-11). A new song (144:9-10) and a prayer for rescue (144:11) open up the theme of the Lord's blessing through his provisions and protection (144:12-15).

144:1-2 The psalmist's descriptive names for the Lord reveal his deep love for him.

144:2 the nations: Some manuscripts read my people.

144:3-4 what are human beings? The same question in 8:4-6 elicits the answer that humans are mere mortals but are also glorious rulers. The psalmist depicts humans as having a transitory, empty existence (see 90:3, 7-10; 102:11; 109:23; 146:4).

144:5-8 The psalmist prays for God's intervention against his enemies (cp. 18:7-19).

- ⁹ I will sing a new song to you, O God!
I will sing your praises with a ten-stringed harp.
- ¹⁰ For you grant victory to kings!
You rescued your servant David from the fatal sword.
- ¹¹ Save me!
Rescue me from the power of my
enemies.
Their mouths are full of lies;
they swear to tell the truth, but they
lie instead.
- ¹² May our sons flourish in their youth like well-nurtured plants.
May our daughters be like graceful pillars, carved to beautify a palace.
- ¹³ May our barns be filled with crops of every kind.
May the flocks in our fields multiply by the thousands,
even tens of thousands,
- ¹⁴ and may our oxen be loaded down with produce.
May there be no enemy breaking through our walls,
no going into captivity,
no cries of alarm in our town squares.
- ¹⁵ Yes, joyful are those who live like this!
Joyful indeed are those whose God is the LORD.

PSALM 145

A psalm of praise of David.

- ¹ I will exalt you, my God and King, and praise your name forever and ever.
- ² I will praise you every day;
yes, I will praise you forever.
- ³ Great is the LORD! He is most worthy of praise!
No one can measure his greatness.
- ⁴ Let each generation tell its children of
your mighty acts;
let them proclaim your power.
- ⁵ I will meditate on your majestic, glorious splendor
- and your wonderful miracles.
- ⁶ Your awe-inspiring deeds will be on every tongue;
I will proclaim your greatness.
- ⁷ Everyone will share the story of your wonderful goodness;
they will sing with joy about your righteousness.
- ⁸ The LORD is merciful and compassionate, slow to get angry and filled with
unfailing love.
- ⁹ The LORD is good to everyone.
He showers compassion on all his creation.
- ¹⁰ All of your works will thank you, LORD, and your faithful followers will praise
you.
- ¹¹ They will speak of the glory of your kingdom;
they will give examples of your power.
- ¹² They will tell about your mighty deeds and about the majesty and glory of your reign.
- ¹³ For your kingdom is an everlasting kingdom.
You rule throughout all generations.
- The LORD always keeps his promises;
he is gracious in all he does.
- ¹⁴ The LORD helps the fallen and lifts those bent beneath their loads.
- ¹⁵ The eyes of all look to you in hope;
you give them their food as they need it.
- ¹⁶ When you open your hand, you satisfy the hunger and thirst of every living thing.
- ¹⁷ The LORD is righteous in everything he does;
he is filled with kindness.
- ¹⁸ The LORD is close to all who call on him,
yes, to all who call on him in truth.
- ¹⁹ He grants the desires of those who fear
him;
he hears their cries for help and rescues them.

144:12-15 This prayer for the Lord's blessing brings the laments of Pss 140-144 to a close. It offers a vision of God's provision and protection (see Ps 127), not only for the psalmist, but for his descendants and those of all the godly.

144:12 The psalmist compares sons and daughters to plants and pillars, which are images of strength and beauty.

144:13-14 no enemy . . . no cries of alarm: These images depict peace and security.

Ps 145 This psalm is a Hebrew acrostic poem; each verse (including 13b) begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. This hymn of praise is the last in this collection of the psalms of David (Pss 138-145). Praise continues in the last five psalms (Pss 146-150). This psalm celebrates the Lord as King of all (145:1-3, 10-13). God's actions reveal his royal qualities (145:4-7). He cares for all creatures (145:14-17) and for those who fear him (145:18-20).

145:1-3 Praise to God, the Great King who reigns over all other rulers (see 47:2).

145:4-7 This litany praises God's character and mighty deeds. Each generation will continue to testify to God's power (22:30).

145:8-9 God consistently demonstrates his character toward all his creation (see 136:25).

145:10-13 These verses form a description of the Lord's kingdom.

145:13 As in Dead Sea Scrolls and Greek and Syriac versions; the Masoretic Text lacks the final two lines of this verse.

145:14-20 The Lord cares for his creatures.

PSALM 146

1 Praise the LORD!

Let all that I am praise the LORD.

2 I will praise the LORD as long as I live.
I will ^ksing praises to my God with my dying breath.

3 Don't put your confidence in powerful people;
there is no help for you there.

4 When they breathe their last, they return to the earth, and all their plans die with them.

5 But joyful are those who have the God of Israel as their helper, whose hope is in the LORD their God.

6 He made heaven and earth,
the sea, and everything in them.
He keeps every promise forever.

7 He gives justice to the oppressed and food to the hungry.
The LORD frees the prisoners.

8 The LORD opens the eyes of the blind.
The LORD lifts up those who are weighed down.

The LORD loves the godly.

9 The LORD protects the foreigners among us.

He cares for the orphans and widows,

but he frustrates the plans of the wicked.

10 The LORD will reign forever.
He will be your God, O Jerusalem, throughout the generations.

Praise the LORD!

PSALM 147

1 Praise the LORD!

How good to ^asing praises to our God!
How delightful and how fitting!

2 The LORD is rebuilding Jerusalem and bringing the exiles back to Israel.

3 He heals the brokenhearted and bandages their wounds.

4 He counts the stars and calls them all by name.

5 How great is our Lord! His power is absolute!
His understanding is beyond comprehension!

6 The LORD supports the ^bhumble, but he brings the wicked down into the dust.

7 Sing out your thanks to the LORD;
sing praises to our God with a harp.

8 He covers the heavens with clouds, provides rain for the earth,
and makes the grass grow in mountain pastures.

9 He gives food to the wild animals and feeds the young ravens when they cry.

10 He takes no pleasure in the strength of a horse or in human might.

11 No, the LORD's delight is in those who fear him, those who put their hope in his unfailing love.

12 Glorify the LORD, O Jerusalem!
^cPraise your God, O Zion!

145:20 The Lord cares for those who love him and fear him. God-fearers love the Lord and find refuge in him (5:11); they seek him as their only true Savior (40:16; 70:4). They will experience a grand future (69:36), as well as God's peace (119:165).

Pss 146–150 The Psalter ends with five hallelujah psalms, so named because each begins and ends with Praise the LORD! (Hebrew halelu-yah).

Ps 146 The call to praise (146:1–2) leads into a warning against folly and false confidence (146:3–4). The psalm concludes with a blessing for all who place their hope in the Lord (146:5–7).

146:1 This verse is reminiscent of 103:1, 2, 22; 104:1, 35.

146:5–7 the God of Israel: Literally of Jacob. See note on 44:4; see also 20:1.

146:8–9 The fourfold repetition of the name of the LORD emphasizes that only he heals, unburdens, loves, and protects.

146:10 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion (see “Mount Zion, the City of God” at Ps 48, p. 947).

Ps 147 The psalmist calls for the Lord to be praised for restoring and blessing Zion, caring for the poor, displaying his power over nature, and revealing himself to his people.

147:1 This verse is a call to worship.

147:2–6 The psalmist recalls the restoration of Jerusalem and the Lord's afflicted exiles.

147:4–5 The Lord created the heavens.

• He counts the stars: God's people can feel secure in knowing that the Lord attends to every detail of his creation; he knows all that belongs to him.

147:6 God measures out his justice on the poor and on the wicked (55:22; 140:12; 145:14; 146:7).

147:7–11 Human achievements fail to impress the God who commands nature; rather, he takes pleasure in those who fear him.

147:8 God holds sovereign power over the weather (77:17–18; 78:26; 104:4; 148:5–6).

147:10–11 human might: Any physical or intellectual achievement is a gift from the Lord, just like the strength of a horse. These gifts are a reason to praise the Lord, not to boast (Jer 9:23–24).

- ¹³ For he has strengthened the bars of your gates and blessed your children within your walls.
- ¹⁴ He sends peace across your nation and satisfies your hunger with the finest wheat.
- ¹⁵ He sends his orders to the world—how swiftly his word flies!
- ¹⁶ He sends the snow like white wool; he scatters frost upon the ground like ashes.
- ¹⁷ He hurls the hail like stones. Who can stand against his freezing cold?
- ¹⁸ Then, at his command, it all melts. He sends his winds, and the ice thaws.
- ¹⁹ He has revealed his words to Jacob, his decrees and regulations to Israel.
- ²⁰ He has not done this for any other nation; they do not know his regulations.

Praise the LORD!

¹ Praise the LORD!

Praise the LORD from the heavens!
Praise him from the skies!

² Praise him, all his ^aangels!
Praise him, all the armies of heaven!

³ Praise him, sun and moon!
Praise him, all you twinkling stars!

⁴ Praise him, skies above!
Praise him, vapors high above the clouds!

⁵ Let every ^ccreated thing give praise to the LORD, for he issued his command, and they came into being.

⁶ He set them in place forever and ever.
His decree will never be revoked.

⁷ Praise the LORD from the earth,
you creatures of the ocean depths,

- ⁸ fire and hail, snow and clouds,
wind and weather that obey him,
- ⁹ mountains and all hills,
fruit trees and all cedars,
- ¹⁰ wild animals and all livestock,
small scurrying animals and birds,
- ¹¹ kings of the earth and all people, rulers and judges of the earth,
- ¹² young men and young women,
old men and children.
- ¹³ Let them all praise the name of the LORD.
For his name is very great;
his glory towers over the earth and heaven!

¹⁴ He has made his people strong, honoring his faithful ones—
the people of Israel who are close to him.

Praise the LORD!

¹ Praise the LORD!

Sing to the LORD a new song.
Sing his praises in the ^aassembly of the faithful.

² O Israel, rejoice in your Maker.
O people of Jerusalem, exult in your King.

³ Praise his name with dancing,
^baccompanied by tambourine and harp.

⁴ For the LORD delights in his people;
he crowns the ^bhumble with victory.

⁵ Let the faithful rejoice that he honors them.
Let them sing for joy as they lie on their beds.

⁶ Let the praises of God be in their mouths, and a sharp sword in their hands—

147:17 like stones: Literally like bread crumbs.

147:19-20 words . . . decrees . . . regulations: The Lord gave powerful words to Israel so that they might obey him (105:45).

Ps 148 This psalm calls for the whole created order to praise the Lord because he has honored his faithful people.

148:1 During Jesus' triumphant entry into Jerusalem, the crowds called out various blessings, including a phrase taken from this verse (Matt 21:9; Mark 11:10; Luke 19:38).

148:6 The created order is stable because of the Lord's word (see 33:9).

148:8 In the ancient Near East, people viewed different gods as having control over separate aspects of nature. The Lord, however, reigns sovereign over all natural phenomena; all the parts of creation are his servants, bringing praise to him through their obedience (77:17-18; 104:4; 135:7; 147:8, 15-18; Num 11:31). • clouds: Or mist, or smoke.

148:11-12 The psalmist calls all humans to offer praise to God, regardless of status, age, or gender.

148:13-14 Universal praise of the Lord is fitting because he is glorious, and he has blessed his people (see 147:13; Isa 46:13; Eph 3:10). • His faithful ones are his trusting and devoted servants (86:2).

Ps 149 This hymn of praise celebrates the Lord's victory. He is the Maker of Israel (149:1-2) and the victorious King who shares his glory with his faithful ones (149:3-9).

149:2 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion (see "Mount Zion, the City of God" at Ps 48, p. 947).

149:4 God's people, whom the world ignores and despises, will be vindicated (Matt 19:30). The humble will experience victory over their oppressors and persecutors (see Isa 61:3).

Praise God in his sanctuary;
praise him in his mighty heaven!

² Praise him for his mighty works;
praise his unequalled greatness!
³ Praise him with a blast of the ram's horn;
praise him with the lyre and harp!
⁴ Praise him with the tambourine and praise him with loud clanging cymbals.

⁶ Let everything that breathes sing praises to the LORD!

Praise the LORD!

Instrument	References	Explanation
Stringed Instruments (minnim, Ps 150:4)
Harp or Lyre (kinnor)	Ps 81:2; 1 Sam 10:5; 16:16, 23; 2 Sam 6:5; Isa 5:12	The kinnor , the most frequently mentioned musical instrument in the Bible, was a hand-held harp or lyre. The strings were made of sheep gut, and the sounding box was at the bottom of the instrument.
Harp (nebel)	Ps 57:8; 2 Sam 6:5; 1 Kgs 10:12; Neh 12:27; Amos 5:23	The nebel was a larger and louder instrument than the kinnor . It was probably shaped like a bottle, with the belly-shaped sounding box on the bottom.
Ten-stringed Harp (nebel 'asor)	Ps 33:2; 92:3; 144:9	The nebel 'asor is often identified with the Phoenician zither, which had ten strings.
Wind Instruments
Ram's horn (shofar)	Ps 98:6; 150:3; 2 Sam 6:15; 15:10; 1 Kgs 1:34; 2 Kgs 9:13; 1 Chr 15:28; 2 Chr 15:14	The shofar , mentioned in the Bible more than any other Hebrew instrument, is the only instrument of ancient Israel that survives and is still used in Jewish liturgy. The early shofar was simply a hollowed ram's horn. Later shofars might have mouthpieces added, and some are straightened with a bend near the bell of the horn. The shofar was used for signaling important events, not for playing music.
Flute ('ugab)	Ps 150:4; Gen 4:21; Job 21:12; 30:31	The 'ugab was a type of flute. Its only sacred use is recorded in Ps 150:4.
Trumpet (khatotsirah)	Ps 98:6; Num 10:1-10; 1 Chr 15:28; 2 Chr 15:14; Hos 5:8	The khatotsirah was a sort of trumpet. Similar instruments were known in Egypt, Assyria, the Hittite Empire, and Greece. The khatotsirah became an important part of the Temple service.
Flute or Oboe (khalil)	Jer 48:36; 1 Sam 10:5; Isa 5:12	The khalil was similar to the Greek aulos , a primitive oboe (see Matt 9:23; 1 Cor 14:7; Rev 18:22). The khalil had a double-reed mouthpiece and probably produced a shrill, penetrating sound.
Percussion Instruments
Castanet (mena'an'im)	2 Sam 6:5	The mena'an'im was probably a form of the Egyptian sistrum , a loud metal rattle, made from rods and loose rings that rattled.
Bells (pa'amonim)	Exod 28:33-34; 39:25- 26	The pa'amonim were bells attached to the hem of the priest's garment.

▲ Musical Instruments in Israel (Ps 150).

149:6-9 Vengeance is the Lord's business (see 2:3; 94:1; 102:20; 142:7; 146:7).

Ps 150 Everything that breathes is commanded to praise the Lord as he deserves. The whole Psalter describes the greatness of the Lord, so this psalm is a fitting conclusion.

150:1 The phrase mighty heaven alludes to Gen 1 and to God's glorious work in filling the emptiness.

150:3-5 The psalmist calls all people to praise God with instruments and dancing. • flutes: These wind instruments are not mentioned as being used in Temple worship. • clanging cymbals: Temple musicians clapped two bronze bowls together as percussion instruments.

150:6 Praise the LORD: This refrain is a fitting conclusion to the entire book of Psalms.

THE BOOK OF Proverbs

Each day, life confronts us with many decisions. The book of Proverbs is a compass that helps us navigate the murky waters of life. It provides wisdom, instructions for living, and guidance for achieving strong character. Proverbs tells us how to succeed in any situation by remaining calm-headed in a crisis, patient when pressed, gentle when challenged, and firm when confronted with temptation. Above all, Proverbs shows us that the source of all wisdom is a right relationship with God.

SETTING

Proverbs is ancient Israel's anthology of wise sayings, advice, instructions, and warnings. The book is structured as a manual for a young man launching his career. The son appears to be at an age when he would be entering a profession, and some of the proverbs seem intended to help a young man get along in his career.

While Proverbs is Israel's anthology, it is not only for the people of Israel but for everyone. The book contains just a few references to Israel's specific ideas and institutions, such as the covenant, Israel's redemptive history (e.g., the Exodus), and its formal religious institutions (such as sacrifice and atonement). Proverbs supplements Israel's formal religion with practical advice.

Proverbs is a collection of sayings from various times and social contexts. Many individual proverbs find their primary setting in the royal court, addressing matters such as how to act in front of a king. Some proverbs have a family setting and best fit an agricultural context. Others pertain to the world of commerce, trade, and business. Proverbs offers wisdom and guidance for success in all the spheres of life that a young man in ancient Israel might face. Yet it is also timeless, with significant application to readers today.

SUMMARY

The collection of Proverbs has two major sections: the opening discourses (1:1–9:18) and the wise sayings (10:1–31:31). The opening discourses are talks that a father gives to his son. Occasionally, a figure named Wisdom breaks in to add her perspective (1:20–33; 8:1–9:13).

The second part of the book contains several collections of wise sayings. These proverbs cover a wide range of topics; most frequently mentioned are wealth and poverty, planning, laziness, prostitutes, hard work, relationships, pride, and humility.

GENRE AND STYLE

In the ancient Near East, wise sayings were collected into books such as Proverbs to consult when guidance was needed in a situation. The sayings were intended to guide people to a correct course of action. In Israel as in neighboring nations, the purpose of these collections was to educate the young and give them direction for living well. Evidence suggests that Babylonian and Egyptian wisdom collections formed the curriculum of schools.

A proverb expresses an insight, observation, or piece of advice that has been popularly accepted as general truth. A proverb is a saying so universally accepted that uttering the right proverb at the appropriate time is often all it takes to resolve a discussion.

Proverbs is also a book of poetry. Its compact language holds a lot of content in few words. It is literature that rewards reflective time and meditation on its rich nuances.

One important characteristic of Hebrew poetry is parallelism, an echoing or matching effect between parts of the same line:

The king is pleased with words from righteous lips;
he loves those who speak honestly (16:13).

The parallelism in this example is synonymous—the second part of the parallelism continues and sharpens the thought of the first part. Some proverbs are antithetical, meaning that the first and second parts are opposites:

A wise woman builds her home, but a foolish woman tears it down with her own hands (14:1).

Other proverbs make comparisons; some of these are informally referred to as “better-than” sayings:

Better to have little, with fear for the LORD, than to have great treasure and inner turmoil (15:16).

Many proverbs teach through poetic imagery. For example, vinegar and smoke are both irritants:

Lazy people irritate their employers, like vinegar to the teeth or smoke in the eyes (10:26).

A handful of proverbs are repeated within the book. These are identified in the notes with parallel slash marks: (e.g., 14:12 // 16:25).

AUTHORS AND EDITORS

The Proverbs anthology was begun by “Solomon, David’s son, king of Israel” (1:1), its most prominent and prolific contributor and editor. Solomon was a wise king, thanks to God’s gift (1 Kgs 3:5-15). He collected

Proverbs' guiding belief is that the human intellect—wisdom—founded on fear of God and tutored in traditional teachings, is the prime virtue of character, and as such is the necessary (and almost sufficient) means for creating a life of success—materially, physically, socially, and morally.

proverbs and composed his own (1 Kgs 4:29–32). But he was not the last one to edit the collection or to add to it. Material written by later teachers was added. For example, 200 years after Solomon, “the advisers of King Hezekiah of Judah” collected additional proverbs of Solomon and added them to the anthology (25:1). Other composers or editors mentioned in Proverbs include Agur (30:1), Lemuel (31:1), and “the wise” (22:17; 24:23). Some of the sayings are influenced by neighboring nations, such as the “thirty sayings” of the wise (22:17–24:22, especially 22:20), which appear to have borrowed heavily from an Egyptian writing called The Instruction of Amenemope (1200s BC). The collection of Proverbs was edited to its final form several hundred years after Solomon’s time, late in the history of Israel. Of course, it was ultimately authored by God through several of Israel’s wise teachers.

READERS

Proverbs 1:8–9:18 contains a series of discourses from a father to a son (and, in 1:20–33 and 8:1–36, from a woman called Wisdom to the young man). There is some debate as to whether this was a biological son or an apprentice since the recipient of the Egyptian Instruction of Amenemope was an apprentice. However, the presence of the “mother” in Proverbs (e.g., 1:8) suggests a biological son.

Much of the material is more appropriate for young males than for women (such as warnings to avoid immoral women), yet Proverbs has a much broader audience than just young men. Its purpose is to teach wisdom to people (1:2), both to the simple (1:4) and to the wise (1:5). Proverbs is addressed to everyone—but not everyone will receive it (1:7).

MEANING AND MESSAGE

Proverbs is a book of practical wisdom for the affairs of life. It often takes the form of a father teaching his son, who receives instruction for an enriched life. As he walks the path of life, the son will come to crossroads where he must make decisions about which way to go.

Beyond its original audience, Proverbs helps us to make right choices today. The book of Proverbs instructs the reader that there are rewards for wise behavior and punishments for foolish behavior. While these rewards motivate us to heed instruction, they are not universal promises. Proverbs offers principles that are generally true. For example, a person who works hard and has integrity is likely to have more material resources than a lazy and shiftless person. However, the lazy person might inherit wealth, and a hard worker might lose wealth when exploited by a corrupt government official. (This disjunction between righteousness and material reward is a major theme of Ecclesiastes and Job.) Rather than guaranteeing a favorable outcome, wisdom gives us generally true principles for life decisions.

On the surface, the advice of Proverbs sometimes seems to contradict itself, but careful reading reveals the circumstances to which each piece of advice applies. Should we answer a fool’s arguments? Or should we be silent when we realize that we are arguing with a fool (26:4–5)? It depends. We find the same thing with English aphorisms. On some occasions “Look before you leap” applies; other times we are reminded that “He who hesitates is lost.” Contradictory sayings might both be true in different situations. Proverbs are not laws; they offer general advice and guidance. The truly wise person knows when to apply a particular proverb and when not to.

The wisdom of Proverbs is practical, but the sayings contain much more than good advice. The message of Proverbs is that real wisdom is based on relationship with God, the true source of all wisdom. This message is expressed in 1:7, "Fear of the LORD is the foundation of true knowledge." Proverbs invokes a fundamental spiritual choice because there is no true wisdom apart from a living relationship with God.

1 These are the ^aproverbs of Solomon, David's son, king of Israel.

Preface and Motto: The Purpose of Proverbs

² Their purpose is to teach people wisdom and discipline, to help them understand the insights of the wise.

³ Their purpose is to teach people to live disciplined and successful lives, to help them do what is right, just, and fair.

⁴ These proverbs will give insight to the simple, knowledge and discernment to the young.

⁵ Let the wise listen to these proverbs and become even wiser. Let those with understanding receive guidance

⁶ by exploring the meaning in these ^bproverbs and parables, the words of the wise and their riddles.

⁷ Fear of the LORD is the foundation of true knowledge, but fools despise wisdom and discipline.

2. LECTURES OF A FATHER TO A SON (1:8-9:18)

A Father's Exhortation: Acquire Wisdom

⁸ My child, listen when your father corrects you.

Don't neglect your mother's instruction.

⁹ What you learn from them will crown you with grace and be a chain of honor around your neck.

¹⁰ My child, if sinners entice you, turn your back on them!

¹¹ They may say, "Come and join us.

Let's hide and kill someone! Just for fun, let's ambush the innocent!

¹² Let's swallow them alive, like the grave; let's swallow them whole, like those who go down to the pit of death.

¹³ Think of the great things we'll get! We'll fill our houses with all the stuff we take.

1:1 Solomon is the foremost authority on Israelite wisdom (see 1 Kgs 3:1-28; 4:32). Many proverbs are rightly ascribed to Solomon, but he did not write all of them (see 22:17; 24:23; 25:1; 30:1; 31:1).

1:2-7 This prologue explains the purpose of the book and identifies the different readers to whom it is addressed.

1:2-3 Wisdom is practical knowledge that involves ethical choices. Words such as right, just, and fair are associated with biblical wisdom. Gaining wisdom involves discipline, an active, intentional training of energy toward wisdom and away from folly. The book of Proverbs encourages us to resist our natural sinful tendencies towards wrong behavior.

1:4 The simple are like empty containers. Wisdom and folly compete to fill their minds and hearts (see 9:1-18).

1:6 Proverbs help the wise person to understand riddles. Here the Hebrew word (khidoth) indicates enigmas or paradoxes—difficult sayings that require interpretation (cp. Judg 14:14).

1:7 Fear of the LORD recognizes total dependence on God for everything, including knowledge and wisdom (9:10). It is not just a mental attitude but involves service, love, and obeying God's laws (see Deut 10:12-13). Fear of the Lord is the basis of all knowledge. How can we understand life without knowing the most fundamental truth about it—that it is God's creation?

1:8-9:18 My child (Literally My son; also in 1:10, 15): Like other wisdom literature of the ancient Near East, much of chs 1-9 is a father's (and occasionally, a mother's) instruction to a son. Because the son is being trained to follow in his father's profession, much of the teaching concerns the son's occupation. The NLT usually translates the term as child, since the lessons are applicable to both sons and daughters.

1:8-19 There are two paths (1:15) in the book of Proverbs: a wise, just way and a foolish, evil way. The parents represent the wise way and encourage their child to follow it.

1:9 crown you . . . chain of honor: Ornaments often represent wisdom and its rewards (see also 3:22; 4:9). This imagery inspires readers to pursue wisdom with diligence.

1:10-19 The father warns his child not to join a gang of sinners in their plan to pounce on the innocent, for their evil actions will rebound on themselves (see 28:10; Ps 9:15; 35:8). The evil way is a path of violence and robbery.

1:12 like the grave: Hebrew like Sheol. In the OT, Sheol is the abode of the dead. It is not necessarily associated with punishment.

- 14 Come, throw in your lot with us;
we'll all share the loot."
- 15 My child, don't go along with them!
Stay far away from their paths.
- 16 They rush to commit evil deeds.
They hurry to commit murder.
- 17 If a bird sees a trap being set,
it knows to stay away.
- 18 But these people set an ambush for themselves;
they are trying to get themselves killed.
- 19 Such is the fate of all who are greedy for money;
it robs them of life.

Wisdom Shouts in the Streets

- 20 Wisdom shouts in the streets.
She cries out in the public square.
- 21 She calls to the crowds along the main street,
to those gathered in front of the city gate:
- 22 "How long, you simpletons,
will you insist on being simpleminded?
How long will you mockers relish your mocking?

- How long will you fools hate
knowledge?
- 23 Come and listen to my counsel.
I'll share my heart with you and make you wise.
- 24 "I called you so often, but you wouldn't come.
I reached out to you, but you paid no attention.
- 25 You ignored my advice and rejected the correction I offered.
- 26 So I will laugh when you are in trouble!
I will mock you when disaster overtakes you—
- 27 when calamity overtakes you like a storm,
when disaster engulfs you like a cyclone,
and anguish and distress overwhelm
you.
- 28 "When they cry for help, I will not answer.
Though they anxiously search for me,
they will not find me.
- 29 For they hated knowledge and chose not to fear the LORD.

The main theme of Proverbs can be summed up in just ten words that appear near the beginning of the book: "Fear of the LORD is the foundation of true knowledge" (1:7). Fear implies respect, awe, and (at times) knee-knocking terror. It also acknowledges that everything, including knowledge and wisdom, comes from total dependence on God. The fear of the Lord leads people toward humility and away from pride (3:7; 15:33). With such an attitude, readers of Proverbs are more apt to listen to God than to their own independent judgment.

Fear of the Lord recognizes God's central place in the order of the world. God is the Creator and Master of all things. This is why Ps 14:1 labels those who reject God as "fools." Those who fear the Lord receive wisdom because they begin to understand that everything is under God's rule and in his service. This is more than just an attitude; it is a way of living that takes into account God's power and authority and our ultimate accountability to him.

Wisdom is closely connected with a proper relationship with God—both require choices in line with God's character (see 14:2; Job 28:28; Eccl 12:13). Do you want wisdom? Then you must enter into a relationship with the one who has all wisdom (see 1 Cor 1-2; Col 2:3).

1:17-19 Birds will not go into an obvious trap, but greedy people will. By resorting to violence and robbery, they will be violently robbed of life. They might be killed in the attempt or executed when caught. Even if sinners prosper until the end of their lives, they will find judgment in death, but the righteous will be in God's presence (see Ps 1).

1:20-33 The author personifies wisdom as a woman (the Hebrew noun translated wisdom, khokmah, is grammatically feminine) and encourages his son to embrace her (see 3:18; 8:1-9:6).

1:22 Three main words in Proverbs describe those who lack God's wisdom. Simpletons (Hebrew pethim) have not hardened themselves against God's wisdom and are most open to correction (see 1:4). Fools (Hebrew kesilim) have heard God's wisdom but resist it. Mockers (Hebrew latsonim) not only resist wisdom but ridicule it.

1:23 Wisdom invites all three groups (1:22) to come so she can make them wise. An intimate relationship with Wisdom means entering an intimate relationship with God, the foundation of true knowledge (1:7; see Job 28).

1:24-27 You ignored my advice—i.e., the call of God himself (see Ps 14). God calls to us through creation (Ps 8; Rom 1:18-20) and Scripture (2 Tim 3:16-17; 2 Pet 1:20-21).

1:28 I will not answer: If a person has not sought wisdom before calamity strikes, it is often too late to learn.

1:29-30 they hated knowledge: There is no middle ground in the language of Proverbs. One either loves and embraces Wisdom or hates and rejects her.

The Benefits of Wisdom

- 2¹ My child, listen to what I say,
and treasure my commands.
2 Tune your ears to wisdom,
and concentrate on understanding.
3 Cry out for insight,
and ask for understanding.
4 Search for them as you would for silver;
seek them like hidden treasures.
5 Then you will understand what it means to fear the LORD,
and you will gain knowledge of God.

- 6 For the LORD grants wisdom!
From his mouth come knowledge and understanding.
7 He grants a treasure of common sense to the honest.
He is a shield to those who walk with integrity.
8 He guards the paths of the just and protects those who are faithful
to him.
9 Then you will understand what is right,
just, and fair,
and you will find the right way to go.
10 For wisdom will enter your heart, and knowledge will fill you with joy.
11 Wise choices will watch over you.
Understanding will keep you safe.
12 Wisdom will save you from evil people,
from those whose words are twisted.
13 These men turn from the right way to walk down dark paths.
14 They take pleasure in doing wrong, and they enjoy the twisted ways of
evil.

Wisdom helps us to know how to act and speak in different situations. It provides the ability to avoid problems as well as the skill to handle them when they arise. Wisdom goes beyond simple intelligence. Proverbs notes that even animals such as ants, rock badgers, locusts, and lizards (30:24-28) are wise. This is not because they have great intelligence but because they know how to navigate life skillfully.

The foundation of wisdom is God himself. No wisdom exists apart from fear of the Lord (1:7). Wisdom is closely connected to righteousness and remains distant from evil. According to Proverbs, wisdom is gained through observation and experience (6:6-8), from instruction based on tradition (22:17-21), in learning from mistakes (12:1), and finally, but most importantly, through divine revelation (1:7).

In 1 Cor 1–2, Paul contrasts the “wisdom” of the world (which he calls foolishness) with the wisdom of Christ. Paul also says of Jesus, “In him lie hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge” (Col 2:3).

1:31 Evil people suffer the consequences of their own actions (see 1:15-19); God will ensure that sinners receive their proper punishment (see Matt 25:44-46; Heb 10:29; 2 Pet 2:9).

1:33 Truly wise people are untroubled by fear. They know that God is in control, and wisdom guides them in dealing with every situation.

2:1-22 The father urges his son to seek wisdom. It will protect him from evil men and from the dangers of promiscuous women. The son must seek wisdom, while understanding that it is a gift from God.

2:1 My child: Literally My son. See note on 1:8–9:18. • To treasure my commands means to give attention to them and obey them; they allow us to live to the fullest.

2:2-3 wisdom . . . insight . . . understanding: All three words point toward skills needed to navigate life's difficulties.

2:4 Searching for silver or hidden treasures would be undertaken with urgency, excitement, and anticipation of reward (cp. Matt 13:44; Luke 15:8-10).

2:5 The quest for true wisdom leads to God. Wisdom is impossible without fear of the Lord (1:7).

2:6 The LORD grants wisdom to those who learn it from the Scriptures, which come from his mouth (2 Tim 3:16; 2 Pet 1:20-21). It is impossible to become wise through empirical observation alone.

2:7-8 Here, common sense is intuitive understanding built through listening to God's words and observing his world. God is a shield who guards and protects those who live in relationship with him.

2:10 Wisdom will enter your heart, becoming an integral part of life. Rather than occasionally doing wise things, the wise person consistently makes wise choices. • Knowledge brings joy because it helps people live successfully.

2:12-15 Wisdom discerns when words are twisted to represent what is wrong as being right. The right way leads to life, the wrong way to death (1:10-19; 2:18-19; 5:5-6; 9:1-6, 13-18). • dark paths: In the NT, darkness represents the realm of evil, while light represents the realm of God's goodness (Matt 4:16; 5:14-16; John 1:14; Rom 2:19).

- ¹⁵ Their actions are crooked, and their ways are wrong.
- ¹⁶ Wisdom will save you from the immoral
woman,
from the seductive words of the
promiscuous woman.
- ¹⁷ She has abandoned her husband and ignores the covenant she made before God.
- ¹⁸ Entering her house leads to death;
it is the road to the grave.
- ¹⁹ The man who visits her is doomed.
He will never reach the paths of life.
- ²⁰ So follow the steps of the good,
and stay on the paths of the righteous.
- ²¹ For only the godly will live in the land, and those with integrity will remain
in it.
- ²² But the wicked will be removed from the
land,
and the treacherous will be uprooted.

Trusting in the LORD

- 3 ¹ My child, never forget the things I have taught you.
Store my commands in your heart.
- ² If you do this, you will live many years,
and your life will be satisfying.
- ³ Never let ^aloyalty and kindness leave you!
Tie them around your neck as a reminder.
Write them deep within your heart.
- ⁴ Then you will find favor with both God and people,
and you will earn a good reputation.

- ⁵ Trust in the LORD with all your heart;
do not depend on your own
understanding.
- ⁶ Seek his will in all you do, and he will show you which path to take.
- ⁷ Don't be impressed with your own
wisdom.
Instead, fear the LORD and turn away
from evil.
- ⁸ Then you will have healing for your body
and strength for your bones.
- ⁹ Honor the LORD with your wealth and with the best part of everything you produce.
- ¹⁰ Then he will fill your barns with grain, and your vats will overflow with good wine.
- ¹¹ My child, don't reject the LORD's discipline,
and don't be upset when he corrects
you.
- ¹² For the LORD corrects those he loves, just as a father corrects a child in whom he delights.
- ¹³ ^aJoyful is the person who finds wisdom,
the one who gains understanding.
- ¹⁴ For wisdom is more profitable than silver,
and her wages are better than gold.
- ¹⁵ Wisdom is more precious than rubies; nothing you desire can compare with her.

Prov 3:2; 22:4

2:16 Wisdom keeps a young man from an immoral woman, helping him to resist her flattering, seductive words. Wisdom includes emotional maturity, restraint, and the ability to assess the purpose of someone's speech.

2:17 By pursuing another man, an immoral woman has abandoned her husband. Her marriage covenant . . . before God included vows of faithfulness (cp. Mal 2:14-16).

2:18-19 Adultery leads . . . to the grave (literally to the spirits of the dead). It betrays a fundamental covenant with one's spouse and with God (see also Gen 39:2-9; Mal 2:14).

2:20-22 Those who make wise choices will live in the land; those who do not will be evicted. God gave the land of Israel to his people, but they could only stay in it if they followed God's commands (Deut 28:9-11, 64-68). If they broke his law (Exod 20:14; Deut. 5:18), they were expelled (586 BC; see 2 Kgs 25; 2 Chr 36:15-21).

3:1-12 The Lord blesses those who trust him and seek his will. His correction benefits those who follow him.

3:1 My child: Literally My son; also in 3:11, 21. See note on 1:8-9:18. • To store God's commands in your heart means not just memorizing them but making them an integral part of life and acting on them.

3:2 Those who obey God's laws are more likely to live many years; wickedness generally has negative physical and psychological consequences. However, evil people sometimes outlive righteous people (Eccl 7:15-18).

3:3 Loyalty and kindness reflect the intimate and wholehearted commitment of God's covenant relationship with his people (see Deut 6:8-9). • write them: For a parallel command, see 7:3.

3:5-6 On the path of wisdom, God himself guides us by the wisdom embodied in his word.

3:8 Healing and strength mean enjoying physical vitality as God's reward for following wisdom's way.

3:9-10 God receives honor and blesses his people when they recognize him as the source of all they have and when they give him the best part of everything they produce (Gen 4:3-5; 18:6; Exod 34:26; Num 18:12, 29).

3:11-12 The LORD's discipline can take the form of hardships, disappointments, and frustrations (see Heb 12:4-6). Like a good father, God's purpose is to make us wise, good, and happy. • just as a father corrects a child in whom he delights: Greek version reads and he punishes those he accepts as his children. Cp. Heb 12:6.

3:13 Wisdom and understanding provide skill for living and handling life's problems.

3:14-15 Wisdom is worth more than precious metals and jewels. It leads to relationship with God, the ultimate joy-giver (see 2:1-8).

 Prov 23:23

16 She offers you long life in her right hand, and riches and honor in her left.

17 She will guide you down delightful paths;
 all her ways are 'satisfying.

18 Wisdom is a tree of life to those who embrace her;
 happy are those who hold her tightly.

19 By wisdom the LORD founded the earth;
 by understanding he created the
 heavens.

20 By his knowledge the deep fountains of the earth burst forth, and the dew settles beneath the night sky.

21 My child, don't lose sight of common sense and discernment.

Hang on to them,
 22 for they will refresh your soul.
 They are like jewels on a necklace.

23 They keep you safe on your way, and your feet will not stumble.

24 You can go to bed without fear;
 you will lie down and sleep soundly.

25 You need not be afraid of sudden disaster
 or the destruction that comes upon
 the wicked,

26 for the LORD is your security.
 He will keep your foot from being caught in a trap.

27 Do not withhold good from those who deserve it
 when it's in your power to help them.

28 If you can help your neighbor now, don't say,
 "Come back tomorrow, and then I'll help you."

29 Don't plot harm against your neighbor, for those who live nearby trust you.

30 Don't pick a fight without reason, when no one has done you harm.

31 Don't envy violent people or copy their ways.

32 Such wicked people are detestable to the LORD,
 but he offers his friendship to the godly.

33 The LORD curses the house of the wicked, but he blesses the home of the upright.

34 The LORD mocks the mockers but is gracious to the humble.

35 The wise inherit honor, but fools are put to shame!

A Father's Wise Advice

4 ¹ My children, listen when your father corrects you.

Pay attention and learn good
 judgment,

² for I am giving you good guidance.
 Don't turn away from my instructions.

³ For I, too, was once my father's son, tenderly loved as my mother's only child.

⁴ My father taught me,
 "Take my words to heart.
 Follow my commands, and you will live.

⁵ Get wisdom; develop good judgment.
 Don't forget my words or turn away from them.

⁶ Don't turn your back on wisdom, for she will protect you.
 Love her, and she will guard you.

⁷ Getting wisdom is the wisest thing you can do!
 And whatever else you do, develop good judgment.

3:18 The tree of life alludes to the original tree in the Garden of Eden (Gen 2:9).

3:19-20 God's wisdom created harmony in the universe. Having wisdom means living in conformity with principles embedded in creation.

3:21-26 This passage enumerates the benefits of common sense and discernment, which are fruits of wisdom.

3:27-28 A wise person is a kind and helpful neighbor. Proverbs strongly emphasizes helping the financially needy (11:24; 28:27; 29:7, 14).

3:29 Because we have frequent contact with those who live nearby, we must not take advantage of them.

3:30 While it is impossible to avoid all conflict, we are not to pick a fight.

3:31-32 The violent will ultimately be punished for their ways (1:18-32), even if they seem to have an enviable position in the world (11:16). The wise will not envy them, because they are detestable to the LORD. God's friendship is of far greater benefit than anything the violent achieve.

3:34 The Greek version reads The LORD opposes the proud / but gives grace to the humble. Cp. Jas 4:6; 1 Pet 5:5.

4:1 My children: Literally My sons. See note on 1:8-9:18. • Discourses in chs 1-9 often begin with the call to listen (cp. 1:8, 23; 2:1; 4:20-21; 5:1-2; 6:20-23; 7:1-3). • when your father corrects you: The children have reason to listen, because they have made mistakes.

4:2 Wise people navigate life's difficulties successfully because they have heeded good guidance.

4:3 my father's son . . . my mother's only child: In Proverbs, both parents give instruction in wisdom. This involvement of both parents is unique among the traditions of the ancient Near East.

4:4 my commands: The words that describe the father's teaching are used elsewhere in Scripture for God's law. Fathers represent God to their children; the instruction of wise fathers conforms to God's law.

4:5 In the OT, to forget means more than not to remember; it is failure to obey.

4:6 she: In Proverbs, wisdom is sometimes personified as a woman (see 1:20-33; 8:1-9:6).

- ⁸ If you prize wisdom, she will make you great.
Embrace her, and she will honor you.
- ⁹ She will place a lovely wreath on your head;
she will present you with a beautiful crown."
- ¹⁰ My child, listen to me and do as I say,
and you will have a long, good life.
- ¹¹ I will teach you wisdom's ways and lead you in straight paths.
- ¹² When you walk, you won't be held back;
when you run, you won't stumble.
- ¹³ Take hold of my instructions; don't let them go.
Guard them, for they are the key to life.
- ¹⁴ Don't do as the wicked do,
and don't follow the path of evildoers.
- ¹⁵ Don't even think about it; don't go that way.
Turn away and keep moving.
- ¹⁶ For evil people can't sleep until they've done their evil deed for the day.
They can't rest until they've caused someone to stumble.
- ¹⁷ They eat the food of wickedness and drink the wine of violence!
- ¹⁸ The way of the righteous is like the first gleam of dawn, which shines ever brighter until the full light of day.
- ¹⁹ But the way of the wicked is like total darkness.

- They have no idea what they are stumbling over.
- ²⁰ My child, pay attention to what I say.
Listen carefully to my words.
- ²¹ Don't lose sight of them.
Let them penetrate deep into your heart,
- ²² for they bring life to those who find them,
and healing to their whole body.
- ²³ Guard your heart above all else,
for it determines the course of your life.
- ²⁴ Avoid all perverse talk;
stay away from corrupt speech.
- ²⁵ Look straight ahead,
and fix your eyes on what lies before you.
- ²⁶ Mark out a straight path for your feet;
stay on the safe path.
- ²⁷ Don't get sidetracked;
keep your feet from following evil.

Avoid Immoral Women

- 5 ¹ My son, pay attention to my wisdom;
listen carefully to my wise counsel.
- ² Then you will show discernment, and your lips will express what you've learned.
- ³ For the lips of an immoral woman are as sweet as honey, and her mouth is smoother than oil.

4:7-8 Wisdom often, though not always, brings relational and material prosperity.

4:9 A lovely wreath and a beautiful crown represent wisdom's rewards (see also 1:9 and 3:22).

4:10-19 The father again lays two paths before his children, encouraging them to avoid evil with its horrible consequences and to embrace good with its promise of blessing.

4:10 My child: Literally My son; also in 4:20. See note on 1:8-9:18. • Not every wise person lives longer than every evil person, but obedience and wise living make long, good life much more likely (see also 5:1-14, 21-23; 23:29-35; cp. Eccl 2:12-17).

4:11-12 Wisdom's . . . paths are straight (nondeceptive), while those of a fool are crooked (2:15). • When you walk . . . run: The wise reach their goals more quickly and efficiently.

4:16 The wicked stay up at night to plan evil (Ps 36:4; Mic 2:1).

4:17 To eat . . . wickedness and drink . . .

violence means that those attributes are at the very center of someone's life. Just as we eat and drink to stay alive, evil people sustain themselves by committing evil acts.

4:18-19 Light stands for wisdom and righteousness, and darkness stands for foolishness and wickedness (see Eccl 2:12-14). Light brings actions into the open; darkness hides them. Righteous people have nothing to hide, while the wicked try to hide what they do and end up stumbling over obstacles in the dark (see Matt 4:16; 5:14-16; John 1:14; Rom 2:19).

4:20-27 The wise walk the path of life with eyes straight ahead.

4:20-21 pay attention: See also 1:8, 23; 2:1; 5:1-2; 7:1-3; 8:1. The child is to let these teachings transform his personality, represented by his heart. A lifelong commitment to follow wisdom requires a change of heart.

4:22 Life and healing are rewards for following the wise instructions of the father (see 4:10).

4:23 In the OT, the heart represents the center of emotions, thinking, and reasoning (e.g., Gen 6:5; Deut 4:29; Ps 131:1). The heart is crucial in the battle between wisdom and foolishness, between righteousness and evil (see Matt 5:8; 13:15; John 12:40; Rom 6:17).

4:24 Because a person's words originate in the heart, Proverbs teaches extensively about speech. One of the most basic lessons is to avoid perverse or corrupt speech, later defined as lies, slander, gossip, and rumor (6:12; 17:4; 18:8).

5:1-23 These instructions on embracing one's wife and avoiding immoral women were originally addressed to young men just beginning their professional careers (see also 2:16-22; 7:1-27). This topic is also popular in ancient Egyptian wisdom writing.

5:1-2 Paying attention to instruction results in discernment—the ability to tell a right action from a wrong one. These instructions are vitally important when dealing with an immoral woman.

5:3-4 The lips of the immoral woman seem sweet and enticing but are actually bitter and deadly. Sexual activity

Marriage and Sexuality (5:15-20)

Jer 5:7-11
Hos 2:20
Mal 2:14-16

Heb 13:4

In Proverbs, the wise teacher frequently warns naive young men to avoid the temptations of sexual expression outside of marriage (2:16-22; 5:1-23; 6:20-7:27). While a young man might find other women physically attractive and seductive, the consequences of acting on these temptations are dire: His family and professional aspirations might be destroyed. Proverbs teaches young men to cultivate a strong relationship with their own wives. They are counseled to have healthy marital sex rather than sleeping with other women (5:15-20). Although Proverbs was originally written to instruct young men, women readers can think in the same categories and consider the same important issues.

From the beginning of Scripture, marriage is sacred, and appropriate sexual expression is an important part of marriage (Gen 2:23-25). The Fall created a rupture in all relationships, first between God and humans, and then between husband and wife (Gen 3). The division between Adam and Eve was expressed in terms of their sexuality; they could no longer stand naked in the garden without feeling shame. Proverbs urges young men and women to reclaim the beauty of marital love and guard its sanctity as God, the wise Creator, intended it.

5:5-6 A relationship with an immoral woman leads to death (Hebrew to Sheol), as does a relationship with the woman named Folly (see 9:13-18).

5:9-10 An illicit relationship can be tempting, but it eventually brings shame. If the woman is a prostitute, the young man will have to pay her and thus lose income. If the woman is another man's wife, he might have to pay her husband (see Lev 20:10).

5:11 Some sexually transmitted diseases were well known in the ancient Near East. Leviticus 15:1-15 describes what is probably gonorrhea; other texts from Mesopotamia describe "the disease of intercourse" and the "disease of Ishtar" (goddess of love) with the physical symptoms of venereal diseases.

5:15-18 To drink from one's own well (see also Song 4:12, 15) is to enjoy sexual relations within marriage. Rather than expend sexual energy on immoral women, a man should cultivate a healthy sexual relationship with his wife. Sex is not to be shared with strangers. This honors marriage (Gen 2:22-25) and keeps the seventh commandment (Exod 20:14 and Deut 5:18).

5:15 Literally Drink water from your own cistern, / flowing water from your own well.

5:16 Literally Why spill your springs in the streets, / your streams in the city squares?

5:19 deer: cp. Song 4:5.

5:21-23 Even if a man keeps an illicit relationship secret from his family and society, nothing is hidden from the LORD. Adultery is a sin against God (Gen 39:8-9).

5:22 Habitual sins are like ropes that catch and hold people.

²³ He will die for lack of self-control;
he will be lost because of his great foolishness.

Lessons for Daily Life

6 ¹ My child, if you have put up security for a friend's debt or agreed to guarantee the debt of a stranger—

² if you have trapped yourself by your agreement and are caught by what you said—

³ follow my advice and save yourself, for you have placed yourself at your friend's mercy.

Now swallow your pride;
go and beg to have your name erased.

⁴ Don't put it off; do it now!
Don't rest until you do.

⁵ Save yourself like a gazelle escaping from a hunter,
like a bird fleeing from a net.

⁶ Take a lesson from the ants, you lazybones.
Learn from their ways and become
wise!

⁷ Though they have no prince or governor or ruler to make them work,

⁸ they labor hard all summer, gathering food for the winter.

⁹ But you, lazybones, how long will you sleep?
When will you wake up?

¹⁰ A little extra sleep, a little more slumber,
a little folding of the hands to rest—

¹¹ then poverty will pounce on you like a bandit;
scarcity will attack you like an armed robber.

¹² What are ^kworthless and wicked people like?

They are constant liars,

¹³ signaling their deceit with a wink of the eye,
a nudge of the foot, or the wiggle of fingers.

¹⁴ Their perverted hearts plot evil,
and they constantly stir up trouble.

¹⁵ But they will be destroyed suddenly, broken in an instant beyond all hope of healing.

¹⁶ There are six things the LORD hates—no, seven things he detests:

¹⁷ haughty eyes,
a lying tongue,
hands that kill the innocent,

¹⁸ a heart that plots evil, feet that race to do wrong,

¹⁹ a false witness who pours out lies, a person who sows discord in a family.

²⁰ My son, obey your father's commands, and don't neglect your mother's instruction.

²¹ Keep their words always in your heart.
Tie them around your neck.

²² When you walk, their counsel will lead
you.
When you sleep, they will protect you.
When you wake up, they will advise
you.

²³ For their command is a lamp and their instruction a light;
their corrective discipline is the way to life.

²⁴ It will keep you from the immoral
woman,
from the smooth tongue of a promiscuous woman.

5:23 He will die: Young men must exercise self-control because death can result from acting on sexual desire for what is forbidden.

6:1-5 My child: Literally My son. See note on 1:8-9:18. • To secure the debt of another person is to guarantee it with one's own possessions. Whether to earn a friend's goodwill or to turn a profit from a stranger (cp. Exod 22:25; Lev 25:36-37; Deut 23:19-20), the risk is too great to take; it could lead to financial ruin. This message is repeated in 11:15; 17:18; 20:16; 22:26; 27:13.

6:3-5 save yourself: The danger of ruin is so great that escaping the situation is almost a matter of life and death, as highlighted by the images of animals caught in a trap.

6:6-11 Lazy people sleep rather than make necessary provisions (see also 24:33-34). They are the opposite of self-motivated and industrious ants. • Extra sleep . . . more slumber sarcastically expresses a lazy person's ambition.

6:10-11 // 24:33-34 The result of laziness is poverty. It will come suddenly and ruthlessly, like a bandit or an armed robber.

6:12-15 eye . . . foot . . . fingers . . . hearts: The different parts of a worthless person's body describe overall character, not just an occasional foolish act.

6:13 wink . . . nudge . . . wiggle: These behaviors were signals used while trying to deceive the innocent.

6:15 Even if wicked people seem to prosper, they will suddenly be punished.

6:16-19 The first line gives a number followed by a second line that increases that number by one. This device (called number parallelism) introduces a list of items and often, as here, draws attention to the climactic final item (see also 30:15-23).

6:19 A false witness perverts the truth in court or in everyday conversation.

6:20-25 This passage emphasizes the life-threatening risk of sleeping with another man's wife (see also 1:8, 23; 2:16-22; 5:1-23; 7:1-27).

6:24-25 The immoral woman uses smooth talk and physical beauty to appeal to the vanity of young men.

- 25 Don't lust for her beauty.
Don't let her coy glances seduce you.
- 26 For a prostitute will bring you to poverty, but sleeping with another man's wife will cost you your life.
- 27 Can a man scoop a flame into his lap and not have his clothes catch on fire?
- 28 Can he walk on hot coals and not blister his feet?
- 29 So it is with the man who sleeps with another man's wife.
He who embraces her will not go unpunished.
- 30 Excuses might be found for a thief who steals because he is starving.
- 31 But if he is caught, he must pay back seven times what he stole, even if he has to sell everything in his house.
- 32 But the man who commits adultery is an utter fool,
for he destroys himself.
- 33 He will be wounded and disgraced.
His shame will never be erased.
- 34 For the woman's jealous husband will be furious,
and he will show no mercy when he takes revenge.
- 35 He will accept no compensation, nor be satisfied with a payoff of any size.

Another Warning about Immoral Women

- 7 ¹ Follow my advice, my son; always treasure my commands.
² Obey my commands and live!
Guard my instructions as you guard your own eyes.

- ³ Tie them on your fingers as a reminder.
Write them deep within your heart.
- ⁴ Love wisdom like a sister; make insight a beloved member of your family.
- ⁵ Let them protect you from an affair with an immoral woman, from listening to the flattery of a promiscuous woman.
- ⁶ While I was at the window of my house,
looking through the curtain,
- ⁷ I saw some naive young men,
and one in particular who lacked common sense.
- ⁸ He was crossing the street near the house of an immoral woman, strolling down the path by her house.
- ⁹ It was at twilight, in the evening,
as deep darkness fell.
- ¹⁰ The woman approached him,
seductively dressed and sly of heart.
- ¹¹ She was the brash, rebellious type,
never content to stay at home.
- ¹² She is often in the streets and markets, soliciting at every corner.
- ¹³ She threw her arms around him and kissed him,
and with a brazen look she said,
- ¹⁴ "I've just made my peace offerings and fulfilled my vows.
- ¹⁵ You're the one I was looking for!
I came out to find you, and here you are!
- ¹⁶ My bed is spread with beautiful blankets, with colored sheets of Egyptian linen.
- ¹⁷ I've perfumed my bed with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.

6:26 Sleeping with a prostitute has bad consequences, but sleeping with another man's wife is even worse. Her husband will seek revenge (6:34-35), and God is watching in judgment. • to poverty: Literally to a loaf of bread.

6:27-29 walk on hot coals: Of course his feet will blister. The consequences are horrible.

6:30-31 Seven times is probably a way of saying a great amount since the law never stipulated such high repayment (see Exod 22:1, 4, 9).

6:32-35 A thief might be punished severely even if he had a reason for his actions, but his punishment is nothing compared to an adulterer's, who has no excuse for his crime. A jealous husband will seek the full punishment provided by law, which is death (Deut 22:22).

7:1-27 This is the last of four sections in chs 1-9 that warn against the dangers of promiscuous women (see also 2:16-22; 5:1-23; 6:20-35).

7:2 as you guard your own eyes (literally as the pupil of your eye): That is, with great care.

7:3 The OT uses the phrase tie . . . on your fingers as a reminder for something that needs to be remembered, most notably God's commands (Deut 6:8; 11:18). • The NLT's write them deep within your heart reflects the Hebrew idiom write them on the tablet of your heart (see also 3:3). Only obedience that comes from the heart will last.

7:4 In Hebrew, sister is a term of endearment that expresses intimacy (see Song 4:9-10).

7:5 Loving wisdom will leave no room for a promiscuous woman, whose arsenal includes flattery that appeals to a young man's vanity.

7:6-23 The young man's father tells a story to illustrate his teaching about immoral women.

7:6-7 Naive young men, not yet set in their ways, are still open to correction. With each foolish act, they move closer to becoming fools.

7:9 Foolish actions are often associated with darkness (see 4:18-19; Eccl 2:13-14).

7:10 The woman, seductively dressed, looks good on the outside but inside is full of trouble.

7:12 Prostitutes commonly solicited business in public areas such as markets and at every corner of busy streets (e.g., Gen 38:13-16).

7:14 The immoral woman's observance of religious ritual makes her look good on the surface, but her immoral behavior reveals a corrupt heart.

7:16-17 Her emphasis on her bed and exotic perfumes (myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon) is explicitly sexual (cp. Song 4:13-14).

- 18 Come, let's drink our fill of ^alove until morning.
Let's enjoy each other's caresses,
19 for my husband is not home.
He's away on a long trip.
20 He has taken a wallet full of money with him and won't return until later this month."
- 21 So she seduced him with her pretty speech and enticed him with her flattery.
22 He followed her at once,
like an ox going to the slaughter.
He was like a stag caught in a trap,
23 awaiting the arrow that would pierce its heart.
He was like a bird flying into a snare, little knowing it would cost him his life.
- 24 So listen to me, my sons,
and pay attention to my words.
25 Don't let your hearts stray away toward her.
Don't wander down her wayward path.
26 For she has been the ruin of many;
many men have been her victims.
27 Her house is the road to the grave.
Her bedroom is the den of death.

Wisdom Calls for a Hearing

- 8 1 Listen as Wisdom calls out!
Hear as understanding raises her voice!
2 On the hilltop along the road,
she takes her stand at the crossroads.
3 By the gates at the entrance to the town, on the road leading in, she cries aloud,

- 4 "I call to you, to all of you!
I raise my voice to all people.
5 You simple people, use good judgment.
You foolish people, show some understanding.
6 Listen to me! For I have important things to tell you.
Everything I say is right,
7 for I speak the truth and detest every kind of deception.
8 My advice is wholesome.
There is nothing devious or crooked in it.
9 My words are plain to anyone with understanding, clear to those with knowledge.
10 Choose my instruction rather than silver, and knowledge rather than pure gold.
11 For wisdom is far more valuable than rubies.
Nothing you desire can compare with it.
12 "I, Wisdom, live together with good judgment.
I know where to discover knowledge and discernment.
13 All who fear the LORD will hate evil.
Therefore, I hate pride and arrogance, corruption and perverse speech.
14 Common sense and success belong to me.
Insight and strength are mine.
15 Because of me, kings reign, and rulers make just decrees.
16 Rulers lead with my help,
and nobles make righteous judgments.
17 "I love all who love me.
Those who search will surely find me.

7:21-23 The naive young man's foolish actions might cost him his life (see 5:11; 6:32-35).

7:24-27 The father reasserts the point of his lesson: While an adulteress might look good and a relationship with her is enticing, harm or even death will result.
7:27 to the grave: Hebrew to Sheol. See note on 1:12.

8:1-9:18 The first part of Proverbs climaxes when the son encounters two women. Both invite the young man, and the reader with him, into an intimate relationship. The young man and the reader must decide between the woman named Wisdom, personifying the true wisdom of God (8:1-9:6), and the woman named Folly (9:13-18), representing the wisdom of the world (1 Cor 1:18-2:16). Both women's houses are on "the heights overlooking the city" (9:3, 14), suggesting ancient temples; the choice is thus between the true God and false gods.

8:1-2 Wisdom calls out openly and publicly, appealing to all and offering them her gift of wisdom. Like a prophet, she wants all to respond to her words.

8:2 The hilltop and crossroads provide maximum public access to all who pass by.

8:3 In ancient Near Eastern cities, the city gates had built-in chambers for conducting legal proceedings and business transactions. It was an appropriate place for Wisdom to make her appeal to the most people.

8:6-9 Wisdom is associated with truth, understanding, and knowledge, which are right, wholesome, plain, and clear. Wisdom detests deception, which is devious and crooked (cp. 1:2-7; 6:16-19).

8:10-11 Choose: An ethical choice must be made between seeking money or valuables and seeking wisdom, which is far more valuable.

8:12 Good judgment, knowledge, and discernment are only available to those who have Wisdom.

8:13 Those who choose wisdom, i.e., those who fear the LORD (see 1:7; 9:10), will not speak in ways that harm others or bend the truth.

8:15-16 The best rulers choose wisdom to guide them (e.g., 1 Kgs 3:16-28).
• and nobles make righteous judgments: Some Hebrew manuscripts and Greek version read and nobles are judges over the earth.

- 18 I have riches and honor,
as well as enduring wealth and justice.
- 19 My gifts are better than gold, even the purest gold,
my wages better than sterling silver!
- 20 I walk in righteousness,
in paths of justice.
- 21 Those who love me inherit wealth.
I will fill their treasuries.
- 22 "The LORD formed me from the beginning,
before he created anything else.
- 23 I was appointed in ages past,
at the very first, before the earth began.
- 24 I was born before the oceans were created,
before the springs bubbled forth their waters.
- 25 Before the mountains were formed,
before the hills, I was born—
- 26 before he had made the earth and fields and the first handfuls of soil.
- 27 I was there when he established the
heavens,
when he drew the horizon on the oceans.
- 28 I was there when he set the clouds above, when he established springs deep in
the earth.
- 29 I was there when he set the limits of the seas,
so they would not spread beyond their boundaries.
- And when he marked off the earth's foundations,
- 30 I was the architect at his side.
I was his constant delight, rejoicing always in his presence.

- 31 And how happy I was with the world he created;
how I rejoiced with the human family!
- 32 "And so, my children, listen to me,
for all who follow my ways are joyful.
- 33 Listen to my instruction and be wise.
Don't ignore it.
- 34 Joyful are those who listen to me, watching for me daily at my gates, waiting for me outside my home!
- 35 For whoever finds me finds life and receives favor from the LORD.
- 36 But those who miss me injure themselves.
All who hate me love death."

- 9¹ Wisdom has built her house;
she has carved its seven columns.
- ² She has prepared a great banquet, mixed the wines, and set the table.
- ³ She has sent her servants to invite everyone to come.
She calls out from the heights overlooking the city.
- ⁴ "Come in with me," she urges the simple.
To those who lack good judgment, she says,
- ⁵ "Come, eat my food,
and drink the wine I have mixed.
- ⁶ Leave your simple ways behind, and begin to live;
learn to use good judgment."
- ⁷ Anyone who rebukes a mocker will get an insult in return.
Anyone who corrects the wicked will get hurt.
- ⁸ So don't bother correcting mockers;
they will only hate you.
But correct the wise,
and they will love you.

8:22-25 formed me from the beginning . . . I was appointed in ages past: God's wisdom has always existed. His wisdom is here personified, but wisdom itself is not a person. Wisdom does not exist outside of God; wisdom is an expression of his character and nature. Unlike pagan gods, God needs no outside counselor to give him instructions (see Isa 40:13-14). Jesus is the apex of God's wisdom (see Col 1:15-17; 2:3).

8:27-29 God used his wisdom to establish the created order, so wisdom can tell us how the world works and testifies to God's greatness.

8:30 architect: God's wisdom guided the shaping of creation, bringing order out of chaos.

8:32-36 my children: Literally my sons. See note on 1:8-9:18. • Wisdom offers great rewards to those who listen to and follow wisdom.

8:35-36 Life is the ultimate reward for the wise, while rejecting wisdom results in death. These verses point to eternal life and death (see Luke 23:43; 1 Cor 15).

9:1-6 The invitation to join Wisdom for a lavish meal is met by a competing invitation in 9:13-18.

9:1 The number seven can denote grandeur or fullness, so the seven columns represent the grandeur of Wisdom's house, the place where it dwells.

9:2 In the ancient Near East, a great banquet would accompany a marriage, a military victory, or the making of a treaty. Wisdom's celebration marks the beginning of a committed relationship with the hearer.

9:3 Throughout the ancient Near East, temples were built on the heights overlooking the city. A commitment to wisdom involves a commitment to the Lord (contrast 9:14).

9:4 Wisdom makes her appeal especially to the simple and those who lack good judgment because they have not yet decided between wisdom and folly. See 9:16, where Folly mimics and then perverts Wisdom's words.

9:6 Wisdom gives people the ability to navigate life successfully.

9:7-9 These verses seem to create an awkward break between the invitations of Wisdom and Folly, but perhaps the purpose is to caution that, in contrast with inviting the simple (9:4), inviting mockers and the wicked is futile at best. Such people have already chosen

- ⁹ Instruct the wise,
and they will be even wiser.
Teach the righteous,
and they will learn even more.
- ¹⁰ Fear of the LORD is the foundation of wisdom.
Knowledge of the Holy One results in
good judgment.
- ¹¹ Wisdom will multiply your days and add years to your life.
- ¹² If you become wise, you will be the one to benefit.
If you scorn wisdom, you will be the one to suffer.
- Folly Calls for a Hearing*
- ¹³ The woman named Folly is brash.
She is ignorant and doesn't know it.
- ¹⁴ She sits in her doorway on the heights overlooking the city.
- ¹⁵ She calls out to men going by who are minding their own business.
- ¹⁶ "Come in with me," she urges the simple.
To those who lack good judgment, she
says,
- ¹⁷ "Stolen water is refreshing; food eaten in secret tastes the best!"
- ¹⁸ But little do they know that the dead are there.
Her guests are in the depths of the grave.

3. PROVERBS OF SOLOMON (10:1–22:16)

10 The ^bproverbs of Solomon:
A wise child brings joy to a father;
a foolish child brings grief to a mother.

² Tainted wealth has no lasting value,

- but right living can save your life.
- ³ The LORD will not let the godly go
hungry,
but he refuses to satisfy the craving of
the wicked.
- ⁴ Lazy people are soon poor;
hard workers get rich.
- ⁵ A wise youth harvests in the summer, but one who sleeps during harvest is a disgrace.
- ⁶ The godly are showered with blessings;
the words of the wicked conceal violent intentions.
- ⁷ We have happy memories of the godly,
but the name of a wicked person rots
away.
- ⁸ The wise are glad to be instructed, but babbling fools fall flat on their faces.
- ⁹ People with integrity walk safely, but those who follow crooked paths will be exposed.
- ¹⁰ People who wink at wrong cause trouble,
but a bold reproof promotes peace.
- ¹¹ The words of the godly are a life-giving fountain;
the words of the wicked conceal
violent intentions.
- ¹² Hatred stirs up quarrels,
but love makes up for all offenses.
- ¹³ Wise words come from the lips of people with understanding, but those lacking sense will be beaten with a rod.

9:10-12 Fear of the LORD: See note on 1:7.

9:13-18 The woman named Folly also invites the simple and those who lack good judgment to join her for the banquet she has prepared. Her invitation and advice are antithetical to Wisdom's (9:1-6).

9:13 The woman named Folly is brash: Fools talk boldly and without shame but have nothing intelligent to say.

9:14 On the heights overlooking the city was the traditional location for a temple. Folly personifies false gods and goddesses that compete for the affection and loyalty of God's people (contrast 9:2-3).

9:17 Like Wisdom, Folly has prepared a banquet for her guests (cp. 9:2-5). However, this meal is dishonest and perverse.

9:18 Folly's dinner guests end up in the depths of the grave (Hebrew in Sheol), in contrast to the reward for Wisdom's guests (see 9:6).

10:1–22:16 This long section is called The proverbs of Solomon. It consists mostly of brief bits of advice and observation. These sayings make heavy use of antithetical parallelism to contrast wisdom and righteousness with folly and wickedness. The arrangement of these proverbs appears to be essentially random, as in Egyptian and Mesopotamian wisdom literature. Some proverbs are repeated (see 6:10-11 and 24:33-34; 14:12 and 16:25; 18:8 and 26:22; 19:24 and 26:15; 20:16 and 27:13; 21:9 and 25:24; 22:3 and 27:12). Sometimes a group of proverbs shares a similar theme (e.g., 16:1-11).

10:1 child: Literally son. See note on 1:8-9:18. • The joy or grief of godly parents reflects the degree of their child's obedience to principles of wisdom.

10:2 tainted wealth . . . right living: The book of Proverbs promotes good behavior over having money (see also 11:18; 13:11, 22).

10:3 This proverb can be misused if outward results are regarded as a barometer of godliness. Job's three friends, for example, wrongly reasoned that Job must have sinned to earn his suffering (see Job 22:6-11; "Material Reward" at Job 4:7-9, p. 861).

10:4-5 Lazy people are foolish, while

16 The earnings of the godly enhance their

22 The blessing of the LORD makes a person rich,
and he adds no sorrow with it.

23 Doing wrong is fun for a fool, but living wisely brings pleasure to the sensible.

24 The fears of the wicked will be fulfilled;
the hopes of the godly will be granted.

25 When the storms of life come, the wicked are whirled away, but the godly have a lasting foundation.

26 Lazy people irritate their employers, like vinegar to the teeth or smoke in the eyes.

27 Fear of the LORD lengthens one's life, but the years of the wicked are cut short.

Matt 12:33-37
Jas 3:1-12

As children we heard, "Sticks and stones may break my bones, but words will never hurt me." Proverbs presents another viewpoint—that words have the power of life and death (18:21). The words contained in lies (14:5, 25), arguments (26:17), insults (20:20), slander (10:18), gossip (11:13), rumors (18:8), flattery (7:21-22), and bragging (26:23; 27:2) can all be death-dealing.

Proverbs repeatedly emphasizes that foolish people speak foolish words. They are represented by "the woman named Folly" (9:13-18), who lies and deceives to harm her hearers. Words reflect the condition of the heart (16:23; 18:4). While someone might attempt to conceal an evil heart by using pleasant words (26:23), a person's true character will surface in the end (26:24-26). The words of fools not only harm others; these words ultimately injure those who speak them. This is what James had in mind when he said that the tongue is full of wickedness that can ruin your whole life (Jas 3:6).

In contrast, wise people speak the life-giving words (10:11) represented by Wisdom (8:7-9). Wise people use their words sparingly (17:28) and are usually gentle (15:4; 16:24). However, a wise person also knows the right time to speak the right words (15:23; 25:11) and realizes that, at times, even harsh criticism is necessary (27:5). Proverbs wisely reminds its readers to pay close attention both to what they say and to how and when they say it.

hard workers are wise (see also 10:26; 26:13-16).

10:7 the name of a wicked person rots away: In ancient Israel, as is still true today in the Middle East, honor and shame were powerful motivators.

10:9 Paths are a metaphor for life (see 1:15).

10:10 To wink at wrong suggests approving of bad behavior rather than confronting it. • but a bold reproof promotes peace: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads but bobbling fools fall flat on their faces. The NLT translators assume that the original text is reflected in the Greek version. The second line in the Hebrew text may have been copied by mistake from 10:8.

10:11 As a fountain provides water that sustains life, the words of the godly give life to those who hear them. In contrast, the violent intentions concealed in the words of the wicked bring death (see also 10:6; Jas 3:1-12).

10:13 beaten with a rod: People lacking sense will bring harm upon themselves through what they say. Concerning physical discipline, see 23:13-14.

10:15 Although wealth can be a fortress against trouble, money can also create trouble (13:8) and can provide false security (18:10-11).

10:17 Wise people are not afraid to have their thinking or behavior corrected—they accept discipline as an opportunity to grow in wisdom.

10:19 Those who talk too much show their ignorance and get in trouble (see also 10:17; 13:3; 17:28).

10:20 Words are an expression of the heart.

10:25 The wicked might enjoy the material blessings of life, but only temporarily, in contrast with the godly. Jesus also expressed this reality (Matt 7:24-27).

- 28 The hopes of the godly result in ^ahappiness, but the expectations of the wicked
 come to nothing.
- 29 The way of the LORD is a stronghold to those with integrity,
 but it destroys the wicked.
- 30 The godly will never be disturbed, but the wicked will be removed from the land.
- 31 The mouth of the godly person gives wise advice,
 but the tongue that deceives will be cut off.
- 32 The lips of the godly speak helpful words, but the mouth of the wicked speaks perverse words.

- 11 1 The LORD detests the use of dishonest scales,
 but he delights in accurate weights.
- 2 ^aPride leads to disgrace,
 but with humility comes wisdom.
- 3 Honesty guides good people;
 dishonesty destroys treacherous people.
- 4 Riches won't help on the day of judgment, but right living can save you from death.
- 5 The godly are directed by honesty;
 the wicked fall beneath their load of sin.
- 6 The godliness of good people rescues
 them;
 the ambition of treacherous people traps them.
- 7 When the wicked die, their hopes die
 with them,
 for they rely on their own feeble
 strength.
- 8 The godly are rescued from trouble, and it falls on the wicked instead.

- 9 With their words, the godless destroy their friends, but knowledge will rescue the righteous.
- 10 The whole city celebrates when the godly succeed;
 they shout for joy when the wicked die.
- 11 Upright citizens are good for a city and make it prosper,
 but the talk of the wicked tears it
 apart.
- 12 It is foolish to belittle one's neighbor;
 a sensible person keeps quiet.
- 13 A gossip goes around telling secrets, but those who are trustworthy can keep a confidence.
- 14 Without wise leadership, a nation falls;
 there is safety in having many advisers.
- 15 There's danger in putting up security for a stranger's debt;
 it's safer not to guarantee another person's debt.
- 16 A gracious woman gains ^arespect,
 but ruthless men gain only wealth.
- 17 Your kindness will reward you,
 but your cruelty will destroy you.
- 18 Evil people get rich for the moment, but the reward of the godly will last.
- 19 Godly people find life;
 evil people find death.
- 20 The LORD detests people with crooked
 hearts,
 but he delights in those with ^bintegrity.
- 21 Evil people will surely be punished, but the children of the godly will go
 free.
- 22 A beautiful woman who lacks discretion is like a gold ring in a pig's snout.

10:30 This proverb connects with God's covenant promises to Israel (see Deut 28:1-14, 63-68). Such connections are rare in the book of Proverbs (see Proverbs Introduction, "Setting," p. 1026).

11:1 Here, honest practices are applied to the business world (see also 16:11; 20:10, 23; Lev 19:35-37; Deut 25:13-15; Ezek 45:10; Hos 12:7-8; Mic 6:11). • Scales were often made of two metal bowls suspended from a crossbar. The unit of currency, the shekel, comes from the verb meaning "to weigh" (see Amos 8:5-6).

11:2 Pride is dishonest self-promotion, whereas humility is an honest assessment of one's strengths and weaknesses.

11:4 Right living, which flows from wisdom, is more important than riches. Nothing is wrong with riches (10:15, 22; 14:24) that are gained properly (cp. 13:11; 21:6; 22:16).

11:10 Our actions, whether godly or wicked, affect the whole city (cp. Eccl 8:9-13).

11:13 This perspective on a gossip is repeated in 20:19.

11:14 The future of an entire nation depends on wisdom.

11:15 This message is repeated in 6:1-5; 17:18; 20:16; 22:26; 27:13.

11:16 Respect is the great and lasting reward of being gracious, while wealth is the lesser and temporary prize of being ruthless (see also 10:2; 11:18).

11:21 Godly behavior has positive consequences for the next generation.

11:22 Discretion is the ability to tell right from wrong, the beautiful from the ugly, and good taste from bad taste.

23 The godly can look forward to a reward, while the wicked can expect only
judgment.

24 Give freely and become more wealthy;
be stingy and lose everything.

25 The generous will prosper; those who refresh others will themselves be refreshed.

26 People curse those who hoard their grain,
but they bless the one who sells in time of need.

27 If you search for good, you will find favor;
but if you search for evil, it will find
you!

28 Trust in your money and down you go!
But the godly flourish like leaves in spring.

29 Those who bring trouble on their families inherit the wind.
The fool will be a servant to the wise.

30 The seeds of good deeds become a tree of life;
a wise person wins friends.

31 If the righteous are rewarded here on
earth,
what will happen to wicked sinners?

12 ¹ To learn, you must love discipline;
it is stupid to hate correction.

² The LORD approves of those who are good,
but he condemns those who plan
wickedness.

³ Wickedness never brings stability,
but the godly have deep roots.

⁴ A worthy wife is a crown for her husband,

but a disgraceful woman is like cancer in his bones.

⁵ The plans of the godly are just;
the advice of the wicked is treacherous.

⁶ The words of the wicked are like a murderous ambush,
but the words of the godly save lives.

⁷ The wicked die and disappear, but the family of the godly stands firm.

⁸ A sensible person wins admiration, but a warped mind is despised.

⁹ Better to be an ordinary person with a ¹servant than to be self-important but have no
food.

¹⁰ The godly care for their animals,
but the wicked are always cruel.

¹¹ A hard worker has plenty of food, but a person who chases fantasies has no sense.

¹² Thieves are jealous of each other's loot, but the godly are well rooted and bear their own fruit.

¹³ The wicked are trapped by their own words,
but the godly escape such trouble.

¹⁴ Wise words bring many benefits, and hard work brings rewards.

¹⁵ Fools think their own way is right, but the wise listen to others.

¹⁶ A fool is quick-tempered, but a wise person stays calm when insulted.

¹⁷ An honest witness tells the truth;
a false witness tells lies.

11:23 The wicked might prosper and the godly might suffer in the short term, but the future will right this imbalance.

11:24-26 Generous people who give freely to others will prosper, but those who hoard their money will lose it (see 28:27; 2 Cor 9:6-9).

11:28 Money can be a blessing from God, but it is uncertain. The godly trust in God and flourish (see Ps 1).

11:30 a wise person wins friends: Or and those who win souls are wise.

11:31 The implied answer is that wicked sinners will be punished on earth. • Greek version reads If the right- eous are barely saved, / what will happen to godless sinners? Cp. 1 Pet 4:18.

12:4 Elsewhere in Proverbs a crown symbolizes wealth (14:24), long life (16:31), and grandchildren (17:6).
• cancer (literally rot): A disgraceful wife is a deep and life-threatening problem.

12:7 The wicked might prosper momentarily, but they do not last. The family of the godly stands firm for generations.

12:8 To be sensible means to act only after reflecting on the consequences. A warped mind acts on impulse.

12:9 Reality is more important than appearance.

12:11 This proverb is repeated but with a different conclusion in 28:19.

12:12 The instability of thieves can produce violent behavior at any moment. By contrast, the godly are well rooted: Their relationships are stable even under duress.

12:15 Fools fail to realize what the wise know—that listening is the way to learn.

12:16 Keeping a level head allows a wise person to think clearly and avoid reactions that could cause a fight.

12:17 The message of this proverb is repeated in 14:5.

- ¹⁸ Some people make cutting remarks, but the words of the wise bring healing.
- ¹⁹ Truthful words stand the test of time, but lies are soon exposed.
- ²⁰ Deceit fills hearts that are plotting evil;
joy fills hearts that are planning ^apeace!
- ²¹ No harm comes to the godly, but the wicked have their fill of
trouble.
- ²² The LORD detests lying lips, but he delights in those who tell the truth.
- ²³ The wise don't make a show of their knowledge,
but fools broadcast their ^bfoolishness.
- ²⁴ Work hard and become a leader;
be lazy and become a slave.
- ²⁵ Worry weighs a person down;
an encouraging word cheers a person up.
- ²⁶ The godly give good advice to their friends;
the wicked lead them astray.
- ²⁷ Lazy people don't even cook the game they catch,
but the diligent make use of everything they find.
- ²⁸ The way of the godly leads to life;
that path does not lead to death.

13 ¹ A wise child accepts a parent's discipline;
a mocker refuses to listen to correction.

- ² Wise words will win you a good meal, but treacherous people have an appetite for violence.
- ³ Those who control their tongue will have a long life;
opening your mouth can ruin
everything.

- ⁴ Lazy ^cpeople want much but get little,
but ^cthose who work hard will prosper.
- ⁵ The godly hate lies;
the wicked cause shame and disgrace.
- ⁶ Godliness guards the path of the blameless,
but the evil are misled by sin.
- ⁷ Some who are poor pretend to be rich;
others who are rich pretend to be poor.
- ⁸ The rich can pay a ransom for their lives, but the poor won't even get threatened.
- ⁹ The life of the godly is full of light and joy,
but the light of the wicked will be snuffed out.
- ¹⁰ ^dPride leads to conflict;
those who take advice are ^ewise.
- ¹¹ Wealth from get-rich-quick schemes quickly disappears;
wealth from hard work grows over time.
- ¹² Hope deferred makes the heart sick,
but a dream fulfilled is a tree of life.
- ¹³ People who despise advice are asking for
trouble;
those who respect a command will succeed.
- ¹⁴ The instruction of the wise is like a life-giving fountain;
those who accept it avoid the snares
of death.
- ¹⁵ A person with good sense is respected;
a treacherous person is headed for
destruction.
- ¹⁶ Wise people think before they act;
fools don't—and even brag about their foolishness.
- ¹⁷ An unreliable messenger stumbles into
trouble,
but a reliable messenger brings healing.

Prov 22:3

18 If you ignore criticism, you will end in poverty and disgrace; if you accept correction, you will be honored.

19 It is pleasant to see dreams come true, but fools refuse to turn from evil to attain them.

20 Walk with the wise and become wise; associate with fools and get in trouble.

21 Trouble chases sinners, while blessings reward the righteous.

22 Good people leave an inheritance to their grandchildren, but the sinner's wealth passes to the godly.

23 A poor person's farm may produce much food, but injustice sweeps it all away.

24 Those who spare the rod of discipline hate their children. Those who love their children care enough to discipline them.

25 The godly eat to their hearts' content, but the belly of the wicked goes hungry.

14 ¹ A wise woman builds her home, but a foolish woman tears it down with her own hands.

² Those who follow the right path fear the LORD; those who take the wrong path despise him.

³ A fool's proud talk becomes a rod that beats him, but the words of the wise keep them safe.

⁴ Without oxen a stable stays clean, but you need a strong ox for a large harvest.

⁵ An honest witness does not lie; a false witness breathes lies.

⁶ A mocker seeks 'wisdom and never finds it, but knowledge comes easily to those with understanding.

⁷ Stay away from fools, for you won't find knowledge on their lips.

⁸ The prudent understand where they are going, but fools deceive themselves.

⁹ Fools make fun of guilt, but the godly acknowledge it and seek reconciliation.

¹⁰ Each heart knows its own bitterness, and no one else can fully share its joy.

¹¹ The house of the wicked will be destroyed, but the tent of the godly will flourish.

¹² There is a path before each person that seems right, but it ends in death.

¹³ Laughter can conceal a heavy heart, but when the laughter ends, the grief remains.

¹⁴ Backsliders get what they deserve; good people receive their reward.

¹⁵ Only simpletons believe everything they're told! The prudent carefully consider their steps.

¹⁶ The wise are cautious and avoid danger; fools plunge ahead with reckless confidence.

13:20 We are influenced by those we associate with.

13:23 Hard work does not always bring prosperity (cp. 10:4-6; 12:11; 13:4) because injustice occurs in the world.

13:24 Physical punishment is sometimes necessary to motivate instruction. Love will lead to discipline in whatever form is most effective, whereas refusal to discipline one's child is a sign of laziness (see also 19:18; 23:13-14; 29:17).

14:1 Building or tearing down the home is a metaphor for strengthening or weakening one's family.

14:2 The path is a metaphor for life and conduct (see 2:13, 20; 3:6; 4:11; 6:23). • fear the LORD: See 1:7.

14:3 A fool's word can be used against him.

14:4 It's easy to keep a stable . . . clean if it is empty, but a farmer without an ox has no harvest.

14:5 Honest speech and lies both flow from deep within a person's character. Cp. 12:17.

14:9 The godly acknowledge their mistakes and sins, leading to change and reconciliation. Fools defend themselves by making fun of guilt.

14:10 No one can fully understand the emotions of another (cp. Ps 103:14; Isa 63:9; Nah 1:7; Rom 8:27). Bitterness and joy are at opposite ends of the emotional spectrum; this poetic device of referring to polar opposites (merism) covers the whole range in between.

14:11 Although a house is typically more stable than a tent, wickedness destroys and tears down, while godliness builds up (14:1).

14:12 // 16:25 The right choice is not always the one that seems right on the surface (see Matt 7:13-14).

14:13 A person's outward demeanor might not reflect what is in the heart.

14:14 Backsliders foolishly act against what they know to be good and right and wise.

14:16 The wise are cautious: Literally The wise fear.

- ¹⁷ Short-tempered people do ^hfoolish things, and schemers are hated.
- ¹⁸ Simpletons are clothed with foolishness, but the prudent are crowned with knowledge.
- ¹⁹ Evil people will bow before good people; the wicked will bow at the gates of the godly.
- ²⁰ The poor are despised even by their neighbors, while the rich have many “friends.”
- ²¹ It is a sin to belittle one’s neighbor; ^lblessed are those who help the poor.
- ²² If you plan to do evil, you will be lost; if you plan to do good, you will receive unfailing love and faithfulness.
- ²³ Work brings profit, but mere talk leads to poverty!
- ²⁴ Wealth is a crown for the wise; the ^leffort of fools yields only ^lfoolishness.
- ²⁵ A truthful witness saves lives, but a false witness is a traitor.
- ²⁶ Those who fear the LORD are secure; he will be a refuge for their children.
- ²⁷ Fear of the LORD is a life-giving fountain; it offers escape from the snares of death.
- ²⁸ A growing population is a king’s glory; a prince without subjects has nothing.
- ²⁹ People with understanding ^kcontrol their anger; a hot temper shows great foolishness.

- ³⁰ A peaceful heart leads to a healthy body; ^ajealousy is like cancer in the bones.
- ³¹ Those who oppress the poor insult their Maker, but helping the poor honors him.
- ³² The wicked are crushed by disaster, but the godly have a refuge when they die.
- ³³ Wisdom is enshrined in an understanding heart; wisdom is not found among fools.
- ³⁴ Godliness makes a nation ^bgreat, but sin is a disgrace to any people.
- ³⁵ A king rejoices in wise servants but is angry with those who disgrace him.

15 ¹ A gentle answer deflects anger, but harsh words make tempers flare.

- ² The tongue of the wise makes knowledge appealing, but the mouth of a fool belches out foolishness.
- ³ The LORD is watching everywhere, keeping his eye on both the evil and the good.
- ⁴ Gentle words are a tree of life; a deceitful tongue crushes the spirit.
- ⁵ Only a fool despises a parent’s discipline; whoever learns from correction is wise.
- ⁶ There is treasure in the house of the godly, but the earnings of the wicked bring trouble.

14:18 are clothed with foolishness: Or inherit foolishness. One’s true nature and heart attitude will eventually show in one’s demeanor.

14:20 This proverb might commend having neither too little nor too much (30:7-9).

14:21 blessed are those who help the poor: See also 3:27-28; 11:24; 28:27; 29:7, 14.

14:24 This proverb states a general principle, even though fools sometimes have wealth (10:2; 11:18), and poverty is not always the result of foolishness (cp. 13:23; 16:8).

14:28 The well-being and growth of the people, not wealth or military victory, are the true signs of a king’s success.

14:29 Wise people can control their emotions and express them appropriately.

14:30 A peaceful heart has resolved its inner tensions. Freedom from intense, stressful emotions is beneficial to physical health.

14:31 Wise people help the poor (cp. 11:24-26; 28:27; see Lev 19:9-10; Deut 15:11; 24:10-15; Isa 3:14-15; Jer 2:34; see also Jas 2:1-13). • insult their Maker: See also 17:5.

7 The lips of the wise give good advice;
the heart of a fool has none to give.

8 The LORD detests the sacrifice of the wicked,
but he delights in the prayers of the upright.

9 The LORD detests the way of the wicked, but he loves those who pursue godliness.

10 Whoever abandons the right path will be severely disciplined;
whoever hates correction will die.

11 Even Death and Destruction hold no secrets from the LORD.
How much more does he know the human heart!

12 Mockers hate to be corrected,
so they stay away from the wise.

13 A glad heart makes a happy face;
a broken heart crushes the spirit.

14 A wise person is hungry for knowledge,
while the fool feeds on trash.

15 For the despondent, every day brings
trouble;
for the happy heart, life is a continual feast.

16 Better to have little, with fear for the LORD,
than to have great treasure and inner turmoil.

17 A bowl of vegetables with someone you
love
is better than steak with someone you hate.

18 A hot-tempered person starts fights;
a cool-tempered person stops them.

19 A lazy person's way is blocked with briers,
but the path of the upright is an open highway.

20 Sensible children bring joy to their father;
foolish children despise their mother.

21 Foolishness brings joy to those with no sense;
a sensible person stays on the right

22 Plans go wrong for lack of advice;

Wise people do not fly off the handle in anger. "People with understanding control their anger; a hot temper shows great foolishness" (14:29). Because anger can cloud judgment, it is vitally important for the wise to reflect on their actions before responding (14:16).

Although Proverbs comments on anger only in a negative light, Scripture overall does not portray all anger as bad. Many Psalms express anger (e.g., Ps 77), and Jesus demonstrated anger as he threw the money changers out of the Temple (Mark 11:15-17; John 2:13-16). Though it is often hard to tell the two apart, people must learn to distinguish righteous anger from unrighteous anger. Unrighteous anger is only concerned to protect or promote oneself (e.g., Gen 4:3-8; 1 Sam 18:8-9; 1 Kgs 21:3-4; 2 Kgs 5:11; 2 Chr 25:10; Jon 4:1-11), whereas righteous anger reflects God's hatred of evil and love of justice (e.g., Exod 32:1-35; Num 11:1, 10; see also Nah 1:3; Rom 9:22). The wise person reads the circumstances and discerns whether and to what degree to express anger (see also 22:24; Eccl 7:9; Matt 5:22; Rom 12:19; Eph 4:26-27, 31; Jas 1:19-20).

15:8 God looks beyond the outward actions of sacrifice and prayers to see if they reflect the heart's attitude (see also 21:27; Ps 40:6-8; Mic 6:6-8).

15:11 Death and Destruction (Hebrew Sheol and Abaddon), personify the destiny of the dead. Sheol is the abode of the dead; Abaddon is a synonym for Sheol that has an added implication of punishment. • God knows all secrets (see Ps 139:1-12).

15:12 Mockers cannot become wise because they keep criticism at a distance

(cp. 10:17; 13:1, 10).

15:13 What people feel affects how they present themselves (cp. 15:30).

15:14 Whether we enjoy knowledge or trash reveals whether we are on the path of wisdom or of folly.

15:15 Personality affects our outlook on life.

15:16 A healthy fear for the LORD counteracts inner turmoil and brings inner peace. • Better to have little: See also 16:8.

15:17 This better than proverb shows the relative value of wealth. A substantial meal (steak) is good, but love is better.

15:18 Controlling one's emotions is a sign of wisdom (see also Jas 1:19-20).

15:19 A lazy person can find all kinds of obstacles (e.g., a path blocked with briers) to avoid work (see 10:4, 26; 12:11, 14; 13:4; 14:4).

15:22 An individual might not think of all the angles of a problem; a wise person invites advice from many advisers.

- ²⁴ The path of life leads upward for the wise;
they leave the grave behind.
- ²⁵ The LORD tears down the house of the proud,
but he protects the property of widows.
- ²⁶ The LORD detests evil plans,
but he delights in pure words.
- ²⁷ Greed brings grief to the whole family, but those who hate bribes will live.
- ²⁸ The heart of the godly thinks carefully before speaking;
the mouth of the wicked overflows with evil words.
- ²⁹ The LORD is far from the wicked,
but he hears the prayers of the righteous.
- ³⁰ A cheerful look brings joy to the heart;
good news makes for good health.
- ³¹ If you listen to constructive criticism,
you will be at home among the wise.
- ³² If you reject discipline, you only harm
yourself;
but if you listen to correction, you grow in understanding.
- ³³ Fear of the LORD teaches wisdom;
humility precedes honor.

16 ¹ We can make our own plans, but the LORD gives the right
answer.

² People may be pure in their own eyes,
but the LORD examines their motives.

- ³ Commit your actions to the LORD, and your plans will succeed.
- ⁴ The LORD has made everything for his own purposes,
even the wicked for a day of disaster.
- ⁵ The LORD detests the proud;
they will surely be punished.
- ⁶ Unfailing love and ^afaithfulness make ^batonement for sin.
By fearing the LORD, people avoid evil.
- ⁷ When people's lives please the LORD, even their enemies are at peace with
them.
- ⁸ Better to have little, with godliness, than to be rich and dishonest.
- ⁹ We can make our plans,
but the LORD determines our steps.
- ¹⁰ The king speaks with divine wisdom;
he must never judge unfairly.
- ¹¹ The LORD demands accurate scales and balances;
he sets the standards for fairness.
- ¹² A ^cking detests wrongdoing, for his ^drule is built on justice.
- ¹³ The king is pleased with words from righteous lips;
he loves those who speak honestly.
- ¹⁴ The anger of the king is a deadly threat;
the wise will try to appease it.
- ¹⁵ When the king smiles, there is life;
his favor refreshes like a spring rain.
- ¹⁶ How much better to get ^ewisdom than gold,
and good judgment than silver!

15:24 A wise person avoids death by choosing the path of life. • the grave: Hebrew Sheol. See note on 1:12.

15:25 The proud think that they are self-sufficient. Widows in the ancient Near East were just the opposite—completely vulnerable and without means of support or protection.

15:29 The heart behind prayers determines whether God hears them.

15:30 Just as how we feel affects our demeanor (see 15:13), what we experience (such as another person's cheerful look or good news) can affect how we feel.

15:33 Fear of the LORD fosters humility because proper regard for God counteracts our delusions of self-sufficiency.

16:1 Our own plans will come to fruition only if God allows (see also 16:9, 33; Jas 4:13-16).

16:2 God's moral evaluation is what counts (see Gen 8:21; 1 Sam 13:14; 16:6-7; Luke 16:15). This proverb is repeated almost verbatim in 21:2.

16:3 God must affirm our plans (16:1), so it makes sense to ask his help in accomplishing our goals (see Jas 4:13-16).

16:4 The wicked will have trouble in this life and in death. Nothing is outside of God's control (see also Rom 9:10-24; 2 Pet 2:9).

16:5 God detests the proud, who refuse to commit their ways to the Lord (16:3) and mistakenly believe that they can accomplish their plans on their own (16:1).

16:6 God's unfailing love and faithfulness are foundational in his covenant relationship with Israel (see Exod 15:13; 34:6-7; Num 14:18-19; Deut 7:9-11).

16:8 Better to have little: See also 15:16.

16:10-15 This series of sayings reflects on the king, who represents God's power on earth.

16:10 Divine wisdom refers to divinely inspired guidance that helps the king make judgments (e.g., 1 Kgs 3:28; see also Ps 72:2).

16:11 The message of this proverb is stated four times in the collection (cp. 11:1; 20:10, 23).

16:12-13 These proverbs presuppose a wise, godly king (see Isa 9:6-7). Many of Israel's kings loved wrongdoing and hated truth (e.g., Ahab in 1 Kgs 21).

16:14-15 The king is powerful, so people are wise to avoid his anger and gain his favor.

16:16 Wisdom and good judgment may lead to wealth, but wealth cannot buy wisdom.

20 Those who listen to instruction will prosper; those who trust the LORD will be joyful.

Eccl 5:10-17

1 Tim 6:10

The book of Proverbs devotes many sayings to wealth and poverty. In isolation, they might seem in tension or even contradictory, but they are really individual snapshots of a broad truth—that God blesses the wise with wealth (3:9-10, 15-16; 10:22), making life's difficulties more manageable (10:15), while foolish behavior leads to poverty. Laziness is frequently singled out as leading to poverty (26:13-15). The book of Proverbs readily acknowledges that some wicked fools are wealthy, but it also reminds us that this kind of wealth will not last long (11:18; 13:11). Poverty can sometimes result from injustice (13:23) rather than foolishness, and wealth sometimes comes from injustice and dishonesty (16:8). Those who have wealth need to use it wisely, which includes generosity to those in need (28:27; 29:7, 14).

The benefits of wealth are limited. Occasionally, wealth produces problems rather than solving them (11:4; 13:8). Because wisdom can help where wealth cannot, wisdom is much more important than money (15:16-17; 16:8, 16).

All things being equal, the godly will be rewarded with material blessings and the opportunity to be generous. However, things are not always equal. Sometimes wealth does not go to the deserving (see Eccl 9:11), nor does it necessarily produce satisfaction (see Eccl 2:17-23; 5:10-17). In fact, money can be detrimental to faith (1 Tim 6:10; Jas 2:1-13). When a choice must be made between godliness and money, the wise will choose godliness.

16:18 The pride of those who resist God and stubbornly rely on their own strength (16:5) is self-destructive and foolish because, apart from God's help, no one has the resources required for life.

16:25 // 14:12 The life choices that seem right and obvious from a human perspective will lead us to death if we are not following God's priorities (see Matt 7:13-14).

16:27-29 Scoundrels, a troublemaker, and violent people all disrupt relationships, creating trouble with their harmful actions.

16:31 Godly people grow in wisdom as they grow older, so their gray hair is a crown (cp. 4:9; 12:4; 17:6).

16:32 Patience and self-control are far more valuable than brute force.

16:33 We may throw the dice (Literally We may cast lots): These dice were not for gambling but a means commissioned by God to determine his will (Exod 28:30; see also Josh 14:2; 1 Sam 10:17-27; 14:40-43).

- ² A wise ^bservant will rule over the master's disgraceful son and will share the inheritance of the master's children.
- ³ Fire tests the purity of silver and gold, but the LORD tests the heart.
- ⁴ Wrongdoers eagerly listen to gossip; liars pay close attention to slander.
- ⁵ Those who mock the poor insult their Maker; those who rejoice at the misfortune of others will be punished.
- ⁶ Grandchildren are the crowning glory of the aged; parents are the pride of their children.
- ⁷ Eloquent words are not fitting for a fool; even less are lies fitting for a ruler.
- ⁸ A bribe is like a lucky charm; whoever gives one will prosper!
- ⁹ Love prospers when a fault is forgiven, but dwelling on it separates close friends.
- ¹⁰ A single rebuke does more for a person of understanding than a hundred lashes on the back of a fool.
- ¹¹ Evil people are eager for rebellion, but they will be severely punished.
- ¹² It is safer to meet a bear robbed of her cubs than to confront a fool caught in ^cfoolishness.
- ¹³ If you repay good with evil, evil will never leave your house.
- ¹⁴ Starting a quarrel is like opening a floodgate, so stop before a dispute breaks out.
- ¹⁵ Acquitting the guilty and condemning the innocent— both are detestable to the LORD.
- ¹⁶ It is senseless to pay to educate a fool, since he has no heart for learning.
- ¹⁷ A friend is always loyal, and a brother is born to help in time of need.
- ¹⁸ It's poor judgment to guarantee another person's debt or put up security for a friend.
- ¹⁹ Anyone who loves to quarrel loves ^dsin; anyone who trusts in high walls invites disaster.
- ²⁰ The crooked heart will not prosper; the lying tongue tumbles into trouble.
- ²¹ It is painful to be the parent of a fool; there is no joy for the father of a rebel.
- ²² A cheerful heart is good medicine, but a broken spirit saps a person's strength.
- ²³ The wicked take secret bribes to pervert the course of justice.
- ²⁴ Sensible people keep their eyes glued on ^ewisdom, but a fool's eyes wander to the ends of the earth.
- ²⁵ Foolish children bring grief to their father and bitterness to the one who gave them birth.
- ²⁶ It is wrong to punish the godly for being good or to flog leaders for being honest.
- ²⁷ A truly wise person uses few words; a person with understanding is even-tempered.

• Prov 29:3

17:2 Wisdom is so much more important than privilege that if children act like fools, a wise servant will rise to prominence over the household.

17:3 The Lord's refining fire (see Ps 66:10; Jer 9:7; Mal 3:2-3) separates what is precious from the impurities in a person's heart (cp. 16:2; 21:2; 27:21).

17:4 Lies (6:16-19; 14:5, 25; 25:18), gossip (11:13; 18:8), and slander (10:18) distort reality for malicious purposes.

17:5 To make fun of what God created is to mock God.

17:6 Only those who have been blessed with a long life live to become grandparents, and the continuation of the family line is a sign of God's blessing (see Gen 12:1-3). • parents: Literally fathers. This proverb applies to both fathers and mothers.

17:9 Maintaining a good relationship with another person means forgiving rather than dwelling on faults.

17:10 The wise will listen to a mild rebuke and act on good advice. Even harsh correction (a hundred lashes) will not change a fool.

17:11 Rebellion flows from the inner character of evil people who defy the punishment that will follow.

17:12 This saying cautions those who try to teach fools. A fool caught in foolishness will react with anger and violence.

17:14 opening a floodgate: Once a quarrel starts, it is very difficult to stop it; a dispute should be avoided if at all possible (see 10:12; 15:18; 16:28; 20:3; 22:10; 26:21).

17:18 The essence of this message is repeated in 6:1-5; 11:15; 20:16; 22:26; 27:13.

17:19 high walls: Foolish confidence in the ability to win a fight emboldens people to engage in disastrous arguments.

17:24 Wisdom is not a natural quality but must be pursued. Sensible people persistently cultivate wisdom, but a fool's eyes cannot stay focused.

17:25 Foolish children: Literally A foolish son. This proverb is equally true of foolish sons and foolish daughters. See note on 1:22.

28 Even fools are thought wise when they keep silent; with their mouths shut, they seem intelligent.

18 ¹ Unfriendly people care only about themselves; they lash out at common sense.

² Fools have no interest in understanding; they only want to air their own opinions.

³ Doing wrong leads to disgrace, and scandalous behavior brings contempt.

⁴ Wise words are like deep waters; wisdom flows from the wise like a bubbling brook.

⁵ It is not right to acquit the guilty or deny justice to the innocent.

⁶ Fools' words get them into constant quarrels; they are asking for a beating.

⁷ The mouths of fools are their ruin; they trap themselves with their lips.

⁸ Rumors are dainty morsels that sink deep into one's heart.

⁹ A lazy person is as bad as someone who destroys things.

¹⁰ The name of the LORD is a strong fortress; the godly run to him and are safe.

¹¹ The rich think of their wealth as a strong defense; they imagine it to be a high wall of safety.

¹² Haughtiness goes before destruction; humility precedes honor.

¹³ Spouting off before listening to the facts is both shameful and foolish.

¹⁴ The human spirit can endure a sick body, but who can bear a crushed spirit?

¹⁵ Intelligent people are always ready to learn. Their ears are open for knowledge.

¹⁶ Giving a gift can open doors; it gives access to important people!

¹⁷ The first to speak in court sounds right—until the cross-examination begins.

¹⁸ Flipping a coin can end arguments; it settles disputes between powerful opponents.

¹⁹ An offended friend is harder to win back than a fortified city. Arguments separate friends like a gate locked with bars.

²⁰ Wise words satisfy like a good meal; the right words bring satisfaction.

²¹ The tongue can bring death or life; those who love to talk will reap the consequences.

Bribes (17:8, 23)

Prov 15:27; 18:16;
21:14; 28:21; 29:4
Exod 23:8
Deut 10:17; 16:19
1 Sam 8:1-3
Ps 15:5; 26:9-11
Eccl 7:7
Isa 1:23; 5:23;
33:14-16
Amos 5:12
Mic 3:9-12; 7:3
Matt 28:11-15
Acts 24:24-26

Like other teachings in the book of Proverbs, the teaching on bribery seems contradictory. Bribes are condemned as perverting justice (15:27; 17:23). Yet bribes can be used for good purposes and may even be encouraged (17:8; 18:16; 21:14).

These proverbs can all ring true when applied to the right circumstances, which seem to be connected to the reason for which a bribe or gift is given. If someone gives a bribe so that a judge will condemn an innocent person or set a guilty person free, then it is an evil bribe (see Exod 23:8; Deut 10:17; 16:19; 27:25; Ps 15:5). However, if a bribe helps an innocent person to find justice or serves some good purpose, then it seems to be allowable. An example of the latter from modern times might be a "gift" to a foreign immigration official that expedites the processing of a visa for a missionary.

18:4 Words flow from one's character as water bubbles up from the earth (see also 10:20; 12:23; 16:23; cp. Jas 3:10-12).

18:8 // 26:22 Rumors may be delicious to hear and repeat, but they are deadly.

18:10-11 In a troubled world, only the LORD can save. The rich might believe their wealth is a strong defense, but the power of money is limited (11:4; 13:8).

18:12 Haughtiness cultivates pride. It leads to failure because it does not allow for change in the face of criticism. Humility learns from others and leads to the honor of success.

18:14 A spiritual or emotional problem (a crushed spirit) can be more trying than a physical one (sick body).

18:16 See "Bribes" at 17:8, above.

18:17 It is important to hear both sides of a dispute. Only fools jump to conclusions and rush to judgment; the wise take time to discern.

18:18 Flipping a coin (literally Casting lots): Casting lots was a valid way of seeking God's will (Num 27:21; Josh 18:6-10). The Lord determined how the lots would fall (see note on 16:33).

18:21 Life and death: The wise speak thoughtfully (10:19; 11:12; 12:23) because they know that what we say has consequences (13:3; 14:3).

²² The man who finds a wife finds a treasure, and he receives favor from the LORD.

²³ The poor plead for mercy;
the rich answer with insults.

²⁴ There are "friends" who destroy each other,
but a real friend sticks closer than a brother.

19 ¹ Better to be poor and honest than to be dishonest and a fool.

² Enthusiasm without knowledge is no good;
haste makes mistakes.

³ People ruin their lives by their own foolishness and then are angry at the LORD.

⁴ Wealth makes many "friends"; poverty drives them all away.

⁵ A false witness will not go unpunished, nor will a liar escape.

⁶ Many seek favors from a ruler; everyone is the friend of a person who gives gifts!

⁷ The relatives of the poor despise them;
how much more will their friends avoid them!
Though the poor plead with them,
their friends are gone.

⁸ To acquire wisdom is to love yourself; people who cherish understanding will prosper.

⁹ A false witness will not go unpunished, and a liar will be destroyed.

¹⁰ It isn't right for a fool to live in luxury or for a slave to rule over princes!

¹¹ Sensible people control their temper;

they earn respect by overlooking wrongs.

¹² The ^fking's anger is like a lion's roar, but his favor is like dew on the grass.

¹³ A foolish child is a calamity to a father;
a quarrelsome wife is as annoying as constant dripping.

¹⁴ Fathers can give their sons an inheritance of houses and wealth, but only the LORD can give an understanding wife.

¹⁵ Lazy people sleep soundly,
but idleness leaves them hungry.

¹⁶ Keep the commandments and keep your life;
despising them leads to death.

¹⁷ If you help the poor, you are lending to
the LORD—
and he will repay you!

¹⁸ Discipline your children while there is hope.
Otherwise you will ruin their lives.

¹⁹ Hot-tempered people must pay the penalty.
If you rescue them once, you will have to do it again.

²⁰ Get all the advice and instruction you can,
so you will be wise the rest of your life.

²¹ You can make many plans,
but the LORD's purpose will prevail.

²² Loyalty makes a person attractive.
It is better to be poor than dishonest.

²³ Fear of the LORD leads to life, bringing security and protection from harm.

²⁴ Lazy people take food in their hand but don't even lift it to their mouth.

//Prov 26:15

18:23 God will punish the powerful who disparage the poor; wise people care for the needy (11:24; 28:27; 29:7, 14).

18:24 Some people who present themselves as "friends" are not. The wise see beyond pretense, discerning a real friend from false friends by how they act in adverse circumstances.

19:1 It is better to be . . . honest, though poor, because wealth gained by dishonest means is short lived (10:2) and will not preserve one from harm (11:4; see also 15:16-17; 16:8, 16; 17:1; 22:1; 28:6).

19:2 Rushing into things without understanding is dangerous.

19:3 Rather than acknowledge wrong choices and actions, fools blame the LORD.

19:5 God will make sure that liars are punished (see 12:17, 19; 14:5, 25; 19:9).

19:8 It is in our self-interest to acquire wisdom because understanding helps us prosper.

19:9 The reference to a false witness (see also 19:5) reminds us of the ninth commandment (Exod 20:16).

19:12 A lion's roar is a frightening prelude to life-threatening violence (cp. 20:2). Dew on the grass is soothing and contributes to growth (see 16:14-15).

19:13-14 child: Literally son; also in 19:27. • No choice for a son is more important than a good wife (cp. 31:10-31); a poor choice brings agony (see 10:1; 11:22; 12:4b; 21:9, 19; 25:24; 27:15-17). The wise man will look to the LORD to give an understanding wife.

19:16 Keeping God's commandments (i.e., the law of Moses) protects one's life (see Deut 28:15-68).

19:18 Growing in wisdom requires discipline for everyone, including children (see 10:17; 13:1, 10; 15:31-32; 17:10). Discipline sometimes includes physical punishment (13:24; 22:15; 23:13-14).

19:24 // 26:15 This proverb is a humorous comment on the foolishness of being lazy (see also 10:4-6, 26; 12:11, 27; 13:4; 15:19; 18:9).

25 If you punish a mocker, the simpleminded will learn a lesson;
if you correct the wise, they will be all the wiser.

26 Children who mistreat their father or chase away their mother are an embarrassment and a public disgrace.

27 If you stop listening to instruction, my child,
you will turn your back on knowledge.

28 A corrupt witness makes a mockery of justice;
the mouth of the wicked gulps down
evil.

29 Punishment is made for mockers, and the backs of fools are made to be beaten.

20 ¹ Wine produces mockers; alcohol leads to brawls.
Those led astray by drink cannot be wise.

² The king's fury is like a lion's roar;
to rouse his anger is to risk your life.

³ Avoiding a fight is a mark of honor;
only fools insist on quarreling.

⁴ Those too lazy to plow in the right season will have no food at the harvest.

⁵ Though good advice lies deep within the
heart,
a person with understanding will draw it out.

⁶ Many will say they are loyal friends, but who can find one who is truly reliable?

⁷ The godly walk with integrity; blessed are their children who follow
them.

⁸ When a king sits in judgment, he weighs all the evidence, distinguishing the bad from the good.

⁹ Who can say, "I have cleansed my heart;
I am pure and free from sin"?

¹⁰ False weights and unequal measures—the LORD detests double standards of every kind.

¹¹ Even children are known by the way they act, whether their conduct is pure, and whether it is right.

¹² Ears to hear and eyes to see—both are gifts from the LORD.

¹³ If you love sleep, you will end in poverty.
Keep your eyes open, and there will be plenty to eat!

¹⁴ The buyer haggles over the price, saying,
"It's worthless,"
then brags about getting a bargain!

¹⁵ Wise words are more valuable than much gold and many rubies.

¹⁶ Get security from someone who guarantees a stranger's debt.
Get a deposit if he does it for foreigners.

¹⁷ Stolen bread tastes sweet,
but it turns to gravel in the mouth.

¹⁸ Plans succeed through good counsel;
don't go to war without wise advice.

¹⁹ A gossip goes around telling secrets,
so don't hang around with chatterers.

19:25 A *mock*er is beyond help (see notes on 1:22; 21:11). A leader should still punish him because the simpleminded will learn a lesson.

19:26 See Exod 20:12; 21:15, 17.

20:1 Too much alcohol clouds a person's judgment. The OT is not against drinking wine in moderation (3:10; 9:5; Ps 104:14-15), but it adamantly opposes excessive drinking (21:17; 23:29-35; 31:4-5).

20:2 A lion's roar is a frightening prelude to life-threatening violence (cp. 20:2). Queen Esther was willing to rouse the king's anger and risk her life (Esth 7:1-10).

20:6 True friends are reliable even in difficulties.

20:8 The king should be the epitome of wisdom and justice.

20:9 Wise people recognize their own weaknesses. Pride prohibits people from seeing their faults (6:17-18; 11:2; 13:10; 15:33; 16:18; 18:12; see also 1 Jn 1:8-10).

20:10 False weights and unequal measures: Literally A stone and a stone, an ephah and an ephah. Merchants, for example, should not cheat their customers by using false weights to weigh out grain (cp. 11:1; 16:11; 20:23).

20:12 The ability to observe and learn from experience is a divine gift.

20:13 Laziness leads to poverty (see

10:4-6, 26; 12:11; 13:4; 14:4; 15:19; 18:9; 19:15, 24; 20:4).

20:14 Sellers must see past a buyer's words to avoid being cheated.

20:16 // 27:13 A wise lender gets security or a deposit on a loan. A stranger was an Israelite unknown to a lender, who required security. Proverbs warns the wise to avoid borrowing altogether (see 6:1-2). * for foreigners: An alternate reading in the Masoretic Text is for a promiscuous woman. * This proverb is repeated verbatim in 27:13, and its message is repeated in 6:1-5; 11:15; 17:18; 22:26.

20:19 This perspective on the gossip is repeated in 11:13.

- ²⁰ If you insult your father or mother, your light will be snuffed out in total darkness.
- ²¹ An inheritance obtained too early in life is not a blessing in the end.
- ²² Don't say, "I will get even for this wrong."
Wait for the LORD to handle the matter.
- ²³ The LORD detests double standards;
he is not pleased by dishonest scales.
- ²⁴ The LORD directs our steps, so why try to understand everything along the way?
- ²⁵ Don't trap yourself by making a rash promise to God
and only later counting the cost.
- ²⁶ A wise king scatters the wicked like
wheat,
then runs his threshing wheel over
them.
- ²⁷ The LORD's light penetrates the human spirit,
exposing every hidden motive.
- ²⁸ Unfailing love and faithfulness protect the king;
his ^hthrone is made secure through
love.
- ²⁹ The glory of the young is their strength;
the gray hair of experience is the splendor of the old.
- ³⁰ Physical punishment cleanses away evil;
such discipline purifies the heart.

- 21 ¹ The king's heart is like a stream of water directed by the LORD;
he guides it wherever he pleases.
- ² People may be right in their own eyes,
but the LORD examines their heart.
- ³ The LORD is more pleased when we do what is right and just than when we offer him sacrifices.
- ⁴ Haughty eyes, a proud ^hheart, and evil actions are all sin.
- ⁵ Good planning and hard work lead to prosperity,
but hasty shortcuts lead to poverty.
- ⁶ Wealth created by a lying tongue is a vanishing mist and a deadly trap.
- ⁷ The violence of the wicked sweeps them
away,
because they refuse to do what is just.
- ⁸ The guilty walk a crooked path;
the innocent travel a straight road.
- ⁹ It's better to live alone in the corner of an attic than with a quarrelsome wife in a lovely home.
- ¹⁰ Evil people desire evil;
their neighbors get no mercy from
them.
- ¹¹ If you punish a mocker, the simpleminded become wise;
if you instruct the wise, they will be all the wiser.
- ¹² The Righteous One knows what is going on in the homes of the wicked;
he will bring disaster on them.

20:21 An inheritance gained early in life is likely to be spent long before death, leaving nothing to live on.

20:22 See also Rom 12:17-21.

20:23 The message of this proverb is presented in three other proverbs (cp. 11:1; 16:11; 20:10).

20:24 God's role in guiding our steps is clear (see 16:1, 9, 33). We do not need to understand why things happen, but we should not lose hope, for God is in control.

20:25 Counting the cost is particularly important when making a promise to God (see Judg 11:29-40; Eccl 5:4-6).

20:26 A king represents God on earth, so he should support the godly and punish the wicked.

20:27 The LORD's light penetrates the human spirit: Or The human spirit is the LORD's light. God sees deep into people's hearts (see 16:2).

20:28 God's unfailing love and faithfulness are closely connected to his covenant with his people (see Exod 34:5-7; Deut 7:7-9). The king represents God on earth, so God will protect him (see 2 Sam 7).

20:30 Physical punishment cleanses away evil: The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain (see 13:24; 22:15; 23:13-14).

21:1 A king was the most powerful individual in an ancient nation, and it seemed that he could do as he pleased. However, God directs the heart of the king.

21:2 This proverb is repeated almost verbatim in 16:2.

21:3 God is not pleased with worship unless godly actions flow from a godly heart (see Ps 40:6-8; Mic 6:6-8).

21:4 Demeanor (eyes), character (heart), and actions are all significant. God hates pride (see 6:17-18; 11:2; 13:10; 15:33; 16:18; 18:12).

21:6 mist and a deadly trap: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads mist for those who seek death.

21:8 The crooked path of foolishness ends with death; the straight road of wisdom leads to life.

21:9 // 25:24 A marriage that looks good on the outside (in a lovely home) is unrewarding if it is filled with quarrels (see also 21:19; 25:24; 27:15-17; cp. 11:22; 12:4b).

21:10 Evil people do not just act evil; they are evil. No appeal will persuade them to act otherwise.

21:11 The simpleminded learn by seeing a *mock*er punished (see 1:22; 19:25). The wise do not need the threat of punishment because they already desire wisdom.

21:12 The Righteous One: Or The righteous man. God sees what the wicked do in the privacy of their homes and will

13 Those who shut their ears to the cries of the poor will be ignored in their own time of need.

14 A secret gift calms anger; a bribe under the table pacifies fury.

15 Justice is a ^kjoy to the godly, but it terrifies evildoers.

16 The person who strays from common sense will end up in the company of the dead.

17 Those who love pleasure become poor; those who love wine and luxury will never be rich.

18 The wicked are punished in place of the godly, and traitors in place of the honest.

19 It's better to live alone in the desert than with a quarrelsome, complaining wife.

20 The wise have wealth and luxury, but fools spend whatever they get.

21 Whoever pursues righteousness and unfailing love will find life, righteousness, and honor.

22 The wise conquer the city of the strong and level the fortress in which they trust.

23 Watch your tongue and keep your mouth shut, and you will stay out of trouble.

24 Mockers are proud and haughty; they act with boundless ^aarrogance.

25 Despite their desires, the lazy will come to ruin, for their hands refuse to work.

26 Some people are always greedy for more, but the godly love to give!

27 The ^bsacrifice of an evil person is detestable, especially when it is offered with wrong motives.

28 A false witness will be cut off, but a credible witness will be allowed to speak.

29 The wicked bluff their way through, but the virtuous think before they act.

30 No human wisdom or understanding or plan can stand against the LORD.

31 The horse is prepared for the day of battle, but the victory belongs to the LORD.

22 ¹ Choose a good reputation over great riches; being held in high esteem is better than silver or gold.

² The rich and poor have this in common: The LORD made them both.

³ A prudent person foresees danger and takes precautions. The simpleton goes blindly on and suffers the consequences.

⁴ True humility and fear of the LORD lead to riches, honor, and long life.

⁵ Corrupt people walk a thorny, treacherous road; whoever values life will avoid it.

punish them for their sins. Alternatively, the righteous one might refer to the insight of any righteous individual.

21:15 God is just, so he will reward the innocent and punish the wicked. No wonder the godly love justice while the wicked fear it.

21:16 Those who have common sense can avoid life's dangers.

21:17 The expenses of wine and luxury prevent people from amassing their resources—they spend rather than save.

21:18 The wicked will fall prey to the traps they set for others (26:27; see also 11:8).

21:19 It's better to live alone: Cp. 21:9; 25:24.

21:20 See also 3:9-10, 15-16; 10:15, 16, 22; 14:24.

21:21 Righteousness and unfailing love are character traits associated with Israel's covenant with God (see Exod 34:5-7; Deut 7:9-11). The covenant promised life and honor to those who obeyed God's law (Deut 28:1-14).

21:22 A wise military strategist can devise ways to defeat stronger forces. This makes wisdom superior to raw power (cp. Eccl 7:12; 9:13-18).

21:24 Mockers: See 1:25-27; 9:7-9. Also see note on 1:22.

21:26 Generosity is a trait of the godly, while stinginess is characteristic of fools (29:7, 14). Paradoxically, the more you give, the more you get (11:24).

21:30-31 Human wisdom is impotent if it stands against the LORD (see 16:1, 3, 9, 33). Similarly, military power (represented by the horse) is impotent without the Lord's blessing.

22:1 A wise person will never compromise his reputation in pursuit of money.

22:2 Remembering that the LORD made them both helps prevent the exploitation of the poor.

22:3 // 27:12 The theme of taking precautions is found in several proverbs (14:8, 15; 21:29).

22:4 Fear of the LORD (see 1:7; 9:10) goes hand in hand with humility. A humble person knows that he is not the center of the universe. Humility is more valuable than wealth (16:19; see also 11:2; 15:33; 18:12).

22:5 Living by deceit is dangerous; corrupt people never know when their treachery will be discovered or backfire.

4. THE THIRTY SAYINGS OF THE WISE (22:17–24:22)

- ¹⁷ Listen to the words of the wise;
apply your heart to my instruction.
- ¹⁸ For it is good to keep these sayings in your heart
and always ready on your lips.
- ¹⁹ I am teaching you today—yes, you—so you will trust in the LORD.
- ²⁰ I have written thirty sayings for you, filled with advice and knowledge.
- ²¹ In this way, you may know the truth and take an accurate report to those who sent you.
- ²² Don't rob the poor just because you can,
or exploit the needy in court.
- ²³ For the LORD is their defender.
He will ruin anyone who ruins them.
- ²⁴ Don't befriend angry people or associate with hot-tempered
people,
²⁵ or you will learn to be like them
and endanger your soul.
- ²⁶ Don't agree to guarantee another person's debt
or put up security for someone else.
- ²⁷ If you can't pay it, even your bed will be snatched from under you.

Prov 6:1-5

22:7 This is a warning against being a borrower; other proverbs warn against guaranteeing others' debts (6:1-2; 20:16).

22:8 The Greek version includes an additional proverb: God blesses a man who gives cheerfully, / but his worthless deeds will come to an end. Paul quotes this additional proverb in 2 Cor 9:7.

22:11 Even a wicked ruler wants advisers who have a pure heart—i.e., who are completely loyal—and who can communicate with gracious speech.

22:12 This proverb reminds the wise (those with knowledge) that the LORD is in control.

22:13 Of the many proverbs on laziness (10:4-6, 26; 12:11; 13:4; 14:4; 15:19; 18:9; 19:15, 24; 20:4, 13; 21:25; 26:13), this is among the funniest. Lazy people will come up with any outlandish excuse for not working.

22:14 An immoral woman, using flattery and seduction, tries to trap a young man to commit sin.

22:15 Wisdom is learned, not inherited or innate. It takes discipline, sometimes physical, to change foolishness into wisdom.

22:16 A person . . . gets ahead by hard work, not by exploiting the poor or bribing the rich (cp. 22:29).

22:17–24:22 This section is ascribed to a group called the wise. Who they were is unknown. There is a reference to thirty sayings (22:20), and the wisdom sayings that follow can be divided into thirty sections that are similar to an Egyptian composition called the Instruction of Amenemope, which is also divided into thirty chapters.

22:17-21 As with the prologue that opens the book of Proverbs (1:2-7) and the introductions to the individual discourses (see 1:8-9; 2:1-11), this section begins with an encouragement to listen. This wisdom is more than good practical advice—its purpose is to inspire trust in the LORD.

22:20 thirty sayings (or excellent sayings; the meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain): Early scribes noticed that the Hebrew word for thirty has been written in an unusual form (shlshwm) rather than the usual form (shlyshym). All the early translations of the OT (e.g., Greek Septuagint, Latin Vulgate, Syriac Peshitta) read it as thirty. Nonetheless, some prefer to translate the word as excellent sayings.

22:22-23 Saying 1: God defends the weak, including the poor. Those who are well off are responsible to be generous to the poor (11:24-26; 21:13; 22:9, 16; 28:27).

22:24-25 Saying 2: befriend . . . associate: See note on 13:20. An angry . . . hot-tempered person is unable to control his emotions and expresses his anger at inappropriate times.

22:26-27 Saying 3: See note on 6:1-5. The message of this proverb is also repeated in 11:15; 17:18; 20:16; 27:13.

29 Do you see any truly competent workers? They will serve kings rather than working for ordinary people.

23 ¹ While dining with a ruler, pay attention to what is put before you.

² If you are a big eater, put a knife to your throat;

³ don't desire all the delicacies, for he might be trying to trick you.

⁴ Don't wear yourself out trying to get rich. Be wise enough to know when to quit.

⁵ In the blink of an eye wealth disappears, for it will sprout wings and fly away like an eagle.

⁶ Don't eat with people who are stingy; don't desire their delicacies.

⁷ They are always thinking about how much it costs.

"Eat and drink," they say, but they don't mean it.

⁸ You will throw up what little you've eaten, and your compliments will be wasted.

⁹ Don't waste your breath on fools, for they will despise the wisest advice.

¹⁰ Don't cheat your neighbor by moving the ancient boundary markers; don't take the land of defenseless orphans.

¹¹ For their Redeemer is strong; he himself will bring their charges against you.

¹² Commit yourself to instruction; listen carefully to words of knowledge.

¹³ Don't fail to discipline your children. The rod of punishment won't kill them.

¹⁴ Physical discipline may well save them from "death."

¹⁵ My child, if your heart is wise, my own heart will rejoice!

¹⁶ Everything in me will celebrate when you speak what is right.

Much of the teaching in Proverbs takes the form of a father's or mother's instruction. Wise children bring great joy to their parents, while foolish children cause them much grief (10:1; 15:20). This observation motivates parents to guide their children into wisdom (17:21, 25) and encourages children to pay attention to this instruction (19:26; 20:20).

When children need discipline, parents should not shirk their responsibility, because the consequences are dangerous to the child (19:18; 22:6, 15; 23:13-14). Parents are also instructed to teach through the example of their own wise and godly behavior (11:21; 12:7; 13:22; 20:7), and children must show godly parents the respect that is due them (20:20; 30:11-14, 17). Parents are to instruct their children in the ways of the Lord (Deut 7:4-9) and to inform them about his great deeds in history (Ps 78:1-8). This knowledge will lead children to obedience and blessing.

Psalms 127-128 describe a family that is flourishing because of its dependence on the Lord. The book of Proverbs affirms the power and impact of a strong, cohesive family that loves and follows God. The book has strong warnings for those who would disrupt a family (6:19; 11:29), and it heaps great praise on those who build up the family (14:1).

22:28 Saying 4: Property was marked by stones set up as boundary markers; it was a great offense to move these ancient markers of real estate (see also 23:10; Deut 19:14).

22:29 Saying 5: Those who hone their skills and work hard will have the best jobs and work for the best people.

23:1-3 Saying 6: Many proverbs address young men in government service. A ruler's rich fare might tempt a novice to overindulge through lack of self-control. But he will be vulnerable when sated.

23:4-5 Saying 7: Riches can be God's blessing (3:9-10, 15-16; 10:22), but there are other things in life that are more important.

23:6-8 Saying 8: Proverbs puts a high premium on generosity (11:24-26; 21:13; 22:9).

23:7 They are always thinking about how much it costs: The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

23:9 Saying 9: Fools ignore advice (cp. 9:7-12; 10:18), so the wise do not waste their breath (see Matt 7:6).

23:10-11 Saying 10: The wise avoid unfair business practices and illegitimate gains (see 22:28), knowing that the Lord will judge wrongdoing. • Redeemer: Or redeemer. The NLT is probably correct in capitalizing the word Redeemer and identifying him with God, although a human redeemer might be intended.

23:12 Saying 11: listen carefully: Learning is the way to improve (see 10:17; 13:1, 10; 15:24, 31-32; 17:10; 19:24).

23:13-14 Saying 12: See 19:18; 29:17. • from death: Hebrew from Sheol. See note on 1:12.

23:15-16 Saying 13: A wise parent will rejoice in a wise . . . child (see 10:1).

• My child: Literally My son; also in 23:19. See note on 1:8-9:18.

- 17 Don't envy sinners,
but always continue to fear the LORD.
- 18 You will be rewarded for this;
your hope will not be disappointed.
- 19 My child, listen and be wise:
Keep your heart on the right course.
- 20 Do not carouse with drunkards or feast with gluttons,
- 21 for they are on their way to poverty,
and too much sleep clothes them in rags.
- 22 Listen to your father, who gave you life,
and don't despise your mother when she is old.
- 23 Get the truth and never sell it;
also get wisdom, discipline, and good judgment.
- 24 The father of godly children has cause
for joy.
What a pleasure to have children who are wise.
- 25 So give your father and mother joy!
May she who gave you birth be happy.
- 26 O my son, give me your heart.
May your eyes take delight in following my ways.
- 27 A prostitute is a dangerous trap;
a promiscuous woman is as dangerous as falling into a narrow well.
- 28 She hides and waits like a robber, eager to make more men unfaithful.
- 29 Who has anguish? Who has sorrow?
Who is always fighting? Who is always complaining?
Who has unnecessary bruises? Who has bloodshot eyes?
- 30 It is the one who spends long hours in the taverns, trying out new drinks.
- 31 Don't gaze at the wine, seeing how red it is,

- how it sparkles in the cup, how smoothly it goes down.
- 32 For in the end it bites like a poisonous snake;
it stings like a viper.
- 33 You will see hallucinations, and you will say crazy things.
- 34 You will stagger like a sailor tossed at sea, clinging to a swaying mast.
- 35 And you will say, "They hit me, but I didn't feel it.
I didn't even know it when they beat me up.
When will I wake up
so I can look for another drink?"

- 24 1 Don't envy evil people or desire their company.
- 2 For their hearts plot violence, and their words always stir up trouble.
- 3 A house is built by wisdom and becomes strong through good sense.
- 4 Through knowledge its rooms are filled with all sorts of precious riches and valuables.
- 5 The wise are mightier than the strong,
and those with knowledge grow stronger and stronger.
- 6 So don't go to war without wise guidance;
victory depends on having many advisers.
- 7 Wisdom is too lofty for fools.
Among leaders at the city gate, they have nothing to say.
- 8 A person who plans evil will get a reputation as a troublemaker.
- 9 The schemes of a fool are sinful;
everyone detests a mocker.
- 10 If you fail under pressure, your strength is too small.

23:22-25 Saying 16: This saying is an exhortation to pursue the wisdom that a godly father and mother provide.

23:24 to have children who are wise: Literally to have a wise son.

23:26-28 Saying 17: Falling for a promiscuous woman is a trap, not a source of benefit. Proverbs repeatedly emphasizes avoiding sexual relations outside of marriage (see 5:1-23; 6:20-35; 7:1-27).

don't envy the wicked.
- 20 For evil people have no future;
the light of the wicked will be snuffed out.
- 21 My child, fear the LORD and the king.
Don't associate with rebels,
- 22 for disaster will hit them suddenly.

Who knows what punishment will come from the LORD and the king?

5. MORE SAYINGS OF THE WISE (24:23-34)

23 Here are some further sayings of the wise:

- It is wrong to show favoritism when passing judgment.
- 24 A judge who says to the wicked, "You are innocent," will be cursed by many people and denounced by the nations.
- 25 But it will go well for those who convict the guilty;
rich blessings will be showered on them.
- 26 An honest answer is like a kiss of friendship.
- 27 Do your planning and prepare your fields before building your house.
- 28 Don't testify against your neighbors without cause;
don't lie about them.
- 29 And don't say, "Now I can pay them back for what they've done to me!
I'll get even with them!"
- 30 I walked by the field of a lazy person,
the vineyard of one with no common sense.
- 31 I saw that it was overgrown with nettles.
It was covered with weeds,
and its walls were broken down.
- 32 Then, as I looked and thought about it,
I learned this lesson:
- 33 A little extra sleep, a little more slumber,
a little folding of the hands to rest—
- 34 then poverty will pounce on you like a bandit;
scarcity will attack you like an armed robber.

24:11-12 Saying 25: The wise do what they can to prevent injustice and suffering (e.g., Job 29:12-17).

24:13-14 Saying 26: Both honey and wisdom are sweet. Wisdom improves the soul, enhancing opportunities for the future. • My child: Literally My son; also in 24:21. See note on 1:8-9:18.

24:15-16 Saying 27: Those who are godly will not allow a setback to keep them down. • Seven times is symbolic for "many times."

24:17-18 Saying 28: This saying leads to Jesus' call to love our enemies (Matt 5:43-48).

24:19-20 Saying 29: Don't envy the apparent prosperity of the wicked (see 24:1-2), because their success is fleeting. • snuffed out: Cp. 13:9; 20:20.

24:21-22 Saying 30: The king is associated with the Lord, reflecting his power and sovereignty on the earth (see 1 Sam 12; Ps 2).

24:23-34 This addendum to the thirty sayings of the wise (22:17-24:22) includes five further sayings.

24:23-25 Saying 1: Truthfulness in rendering judgment is a hallmark of wisdom (see 6:19; 12:17; 19:28; 24:28-29; 25:18).

24:26 Saying 2: A true friend does not cover up problems but honestly points out areas for improvement. A wise person welcomes the correction of a friend.

24:27 Saying 3: A wise person establishes a source of income before spending money on himself.

24:28-29 Saying 4: The truth should not be bent, not even for revenge (see 6:19; 12:17; 14:25; 19:28; 24:23-24; 25:18).

24:30-34 Saying 5: Laziness and love for sleep lead to poverty (see 10:4-5, 26; 12:11; 13:4; 15:19; 18:9; 19:15, 24; 20:4, 13).

24:33-34 // 6:10-11 This example of laziness repeats one of the proverbs presented earlier.

6. MORE PROVERBS OF SOLOMON
(25:1–29:27)

25 These are more 'proverbs of Solomon, collected by the advisers of King Hezekiah of Judah.

- ² It is God's ⁸privilege to conceal things and the king's ⁸privilege to discover them.
 - ³ No one can comprehend the height of heaven, the depth of the earth, or all that goes on in the king's mind!
 - ⁴ Remove the impurities from silver, and the sterling will be ready for the silversmith.
 - ⁵ Remove the wicked from the king's court, and his reign will be made secure by justice.
 - ⁶ Don't demand an audience with the king or push for a place among the great.
 - ⁷ It's better to wait for an invitation to the head table than to be sent away in public disgrace.
- Just because you've seen something,
- ⁸ don't be in a hurry to go to court. For what will you do in the end if your neighbor deals you a shameful defeat?
 - ⁹ When arguing with your neighbor, don't betray another person's secret.
 - ¹⁰ Others may accuse you of gossip, and you will never regain your good reputation.
 - ¹¹ Timely advice is lovely, like golden apples in a silver basket.
 - ¹² To one who listens, valid criticism is like a gold earring or other gold jewelry.

- ¹³ Trustworthy messengers refresh like snow in summer. They revive the spirit of their employer.
- ¹⁴ A person who promises a gift but doesn't give it is like clouds and wind that bring no rain.
- ¹⁵ Patience can persuade a prince, and soft speech can break bones.
- ¹⁶ Do you like honey? Don't eat too much, or it will make you sick!
- ¹⁷ Don't visit your neighbors too often, or you will wear out your welcome.
- ¹⁸ Telling lies about others is as harmful as hitting them with an ax, wounding them with a sword, or shooting them with a sharp arrow.
- ¹⁹ Putting confidence in an unreliable person in times of trouble is like chewing with a broken tooth or walking on a lame foot.
- ²⁰ Singing cheerful songs to a person with a heavy heart is like taking someone's coat in cold weather or pouring vinegar in a wound.
- ²¹ If your enemies are hungry, give them food to eat. If they are thirsty, give them water to drink.
- ²² You will heap burning coals of shame on their heads, and the LORD will reward you.
- ²³ As surely as a north wind brings rain, so a gossiping tongue causes anger!

Prov 13:3; 26:20

25:1–29:27 During the reign of King Hezekiah (728–686 BC), wise men (advisers) collected these proverbs of Solomon and added them to the collection.

25:2-3 This warning reminds young men entering royal service that some things cannot be understood, including the king's sometimes mysterious reasoning (e.g., 2 Sam 11:14-25; 24:3).

25:4-5 As silver is ready for use once it is refined of impurities, the king's court can do justice when wicked people are removed. A little bit of evil can spoil much good (Eccl 10:1).

25:6-7a To gain an audience with the king, a wise person will practice humility instead of pride (cp. Matt 20:20-28).

25:7b-8 Rash actions often result in shame.

25:9-10 See 11:13; 20:19.

25:11-12 Timely advice and valid criticism are precious, beautiful, and rare (see also 15:23; 26:7, 9), and should be welcome (see 10:17; 13:1, 10; 15:24, 31-32; 17:10).

25:13 Snow would be a welcome relief in Israel's hot, dry summers (cp. 26:1); trustworthy messengers refresh their employer by enabling him or her to plan for the future.

25:14 In Israel, rain is rare. When rain does not follow the appearance of storm clouds, it is like the disappointment caused by someone who gives empty promises. Cp. Jude's description of false teachers (Jude 1:12).

25:16-17 Honey in moderation is tasty and healthy (24:13-14); too much will cause vomiting. This principle can be applied to other areas of life; for example, it is good to visit your neighbors, but not too often.

25:18 Lying can have deadly consequences (see 6:16-19; 14:5, 25).

25:20 pouring vinegar in a wound: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads pouring vinegar on soda.

25:21-22 Contrary to expectation, compassion toward an enemy is more effective than anger (see Rom 12:20).

- 28 A person without self-control is like a city with broken-down walls.

- ² Like a fluttering sparrow or a darting swallow, an undeserved curse will not land on its intended victim.

- ⁴ Don't answer the ^bfoolish arguments of fools, or you will become as foolish as they are.
- ⁵ Be sure to answer the ^bfoolish arguments of fools, or they will become wise in their own estimation.
- ⁶ Trusting a fool to convey a message is like cutting off one's feet or drinking poison!
- ⁷ A ^bproverb in the mouth of a fool is as useless as a paralyzed leg.
- ⁸ Honoring a fool is as foolish as tying a stone to a slingshot.

Laziness versus Hard Work (24:30-34)

Acts 20:35
Rom 12:11
Eph 4:28
1 Thes 4:11-12
2 Thes 3:10-15

Proverbs equates lazy people with the foolish; their lack of productivity leads to poverty and death (6:6-10; 10:26; 15:19; 18:9; 19:15, 24; 20:4; 21:25; 22:13; 24:30-34; 26:13-16). By contrast, diligent people are seen as wise; their activities lead to wealth and life (10:4-6; 12:11; 13:4; 14:4; 20:13; 31:10-27). Proverbs isn't afraid to poke fun at lazy people. They are sarcastically compared to a door that swings back and forth (26:14), and their empty excuses are subjected to parody (e.g., 22:13).

The theme of laziness arises in the contrast between the two women, Wisdom and Folly (9:1-18). The virtuous woman of ch 31 reflects the industriousness of Wisdom (31:16-18). While it is true that ultimate meaning and fulfillment do not come from hard work (Eccl 2:17-26), the lazy are still condemned (Eccl 4:5-6). God created Adam and Eve and put them in the Garden to tend it, not just to sit back and enjoy it (Gen 2:15). Proverbs and the whole of Scripture support the truth that work is not a result of the Fall but rather is a dignified and important part of creation.

25:24 // 21:9 It's better to live alone: Cp. 21:9, 19.

25:26 A spring or fountain that yields fresh water gives life. When godly people allow the wicked to dominate them, what was life-giving becomes deadly.

25:27-28 The wise have self-control and cannot easily be dominated.

26:1 It is not fitting to give honor to fools.

26:2 Curses and blessings can have real effect (see Gen 27:1-41; 48:8-9, 15-20; Num 6:23-27), but an undeserved curse has no effect.

26:3 A fool is like a dumb animal that can only be guided by brute force (see 10:13; 14:3).

26:4-5 Proverbs are often context sensitive. Whether or not to answer the foolish arguments of fools depends on what kind of fool and what kind of situation.

26:7 A fool might know a proverb but not be able to use it correctly. Cp. 26:9.

26:9 A proverb misapplied by a fool might actually cause harm. Cp. 26:7.

26:10 A fool or a bystander might easily be lazy (see 10:4-6) or incompetent (see 26:6-7). An employer should beware!

26:11 Even when foolishness brings terrible consequences, a fool persists in it (17:10; see also 2 Pet 2:22).

26:12 Fools have hope because they might recognize their folly and seek advice. However, those who think they are wise will remain ignorant.

¹³ The lazy person claims, "There's a lion on the road!
Yes, I'm sure there's a lion out there!"

¹⁴ As a door swings back and forth on its hinges, so the lazy person turns over in bed.

¹⁵ Lazy people take food in their hand
but don't even lift it to their mouth.

¹⁶ Lazy people consider themselves smarter than seven wise counselors.

¹⁷ Interfering in someone else's argument is as foolish as yanking a dog's ears.

¹⁸ Just as damaging as a madman shooting a deadly weapon

¹⁹ is someone who lies to a friend and then says, "I was only joking."

²⁰ Fire goes out without wood, and quarrels disappear when gossip stops.

²¹ A quarrelsome person starts fights as easily as hot embers light charcoal or fire lights wood.

²² Rumors are dainty morsels that sink deep into one's heart.

²³ Smooth words may hide a wicked heart, just as a pretty glaze covers a clay pot.

²⁴ People may cover their hatred with pleasant words,
but they're deceiving you.

²⁵ They pretend to be kind, but don't believe them.
Their hearts are full of many evils.

²⁶ While their hatred may be concealed by trickery,

their wrongdoing will be exposed in public.

²⁷ If you set a trap for others,
you will get caught in it yourself.
If you roll a boulder down on others,
it will crush you instead.

²⁸ A lying tongue hates its victims, and flattering words cause ruin.

27 ¹ Don't brag about tomorrow, since you don't know what the day will bring.

² Let someone else ^kpraise you, not your own mouth—
a stranger, not your own lips.

³ A stone is heavy and sand is weighty, but the resentment caused by a fool is even heavier.

⁴ Anger is cruel, and ^wwrath is like a flood, but jealousy is even more dangerous.

⁵ An open rebuke is better than hidden love!

⁶ Wounds from a sincere friend are better than many kisses from an enemy.

⁷ A person who is full refuses honey, but even bitter food tastes sweet to the hungry.

⁸ A person who strays from home is like a bird that strays from its nest.

⁹ The heartfelt counsel of a friend is as sweet as perfume and incense.

¹⁰ Never abandon a friend—either yours or your father's.

26:15 // 19:24 This is a humorous comment on the foolishness of being lazy.

26:17 The wise avoid getting involved in other people's arguments (cp. 26:21).

26:18-19 Lies are extremely dangerous because they lead people to act on false information. Liars cannot cover up later by claiming that they were only joking (see 6:16-19; 14:5, 25; 25:18).

26:20-21 A gossip and a quarrelsome person are both like fuel to the fire of trouble and discord.

26:22 // 18:8 Rumors may be delicious to hear and repeat, but they are deadly.

26:23-26 People sometimes hide evil attitudes and wicked intentions through flattery. In the end, the true hatred of smooth talkers will be exposed.

• Smooth: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads Burning.

26:25 many evils: Literally seven evils (see notes on 9:1; 24:15-16).

26:27 People usually receive the bad consequences they intend for others (see 1:17-19).

27:1 We should plan (24:27), but our plans succeed only when God so wills (16:1, 3, 33; Jas 4:13-16). Only fools think that they control the future.

27:2 The Hebrew word translated praise comes from the same root as "brag" in 27:1. Bragging (self-praise) is foolish.

27:3 Fools cause heavy . . . resentment by their foolish words and actions.

27:4 Anger is bad but can be countered with a gentle answer (15:1). Jealousy is harder to resolve (6:34-35).

27:5 A rebuke improves life by correcting harmful behavior (13:1; 14:6). Hidden, unexpressed love has no value.

27:6 Wounds from a . . . friend are from a loving rebuke (27:5). They are better than flattery (many kisses) from an enemy who intends to harm rather than help.

27:7 Even the best teaching (honey) will be refused if offered at the wrong time. The key to real learning is the receptivity of the student.

27:8 A person who forsakes his family and strays from home will more likely find trouble than whatever he was seeking (e.g., Luke 15:11-16).

27:9 Nothing is more encouraging than heartfelt counsel from an intimate friend (see also 27:6).

When disaster strikes, you won't have to ask your brother for assistance. It's better to go to a neighbor than to a brother who lives far away.

11 Be wise, my child, and make my heart glad.

Then I will be able to answer my critics.

12 A prudent person foresees danger and takes precautions.

The simpleton goes blindly on and suffers the consequences.

13 Get security from someone who guarantees a stranger's debt.

Get a deposit if he does it for foreigners.

14 A loud and cheerful greeting early in the morning will be taken as a curse!

15 A quarrelsome wife is as annoying as constant dripping on a rainy day.

16 Stopping her complaints is like trying to stop the wind or trying to hold something with greased hands.

17 As iron sharpens iron, so a friend sharpens a friend.

18 As workers who tend a fig tree are allowed to eat the fruit, so workers who protect their employer's interests will be rewarded.

19 As a face is reflected in water, so the heart reflects the real person.

20 Just as Death and Destruction are never satisfied, so human desire is never satisfied.

21 Fire tests the purity of silver and gold, but a person is tested by being praised.

22 You cannot separate fools from their foolishness, even though you grind them like grain with mortar and pestle.

23 Know the state of your flocks, and put your heart into caring for your herds,

24 for riches don't last forever, and the crown might not be passed to the next generation.

25 After the hay is harvested and the new crop appears and the mountain grasses are gathered in,

26 your sheep will provide wool for clothing, and your goats will provide the price of a field.

27 And you will have enough goats' milk for yourself, your family, and your servant girls.

28 ¹ The wicked run away when no one is chasing them, but the godly are as bold as lions.

² When there is moral rot within a nation, its government topples easily. But wise and knowledgeable leaders bring stability.

³ A poor person who oppresses the poor is like a pounding rain that destroys the crops.

⁴ To reject the law is to ^bpraise the wicked; to obey the law is to fight them.

⁵ Evil people don't understand justice, but those who follow the LORD understand completely.

immediate assistance, so it is important to have friends close by and neighbors who can help.

27:11 my child: Literally my son. Fairly or not, parents are evaluated by their children's public behavior.

27:12 // 22:3 The theme of taking precautions is found in several proverbs (14:8, 15; 21:29).

27:13 // 20:16 for foreigners: As in Greek and Latin versions (see also 20:16); Hebrew reads for a promiscuous woman. See note on 20:16, where this proverb is repeated verbatim. Its message is also repeated in 6:1-5; 11:15; 17:18; 22:26.

27:14 It is important to speak appropriately for the circumstances (cp. 15:23).

27:15 A quarrelsome wife: Cp. 19:13; 21:9, 19; 25:24.

27:17 iron sharpens iron: Wisdom comes from interaction, often critical, with a good friend (see 27:6, 9).

27:18 An employer values loyal workers who protect their employer's interests. Wise employers give their workers incentives to be loyal, such as allowing them to eat the fruit (see Deut 25:4; 1 Cor 9:7-10; 1 Tim 5:17-18).

27:20 Death and Destruction: Hebrew Sheol and Abaddon. See note on 15:11. • Human desire is never satisfied by money, power, or pleasure.

27:21 A person who avoids conceit in response to praise demonstrates purity of character (cp. 17:3). • by being praised: Or by flattery.

27:22 Foolishness is deeply engrained in the character of a fool.

27:23-27 Agricultural property can provide food and clothing from generation to generation; these resources require continuous labor and attention or, like riches, they disappear.

28:1 The wicked experience God's curse for breaking his covenant (see Lev 26:14-17, 36-37).

28:2 Wise . . . leaders rule justly and effectively (8:15-16).

28:4 Without law, chaos results and the wicked flourish.

28:5 Evil people seek gain by breaking the law. Justice ensures that they are punished and the righteous are rewarded.

- 6 Better to be poor and honest

wise;
those with wild friends bring shame

- 8 Income from charging high interest

but a poor person with discernment can see right through them.
- 12 When the godly succeed, everyone is glad.
When the wicked take charge, people go into hiding.
- 13 People who conceal their ^dsins will not prosper,
but if they confess and turn from them, they will receive mercy.
- 14 ^eBlessed are those who fear to do wrong, but the stubborn are headed for serious trouble.
- 15 A wicked ruler is as dangerous to the poor
as a roaring lion or an attacking bear.
- 16 A ruler with no understanding will oppress his people, but one who hates corruption will have a long life.
- 17 A murderer's tormented conscience will drive him into the grave.
Don't protect him!
- 18 The blameless will be rescued from harm,
but the crooked will be suddenly
destroyed.
- 19 A hard worker has plenty of food, but a person who chases fantasies ends up in poverty.
- 20 The trustworthy person will get a rich reward,
but a person who wants quick riches will get into trouble.
- 21 Showing partiality is never good, yet some will do wrong for a mere piece of bread.
- 22 Greedy people try to get rich quick but don't realize they're headed for poverty.
- 23 In the end, people appreciate honest criticism
far more than flattery.
- 24 Anyone who steals from his father and mother and says, "What's wrong with that?"
is no better than a murderer.
- 25 Greed causes fighting;
trusting the LORD leads to prosperity.
- 26 Those who trust their own insight are foolish, but anyone who walks in wisdom is safe.

28:6 Virtue is more valuable than material wealth. This proverb is repeated with a slightly different conclusion in 19:1.

28:7 their parents: Literally their father. This proverb applies to both fathers and mothers.

28:8 The law prohibited charging needy Israelites interest on loans (Exod 22:25; Lev 25:36; Deut 23:19). The rich were instructed to lend generously to the poor (3:27-28; 11:24; 28:27; 29:7, 14).

28:9 A person who ignores the law shows no fear of the Lord (1:7), the lawgiver. That person's prayers are hypocritical—why should God listen to them?

28:12 When the wicked take charge: See also 28:28.

28:13 The wise admit their mistakes and sins and pursue correction (see Ps 32:1-5).

28:14 those who fear to do wrong: Or those who fear the LORD; literally those who fear.

28:15 A wicked ruler will not help the poor because his rule is not just. Like a roaring lion or an attacking bear, he destroys their lives.

28:17 tormented conscience: See 1 Sam 25:31; Rom 2:15; 13:5; cp. Heb 10:22. ^a*Don't protect him!* Murder is such a serious offense that a fine could not replace the death penalty (see Num 35:32).

28:19 This proverb is repeated but with a different conclusion in 12:11.

28:20 quick riches: Wealth must be earned ethically, or it will cause harm and will not last (see 13:11, cp. 10:2; 11:18; 13:22; 21:6).

28:21 Rendering a wrong verdict based on a bribe is evil (17:23; 22:16).

28:23 The wise desire honest criticism of their faults so they can improve (10:17; 13:1, 10; 15:24, 31-32).

28:24 Callous children who exploit their parents are wicked (see Exod 20:12).

28:25 Those who are greedy fight to control circumstances so as to gain riches. Trusting the LORD allows the wise to face life calmly and, ironically, to experience prosperity.

28:26 The one who walks in wisdom listens to the advice of others; those who trust their own insight show themselves foolish.

27 Whoever gives to the poor will lack nothing, but those who close their eyes to poverty will be cursed.

28 When the wicked take charge, people go into hiding.
When the wicked meet disaster, the godly flourish.

29 ¹ Whoever stubbornly refuses to accept criticism will suddenly be destroyed beyond recovery.

² When the godly are in authority, the people rejoice.
But when the wicked are in power, they groan.

³ The man who loves ⁴wisdom brings joy to his father, but if he hangs around with prostitutes, his wealth is wasted.

⁴ A just king gives stability to his nation,
but one who demands bribes destroys it.

⁵ To flatter friends is to lay a trap for their feet.

⁶ Evil people are trapped by sin, but the righteous escape, shouting for joy.

⁷ The godly care about the rights of the poor;
the wicked don't care at all.

⁸ Mockers can get a whole town agitated, but the wise will calm ^ganger.

⁹ If a wise person takes a fool to court,
there will be ranting and ridicule but no satisfaction.

¹⁰ The bloodthirsty hate blameless people, but the upright seek to help them.

¹¹ Fools vent their anger,
but the wise quietly hold it back.

¹² If a ruler pays attention to liars,
all his advisers will be wicked.

¹³ The poor and the oppressor have this in common—the LORD gives sight to the eyes of both.

¹⁴ If a king judges the poor fairly,
his ^hthrone will last forever.

¹⁵ To discipline a child produces ⁴wisdom, but a mother is disgraced by an undisciplined child.

¹⁶ When the wicked are in authority, sin flourishes,
but the godly will live to see their downfall.

¹⁷ Discipline your children, and they will give you peace of mind and will make your heart glad.

¹⁸ When people do not accept ⁴divine guidance, they run wild.
But whoever obeys the law is joyful.

¹⁹ Words alone will not discipline a servant;
the words may be understood, but they are not heeded.

²⁰ There is more hope for a fool than for someone who speaks without thinking.

²¹ A servant pampered from childhood will become a rebel.

²² An ^kangry person starts fights;
a hot-tempered person commits all kinds of sin.

²³ Pride ends in humiliation, while humility brings honor.

²⁴ If you assist a thief, you only hurt yourself.

28:28 When the wicked take charge: See also 28:12.

29:3 A man's wisdom affects his parents (10:1; 15:20; 17:21). • Prostitutes cost money and a man's wealth is rapidly wasted on them.

29:4 A just king looks out for the rights of others; a ruler who accepts bribes uses his office for personal gain (see also 17:23; 22:16; 28:21).

29:5 Flattery is usually a trap to taking advantage of someone (7:21-22; 26:23).

29:10 The bloodthirsty hate blameless people, but the upright seek to help them: Or The bloodthirsty hate blameless people, and they seek to kill the upright; literally The bloodthirsty hate blameless people; as for the upright, they seek their life.

29:11 Wise people learn to control their emotions; they remain calm even under stress.

29:13 The oppressor should be motivated to treat the poor more humanely because God created them both (see also 3:27; 11:24; 28:27; 29:7).

29:15 Wisdom is not instinctive—it must be taught.

29:18 The wise accept divine guidance from God's law, the guide to his will.

29:19 In some instances, physical discipline might need to accompany instructions (see 13:24; 22:15; 23:13-14).

29:23 See 6:17-18; 11:2; 13:10; 15:33; 16:18-19; 18:12; 19:20; 22:4.

29:24 You are sworn to tell the truth: See Lev 5:1.

You are sworn to tell the truth, but you dare not testify.

²⁵ Fearing people is a dangerous trap, but trusting the LORD means safety.

²⁶ Many seek the ruler's favor, but justice comes from the LORD.

²⁷ The righteous despise the unjust; the wicked despise the godly.

7. THE SAYINGS OF AGUR (30:1-33)

30 The sayings of Agur son of Jakeh contain this message.

I am weary, O God;

I am weary and worn out, O God.

² I am too stupid to be human, and I lack common sense.

³ I have not mastered human wisdom, nor do I know the Holy One.

⁴ Who but God goes up to heaven and comes back down?

Who holds the wind in his fists?

Who wraps up the oceans in his cloak?

Who has created the whole wide world?

What is his name—and his son's name?

Tell me if you know!

⁵ Every word of God proves true.

He is a ^ashield to all who come to him for protection.

⁶ Do not add to his words, or he may rebuke you and expose you as a liar.

⁷ O God, I beg two favors from you; let me have them before I die.

⁸ First, help me never to tell a lie.

Second, give me neither poverty nor riches!

Give me just enough to satisfy my needs.

⁹ For if I grow rich, I may deny you and say, "Who is the LORD?"

And if I am too poor, I may steal and thus insult God's holy name.

¹⁰ Never slander a ^bworker to the employer, or the person will curse you, and you will pay for it.

¹¹ Some people curse their father and do not thank their mother.

¹² They are pure in their own eyes, but they are filthy and unwashed.

¹³ They look proudly around, casting disdainful glances.

¹⁴ They have teeth like swords and fangs like knives.

They devour the poor from the earth and the needy from among humanity.

¹⁵ The leech has two suckers that cry out, "More, more!"

There are three things that are never satisfied—

no, four that never say, "Enough!":

¹⁶ the grave, the barren womb, the thirsty desert, the blazing fire.

¹⁷ The eye that mocks a father and despises a mother's instructions will be plucked out by ravens of the valley and eaten by vultures.

¹⁸ There are three things that amaze me—no, four things that I don't understand:

29:25 Fearing people is a dangerous trap: See 1:7; Luke 12:4-5.

30:1a This superscription probably refers to the whole of ch 30. • son of Jakeh contain this message: Or son of Jakeh from Massa; or son of Jakeh, an oracle. Apart from this reference, Agur and Jakeh are unknown. If Massa was the home of Agur, then he was a non-Israelite (the tribe of Massa is known from Assyrian texts). See note on 31:1-9.

30:1b-3 Agur expresses his ignorance (cp. Ps 73:22, where the psalmist calls himself a senseless animal). The first step toward wisdom is acknowledging what we do not know. • I am weary, O God; I am weary and worn out, O God: The Hebrew can also be translated The man declares this to Ithiel, to Ithiel and to Ucal. A man named Ithiel is mentioned in Neh 11:7; Ucal is unknown.

30:4-6 In contrast to Agur's ignorance and powerlessness stands the strength and wisdom of God (cp. Ps 18:30). This is good news to Agur, who understands that God is a shield to all who come to him for protection.

30:7-9 Agur requests two favors from God: that God will help him not to lie (cp. 6:16-19; 14:5, 25; 25:18; 26:18-19) and that he not be given too much or too little. It is not sinful to be rich (3:9-10, 15-16; 10:15, 22) or poor (3:27; 11:24; 28:27; 29:7, 14), but Agur wisely wanted to avoid the pitfalls of both.

30:11-14 These verses summarize the character traits that wise people despise. Fools dishonor their parents (10:1; 20:20; Exod 20:12; Deut 5:16), deceive themselves (8:7), think they are pure when they are filthy (20:9), are proud (6:17-18; 11:2; 13:10; 15:33;

16:18; 18:12; 19:20; 29:23), wound others with their words (teeth like swords, see 25:18), and harm the poor (3:27; 11:24; 28:27; 29:7, 14).

30:15-16 two suckers that cry out, "More, more!" Literally two daughters who cry out, "Give, give!" • The number parallelism (three . . . no, four) is a device for presenting a list of poetic examples. This list shows powers that are insatiable and often dangerous. See also 30:18-19, 21-23, 29-31.

30:16 the grave (Hebrew Sheol): See 27:20 and note on 1:12. • barren womb: Women who are unable to have children might be restless and dissatisfied. • The thirsty desert and fire consume whatever is offered them.

30:17 People who are callous toward their parents will meet a violent end (see 10:1; 19:26; 28:24; 29:3; 30:11).

an overbearing fool who prospers,

26 Hyraxes—they aren’t powerful, but they make their homes among the

8. THE SAYINGS OF KING LEMUEL (31:1-9)

31 The sayings of King Lemuel contain this message, which his mother taught him.

2 O my son, O son of my womb,
O son of my vows,

3 do not waste your strength on women,
on those who ruin kings.

4 It is not for kings, O Lemuel, to guzzle
wine.

Rulers should not crave alcohol.

5 For if they drink, they may forget the law and not give justice to the oppressed.

6 Alcohol is for the dying,
and wine for those in bitter distress.

7 Let them drink to forget their poverty and remember their troubles no more.

8 Speak up for those who cannot speak for themselves;
ensure justice for those being crushed.

Pride versus Humility (29:23)

Prov 10:17; 11:2;

2 Chr 26:14-20
Matt 5:5; 11:29;

Luke 18:9-14
Rom 12:16
Eph 4:2
Phil 2:3
Jas 1:21; 3:13; 4:10
1 Pet 5:5-6

Wise people are humble, not proud. Humility is demonstrated when a person recognizes a mistake, listens to another’s correction (10:17; 12:1), and learns life’s lessons. It is hard for the proud to accept this discipline. Pride puts self first and does not allow the cracks and flaws to show in public. However, truly humble people acknowledge that others have something to teach them about life. To be truly wise, we must begin with fear of the Lord (1:7), which recognizes that we have everything to learn from God and nothing to teach him.

Learning from our own mistakes and observing the mistakes of others provides an avenue to wisdom and puts us on the road to life. Only a humility that acknowledges weaknesses and failings will allow this kind of instruction to work its benefits in our lives (see 11:2; 15:33; 16:18).

30:18-19 See note on 30:15-16. The writer stands amazed at how one thing moves on another.

30:20 The writer expresses horror at sex outside of marriage.

30:21-23 See note on 30:15-16. This proverb lists four injustices that make the earth tremble (cp. Rom 8:20-22).
• who prospers (literally who is full of bread): In the ancient Near East as in much of the non-industrialized world today, having adequate food (bread) was a sign of prosperity.

30:24-28 Another example of number parallelism (see note on 30:15-16). Here, small, insignificant animals are surprisingly powerful and resourceful.

30:26 Hyraxes: Or Coneys, or Rock badgers.

30:29-31 See note on 30:15-16.

31:1-9 of King Lemuel contain this message: Or of Lemuel, king of Massa; or of King Lemuel, an oracle. Lemuel, like Agur, might have been from Massa

(see note on 30:1a). Lemuel’s mother’s teaching encourages him to control his lusts (particularly for women and alcohol) so that he might reign justly.
• Apart from this passage, Lemuel is unknown.

31:2-3 The admonition not to waste energy on lust for women echoes earlier warnings (5:1-23; 6:20-35; 7:1-27).

31:4-7 Too much wine numbs the senses. A king needs his wits about him and should not overindulge in alcohol.

⁹ Yes, speak up for the poor and helpless, and see that they ^dget justice.

9. A VIRTUOUS AND CAPABLE WIFE (31:10-31)

¹⁰ Who can find a virtuous and capable wife?

She is more precious than rubies.

¹¹ Her husband can trust her,
and she will greatly enrich his life.

¹² She brings him good, not harm,
all the days of her life.

¹³ She finds wool and flax and busily spins it.

¹⁴ She is like a merchant's ship, bringing her food from afar.

¹⁵ She gets up before dawn to prepare breakfast for her household and plan the day's work for her servant girls.

¹⁶ She goes to inspect a field and buys it;
with her earnings she plants a vineyard.

¹⁷ She is energetic and strong,
a hard worker.

¹⁸ She makes sure her dealings are profitable;
her lamp burns late into the night.

¹⁹ Her hands are busy spinning thread, her fingers twisting fiber.

²⁰ She extends a helping hand to the poor and opens her arms to the needy.

²¹ She has no fear of winter for her household,
for everyone has warm clothes.

²² She makes her own bedspreads.
She dresses in fine linen and purple gowns.

²³ Her husband is well known at the city
gates,
where he sits with the other civic ^eleaders.

²⁴ She makes belted linen garments and sashes to sell to the merchants.

²⁵ She is clothed with strength and dignity,
and she laughs without fear of the future.

²⁶ When she speaks, her words are wise,
and she gives instructions with kindness.

²⁷ She carefully watches everything in her household
and suffers nothing from laziness.

²⁸ Her children stand and bless her.
Her husband praises her:

²⁹ "There are many virtuous and capable women in the world, but you surpass them all!"

³⁰ Charm is deceptive, and beauty does not last;
but a woman who fears the LORD will be greatly ^fpraised.

³¹ Reward her for all she has done.
Let her deeds publicly declare her praise.

31:10-31 Proverbs ends with a powerful poem celebrating the virtuous wife. This section comprises a Hebrew acrostic poem; each verse begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. This arrangement gives an impression of completeness and provides the student with an aid for learning.

31:10-12 No one can find a virtuous and capable wife without God's help (18:22). Such a woman, like wisdom, is more precious than rubies (cp. 3:15).

31:13-15 This wife works to provide food and clothing for her family.

31:16-18 An excellent wife is engaged in commercial enterprises outside her home.

31:19-21 A virtuous wife is generous to the poor, another characteristic of wise people (11:24-26; 21:13; 22:9, 16, 22-23; 28:27).

31:21 warm: As in Greek and Latin versions; Hebrew reads scarlet.

31:22-24 A capable wife's industriousness enables her husband to distinguish himself among community leaders. In ancient Israel, civic leaders met at the city gates to conduct trials and make decisions.

31:25-27 The noble wife's character exemplifies wisdom. She is cool headed as she faces future uncertainties. She gives advice in a winsome way.

31:28-29 Those most important to the woman testify to her character, abilities, and achievements.

31:30-31 The book concludes where it began, by affirming the ultimate importance of the fear of the LORD (see 1:7). A woman's character is more important than her physical beauty.

THE BOOK OF

Ecclesiastes

Ecclesiastes challenges us to think deeply about very basic questions. Life and all it contains appears to be a meaningless vapor, here today and gone tomorrow. Even so, life need not be without purpose. Ecclesiastes recommends wisdom, righteous living, finding purpose in remembering our Creator, and keeping God's commands. Then we can experience joy in the life God has given us.

SETTING

When Israel was in its golden years of peace after David had established his empire, Solomon devoted time and energy to enhancing culture. Rather than expanding or simply defending Israel's borders, he advanced his nation culturally with material prosperity and profound literature. In 1 Kings, we learn of Solomon's great accomplishments in international commerce and diplomacy, agriculture, and the building of cities, fortresses, and the Temple.

Rather than warring against and alienating other nations, Solomon engaged them and their literature and incorporated their modes of cultural expression into Israel's relationship with the Lord God. Solomon's failures are well known, but he accomplished a great deal with his God-given wisdom. Eventually, after his kingdom was split in two, the prophets came in waves to inform the people of the basic legal requirements of successfully managing God's holy nation. During his reign, Solomon fulfilled these legal duties, and he embellished them with his instructions on managing life wisely.

SUMMARY

The book of Ecclesiastes is a discourse or set of discourses exploring the value of life and all it contains and what people should do. The collection is bound by the editor's very brief prologue (1:1) and his epilogue and conclusion (12:9-14). Within this framework are the words of "the Teacher" (Hebrew Qoheleth, which is how most commentators refer to him). This book explores a wide range of topics, such as time, work, wisdom, pleasure, and injustice, and repeatedly returns to the theme of the book: Life and all it contains are hebel (see "Hebel, 'Vapor'" at 1:2, p. 1073). Ecclesiastes also discusses how humans should deal with these circumstances in a world that is under God's sovereign rule. This aspect of the book's message is summed up by the editor at the close of the book: "Here now is my final conclusion: Fear God and obey his commands, for this is everyone's duty. God will judge us for everything we do, including every secret thing, whether good or bad" (12:13-14).

AUTHOR AND RECIPIENTS

In the book of Ecclesiastes, the main speaker is Solomon (see 1:1, 12, 16; 2:7, 9), whose speech is framed within the opening and closing comments of the editor who recorded it (1:1; 12:9-14). This editor speaks highly of Solomon as the wise Teacher and adds a bit of his own helpful advice.

It is only when one loves life and the world so much that without them everything would be gone, that one can believe in the resurrection and the new world.

Dietrich Bonhoeffer
Letters and Papers from Prison, p. 157

The book's speaker is introduced as the king of Israel and as "the Teacher" (Hebrew Qoheleth, literally [the one who] gathers an assembly or congregation). This idea is expressed in the Greek title of the book, Ecclesiastes (from Greek ekklēsia, "assembly, congregation"). David and Solomon addressed an assembly of their royal court or tribal representatives at various times (see 1 Chr 28:1–29:20; 2 Chr 5:2–7:7). We are also told that many kings and their ambassadors came to hear Solomon speak because of his wisdom (1 Kgs 4:24; 10:23). Perhaps the content of Ecclesiastes was delivered publicly on one or more of these occasions.

ECCLESIASTES AS WISDOM LITERATURE

Ecclesiastes is one of the OT wisdom books, along with Proverbs and Job. Wisdom literature emphasizes the role of the individual in pleasing God beyond the requirements of the law. The instructions in these books identify ways for God's people to be successful as individuals, and in so doing to enhance the general success of Israelite society. The Teacher in Ecclesiastes speaks of wisdom as a general understanding of how God and the world work, learned through lifelong investigation. The conclusions to his research are the subject of his lecture.

MEANING AND MESSAGE

In this discourse, the Teacher addresses the broadest and most significant question of life: Is anything ultimately meaningful? As a momentary shadow or a fleeting breath, how can our lives have meaning? The Teacher contextualizes this philosophical matter within the real world of government and everyday life through which administrators and ordinary citizens must navigate.

The Teacher's message is unified, and the editor summarizes its implications (12:13–14). Life and all it contains is fleeting and apparently fraught with futility. Everything in this world is temporary, and life's frustrations could lead to the conclusion that it is meaningless. What we do doesn't last, and we can't find meaning in the world itself. We will soon die and be forgotten, so we should remember how short our lives are and enjoy them while we can. These realities of a fallen world need not engender despair. We also live in a world that is ruled by God, and it has meaning and purpose in reference to him. We should keep his commands and live to please him because we will soon stand before him for judgment.

The wisdom of Ecclesiastes is in coping with and even thriving in this life despite its brevity and apparent futility. Although we cannot comprehend all of God's actions or the purpose of our lives, Ecclesiastes assures us that our sovereign God has a strong hand in all that happens, both positive and tragic. Those who trust God will take the apparent futility of life as an incentive to diligently and wisely achieve what they can while they are alive and to enjoy God's good gifts in the process.

Ecclesiastes . . . defends the life of faith in a generous God by pointing to the grimness of the alternative.

Everything Is Meaningless

^{2a}“Everything is ^ameaningless,” says the Teacher, “completely ^ameaningless!”

³What do people get for all their hard work under the sun? ⁴Generations come and generations go, but the earth never changes. ⁵The sun rises and the sun sets, then hurries around to rise again. ⁶The wind blows south, and then turns north. Around and around it goes, blowing in circles. ⁷Rivers run into the sea, but the sea is never full. Then the water returns again to the rivers and flows out again to the sea. ⁸Everything is wearisome beyond description. No matter how much we see, we are never satisfied. No matter how much we hear, we are not content.

⁹History merely repeats itself. It has all been done before. Nothing under the sun is truly new. ¹⁰Sometimes people say, “Here is something new!” But actually it is old; nothing is ever truly new. ¹¹We don't remember what happened in the past, and in future generations, no one will remember what we are doing now.

The Teacher Speaks: The Futility of Wisdom

¹²I, the Teacher, was king of Israel, and I lived in Jerusalem. ¹³I devoted myself to search for understanding and to explore by wisdom everything being done under heaven. I soon discovered that God has dealt a tragic existence to the human race. ¹⁴I observed everything going on under the sun, and really, it is all ^bmeaningless—like chasing the wind.

¹⁵What is wrong cannot be made right.

What is missing cannot be recovered.

¹⁶I said to myself, “Look, I am ^cwiser than any of the kings who ruled in Jerusalem before me. I have greater ^cwisdom and knowledge than any of them.” ¹⁷So I set out to learn everything from wisdom to madness and folly. But I learned firsthand that pursuing all this is like chasing the wind.

¹⁸The greater my wisdom, the greater my grief.

To increase knowledge only increases sorrow.

The Futility of Pleasure

2 I said to myself, “Come on, let's try pleasure. Let's look for the ‘good things’ in life.” But I found that this, too, was ^dmeaningless. ²So I said, “Laughter is silly. What good does it do to seek pleasure?” ³After much thought, I decided to cheer myself with wine. And while still seeking wisdom, I clutched at foolishness. In this way, I tried to experience the only happiness most people find during their brief life in this world.

⁴I also tried to find meaning by building huge homes for myself and by planting beautiful vineyards. ⁵I made gardens and parks,

1:1 the Teacher: Hebrew Qoheleth; this term is rendered “the Teacher” throughout this book (see also 1:2, 12; 7:27; 12:8-10). Ecclesiastes never uses the Teacher's name, but King David's son probably refers to Solomon (see also 1:12, 16; 2:4-9).

1:2-11 The Teacher begins by observing that each natural and historical activity is accentuated by its circular repetitive rhythm of coming and going, being and not being. This can lead to the despairing cry that everything is meaningless. The Teacher moves rapidly from subject to subject and finishes this section with the topic he started with, using a literary pattern that mirrors the circularity he describes in nature and in human history.

1:2 Everything is meaningless . . . completely meaningless (literally vapor of vapors, everything is vapor): Wherever “meaningless” occurs in this book, the Hebrew word hebel (“breath, vapor”) is behind it. The Teacher's conclusion is that everything is a transitory and meaningless vapor.

1:3 The Hebrew idiom under the sun is used twenty-nine times in Ecclesiastes. The NLT sometimes renders it with expressions such as “here on earth” (2:18) or “in this world” (2:20). It suggests a view of life that is earthbound rather than reflecting God's perspective.

1:4 Generations come and go, and individual lives seem to pass away without significance.

1:7-8 the sea is never full . . . we are never satisfied: This image introduces the unfulfilling nature of life.

1:11 no one will remember: We cannot count on anyone remembering anything that we think we have achieved.

1:12–2:26 The Teacher explores the relationships among wisdom, work, and pleasure.

1:13 God has dealt a tragic existence: The grim realities of human experience remind us of the Fall in Eden (Gen 3). Ecclesiastes does not dodge depressing descriptions of death, oppression, and loneliness; it meets them head-on and incorporates them into realistic conclusions.

1:14 like chasing the wind: Just as the wind quickly comes and goes, so does life.

2:1-11 The Teacher dismisses the pursuit of pleasure for its own sake as hollow. Even great achievements are a vapor.

2:1-2 Seeking pleasure for its own sake only ends in silly . . . laughter.

2:3 The Teacher understood that trying to cheer himself with wine was foolishness, but he did it while still seeking wisdom—i.e., during his attempt to understand how to experience . . . happiness. This proved to be empty (2:11). • brief life in this world: The totality of human experience is “a breath.”

2:4-8 Solomon's building achievements were as small as porches and gates and as large as entire cities (see 1 Kgs 9:15-19). These projects, meant primarily for his own pleasure, included the palace and its accompanying buildings (see 1 Kgs 7:1-12).

2:4 Solomon's vineyards are mentioned in Song 8:11-12.

Ps 63:9; 78:33;
94:11; 144:4
Prov 21:6

The key word in Ecclesiastes is the Hebrew word hebel ("vapor," translated "meaningless" in 1:2). This word expresses the core of the Teacher's judgment concerning life in this world.

At root, hebel means physical "breath" or "vapor." Hebel is used 78 times in the OT, but in only three instances is the physical meaning clearly intended (see Ps 63:9; Prov 21:6; Isa 57:13). In the other 75 instances, the word is used metaphorically to describe what is incomprehensible, futile, meaningless, false, or insubstantial. The term is often used to describe the insubstantiality, unreality, and worthlessness of false gods (Deut 32:21; 2 Kgs 17:15; Isa 30:7). In this sense, hebel is the opposite of "glory"—the substantial, weighty, and lasting presence of God (see "The Glory of God" at Exod 24:15-17, p. 167). Sometimes the word hebel stands for the way life is fleeting and momentary, like vapor (Job 7:16; Ps 144:4). In other cases, it refers to the meaninglessness and frustration of life (Ps 78:33; 94:11; Isa 49:4).

There is a long tradition of understanding hebel in Ecclesiastes as meaning "vanity," not in the sense of thinking too highly of one's self, but in the sense of experiencing life as futile and without purpose or meaning. The ancient Greek translation of the OT used the word mataiotēs, which means "emptiness" or "futility." The Latin Vulgate then translated hebel with the Latin word vanitas, which means "purposelessness, pointlessness, hollowness, worthlessness." From the Vulgate comes the long-standing tradition of translating the word as "vanity" in English. Most translators today understand the word hebel in this sense: Life on earth has no apparent purpose or meaning, and all that we do is futile.

Some translators, however, understand hebel in Ecclesiastes to be referring primarily to the transitory impermanence of life. Vapor has no permanence or weight. This translation leads to a different understanding of Ecclesiastes: Life is not so much meaningless and futile as it is impermanent and fleeting. Many phrases in Ecclesiastes allude to the fleeting nature of human life and its efforts. In the NT, a similar thought can be found in James 4:13-15. The understanding of hebel as "impermanence" in Ecclesiastes has merit in explaining the book coherently; it is, however, a minority view among scholars.

The NLT translates hebel in Ecclesiastes as "meaningless" to summarize what the term means in this book. However, while reading Ecclesiastes, it is helpful to keep in mind the root of the word ("breath" or "vapor") that stands behind the metaphors and can help flesh out the concept.

The brevity, frustration, and apparent meaninglessness of life can be depressing. This discouragement should motivate us toward working more wisely and diligently and enjoying life while we can. We have all observed the apparent absurdity of life's tragedies, such as the success of a wicked fool or unchecked injustice. But these things come into proportion when we remember God's sovereignty, because "God will judge us for everything we do, including every secret thing, whether good or bad" (12:14).

2:7 Solomon's slaves, . . . large herds, and flocks were numerous, and caring for them consumed vast resources (1 Kgs 4:22-23; 9:20-21).

2:8 silver and gold . . . kings and provinces: Solomon ruled from the Fertile Crescent (north and east of Israel) to the border of Egypt in the south. His wealth in precious metals came from trade, gifts from admiring rulers of other nations, and taxes from lands he held within his empire (1 Kgs 4:21; 9:28; 10:14, 22-25; 1 Chr 29:4; 2 Chr 9:26-27). • many beautiful concubines: Solomon had 700 wives and 300 concubines by the end of his reign (1 Kgs 11:3).

2:9 I became greater: Cp. 1 Kgs 10:23. • Solomon's wisdom enabled his successful rise in power and prosperity (see 1 Kgs 3:2-14; 4:20-34).

2:10 I even found great pleasure in hard work: The Teacher introduces a significant, repetitive theme: Joy comes from wise and rigorous work (5:12, 18-20).

2:11 meaningless . . . nothing really worthwhile: Accomplishment only brings hopelessness and discouragement because the accomplishment itself has no lasting meaning (2:18-23).

chasing the wind. There was nothing really worthwhile anywhere.

The Wise and the Foolish

¹²So I decided to compare wisdom with foolishness and madness (for who can do this better than I, the king?). ¹³I thought, "Wisdom is better than foolishness, just as light is better than darkness. ¹⁴For the wise can see where they are going, but fools walk in the dark." Yet I saw that the wise and the foolish share the same fate. ¹⁵Both will die. So I said to myself, "Since I will end up the same as the fool, what's the value of all my wisdom? This is all so meaningless!" ¹⁶For the wise and the foolish both die. The wise will not be remembered any longer than the fool. In the days to come, both will be forgotten.

¹⁷So I came to hate life because everything done here under the sun is so troubling. Everything is meaningless—like chasing the wind.

The Futility of Work

¹⁸I came to hate all my hard work here on earth, for I must leave to others everything I have earned. ¹⁹And who can tell whether my successors will be wise or foolish? Yet they will control everything I have gained by my skill and hard work under the sun. How meaningless! ²⁰So I gave up in despair, questioning the value of all my hard work in this world.

²¹Some people work wisely with knowledge and skill, then must leave the fruit of their efforts to someone who hasn't worked for it. This, too, is meaningless, a great tragedy. ²²So what do people get in this life for all their hard work and anxiety? ²³Their days of labor are filled with pain and grief; even at night their minds cannot rest. It is all meaningless.

²⁴So I decided there is nothing better than to enjoy food and drink and to find satisfaction in work. Then I realized that these pleasures are from the hand of God. ²⁵For who can eat or enjoy anything apart from him? ²⁶God gives wisdom, knowledge, and joy to those who please him. But if a sinner becomes wealthy, God takes the wealth away and gives it to those who please him. This, too, is meaningless—like chasing the wind.

A Time for Everything

3 ¹For everything there is a season, a time for every activity under heaven.

² A time to be born and a time to die.

A time to plant and a time to harvest.

³ A time to kill and a time to heal.

A time to tear down and a time to build up.

⁴ A time to cry and a time to laugh.

A time to grieve and a time to dance.

⁵ A time to scatter stones and a time to gather stones.

A time to embrace and a time to turn away.

⁶ A time to search and a time to quit searching.

A time to keep and a time to throw away.

2:12-23 The Teacher now looks at the value of wisdom (2:12-17) and hard work (2:18-23). These, too, are "meaningless" (2:17).

2:12 who can do this better than I, the king? The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain. No one after the Teacher will have any better perspective for comparing wisdom and folly because nothing new will be done under the sun (1:9-10).

2:13-14 Wisdom is better than foolishness: Wisdom has value in navigating life successfully. It cannot, however, save one from the fate of death or provide meaning (2:15-16).

2:15-16 If both the wise and the foolish will die, what advantage is there in being wise? Since the lives of both wise and foolish people are fleeting, the conclusion is that all is meaningless. • both will be forgotten: Those who follow us will not remember us or our accomplishments, so our efforts will come to nothing (cp. 1:11; 9:13-16).

2:17-20 The Teacher came to hate life because of its griefs (1:18), toils (2:18), and apparent futility (2:19-20).

2:19 Foolish, destructive successors are more of a threat to wise accomplishments than wise successors, but since the Teacher couldn't tell what kind of successors he would have, his accomplishments were meaningless to him. Solomon's immediate successor—his son Rehoboam—turned out to be foolish (see 1 Kgs 12:1-20).

2:21 work wisely with knowledge and skill: Skill in work is an expression of wisdom (e.g., see Exod 31:1-5). • leave the fruit . . . to someone who hasn't worked for it: A person who has little personal investment tends to waste it or take foolish risks.

2:24-26 Though life "under the sun" (1:3) is like a vapor (2:23, "meaningless"), we should enjoy God's good gifts of food, work, and wisdom.

2:24 pleasures are from . . . God: No one should discount God's gifts, including the basic enjoyment of food and work. If God did not give them, they would not be available. We can be thankful and satisfied.

2:25 apart from him? As in Greek and Syriac versions; Hebrew reads apart from me?

2:26 If a sinner becomes wealthy, it is meaningless to him because God takes the wealth away.

3:1-8 For everything there is a season, a time for every activity under heaven: Wisdom recognizes that everything has its own season—in human activities as in the realm of nature (see 1:3-7). A wise person will determine the appropriate time to pursue any activity (8:5). The opportunity is fleeting (Eph 5:16; Col 4:5).

3:2-8 We have no control over when we are born or when we die (8:8), but it is our responsibility to live wisely between those events. • plant and . . . harvest: Wise agricultural decisions must be made in the natural seasons. • In ancient Israel, the times to kill

7 A time to tear and a time to mend.

A time to be quiet and a time to speak.

8 A time to love and a time to hate.

A time for war and a time for peace.

9 What do people really get for all their hard work? 10 I have seen the burden God has placed on us all. 11 Yet God has made everything beautiful for its own time. He has planted eternity in the human heart, but even so, people cannot see the whole scope of God's work from beginning to end. 12 So I concluded there is nothing better than to be happy and enjoy ourselves as long as we can. 13 And people should eat and drink and enjoy the fruits of their labor, for these are gifts from God.

14 And I know that whatever God does is final. Nothing can be added to it or taken from it. God's purpose is that people should fear him. 15 What is happening now has happened before, and what will happen in the future has happened before, because God makes the same things happen over and over again.

The Injustices of Life

16 I also noticed that under the sun there is evil in the courtroom. Yes, even the courts of law are corrupt! 17 I said to myself, "In due season God will judge everyone, both good and bad, for all their deeds."

18 I also thought about the human condition—how God proves to people that they are like animals. 19 For people and animals share the same fate—both breathe and both must die. So people have no real advantage over the animals. How meaningless! 20 Both go to the same place—they came from dust and they return to dust. 21 For who can prove that the human spirit goes up and the spirit of animals goes down into the earth? 22 So I saw that there is nothing better for people than to be happy in their work. That is our lot in life. And no one can bring us back to see what happens after we die.

4 Again, I observed all the oppression that takes place under the sun. I saw the tears of the oppressed, with no one to comfort them. The oppressors have great power, and their victims are helpless. 2 So I concluded that the dead are better off than the living. 3 But most fortunate of all are those who are not yet born. For they have not seen all the evil that is done under the sun.

4 Then I observed that most people are motivated to success because they envy their neighbors. But this, too, is meaningless—like chasing the wind.

5 "Fools fold their idle hands, leading them to ruin."

included capital punishment and war.
• In times of mourning, people in the Near East would often tear their clothes.
• There is a time to hate, even for God (Ps 5:5; 11:5).

3:9-14 Even though every activity has an appropriate occasion (3:1-8), only God can truly know what that occasion is (3:9-11). Mortals must be content with uncertainty and trust the sovereign God who gives enjoyment to those who work wisely and righteously.

3:9 get for . . . hard work? See 3:12-13.

3:10 the burden God has placed on us all: God intensified the severity of our labor following humankind's rebellion against him (Gen 3:17-19). This burden is not so great that we cannot enjoy our work and its fruits (3:11-13).

3:11 God has made everything beautiful for its own time: We can sometimes see this beauty in our work and in the world, but many times people cannot see: God reserves for himself the understanding of how everything fits together (cp. Rom 8:22-28). • God has planted eternity, an awareness of the infinite, within each of us—enough for us to be in awe of him who is infinite and eternal, and enough to hope for eternal life after death.

3:12-13 be happy and enjoy: Though life and work can be burdensome, the Teacher repeats his conclusion from 2:24.

3:14 Knowing that whatever God does is final is a reason to fear him—to trust and revere God and respect all that he does.

3:15 The same things happen over and over again: The repetitiveness of history (1:9-10) is part of God's sovereign plan.

3:16-5:7 This section comments on a variety of topics, including justice, humans and animals, oppression, moderation, companionship, politics, and worship.

3:16 courtroom (literally the place of justice): In Israel, local court proceedings were held at the city gates, where the city's elders sat to hear and adjudicate legal matters (e.g., see Ruth 4:1-12).

3:17 In due season God will judge: Human injustices (3:16) are temporary and will be righted by God's justice. The narrator repeats this point to close the entire book (12:14).

3:19 both breathe: Or both have the same spirit. • With respect to breathing and dying, people have no real advantage over the animals, but we have other advantages (e.g., see Gen 1:26-28).

3:20 from dust . . . to dust: The Teacher refers to God's judgment against human rebellion in Eden (see Gen 3:19).

3:21 the human spirit goes up: Cp. 12:7.

3:22 happy in their work: Work now stands alone as a source of enjoyment, apart from food and drink (cp. 2:24-25; 3:12-13).

4:1 all the oppression: Abuse is rampant at many levels in society—in family, religion, the workplace, government, and foreign powers.

4:2 Where oppression reigns, the dead are better off than the living. Those who have died are no longer mistreated.

4:4 Most people are motivated to success by a competitive drive. Since the fruits of these efforts have no intrinsic value, the Teacher recommends that moderation (4:5-6) replace envy.

4:5-6 Fools do not even try to succeed and end up impoverished. Others frantically devote two handfuls—all their time and effort—to hard work in pursuit of fleeting wealth that they will have no time to enjoy (cp. Prov 23:4-5). Wise people practice moderation and contentment (quietness).

⁶And yet,

“Better to have one handful with quietness than two handfuls with hard work and chasing the wind.”

The Advantages of Companionship

⁷I observed yet another example of something meaningless under the sun. ⁸This is the case of a man who is all alone, without a child or a brother, yet who works hard to gain as much wealth as he can. But then he asks himself, “Who am I working for? Why am I giving up so much pleasure now?” It is all so meaningless and depressing.

⁹Two people are better off than one, for they can help each other succeed. ¹⁰If one person falls, the other can reach out and help. But someone who falls alone is in real trouble. ¹¹Likewise, two people lying close together can keep each other warm. But how can one be warm alone? ¹²A person standing alone can be attacked and defeated, but two can stand back-to-back and conquer. Three are even better, for a triple-braided cord is not easily broken.

The Futility of Political Power

¹³It is better to be a poor but wise youth than an old and foolish king who refuses all advice. ¹⁴Such a youth could rise from poverty and succeed. He might even become king, though he has been in prison. ¹⁵But then everyone rushes to the side of yet another youth who replaces him. ¹⁶Endless crowds stand around him, but then another generation grows up and rejects him, too. So it is all meaningless—like chasing the wind.

Approaching God with Care

⁵As you enter the house of God, keep your ears open and your mouth shut. It is evil to make mindless offerings to God. ²Don't make rash promises, and don't be hasty in bringing matters before God. After all, God is in heaven, and you are here on earth. So let your words be few.

³Too much activity gives you restless dreams; too many words make you a fool.

⁴When you make a promise to God, don't delay in following through, for God takes no pleasure in fools. Keep all the promises you make to him. ⁵It is better to say nothing than to make a promise and not keep it. ⁶Don't let your mouth make you sin. And don't defend yourself by telling the Temple messenger that the promise you made was a mistake. That would make God angry, and he might wipe out everything you have achieved.

⁷Talk is cheap, like daydreams and other useless activities. Fear God instead.

The Futility of Wealth

⁸Don't be surprised if you see a poor person being oppressed by the powerful and if justice is being miscarried throughout the land. For every official is under orders from higher up, and matters of justice get lost in red tape and bureaucracy. ⁹Even the king milks the land for his own profit!

¹⁰Those who love money will never have enough. How meaningless to think that wealth brings true happiness! ¹¹The more you have, the more people come to help you spend it. So what good is wealth—except perhaps to watch it slip through your fingers!

5:2-20 Verses 5:2-20 are numbered 5:1-19 in the Hebrew text.

5:3 Too much activity . . . too many words: Moderation should characterize our efforts and words (cp. Prov 10:19).

5:4-5 Keep all the promises you make to him: This is virtually a direct quote from the law (Deut 23:21-23; see also Prov 12:22; 20:25). Vows to God were voluntary, but once they were made, it was obligatory to keep them.

5:7 Fear God: Reverence for God is the foundation for worthwhile words and useful activities (see 12:1; Prov 1:7).

5:8-9 The meaning of the Hebrew in verses 8 and 9 is uncertain. The NLT understands these verses to mean that bureaucracy brings oppression rather than justice, all the way up to the king (see also 1 Sam 8:11-18). This should not be surprising because that is how bureaucracies tend to function. Others interpret the verses to mean that the king and his officials provide oversight to restrain injustice and oppression. The former view is more in keeping with the realistic perspective of the Teacher. • For every official is under orders from higher up, and matters of justice get lost in red tape and bureaucracy. Even the king milks the land for his own profit! Or For one official watches over another, and higher officials are over them. The land benefits from a king who cultivates the field. This alternate translation suggests the second, more positive interpretation mentioned above.

5:10 Because we are created as spiritual and not just physical beings, possessions and wealth can never completely satisfy us.

¹²People who work hard sleep well, whether they eat little or much. But the rich seldom get a good night's sleep.

¹³There is another serious problem I have seen under the sun. Hoarding riches harms the saver. ¹⁴Money is put into risky investments that turn sour, and everything is lost. In the end, there is nothing left to pass on to one's children. ¹⁵We all come to the end of our lives as naked and empty-handed as on the day we were born. We can't take our riches with us.

¹⁶And this, too, is a very serious problem. People leave this world no better off than when they came. All their hard work is for nothing—like working for the wind. ¹⁷Throughout their lives, they live under a cloud—frustrated, discouraged, and angry.

6 There is another serious tragedy I have seen under the sun, and it weighs heavily on humanity. ²God gives some people great wealth and honor and everything they could ever want, but then he doesn't give them the chance to enjoy these things. They die, and someone else, even a stranger, ends up enjoying their wealth! This is "meaningless—a sickening tragedy."

³A man might have a hundred children and live to be very old. But if he finds no satisfaction in life and doesn't even get a decent burial, it would have been better for him to be born dead. ⁴His birth would have been meaningless, and he would have ended in darkness. He wouldn't even have had a name, ⁵and he would never have seen the sun or known of its existence. Yet he would have had more peace than in growing up to be an unhappy man. ⁶He might live a thousand years twice over but still not find contentment. And since he must die like everyone else—well, what's the use?

⁷All people spend their lives scratching for food, but they never seem to have enough. ⁸So are wise people really better off than fools? Do poor people gain anything by being wise and knowing how to act in front of others?

Enjoying God's Gifts (5:18-20)

Ecc 2:24-25; 3:12-13;

Phil 4:4

Col 2:20-22

Jas 1:2; 4:13-16

The conclusion of many of the Teacher's reflections is that we are responsible for enjoying life because it is God's gift (see 2:24-25; 3:12-13, 22; 4:6; 5:18; 6:9; 8:15; 9:7-9; 11:7-12). One tradition in Christianity states that "The chief end of man is to glorify God and enjoy him forever" (Westminster Shorter Catechism, Question 1). The NT similarly encourages us to be joyful in all things, including trials and challenges (Phil 4:4; Jas 1:2).

Although there are conditions in which it would seemingly be better not to be alive, life is meant to be enjoyed with laughing, dancing, love, and peace. It is especially worth living when old age and death challenge that joy (9:4, 9; 11:7-9; 12:1). We are to enjoy our food, drink, health, proper clothes, our loving spouse, children, daily work, and entertainment. Only when we treat the things of life and their enjoyment as ends in themselves are they deterrents to happiness. The Teacher speaks strongly against the pursuit of pleasure for its own sake as foolish and without profit (2:1, 2; 7:2, 4, 6; 10:16-19; see also Isa 22:13; 56:12; Luke 12:19-20).

It may be surprising to hear such joy in a book that acknowledges such intense tragedy and frustration. But it is exactly this balance of joy and sorrow that characterizes the wise person who reflects on all of life and understands its complexities in a fallen world.

formula for a peaceful, productive life. Pursuing wealth leads to unnecessary anxieties (5:3).

5:13-14 Hoarding riches . . . everything is lost: Possessions are transitory and can be lost for any number of reasons.

5:16-17 Working simply to gain possessions is like working for the wind; it leads to being frustrated, discouraged, and angry.

5:18-20 The prescription for enjoying life is repeated: We should enjoy our food, drink, and work and appreciate them as gifts from God.

6:1-2 This "unfortunate man" parable resembles 4:7-8 and 5:13-17. It is a sickening tragedy when someone succeeds but then cannot enjoy these things. Such a person has missed out on the only available benefit of success.

6:3-6 a hundred children and . . . be very old: Such honors as virility and old age amount to nothing if life is not enjoyable or does not end well (a decent burial). The darkness of being born dead is preferable to a discontented life.

6:7 People never seem to be satisfied with what they have, no matter how much it is (cp. 5:10).

6:8-9 are wise people really better off . . . being wise? Yes, as long as they enjoy and are content with what the Lord has provided.

⁹Enjoy what you have rather than desiring what you don't have. Just dreaming about nice things is meaningless—like chasing the wind.

The Future—Determined and Unknown

¹⁰Everything has already been decided. It was known long ago what each person would be. So there's no use arguing with God about your destiny.

¹¹The more words you speak, the less they mean. So what good are they?

¹²In the few days of our meaningless lives, who knows how our days can best be spent? Our lives are like a shadow. Who can tell what will happen on this earth after we are gone?

Wisdom for Life

7 ¹A good reputation is more valuable than costly perfume.
And the day you die is better than the day you are born.

² Better to spend your time at funerals than at parties.
After all, everyone dies—
so the living should take this to heart.

³ Sorrow is better than laughter, for sadness has a refining influence on us.

⁴ A wise person thinks a lot about death, while a fool thinks only about having a good time.

⁵ Better to be criticized by a wise person than to be praised by a fool.

⁶ A fool's laughter is quickly gone, like thorns crackling in a fire.
This also is ^ameaningless.

⁷ Extortion turns wise people into fools, and bribes corrupt the heart.

⁸ Finishing is better than starting.
Patience is better than pride.

⁹ Control your temper,
for anger labels you a fool.

¹⁰ Don't long for "the good old days."
This is not wise.

¹¹ Wisdom is even better when you have money.
Both are a benefit as you go through life.

¹² Wisdom and money can get you almost anything, but only wisdom can save your life.

¹³ Accept the way God does things, for who can straighten what he has made crooked?

¹⁴ Enjoy prosperity while you can, but when hard times strike, realize that both come from God.
Remember that nothing is certain in this life.

The Limits of Human Wisdom

¹⁵I have seen everything in this meaningless life, including the death of good young people and the long life of wicked people. ¹⁶So don't be too good or too wise! Why destroy yourself? ¹⁷On the other hand, don't be too wicked either. Don't be a fool! Why die before your time? ¹⁸Pay attention to these instructions, for anyone who fears God will avoid both extremes.

6:10–7:22 God's sovereign rule over everything is sobering, but it is ultimately a source of hope.

6:10 Everything has already been decided: Cp. Rom 8:29; Eph 1:5, 11. • It was known long ago what each person would be: Cp. Ps 139:15-16. • no use arguing with God about your destiny: Cp. Rom 9:20-24.

6:11 more words . . . the less they mean: Cp. Prov 10:19; 17:28.

6:12 who knows? Who can tell? These questions have already been answered. Our days can best be spent in wise living and in enjoying our work and God's gifts (2:13-14, 24; 3:22; 5:18). What will happen on this earth is what has already happened (1:9, 10; 3:15). • like a shadow: Cp. Ps 39:4-6; 90:3-6, 10-12; 109:23; 144:4.

7:1-4 These proverbs are similar to the sayings in the book of Proverbs.

7:1 The effort to pursue luxuries such as costly perfume is better spent seeking a good reputation for wisdom and righteousness (Prov 22:1; 28:6). • the day you die is better than the day you are born: There is a sense of relief when the troubles of life are over. The difficulties of life can make one look forward to the peace of death (1:18; 2:22; 4:2-3; 12:1).

7:2-6 Frivolous merry-making is foolish when wisdom demands sobriety about death (see also 2:12-13).

7:3-4 refining influence: Thinking soberly about death leads us to see the severity of God's curse on sin and convinces us of the need to enjoy life wisely (9:10).

7:5-6 Being praised by a fool and enjoying a fool's laughter are short-lived and worthless. Being criticized by a wise person can lead to real gain (Prov 17:10).

7:8 Finishing a project by exercising patience is better than starting a project with the pride of boastful words.

7:9 anger labels you a fool: Cp. Prov 14:29; 29:11; see "Anger" at Prov 14:29, p. 1047.

7:11-12 Wisdom and money are powerful means to bring us benefit. • but only wisdom can save your life: See 7:17; Prov 10:2; 11:4.

7:13 God's sovereign acts are irresistible; it is useless to counter or avoid his purposes.

7:14 Enjoying prosperity is beneficial, but such gifts are fleeting. The wise person accepts God's sovereign hand in everything (cp. Phil 4:11-13).

7:16 However hard we work, we could always do more, and we can destroy ourselves in the process.

7:17 don't be too wicked either: Wicked foolishness can lead to an early death (e.g., 1 Sam 25).

7:18 will avoid both extremes: Or will follow them both.

¹⁹One wise person is stronger than ten leading citizens of a town!

²⁰Not a single person on earth is always good and never sins.

²¹Don't eavesdrop on others—you may hear your servant curse you. ²²For you know how often you yourself have cursed others.

²³I have always tried my best to let wisdom guide my thoughts and actions. I said to myself, "I am determined to be wise." But it didn't work. ²⁴Wisdom is always distant and difficult to find. ²⁵I searched everywhere, determined to find wisdom and to understand the reason for things. I was determined to prove to myself that wickedness is stupid and that foolishness is madness.

²⁶I discovered that a seductive woman is a trap more bitter than death. Her passion is a snare, and her soft hands are chains. Those who are pleasing to God will escape her, but sinners will be caught in her snare.

²⁷"This is my conclusion," says the Teacher. "I discovered this after looking at the matter from every possible angle. ²⁸Though I have searched repeatedly, I have not found what I was looking for. Only one out of a thousand men is virtuous, but not one woman! ²⁹But I did find this: God created people to be virtuous, but they have each turned to follow their own downward path."

8 ¹How wonderful to be wise, to analyze and interpret things.
 Wisdom lights up a person's face, softening its harshness.

Obedience to the King

²Obey the king since you vowed to God that you would. ³Don't try to avoid doing your duty, and don't stand with those who plot evil, for the king can do whatever he wants. ⁴His command is backed by great power. No one can resist or question it. ⁵Those who obey him will not be punished. Those who are wise will find a time and a way to do what is right, ⁶for there is a time and a way for everything, even when a person is in trouble.

⁷Indeed, how can people avoid what they don't know is going to happen? ⁸None of us can hold back our spirit from departing. None of us has the power to prevent the day of our death. There is no escaping that obligation, that dark battle. And in the face of death, wickedness will certainly not rescue the wicked.

The Wicked and the Righteous

⁹I have thought deeply about all that goes on here under the sun, where people have the power to hurt each other. ¹⁰I have seen wicked people buried with honor. Yet they were the very ones who frequented the Temple and are now praised in the same city where they committed their crimes! This, too, is meaningless. ¹¹When a crime is not punished quickly, people feel it is safe to do wrong. ¹²But even though a person sins a hundred times and still lives a long time, I know that those who fear God will be better off. ¹³The wicked will not prosper, for they do not fear God. Their days will never grow long like the evening shadows.

¹⁴And this is not all that is meaningless in our world. In this life, good people are often treated as though they were wicked, and wicked people are often treated as though they were good. This is so meaningless!

¹⁵So I recommend having fun, because there is nothing better for people in this world than to eat, drink, and enjoy life. That

7:19 One wise person: E.g., see 9:14-15; 2 Sam 20:15-22.

7:20 Not a single person . . . always good and never sins: Cp. 1 Kgs 8:46; Prov 20:9; Rom 3:23.

7:22 It is right to forgive and be gracious toward others' indiscretions or slips of the tongue.

7:23-25 it didn't work: The Teacher was not able to find the wisdom that he sought or the reason for things. Such reasons are hidden in the mind of God (3:11; 8:17).

7:26 a seductive woman: Literally a woman; cp. Prov 5:1-23; 6:20-7:27.

7:28 The NLT adds the phrase is virtuous (based on 7:29) to give the sense of the verse. Virtue is extremely rare: In his own experience, the Teacher found only a few men, and no women, with that quality.

7:29 After much searching, the Teacher

did find that humanity's downward path from God's created order (Gen 1:27-28; 2:23-25; 3:1-19) was repeated by Adam and Eve's descendants (cp. Rom 3:10-18, 23).

8:1 softening its harshness: Anxiety, anger, sorrow, and frustration can harden one's face, but the enjoyment of life and wisdom will lighten it.

8:2 since you vowed to God that you would: Cp. 5:2-6; 1 Kgs 2:41-43.

8:3-4 Plotting against the king is futile because he has great power and can do whatever he wants.

8:6 there is a time . . . for everything: Those who are wise will be ready when an opportune time appears (see 3:1-8; Eph 5:16).

8:7-8 Since our strength, goodness, and wisdom cannot forestall calamity, turning to wickedness would certainly be futile.

8:9-11 In this world, injustice often prevails. The apparent success of the wicked can be frustrating.

8:10 and are now praised: As in some Hebrew manuscripts and Greek version; many Hebrew manuscripts read and are forgotten.

8:12-13 Injustice is momentary and does not upset God's plans for justice (3:16-17; 12:14). In reality, wickedness does not pay.

8:15 The Teacher's conclusion is familiar (2:24-25; 3:12-13, 22; 5:18-20; 6:9). In spite of tragedies and hard labor, we can enjoy life and be happy. • In Hebrew, the word translated having fun means finding enjoyment in our daily activities, not pursuing pleasure or entertainment for its own sake.

way they will experience some happiness along with all the hard work God gives them under the sun.

¹⁶In my search for wisdom and in my observation of people's burdens here on earth, I discovered that there is ceaseless activity, day and night. ¹⁷I realized that no one can discover everything God is doing under the sun. Not even the wisest people discover everything, no matter what they claim.

Death Comes to All

9 This, too, I carefully explored: Even though the actions of godly and wise people are in God's hands, no one knows whether God will show them favor. ²The same destiny ultimately awaits everyone, whether righteous or wicked, good or bad, ceremonially clean or unclean, religious or irreligious. Good people receive the same treatment as sinners, and people who make promises to God are treated like people who don't.

³It seems so wrong that everyone under the sun suffers the same fate. Already twisted by evil, people choose their own mad course, for they have no hope. There is nothing ahead but death anyway. ⁴There is hope only for the living. As they say, "It's better to be a live dog than a dead lion!"

⁵The living at least know they will die, but the dead know nothing. They have no further reward, nor are they remembered. ⁶Whatever they did in their lifetime—loving, hating, envying—is all long gone. They no longer play a part in anything here on earth. ⁷So go ahead. Eat your food with joy, and drink your wine with a happy heart, for God approves of this! ⁸Wear fine clothes, with a splash of cologne!

⁹Live happily with the woman you love through all the ^ameaningless days of life that God has given you under the sun. The wife God gives you is your reward for all your earthly toil. ¹⁰Whatever you do, do well. For when you go to the grave, there will be no work or planning or knowledge or wisdom.

¹¹I have observed something else under the sun. The fastest runner doesn't always win the race, and the strongest warrior doesn't always win the battle. The wise sometimes go hungry, and the skillful are not necessarily wealthy. And those who are educated don't always lead successful lives. It is all decided by chance, by being in the right place at the right time.

¹²People can never predict when hard times might come. Like fish in a net or birds in a trap, people are caught by sudden tragedy.

Thoughts on Wisdom and Folly

¹³Here is another bit of wisdom that has impressed me as I have watched the way our world works. ¹⁴There was a small town with only a few people, and a great king came with his army and besieged it. ¹⁵A poor, wise man knew how to save the town, and so it was rescued. But afterward no one thought to thank him. ¹⁶So even though wisdom is better than strength, those who are wise will be despised if they are poor. What they say will not be appreciated for long.

¹⁷ Better to hear the quiet words of a wise person than the shouts of a foolish king.

¹⁸ Better to have wisdom than weapons of war, but one sinner can destroy much that is good.

10 ¹ As dead flies cause even a bottle of perfume to stink, so a little foolishness spoils great wisdom and honor.

² A wise person chooses the right road; a fool takes the wrong one.

8:16–9:12 Another generalization from lifelong observation is that death appears to be meaningless. Why do some die and others live longer? God's sovereign decision in this matter is unpredictable (7:13-14).

8:16-17 A person could spend night and day looking for the answers to every question, but the reasons for everything will not be apparent. God's justice, for example, will always be mysterious.

9:1 No one knows whether God will show them favor: There is no guarantee that righteousness will be rewarded in this life (cp. 3:17-22; 8:10-15; 12:14).

9:2 The destiny all people share is death. • good or bad: As in Greek and Syriac versions and Latin Vulgate; Hebrew lacks or bad.

9:3 Already twisted by evil: People are inherently evil, so when punishments, including death, are delayed, people continue their own mad course, perhaps intensifying their sin and foolishness.

9:4-6 The hope for enjoyment is only as alive as the one who is hoping. In this sense, it is better to be alive (cp. 6:3; 7:1).

9:7-10 Though death is inevitable, enjoying life is beneficial.

9:10 to the grave: Hebrew to Sheol. In the OT, Sheol is the abode of the dead.

It is not necessarily associated with punishment.

9:11 decided by chance: We cannot control the outcome (cp. 7:13).

9:13-18 This poor man's particular wise action was effective. Wisdom is better than power, strength, or weapons (see 4:13; 7:9; 19; 10:4), yet the worthy are not always honored, and even the wise are forgotten (see 2:16; 4:16).

9:18–10:1 one sinner can destroy . . . a little foolishness spoils: Sin and foolishness can undo a lot of good in a very short time.

10:2-3 These two proverbs show the stupidity of fools. They choose wrongly.

The Ironies of Life

⁵ There is another evil I have seen under the sun. Kings and rulers make a grave mistake ⁶when they give great authority to foolish people and low positions to people of proven worth. ⁷I have even seen servants riding horseback like princes—and princes walking like servants!

⁸ When you dig a well,
you might fall in.
When you demolish an old wall,
you could be bitten by a snake.

⁹ When you work in a quarry, stones might fall and crush you.
When you chop wood,
there is danger with each stroke of your ax.

¹⁰ Using a dull ax requires great strength, so sharpen the blade.
That's the value of wisdom;
it helps you succeed.

¹¹ If a snake bites before you charm it, what's the use of being a snake charmer?

¹² Wise words bring approval, but fools are destroyed by their own words.

¹³ Fools base their thoughts on foolish assumptions,
so their conclusions will be wicked madness;
¹⁴ they chatter on and on.

No one really knows what is going to happen;
no one can predict the future.

¹⁵ Fools are so exhausted by a little work that they can't even find their way and everything they do shows that they are foolish.

10:4 A boss can be anyone in authority.

10:5-7 The unjust and destructive delegation of authority to those incapable of using it wisely is a grave mistake. Favoritism, nepotism, extortion, and bribery can place the most reckless fools in the most powerful positions.

10:7 servants riding . . . princes walking: Cp. Prov 19:10.

10:8-9 Every activity requires wisdom. Wisdom is evident in the safety precautions taken by those engaged in every profession, yet there is always a degree of risk.

10:10 wisdom . . . helps you succeed: In all occupations, there are tools that must be kept in good order to be most efficient. Simply sharpening the blade of a dull ax can be a significant act of wisdom for those whose livelihood depends on it.

10:11 One purpose of charming a snake is to keep it from biting, but a snake charmer risks being bitten before it is charmed. Some occupations are so hazardous that the wise do not engage in them at all.

10:12 Fools are destroyed by such things as foolish promises, getting caught in false testimony, and making the wrong people angry (see 5:6; Prov 17:20; 18:6-7; 19:5, 9).

10:14 they chatter on and on: Fools are always talking about nothing (see 5:3; 6:11; Prov 10:19; 17:28). • no one can predict the future: The wise will not waste time in foolish talking nor suffer its consequences (see Jas 4:13-16).

10:15-20 The audience for this speech might have been an assembly of government workers. How should one rule when power and wealth invite a lack of accountability?

10:15 Fools are so unaccustomed to work that when they actually try to work, they become exhausted.

10:16-17 A servant (or a child) lacks leadership skills. • feast at the proper time: Wise leaders take their leisure only after the work is finished, not in the morning before work has even started. Lazy leaders weaken a society or organization.

10:18 Delay in repairing a roof leads to drooping rafters and eventually to the ruin of the home (see Prov 12:27; 20:4). Corruption in government has a similar effect (10:15-16).

10:19 money gives everything: It is the way to get what you want or need in this world (cp. 7:11-12).

10:20 It is often a mystery how someone knows what we have said. The best way to control our reputation is to control our thoughts.

The Uncertainties of Life

11 ¹ Send your grain across the seas, and in time, profits will flow back to you.

² But divide your investments among many places, for you do not know what risks might lie ahead.

³ When clouds are heavy, the rains come down. Whether a tree falls north or south, it stays where it falls.

⁴ Farmers who wait for perfect weather never plant. If they watch every cloud, they never harvest.

⁵ Just as you cannot understand the path of the wind or the mystery of a tiny baby growing in its mother's womb, so you cannot understand the activity of God, who does all things.

⁶ Plant your seed in the morning and keep busy all afternoon, for you don't know if profit will come from one activity or another—or maybe both.

Advice for Young and Old

⁷ Light is sweet; how pleasant to see a new day dawning.

⁸ When people live to be very old, let them rejoice in every day of life. But let them also remember there will be many dark days. Everything still to come is meaningless.

⁹ Young people, it's wonderful to be young! Enjoy every minute of it. Do everything you want to do; take it all in. But remember that you must give an account to God for everything you do. ¹⁰ So refuse to worry, and keep your body healthy. But remember that youth, with a whole life before you, is meaningless.

12 Don't let the excitement of youth cause you to forget your Creator. Honor him in your youth before you grow old and say, "Life is not pleasant anymore." ² Remember him before the light of the sun, moon, and stars is dim to your old eyes, and rain clouds continually darken your sky. ³ Remember him before your legs—the guards of your house—start to tremble; and before your shoulders—the strong men—stoop. Remember him before your teeth—your few remaining servants—stop grinding; and before your eyes—the women looking through the windows—see dimly.

⁶ Yes, remember your Creator now while you are young, before the silver cord of life snaps and the golden bowl is broken. Don't wait until the water jar is smashed at the spring and the pulley is broken at the well. ⁷ For then the dust will return to the earth, and the spirit will return to God who gave it.

11:1-6 All profitable activity involves risk. We must act as wisely as we can and trust God for the result.

11:1-2 We should invest rather than hoard our resources, even if we cannot control the results.

11:1 Send your grain . . . profits will flow back to you: Or Give generously, / for your gifts will return to you later. Hebrew reads Throw your bread on the waters, / for after many days you will find it again.

11:2 among many places: Literally among seven or even eight. The Hebrew idiom implies a large number.

11:3 clouds . . . rains: Sometimes we can be reasonably certain of what will happen. • a tree . . . stays where it falls: Our actions sometimes yield irrevocable consequences.

11:5 Just as . . . mother's womb: Some manuscripts read just as you cannot understand how breath comes to a tiny baby in its mother's womb. • The activity of God is often unpredictable and mysterious. Our job is to work when we have the opportunity to do so (see Prov 12:11; 24:27).

11:9 Young people (literally Young man) are encouraged to enjoy their youth to the fullest. They should also remember that they will give an account to God and should therefore avoid foolish behavior.

11:10 Youth, like life itself, is beneficial and enjoyable but ultimately meaningless, a fleeting vapor that passes away without apparent significance or lasting purpose.

12:1-7 This beautiful prose poem, which uses many metaphors in Hebrew, describes the torturous deterioration of aging (in continuation of 11:7-10).

12:1-2 Don't . . . forget your Creator: Reverence for God can give wisdom (Prov 1:7) and guidance as to what will be beneficial in this life and pleasing to God at the judgment (12:13-14). It is better to remember God when young, when wisdom can make a real difference in life's results.

12:3 The NLT translates the Hebrew metaphors guards . . . strong men . . . servants . . . women and also provides an interpretation of these poetic elements (legs . . . shoulders . . . teeth . . . eyes).

12:5 The caperberry was well known in the ancient Near East as an aphrodisiac.

12:6 The silver cord and the golden bowl, like human life, are very valuable. • The body is like a common earthen jar that is fragile and soon broken (cp. Isa 29:16; Jer 19:1, 10-11; 22:28; 2 Cor 4:7).

12:7 the dust will return to the earth: See Gen 2:7; 3:19. • That the spirit will return to God who gave it hints at belief in an afterlife (cp. 3:21; see "The Afterlife" at Job 19:25-27, p. 877).

3. EPILOGUE AND CONCLUSION (12:9-14)

⁹Keep this in mind: The Teacher was considered wise, and he taught the people everything he knew. He listened carefully to many ^kproverbs, studying and classifying them. ¹⁰The Teacher sought to find just the right words to express truths clearly.

¹¹The words of the wise are like cattle

prods—painful but helpful. Their collected sayings are like a nail-studded stick with which a shepherd drives the sheep.

¹²But, my child, let me give you some further advice: Be careful, for writing books is endless, and much study wears you out.

¹³That's the whole story. Here now is my final conclusion: Fear God and obey his commands, for this is everyone's duty. ¹⁴God will judge us for everything we do, including every secret thing, whether good or bad.

12:8 This nearly verbatim repetition of 1:2 sums up the Teacher's conclusion.

12:9-14 This coda by the editor (see "Author and Recipients" in the Introduction) expresses the editor's respect for the Teacher, exhorts readers to apply his teaching, and gives the editor's own conclusion from studying the Teacher (12:13-14).

12:9 Even as king (1:1), the Teacher found time to study wisdom. He collected and arranged proverbs (see also 1 Kgs 4:29-34; Prov 1:1; 10:1; 25:1).

12:10 sought to find just the right words to express truths clearly: Or sought to write what was upright and true.

12:11 cattle prods . . . nail-studded stick: Painful lessons are sometimes required to direct us into paths that we would rather not take. • a shepherd (Or one Shepherd): This word is possibly an allusion to God as the shepherd of his people (Ps 23:1; Isa 40:11). The sentence might also just be comparing the words of the wise to the work that any shepherd does in taking care of his flock.

12:12 my child: Literally my son. • A moderate approach to writing and studying wisdom leaves enough time to apply it and enjoy its fruits.

12:13-14 The editor's conclusion from studying the Teacher's work is to fear God (see 3:14; 5:7; 7:18; 8:12-13), which includes the need to obey his commands, because everything we do will be judged (see 11:9; 2 Cor 5:10; Heb 9:27).

THE BOOK OF

Song of Songs

The Song of Songs is romantic poetry at its best. It portrays two passionate lovers who revel in the emotional and physical pleasures of human intimacy. The book was misunderstood in the past as being only an allegory of the relationship between God and the church, but is now accepted as celebrating the profound love between a man and a woman, providing a refreshingly realistic and wholesome treatment of human sexuality without being a how-to manual. The book never mentions God, but it bears witness that the Creator has graciously provided his human creatures with the good gifts of sexuality and intimate love.

SETTING

As a song of mutual human love, the Song of Songs is unique in the Bible. It is composed of the speeches of its characters, primarily an unnamed young man and an unnamed young woman. There is no narrator. Though the subject matter is not unique in the OT, the intense and exclusive focus on it certainly is. Other ancient Near Eastern literature, primarily Egyptian, has similar songs of admiration and intense desire in which the lover's physical attributes are extolled and direct invitations to enjoy them are given.

The Song of Songs is associated with Solomon, David's son and the third king of Israel (see "Authorship," below; see also 1:1). Solomon is also mentioned in a few of the poems, both negatively and positively. The motivation of the author was apparently to celebrate God's good gift of love and sexuality.

The Song of Songs is traditionally understood as having been written in Jerusalem by King Solomon (971–931 BC). Many of the places mentioned in the Song are shown.

TITLE

The Song is entitled “The Song of Songs” or “The Song of Solomon” because the opening phrase in the original language is literally “The Song of Songs of Solomon.” Sometimes it is called “Canticles” after its Latin title. The phrase “Song of Songs” means that we are about to study the song that is more wonderful than any other.

AUTHORSHIP

The superscription (first line of text) calls the work, literally, “The Song of Songs of Solomon.” Many take this to mean that Solomon wrote the book in its entirety.

One difficulty with viewing Solomon as the only author is that some of the Hebrew words appear to be foreign loanwords from Aramaic and Persian, which would presumably have come from a later era than that of Solomon, when the Aramaic and Persian cultures were more widespread. However, it is possible that these words were in use during Solomon’s era. Furthermore, Solomon was the first truly cosmopolitan king of Israel, so it is not surprising that he would use foreign loanwords.

Another problem with accepting Solomon as the sole author is that he was not a good example of godly love—it was precisely his love for many foreign women that led him away from the Lord (1 Kgs 11:1-13). In fact, the only positive reference to Solomon in the Song is in 3:6-11, while 8:11-12 presents him negatively and 1:5 is neutral. It is possible that Solomon did not compose the entire Song, but only part of it—especially if the Song is viewed as a poetic anthology. In this view, Solomon’s authorship of the Song might be similar to his authorship in the book of Proverbs and David’s authorship in the Psalms. On the other hand, Solomon might have written of himself in a self-deprecating tone.

INTERPRETING THE SONG

Serious study of the Song of Songs requires a humble, open spirit because of two very significant matters that are usually straightforward in other biblical books but are very obscure here: (1) It is difficult to find a story line in these eight chapters, and (2) if the Song is a story, it is not easy to identify the main characters and their relationships.

Early Interpretation (up to the 1800s). We have no written records of people’s understanding of the Song until AD 100, long after the book was written, and even then we have only brief statements. The earliest comments from this time, provided by Rabbi Aqiba, demonstrate Judaism’s ambivalence about the message of the Song. The rabbi famously stated: “Whoever sings the Song of Songs with a tremulous voice in a banquet hall and [so] treats it as a sort of ditty has no share in the world to come.” Some people clearly understood the Song’s imagery as sexual. Aqiba censured this interpretation of the Song, even damning those who held it. In his declaration that “the Song of Songs is the Holy of Holies,” Aqiba indicated his understanding of the book as an allegory. This view represents not worth the day on which the Song of Songs was given to Israel; for all the Writings are holy, but the Song of Songs is the Holy of Holies.*

Rabbi Aqiba, about AD 100

the predominant Jewish interpretation of the Song from Aqiba's time through the mid-1800s. The man and the woman are not seen as a real man and woman, but as representing God and Israel. As an example of this interpretation, the Aramaic Targum (interpretive paraphrase) of the Song presents it as the story of God's relationship with Israel from the Exodus to the future reign of the Messiah.

Early Christian interpreters, such as Origen (AD 185–253) and Jerome (AD 347–420) adopted the allegorical interpretation, but identified the man as Jesus Christ and the woman as the individual Christian or the church as a whole. The details of the Song were also made to fit the allegory. For example, Cyril of Alexandria proposed that the sachet of myrrh lying between the woman's breasts (1:13) was a picture of Christ, who spans the OT and the NT.

For many centuries the synagogue and the church continued to accept this interpretation. In Jewish circles it sometimes took a philosophical or mystical turn, as in the work of Levi ben Gershom, a Jewish philosopher of the 1200s who was influenced by Aristotle. He believed that the man represented "active intelligence" and the woman "passive intelligence," and that their union as described in the Song signified mystical ecstasy.

Although details varied, the allegorical approach dominated interpretation until the 1800s. We find it in Catholic writers as well as in great Reformation statements by such interpreters as John Calvin, the Westminster Assembly, and John Wesley.

Recent Interpretations (1800s to the Present). In the 1800s the allegorical interpretation began to lose followers. It became increasingly clear that the only reason to deny the Song's obvious references to sexuality was the deep-seated but unbiblical idea that physical love and spiritual life are polar opposites. This idea came more from Greek philosophy than from the Bible itself. The Bible text itself never suggests that the images of the Song were intended as anything but sensual and romantic.

The 1800s also recovered much from the ancient cultures of Egypt and Mesopotamia. Egypt produced love poetry similar to the Song that could only be understood as human love poetry. There was thus a decisive shift from allegorical interpretation to an understanding of the Song as love poetry. Today there is virtually universal agreement that the Song speaks God's wisdom into an important area of our lives as human beings: It affirms and celebrates God's good gift of love and sexuality in the context of marriage.

The Song as a Love Story. Many scholars understand these poems as a drama telling a story, either about two lovers or about a woman and two men. If only a couple is present, the characters are usually understood to be King Solomon and a young woman, and the entire poem is their conversation with each other. If it is a triangle, there is a second man whom the woman loves. In this case, Solomon is trying to force the woman to leave her true lover and enter his harem, but she remains faithful and true to her lover.

The main drawbacks of the dramatic perspective are: (1) There is no narrator to guide the reading of the story, and (2) there are many different possible stories, and every interpreter seems to see a different story.

The Song as a Two-Character Drama. Some interpreters understand the Song as a drama of King Solomon's love affair with a woman. According to this view, the entire poem is a conversation between Solomon and the woman he loves more than all of the other queens and concubines in his possession. The storyline could then be something like the following:¹

- Act One: The Lovers' Mutual Affection (1:2-2:7)
- Act Two: Mutual Seeking and Finding (2:8-3:5)
- Act Three: The Marriage (3:6-5:1)
- Act Four: Love Disdained but Won Again (5:2-6:9)
- Act Five: The Attractive Yet Humble Princess (6:10-8:4)
- Act Six: Love in the Woman's Native Home (8:5-14)

If there was a favored woman in Solomon's life, the Scriptures suggest that she was Pharaoh's daughter, whom he married very early (1 Kgs 3:1; 7:8; 9:24; 11:1), not the working woman from the king's flocks and vineyards who is pictured here. Furthermore, this song of true love is not very credible if the woman was one of the scores of Solomon's women who are clearly mentioned in 6:8. If this romance between Solomon and the woman was of such deep sincerity, why did Solomon add another 860 women to his harem afterwards?

The Song as a Three-Character Drama. Noting the difficulties with the two-character storyline, several recent scholars have become convinced that the Song actually describes a three-character drama. This would suggest a more complicated plot in which the woman actually loves a shepherd, not the king. The unfortunate woman finds herself in Solomon's harem as a concubine, probably because she is unable to pay a debt of one thousand pieces of silver, which she owes as caretaker of the king's vineyards (8:11-12). She is unable to pay because her angry brothers have forced her first to take care of vineyards other than her own (1:6). So even though she is in the very close and potentially intimate presence of the king in the city palace (1:12), her passionate thoughts are set intently on her love for a common shepherd in the countryside (1:7). This fervent affection drives her to escape with her true love into the country where they declare their mutual love to one another in marriage. Three separations of the couple are recounted in the song, proving that the agony of isolation from each other is just as intense as their ecstasy when together. After the woman escapes and lives with her shepherd husband, she is able to hire caretakers to harvest her crop and pay off the debt to Solomon. Now she and her beloved are forever free to continue living and loving together in the countryside (8:12-14).

From this perspective, the Song could be outlined as follows:

1. Superscription (1:1)
2. The Woman's Predicament with Solomon (1:2-14)
 - Her Desire to Be Rescued* (1:2-4)
 - Her Searching Heart* (1:5-11)
 - Her Choice: King or Shepherd?* (1:12-14)
3. Their Prenuptial Relationship (1:15-3:5)
 - Mutual Admiration* (1:15-2:7)
 - An Excursion in the Country* (2:8-15)
 - Separated and Searching Again* (2:16-3:5)

The Song as an Anthology of Love Poetry. Some scholars have concluded that approaching the Song as a drama would impose a story on the book that is not really there. These interpreters believe that the Song of Songs is an anthology of love poems that do not tell a story, but rather evoke a mood. The poems use imagery to express the poets' understanding of human sexuality. In this way, the Song is similar to the book of Psalms, except that all the poems have to do with love between a man and a woman.

From this perspective, the Song of Songs is composed of some twenty love poems that are bound together by consistency of characters, refrains, repeated images, and other poetic binding devices:

- Superscription* (1:1)
1. The Woman's Pursuit (1:2–4)
 2. Dark But Beautiful (1:5–6)
 3. An Invitation to a Tryst (1:7–11)
 4. Intimate Fragrances (1:12–14)
 5. Outdoor Love (1:15–17)

 18. Protecting the Sister (8:8–10)
 19. Who Owns the Vineyard? (8:11–12)
 20. Lingering Desire (8:13–14)

The main criticism of viewing the Song as merely a poetic anthology is that the Song exhibits a greater unity and development than is usual for such a collection. There is repetition and development of poetic themes, and there seems to be growth in the couple's relationship. Those who view the Song as a story or drama would argue that the anthology view fails to take this into account. Even if the Song is not a story per se, it certainly seems to have a structure and coherence that transcends the individual stanzas of poetry. However, those who view it as an anthology rather than a story generally do take into account the unity and development in the Song. They view the Song like a concerto or symphony in which themes repeat and build, without actually providing a narrative or plot.

Conclusion. All of the interpretive approaches have their challenges. The approach in these study notes is (1) to point out different elements in the book that might contribute to a storyline or to our understanding of its structure as an anthology, and (2) to discuss the possible meaning of individual scenes and images.

MARRIAGE IN THE SONG

The man and woman in the Song of Songs speak in the most romantic terms, describing sensuous longings and alluding to an intimate physical relationship. However, they are never explicitly described as married, leading some readers to suggest that the Song is an example of unmarried love in the Bible. Such a reading ignores obvious allusions to the true marriage relationship between the man and the woman. The language of some of the passages clearly indicates that the couple is married. For example, the man occasionally refers to the woman as his “bride” (e.g., 4:8-12).

Even more importantly, viewing the couple as unmarried though sexually intimate does not take into account the context of the Song in the whole of Scripture, including the law found in the Pentateuch. In the context of ancient Israel, it is impossible to believe that this couple is not married when engaged in such an intimate relationship. A study of the books of OT history (Gen 39), law (Exod 20:14), and other wisdom literature (Prov 5-7) makes it clear that sexual relations were only tolerated within the legal commitment of marriage. The couple, accordingly, should be understood as being married, at least in those passages where they are found in intimate embrace.

Though the Song itself does not address it, other passages of Scripture explain how marriage is a picture of God’s relationship with his people (see Jer 2:1-2; Hos 1-3; Eph 5:21-33; Rev 19:6-8).

MEANING AND MESSAGE

Many people have questioned whether the Song of Songs, with its overtly sensual imagery, belongs in Holy Scripture, but this poem is a wonderful celebration of one of God’s good and holy gifts. The Bible does not envision human beings as intangible souls temporarily encased in a body; rather, body and soul are two terms that emphasize different aspects of a single entity. The body is important, and sexuality is good and precious when enjoyed within marriage.

Human Intimacy. Intense love and the appropriateness of voicing that love in words of physical attraction and fulfillment is the central theme of the song. Yet it is clear that the lovers’ relationship is not only physical. They are friends and desire to be with each other for more than sexual reasons. Their total relationship includes their sensual enjoyment of each other.

God’s action of creating us as sexual beings was no accident or compromise. . . . It should not be considered obscene that at least one book of the Bible be dedicated to the celebration of one of the central realities of our creaturehood.

Sexual intimacy has always been a critical issue for individuals and for the community. Numerous biblical passages recount the beauty and dangers of sex, as well as the practical implications of its appropriate and inappropriate expressions. As human love poetry, the Song plays a crucial role in the Bible. Love and its physical expression are major aspects of the human experience, and God has spoken through the Song to encourage us and warn us about the power of sexuality in our lives. Here we have wonderful wisdom from God describing the beauty of a wholesome sexual relationship between a woman and a man. According to the Song, marital love should be mutual, exclusive, complete, and beautiful. The book encourages intimate, passionate love between a man and a woman who have committed themselves to each other.

1 This is Solomon's song of songs, more wonderful than any other.

 • Song 4:10

1:1 This verse is the source of the English title of the book. Formally, it is a superscription that functions as the title page of the book, providing the genre (song) and a connection with the probable author of some or all of the book (see Song of Songs Introduction, "Title," p. 1085). The NLT rightly understands song of songs as a Hebrew superlative, so this song is the highest, best, or most sublime, which probably means that it is more wonderful than any other of Solomon's 1,005 songs (see 1 Kgs 4:32).

1:2-14 The headings identifying the speakers are not in the original text, though the Hebrew usually gives clues by means of the gender of the person speaking. • The Song begins with the woman's expression of desire for intimate union with the man she loves. In the Song, the woman is frequently the one who initiates relationship. The members of the chorus (identified in the NLT as "Young Women of Jerusalem") affirm her choice of this man. • According to the three-character dramatic interpretation, the Song opens by explaining the woman's predicament. The king is about to take her into his palace, but her true passions lie with her shepherd lover. The woman hopes that her lover will rescue her from the king's presence (1:4).

1:2 Kiss me and kiss me again: The woman longs for the touch and taste of kisses from her true love. From the very start we find that the young woman and the man share a strong attraction. Their relationship is one of mutual respect and loving concern. • Love is a sensual experience in the Song. The taste of love is sweeter than wine, a rich and sensuous liquid; love, like wine, also leaves its partaker slightly light-headed.

1:3 The fragrance of the man's scented oils suggests sweet smells of love, indicating that the woman wants to get physically closer to him. • all the young women love you: The young man's allure is not only physical. He has an excellent reputation—the chorus of women expresses their respect and adoration for him in 1:4. By highlighting the attention he receives from other women, the woman makes it clear that her love is not blind, and that she feels fortunate to be the one whose love the man returns.

1:4 Take me with you: The two lovers are very active throughout the Song, traveling through the hills, to the city, and out to the country. This time the woman invites the man to take her away with him, and urgently expresses her desire (let's run!). According to the three-character dramatic view, they may be running to escape the king, who has brought the young woman into his palace. • The king has brought me into his bedroom (literally into his rooms): A common interpretation of this clause is that the woman is anticipating an intimate relationship with King Solomon. However, though a literal Hebrew translation indicates that she has been brought into Solomon's rooms, it does not specify which rooms she was taken into. Nor does the Hebrew imply that it was her personal desire. • The text changes here from the second person ("you") to the third person ("his"), which might indicate that two different men are involved—one being spoken to, the other being spoken about. In that case, it is possible that the woman desires to run because she does not want to be the king's concubine. • If the Song is a collection of love songs without a narrative thread, it is not problematic for the lover to be identified here as the king and later as a shepherd (e.g., 1:7): (1) The language may or may not be intended literally; (2) these titles, consistent with other ancient Middle Eastern love poetry, may reflect the woman's view of her lover at a particular time (e.g., by indicating that he is a king in her eyes); or (3) different poems may refer to different couples. • The woman frequently addresses the young women of Jerusalem (e.g., 2:7; 3:5). They are portrayed as close, trusted friends who are fond of the woman and responsive to her requests. She often confides in them about her lover, and they commend the couple from their outside perspective (e.g., 5:1, 9). • O king is not in the Hebrew; its addition reflects the view that the young man is the king rather than a shepherd.

Young Woman

How right they are to adore you.

⁵ I am dark but beautiful,
O women of Jerusalem—
dark as the tents of Kedar, dark as the curtains of Solomon's tents.

⁶ Don't stare at me because I am dark—the sun has darkened my skin.
My brothers were angry with me;
they forced me to care for their
vineyards,
so I couldn't care for myself—my own vineyard.

⁷ Tell me, my love, where are you leading your flock today?
Where will you rest your sheep at noon?
For why should I wander like a prostitute among your friends and their flocks?

Young Man

⁸ If you don't know, O most beautiful woman,
follow the trail of my flock, and graze your young goats by the shepherds' tents.

⁹ You are as exciting, my darling,
as a mare among Pharaoh's stallions.
¹⁰ How lovely are your cheeks;
your earrings set them afire!
How lovely is your neck,
enhanced by a string of jewels.
¹¹ We will make for you earrings of gold and beads of silver.

Young Woman

¹² The king is lying on his couch, enchanted by the fragrance of my perfume.
¹³ My lover is like a sachet of myrrh lying between my breasts.
¹⁴ He is like a bouquet of sweet henna blossoms
from the vineyards of En-ge-di.

Young Man

¹⁵ How beautiful you are, my darling, how beautiful!
Your eyes are like doves.

1:5-11 If the Song is a three-character drama and the shepherd is her lover, the couple was apart while she was in the king's palace, and in this passage she wants to be sure of where to find him when she leaves there. On two occasions, she is frantic about losing him again (3:1-4; 5:2-8). At other times, her concern is more subtle (2:14).

1:5-6 The woman's dark skin color has nothing to do with her race; her complexion has been darkened by the sun. Even so, she retains her self-respect and asserts her beauty. She is wholesome-looking from tending vineyards and goats (see also 1:8). • Solomon had caretakers of his fields, vineyards, herds, and flocks; the herders lived in dark goats'-hair tents.

1:6 my own vineyard: The NLT interprets vineyard as a metaphor for the woman's own body (cp. 2:15; 7:12). In ancient Near Eastern societies, brothers protected sisters from premature intimate relationships with men. The woman's protest reflects her belief that she is ready for love (see also 8:8-12, the only other mention of the brothers). • The dramatic view takes vineyard literally: The brothers' abuse had resulted in the woman's inability to take care of the vineyards for which she was personally responsible. She found herself in Solomon's harem because she had not been able to pay Solomon the money she owed him (8:11, 12).

1:7-8 leading your flock: In the dramatic view, the woman's lover and his friends are literal shepherds, not a line of work or the company that one would associate with King Solomon at any time in his life. • like a prostitute (literally like a veiled woman): Prostitutes wore veils to hide their identities (Gen 38:14-16). Since the woman has been claimed by Solomon as a concubine, she has reason to shroud herself and avoid being obvious. She wants to avoid having to ask everyone around her for the location of someone she loves (cp. 3:3; 5:6-7). She wants to find him privately during the resting period at noon so they can enjoy the time together.

1:8 The man's first words in this poem lovingly pacify the woman's anxiety by giving directions to where she should meet him. • The man desires to be with her and tells her to come under the guise of a goat-herd, following the trail of his flock.

1:9 The shepherd frequently calls the woman darling (literally companion) to show his respect for her as a partner and friend as well as a lover (1:15; 2:2, 10, 13; 4:1, 7; 5:2; 6:4). • In the ancient Near East, a charge of horsemen on stallions was sometimes diverted by letting loose a mare in heat. This so distracted the attacking horses that they broke the charge. Similarly, the woman's beauty drives other men to distraction.

1:10-11 The woman's beauty is enhanced by her jewelry. This beauty deserves to be even further ornamented, so the man says that even more jewelry will be provided for her (cp. Matt 13:12).

1:12-14 In the dramatic view, it appears that although the woman is physically in the king's palace (1:4, 12), her heart is with her shepherd lover (1:13-14). • In the anthology view, this is a short poem on intimate fragrances.

1:12 The meaning of the word translated couch is uncertain, and the word lying is not found in the Hebrew, so the king and the woman could be lying together on a couch or bed, or simply sitting at a table in one of the palace rooms. • The interpretation that sees the Song as a collection of love songs is not concerned with whether the man is literally a king (see note on 1:4).

1:13 Myrrh is extracted from the branches of a fragrant shrub that did not grow in Israel, but was imported from Arabia and India at extravagant cost. The sachet is a little packet of sweet-smelling myrrh. The woman's desire for intimacy is expressed by comparing her lover to the sachet lying between her breasts. • According to the three-character dramatic view, the woman is with the king in one of his palace rooms, but the fragrance of myrrh between her breasts fondly reminds her of her shepherd lover who is truly there, closer to her heart than the king.

1:14 The woman thirsts for the sincere love of her man the way a traveler would thirst for the water of En-ge-di, an oasis in the wilderness west of the Dead Sea. • Henna is an aromatic shrub from the region around En-ge-di; its blossoms were used for red hair dye.

1:15-2:7 The couple exchange adoring descriptions of each other that honor her incomparable beauty and praise his stalwart protection and provision for her.

1:15 The comparison of the woman's eyes with doves (see also 4:1; 5:12) is not clear. The metaphor may be commenting on their color or on a softness of expression.

⁸ Ah, I hear my lover coming!
He is leaping over the mountains,
bounding over the hills.
⁹ My lover is like a swift gazelle or a young stag.
Look, there he is behind the wall,
looking through the window,
peering into the room.
¹⁰ My lover said to me,
"Rise up, my darling!

1:16-17 grass is our bed . . . branches are the beams . . . firs are the rafters:

The lovers imagine that their luxurious surroundings of grass and overhanging trees are their house. She does not need the royal, palatial surroundings of a king since these God-created natural surroundings are more than enough for her and her true lover. • In a number of the poems the countryside is the place of happy intimacy. The man and the woman make their bed in the great outdoors and enjoy each other's company.

2:1-7 In this short poem, the man and the woman exchange compliments. Using metaphors of flowers and trees, they describe the nature of their loving relationship, emphasizing his role as protector and provider. • The poem ends (2:6) with the man and the woman in an intimate embrace.

2:1-2 I am the spring crocus blooming on the Sharon Plain: Traditionally rendered I am the rose of Sharon; Sharon Plain is a region in the coastal plain of Palestine. • the lily of the valley: The Hebrew shows the woman's modesty and humility, as she claims to be but one flower among many in Sharon and in the expansive valleys of Israel. • The man affirms her comparison to a lily, but says that her beauty is far from common; she is a lily among thistles. • my darling (literally my companion): They are in love, and they are also friends.

2:3 As she is the finest of small, beautiful flowers, he is like a larger and stronger apple tree. An apple tree is a sensuous image in the ancient Near East because of its delicious fruit and pleasant fragrance. In the intense heat of the Middle Eastern climate, a tree's shade is more than refreshing; it can be life-saving (cp. Jon 4:6; Matt 13:32).

2:4 He escorts me to the banquet hall: Dropping the image of the apple tree, the woman now speaks of the man as her provider at a feast. • it's obvious how much he loves me: Literally His banner over me is "Love." He likes to tell others how much he loves her.

2:5-6 The woman's love is intense, his love overwhelming. • If the Song is an anthology, the couple can be seen as married, and lovemaking is seen as so physically exhausting that she grows faint and calls for the sustenance of raisin cakes and apples. These foods were considered aphrodisiacs in the ancient Near East. • Strengthen me: She now depends on him to revive her with the fruit of the earlier image—he is the apple tree, so he can provide apples for her renewed strength. • His left arm is under my head: He tenderly supports her with his embrace as they lie together (see also 8:3).

2:7 Promise me . . . by the gazelles and wild deer: This plea is obviously important to the Song; it is repeated in

3:5 and 8:4, and a promise is requested. When a promise was made, witnesses were needed, and the wild animals were the only witnesses present. These graceful animals suggest a romantic pastoral setting. • not to awaken love until the time is right: Or not to awaken love until it is ready. As in 8:8-9, virginity is praised. The woman warns the women of Jerusalem to be cautious and not to hurry love.

2:8-17 In this poem, the woman anticipates the arrival of her lover. She describes the passing of winter and the coming of spring, a time of floral fragrance and new beginnings. She and her lover are in their country garden, a place of intimacy, though even here there is a hint of threat (2:15).

2:8-10 The man ardently desires to be in the woman's presence. He finally arrives at his lover's home and takes her into the romantic countryside during the new, budding spring. • The woman compares the man to a gazelle, a fast, sleek animal that easily overcomes obstacles to reach its destination.

2:10-13 In the Middle East, winter is the rainy season of clouds, gloom, and cold. When winter is past, and the rains are over and gone, the stimulating and invigorating sights, sounds, and smells of spring energize romantic feelings. • the season of singing birds: Or the season of pruning vines.

So I searched everywhere but did not find him.

³ The watchmen stopped me as they made and I asked, "Have you seen the one

I caught and held him tightly, then I brought him to my mother's

Young Women of Jerusalem

⁶ Who is this sweeping in from the wilderness
like a cloud of smoke?
Who is it, fragrant with myrrh and

and every kind of spice?

2:14 In the dramatic view, the couple is playing a game of hide-and-seek in which she is teasing him; he resorts to simply pleading for her to appear, for even playful separation from her is too frustrating for him. • The rocks are a metaphor for separation that the man wants to overcome to be with her.

2:15 The foxes may represent threats to the relationship. These threats are not identified; they could be the normal ups and downs of love, rival suitors, or anything else that might keep the couple from enjoying one another. • In the dramatic view, the woman's responsibilities as a vinedresser are still in mind. She is probably instructing the vinedressers who cared for her vineyard and received two hundred pieces of silver from her in 8:12. The alarm about catching the foxes may be understood in terms of the woman's personal interest in maintaining the value of her vineyards; eventually, she needs to pay Solomon the lease. If the foxes' hole-digging ruins the grapevines, she will be further in debt.

2:16-3:5 In the dramatic view, the woman has already been separated from her lover and is horrified by the notion that she will not see him soon. One night, her worries drive her from bed to search frantically for him; she finds him and takes him to see her mother.

2:16-17 He browses . . . like a gazelle: The woman has so identified her lover with the strength and speed of a gazelle that she portrays his delay as grazing in the country. • Alternatively, the lover, in the guise of a gazelle, grazes among the lilies that possibly represent the woman, suggesting the intimate association of the couple. The woman is often likened to a garden (see also 4:12; 15-16; 5:1; 6:2). • return to me: Her longing to see him in the evening is intensifying by the hour. • on the rugged mountains: Or on the hills of Bethel.

3:2 The poem is partly about a lover's being willing and able to overcome all obstacles in order to be with the beloved. • Since the women of Jerusalem are mentioned frequently (3:5), the city is probably Jerusalem. Searching in all its streets and squares was an ambitious effort. • The king of Israel would probably not be outside in the city at night, and if he had his sixty-man entourage with him (3:7-8), she would find him easily. Rather, the woman appears to be looking for a common man in common places.

3:3 The watchmen of ancient towns or cities were roughly equivalent to police. Guardians of social custom and law, they were posted on the city walls to look out for attack and to assure that any traffic in or out of the city was not threatening. • The woman may have been stopped because she was not a resident of the city and was not recognized. It was not considered appropriate for a woman to be out alone at night. The scene accentuates the strong desire that the woman must have felt toward the man as she ignored social conventions and safety considerations.

3:5 not to awaken love until the time is right: Or not to awaken love until it is ready. See note on 2:7.

3:6-11 According to the three-character dramatic interpretation, Solomon's humility and generosity show in his attending this wedding of a woman who preferred a common shepherd's love over his. With Solomon in attendance, this ordinary wedding becomes a magnificent ceremony. • If the Song is an anthology, this poem describes what appears to be Solomon's wedding procession. People are amazed by the opulence of his carriage and the power represented by his entourage. All of this reflects on the significance of marriage in the same way that expensive and beautiful wedding dresses and tuxedos do in modern marriages.

- ⁷ Look, it is Solomon's carriage, surrounded by sixty heroic men,
the best of Israel's soldiers.
⁸ They are all skilled swordsmen, experienced warriors.
Each wears a sword on his thigh, ready to defend the king against an attack in the night.

3:9-10 The materials out of which King Solomon's carriage was made befit his wealth and power, including the same expensive Lebanese wood that was used in building the Temple (1 Kgs 5:5-6). • decorated with love by the young women of Jerusalem: Beyond all his splendor, Solomon was admired and served with love, even by his servants.

3:11 This is the only explicit mention of a wedding in the Song. The woman is called a "bride" in 4:8-12; 5:1. • Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion; see "Zion" at Isa 60:1-22, p. 1195.

4:1-5:1 The consummation of the marriage is now expressed. • This poem is the first "descriptive poem" in the book (see also 5:10-16; 6:4-6; 7:2-8). Scholars commonly refer to these poems by the Arabic term wasf ("description"); these poems are similar in form to songs sung at modern Arabic weddings. These sensuous poems are preludes to sexual intimacy. In their descriptions of physical beauty, they often move—as this one does—from the head downward.

4:1 my darling (see note on 1:9): The man is about to consummate his love with the one who is his friend as well as lover (see also 4:7). • like a flock of goats winding down the slopes of Gilead: Middle Eastern goats are very dark, if not black. The woman's hair flows over and down her lighter veil.

4:2 Your smile is flawless, each tooth matched with its twin: Literally Not one is missing; each has a twin. Her teeth are matched on both sides, with none missing. In an age when dental care was not what it is today, a woman with all her teeth was quite a prize!

4:3 Pomegranates have a rosy appearance and are one of the most lush of Middle Eastern fruits.

4:4 A slender neck held high is a sign of confidence and dignity as well as beauty. The tower of David is not mentioned elsewhere in Scripture.

4:5 Your breasts are like two fawns . . . grazing among the lilies: The comparison can be seen in terms of physical softness, firmness, beauty, and roundness.

4:6 After mention of the breasts in the previous verse, the man's exclamation that he wants to hurry to the mountain of myrrh and hill of frankincense is easily understood as his desire to be intimately close to this beautiful woman.

4:8 Come down: Or Look down. • Mount Amana, Senir, and Hermon are the three northernmost peaks in Israel and the highest point on the border with Lebanon. They represent the height of the couple's ecstasy, from which they must at times descend.

4:9 my treasure (literally my sister; also in 4:10, 12): The man calls the woman his sister to emphasize their relationship as loving companions and his role as her protector (see note on 8:8). This sounds strange to modern ears, but it does not suggest an incestuous relationship. Ancient Near Eastern love poetry often uses the language of brother and sister to refer to two people in love.

4:10-11 wine . . . nectar . . . honey . . . milk: The woman is compared with much that is smooth, sweet, and sensuous. Her love and their kissing within 11 Your lips are as sweet as nectar, my bride.

Honey and milk are under your tongue.

Your clothes are scented like the cedars of Lebanon.

12 You are my private garden, my treasure,
my bride,
a secluded spring, a hidden
fountain.

13 Your thighs shelter a paradise of pomegranates with rare spices—
henna with nard,

14 nard and saffron,
fragrant calamus and cinnamon,
with all the trees of frankincense, myrrh,
and aloes,
and every other lovely spice.

15 You are a garden fountain, a well of fresh water streaming down from Lebanon's mountains.

Young Woman

16 Awake, north wind!
Rise up, south wind!
Blow on my garden
and spread its fragrance all around.
Come into your garden, my ^alove;
taste its finest fruits.

Young Man

5¹ I have entered my garden, my treasure, my bride!
I gather myrrh with my spices and eat honeycomb with my honey.

I drink wine with my milk.

Young Women of Jerusalem

Oh, lover and beloved, eat and drink!
Yes, drink deeply of your love!

Young Woman

2 I slept, but my heart was awake, when I heard my lover knocking and calling:

"Open to me, my treasure, my darling,
my dove, my perfect one.
My head is drenched with dew, my hair with the dampness of the
night."

3 But I responded,
"I have taken off my robe.
Should I get dressed again?
I have washed my feet.
Should I get them soiled?"

4 My lover tried to unlatch the door, and my heart thrilled within me.

5 I jumped up to open the door for my
love,
and my hands dripped with perfume.
My fingers dripped with lovely myrrh
as I pulled back the bolt.

6 I opened to my lover,
but he was gone!
My heart sank.
I searched for him
but could not find him anywhere.
I called to him,
but there was no reply.

the lavish fragrance around them is nearing the ultimate delight for this bridegroom.

4:12 private garden . . . secluded spring
. . . hidden fountain (literally locked garden . . . locked spring . . . sealed fountain): This affirmation of her purity and virginity accentuates his exclusive and privileged position (see Prov 5:15 for similar imagery). The images of spring and fountain evoke thoughts of the most intimate parts of a woman's body.

4:13-14 The man's description of his lover now focuses on the most exquisite place of delight between her thighs.

4:16 Come into your garden, my love;
taste its finest fruits: Finally, the woman invites the man to enter her and experience her now-unlocked body in all its sensual perfection. • The man had poetically affirmed the woman's chastity (4:12). However, she is totally and exclusively committed to him, so she reveals her treasures and invites him into the garden.

5:1 I have entered my garden . . .

myrrh with my spices . . . honeycomb with my honey . . . wine with my milk:
In penetrating the garden, the man finds that there is no limit to what he can enjoy. They are ecstatic over finally unlocking the vast enjoyment of intercourse. • my treasure: Literally my sister; also in 5:2. See note on 4:9. • drink deeply of your love: The young women of Jerusalem encourage the couple to enjoy their sexual union to the fullest; there can be no guilt or shame in the deepest pleasure between husband and wife.

5:2-6:3 One verse earlier, the couple are fully enjoying their intimate union.
Now the woman feels the torment of separation. In the dramatic interpretation, the woman has been separated from the man twice before and has searched for him (1:4-7; 3:1-4). This last time, the separation takes place in her dreams—it is only a nightmare. Her dream seems to extend to 6:3, given the natural flow of questions and answers between the woman and the young women of Jerusalem. • If the Song is an anthology, these poems explore love rather than giving accounts of actual events. This poem reminds us that an intimate relationship is not always easy or perfectly satisfying.

5:2 I slept, but my heart was awake:
This is an apt definition of a dream; she was physically asleep, but emotionally and psychologically awake. • my lover knocking . . . "Open to me": Opening doors is a metaphor for sexual activity in the ancient Near East (see also 8:9).
By describing the man as knocking at the door and requesting entry, the poem suggests that the man is requesting sexual union. He awaits permission;
he does not presume.

5:4-6 My lover tried to unlatch the door, and my heart thrilled: The man persists in his attempts to arouse the woman, and she eventually responds positively to his overtures. However, by the time she responds, he has given up or become otherwise occupied. This is a powerful poetic picture of the struggles of two lovers to be sexually intimate with each other.

⁷ The night watchmen found me as they made their rounds.
They beat and bruised me
and stripped off my veil, those watchmen on the walls.

⁸ Make this promise, O women of
Jerusalem—
If you find my lover,
tell him I am weak with love.

Young Women of Jerusalem

⁹ Why is your lover better than all others,
O woman of rare beauty?
What makes your lover so special that we must promise this?

Young Woman

¹⁰ My lover is dark and dazzling, better than ten thousand others!

¹¹ His head is finest gold,
his wavy hair is black as a raven.

¹² His eyes sparkle like doves beside springs of water;
they are set like jewels washed in milk.

¹³ His cheeks are like gardens of spices giving off fragrance.
His lips are like lilies,
perfumed with myrrh.

¹⁴ His arms are like rounded bars of gold, set with beryl.

His body is like bright ivory, glowing with lapis lazuli.

¹⁵ His legs are like marble pillars set in sockets of finest gold.

His posture is stately,
like the noble cedars of Lebanon.

¹⁶ His mouth is sweetness itself;
he is desirable in every way.
Such, O women of Jerusalem, is my lover, my friend.

Young Women of Jerusalem

6 ¹ Where has your lover gone,
O woman of rare beauty?
Which way did he turn so we can help you find him?

Young Woman

² My lover has gone down to his garden,
to his spice beds,
to browse in the gardens and gather the lilies.

³ I am my lover's, and my lover is mine.
He browses among the lilies.

Young Man

⁴ You are beautiful, my darling, like the lovely city of Tirzah.
Yes, as beautiful as Jerusalem, as majestic as an army with billowing
banners.

⁵ Turn your eyes away,
for they overpower me.
Your hair falls in waves, like a flock of goats winding down the slopes of Gilead.

⁶ Your teeth are as white as sheep that are freshly washed.

Your smile is flawless,
each tooth matched with its twin.

⁷ Your cheeks are like rosy pomegranates behind your veil.

Song 4:2-3

5:7 The night watchmen . . . beat and bruised me: The watchmen who were protectors in 3:3 now become demonized characters in her dream (5:2). What they do describes how she feels—pummeled and wounded. • stripped off my veil: She feels that she has lost her dignity.

5:8-9 The woman enlists the young women of Jerusalem to help her find her lover. They ask her to describe him, and this leads into the second descriptive poem (wasf) of the Song (see note on 4:1–5:1).

5:8 I am weak with love: The woman's trauma is an image for her love sickness (cp. 2:5).

5:10-16 This extended portrayal of the lover in the Song emphasizes his worth to the woman.

5:10 dark and dazzling: He is radiantly healthy and deeply tanned.

5:11-15 The woman describes the man as a statue made of gold, ivory, lapis lazuli, and marble pillars, suggesting that he is god-like in appearance, since statues of deities were composed of such precious metals in antiquity (Exod 32:1-4; 1 Kgs 12:28; Dan 2:32-33; 3:1).

5:12 For the description of eyes . . . like doves, see note on 1:15.

5:13 His cheeks are like gardens of spices because they were covered by the full beard that was worn by all men of that culture. This beard would have been perfumed.

5:14 The man's body is portrayed as beautiful and precious. • Beryl is an olive-green gem. • Lapis lazuli is a blue gem.

5:15 Lebanon was to the north of Israel and contained legendary cedar trees that were large, stately, and pleasantly fragrant.

5:16 The woman ends her description with an indication of her desire to kiss him.

6:1-3 The conversation that ends this poem indicates that it is not an actual event. The dream ends as the young women of Jerusalem ask the woman where her man has gone. The woman tells them not to concern themselves with finding him—he is back in bed with her, enjoying his garden with its spice beds and lilies, a description of sexual intimacy.

6:4-10 The man again describes the physical beauty of the woman. He repeats parts of the description from ch 4 almost verbatim, showing the same high regard for his wife.

6:4 Tirzah was a city-state as early as Joshua's time; it eventually became great enough to be the capital of the northern kingdom (Josh 12:24; 1 Kgs 15:33). The town's name means "pleasant." • Jerusalem was the capital of David's and Solomon's united kingdom and after that, the most important city of Judah.

6:6 Your smile is flawless, each tooth matched with its twin: Literally Not one is missing; each has a twin. See note on 4:2.

- 8 Even among sixty queens and eighty concubines and countless young women, 9 I would still choose my dove, my perfect one—
the favorite of her mother, dearly loved by the one who bore her.
The young women see her and praise her;
even queens and royal concubines
sing her praises:
10 "Who is this, arising like the dawn,
as fair as the moon,
as bright as the sun,
as majestic as an army with billowing
banners?"

Young Woman

- 11 I went down to the grove of walnut trees and out to the valley to see the new spring growth, to see whether the grapevines had budded
or the pomegranates were in bloom.
12 Before I realized it, my strong desires had taken me to the chariot of a noble man.

Young Women of Jerusalem

- 13 Return, return to us, O maid of Shulam.
Come back, come back, that we may see you again.

Young Man

Why do you stare at this young woman of Shulam,
as she moves so gracefully between two lines of dancers?

- 7¹ How beautiful are your sandaled feet,
O queenly maiden.
Your rounded thighs are like jewels,
the work of a skilled craftsman.
2 Your navel is perfectly formed like a goblet filled with mixed wine.
Between your thighs lies a mound of wheat
bordered with lilies.
3 Your breasts are like two fawns,
twin fawns of a gazelle.
4 Your neck is as beautiful as an ivory tower.
Your eyes are like the sparkling pools in Heshbon
by the gate of Bath-rabbim.
Your nose is as fine as the tower of Lebanon
overlooking Damascus.
5 Your head is as majestic as Mount Carmel,
and the sheen of your hair radiates royalty.
The king is held captive by its tresses.

6:8-9 If the Song were an allegory of the Lord's love for his people, it would provide a very weak parallel, since Solomon's excesses in marrying do a poor job of picturing God's love and faithfulness (see 1 Kgs 11:1-13). • sixty queens: Many of Solomon's wives were obtained by marrying into international treaties (see 1 Kgs 11:1-3, 8). • Concubines were wives who had secondary status, lower than a wife but higher than a slave. Concubines were acquired by war, debt repayment, or purchase. • In the anthology view, the reference to queens and concubines simply means that the woman herself is more desirable than all other women.

6:9 she sings her praises: Literally called her blessed. If the Song is a drama, the woman has left Solomon's harem, and the singing took place in the past, when the woman was still there.

6:10 The poem ends as it began in 6:4: The woman's majesty, like an army with billowing banners in full display, makes the knees knock and the heart flutter.

6:11 I went down: There is ambiguity over who is speaking here. The NLT presents it as the beginning of the young woman's speech, though it could just as plausibly be a continuation of the young man's. The trip to the walnut grove is a poetic way of expressing desire for a romantic meeting.

6:12 to the chariot of a noble man: Or to the royal chariots of my people, or to the chariots of Amminadab. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain. Desire leads to the union of the man and the woman. There may be support here for Solomon being the husband, though this description could be a metaphor for the joys of romance (cp. 1:16-17).

6:13-7:9 An interaction between the young women of Jerusalem and the man introduces his last major description of the woman's beauty and his desire to hold her (see note on 4:1-5:1).

6:13 Verse 6:13 is numbered 7:1 in the Hebrew text. • Return: Or turn around. • Shulam: The place is not known, though some have identified it with Shunem (1 Kgs 1:3; 2 Kgs 4:11-12). Maid of Shulam (Hebrew shulamith) might be a wordplay on the name Solomon (Hebrew shelomoh). It would then be equivalent to saying "Solomon's maiden." • as she moves so gracefully between two lines of dancers? Or as you would at the movements of two armies? Or as you would at the dance of Mahanaim? The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain. The man praises the woman's grace and beauty to everyone.

7:1-13 Verses 7:1-13 are numbered 7:2-14 in the Hebrew text.

7:1 The man now praises the woman's dancing feet and then ascends her sensuous body to her flowing hair (7:1-5). • This queenly maiden (literally prince's daughter) might or might not be from a royal family, but she is as fine as royalty.

7:2 Between your thighs lies a mound of wheat (literally Your belly is like a mound of wheat): The man is either describing the woman's smoothly rounded abdomen or her pubic mound.

7:4 ivory tower: See note on 4:4. • sparkling pools in Heshbon by the gate of Bath-rabbim: The pools of Heshbon, formed by a brook, can still be seen today near the ruins of Heshbon on the east coast of the Dead Sea. • The tower of Lebanon is probably a metaphor for Mount Hermon, a high mountain that overlooks the valley of Damascus, the capital of Syria. The majestic beauty of the woman's nose rises above her other facial features.

7:5-6 Mount Carmel is a high mountain range on the Mediterranean coast. • your hair radiates royalty (literally your hair is as purple threads): Purple was an expensive color to produce, so it was the exclusive property of royalty.

- ⁶ Oh, how beautiful you are!
How pleasing, my love, how full of delights!
- ⁷ You are slender like a palm tree, and your breasts are like its clusters of fruit.
- ⁸ I said, "I will climb the palm tree and take hold of its fruit."
May your breasts be like grape clusters, and the fragrance of your breath like apples.
- ⁹ May your kisses be as exciting as the best wine—

Young Woman

- Yes, wine that goes down smoothly for my lover,
flowing gently over lips and teeth.
- ¹⁰ I am my lover's,
and he claims me as his own.
- ¹¹ Come, my love, let us go out to the fields and spend the night among the wildflowers.
- ¹² Let us get up early and go to the vineyards to see if the grapevines have budded, if the blossoms have opened,
and if the pomegranates have bloomed.
There I will give you my ^elove.
- ¹³ There the mandrakes give off their fragrance,
and the finest fruits are at our door,
new delights as well as old,
which I have saved for you, my lover.

Young Woman

- 8 ¹ Oh, I wish you were my brother, who nursed at my mother's breasts.

- Then I could kiss you no matter who was watching,
and no one would criticize me.
- ² I would bring you to my childhood home,
and there you would teach me.
I would give you spiced wine to drink,
my sweet pomegranate wine.
- ³ Your left arm would be under my head, and your right arm would embrace me.
- ⁴ Promise me, O women of Jerusalem, not to awaken love until the time is right.

Young Women of Jerusalem

- ⁵ Who is this sweeping in from the desert, leaning on her lover?

Young Woman

- I aroused you under the apple tree, where your mother gave you birth,
where in great pain she delivered you.
- ⁶ Place me like a seal over your heart,
like a seal on your arm.
For love is as strong as death,
its jealousy as enduring as the grave.
Love flashes like fire,
the brightest kind of flame.
- ⁷ Many waters cannot quench love,
nor can rivers drown it.
If a man tried to buy love with all his wealth, his offer would be utterly scorned.

The Young Woman's Brothers

- ⁸ We have a little sister too young to have breasts.
What will we do for our sister
if someone asks to marry her?

7:9 The man compares the woman's love and her kisses to wine in that they are delightful and make one light-headed (see 1:2). • over lips and teeth: As in Greek and Syriac versions and Latin Vulgate; Hebrew reads over lips of sleepers.

7:11-12 The woman suggests that they go together to check on the status of the vineyards and make love while there. • among the wildflowers: Or in the villages.

7:13 Mandrakes (Hebrew duda'im) were a Middle Eastern aphrodisiac (see Gen 30:14-16); the roots of the plant resemble a human torso. The word is a play on my lover (Hebrew dodi). • at our door: All sexual pleasures are available to them now, and she will share with him the delights she has saved for him alone. • new . . . old: She has in mind the sexual expressions they have already experienced, and new ones as well.

8:4 Promise me: For the third time, the woman encourages the young women of Jerusalem to retain their virginity (see 2:7; 3:5). The virtue of virginity is confirmed in 8:8-9. • not to awaken love until the time is right: Or not to awaken love until it is ready.

8:5 I aroused you under the apple tree: The apple tree is a symbol of fertility because it is fruit-bearing (see 2:3, 5; 7:8). • where your mother gave you birth: Mentioning his mother may be a subtle way of suggesting procreation as a fruit of sexual love (cp. 8:2).

8:6 seal over your heart . . . on your arm: In ancient Israel a seal was used for identification or to show ownership by pressing the face of a ring into soft wax. The wife wants her husband to mark her with his identity, privately upon her heart, and publicly upon her arm as well. • love is as strong as death: Though death is inevitable, the bond of love is resolute, unshakable, and broken only in death. • its jealousy: Or its passion. The energy of jealousy moves to protect an exclusive relationship such as that of husband and wife or between God and his people (Nah 1:2; Zech 1:14-17). • as the grave: Hebrew as Sheol (see note on Ps 6:5).

8:8-10 In the midst of a passionate exchange of romantic compliments and commitments, here again is strong praise for sexual abstinence until marriage.

8:8 We have a little sister: The wife's brothers express concern for their sister's chastity. According to ancient Near Eastern custom, they are the Beauty in Nature (7:10-13)

Song 2:8-17;
4:12-5:1; 6:2-3;
6:11-12
Gen 2:1-9
Ps 8:3-8; 19:1-6;
96:5-6
Matt 6:26-30

God's original commission to man and woman was for them to enjoy and wisely manage God's creation (Gen 1:26-28; see also 1 Kgs 3:9; 4:32-33). The couple in the Song of Songs enjoy nature within their own Garden of Eden as they enjoy each other. The mystique of nature draws the couple deep into the country in their escapades, and provides them with the environment in which their love is the most rustic, and at the same time, the most exotic and exhilarating.

In the Song of Songs, sexual intimacy takes place in the countryside (2:8-17; 4:12-5:1; 6:2-3, 11-12), a place of pleasant fragrances and secluded meeting places. The garden, vineyard, and orchard create intimate and pleasant settings and evoke a romantic mood.

The couple uses extensive metaphors from nature to describe each other's physical attributes and their arousing effects. Their portrayal of each other forces them to use illustrations from God's exquisite creation. God's creation provides them with pictures that express their greatest pleasures and delights in each other. In a similar manner, God's creation provides pictures of his own goodness, justice, and love for his people.

protectors of their sister's sexuality until her marriage.

8:9 wall: There appear to be two metaphorical meanings for this term: (1) The prepubescent girl's chest is like a wall (see 8:10); and (2) until she is married, she should be abstinent, impenetrable like a wall. • protect her with a silver tower: Towers were used as lookouts for protecting the city; a silver one would be more prominent and impregnable. If the woman is already a wall, having kept her virginity, they will honor and reinforce her resolve. • On the other hand, a swinging door indicates promiscuity. The brothers will force her to restrain herself.

8:10 I was a virgin, like a wall: The woman affirms that she was chaste in preparation for marriage. • now . . . like towers: The woman describes herself in the language of desirability (cp. 4:4; 7:4, 8) and challenges her brothers' perception of her as immature.

8:11-14 In the dramatic view, the wife's dilemma concerning the vineyard of 1:6 is finally resolved: She has managed to bring in the lease money from her vineyard in Baal-hamon, so she can pay Solomon and her hired harvesters. • If the passage is purely poetic, its main message is that love may not be bought, even by a powerful king like Solomon.

8:11 Baal-hamon is not otherwise mentioned in the Bible. However "Balamon" occurs in later literature as a place in northern Israel; it may be the same place. • a thousand pieces of silver (Hebrew 1,000 shekels of silver): There are different denominations of shekels in the OT, so the exact price cannot be determined, but the vineyard was a large one.

8:13 The scene has changed from that of the lease payment to the more familiar and pleasant gardens. • your companions: It appears that the wife may be talking with her friends. Her man is gently jealous and wants her to himself.

8:14 Come away, my love! She invites him to follow her, and he chases her with all the robust and exhilarating speed of a gazelle (see 2:8-10). • mountains of spices: Cp. 4:6.

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOKS OF THE PROPHETS

Then Jesus took them through the writings of Moses and all the prophets, explaining from all the Scriptures the things concerning himself.

LUKE 24:27

Each of the prophets of the Old Testament, from Moses (around 1400 BC) to Malachi (around 400 BC), communicated God's messages to Israel and Judah. God directly commissioned the prophets to their task, and the Holy Spirit empowered their work. Their job was to confront God's people with their sin, to show them the inevitable consequences of judgment that would flow from their continuing to break God's covenant with them, and to communicate a hopeful future for God's people that would extend beyond judgment. The prophets show us our need for a savior and consistently point us to Christ.

SETTING

From the beginning of God's relationship with people, there were prophets who enjoyed a "face-to-face" relationship with him, starting with Abraham and including Moses, Samuel, and David. But the "classical" era of prophecy covers the later periods of the history of Israel and Judah—the divided monarchy, the Exile, and the period of return from exile. This era began with Elijah, who prophesied during Ahab's reign (874–853 BC; see 1 Kgs 17–19), and it stretched down to Malachi, who prophesied in the 400s BC. It was during this period that the books of Israel's prophets were written. The earlier "writing prophets," such as Amos and Hosea (700s BC), warned the people of their sin, urged them to repent, and pointed ahead to inevitable judgment if they refused. By the time of Jeremiah and Ezekiel (late 600s–early 500s), the coming judgment was already inevitable and the prophets were more focused on explaining the causes for the judgment and speaking of a future beyond judgment. The postexilic prophets such as Haggai (520 BC), Zechariah (about 520–518 BC), and Malachi (400s BC) confronted a discouraged and tempted people and called them back to careful and joyous obedience to their covenant Lord.

THE TASK OF THE PROPHET

Emissaries of the Lord, Israel's King

The prophets were mediators of the covenant relationship between God and his people. That covenant, like other ancient treaties, contained blessings for obedience and curses for disobedience. In the ancient world, when such treaties were broken, the Great King would send emissaries to warn the vassals. The warnings would be introduced with, "This is what [name of the king] says . . ." (see 1 Kgs 20:5). The prophets, likewise, were emissaries of the Lord, and they used the same formula to introduce God's messages. These messages detailed God's charges, urged Israel to return to obedience, and warned them of coming judgment if they did not.

Israel was almost always in rebellion against the Lord. As a result, the true prophets seem "too negative" to modern ears. But just as there is no cure for an infection until it has been identified and eradicated, so also with people's rebellion against the Lord their God. The true prophets were trying to help Israel by warning them of disaster. By contrast, those who spoke "nice things" (Isa 30:10) were false prophets, because they communicated the false idea that people could continue sinning and yet still enjoy God's blessings.

Messengers for the Lord

The Lord promised to place his words in the mouths of his prophets, which they in turn would communicate to God's people (see Deut 18:18). In their role as God's messengers, the prophets followed in the footsteps of Moses, the archetypal prophet, who spoke with the Lord "face to face" (Deut 34:10) and told God's people what God had said (Exod 4:11–16). But the prophets did not merely take dictation for God. They entered into God's heart, sharing his anger and his grief, his sense of rejection, and his continuing passionate love for his people. Through the prophets we get a glimpse of the complexity and depth of God's person that is not duplicated elsewhere in the Bible.

▲ The Prophets of Israel, 1400–400 BC. Moses, Israel's first prophet, foretold of a coming "prophet like me" (Deut 18:15) to whom God's people should listen. Before the coming of Jesus as this prophet (Acts 3:18–26), the Lord sent to Israel a long line of prophets who gave them God's messages, warned of coming judgment, and encouraged God's people to be faithful to the Lord.

Intercessors before the Lord

Not only did the prophets bring God's word to Israel, they also brought the people's response to God and interceded on their behalf (see, e.g., Amos 7:1-6), just as Abraham, Moses, and Samuel had done (see Gen 20:7; Exod 32:9-14, 30-35; 1 Sam 7:5-10). The prophets were not neutral parties that delivered messages from a safe distance. They were personally involved in the communication process, often in ways that were costly (e.g., Isa 20; Ezek 24:15-27). One characteristic of the false prophets was their inability to intercede on behalf of the people (Jer 27:18). Their claim to be ambassadors for God was shown to be false because they could not successfully speak on Israel's behalf to the Lord.

THE CHARACTERISTICS OF A TRUE PROPHET

I knew you before I formed you in your mother's womb. Before you were born I set you apart and appointed you as my prophet to the nations.
Jeremiah 1:5

In Deuteronomy, Moses lays out the basic characteristics of a true prophet of the Lord. In Deut 18:15-22 he speaks about the coming of a future prophet like himself, but the characteristics of that future prophet also apply to all true prophets of the Lord. Prophets were to be Israelites (Deut 18:15) whose messages were in agreement with God's word (Deut 13:5) and whose predictions came true (Deut 18:21-22). Prophets were also to be people like Moses, who drew near to God (Exod 20:19). The prophets stood in God's presence and were thereby able to communicate God's words to his people (e.g., Isa 6). Because of their access to God, the prophets spoke with an authority equal to that of Moses, and the people were responsible for listening to their messages (Deut 18:19).

Prophecy is closely associated with the outpouring of the Spirit (see Num 11:25, 29; 1 Sam 10:9-13; Joel 2:28-29). The fulfillment of Joel's prophecy occurred on the Day of Pentecost, when the Spirit was poured out on all who believed the message (Acts 2). They then prophesied and were empowered by the Spirit for the task of carrying to the world God's message of salvation in Jesus Christ. All who follow Christ are called to communicate his message to those around us. As we testify to the Lord, the Spirit gives us the power to communicate God's truth faithfully to a rebellious world (Acts 1:8).

INTERPRETATION

The prophets have a queer way of talking, like people who, instead of proceeding in an orderly manner, ramble off from one thing to the next, so that you cannot make head or tail of them or see what they are getting at.

Martin Luther¹

The OT prophecies are sometimes hard to interpret (cp. Num 12:6-8; Isa 6:9-10). God spoke through the prophets in visions, dreams, and riddles. Some of those prophecies were clear and unambiguous (e.g., Mic 5:2; cp. Matt 2:3-6). Yet who would have anticipated when Isaiah spoke of "God . . . with us" (Isa 7:14) that God would take on human flesh (John 1:14)? Or that the glorious "son of man" (Dan 7:13) would come "not to be served but to serve others and to give his life as a ransom for many" (Matt 20:28)?

The messages of the prophets must be understood first of all on their own terms. Many of their messages addressed specific situations in Israel and Judah, so it is imperative first to understand what the prophets were saying to those who first heard them—their own contemporaries. When we read the prophets' calls for social righteousness in the context of faithfulness to a loving covenant Lord, we should understand what that meant for God's OT people, so that we as his people today can also love and serve him faithfully. When we read the prophets' stirring promises of a glorious future, we must understand those promises first from their own timeframe, not our own. The more we can see things from the perspective of an OT Israelite, the better we will be able to understand the meaning and significance of the prophets' messages.

It is also important to remember that the books of prophecy, like the rest of Scripture, have Christ as their central focus and theme (Luke 24:44-49). To attempt to understand them apart from Christ would be to misunderstand them. We must read the prophets and hear their messages in the light of all that God has done in Christ. The central interpretive principle of the OT prophets is that their message points toward Christ and the glories that would follow his sufferings (Luke 24:26, 44; Acts 3:18-21; 1 Pet 1:10-12). In other words, the heart of their messages is not simply social action, morality, or predicting the future, but the Good News about Jesus Christ.

Although we have a "better covenant with God, based on better promises" through Jesus Christ (Heb 8:6), we have much to learn from the OT prophets and their messages. We too often live at odds with God's character, and we may find ourselves aptly rebuked by the prophets' condemnations. We may also be comforted by their proclamation of hope. Our hope, like OT Israel's, rests in the coming of a new Israel, Jesus Christ, the perfect law-keeper who frees us from the condemnation and death that we deserve. The prophets show us our need for such a savior. By anticipating what this savior would be like, they consistently point us to Christ.

THE MESSAGE OF THE PROPHETS

The prophets repeatedly warned the people that their constant breaches of God's covenant would result in disaster (2 Chr 36:15-16). The prophets repeatedly indicted the people for breaking God's law and failing to do justice. The foundation for these charges was their covenant with God. As a result, the curses of the covenant would descend upon them, and they would be exiled from the land, just as Moses had warned (Deut 28:64-68).

The prophets also spoke of hope for the future. Judgment and exile would not be the end of the story for God's people. Because of the Lord's merciful character, and for the honor of his name, he would bring them back. After judgment and exile, he would restore them and bless them. In spite of their sins, God would purify his people, establish his sanctuary among them, and live with them forever (Ezek 37:27-28).

The prophets did not speak only to Israel and Judah; they also addressed the nations, Israel's neighbors. These messages warned of judgment for harming God's people (see Gen 12:1-3). An assault against Israel was an assault against the Lord. During the dark days of the Exile, these messages encouraged God's people: If God was still committed to judging those who had harmed his people, there was still a future for them. These messages also reminded them that the Lord is the God of the whole world, and all nations will ultimately bow before him.

Not all of the messages to other nations were negative. The prophets anticipated a time when the nations would turn to Israel's God in repentance and faith and be incorporated into God's family (e.g., Isa 2:2; Zech 8:20-23). Though the movement of the nations to join Israel and worship Israel's God had been a mere trickle down through

Israel's history, in the last days it would turn into a flood as the Lord brought the nations at last to bow before him. These promises have begun to be fulfilled through Christ and the church, as the book of Acts so eloquently describes.

THE ULTIMATE PROPHET

The anticipation of a prophet like Moses (Deut 18:15) did not simply point forward to a line of individual prophets in Israel's history. Supremely, it represents the hope of a single, climactic prophet. The NT makes clear that the expectation of a new prophet like Moses found its fulfillment in Jesus Christ. At his transfiguration, Jesus shone with divine glory, and God's voice from heaven declared, "This is my dearly loved Son, who brings me great joy. Listen to him" (Matt 17:5). The divine command, "Listen to him," repeats Deut 18:15—God was identifying Jesus as the prophet like Moses. At that event, Jesus' appearance was transformed and glorious, just as Moses' face had shone (Exod 34:29-35; cp. 2 Cor 3:7-18). Peter later made this same identification when he pointed to Christ as the climactic fulfillment of this expectation of a prophet like Moses (Acts 3:22). Stephen made the same connection while addressing the Jewish high council (Acts 7:37).

The promise of a prophet like Moses should have opened the hearts of the Jewish people to expect and welcome Jesus' coming, but instead it did the opposite—many of them rejected the promised Messiah (see Matt 13:10-17; Rom 9-11).

In the past, God spoke through the prophets, but now he has spoken once and for all through his Son (Heb 1:1-2). In Christ we have the ultimate revelation of God and his plan, and in Christ we have the ultimate intercessor with the Father for us humans. In the past, God sent Moses as the mediator of his covenant, but as great as Moses was, he was merely a servant in God's house. Jesus is the Son (Heb 3:5-6), the mediator of the new and final covenant (Heb 8:6). He comes with a message of judgment for those who will not repent, but he has grace and mercy for all who come to the Father through him. He intercedes for us before the Father's throne, and he invites people from all nations—men and women, young and old—to receive the blessings of the new covenant. In him, and through him, we are able to enter God's presence and dwell with him forever.

The Prophet and His Message: Reading Old Testament Prophecy Today (2003)

THE BOOK OF Isaiah

Can God rescue us from the problems we face? Can he save us from oppressive world powers? Can he break the power of our sin and help us deal with its consequences? Throughout this book—which provides a vision of the loving greatness and holiness of God—Isaiah answers these questions with a resounding yes! The prophet’s words sometimes overwhelm us with their beauty. At other times, his piercing words reveal our sin and drive us to our knees. Isaiah’s own ministry began with the kind of vision that convicts the human heart, motivating us to trust in our Creator alone for forgiveness, restoration, and purpose in life.

SETTING

By the time of King Uzziah’s death (740 BC), the southern kingdom of Judah faced a major crisis. The empire of Assyria, dormant for nearly fifty years, was now on the move again. Assyria’s conquest reached southwestward from its homeland in what is now northern Iraq toward its ultimate destination, Egypt. The small nations of the Mediterranean coast, including Israel and Judah, stood in Assyria’s path. Assyria took Galilee and much of Israel’s territory east of the Jordan River. But Assyria would be satisfied only with total control of Israel, Judah, and all the other smaller nations in the area.

While Judah's King Uzziah was still alive, Judah was able to ignore the crisis. Uzziah had a strong army (2 Chr 26:11-15). Overall, Uzziah was a good and effective king, and his people hoped that he could somehow save the nation from the Assyrians. When Uzziah died, however, ungodly rulers succeeded him. During this crisis of leadership, God gave Isaiah the vision that launched his ministry for the next forty years (6:1-13).

Assyria, meanwhile, pushed steadily southward along the coast of the Mediterranean, conquering one small nation after another. During this time, Judah's policy on Assyria oscillated between appeasement and confrontation. The prophet Isaiah brought a much-needed message: God is absolutely dependable, and it is utter folly to trust in anything or anyone other than God.

God's Glorious Kingdom

Unfortunately, Isaiah's central message was not always heeded. Around 734 BC, Israel formed a coalition with Syria to stand against Assyria. When King Ahaz of Judah refused to join this alliance, Israel and Syria attacked Judah in order to force Ahaz to join them. Faced with this crisis, Ahaz foolishly chose not to trust God (7:1-12). Instead, Ahaz called the Assyrians to rescue him (2 Chr 28:16-21). Although the king of Assyria did come to the rescue, defeating Syria and Israel, he also attacked Ahaz and placed a heavy burden of taxation on Judah. Just a few years later (722 BC), Assyria defeated the kingdom of Israel again and sent most of its people into exile (2 Kgs 17:5-18).

In 701 BC, during King Hezekiah's reign, Assyria again invaded Judah. This time, Judah relied on God's faithfulness, and as promised, God rescued the nation from the Assyrian army (37:21-36).

Regrettably, God's people did not remain faithful to him. As a result, God eventually allowed Judah to be overcome by Assyria's successor, Babylon (605-586 BC). What would Judah's destruction and exile to Babylon mean in terms of God's absolute reliability, which Isaiah had proclaimed? Isaiah answered this as well: God would indeed punish Judah's wickedness. He would also preserve a remnant that one day would return to the holy land. This return would not be due to any faithfulness on their part; it would be an act of God's grace.

Upon returning from exile (538 BC, see Ezra 1:1-4), the people were again tempted to wickedness, this time by the paganism that had taken root in their homeland during their absence. Isaiah showed that the gracious God who rescued them is also the holy God who demanded their obedience, righteousness, and exclusive devotion.

SUMMARY

Chapters 1–39 cover the period during Isaiah’s active ministry, from the death of Uzziah (740 BC) to 701 BC. The introduction (chs 1–5) contrasts Judah’s present state of sin and injustice with the blessed existence in God’s presence that they had originally been called to. This comparison raises a question: How can the present corruption ever be transformed into glory, purity, and fruitfulness? The prophet answers in ch 6, as he recounts his own renewal and calling as an example of how a change could take place nationwide. If Judah wanted to experience such renewal, however, it needed to turn from its sinful ways and learn to trust God. Throughout chs 13–35 the prophet uses a variety of literary forms and life situations to confirm that God is the only truly trustworthy one; relying on any of the surrounding nations in place of God represents extreme foolishness. Isaiah brackets this message with two historical accounts of experiences with Assyria: King Ahaz’s experience in chs 7–12, and King Hezekiah’s in chs 36–39. When Ahaz failed to trust God, disaster resulted. By contrast, his son Hezekiah trusted God, and a great rescue occurred. Hezekiah, however, also had times of weakness (39:1–8), setting the stage for Judah’s later defeat and exile by Babylon.

Chapters 40–55 address the questions that would arise during Judah’s exile to Babylon in 586 BC. Does the Exile mean that God was defeated, either by the Babylonians or by Judah’s sin? Has God’s will for Judah been frustrated, and is he helpless to do anything about it? In chs 40–48, Isaiah shows that God is infinitely superior to any idol-god, and his people will be the proof of this when God rescues them out of Babylon’s ultimately helpless hands. In chs 49–55, the prophet addresses the deeper question of Judah’s sin. Just as God rescued Judah from Babylon, he also intends to rescue a remnant of the people from the enslaving power of sin; he will accomplish it through the death of his servant.

Chapters 56–66 address Judah’s experience following the end of their exile in 539 BC. God had rescued a remnant from exile as promised; now they needed to be pure, righteous, and holy. God’s servants must not continue to walk in darkness and corruption, for those attitudes and actions had led to exile in the first place. As Isaiah speaks of rescue from sin, the light of God’s own holy and righteous character dawns in his people. As a result, all the nations that Israel once trusted in place of God will now come to Jerusalem to learn God’s ways from Israel.

AUTHOR

The book of Isaiah addresses three different historical situations, two of them beyond the prophet’s own lifetime. As a result, some critical scholars have argued that the prophet Isaiah could not have written the entire book, a view that has prevailed since the mid-1800s. However, if we assume the reality of God’s inspiration, predictive prophecy is a reality, so it should not present a problem that parts of the book address what was in the future for Isaiah. Furthermore, the book displays a remarkable literary unity. When Jesus and NT authors quote from the book of Isaiah, they consistently claim that they are referring to what the prophet Isaiah said (e.g., see Matt 8:17; 12:17–21; Luke 3:4–6; Acts 8:28–35; Rom 10:16).

DATE OF WRITING

It seems likely from the historical references in chs 6–39 that these materials were recorded at various times throughout the thirty-eight years between Uzziah's death in 740 BC and Sennacherib's retreat from Jerusalem in 701 BC. Because of the simpler, meditative, and reflective lyrical style of chs 40–66, it seems probable that a period of time elapsed between 701 BC and the writing of these chapters. We do not know when Isaiah died, but tradition dates his death during the period of the sole reign of Manasseh (686–642 BC). It is thus possible that some fifteen years elapsed between the writing of chs 1–39 and the writing of chs 40–66.

Barry Webb

The Message of Isaiah, p. 12

LITERARY GENRES

There is a rich array of sub-genres within the book of Isaiah. Notable among them are (1) judgment speeches that warn the nation of Israel that God will punish them for their sins (9:8–21); (2) prophecies of woe that lament the approaching death of the nation (5:8–30; 29:1–12; 31:1–9); (3) parables that teach a lesson through an analogy (5:1–8; 27:2–6); (4) trial speeches to prove a case (41:21–29); (5) salvation prophecies of hope for the future (2:1–5; 32:1–20; 60:1–22); (6) hymns of praise to God for his faithfulness (12:1–6; 26:1–6); (7) prophecies against foreign nations (15:1–16:14; 23:1–18); (8) prophecies of a coming king, the Messiah (9:1–7; 11:1–9); (9) servant songs about one who would suffer for the sins of others (42:1–9; 52:12–53:12); and (10) historical narratives (36:1–22; 39:1–8).

MEANING AND MESSAGE

The book of Isaiah could be called the Bible in miniature. It has more overtones of the NT than any other OT book. Isaiah gives us a complete picture of God as unique and transcendent (beyond our experience). Yet the holy and exalted God reveals himself and desires to be Immanuel ("God is with us," 7:14). Therefore, the transcendent God is also immanent (nearby). God's nearness prepares Isaiah's readers to receive God incarnate (in the flesh), Jesus Christ, who is truly the Immanuel (see Matt 1:23).

Isaiah tackles the foolishness of idolatry head on. He exposed the folly of trying to capture God in any created thing or trying to manipulate God to our own ends. The only way to receive the blessings God wants to pour out upon us is through our surrender and trust. However, the human spirit stubbornly opposes this. We would rather trust anything or anyone other than God, who is beyond our control. Those who stubbornly refuse to submit themselves to the true God and turn instead to false gods become estranged from God and face his judgment.

The prophet tells the story of God's judgment on his sinful people through exile. However, God graciously returns to his people and declares that he will not cast them away altogether. Instead, he will purify and preserve a remnant that will glorify him among the nations and demonstrate that he alone is the true and living God.

The kingdom of God, centered in a new Zion (new Jerusalem), populated by a new community of the faithful, and ruled by God's righteous servant, the Messiah, will be built on the power of love rather than on the power of oppression and injustice. Only the righteous can belong to this new community. The same grace that rescues God's people from the consequences of their sin also produces in them obedience to his will. As a result, they will glorify God and transform the world.

The preaching of Isaiah represents the theological high-water mark of the whole Old Testament. . . .

Not one of the other prophets approaches Isaiah in intellectual vigor, or, more particularly, in the magnificent sweep of his ideas.

A Message for Rebellious Judah

2 Listen, O heavens! Pay attention, earth!

This is what the LORD says:

“The children I raised and cared for have rebelled against me.

3 Even an ox knows its owner, and a donkey recognizes its master’s care—

but Israel doesn’t know its master.

My people don’t recognize my care for them.”

4 Oh, what a sinful nation they are—loaded down with a burden of guilt. They are evil people, corrupt children who have rejected the LORD.

They have despised the Holy One of Israel and turned their backs on him.

5 Why do you continue to invite punishment?

Must you rebel forever?

Your head is injured, and your heart is sick.

6 You are battered from head to foot—covered with bruises, welts, and infected wounds—without any soothing ointments or bandages.

7 Your country lies in ruins, and your towns are burned.

Foreigners plunder your fields before your eyes and destroy everything they see.

Isaiah was a Judean prophet during the reigns of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah. He had a long ministry (about 740–685 BC). He was the son of Amoz (1:1) and was possibly related to King Amaziah. He lived in Jerusalem, was well educated, and had deep insight into human nature. As Judah’s political and religious counselor, he had access to kings and was apparently the court historian (2 Chr 26:22; 32:32). Isaiah’s wife was called a “prophetess” (see note on 8:3); their sons were Shear-jashub (7:3) and Maher-shalal-hash-baz (8:3).

Isaiah opposed social and political evil at all social levels. He censured fortune-tellers and exhorted everyone to obey God’s covenant. He rebuked kings for their willfulness and indifference, and he denounced wealthy, influential people who ignored their responsibilities. Isaiah opposed Canaanite idolatry and insincere religious observances (1:10–17; 29:13), declaring that only a righteous remnant would survive (6:13). He foretold the coming Messiah, the peaceful prince of God’s kingdom (11:1–11; cp. 9:6–7) who was also an obedient, suffering servant (53:3–12). The book of Isaiah has more overtones of the NT than any other OT book and is frequently cited by NT authors.

1:1 These are the visions (literally The vision): This term introduces the book as a unified whole, covering Isaiah’s prophecies over a period of some fifty-five years (about 740–685 BC). • Isaiah son of Amoz: Beyond this, nothing is known of Isaiah’s family background. • Jerusalem, the capital city of Judah, was the center of Isaiah’s ministry. However, some of his prophecies also relate to the northern kingdom, Israel (referred to as Samaria and Ephraim, 9:8–21; 28:1–13), which fell in 722 BC (see 2 Kgs 17). • Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah: These kings reigned from 792 to 686 BC.

1:2 heavens . . . earth: All of creation is called to witness the trial that God convened against Judah (cp. Deut 31:28; 32:1).

1:3 an ox knows its owner: Not so with Judah. Yet despite their rebellion, God still graciously addressed them as my people.

1:4 The term Holy One of Israel is frequently used in Isaiah as a title for the Lord. God is the righteous and just King of heaven and earth (6:3–5), the incomparable God (40:25), and the Redeemer of his people (43:14). It was a terrible and foolish sin for Judah to reject him.

1:5 God sent famine, war, disease, and death as punishment. In most cases, however, God wanted to change stubborn behavior rather than simply to punish. • As a result of their persistent rebellion, the people’s head is injured and their heart is sick. The nation was wounded physically from Assyrian aggression, while spiritually they were defiled and overtaken by sin (64:6).

1:6 without any soothing ointments or bandages: Judah’s national condition was like the body of an injured person who had not received medical care.

1:7 country . . . towns: By 701 BC, the Assyrians had destroyed the infrastructure, taken cities, and ravaged the fields (see 64:10). This fulfilled Isaiah’s prophetic word (6:11–13). Those who survived this Assyrian onslaught would know by experience to heed later warnings of exile to Babylon (39:6–7). God does what he says he will do, so the warning of God’s judgment on all the nations is certain.

like a watchman's shelter in a like a lean-to in a cucumber field after the harvest,

like a helpless city under siege.
9 If the LORD of Heaven's Armies had not spared a few of us, we would have been wiped out like Sodom,
destroyed like Gomorrah.
10 Listen to the LORD, you leaders of
"Sodom."
Listen to the law of our God, people of "Gomorrah."
11 "What makes you think I want all your

says the LORD.
"I am sick of your burnt offerings of rams

I get no pleasure from the blood of bulls and lambs and goats.
12 When you come to worship me, who asked you to parade through my courts with all your ceremony?
13 Stop bringing me your meaningless gifts;
the incense of your offerings
disgusts me!
As for your celebrations of the new and your special days for fasting—they are all sinful and false.

I want no more of your pious

14 I hate your new moon celebrations and your annual festivals.
They are a burden to me. I cannot

Isaiah preached to what seemed to be a very religious people. They fasted, said prayers, celebrated holy days, and brought their sacrifices to Jerusalem. Yet God rejected these practices. Why? These acts had value—the Lord himself had prescribed them! Yet the people's worship was not from the heart, and it was not accompanied by the personal holiness and social justice that God requires (Lev 19:13-17). The people of Judah had fallen into the trap of religious hypocrisy.

Religious hypocrisy can result from selective obedience, from lip service to God's law without changes of heart and life to back it up. People who parade their piety for others to see often have little desire to truly obey God. Many years after Isaiah, Jesus confronted this kind of hypocrisy in the Pharisees. He challenged them to be better doers of God's whole revelation rather than just the parts that brought them acclaim (Matt 23:1-36, especially Matt 23:23). The apostles Paul and James also distinguished between mere religiosity and true spirituality (1 Cor 3:1-23; Jas 1:21-2:13). Jesus' rebuke of the Pharisees also serves as a warning to us: We are not to be like them (see also Matt 6:1-18; 1 Pet 2:1). Instead, Jesus calls us to be authentic before God and with others, to obey his entire word, and to go beyond mere formalism and appearance in our devotion to God.

1:8 Beautiful Jerusalem (Hebrew The daughter of Zion): Zion, one of the hills on which Jerusalem stands, often served as a synonym for Jerusalem. Zion carried with it the notion of God's presence (Ps 46), his protection of his people, and Jerusalem's resistance to enemy forces. Now, however, the opposite was true. Jerusalem had become weak, like a helpless city under siege and like an abandoned . . . shelter or lean-to.

1:9 The LORD of Heaven's Armies refers to the millions of angels that are at the Lord's command (see 2 Kgs 6:16-17; Matt 26:53). At the Exodus, Moses described God as a warrior fighting for his people (Exod 15:1-21). Ironically, in Isaiah's day, God fought against Judah because of their wickedness (1:24; 3:1-5). • a few of us: Greek version reads a few of our children. Cp. Rom 9:29.

1:10 Listen to (literally listen to the word of the LORD): In this context, listen means to respond in obedience to the law (or teaching; Hebrew torah) of our God (see 2:3; 5:24). • leaders . . . people: All levels of society were guilty. • Like Sodom and Gomorrah, Jerusalem had come under divine judgment for its rebellion against God's laws. Jerusalem might have been utterly destroyed like those cities were it not for God's grace (1:9; see Gen 19).

1:11-15 The people had so offended God through their sin that he took no pleasure any more in their sacrifices. The Lord wanted Judah to stop the religious exercises he had commanded them to do rather than to continue them in a manner that was sinful and false (1:13). Ritual is never an acceptable substitute for true godliness.

1:13 The incense that accompanied offerings was intended as a sweet fragrance to the Lord (see Exod 30:7-8), but when offered with hypocrisy it was a nauseating stench and an abomination to God. • While the Lord had ordered special days for fasting at the Temple (Lev 16:31; 23:32; Num 29:7), they were ruined by the guilt of Judah's sin (see 58:1-7; Matt 6:16-18). • pious meetings: These holy days were associated with the new moon and other festivals (see Lev 23).

1:14 New moon celebrations occurred on the first day of each lunar month (Num 28:11-15) and included sacrifices, feasting, and rest from work. • The annual festivals were the festivals of Passover, Harvest, Trumpets, and Shelters (Num 28:16-29:39; Deut 16:1-17).

¹⁵ When you lift up your hands in prayer, I will not look.
Though you offer many prayers, I will not listen, for your hands are covered with the blood of innocent victims.

¹⁶ Wash yourselves and be clean!
Get your sins out of my sight.
Give up your evil ways.

¹⁷ Learn to do good.
Seek justice.
Help the oppressed.
Defend the cause of orphans.
Fight for the rights of widows.

¹⁸ "Come now, let's settle this," says the LORD.
"Though your sins are like scarlet, I will make them as white as snow.
Though they are red like crimson, I will make them as white as wool."

¹⁹ If you will only obey me, you will have plenty to eat.

²⁰ But if you turn away and refuse to listen, you will be devoured by the sword of your enemies.
I, the LORD, have spoken!"

Unfaithful Jerusalem

²¹ See how Jerusalem, once so faithful, has become a prostitute.
Once the home of justice and righteousness,
she is now filled with murderers.

²² Once like pure silver, you have become like worthless slag.

Once so pure,
you are now like watered-down wine.

²³ Your leaders are rebels,
the companions of thieves.
All of them love bribes
and demand payoffs,
but they refuse to defend the cause of orphans or fight for the rights of widows.

²⁴ Therefore, the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies, the Mighty One of Israel, says,
"I will take revenge on my enemies and pay back my foes!"

²⁵ I will raise my fist against you.
I will melt you down and skim off your slag.
I will remove all your impurities.

²⁶ Then I will give you good judges again and wise counselors like you used to have.

Then Jerusalem will again be called the Home of Justice and the Faithful City."

²⁷ Zion will be restored by justice;
those who repent will be revived by righteousness.

²⁸ But rebels and sinners will be completely destroyed, and those who desert the LORD will be consumed.

²⁹ You will be ashamed of your idol worship in groves of sacred oaks.

1:15 I will not look . . . I will not listen: The Lord does not respond to prayer offered from a life of persistent wickedness. In this case, God charged the people with perverting his laws in order to practice violent injustice toward innocent victims.

1:16 Wash . . . and be clean! The people were defiled by their sin and the uncleanness of their sacrifices. To be clean in God's eyes, they needed to change their behavior, get rid of their sins, and give up their evil ways (see also 1:18).

1:17 Seeking justice means upholding God's standards of fairness and advancing the rights of the oppressed, orphans, and widows—those who are weak and marginalized in society (see also Jer 7:5-7; 22:3; Zech 7:10; Matt 23:23; 25:31-46; Jas 1:27).

1:18 God called his people to come and settle their dispute so that he could restore his covenant relationship with them. This required Judah to make a decision between obeying or turning away (1:19-20). Isaiah says their sins are like scarlet; . . . they are red like crimson, the color of blood, which Judah had unjustly shed (1:15). • white as snow . . . white as wool: The people would be radically transformed—cleansed, purified, and made holy (see also Ps 51:7; Dan 7:9).

1:19-20 Repentance leads to life, whereas resisting God's will and turning away from him results in death (see Deut 11:26-28; 28:1-62).

1:20 I, the LORD, have spoken! This statement marks the solemnity of what God has just promised. The phrase is used eleven times in Isaiah.

1:21 The image of Jerusalem as a prostitute represents Judah's unfaithfulness to God (see Jer 3:6-14; Ezek 16:25-26; Hos 1-3).

1:24 The LORD of Heaven's Armies, the Mighty One of Israel was usually Israel's protector (31:5). However, in this context, God was coming to take revenge against his own people, who by their wickedness had become his enemies and foes.

1:25 I will raise my fist against you: God, normally Israel's protector, would become their attacker. However, he had a purpose beyond punishment. • I will melt you down . . . I will remove all your impurities: God would use the Exile to remove the wicked from among his people and to refine those who would return.

1:26 The restoration of the community would be marked by new leaders who uphold justice rather than perverting it (see 1:23). Jerusalem would again be pure silver (see 1:22), the Home of Justice and the Faithful City.

1:27 Here, Zion refers to the remnant community. Only those who repent would receive God's salvation and purification and would dwell in his presence. Zion was required to be the bastion of justice and righteousness, for God loves righteousness. God expected the covenant community to reflect the holy standards he cares about.

The Lord's Future Reign in the Restored City
Isa 2:2-4 // Mic 4:1-3

2 This is a vision that Isaiah son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem:

- ² In the last days, the mountain of the LORD's house will be the highest of all—the most important place on earth.
It will be raised above the other hills, and people from all over the world will stream there to worship.

- ³ People from many nations will come and say,
"Come, let us go up to the mountain of
the LORD,
to the house of Jacob's God.
There he will teach us his ways,
and we will walk in his paths."
For the LORD's teaching will go out from Zion;
his word will go out from Jerusalem.
- ⁴ The LORD will mediate between
nations
and will settle international disputes.
They will hammer their swords into plowshares
and their spears into pruning hooks.
Nation will no longer fight against nation,
nor train for war anymore.

A Warning of Judgment

- ⁵ Come, descendants of Jacob,
let us walk in the light of the LORD!
- ⁶ For the LORD has rejected his people,
the descendants of Jacob,

in gardens dedicated to idols, would become like drought-stricken oaks and gardens. They would lack the nourishing vitality of the true God's presence. Those who followed the Canaanite fertility religion of Baal treated gardens and trees as sacred, believing that they brought blessings. Instead, they brought spiritual death.

2:1 vision (literally word): This heading (see 1:1) likely introduces the revelation of chs 2–12. The main focus of this section is on Judah, but a handful of passages expand that focus to include the nations in general (2:2-4), humanity at large (2:6-22), Syria and the northern kingdom of Israel (chs 7–9), and the Assyrians (ch 10).

2:2-4 God's gracious salvation would one day extend beyond Israel and Judah. This would prompt the nations to come to Zion, not in battle but to be blessed there and live by the rules of God's kingdom. Isaiah encouraged Judah to look at the benefits that the nations would enjoy. He wanted to stimulate the people of Judah (2:5) to jealousy and provoke them to follow the Lord so that they would not be left out in that day. This section is repeated almost verbatim in Mic 4:1-3.

2:2 In the OT, the expression the last days is a general reference to the future era (see Jer 49:39; Ezek 38:16; Hos 3:5); in the NT, it is used to refer to the period that began with the coming of the Lord Jesus (Heb 1:2) and more specifically to the period immediately preceding the end of the present age

(2 Pet 3:3). • The mountain of the Lord's house referred to the Temple Mount. This location symbolized God's glorious exaltation (see 6:1) and his kingdom on earth. Isaiah's focus on God's exalted and supreme kingship flows out of his famous vision of God (ch 6). • Far from being a narrow nationalistic dream, Isaiah's prophetic hope extended beyond Judah and Jerusalem to include people from all over the world.

2:3 Human society will undergo changes as people conform to God's revelation and follow his ways and paths. • Judah received the revelation (teaching . . . word) but did not obey it (1:10-15); however, the nations will be ready to do God's will.

2:4 The kingdom of God is evident when conflict and violence end, and it is always characterized by peace (Rom 14:17). People will cooperate willingly or they will be forced to end their hostilities (Ps 46:9). The nations will submit to divine arbitration rather than go to war (see 1:18-20). • The words mediate and settle refer to God's acts here, but later verses show the Messiah as the executor of justice (11:3-4). When this takes place, war will cease, and the nations will change their instruments of war into agricultural tools. • swords into plowshares: Cp. Joel 3:10, where the nations are exhorted to hammer their plowshares into swords.

2:5-4:1 Isaiah condemned Israel's and Judah's arrogance and self-exaltation, warning them that only God was to be exalted. All attempts by humans to lift themselves up will actually result in humiliation.

2:5-22 The prophet threatened judgment and scoffed at human pride. All human structures (religious, economic, military, social) will come under divine scrutiny and be found deficient on the day of the Lord—that final day in history when God will judge the wicked once and for all (1 Cor 1:8; 1 Thes 5:2; 2 Thes 2:2; 2 Pet 3:10; Rev 20:7-15). At times, the prophets also used the term the "day of the Lord" (or others like it, such as "that day") to refer to special instances of God's judgment upon wickedness during the course of history (see 13:6, 9; Ezek 13:5; 30:3; Obad 1:15). On the day of the Lord, God alone will be exalted, while all human wickedness and pride will be struck down. The glorious day of God's coming will fill wicked and arrogant humans with terror (2:10, 19, 21).

2:5 Come . . . let us walk: Walking in God's light (his revelation) will lead to glorious participation in his kingdom (see 60:1; 1 Jn 1:7). God is the only light that overcomes the darkness of sin and evil (9:2). People cannot generate such light in and of themselves (59:9) but must walk in the light God provides, as they trust him and live in obedience to his will (50:10). • The phrase descendants of Jacob alludes to Israel's special historic relationship with the Lord as well as their history of sinfulness and rebellion (see 14:1; 48:1).

2:6 The Lord had rejected his people to discipline them (8:17). While not

- because they have filled their land with practices from the East and with sorcerers, as the Philistines do. They have made alliances with pagans.
- ⁷ Israel is full of silver and gold; there is no end to its treasures. Their land is full of warhorses; there is no end to its chariots.
- ⁸ Their land is full of idols; the people worship things they have made with their own hands.
- ⁹ So now they will be humbled, and all will be brought low—do not forgive them.
- ¹⁰ Crawl into caves in the rocks. Hide in the dust from the terror of the LORD and the glory of his majesty.
- ¹¹ Human pride will be brought down, and human arrogance will be humbled. Only the LORD will be exalted on that day of judgment.
- ¹² For the LORD of Heaven's Armies has a day of reckoning. He will punish the proud and mighty and bring down everything that is exalted.
- ¹³ He will cut down the tall cedars of Lebanon and all the mighty oaks of Bashan.
- ¹⁴ He will level all the high mountains and all the lofty hills.
- ¹⁵ He will break down every high tower and every fortified wall.
- ¹⁶ He will destroy all the great trading ships and every magnificent vessel.
- ¹⁷ Human pride will be humbled, and human arrogance will be brought down. Only the LORD will be exalted on that day of judgment.
- ¹⁸ Idols will completely disappear.
- ¹⁹ When the LORD rises to shake the earth, his enemies will crawl into holes in the ground. They will hide in caves in the rocks from the terror of the LORD and the glory of his majesty.
- ²⁰ On that day of judgment they will abandon the gold and silver idols they made for themselves to worship. They will leave their gods to the rodents and bats,
- ²¹ while they crawl away into caverns and hide among the jagged rocks in the cliffs. They will try to escape the terror of the LORD and the glory of his majesty as he rises to shake the earth.
- ²² Don't put your trust in mere humans. They are as frail as breath. What good are they?

permanent, the rejection seriously threatened their expectations of a glorious future. • sorcerers: These practitioners of pagan religion were expressly banned from Israel (Deut 18:10-11). • The Philistines were Israel's ancient enemies (9:12; 11:14; 14:29, 31).

2:7-8 Isaiah pointed out all the things that people substitute for the true God: material achievements and securities (silver . . . treasures), military strength (warhorses . . . chariots), and objects of affection (idols). Such wealth and military strength characterized the reign of King Uzziah (2 Chr 26:6-21). Elsewhere, Isaiah pointed out the sheer folly of worshipping anything that is made with one's own hands (see 44:9-20; 45:16).

2:10 In the day of God's judgment, people will seek refuge in caves in the rocks, natural hiding places in the rocky land of Judah, rather than repent in humility before almighty God. Kings and leaders as well as slaves and free persons will seek protection from judgment (see also Rev 6:15). • The terror of the LORD

refers to God's unbridled wrath against wickedness that will be revealed on the day of the Lord's judgment (see note on 2:5-22). The prophecy shifts from Israel (2:5-6) to humanity at large. The Lord is against anything and anyone that exalts and trusts in human structures and beliefs rather than in God (2:11-12, 22).

2:11-12 A key theme in Isaiah is that the Lord will be exalted and humble people will be restored (57:15), while proud and mighty people are humbled (26:5). • The day of judgment and the "day of reckoning" are also called the "day of the LORD" (see note on 2:5-22). There are seven such references in chs 2-4 (2:11, 17, 20; 3:6, 18; 4:1, 2).

2:13-16 The prophet used several images of human strength to elaborate on 2:11-12.

2:13 The cedars of Lebanon were prized trees used in the construction of Solomon's Temple and palace (1 Kgs 5:6) and other important buildings (Ezra 3:7). They represented wealth and power (2 Chr 25:18; Ps 92:12; 104:16), yet these mighty trees were as nothing before the Lord (10:34; 33:9; see the boast of Sennacherib in 37:24). • The oaks of Bashan were also an image of strength and splendor (Ezek 27:6); they, too, will disappoint (33:9; Nah 1:4; Zech 11:2).

2:16 all the great trading ships: Hebrew every ship of Tarshish; see 23:1. • every magnificent vessel: Ornate sea-going vessels were a sign of prosperity.

2:17 The day of judgment is the "day of the LORD" (see 13:4-13).

2:20-21 Animals such as rodents and bats lead a shadowy, subterranean existence. Those who worship idols will become like them in attempting to escape the Lord's judgment.

2:22 The judgment prophecy of 2:6-21 is set between two related exhortations: to trust the Lord (2:5) and not to put trust in human beings (2:22). • Human strength is temporary, frail as breath (see Ps 90).

Messages of Woe and of Hope (3:1–5:30) Judgment against Judah

- 3 ¹ The Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies, will take away from Jerusalem and Judah everything they depend on: every bit of bread and every drop of water, ² all their heroes and soldiers, judges and prophets, fortune-tellers and elders, ³ army officers and high officials, advisers, skilled sorcerers, and astrologers.
- ⁴ I will make boys their leaders, and toddlers their rulers.
- ⁵ People will oppress each other—man against man, neighbor against neighbor. Young people will insult their elders, and vulgar people will sneer at the honorable.
- ⁶ In those days a man will say to his brother, "Since you have a coat, you be our leader! Take charge of this heap of ruins!"
- ⁷ But he will reply, "No! I can't help. I don't have any extra food or clothes. Don't put me in charge!"
- ⁸ For Jerusalem will stumble, and Judah will fall, because they speak out against the LORD and refuse to obey him. They provoke him to his face.

- ⁹ The very look on their faces gives them away. They display their sin like the people of Sodom and don't even try to hide it. They are doomed! They have brought destruction upon themselves.
- ¹⁰ Tell the godly that all will be well for them. They will enjoy the rich reward they have earned!
- ¹¹ But the wicked are doomed, for they will get exactly what they deserve.
- ¹² Childish leaders oppress my people, and women rule over them. O my people, your leaders mislead you; they send you down the wrong road.
- ¹³ The LORD takes his place in court and presents his case against his people.
- ¹⁴ The LORD comes forward to pronounce judgment on the elders and rulers of his people: "You have ruined Israel, my vineyard. Your houses are filled with things stolen from the poor.
- ¹⁵ How dare you crush my people, grinding the faces of the poor into the dust?" demands the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies.

3:1-12 These verses continue the subject of judgment against Israel's leadership (see 1:23-25). The removal of leadership at all levels would allow the mob to gain control. Chaos and famine would turn Judah and Jerusalem into a social wasteland.

3:1 take away . . . bread . . . water: God had long ago warned of famine, with its horrible conditions that sometimes led to desperate acts, as one possible judgment for wickedness (Lev 26:26-29).

3:2-3 Regardless of their status, all military, civil, judicial, and religious leaders would be removed in the day of judgment (39:7; 2 Kgs 24:14-16). God would eventually give his people good leaders again (1:26) but not diviners and others who used pagan forms of revelation (47:9, 12-13; see Deut 18:10-12).

3:4 Conditions would be so severe that boys and toddlers would qualify as candidates for office. By this, Isaiah either meant that adult leaders would be so decimated that only children would be left alive to assume the role or simply that the new leaders would be as immature, unwise, strong willed, and inexperienced as children.

3:6-7 Things would be so bad (a heap of ruins) that no one would want to take leadership. The people would become so desperate that anyone providing food or clothes (3:6) could be the leader of the people. In fact, however, no one would have food or clothing (see 4:1).

3:8-9 The failure of human strength and societal organization can be a form of divine judgment. • to his face: The people of Judah had become bold in their wickedness like the people of Sodom (3:9; see also 1:9-10).

3:9 The very look on their faces: At this time people boldly displayed their rebellion against God.

3:10 The godly—the righteous remnant—will receive God's rewards (see 40:10).

3:11 The wicked who practice and execute injustice will receive God's just punishment.

3:13 The Lord is both the prosecutor and the supreme judge in this trial against his people. • against his people: As in Greek and Syriac versions; Hebrew reads against the peoples.

3:14 elders and rulers: Wickedness and abuse by ungodly and incompetent leadership thwarts God's purpose for his people (see also 3:12). Therefore, leaders come under more severe judgment. • my vineyard: See the Song of the Vineyard (5:1-7).

3:15 The Lord cares for the poor. These were the marginalized and oppressed (see 1:17), but God is their protector (see 25:4). God called for his people to share his concern for the poor, but the Israelites were exploiting them to gain wealth (see 3:14).

A Warning to Jerusalem

- ¹⁶ The LORD says, "Beautiful Zion is haughty:
craning her elegant neck,
flirting with her eyes,
walking with dainty steps,
tinkling her ankle bracelets.
¹⁷ So the Lord will send scabs on her head;
the LORD will make beautiful Zion bald."
¹⁸ On that day of judgment the Lord will strip away everything that makes her beautiful:
ornaments, headbands, crescent
necklaces,
¹⁹ earrings, bracelets, and veils;
²⁰ scarves, ankle bracelets, sashes, perfumes, and charms;
²¹ rings, jewels,
²² party clothes, gowns, capes, and purses;
²³ mirrors, fine linen garments,
head ornaments, and shawls.
²⁴ Instead of smelling of sweet perfume,
she will stink.
She will wear a rope for a sash,
and her elegant hair will fall out.
She will wear rough burlap instead of rich robes.
Shame will replace her beauty.
²⁵ The men of the city will be killed with the sword,
and her warriors will die in battle.

²⁶ The gates of Zion will weep and ^dmourn.
The city will be like a ravaged woman, huddled on the ground.

4 In that day so few men will be left that seven women will fight for each man, saying, "Let us all marry you! We will provide our own food and clothing. Only let us take your name so we won't be mocked as old maids."

A Promise of Restoration

- ² But in that day, the ^ebranch of the LORD will be beautiful and ^gglorious;
the fruit of the land will be the pride and glory
of all who survive in Israel.
³ All who remain in Zion will be a holy people—those who survive the destruction of Jerusalem
and are recorded among the living.
⁴ The Lord will wash the filth from beautiful Zion
and cleanse Jerusalem of its bloodstains with the hot ^hbreath of fiery judgment.
⁵ Then the LORD will provide shade for Mount Zion
and all who assemble there.
He will provide a canopy of cloud during the day
and smoke and flaming fire at night, covering the glorious land.

3:16–4:1 This passage applies the prophet's teaching on arrogance (see 2:11–12) to the people of Jerusalem. An alternate understanding is that this passage applies specifically to the women of Jerusalem (see note on 3:16).

3:16 The dramatic descriptions show how the people of Jerusalem loved their refined way of life. They openly displayed their proud self-reliance, power, and prestige. • Beautiful Zion: Or The women of Zion (with corresponding changes to plural forms through verse 24); Hebrew reads The daughters of Zion; also in 3:17. See "Zion" at 60:1–22, p. 1195.

3:17–25 In a reversal of fortune, the affluent and proud people of Jerusalem would suffer disgrace. Some of their ornaments (3:18) likely were amulets to keep evil away, but they could not ward off the calamity of judgment. These items of beauty were status symbols and represented financial security.

3:24 Shame will replace her beauty: As in Dead Sea Scrolls; Masoretic Text reads because instead of beauty.

3:25 The men . . . will die in battle: Part of the city's hopeless destitution would be the deaths of the men.

4:1 During Isaiah's ministry, Jerusalem's population was so decimated through war, famine, and disease (3:1–3; 6:13; 14:30; 22:2; 37:4) that there were few men left, creating an absence of leadership (see 3:1–12). Even worse conditions lay ahead with the approaching war between Judah and the alliance of Syria and Israel in 734–732 BC (2 Chr 28) and eventually the conquest and fall of Jerusalem (605–586 BC).

4:2–6 In bold contrast to the desperate picture of 3:16–4:1, this prophecy of salvation and hope (see also 2:2–4) promised cleansing, consecration, and the renewal of God's presence with the remnant. The imagery in 4:5–6 alludes to Israel's exodus from Egypt, when a pillar of cloud and of fire guided and protected them. Israel's restoration from exile would be a second exodus.

4:2 The branch (or the Branch) in this context probably refers to the remnant that would constitute Israel's new beginning after the Exile (see 6:13). Some also understand it as representing the ideal descendant of David, the Messiah (see 11:1; Jer 23:5; 33:15–16; Zech 3:8; 6:12). • A beautiful and glorious transformation from shame and disgrace (3:17–25) to fertility and beauty would manifest

God's presence and blessing among the remnant (4:6). • The fruit of the land, nature itself, would also be transformed from desolation to glory. Elsewhere, Isaiah described the future circumstances as resembling the Garden of Eden (see 51:3; 65:22). The message of renewal finds its ultimate fulfillment in the new creation (see Rom 8:19–27; 2 Cor 5:17; Gal 6:15; Eph 2:15; 4:24; Rev 21:22–27). • Those who survive in Israel—the remnant—would be the true citizens of Zion.

4:3 To be holy was the requirement for citizenship in Zion, where God dwells in his glorious majesty (see 6:3; Heb 12:14). • The remnant would have their names recorded among the living in the Book of Life (Exod 32:32; Dan 12:1; Mal 3:16; Rev 3:5; 20:12).

4:4 God's judgment has a purifying effect on his covenant people (see Mal 3:3). Justice must be satisfied before restoration can be offered. • from beautiful Zion: Or from the women of Zion; literally from the daughters of Zion.

4:5 The references to a canopy of cloud . . . and smoke and flaming fire recall God's continuous presence and protection during the exodus from Egypt (Exod 13:21–22; 14:21–22).

The Song of the Vineyard

5¹ Now I will sing for the one I love
a song about his vineyard:

My beloved had a vineyard on a rich and fertile hill.

2 He plowed the land, cleared its stones, and planted it with the best vines.

In the middle he built a watchtower and carved a winepress in the nearby rocks.

Then he waited for a harvest of sweet grapes,
but the grapes that grew were bitter.

3 Now, you people of Jerusalem and Judah,
you judge between me and my
vineyard.

4 What more could I have done for my vineyard
that I have not already done?
When I expected sweet grapes, why did my vineyard give me bitter
grapes?

5 Now let me tell you what I will do to my vineyard:
I will tear down its hedges and let it be destroyed.

I will break down its walls and let the animals trample it.

6 I will make it a wild place where the vines are not pruned and the ground is not hoed,
a place overgrown with briars and thorns.

I will command the clouds to drop no rain on it.

7 The nation of Israel is the vineyard of the LORD of Heaven's Armies.
The people of Judah are his pleasant
garden.

He expected a crop of justice,
but instead he found oppression.
He expected to find righteousness, but instead he heard cries of violence.

Judah's Guilt and Judgment

8 What sorrow for you who buy up house after house and field after field, until everyone is evicted and you live alone in the land.

9 But I have heard the LORD of Heaven's Armies
swear a solemn oath:
"Many houses will stand deserted;
even beautiful mansions will be empty.

10 Ten acres of vineyard will not produce even six gallons of wine.

4:6 shelter (literally shadow; see 32:2): God's protection would keep the remnant safe from enemies and from the destruction he would bring on the wicked (33:14-16).

5:1-30 The prophet pronounced judgment through song (5:1-7) and prophecies of woe (5:8-30). Although Israel's future condition would be one of purity and fellowship with God (4:2-6), that future cannot ignore the present sinful condition of the people and their leaders.

5:1-7 The Song of the Vineyard expresses in poetic form God's indictment of the wicked leadership that had ruined his vineyard, Israel. Like some wisdom literature, it presents readers with an account of a puzzling situation (5:1-2) before giving its spiritual significance (5:3-7). The theme of the vineyard's transformation is found again in ch 27 and in Jesus' teaching (Matt 21:33; Mark 12:1).

5:1 The one I love refers to the Lord; the prophet was singing this song on the Lord's behalf. • At first, the song sounds like a love song, but by 5:3 readers realize it is actually a complaint. • On Israel as God's vineyard, see also 3:14; Matt 21:33-46; John 15:1-17.

5:2 The Lord gave the best care to his vineyard, preparing and nursing it as an expert agriculturalist. He watched over it with great attentiveness, planting the best vines—ones that had the potential for abundant sweet grapes. God had great expectations of Israel as his people (see Exod 19:5-6), so the bitter grapes they produced—their unrighteous deeds—were useless and disappointing (cp. Gal 5:22-23).

5:3-4 Clearly, the Lord had graciously done everything possible for the vineyard. He was not to blame for the bitter grapes. • you judge: Isaiah wanted the audience to condemn the vineyard before he revealed that in fact they were the vineyard (5:7) This rhetorical tactic is similar to the one Nathan used to confront David (2 Sam 12:1-5).

5:5-6 The Lord promised to make his vineyard, Israel, a desolate place because it was fit only for destruction. Later, Isaiah prophesied the gracious, glorious transformation of Israel from desolation to fruitful vitality (see 55:13).

5:6 The withholding of rain was at times a divine judgment (Deut 28:23-24; Hag 1:11; 2:16). It was especially devastating to a society that depended heavily on agriculture.

5:7 The identification of Israel as the vineyard is a surprise that resolves the riddle of this passage. • Here, a powerful play on Hebrew words indicted Israel. The Lord expected justice (Hebrew mishpat) but saw only oppression (mispakh) of the needy. Instead of righteousness (tsedaqah), there were cries of violence (tse'aqah) against the poor (see 1:21-23).

5:8-23 This section contains six pronouncements of sorrow—six threats of dreadful judgment (5:8, 11, 18, 20, 21, 22). The sorrows identify some of the "bitter grapes" produced by the vineyard of Israel (5:1-7; see note on 5:2).

5:8-10 What sorrow: The first threat of judgment was against oppressive greed. Properties (house . . . and field) were being taken by illegal means. The new owners were thugs who used every avenue to enrich themselves at the expense of the poor (see 1 Kgs 21:1-29; Amos 2:6-7).

5:10 Ten acres: Literally A ten yoke, that is, the area of land plowed by ten teams of oxen in one day. • six gallons: Hebrew a bath [21 liters]. • Ten baskets

- Ten baskets of seed will yield only one basket of grain.”
- ¹¹ What sorrow for those who get up early in the morning looking for a drink of alcohol and spend long evenings drinking wine to make themselves flaming drunk.
- ¹² They furnish wine and lovely music at their grand parties—lyre and harp, tambourine and flute—but they never think about the LORD or notice what he is doing.
- ¹³ So my people will go into exile far away because they do not know me. Those who are great and honored will starve, and the common people will die of thirst.
- ¹⁴ The grave is licking its lips in anticipation, opening its mouth wide. The great and the lowly and all the drunken mob will be swallowed up.
- ¹⁵ Humanity will be destroyed, and people brought down; even the arrogant will lower their eyes in humiliation.
- ¹⁶ But the LORD of Heaven's Armies will be exalted by his justice. The holiness of God will be displayed by his righteousness.
- ¹⁷ In that day lambs will find good pastures, and fattened sheep and young goats will feed among the ruins.
- ¹⁸ What sorrow for those who drag their sins behind them with ropes made of lies, who drag wickedness behind them like a cart!
- ¹⁹ They even mock God and say, “Hurry up and do something! We want to see what you can do. Let the Holy One of Israel carry out his plan, for we want to know what it is.”
- ²⁰ What sorrow for those who say that evil is good and good is evil, that dark is light and light is dark, that bitter is sweet and sweet is bitter.
- ²¹ What sorrow for those who are wise in their own eyes and think themselves so clever.
- ²² What sorrow for those who are heroes at drinking wine and boast about all the alcohol they can hold.
- ²³ They take bribes to let the wicked go free, and they punish the innocent.
- ²⁴ Therefore, just as fire licks up stubble and dry grass shrivels in the flame, so their roots will rot and their flowers wither. For they have rejected the ^blaw of the LORD of Heaven's Armies; they have despised the word of the Holy One of Israel.
- ²⁵ That is why the LORD's anger burns against his people, of seed . . . one basket: Hebrew A homer [5 bushels or 220 liters] of seed will yield only an ephah [20 quarts or 22 liters]. As with drought (5:5-6), the reduction of crops was at times a divine judgment (see Hag 1:6, 9; 2:16).

5:11-17 What sorrow: The second threat of judgment concerned indulgent lifestyles. The language throughout this section indicates a life of corruption.

5:12 Self-indulgent and contented, these people never think about the LORD. They were too busy enjoying their drunken parties to reflect on why things went bad in the first place, such as why God sent no rain, or why they lost a battle.

5:13 Israel and Judah would go into exile to Assyria (722 BC) and Babylon (586 BC). • The people did not respond to the LORD because they did not know him (see 1:3). They likely knew about him, but their behavior showed that they did not know him in any intimate way.

5:14 The grave (Hebrew Sheol) represented the place of the dead in ancient Near Eastern thinking (see note on 14:9).

5:16 God's kingship is by definition just and righteous, and he will be exalted by his justice. At his exaltation, oppressors will be condemned (see 1:21-23).

5:17 young goats: As in Greek version; Hebrew reads strangers.

5:18-19 What sorrow: The third threat of judgment was against mockers, who openly treated God's authority with contempt.

5:18 God's ropes were “ropes of kindness and love” for Israel (Hos 11:4).

5:19 The people challenged God to hurry up and do something to prove that he really exists and is in control of this world. The verb hurry up translates two Hebrew verbs: maher (“be quick”) and khush (“be speedy”). The same Hebrew words are used in the name Maher-shalal-hash-baz (see 8:1; 10:6). • God's plan was revealed to Isaiah.

Little did the people know that God's purposes would turn against them.

5:20 What sorrow: The fourth threat of judgment was against a lack of integrity. • evil is good . . . dark is light . . . bitter is sweet: This twisted way of looking at life corrupts God's holy order.

5:21 What sorrow: The fifth threat of judgment concerned the folly of self-deception.

5:22-24 What sorrow: The sixth threat of judgment was against the indulgent lifestyle of the wicked.

5:24 The image of rotting roots reflects human transience (cp. 11:1; 27:6; 37:31). • To despise the Lord's word means to ignore it, to live without regard for keeping it. Such an attitude toward God's revelation leads to folly and ruin (Prov 1:30; 5:12; 15:5).

5:25 mountains tremble: God's wrath against sinners is often expressed as the shaking of the earth's foundations (13:13; 23:11; 24:18-19; 29:6; 54:10).

Isaiah's Cleansing and Call (6:1-13)

6 It was in the year King Uzziah died that I saw the Lord. He was sitting on a lofty throne, and the train of his robe filled the Temple. ²Attending him were mighty ³seraphim, each having six wings. With two wings they covered their faces, with two they covered their feet, and with two they flew.
³They were calling out to each other,

"Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of Heaven's Armies!

The whole earth is filled with his ⁴glory!"

⁴Their voices shook the Temple to its foundations, and the entire building was filled with smoke.

⁵Then I said, "It's all over! I am doomed, for I am a sinful man. I have filthy lips, and I live among a people with filthy lips. Yet I

God's appearance in judgment or salvation in natural phenomena such as smoke, darkness, lightning, and earthquake is called a theophany (see 6:1-4; 6:13-13; Exod 19:18-19; Ps 18:7-15; Mic
1:3-4; Rev 8:5; 16:17-18; 18:21-22).

5:26 The signal was a banner raised on a long pole and often placed on a high hill (see also 13:2; 18:3; 30:17). The expression signal to distant nations is common in Isaiah and might be a call for participation in battle (as here) or in salvation (11:10; 12; 49:22; 62:10).
* Distant nations refers to the Assyrians and Babylonians, who served as instruments of God's judgment on Israel (722 BC) and on Judah (586 BC). They were the "wild animals" (5:5) called in to trample the vineyard (5:1-7). They would fiercely attack Israel and Judah, not letting up until God's judgment was complete (5:27-30).

5:30 day of destruction (literally that day; see note on 2:5-22). * In OT prophecy, darkness represents the experience of God's alienation, wrath, and judgment (see also 8:22), while light stands for his holy presence (see especially 60:2, 19).

6:1-13 Isaiah's marvelous vision of God as King on his throne served as a pivotal event in the life of the prophet.
The historical circumstances surrounding this event can be interpreted in two ways: (1) Some see ch 6 as Isaiah's original call to ministry, meaning that chs 1-5 and 7-12 fit into the reign of Ahaz, who came to rule after the death of Uzziah (6:1). If this were so, why was Isaiah's call not at the beginning of the book? Perhaps his call was put in ch 6 for literary reasons, serving as a conclusion to chs 1-5 and an introduction to chs 7-12. The prophet's own transformation and commissioning symbolizes the entire nation's need for conversion if it wants to fulfill its mandate to be God's light to the world. (2) Others understand chs 1-12 as chronological; Isaiah's call in ch 6 would then serve as a recommissioning of the prophet to minister in a new way in a different period (the time of Ahaz) when his words would be rejected. Those who hold this interpretation point to 2:7-9; 3:16-24; and 5:8-14, contending that these passages reflect a time of prosperity, military strength, pride, and splendor;

these conditions existed during Uzziah's reign but not during Ahaz's reign.

6:1 At the time that King Uzziah died in 740 BC, the Assyrians had begun to reassert their dominance in the ancient Near East. It marked the beginning of an era dominated by major world powers—Assyria, then Babylonia, Persia, Greece, and Rome. * I saw the Lord: "Lord" (Hebrew adonay) is used to describe human rulers as well as God.
God is the supreme King. * on a lofty throne: The apostle John also had a vision of God's heavenly throne (see Rev

4:2; 7:10; 21:5). * If just the train of the Lord's robe filled the Temple, how great and majestic must have been the robe itself and the one wearing it.

6:2 The mighty seraphim are heavenly beings not mentioned elsewhere in Scripture (but see also Rev 4:6-9; 15:8).
The Hebrew term might suggest an association with fire. They covered their faces so as not to look on God.

6:3 The triple usage of the word holy emphasizes the absolute separateness of the Lord. * The whole earth is filled:
Because there is no verb in the Hebrew, two slightly different translations of the seraphim's proclamation are possible.
It could be that the earth, though defiled, is currently filled with his glory in creation. Or, it could mean that the earth will be filled with the glory of the Lord when he establishes his kingship on the earth in the future. Either way, the Lord's glorious presence will one day dwell more fully on earth, despite humanity's sinfulness and the power of wicked nations. God's glory was further revealed in the incarnation of the Son (John 12:41; 2 Cor 3:18; 4:4-7).

6:5 It's all over! I am doomed: The prophet felt unworthy of the vision. He was painfully aware of his personal uncleaness (sinful . . . filthy lips)
when compared to the holiness of God.
Isaiah knew that he was unworthy to speak the pure word of God, as were his people.

have seen the King, the LORD of Heaven's ^bArmies."

⁶Then one of the 'seraphim flew to me with a burning coal he had taken from the altar with a pair of tongs. ⁷He touched my lips with it and said, "See, this coal has touched your lips. Now your guilt is removed, and your sins are forgiven."

⁸Then I heard the Lord asking, "Whom should I send as a messenger to this people? Who will go for us?"

I said, "Here I am. Send me."

⁹And he said, "Yes, go, and say to this people,

'Listen carefully, but do not understand.

Watch closely, but learn nothing.'

¹⁰Harden the hearts of these people.

Plug their ears and shut their eyes.

That way, they will not see with their eyes,

nor hear with their ears,
nor understand with their hearts and turn to me for healing."

¹¹Then I said, "Lord, how long will this go on?"

And he replied,

"Until their towns are empty,
their houses are deserted,
and the whole country is a wasteland;

¹²until the LORD has sent everyone away, and the entire land of Israel lies deserted.

¹³If even a tenth—a remnant—survive,
it will be invaded again and burned.

But as a terebinth or oak tree leaves a stump when it is cut down, so Israel's stump will be a holy seed."

God's Plan vs. Human Counsel (7:1–11:16)

Crisis: A Message for Ahaz

7 When Ahaz, son of Jotham and grandson of Uzziah, was king of Judah, King Rezin of Syria and Pekah son of Remaliah, the king of Israel, set out to attack Jerusalem. However, they were unable to carry out their plan.

²The news had come to the royal court of Judah: "Syria is allied with Israel against us!" So the hearts of the king and his people trembled with fear, like trees shaking in a storm.

6:7 your guilt is removed, and your sins are forgiven: The prophet's experience of forgiveness anticipated Israel's national need for forgiveness and cleansing (43:25; 44:22; see note on 39:6-7).

6:8 Who will go for us? The Lord spoke in the presence of his angels, the heavenly council (see also 1 Kgs 22:19-22; Jer 23:18, 22). • Here I am: The prophet was so overcome by the grace of God in cleansing him that he willingly committed himself to a lifetime of ministry.

6:9-10 For these verses, the Greek version reads And he said, "Go and say to this people, / 'When you hear what I say, you will not understand. / When you see what I do, you will not comprehend.' / For the hearts of these people are hardened, / and their ears cannot hear, and they have closed their eyes—/ so their eyes cannot see, / and their ears cannot hear, / and their hearts cannot understand, / and they cannot turn to me and let me heal them." Cp. Matt 13:14-15; Mark 4:12; Luke 8:10; Acts 28:26-27, all of which quote from the Greek version.

6:9 do not understand . . . learn nothing: The prophet's words brought out the heart response of his audience. The people were so sunk in sin that when they heard the truth it did not bring them closer to God but actually drove them away (Ahaz, ch 7). Yet the truth had to be declared. Jesus also applied this principle in his own preaching

(Matt 13:14-15; Luke 8:10; 19:42; John 12:40; see also Acts 28:26-27; Rom 11:8).

6:10 Isaiah was God's agent to stimulate blindness and deafness in the wicked and sight and hearing in the godly (see also 29:9-10, 18; 35:5; 42:7, 16-19; 43:8; 56:10; 59:10). • turn to me for healing: The Lord was ready to heal those who truly repented, but not those who merely wanted to avoid judgment while holding on to their sinful ways.

6:11 how long . . . until . . . the whole country is a wasteland: During the prophet's ministry from 740 to 701 bc, the nation was plagued by wars, famines, and other forms of devastation.

6:13 Even if a tenth—a remnant—survive, the judgment would continue until nearly all were destroyed. The prophet often spoke of near extermination or decimation (9:18-21; 10:20; 22:4; 48:19; 51:18) but maintained the hope of a remnant who would make a new beginning (7:21-22; 29:23; 37:31; 44:26; 49:19; 54:1). • Israel's stump will be a holy seed: The stump represents a remnant of holy people (see 4:2-3) whose new leader would be pleasing to the Lord (11:1).

7:1-39:8 In this long section of the book, the nation of Israel was confronted with a vision of God, similar to how Isaiah was confronted in ch 6.

7:1-12:6 The historical context of these prophecies involved Assyria's rise to power and the alliance between Syria and Israel as enemies of Judah (7:1-2; see 2 Kgs 16:5). Assyria became God's rod to punish Syria, Israel, and Judah (chs 7-10). See map on 2 Kgs 15:19-20:37, p. 657.

7:1-25 At one point in his reign, Ahaz found himself in a crisis. The leaders of Syria and Israel attacked Judah. They planned to replace Ahaz and force Judah to join them in their resistance against Assyria. Ahaz responded by calling Assyria in to help him (2 Kgs 16:7-10), thus refusing Isaiah's challenge to trust the Lord instead (7:12). Although the Assyrians squelched the alliance of Syria and Israel, leading to the eventual downfall of both those nations, they also soon set their sights on total domination of Judah.

7:1 Rezin was king of Syria (Hebrew Aram; also in 7:2, 4, 5, 8). Damascus was Syria's capital city. • Pekah was king of Israel 740-732 bc. He was a renowned warrior (2 Chr 28:5-8). • Pekah and Rezin began to attack Jerusalem while Jotham was king (740-732 bc), and they intensified their efforts during the early years of young King Ahaz (2 Kgs 15:37; 16:5).

7:2 Israel: Literally Ephraim, referring to the northern kingdom of Israel; also in 7:5, 8, 9, 17. • hearts . . . trembled with fear: In contrast, Ahaz's son King Hezekiah faced the Assyrians some thirty years later with great faith (701 bc; see 37:6-7, 14-20).

You will find him at the end of the aqueduct that feeds water into the upper pool, near the road leading to the field where cloth is washed. ⁴Tell him to stop worrying. Tell him he doesn't need to fear the fierce anger of those two burned-out embers, King Rezin of Syria and Pekah son of Remaliah. ⁵Yes, the kings of Syria and Israel are plotting against him, saying, ⁶'We will attack Judah and capture it for ourselves. Then we will install the son of Tabeel as Judah's king.' ⁷But this is what the Sovereign LORD says:

"This invasion will never happen;
it will never take place;

⁸ for Syria is no stronger than its capital, Damascus, and Damascus is no stronger than its king, Rezin.

As for Israel, within sixty-five years

it will be crushed and completely destroyed.

and Samaria is no stronger than its king, Pekah son of Remaliah.

I cannot make you stand firm."

The Sign of Immanuel

¹⁰Later, the LORD sent this message to King Ahaz: ¹¹"Ask the LORD your God for a sign of confirmation, Ahaz. Make it as difficult as you want—as high as heaven or as deep as the place of the dead."

¹²But the king refused. "No," he said, "I will not test the LORD like that."

¹³Then Isaiah said, "Listen well, you royal family of David! Isn't it enough to exhaust human patience? Must you exhaust the patience of my God as well? ¹⁴All right then, the Lord himself will give you the sign. Look!

Fearing People (7:1-25)

Prov 29:25
Jer 10:5; 30:10;
46:27-28

One of the purposes of Isaiah's prophecy was to highlight the contrast between faith and fear. We see Ahaz as an example of fear (7:1-25). We then see Hezekiah as an imperfect example of faith (see ch 37). Isaiah himself provides a better example of faith (ch 8). Finally, God's servant stands as the ideal example of faith (42:1-7; 50:4-7).

Ahaz trembled when he heard that Syria and Israel had allied against him (7:2). The Lord encouraged him to be a man of faith, because without faith he could not expect the Lord's protection (7:9). However, Ahaz refused to trust the Lord. Rather, he turned to the Assyrians for help. As a result, the Lord became a trap for him, as for all Israel and Judah, rather than a source of safety (8:11-15). God can be a stumbling stone (8:14) for those who look elsewhere for peace and security.

Combining the fear, or worship, of the Lord with the worship of human beings, institutions, or idols is called syncretism. Syncretism is a deceptive trap. Isaiah presents the Lord as the incomparable one (see 40:18) who does not tolerate syncretism (17:10; 57:11). Those who do not commit themselves wholly to God will live in fear of others. Ultimately, they will live lives filled with dread.

7:3 Shear-jashub is a symbolic name meaning a remnant will return (see 10:21). • The aqueduct was a place where political negotiations took place later during Hezekiah's reign (see 36:2). • washed: Or bleached.

7:4 he doesn't need to fear: This was a "fear not" prophecy (common in Isaiah) in which the Lord assured his people of his presence and purpose. • two burned-out embers: If Ahaz had God's perspective, he would have seen that Rezin and Pekah were minor threats who were about to be extinguished.

7:6 The son of Tabeel, otherwise unknown, was obviously sympathetic to Israel's and Syria's resistance against Assyria.

7:8 The Assyrian kings Esarhaddon and Ashurbanipal had Israel resettled with people from other places within sixty-five years (by 670 BC; see 2 Kgs 17:24-34). • Damascus was crushed and completely destroyed by 732 BC, and Samaria was crushed by 722 BC.

7:9 The last sentence is a play on two Hebrew words: If you do not have faith (ta'aminu), you will not stand firm (te'amenu). Firm trust in the Lord is utterly essential, especially for a leader of God's people (see also 2 Chr 20:20), and it must be firmly acted upon in order to demonstrate that it exists. Ahaz and his contemporaries trusted their enemy (Assyria) rather than God. By contrast, Hezekiah later demonstrated his faith in the Lord in a similar context (see chs 36-38).

7:11 A sign of confirmation would be performed before Ahaz's eyes as a token of God's truthfulness. His son Hezekiah would also receive such a sign (see 37:30). • as deep as the place of the dead: Hebrew as deep as Sheol. See note on Ps 6:5.

7:12 I will not test the LORD like that: Despite this seemingly pious response (based on Deut 6:16), Ahaz was most likely already in negotiations with the Assyrians and had already decided whom he would trust for rescue in this war.

7:14 virgin (Hebrew 'almah): Or young woman. • This prophecy received its ultimate fulfillment in the birth of Jesus Christ (Matt 1:18-24). Yet it is likely that it also had a partial fulfillment in Isaiah's day, either with the birth of godly king Hezekiah, Ahaz's son, or with the birth of one of Isaiah's children. The

The virgin will conceive a child! She will give birth to a son and will call him Immanuel (which means 'God is with us').¹⁵ By the time this child is old enough to choose what is right and reject what is wrong, he will be eating yogurt and honey.¹⁶ For before the child is that old, the lands of the two kings you fear so much will both be deserted.

¹⁷Then the LORD will bring things on you, your nation, and your family unlike anything since Israel broke away from Judah. He will bring the king of Assyria upon you!"

¹⁸In that day the LORD will whistle for the army of southern Egypt and for the army of Assyria. They will swarm around you like flies and bees.¹⁹ They will come in vast hordes and settle in the fertile areas and also in the desolate valleys, caves, and thorny places.²⁰ In that day the Lord will hire a "razor" from beyond the Euphrates River—the king of Assyria—and use it to shave off everything: your land, your crops, and your people.

²¹In that day a farmer will be fortunate to have a cow and two sheep or goats left.

²²Nevertheless, there will be enough milk for everyone because so few people will be left in the land. They will eat their fill of yogurt and honey.²³ In that day the lush vineyards, now worth 1,000 pieces of silver, will become patches of briars and thorns.²⁴ The entire land will become a vast expanse of briars and thorns, a hunting ground overrun by wildlife.²⁵ No one will go to the fertile hillsides where the gardens once grew, for briars and thorns will cover them. Cattle, sheep, and goats will graze there.

The Coming Assyrian Invasion

8 Then the LORD said to me, "Make a large signboard and clearly write this name on it: Maher-shalal-hash-baz." I asked Uriah the priest and Zechariah son of Jeberekiah, both known as honest men, to witness my doing this.

³Then I slept with my wife, and she became pregnant and gave birth to a son. And the LORD said, "Call him Maher-shalal-hash-baz." For before this child is old enough to say 'Papa' or 'Mama,' the king of Assyria will carry away both the abundance of Damascus and the riches of Samaria."

⁵Then the LORD spoke to me again and said, "My care for the people of Judah is like the gently flowing waters of Shiloah, but they have rejected it. They are rejoic-similar sequence of the verbs in 7:14 and 8:3 (conceive . . . give birth . . . call) and the link between Immanuel and Maher-shalal-hash-baz in 8:5-10 suggest that Immanuel and Maher-shalal-hash-baz were the same person; see note on 8:5-10. • The name Immanuel (which means 'God is with us') symbolized God's presence and protection. God was with Judah during the attack by the alliance of Syria and Israel (734 BC), in the Assyrian crisis (701 BC), and throughout their prolonged existence until their fall in 586 BC. The kingdom of Israel fell during the time of Isaiah (722 BC). The assurance "I am with you" remained significant even in the exilic and postexilic periods (41:10; 43:2, 5). The greatest assurance ultimately came in Jesus Christ, the incarnate Son of God (Matt 1:23; see also Rev 12:5).

7:15-16 By the time this child is old enough: The crisis involving the alliance of Syria and Israel against Judah was in 734 BC; by 732 BC Damascus, capital of Syria, was destroyed, and the northern kingdom, Israel, was defeated. • choose what is right and reject what is wrong: This was to happen by the age of 12, when a child was held responsible as an adult. In 722 BC, Israel went into exile. • he will be eating yogurt (or curds; also in 7:22) and honey: The land would be so depopulated that these delicacies would be available to all.

7:17 Israel broke away from Judah in

931 BC (see 1 Kgs 12:19-20). • will bring the king of Assyria upon you: Ahaz called Assyria in to help (2 Kgs 16:8-9), but Assyria turned against him and made Judah a vassal state.

7:18-25 The repetition of in that day referred to the yet future day of the Lord (see note on 2:5-22). Judah would experience the judgment already announced by Isaiah as a foretaste of an even greater judgment to come: exile in Babylon (586–538 BC).

7:19 Locations such as desolate valleys, caves, and thorny places were places of refuge for the desperate (see 2:10). However, Judah's enemies would find them there.

7:20 the Euphrates River: Literally the river. • shave off everything: your land, your crops, and your people (literally shave off the head, the hair of the legs, and the beard): In the ancient Near East, forced shaving was an act of disgrace (see 2 Sam 10:4-5). Here it was a metaphor for the despoiling of the country.

7:23-25 Farmers faced near total disaster. Fertile agricultural fields (lush vineyards) would revert to wild grazing lands dominated by worthless plants (briars and thorns; see 5:6).

7:23 1,000 pieces of silver: Hebrew 1,000 [shekels] of silver, about 25 pounds or 11.4 kilograms in weight.

8:1 Maher-shalal-hash-baz means

"Swift to plunder and quick to carry away"; see note on 5:19. The words apply both to Judah's enemies (8:4) and to Judah itself (8:7-8). They had trusted Assyria in place of God, and now Assyria would turn on them and all but destroy them. God was with them (Immanuel; see 7:14), but his presence would be destructive if they refused to trust in him (see 8:14).

8:3 my wife: Literally the prophetess. • Like the name Immanuel (7:14), Maher-shalal-hash-baz is symbolic. It is possible that this child was the partial fulfillment of the Immanuel prophecy as well (see note on 7:14). The ultimate fulfillment of the Immanuel prophecy occurred with the birth of Jesus (Matt 1:22-23).

8:4 before this child is old enough: See also 7:16. • Damascus and Samaria were ruined and destroyed in 732 BC, fulfilling this verse along with 7:8, 19-20.

8:5-10 This prophecy connects the sign of Maher-shalal-hash-baz with the sign of Immanuel (8:8, 10; see note on 7:14).

8:6 The gently flowing waters of Shiloah supplied Jerusalem with water. Here they represent God's loving presence and provision (see Ps 46:4). • Ahaz rejected the sign and the promise of God's protection. He was not a man of faith (7:9), and now the people were following in his footsteps by placing their ing over what will happen to King Rezin and King Pekah. ⁷Therefore, the Lord will overwhelm them with a mighty flood from the Euphrates River—the king of Assyria and all his glory. This flood will overflow all its channels ⁸and sweep into Judah until it is chin deep. It will spread its wings, submerging your land from one end to the other, O Immanuel.

⁹ “Huddle together, you nations, and be terrified.

A Call to Trust the LORD

¹¹ The LORD has given me a strong warning not to think like everyone else does. He said,

¹² “Don’t call everything a conspiracy, like they do,

and don’t live in dread of what frightens them.

¹³ Make the LORD of Heaven’s Armies holy in your life.

He is the one you should fear.

He is the one who should make you tremble.

¹⁴ He will keep you safe.

But to Israel and Judah

he will be a stone that makes people stumble,

a rock that makes them fall.

And for the people of Jerusalem

he will be a trap and a snare.

¹⁵ Many will stumble and fall,

never to rise again.

They will be snared and captured.”

¹⁶ Preserve the teaching of God; entrust his instructions to those who follow me.

¹⁷ I will wait for the LORD, who has turned away from the descendants of Jacob.

I will put my hope in him.

¹⁸ I and the children the LORD has given me serve as signs and warnings to Israel hope in Assyria to save them from King Rezin and King Pekah (Hebrew and the son of Remaliah; 7:7-8, 16). • They are rejoicing over what will happen to: Or They are rejoicing because of.

8:7 The mighty flood from the Euphrates River (literally the river) represents the invading Assyrian army (see Jer 47:2). The river would overflow all its channels when the Assyrians marched deep into Judah. This stood as a frightening contrast with the gently flowing waters of Shiloah (8:6).

8:8 chin deep: Judah barely survived the Assyrian assaults in 701 BC (see chs 36–37). • submerging your land from one end to the other: From north to south, Judah was nearly devastated, except for the city of Jerusalem (see 1:8-9; chs 36–37). • Immanuel: Despite their failure to trust him and the disaster it brought, God was still with his people (see 7:14).

8:9-10 God’s plan to rescue his stubborn people would ultimately be fulfilled. God planned to destroy Assyria, just as he does every other proud nation that rejects him or boasts in its own power.

8:10 God is with us: Hebrew Immanuel! See 7:14; 8:8.

8:11-15 This text reveals the heart of Isaiah’s message. The issue was fear of the Lord versus fear of people (see 7:9; 8:6). When an individual fears people, the Lord becomes a trap and destruction is certain (cp. Prov 29:25). For those who fear the Lord, he becomes a sanctuary; their salvation is assured.

8:12 People regarded Isaiah’s message of non-involvement with Assyria as treasonous, part of a conspiracy. But Isaiah was not trying to play political games; rather, he proclaimed God’s message. • What frightens them was the alliance of Syria and Israel attacking Judah (see 7:1, 4).

8:13 To make the LORD . . . holy meant giving him first place in life and acknowledging that nothing is greater than he is. • Fear of God means reverencing him as God (Prov 1:7). The people of Judah were not to fear Israel and Syria or the Assyrians (7:9; 10:24).

8:14 He will keep you safe (literally he will be a sanctuary): God is a place of refuge. • stone . . . stumble . . . rock . . . fall: By trusting Assyria rather than God, the people of Jerusalem would find themselves in a trap and a snare as the Assyrians turned against them. For those who trust in the Lord, however, he is faithful and strong (28:16; see Ps 118:22-23; Luke 2:34; Rom 9:32-33; 1 Pet 2:6-8).

8:16-17 The command to preserve Isaiah’s teaching suggests that it was harshly received by his contemporaries, who might have wanted to snuff it out (see note on 8:12). Faithful disciples safely preserved the prophet’s messages.

8:16 instructions (Hebrew torah): The Torah defined Israel’s covenant relationship with God, but the people were quick to forget (see also 1:10).

8:17 I will wait for the LORD . . . I will put my hope in him: Isaiah’s message against Syria, Israel, and Assyria would be proven true in the historical events that followed. The fulfillment would further encourage the godly to await the final downfall of all ungodly power structures (see 8:9-10). Waiting for the Lord requires submission, prayer, hope, and faith (see 25:9; 26:8; 33:2), resulting in a quiet spirit and a renewal of inner strength (40:31). The book of Hebrews applies these words to Jesus Christ (Heb 2:13). • God had turned away; the people of Israel and Judah were alienated from the Lord because of their sin.

8:18 I and the children the LORD has given me (see the application to Jesus Christ in Heb 2:13): The names of the prophet Isaiah and his children carried significance as signs and warnings. Shear-jashub (a remnant will return; 7:3) was a sign of God’s faithfulness to Judah. Maher-shalal-hash-baz (swift to plunder and quick to carry away) signified the destruction of Damascus and Samaria (8:1-4) and the desolation of faithless Judah (8:5-8). The name of Isaiah (Yahweh is salvation) itself signifies that salvation is from the Lord alone. These three names also represent major themes in the book: the remnant, the desolation of Judah, and salvation.

from the LORD of Heaven's Armies who dwells in his Temple on Mount Zion.

¹⁹Someone may say to you, "Let's ask the mediums and those who consult the "spirits of the dead. With their whisperings and mutterings, they will tell us what to do." But shouldn't people ask God for guidance? Should the living seek guidance from the dead?

²⁰Look to God's instructions and teachings! People who contradict his word are completely in the dark. ²¹They will go from one place to another, weary and hungry. And because they are hungry, they will rage and curse their king and their God. They will look up to heaven ²²and down at the earth, but wherever they look, there will be trouble and anguish and dark despair. They will be thrown out into the darkness.

Hope in the Messiah

9 Nevertheless, that time of darkness and despair will not go on forever. The land of Zebulun and Naphtali will be humbled, but there will be a time in the future when Galilee of the Gentiles, which lies along the road that runs between the Jordan and the sea, will be filled with glory.

² The people who walk in darkness will see a great light.

For those who live in a land of deep darkness,
a light will shine.

³ You will enlarge the nation of Israel, and its people will rejoice. They will rejoice before you as people rejoice at the harvest and like warriors dividing the plunder.

⁴ For you will break the yoke of their slavery and lift the heavy burden from their shoulders.

You will break the oppressor's rod, just as you did when you destroyed the army of Midian.

⁵ The boots of the warrior and the uniforms bloodstained by war will all be burned.

They will be fuel for the fire.

⁶ For a child is born to us, a son is given to us.

The government will rest on his shoulders.

And he will be called:

Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.

⁷ His government and its peace will never end.

He will rule with fairness and justice from the throne of his ancestor David for all eternity.

The passionate commitment of the LORD of Heaven's Armies will make this happen!

Immanuel (God is with us) embodies all of these themes, along with the idea that Judah would be protected if only it would trust in the Lord.

8:19-22 Isaiah contrasts his counsel with that of his ungodly contemporaries. Isaiah's message gives light, whereas the message of the spiritists led to darkness and death. • Mediums used various means of divination, including summoning the dead, in the attempt to determine the future (see 19:3). God had banned these useless activities (47:9; Deut 18:9-11).

8:20 God gave instructions and teachings through the law and through his prophets, such as Isaiah (see 8:16).

9:1-7 Beyond destruction there is hope. In the Messiah's kingdom, the darkness would give way to great light, which was to dawn in Galilee and reach the whole nation, and then the whole world. The Messiah's rule would be marked by the vindication of the oppressed and the end of all oppression. He would bring justice and righteousness forever in a kingdom of peace.

9:1 Verse 9:1 is numbered 8:23 in the Hebrew text. • Zebulun and Naphtali were northern tribes in Israel (Judg 6:35). They were humbled by the Assyrian invaders under Tiglath-pileser III in 734 and 732 bc. In Jesus' lifetime, this prophecy was connected with his coming out of Galilee (Matt 4:14-16). • Galilee of the Gentiles was the region of Israel between the Sea of Galilee and the Mediterranean Sea. It was heavily influenced—culturally, religiously, and politically—by the surrounding Gentile nations.

9:2 Verses 9:2-21 are numbered 9:1-20 in the Hebrew text. • a land of deep darkness: Greek version reads a land where death casts its shadow. Cp. Matt 4:16.

9:4 The people experienced the rule of other nations as a yoke of . . . slavery and a heavy burden (Jer 30:8). • oppressor's rod: In 10:5, the Assyrians are called "the rod of [the Lord's] anger." Just as God's anger will cease, so will Assyria's oppression of Judah (14:5). • The Lord had destroyed the army of Midian through Gideon (see Judg 6:35; 7:22-25).

9:5 Burning the boots and uniforms marked the end of the need for instruments of war.

9:6 a child is born to us, a son is given to us: This child, the Messiah, would be David's descendant (11:1). • he will be called: These names can be read as four throne names, signifying the nature of the child's rule: (1) The Wonderful Counselor (or Wonderful, Counselor) conforms to God's wisdom (11:1; 25:1; 28:29; 40:13), unlike the counselors of Judah (1:26; 3:3). (2) Mighty God is an affirmation of the Messiah's divine nature. (3) He cares for his children as the Everlasting Father, the father whose care continues forever (cp. 22:21; 63:16). (4) The Prince of Peace is a leader who brings peace. • Alternatively, the four names could be collapsed into two: (1) "A Wonderful Counselor [is] the Mighty God"; and (2) "the Everlasting Father [is] a Prince of Peace" (on his nature, see 11:1-9). • Jesus Christ, the Son of David (Matt 1:1; Luke 1:32; see also Isa 7:14; 8:3, 18), will bring in the kingdom of his peace (Rev 19).

9:7 Like Ahaz, this ruler will be a descendant of David. Unlike Ahaz and the rulers of Jerusalem (1:21-23), he would trust God and rule with justice and righteousness (11:1-3). Jesus the Messiah reigns for all eternity (Luke 1:32-33).

The LORD's Anger: Judgment against Israel

- ⁸ The LORD has spoken out against Jacob; his judgment has fallen upon Israel.
⁹ And the people of Israel and Samaria, who spoke with such pride and arrogance, will soon know it.
¹⁰ They said, "We will replace the broken bricks of our ruins with finished stone, and replant the felled sycamore-fig trees with cedars."
¹¹ But the LORD will bring Rezin's enemies against Israel and stir up all their foes.
¹² The Syrians from the east and the Philistines from the west will bare their fangs and devour Israel. But even then the LORD's anger will not be satisfied. His fist is still poised to strike.
¹³ For after all this punishment, the people will still not repent. They will not seek the LORD of Heaven's Armies.
¹⁴ Therefore, in a single day the LORD will destroy both the head and the tail, the noble palm branch and the lowly reed.
¹⁵ The leaders of Israel are the head, and the lying prophets are the tail.

- ¹⁶ For the leaders of the people have misled them. They have led them down the path of destruction.
¹⁷ That is why the LORD takes no pleasure in the young men and shows no mercy even to the widows and orphans. For they are all wicked hypocrites, and they all speak foolishness. But even then the LORD's anger will not be satisfied. His fist is still poised to strike.
¹⁸ This wickedness is like a brushfire. It burns not only briars and thorns but also sets the forests ablaze. Its burning sends up clouds of smoke.
¹⁹ The land will be blackened by the fury of the LORD of Heaven's Armies. The people will be fuel for the fire, and no one will spare even his own brother.
²⁰ They will attack their neighbor on the right but will still be hungry. They will devour their neighbor on the left but will not be satisfied. In the end they will even eat their own children.

Trusting the Lord (8:16-20)

Isa 2:22; 7:4-9;
12:1-2; 26:2-3, 12;
32:17-18; 35:4;
40:9-11, 28-31;
51:12
Jer 14:22
Lam 3:22-27

After Isaiah saw a vision of God's goodness and glory (ch 6), he looked at life with a renewed perspective on God's righteousness and exaltation. The prophet saw that mere humans prove untrustworthy (2:22); the Lord alone is holy and to be feared. The prophet led his family and disciples to wait for and hope in the Lord alone (8:16-17).

Isaiah's trust in the Lord represents the spirit of the "new community." God's children come out of Israel, Judah, and the Gentile nations. They live in awe of the Lord (29:23) and are not afraid (see 7:4; 35:4; 40:9), knowing that the Lord will be with them (51:12). They respond in praise because they trust in him (12:1-2). The faithful might feel the effects of God's judgment on his enemies as they await the Lord's salvation. Yet they find new strength day by day (40:31). They see themselves as citizens of God's city, Zion, even while living with contemporaries who do not believe as they do (26:2).

In all this, Isaiah anticipates the coming servant, the Messiah (49:1-7). The lifestyle of trusting the Lord brings true and lasting inner peace (26:3, 12; 32:17-18).

9:8-12 This prophecy of judgment was against the northern kingdom of Israel. Despite God's message that the Assyrians would crush them (chs 7-8), the people of Samaria were foolishly confident that they could withstand the siege.

9:9 of Israel: Literally of Ephraim, referring to the northern kingdom of Israel.

9:10 In their proud confidence, Israel thought it would replace whatever was lost with more expensive items (see 2:13-16; also Amos 5:11).

9:11 Rezin's enemies were the Assyrians (7:4, 17; 8:4). Rezin was king of Syria (see 7:1-25).

9:12 Syrians: Hebrew Arameans.

9:13-17 God's punishment was intended to bring repentance, not destruction; but Israel was apostate and refused to repent or seek the Lord.

9:17 Even widows and orphans, ordinarily objects of God's compassion (1:17, 23; 10:2), became objects of his wrath when they were unrepentant.

9:18-21 Following the decimation of leadership, civil war would destroy the nation like an out-of-control brushfire.

9:20 eat their own children: Or eat their own arms.

²¹ Manasseh will feed on Ephraim, Ephraim will feed on Manasseh, and both will devour Judah.
But even then the LORD's anger will not
be satisfied.
His fist is still poised to strike.

10 ¹ What sorrow awaits the unjust judges and those who issue unfair laws.
² They deprive the poor of justice and deny the rights of the needy among my people.
They prey on widows
and take advantage of orphans.
³ What will you do when I punish you, when I send disaster upon you from a distant land?
To whom will you turn for help?
Where will your treasures be safe?
⁴ You will stumble along as prisoners or lie among the dead.
But even then the LORD's anger will not
be satisfied.
His fist is still poised to strike.

Judgment against Assyria

⁵ "What sorrow awaits Assyria, the rod of my anger.
I use it as a club to express my anger.
⁶ I am sending Assyria against a godless nation,
against a people with whom I am angry.

Assyria will plunder them, trampling them like dirt beneath its feet.

⁷ But the king of Assyria will not understand that he is my tool;
his mind does not work that way.
His plan is simply to destroy,
to cut down nation after nation.

⁸ He will say,
'Each of my princes will soon be a king.

⁹ We destroyed Calno just as we did Carchemish.
Hamath fell before us as Arpad did.
And we destroyed Samaria just as we did Damascus.

¹⁰ Yes, we have finished off many a kingdom
whose gods were greater than those in Jerusalem and Samaria.

¹¹ So we will defeat Jerusalem and her gods, just as we destroyed Samaria with hers.' "

¹² After the Lord has used the king of Assyria to accomplish his purposes on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, he will turn against the king of Assyria and punish him—for he is proud and arrogant. ¹³ He boasts,

"By my own powerful arm I have done
this.
With my own shrewd wisdom I planned it.

9:21 Manasseh and Ephraim represent the northern kingdom as its largest tribes. The two largest tribes of Israel and Judah fought amongst themselves. This is probably a reference to the war between Judah and the alliance of Syria and Israel, which is commonly called the Syro-Ephraimite War (7:1-12). In that conflict, brothers savagely fought against brothers (2 Chr 28).

10:1-4 This prophecy was directed against Judah's leaders, who used their positions to enrich themselves at the people's expense.

10:1 Sorrow introduces a threat of divine judgment.

10:3 The implied answer to Isaiah's rhetorical questions was that there would be no one to turn to when God punished Judah. • Disaster came first from the distant land of Assyria and later from Babylon.

10:5-11:16 The primacy of the Lord's moral law was established in 9:8-10:4; this passage works out the implications of the law: (1) Assyria was only a tool in God's hands and was therefore as liable to judgment by God as any other nation (10:5-19, 28-34); (2) those among God's people who trusted in him and obeyed his covenant would be rescued (10:20-27); and (3) God would establish his kingdom on earth (11:1-16).

10:5-19 This judgment was pronounced on Assyria because of their ruthless destruction of nations (10:7), blasphemous boasting (10:12), oppression (10:13-14), and self-perceived autonomy (10:15).

10:5 The Assyrians were God's instrument (rod . . . club) in judging Syria, Israel, and Judah, but they would not go unpunished for their own wickedness.

10:6 Despite their privileged calling as God's covenant people, Judah had become a godless nation, making them the object of God's anger (10:4). • The word plunder translates both the Hebrew words shalal and baz, recalling the name Maher-shalal-hash-baz (see 5:19; 8:1, 3, 5-10).

10:7 will not understand: The Assyrians did not realize they were following God's intended purpose to punish Israel and Judah. Because they went about savagely killing and looting other nations of their own accord, God would also hold them guilty.

10:9 We destroyed: By 717 BC, the regions to the north of Judah were firmly in Assyrian hands. Calno, in northern Syria (referred to as Calneh in Amos 6:2), fell to the Assyrian king Tiglath-pileser III in 738 BC. Carchemish, on the Euphrates River, was taken by King Sargon II in 717 BC. Hamath, on the Orontes River, was subjugated in 738 and 720 BC. Arpad was located south of Calno. Samaria and Damascus, the capitals of Israel and Syria, were taken in 732 and 722 BC, respectively (7:8; 8:4).

10:10 whose gods were greater than those in Jerusalem and Samaria: Assyria made a similar argument in 36:19-20; 37:12.

10:11 Assyria destroyed Samaria under Shalmaneser V and Sargon II in 722 BC (2 Kgs 17:3-6). If Samaria and Judah worshiped the same God, and Assyria had already defeated Samaria, the king of Assyria could expect to defeat Judah also.

10:12 Any royal power that exalts itself against the Lord, the Great King, is proud and arrogant (see 2:11-12) and will be crushed.

10:13 my own powerful arm . . . my own shrewd wisdom (cp. 10:5): God alone is all-powerful and wise. He plans the future, and he determines which proud troops,

and a flaming fire will consume its glory.

¹⁷ The LORD, the Light of Israel, will be a fire;
the Holy One will be a flame.
He will devour the thorns and briers with fire, burning up the enemy in a single

¹⁸ The LORD will consume Assyria's glory like a fire consumes a forest in a

Hope for the Lord's People

²⁰ In that day the remnant left in Israel, the survivors in the house of Jacob,

will no longer depend on allies who seek to destroy them.
But they will faithfully trust the LORD,
the Holy One of Israel.

²¹ A remnant will return;
yes, the remnant of Jacob will return to the Mighty God.

²² But though the people of Israel are as numerous as the sand of the seashore, only a remnant of them will return.
The LORD has rightly decided to destroy his people.

²³ Yes, the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies, has already decided to destroy the entire land.

²⁴ So this is what the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies, says: "O my people in Zion, do not be afraid of the Assyrians when they oppress you with rod and club as the Egyptians did long ago. ²⁵ In a little while my anger against you will end, and then my anger will rise up to destroy them." ²⁶ The LORD of Heaven's Armies will lash them with his whip, as he did when Gideon triumphed over the Midianites at the rock of Oreb, or when the LORD's staff was raised to drown the Egyptian army in the sea.

²⁷ In that day the LORD will end the bondage of his people.
He will break the yoke of slavery and lift it from their shoulders.

²⁸ Look, the Assyrians are now at Aiath.
They are passing through Migron and are storing their equipment at Micmash.

²⁹ They are crossing the pass and are camping at Geba.

nations will rise to power and which will be defeated.

10:15 ax . . . saw . . . rod . . . wooden cane: Such instruments are only as good as the person who uses them.
Assyria considered itself independent of the hand of God, but their conquests were made possible only by his permission and to serve his purposes (10:5).

10:16 The fulfillment of this prophecy was in 701 BC, when 185,000 Assyrian troops were killed by plague and flaming fire (see 37:36).

10:20-27 In the midst of Assyrian oppression, there was hope for the remnant. This passage develops more fully the meaning of Shear-jashub, a remnant will return (10:21; see 7:3; 8:18).

10:20 left . . . the survivors: A remnant from Jerusalem barely survived, but their safety was secure because God promised to preserve them (see 1:8-9; 4:2; 6:13; 37:31-32). • All these wars would teach the Israelite remnant to no longer depend on allies such as Assyria.

Instead, they would faithfully trust in the Lord (see 8:13; 17:7).

10:21 A remnant will return: Hebrew Shear-jashub; see 7:3; 8:18. A small fraction of the people would remain, and an even smaller part would return to the Lord.

10:22-23 Greek version reads only a remnant of them will be saved. / For he will carry out his sentence quickly and with finality and righteousness; / for God will carry out his sentence upon all the world with finality. Cp. Rom 9:27-28, which quotes from the Greek version.

10:22 God had similarly promised descendants as numerous as the sand of the seashore to Abraham (Gen 22:17).
• rightly decided to destroy: God's decision was a just response to the people's persistent wickedness.

10:24-34 God assured his people of his presence and purpose (see note on 7:4).

10:24 as the Egyptians did long ago:
See Exod 1:8-2:25.

10:26 Gideon triumphed over the Midianites: See Judg 7:25.

10:27 Israel's bondage ended in 539 BC with a new exodus from exile. • The last sentence is translated from the Greek version; Hebrew reads The yoke will be broken, / for you have grown so fat.

10:28-34 Look, the Assyrians are now at Aiath: The march described in 10:29-32 is a poetic account of Assyria's defeat.

Fear strikes the town of Ramah.
 All the people of Gibeah, the hometown of Saul,
 are running for their lives.
³⁰ Scream in terror,

 Shout out a warning to Laishah.
 Oh, poor Anathoth!

 fleeing.
 The citizens of Gebim are trying to ³² The enemy stops at Nob for the rest of

 He shakes his fist at beautiful Mount Zion, the mountain of Jerusalem.
³³ But look! The Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies,
 will chop down the mighty tree of Assyria with great power!
 He will cut down the proud.
 That lofty tree will be brought down.

³⁴ He will cut down the forest trees with an ax.
 Lebanon will fall to the Mighty One.

The Remnant (11:10-16)

Isa 1:8-9; 4:1-3;
 6:13; 10:19-22;
 27:12-13; 28:5;
 37:31-32; 46:3-4

 Mic 2:12; 4:6-7;
 5:7-8; 7:18
 Zeph 3:11-13

The theme of the remnant is integral to Isaiah's vision of the new order. The desolation of all things would bring an end to one era, while the salvation of the remnant opens up the new world.

When he judged his OT people, the Lord saved a small community to be the core of a new beginning (1:9; 37:4, 31-32). Because the population had been decimated, it was a very small beginning. This new beginning is depicted as a branch (4:2), a stump (6:13), a community of the poor and needy (25:4), or handpicked grain (27:12-13). The Lord promised that this small community would swell into a huge multitude that comes out of both Israel and the Gentile nations (27:6; 60:3).

In Isaiah, the exiles represent the whole remnant community from the prophet's day until the coming of the Lord Jesus. The prophecy calls on the remnant to leave their world of separation from God and his blessings to walk in the light of the new order—with life, peace, joy, and reconciliation—and to return home to Zion, the city of God. These faithful people hear and believe the good news that God is coming to reward them (3:10; 40:10). They have repented of their rebelliousness and have put their trust in the Lord (10:21; 31:6).

The places follow a route from the north down to Jerusalem. Upon arriving at Jerusalem, the Assyrians were forced to retreat. God was with Jerusalem, and eventually Assyria would be utterly destroyed. This passage might foretell Sennacherib's invasion in 701 BC (see chs 36-37), but it could just as well describe an earlier or later invasion.

10:34 with an ax. Lebanon will fall to the Mighty One: Or with an ax / as even the mighty trees of Lebanon fall.

11:1-16 The kingdom of the Messiah, first introduced in 9:1-7, is now considered in more detail. Isaiah challenged the Israelites about why they would trust in any of the nations when God had far better plans in mind.

11:1 the stump of David's family:

Hebrew the stump of the line of Jesse. Jesse was King David's father.

• stump . . . shoot . . . new Branch . . . from the old root: This new growth refers to the continuity of David's royal family line despite its virtual cessation during the Exile (see also 6:13; 39:7; Rev 22:16). The new growth from the old roots would not be like the former frail and unjust descendants of David (see 4:2). Jesus, the Messiah, is the final fulfillment.

11:2 The Spirit of the LORD will rest on the Messiah. The succession of David's line is guaranteed by the Spirit. The Messiah's coming would bring justice and righteousness (11:4), peace (11:8), and the extension of the Kingdom to the nations (11:10; see also 32:15-16).

• The promised Messiah would have great wisdom and understanding, like Solomon, as well as knowledge and the fear of the LORD (1 Kgs 3:28; 4:29; Prov 1:1-7; 2:6-7). • The Spirit of counsel and might alludes to 9:6. The Messiah will be full of wisdom and will have the power to execute his righteous rule.

11:3 obeying the LORD: Literally the fear of the LORD, as in 11:2 (see Prov 1:7).

11:4 The poor and . . . the exploited would receive the justice due to them, which the wicked leaders of Judah had previously withheld. • the force of his word: Literally the scepter of his mouth (see Ps 2:9; Rev 19:15).

The calf and the yearling will be safe with the lion,

and a little child will lead them all.

⁷ The cow will graze near the bear.

⁸ The baby will play safely near the hole of

Yes, a little child will put its hand in a nest of deadly snakes without harm.

⁹ Nothing will hurt or destroy in all my for as the waters fill the sea, so the earth will be filled with people who know the LORD.

¹⁰ In that day the heir to David's throne will be a banner of salvation to all the world.

The nations will rally to him, and the land where he lives will be a glorious place.

¹¹ In that day the Lord will reach out his hand a second time to bring back the remnant of his
people—

those who remain in Assyria and northern Egypt;
in southern Egypt, Ethiopia, and Elam; in Babylonia, Hamath, and all the distant coastlands.

¹² He will raise a flag among the nations and assemble the exiles of Israel.
He will gather the scattered people of ¹³ Then at last the jealousy between Israel and Judah will end.

They will not be rivals anymore.

¹⁴ They will join forces to swoop down on of the Messiah to inaugurate and then fully establish the age to come.

11:9 Nothing will hurt or destroy: There will be no evildoers, corruption, or sin on God's holy mountain (Zion).

11:10 the heir to David's throne:
Literally the root of Jesse (11:1; Rev 5:5; 22:16). • The Messiah will bring salvation to all the world (2:1-5). Members of other nations will even serve as priests and Levites (66:20-21), but only if they repent and believe in the true God.

• The Greek version of this verse reads
In that day the heir to David's throne [literally the root of Jesse] will come, / and he will rule over the Gentiles. / They will place their hopes on him. Cp. Rom 15:12, which quotes from the Greek version.

11:11 The first time the Lord reached out his hand was at the Exodus; the second time will occur in the future
when the Messiah gathers Gentiles (11:10) and his own people who live among the Gentile nations (11:11). The Exodus remained the paradigm of hope for those in exile (see 11:16; 35:8; 40:3; 43:19-20; 48:21). • The remnant of his people included Israelites who survived the Assyrian and Babylonian invasions and were sent into exile. • in southern Egypt, Ethiopia: Hebrew in Pathros, Cush. • in Babylonia: Hebrew in Shinar.

11:13 jealousy between Israel (literally Ephraim, referring to the northern kingdom of Israel) and Judah: The two kingdoms had become enemies during Judah's war with the alliance of Syria and Israel (see 7:1-12). In the future, they would cooperate in joint military expeditions.

11:14 Philistia to the west: The Philistines were Israel's historic enemy.
• The nations to the east included the Edomites, Moabites, and Ammonites.
All foes would be vanquished.

11:15-16 will make a dry path through the gulf of the Red Sea: Literally will destroy the tongue of the sea of Egypt. Using imagery from Israel's past Exodus, Isaiah encouraged his listeners by promising that God would bring his people out of Assyria the way he brought them out of Egypt (Exod 14:29-15:18; see also Rev 16:12). • the Euphrates River: Literally the river.

11:5 By virtue of the righteous character of the Messiah, his reign will be characterized by justice, righteousness, and truth, in contrast to the conditions of Jerusalem described in 1:21.

11:6 In that day means in the coming age of the Messiah. The prophecy that follows received partial fulfillment in Isaiah's day or shortly thereafter. The final fulfillment is found in the coming

¹⁶ He will make a highway for the remnant of his people, the remnant coming from Assyria, just as he did for Israel long ago
when they returned from Egypt.

Songs of Praise for Salvation (12:1-6)

12 ¹ In that day you will sing:
“I will praise you, O LORD!
You were ^aangry with me, but not any more.
Now you comfort me.

² See, God has come to save me.
I will trust in him and not be afraid.
The LORD GOD is my strength and my song;
he has given me victory.”

³ With joy you will drink deeply from the fountain of salvation!

⁴ In that wonderful day you will sing:
“Thank the LORD! Praise his name!
Tell the nations what he has done.
Let them know how mighty he is!

⁵ Sing to the LORD, for he has done wonderful things.
Make known his praise around the world.

⁶ Let all the people of Jerusalem shout his praise with joy!
For great is the Holy One of Israel who lives among you.”

2. THE DAY OF THE LORD (13:1–23:18)

A Message about Babylon

13 Isaiah son of Amoz received this message concerning the destruction of Babylon:

² “Raise a signal flag on a bare hilltop.
Call up an army against Babylon.
Wave your hand to encourage them as they march into the palaces of the high and mighty.

³ I, the LORD, have dedicated these soldiers for this task.
Yes, I have called mighty warriors to express my anger,
and they will rejoice when I am exalted.”

⁴ Hear the noise on the mountains!
Listen, as the vast armies march!
It is the noise and shouting of many nations.

The LORD of Heaven’s ^bArmies has called this ^barmy together.

⁵ They come from distant countries, from beyond the farthest horizons.
They are the LORD’s weapons to carry out his anger.
With them he will destroy the whole
land.

⁶ Scream in terror, for the day of the LORD has arrived—
the time for the Almighty to destroy.

⁷ Every arm is paralyzed with fear.
Every heart melts,

⁸ and people are terrified.
Pangs of anguish grip them,
like those of a woman in labor.
They look helplessly at one another,
their faces aflame with fear.

12:1-6 The prophet’s personal song of praise for God’s salvation closes the meditations on trust in chs 7–12. God will prove himself trustworthy in his promises to rescue his people even though they initially refused to trust him. The song anticipates chs 40–66 with its themes of salvation, forgiveness, praise, joy, and the nations.

12:1 God’s comfort is the main subject of chs 40–66.

12:2 God’s promise to save includes reconciliation (1:18), participation (11:10), cleansing and protection (4:3-6), peace and confidence (32:16-17), and restoration (11:6-9). • LORD GOD (Hebrew Yah Yahweh): The first word is an abbreviation of the second. • The LORD GOD is my strength and my song: See Exod 15:2; Ps 118:14.

12:3 God’s salvation is like a deep and unending source of water that provides life (see also 41:18; Ps 87:7).

12:4-5 Tell the nations what he has done: The story of salvation must be told, even beyond the community of Israel (Ps 67:2; 70:4; 98:2).

12:6 See Ps 48:1; 96:4; 99:2. • Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion.

13:1–23:18 This section contains prophecies of judgment against the nations. By including a prophecy against Judah and Jerusalem (22:1-25) in the midst of prophecies against the pagan nations, Isaiah emphasized that Israel’s identity as God’s people would not protect them from God’s punishment when they sinned as the other nations do.

13:1 At the time of this prophecy, Assyria was the major power. Isaiah anticipated the rise of Babylon as an even crueler kingdom that would destroy Judah and Jerusalem (39:6-7; chs 46–47). The universal language of 13:1–14:23 suggests that in this context, Babylon represents all wicked and arrogant nations in the same way that “Babylon the Great” does in the book of Revelation (Rev 18). Therefore, while this description of Babylon’s fall applies to the fall of historic Babylon in 539 BC, it also applies until the final judgment against the ultimate kingdom of evil (Rev 19).

13:2 A signal flag or banner that could be seen clearly from a great distance was often placed on a bare hilltop as a call to battle (see note on 5:26). • God stands against Babylon as the symbolic representative of all evil kingdoms.

13:5 Just as Assyria was the rod of his anger (9:4; 10:5, 15), other nations serve as the LORD’s weapons and carry out his will. The Medes and Persians conquered Babylon in 539 BC. • God’s wrath is an expression of his justice as well as his intent to restore order to the world by obliterating evildoers (10:25-26; see Lam 2:22; Ezek 7:19).

13:6 the day of the LORD: See note on 2:5-22. • When pronouncing judgment that is still in the future, the prophets sometimes spoke as though it had already arrived. This emphasized the urgency of turning back to God (Ezek 30:3; Joel 1:15; 3:14; Obad 1:15; Zeph 1:7).

13:8 pangs . . . like those of a woman in labor: The day of the Lord (see note on 2:5-22) brings sudden and overpowering pain and fear for the wicked (see also Jer 30:6; Hos 13:13; Mic 4:9, 10; 5:3).

9 For see, the day of the LORD is coming—the terrible day of his fury and fierce

The land will be made desolate, and all the sinners destroyed with it.

10 The heavens will be black above them;
the stars will give no light.

The sun will be dark when it rises,
and the moon will provide no light.

11 "I, the LORD, will punish the world for its
evil
and the wicked for their sin.

I will crush the arrogance of the proud and humble the pride of the mighty.

12 I will make people scarcer than gold—more rare than the fine gold of 13 For I will shake the heavens.

The earth will move from its place when the LORD of Heaven's Armies displays his wrath
in the day of his fierce anger."

14 Everyone in Babylon will run about like a hunted gazelle,
like sheep without a shepherd.
They will try to find their own people and flee to their own land.

15 Anyone who is captured will be cut down—run through with a sword.

16 Their little children will be dashed to death before their eyes.
Their homes will be sacked, and their wives will be raped.

17 "Look, I will stir up the Medes against Babylon.
They cannot be tempted by silver or bribed with gold.

18 The attacking armies will shoot down
the young men with arrows.
They will have no mercy on helpless babies and will show no compassion for children."

19 Babylon, the most glorious of kingdoms, the flower of Chaldean pride, will be devastated like Sodom and Gomorrah
when God destroyed them.

20 Babylon will never be inhabited again.
It will remain empty for generation
after generation.
Nomads will refuse to camp there,
and shepherds will not bed down their sheep.

Rev 20:1-15

On the day of the Lord, God will manifest his awe-inspiring lordship over creation. When God comes in glory, humans will experience terror (2:10, 19, 21) because all human support structures (religious, economic, military, social) will come under his scrutiny. God alone will be exalted, while all merely human endeavors will be brought down.

The day of the Lord is a time of retribution when God judges his enemies in wrath and fury, whether they come out of Israel, Judah, Syria, Assyria, or Babylon (see chs 7–10; 13–24; 34; 63:1-6). The ungodly receive the punishment they deserve, while the righteous enter into their full salvation (3:9-11; 4:2-4).

The full meaning of the day of the Lord extends beyond a specific time and place. Even when the prophet singles out a particular nation, that nation symbolizes something more significant (see 34:1-17). For example, Babylon (chs 13–14; 46–47) stands for any power independent of God.

The day of the Lord provides assurance to God's people that God is sovereign in judging nations and people throughout human history until the last battle and the final judgment (Rev 18:21; 19:2; 20:11).

13:10 Cosmic upheaval and darkness are common images for the day of the Lord (see note on 2:5-22), a time of God's judgment (see also Ezek 32:7-8; Joel 2:10, 31; 3:15; Matt 24:29; Mark 13:24; Rev 6:12-13; 8:12; cp. Isa 30:26).

13:11 punish the world: See note on 13:1; see also Rev 20:11.

13:12 Solomon's imported gold came from Ophir (1 Kgs 9:28).

13:13 God will shake the heavens. The earth will move: Cosmic upheaval will accompany God's coming in judgment (see note on 5:25; see also Hag 2:7, 21; Heb 12:26-27; Rev 16:17-18; 18:21-22).

13:16 These terrible acts of war would be perpetrated against Babylon, itself a cruel conquering power (see also Ps 137:8-9; Jer 6:11-12; Nah 3:10).

13:17 The Lord is sovereign and controls history. He can stir up kingdoms to execute his will. • The Medes from northwestern Iran joined Persian King

Cyrus in fighting against Babylon in 539 BC.

13:19-22 This picture of Babylon as a perpetually haunted ruin contrasts with its magnificence at its peak (see Dan 4:29-30).

13:20 Babylon will never be inhabited again: Babylon, often a symbol of idolatry, immorality, imperialism, and oppression in Scripture, will one day come completely to an end (see Rev 18:2; 19:2).

- ²¹ Desert animals will move into the ruined city, and the houses will be haunted by howling creatures.
Owls will live among the ruins,
and wild goats will go there to dance.
- ²² Hyenas will howl in its fortresses, and jackals will make dens in its luxurious palaces.
Babylon's days are numbered;
its time of destruction will soon arrive.

Consolation for Israel

14 But the LORD will have mercy on the descendants of Jacob. He will choose Israel as his special people once again. He will bring them back to settle once again in their own land. And people from many different nations will come and join them there and unite with the people of Israel. ²The nations of the world will help the people of Israel to return, and those who come to live in the LORD's land will serve them. Those who captured Israel will themselves be captured, and Israel will rule over its enemies.

A Taunt for Babylon's King

³In that wonderful day when the LORD gives his people rest from sorrow and fear, from slavery and chains, ⁴you will taunt the king of Babylon. You will say,

"The mighty man has been destroyed.
Yes, your insolence is ended.

- ⁵ For the LORD has crushed your wicked power and broken your evil rule.
- ⁶ You struck the people with endless blows of rage and held the nations in your angry grip with unrelenting tyranny.
- ⁷ But finally the earth is at rest and quiet.
Now it can sing again!
- ⁸ Even the trees of the forest—
the cypress trees and the cedars of Lebanon—sing out this joyous song:
'Since you have been cut down,
no one will come now to cut us down!'
- ⁹ "In the place of the dead there is excitement over your arrival.
The spirits of world leaders and mighty kings long dead stand up to see you.
- ¹⁰ With one voice they all cry out,
'Now you are as weak as we are!'
- ¹¹ Your might and power were buried with you.
The sound of the harp in your palace has ceased.
Now maggots are your sheet, and worms your blanket.'
- ¹² "How you are fallen from 'heaven,
O shining star, son of the morning!
You have been thrown down to the earth,
you who destroyed the nations of the world.

14:1-2 This message for Israel separates two prophecies of judgment against Babylon (13:1-22; 14:3-23).

14:1 The Hebrew word here translated mercy draws from the imagery of a woman's maternal care for her child to illustrate God's merciful love for his people (see also 49:15; 66:13). • God had initially chosen Israel as his special people when he called Abraham (see 41:8; Gen 12:1-3). Although their status did not change during the Exile, they faced God's wrath like any other wicked nation because they had rejected him. • settle once again in their own land: This promise began to be fulfilled in 538 BC (see Ezra 1). • People from many different nations would join Israel as the people of God (see also 2:3-4; 11:11-12; 19:18-25; 60:1-14). • the people of Israel: Literally the house of Jacob. The names "Jacob" and "Israel" are often interchanged throughout the Old Testament, referring sometimes to the individual patriarch and sometimes to the nation.

14:2 Just as Israel was subject to the Lord, so the nations of the world would submit themselves to the Lord through Israel (45:14; 49:7, 23; 60:12, 14; 66:23). • The oppressed nation of Israel will rule over its enemies, assuming a position of power and favor with God.

14:3-23 This taunting song for the king of Babylon is in the form of a funeral dirge (cp. Rev 18).

14:3 God gives . . . rest (i.e., relief; 28:12; see Deut 25:19; 2 Sam 7:11) from the sorrow and fear, . . . slavery and chains Israel experienced under foreign oppressors (see 9:4).

14:4 A taunt is a mocking comparison in song form. In this instance, the king of Babylon is compared to a dead man entering the world of the dead. • insolence: As in the Dead Sea Scrolls; the meaning of the Masoretic Text is uncertain.

14:7-8 The land and people will be at rest and quiet because the oppression has ended and the king of Babylon has died. • The whole creation will join in praise, able to sing again (see also 42:11; 44:23; see Rom 8:22).

14:9 The Babylonians saw the place of the dead (Hebrew Sheol; also in 14:15) as a place of no return. • stand up (literally get up from their thrones): The thrones reflect the Babylonian concept of the life hereafter as a continuation of the same mode of existence as the present life. It appears that the other kings are honoring the great king of Babylon, but the next verses tell a different story.

14:10 weak as we are: The Babylonian king had no power over anyone after death and was unable to leave Sheol. The Israelites will mock this great king who on earth appeared to have no weaknesses.

14:11 Babylon's might and power and the sound of the harp were ended, and its magnificence was destroyed (see also Rev 18:22). • Maggots and worms symbolized death and decomposition (66:24). • were buried with you: Literally were brought down to Sheol.

- 13 For you said to yourself, ‘I will ascend to heaven and set my throne above God’s stars.
I will preside on the mountain of the gods
far away in the north.
14 I will climb to the highest heavens and be like the ‘Most High.’ 15 Instead, you will be brought down to the place of the dead,
down to its lowest depths.
16 Everyone there will stare at you and ask,
‘Can this be the one who shook the earth and made the kingdoms of the world tremble?
17 Is this the one who destroyed the world and made it into a wasteland?
Is this the king who demolished the world’s greatest cities and had no mercy on his prisoners?’ 18 “The kings of the nations lie in stately glory,
each in his own tomb,
19 but you will be thrown out of your grave
like a worthless branch.
Like a corpse trampled underfoot, you will be dumped into a mass grave with those killed in battle.
You will descend to the pit.
20 You will not be given a proper burial, for you have destroyed your nation and slaughtered your people.
The descendants of such an evil person will never again receive honor.
21 Kill this man’s children!
Let them die because of their father’s sins!

They must not rise and conquer the
earth,
filling the world with their cities.”

- 22 This is what the LORD of Heaven’s Armies says:
“I, myself, have risen against Babylon!
I will destroy its children and its children’s children,”
says the LORD.
23 “I will make Babylon a desolate place of owls,
filled with swamps and marshes.
I will sweep the land with the broom of
destruction.
I, the LORD of Heaven’s Armies, have spoken!”

A Message about Assyria

24 The LORD of Heaven’s Armies has sworn this oath:

- “It will all happen as I have planned.
It will be as I have decided.
25 I will break the Assyrians when they are in Israel;
I will trample them on my mountains.
My people will no longer be their slaves nor bow down under their heavy loads.
26 I have a plan for the whole earth, a hand of judgment upon all the
nations.
27 The LORD of Heaven’s Armies has spoken—
who can change his plans?
When his hand is raised,
who can stop him?”

Canaanite pantheon) and his fall from heaven. Some see the fall of the king of Babylon here as symbolizing the fall of Satan (see Ezek 28; Luke 10:18; Rev 12:9). However, there is little to suggest that Isaiah understood it in that way. He was thinking of the historical king of Babylon. • son of the morning: The battle took place under the early morning sun. The Latin Vulgate translates the term as Lucifer (morning star), a name for Satan in Christian tradition, but the Hebrew text makes no apparent reference here to Satan.

14:13 on the mountain of the gods far away in the north: Or on the heights of Zaphon. • This verse alludes to the Canaanite belief that the chief god El and the other gods were enthroned on Mount Zaphon, a northern mountain (see Ps 48:2; for a NT application, see Matt 11:23; Luke 10:15).

14:14 Most High: See Gen 14:19-22.

14:15-17 This is a restatement of 14:9-11. The dead spirits inhabiting the place of the dead will be startled and amazed that the Babylonian king, who ruled the world with his merciless might, has absolutely no power in death.

14:18-20 The absence of a proper burial was a sign of great shame and dishonor. Unlike other kings, the king of Babylon would be disgraced in judgment.

14:21 As another sign of disgrace, the king of Babylon would have no children to provide a future legacy. • because of their father’s sins: God looks at individuals in relationship to their families and their people. Here, the Babylonian king’s children had joint responsibility for their father’s actions (see also Deut 5:9-10).

14:22-23 Isaiah summarized the previous taunt (14:3-21) with this prophecy, spoken in the first person. God decrees the destruction and desolation of Babylon.

14:24-27 This prophecy resumes declaring judgment on Assyria (see ch 10). The placement of this prophecy after the judgment against Babylon suggests close connections between Assyria and Babylon.

14:24 I have planned . . . I have decided: No nation can either diminish or resist God’s plans to bring judgment against Assyria or his plans in general. The prophets understood and communicated God’s plan so that his people could respond appropriately.

14:25 This prophecy told what would happen when Sennacherib attacked Hezekiah some years later in 701 BC (see chs 36-37).

14:26 The Lord’s power over Assyria is just one example of his sovereignty over the whole earth.

A Message about Philistia

²⁸This message came to me the year King Ahaz died:

²⁹Do not rejoice, you Philistines, that the rod that struck you is broken—
that the king who attacked you is dead.

For from that snake a more poisonous snake will be born,
a “fiery serpent to destroy you!

³⁰I will feed the poor in my pasture;
the needy will lie down in peace.

But as for you, I will wipe you out with famine
and destroy the few who remain.

³¹Wail at the gates! Weep in the cities!
Melt with fear, you Philistines!

A powerful army comes like smoke from the north.

Each soldier rushes forward eager to fight.

³²What should we tell the Philistine messengers? Tell them,

“The Lord has built Jerusalem; its walls will give refuge to his oppressed people.”

A Message about Moab

15 This message came to me concerning Moab:

In one night the town of Ar will be leveled,
and the city of Kir will be destroyed.

²Your people will go to their temple in Dibon to mourn.

They will go to their sacred shrines to weep.

They will wail for the fate of Nebo and Medeba, shaving their heads in sorrow and cutting off their beards.

³They will wear burlap as they wander the streets.

From every home and public square will come the sound of wailing.

⁴The people of Heshbon and Elealeh will cry out;

their voices will be heard as far away
as Jahaz!

The bravest warriors of Moab will cry out in utter terror.

They will be helpless with fear.

⁵My heart weeps for Moab.

Its people flee to Zoar and Eglathshelishiyah.

Weeping, they climb the road to Luhith.
Their cries of distress can be heard all along the road to Horonaim.

⁶Even the waters of Nimrim are dried up!
The grassy banks are scorched.

The tender plants are gone;
nothing green remains.

⁷The people grab their possessions and carry them across the Ravine of Willows.

⁸A cry of distress echoes through the land of Moab
from one end to the other—from Eglaim to Beer-elim.

⁹The stream near Dibon runs red with blood,

but I am still not finished with Dibon!

Lions will hunt down the survivors—both those who try to escape and those who remain behind.

14:28 King Ahaz died in 715 bc.

14:29 The king who attacked Philistia was probably Ahaz (14:28). • a more poisonous snake: This probably refers to one of the later Assyrian kings, either Sennacherib (701 bc), Esarhaddon (680 bc), or Ashurbanipal (668 bc).

14:31 The advancing army, probably Assyria, would stir up clouds of dust like smoke that were ominously visible in the north.

14:32 The Lord has built Jerusalem (Hebrew Zion; see 1:8): God was fully willing and capable of defending Judah, and he did not want the kingdom to make alliances with nations such as the Philistines to protect themselves from the invading Assyrians.

15:1–16:14 This message of judgment and lament concerned Moab's fall. The extensive references to Moabite place names indicate that Isaiah was thoroughly familiar with Moab.

15:1 Moab was Judah's enemy, situated on the eastern side of the Dead Sea. • In one night: Destruction would be sudden and decisive.

15:2 In the ancient Near East, actions such as shaving or cutting off their beards revealed deep sorrow (see Jer 48:37).

15:4 Heshbon was the former capital of Sihon (Num 21:23-26). • Elealeh was located close to Heshbon. • Jahaz was between Heshbon and the Arnon River (see Jer 48:34).

15:5 My heart weeps for Moab: The prophet joined in the lament to express the greatness of Moab's pain. • Zoar was in the southeastern area of the Dead Sea (Gen 14:2; 19:23).

15:6 Identification of the waters of Nimrim is uncertain (see also Jer 48:34). • dried up . . . scorched . . . tender plants: For the theme of natural resources drying up as a form of judgment, see note on 24:4.

15:7-8 The precise locations of the Ravine of Willows and of Eglaim and Beer-elim are uncertain.

15:9 Dibon: As in the Dead Sea Scrolls, some Greek manuscripts, and Latin Vulgate. The Masoretic Text reads Dimon (also in 15:9b), which is a play on the word translated blood (Hebrew dam). • blood: Apparently many people from Moab had already been killed, but their judgment had only begun.

16:1-4 A request for asylum.
16:1 Moab was known for its sheep (see 2 Kgs 3:4). The lambs were sent as tribute to Judah in recognition of Judah's sovereignty over Moab. • Sela (the cliff), an unknown remote site, was apparently where the Moabites escaped through the desert.

16:3-4 Do not betray us . . . Hide them: Moab's situation would become so dire that they would beg for asylum in other lands.

16:4-5 This prophecy of salvation spoke of the future of David's dynasty. • Activities such as oppression and destruction would cease with the end of Moabite hostilities (see 2 Kgs 13:20).

16:5 God would establish one of David's descendants as king (see also 9:7; 11:1-5, 10-12).

of pride and arrogance and rage and boasting prevented them from humbling themselves before God.

16:8 The vineyards at Sibmah were located by the Moabite city of Heshbon.

• Moab was like a luxuriant vine that extends far and wide, but Israel's beautiful vine reached to the ends of the earth (27:6). • The location of Jazer is unknown. • the Dead Sea: Literally the sea.

16:11 Kir-hareseth: Hebrew Kir-heres, a variant spelling of Kir-hareseth.

16:12 The hilltops were sites for pagan shrines (see 15:2). • no one will be able to save them, including the idols the Moabites called on for protection (see 40:18-19; 44:18-19).

A Message about Damascus and Israel

17 This message came to me concerning Damascus:

"Look, the city of Damascus will disappear!

It will become a heap of ruins.

² The towns of Aroer will be deserted.

Flocks will graze in the streets and lie down undisturbed, with no one to chase them away.

³ The fortified towns of Israel will also be destroyed, and the royal power of Damascus will end.

All that remains of Syria will share the fate of Israel's departed glory," declares the LORD of Heaven's Armies.

⁴ "In that day Israel's glory will grow dim; its robust body will waste away.

⁵ The whole land will look like a grainfield after the harvesters have gathered the grain.

It will be desolate, like the fields in the valley of Rephaim after the harvest.

⁶ Only a few of its people will be left, like stray olives left on a tree after the harvest.

Only two or three remain in the highest branches, four or five scattered here and there on the limbs," declares the LORD, the God of Israel.

⁷ Then at last the people will look to their Creator and turn their eyes to the Holy One of Israel.

⁸ They will no longer look to their idols for help or worship what their own hands have made.

They will never again bow down to their Asherah poles or worship at the pagan shrines they have built.

⁹ Their largest cities will be like a deserted forest, like the land the Hivites and Amorites abandoned when the Israelites came here so long ago. It will be utterly desolate.

¹⁰ Why? Because you have turned from the God who can save you.

You have forgotten the Rock who can hide you.

So you may plant the finest grapevines and import the most expensive seedlings.

¹¹ They may sprout on the day you set them out;

yes, they may blossom on the very morning you plant them,

but you will never pick any grapes from them.

Your only harvest will be a load of grief and unrelieved pain.

unknown. • The glory of Moab will be ended, probably because of the Assyrian conquest of Moab (late 700s BC). • only a feeble few will be left alive: Though decimated by war, the Moabites still existed during Nehemiah's time (Neh 13:23).

17:1–20:6 This section contains prophecies of judgment against Damascus, Israel, Ethiopia, and Egypt. The scene moves from the crisis of 734 BC (the alliance of Syria and Israel—see note on 7:1–25) to the Assyrian crisis in 701 BC (see chs 36–37).

17:1 Damascus, the ringleader in the alliance of Syria and Israel against Judah (see note on 7:1–25), fell when the Assyrian king Tiglath-pileser III invaded in 732 BC.

17:2 The towns of Aroer were east of the Dead Sea (see 2 Kgs 10:32–33). • Flocks will graze in the streets: The city would be useless for any other purpose.

17:3 The strategic fortified towns of Israel (literally Ephraim, referring to the northern kingdom of Israel) were the pride of Israel, but they could not resist God's purposes. • Syria: Hebrew Aram.

17:4–11 The vision shifts from Damascus (17:1–3) to the northern kingdom of Israel; Damascus and Israel were allies in the war against Judah (see note on 7:1–25), and both were later destroyed by Assyria.

17:4 Israel's (literally Jacob's; see note on 14:1) glory will grow dim: God will judge all human pride. • Israel's robust body will waste away like a person who is ill.

17:5 The valley of Rephaim was a fertile valley in Judah; however, it looked bare after each harvest.

17:6 Although the God of Israel judged the wickedness of Israel, he was still its God.

17:7 The people referred to here are either Israelites or humanity at large.

• look . . . turn their eyes: They will again put their trust in the Lord.

17:8 Canaanites and then Israelites worshiped the fertility goddess Asherah in wooded areas or, in the absence of wooded areas, using Asherah poles (see 27:9; 65:3; Mic 5:14).

17:9 The Hivites and Amorites were members of the original population of Canaan; they were to be destroyed when the Israelites conquered the land (see Deut 20:17). • like the land the Hivites and Amorites abandoned: As in the Greek version; Hebrew reads like places of the wood and the highest bough.

17:10 The Israelites had mixed faith in the Lord with elements of Baal worship. They turned from the Lord, who alone is God and will not be held alongside an idol in people's hearts. • The term Rock refers to the Lord's ability to provide refuge (see 26:4; 30:29; Ps 18:2, 46).

17:12–14 God was present with Judah during the crisis.

17:12 At times, the sea represents opposition to God (see Job 7:12; 26:12; Ps 46:3; 93:3).

A Message about Ethiopia

that lies at the headwaters of the Nile, ² that sends ambassadors in swift boats down the river.

Go, swift messengers!
Take a message to a tall, smooth-skinned
people,
who are feared far and wide for their conquests and destruction, and whose land is divided by rivers.

³ All you people of the world, everyone who lives on the earth—when I raise my battle flag on the mountain, look!

When I blow the ram's horn, listen!

⁴ For the LORD has told me this:
"I will watch quietly from my dwelling place—
as quietly as the heat rises on a summer day, or as the morning dew forms during
the harvest."

⁵ Even before you begin your attack, while your plans are ripening like
grapes,
the LORD will cut off your new growth with pruning shears.

He will snip off and discard your spreading branches.

⁶ Your mighty army will be left dead in the fields for the mountain vultures and wild animals.

The vultures will tear at the corpses all summer.

The wild animals will gnaw at the bones all winter.

⁷ At that time the LORD of Heaven's Armies will receive gifts from this land divided by rivers, from this tall, smooth-skinned people, who are feared far and wide for their conquests and destruction.
They will bring the gifts to
Jerusalem,
where the LORD of Heaven's Armies dwells.

A Message about Egypt

19 This message came to me concerning Egypt:

Look! The LORD is advancing against Egypt,
riding on a swift cloud.
The idols of Egypt tremble.
The hearts of the Egyptians melt with fear.

² "I will make Egyptian fight against Egyptian—
brother against brother, neighbor against neighbor,
city against city,
province against province.

17:13 God will silence them: The Lord is sovereign over the nations, as he is over the sea (Ps 65:7).

17:14 In the evening . . . by dawn: Despite frightening circumstances, Israel can have confidence in the Lord's ability to save quickly (see 37:36-38).

18:1 Ethiopia (Hebrew Cush) was at the southern extremity of the kingdom of Egypt. At the time, Egypt was ruled by the dynasty of the Ethiopian Piankhi.
• land of fluttering sails: (Or land of many locusts; literally land of whirling wings).

18:3 Both the battle flag and ram's horn were used to marshal and send signals to armies in battle (see note on 5:26; see also Judg 3:27; 6:34; 2 Sam 2:28).

18:4 The Lord is untroubled by human activities; he watches quietly from his dwelling place and acts in his own time (see Ps 2:1-4).

18:5 your plans are ripening: Ethiopia had made every effort to form alliances to protect itself against Assyria, but its alliance with Judah would not help.

18:7 Conquered or weaker nations were often forced to pay tribute to a dominant king in the region (see 16:1; 2 Kgs 3:4-5). The Ethiopians would come bringing gifts to honor the Lord for his defeat of the Assyrians (see also 2 Chr 32:23).
• to Jerusalem: Hebrew to Mount Zion.

19:1-20:6 See also Jer 46; Ezek 29-32.

19:1-10 Egypt was vulnerable, depending on the Nile for food, fish, and industry. When the Lord struck the Nile, Egypt would be in dire straits, and their gods would not be able to help.

19:1 Riding on a swift cloud shows God's sovereignty and power over creation (Ps 104:3). He is coming in judgment against Judah's enemies (see Deut 33:26; Ps 18:9-10; 68:4; 97:2-3).

• The idols of Egypt tremble because they are weak and impotent, unable to help (see 40:18; 45:16; 46:1).

19:2 Egypt had a history of civil wars that ravaged the country. Egypt's fragile unity was breaking apart.

- ³ The Egyptians will lose heart, and I will confuse their plans.
They will plead with their idols for wisdom
and call on spirits, mediums, and those who consult the 'spirits of the dead.
- ⁴ I will hand Egypt over to a hard, cruel master.
A fierce king will rule them," says the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies.
- ⁵ The waters of the Nile will fail to rise and flood the fields.
The riverbed will be parched and dry.
- ⁶ The canals of the Nile will dry up, and the streams of Egypt will stink with rotting reeds and rushes.
- ⁷ All the greenery along the riverbank and all the crops along the river will dry up and blow away.
- ⁸ The fishermen will lament for lack of
work.
Those who cast hooks into the Nile will groan,
and those who use nets will lose heart.
- ⁹ There will be no flax for the harvesters,
no thread for the weavers.
- ¹⁰ They will be in despair, and all the workers will be sick at heart.
- ¹¹ What fools are the officials of Zoan!
Their best counsel to the king of Egypt is stupid and wrong.
Will they still boast to Pharaoh of their wisdom?
Will they dare brag about all their wise ancestors?

- ¹² Where are your wise counselors, Pharaoh?
Let them tell you what God plans, what the LORD of Heaven's Armies is going to do to Egypt.
- ¹³ The officials of Zoan are fools, and the officials of Memphis are deluded.
The leaders of the people have led Egypt astray.
- ¹⁴ The LORD has sent a spirit of foolishness on them,
so all their suggestions are wrong.
They cause Egypt to stagger like a drunk in his vomit.
- ¹⁵ There is nothing Egypt can do.
All are helpless—
the head and the tail,
the noble palm branch and the lowly reed.

¹⁶In that day the Egyptians will be as weak as women. They will cower in fear beneath the upraised fist of the LORD of Heaven's Armies. ¹⁷Just to speak the name of Israel will terrorize them, for the LORD of Heaven's Armies has laid out his plans against them.

¹⁸In that day five of Egypt's cities will follow the LORD of Heaven's Armies. They will even begin to speak Hebrew, the language of Canaan. One of these cities will be Heliopolis, the City of the Sun.

¹⁹In that day there will be an altar to the LORD in the heart of Egypt, and there will be a monument to the LORD at its border. ²⁰It will be a sign and a witness that the LORD of Heaven's Armies is worshiped in the land of Egypt. When the people cry to the LORD for help against those who oppress them, he will send them a savior who will

19:3 Idols . . . spirits, mediums, and those who consult the spirits of the dead were called upon in an attempt to ward off impending destruction (see 8:19-22; 47:12-13).

19:4 hard, cruel master: In 671 BC, the Assyrian king Esarhaddon invaded Egypt and destroyed the royal city of Memphis. In 663 BC, Ashurbanipal attacked and destroyed Thebes (see Nah 3:8-10).

19:5 The waters of the Nile were Egypt's lifeline. Any disturbance in the regular pattern of flooding affected the whole nation. In ancient Egypt, the Nile was considered to be a god. However, the true God could easily dry it up.

19:9 There was no flax or thread: The drought crippled the linen industry.

19:11-15 The prophet taunted the leaders and wise men of Egypt, who were helpless to avert tragedy.

19:11 Zoan was the capital of Egypt, located in the Nile delta (see Num 13:22). • officials . . . best counsel: The king depended on the strategies and counsel of wise men (19:12; see Gen 41:39-40). • The officials of Zoan were known for all their wise ancestors, and Egypt liked to brag about them.

19:12 Where are your wise counselors: Cp. 1 Cor 1:20.

19:13 Memphis (Hebrew Noph) was an ancient capital in Egypt located south of the Nile delta. It was destroyed by Esarhaddon in 671 BC.

19:15 There is nothing Egypt can do: No leader, idol, or conventional wisdom can stand against God's judgment. • The head and the tail represented all of Egypt's leaders from the greatest to the least important (see 9:14-15).

19:16 An upraised fist (literally waving the hand) was a threatening motion. • LORD of Heaven's Armies: See note on 1:9.

19:18 five of Egypt's cities: This is probably just a way of saying "a number of cities" (see also 17:6; 30:17). • Jews living in Egypt after the destruction of Jerusalem spoke Hebrew, here called the language of Canaan. • will be Heliopolis, the City of the Sun (or will be the City of Destruction; Gen 41:50; Ezek 30:17-18): This city was devoted to Re, the sun god. At a time when Judah was resisting the Lord, Isaiah envisioned the Egyptians following the Lord.

19:19-25 The new Egypt would receive a place in God's purposes together with Assyria and Israel.

19:19 This altar or monument refers either to the temple that was built by Jews at Elephantine in Egypt (500 BC), to some other Jewish place of worship, or perhaps to a memorial the Egyptians constructed in devotion to the Lord.

19:20 The altar (19:19) would be a sign and a witness of the Egyptians' religious rescue them. ²¹The LORD will make himself known to the Egyptians. Yes, they will know the LORD and will give their sacrifices and offerings to him. They will make a vow to the LORD and will keep it. ²²The LORD will strike Egypt, and then he will bring healing. For the Egyptians will turn to the LORD, and he will listen to their pleas and heal them.

²³In that day Egypt and Assyria will be connected by a highway. The Egyptians and Assyrians will move freely between their lands, and they will both worship God. ²⁴In that day Israel will be the third, along with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth. ²⁵For the LORD of Heaven's Armies will say, "Blessed be Egypt, my people. Blessed be Assyria, the land I have made. Blessed be Israel, my special possession!"

A Message about Egypt and Ethiopia

20 In the year when King Sargon of Assyria sent his commander in chief to capture the Philistine city of Ashdod, ²the LORD told Isaiah son of Amoz, "Take off the burlap you have been wearing, and remove your sandals." Isaiah did as he was told and walked around naked and barefoot.

³Then the LORD said, "My servant Isaiah has been walking around naked and barefoot for the last three years. This is a sign—a symbol of the terrible troubles I will bring upon Egypt and Ethiopia. ⁴For the king of Assyria will take away the Egyptians and Ethiopians as prisoners. He will make them walk naked and barefoot, both young and old, their buttocks bared, to the shame of Egypt. ⁵Then the Philistines will be thrown into panic, for they counted on the power of Ethiopia and boasted of their allies in Egypt! ⁶They will say, 'If this can happen to Egypt, what chance do we have? We were counting on Egypt to protect us from the king of Assyria.'"

A Message about Babylon

21 This message came to me concerning Babylon—the desert by the sea:

Disaster is roaring down on you from the desert,
like a whirlwind sweeping in from the Negev.

² I see a terrifying vision:
I see the betrayer betraying,
the destroyer destroying.

Go ahead, you Elamites and Medes, attack and lay siege.

I will make an end to all the groaning Babylon caused.

³ My stomach aches and burns with pain.
Sharp pangs of anguish are upon me,
like those of a woman in labor.

I grow faint when I hear what God is planning;
I am too afraid to look.

connection with Israel (see 19:24, 25).
• God answers the prayers of those who cry to the LORD for help. • The LORD is a savior; he would protect the Egyptians even as he protected Jerusalem from the Assyrians.

19:22 strike Egypt: The Hebrew verb used here is the same as the one used for the tenth plague (Exod 12:13, 23, 27), bringing up associations of what God did during the Exodus. • The LORD, who brings a plague, can also bring healing. • he will listen to their pleas and heal them: This expresses a covenantal relationship between the LORD and Egypt (see 65:24).

19:23 Traditionally, Egypt and Assyria were enemies of one another and of Israel. They were idolatrous to the core, but they would leave behind their enmity and their idols to worship the true God. • In the rugged terrain of the ancient Near East, a highway provided a means for safe, easy travel and trade (see 11:16; 35:8; 40:3; 62:10).

19:24 Israel will be . . . a blessing in fulfillment of God's promise to Abraham (Gen 12:3).

19:25 Two designations usually reserved for Israel, my people and the land I have made (see 29:22; 32:18), are applied here to foreign nations. The LORD promised to regard those from the nations who turn to him as his special possession (63:17).

20:1-5 Ashdod's reliance on Egypt and Ethiopia was useless. As a complement to his words, Isaiah walked about exposed and barefoot, a symbolic action for what God would do.

20:1 Sargon of Assyria is Sargon II (721–705 BC). • Ashdod, one of the five Philistine cities that rebelled against Assyria in 713 BC, was captured by Assyria in 711 BC.

20:2 Prophets characteristically wore burlap or other rough clothing as a sign of mourning over the sins of the people (see 2 Kgs 1:8; Mark 1:6). • naked: That is, exposed in some way, possibly even completely nude.

20:3-4 This symbolic event took place some three years before the fall of Ashdod (see 20:2). Through it, Isaiah became an object lesson for the people (see 8:18). • Ethiopia: Hebrew Cush; also in 20:5. • Ethiopians: Hebrew Cushites.

20:5-6 Philistia's downfall was a warning to the people of Judah, who also relied on Egypt and other alliances rather than on God.

21:1 concerning Babylon—the desert by the sea: Literally concerning the desert by the sea. This description of Babylon was perhaps an ironic way to say that the land was physically lush but spiritually desolate. • Disaster . . . from the desert: Literally from the desert, from the terrifying land (cp. Deut 8:15).

21:2 I see: The prophet personalized Babylon's experience, which intensifies his poetry, as does the terse language and the repetition of similar sounds, such as the betrayer betraying (Hebrew habboged boged) and the destroyer destroying (Hebrew hashoded shoded; also in 33:1). • The Elamites (Hebrew 'elam) lived to the northeast of Babylon. Along with the Medes, they were archrivals of the Babylonians. • I will make an end to all the groaning Babylon caused: Babylon had caused groaning by attacking and enslaving many nations. It is likely that the Elamites and Medes played a part in the overthrow of Babylon in 539 BC (21:9).

21:3 I grow faint . . . I am too afraid: Through his vision, Isaiah experienced the terror of the Babylonian people (see also Dan 8:27; 10:16-17).

- ⁴ My mind reels and my heart races.
I longed for evening to come,
but now I am terrified of the dark.
- ⁵ Look! They are preparing a great feast.
They are spreading rugs for people to sit on.
Everyone is eating and drinking.
But quick! Grab your ⁶shields and prepare for battle.
You are being attacked!
- ⁶ Meanwhile, the Lord said to me,
"Put a watchman on the city wall.
Let him shout out what he sees.
- ⁷ He should look for chariots drawn by pairs of horses, and for riders on donkeys and camels.
Let the watchman be fully alert."
- ⁸ Then the watchman called out,
"Day after day I have stood on the watchtower, my lord.
Night after night I have remained at my post.
- ⁹ Now at last—look!
Here comes a man in a chariot with a pair of horses!"
Then the watchman said,
"Babylon is fallen, fallen!
All the idols of Babylon lie broken on the ground!"
- ¹⁰ O my people, threshed and winnowed,
I have told you everything the LORD of Heaven's Armies has said, everything the God of Israel has told me.

A Message about Edom

¹¹ This message came to me concerning Edom:

Someone from Edom keeps calling
to me,
"Watchman, how much longer until
morning?
When will the night be over?"

¹² The watchman replies,
"Morning is coming, but night will soon return.
If you wish to ask again, then come back and ask."

A Message about Arabia

¹³ This message came to me concerning Arabia:

O caravans from Dedan, hide in the deserts of Arabia.

¹⁴ O people of Tema,
bring water to these thirsty people,
food to these weary refugees.

¹⁵ They have fled from the sword, from the drawn sword,
from the bent bow
and the terrors of battle.

¹⁶ The Lord said to me, "Within a year, counting each day, all the glory of Kedar will come to an end. ¹⁷ Only a few of its courageous archers will survive. I, the LORD, the God of Israel, have spoken!"

21:7 The riders were messengers who reported what had taken place on the battlefield.

21:8 the watchman: As in the Dead Sea Scrolls and Syriac version; Masoretic Text reads a lion.

21:9 Babylon is fallen, fallen: Assyrian king Sennacherib destroyed the city of Babylon in 689 bc. The final fall of Babylon was in 539 bc. In Scripture, Babylon represents all the ungodly power structures of this world (see note on 13:19-22), including nations and kingdoms that do not submit to God and his word. The apostle John gave hope with his prophecy that all Babylons will fall (Rev 14:8; 18:2). • All the idols of Babylon lie broken: False gods could not save the Babylonians (see 46:1-2).

21:10 O my people: The focus shifted back to the people of Judah. • Judah would be oppressed (threshed and winnowed) by the Babylonians, but Babylon, too, would fall. • I have told you everything: The prophet had been faithful in his duty to report what the Lord revealed to him.

21:11-17 These two prophecies pertain to Edom and Arabia, located in the territory between Babylon and Israel. These outlying regions suffered under Assyrian domination, and like Judah, they would not be able to rest under Babylon's oppressive regime.

21:11-12 message . . . concerning Edom: Hebrew Dumah, which means "silence" or "stillness." It is a wordplay on the word Edom. Edom was an oasis in the northern desert of Arabia. • from Edom (Hebrew from Seir, another name for Edom): Seir was the mountainous area of Edom. • how much longer until morning: Edom's suffering would be a long ordeal. The Assyrians were dominant in the ancient Near East during the 700s and 600s bc.

21:12 Morning is coming, but it would mark the beginning of another oppressive era. Because the Babylonians were on the horizon, night will soon return.

21:13-17 Cp. Jer 49:28-33.

21:13 Dedan was a tribe in Arabia (see Ezek 27:20; 38:13). • Caravans would hide in the deserts of Arabia from attacks by the Assyrians and Babylonians, both of whom harassed the Arabian tribes (see 21:1-10; Jer 49:28-29).

21:14 Tema was an oasis in Arabia on a main trade route from Babylon.

21:15 Assyrian weapons of war such as the drawn sword and the bent bow were highly advanced compared to the primitive weapons used by desert peoples.

21:16 Within a year, counting each day: Literally Within a year, as a servant bound by contract would count it. Some ancient manuscripts read Within three years. See note on 16:14. • Kedar was an Arabian tribe that had great wealth and possessions (see 60:7; Ezek 27:21).

21:17 Only a few . . . will survive: Cp. 10:22; 14:30; 16:14; 24:6, 13; 37:32.

What is happening?

Why is everyone running to the rooftops?

² The whole city is in a terrible uproar.

What do I see in this reveling city?

Bodies are lying everywhere, killed not in battle but by famine and disease.

³ All your leaders have fled.

They surrendered without resistance.

The people tried to slip away,
but they were captured, too.

⁴ That's why I said, "Leave me alone to weep;

do not try to comfort me.

Let me cry for my people
as I watch them being destroyed."

⁵ Oh, what a day of crushing defeat!

What a day of confusion and terror brought by the Lord, the LORD of

Heaven's Armies,

upon the Valley of Vision!

The walls of Jerusalem have been broken, and cries of death echo from the mountainsides.

⁶ Elamites are the archers, with their chariots and charioteers.

The men of Kir hold up the shields.

⁷ Chariots fill your beautiful valleys, and charioteers storm your gates.

⁸ Judah's defenses have been stripped away.

You run to the armory for your weapons.

⁹ You inspect the breaks in the walls of Jerusalem.

You store up water in the lower pool.

¹⁰ You survey the houses and tear some down for stone to strengthen the walls.

¹¹ Between the city walls, you build a reservoir for water from the old pool.

But you never ask for help from the One who did all this.

You never considered the One who planned this long ago.

¹² At that time the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies, called you to weep and mourn.

He told you to shave your heads in sorrow for your sins and to wear clothes of burlap to show your remorse.

¹³ But instead, you dance and play;
you slaughter cattle and kill sheep.

You feast on meat and drink wine.

You say, "Let's feast and drink, for tomorrow we die!"

¹⁴ The LORD of Heaven's Armies has revealed this to me: "Till the day you die, you will never be forgiven for this sin." That is (see chs 36–37; 2 Kgs 18:17–19:37) and perhaps the people's preparation for the subsequent Babylonian siege in 588–586 BC.

22:1–4 The prophet rebukes the people for their excitement over the Assyrian retreat (701 BC). They did not foresee that the Babylonian army would complete in 586 BC what the Assyrians failed to do, namely, the destruction of Jerusalem.

22:1 concerning Jerusalem—the Valley of Vision (literally concerning the Valley of Vision): The meaning of the Hebrew phrase is uncertain. Assuming that it refers to Jerusalem (see 22:5), it is ironic: Jerusalem sits atop a hill, and visions were not typically thought to originate in a valley. Similarly, Jerusalem was proud of its self-perceived religious vision, but its inhabitants were spiritually blind (see 6:10; 42:18).

22:2 The reveling city was full of feasting and drinking (22:13; see 23:7; 32:13), probably in response to the Assyrian retreat. Now a new threat approaches—the Babylonian siege (586 BC). • The people died not in battle but by famine and disease. Siege warfare left the inhabitants of the city cut off from needed agricultural resources and in a terrible sanitation and health crisis.

22:3 Leaders might try to flee, but they would not escape (see 2 Kgs 25:4–6).

22:4 Leave me alone to weep: Isaiah mourned the victims and the decimation of his people (see 6:13).

22:5–8 The defeat of Judah would be a manifestation of the yet-future "day of the Lord" (see note on 2:5–22). Jerusalem would be impotent in the day of disaster.

22:5 Jerusalem's walls were broken by the invading Babylonians, who breached them with battering rams (2 Kgs 25:4).

22:6 Elamites: Elam was to the east of Babylon and would later play a role in Babylon's defeat (see 21:2; also Jer 49:34–39). • The actual location of Kir is unknown (see also Amos 1:5).

22:7 The Kidron and Hinnom valleys were located to the east and south of Jerusalem.

22:8–11 The inhabitants of Jerusalem planned for war by counting weapons, checking walls, and preparing a water supply. However, the people did not consider God's plans (see 13:1–14:23).

Although Hezekiah was very prominent in these efforts, the second person verbs are plural. Isaiah was apparently not singling out Hezekiah, as he did Hezekiah's father Ahaz (7:1–4).

22:8 to the armory: Literally to the House of the Forest; see 1 Kgs 7:2–5. This magnificent building was both an armory and a storage place for valuables (see 39:2; 1 Kgs 7:2–6).

22:9 Jerusalem (literally the city of David): Calling Jerusalem "the city of David" evokes memories of Israel's greatest king and God's blessing upon him and the nation (see also 60:14).

• You store up water in the lower pool: Hezekiah expended great energy in ensuring a constant supply of water (see 22:11; 2 Kgs 20:20).

22:12–14 Judah's feasting and disobedience resulted in a prophecy of judgment. • Verse 13 is quoted in 1 Cor 15:32.

22:14 you will never be forgiven for this sin: The people of Judah added sin upon sin to the point that God would justly condemn them. This foreshadowed the Exile; although it took place in 586 BC, Isaiah was already anticipating it in 701 BC.

the judgment of the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies.

¹⁵This is what the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies, said to me: "Confront Shebna, the palace administrator, and give him this message:

¹⁶"Who do you think you are, and what are you doing here, building a beautiful tomb for yourself—a monument high up in the rock?

¹⁷For the LORD is about to hurl you away, mighty man.

He is going to grab you,

¹⁸crumple you into a ball, and toss you away into a distant, barren land.

There you will die, and your glorious chariots will be broken and useless. You are a disgrace to your master!

¹⁹"Yes, I will drive you out of office," says the LORD. "I will pull you down from your high position. ²⁰And then I will call my servant Eliakim son of Hilkiah to replace you. ²¹I will dress him in your royal robes and will give him your title and your authority. And he will be a father to the people of Jerusalem and Judah. ²²I will give him the key to the house of David—the highest position in the royal court. When he opens doors, no one will be able to close them; when he closes doors, no one will be able to open them. ²³He will bring honor to his family name, for I will drive him firmly in place like a nail in the wall. ²⁴They will give him great responsibility, and he will bring honor to even the lowliest members of his family."

²⁵But the LORD of Heaven's Armies also says: "The time will come when I will pull out the nail that seemed so firm. It will come out and fall to the ground. Everything it supports will fall with it. I, the LORD, have spoken!"

A Lament for Tyre

23 This message came to me concerning Tyre:

Wail, you trading ships of Tarshish, for the harbor and houses of Tyre are gone!

The rumors you heard in Cyprus are all true.

²Mourn in silence, you people of the coast and you merchants of Sidon.

Your traders crossed the sea,

³sailing over deep waters.

They brought you grain from Egypt and harvests from along the Nile.

You were the marketplace of the world.

22:15-25 Shebna and Eliakim were two royal officials in King Hezekiah's court (see 2 Kgs 18:18; 19:2). Apparently assuming that death at the hands of the Assyrians was inevitable, Shebna planned for an ostentatious burial place (22:16). Although the rebuke of Shebna preceded Assyria's siege of Jerusalem in 701 BC (see 22:19-21; 36:3), it connects well with the admonitions of 22:1-13 regarding the ensuing Babylonian siege.

22:15 The actions of Shebna represent among the populace a lack of confidence in God's ability to rescue Jerusalem from the Assyrian attack. • A palace administrator held the highest possible position in the royal court (see 22:21-22).

22:16 Shebna was building a beautiful tomb . . . a monument. This lavish burial place was intended to last for centuries.

22:18 toss you away into a distant, barren land: Shebna would not find a resting place or have a memorial (cp. 14:11-20). • your glorious chariots: In his high position, Shebna had lived in luxury.

22:19-20 drive you out of office: Shebna (22:15) was demoted to court secretary by the time of Jerusalem's siege, when Eliakim (22:20) was the palace administrator (36:3). Eliakim was a true servant of the Lord.

22:21 A leader is like a father to the people when he truly cares for them and addresses their needs. In contrast, Shebna was concerned only for himself.

22:22 The key to the house of David represents a high position of honor in the royal court (see also Rev 3:7). • When he opens doors . . . when he closes doors: The officer with the highest position has sole authority in giving access to the king (cp. Matt 16:19).

22:24 A literal translation of this verse would read They will hang on him all the glory of his father's house: its offspring and offshoots, all its lesser vessels, from the bowls to all the jars.

22:25 I will pull out the nail: Even godly Eliakim would not be able to save Judah or David's dynasty from God's judgment. The people of Judah would go into exile more than a century later (39:6-7).

23:1-18 Tyre was a prosperous seaport northwest of Israel. The relationship between Judah and Tyre went back to the time of David and Solomon (1 Kgs 5:8-9). Tyre, with its proximity to plentiful forests and to the Mediteranean Sea, was one of the commercial centers of the ancient Near East. Its fleets were renowned, and its colonies brought it great prestige and riches. The city came under repeated attack by the Assyrians, Babylonians, and Macedonians, and it fell to Alexander the Great in 332 BC. Isaiah not only prophesied the end of Tyre but by implication warned all whose wealth and earthly securities lead to pride instead of dependence on God (see 2:12-16; Matt 11:21).

23:1 The ships of Tarshish plied the sea between the Phoenician coast and the port of Tarshish in Spain (see 2:16; 23:6). • rumors you heard in Cyprus (Hebrew Kittim; also in 23:12): Cyprus was the last port of call for sailors coming home from Spain before the final leg of their journey to Tyre.

23:2 Sidon was a Phoenician port to the north of Tyre. • Tyre's commercial network of traders was extensive.

23:3 Egypt: Hebrew Shihor, a branch of the Nile River. • Fish, agricultural produce, flax, and linen were all harvests from along the Nile (see ch 19). • Tyre was known as the marketplace of the world, comparable to modern cities like New York, Hong Kong, or London.

- 4 But now you are put to shame, city of Sidon, for Tyre, the fortress of the sea, says,
"Now I am childless;
I have no sons or daughters."
5 When Egypt hears the news about Tyre, there will be great sorrow.
6 Send word now to Tarshish!
Wail, you people who live in distant lands!
7 Is this silent ruin all that is left of your once joyous city?
What a long history was yours!
Think of all the colonists you sent to distant places.
8 Who has brought this disaster on Tyre, that great creator of kingdoms?
Her traders were all princes,
her merchants were nobles.
9 The LORD of Heaven's Armies has done it to destroy your pride and bring low all earth's nobility.
10 Come, people of Tarshish, sweep over the land like the flooding Nile,
for Tyre is defenseless.
11 The LORD held out his hand over the sea and shook the kingdoms of the earth.
He has spoken out against Phoenicia, ordering that her fortresses be destroyed.
12 He says, "Never again will you rejoice, O daughter of Sidon, for you have been crushed.
Even if you flee to Cyprus,
you will find no rest."
- 13 Look at the land of Babylonia—
the people of that land are gone!
The Assyrians have handed Babylon over to the wild animals of the desert.
They have built siege ramps against its walls,
torn down its palaces,
and turned it to a heap of rubble.
14 Wail, you ships of Tarshish, for your harbor is destroyed!
15 For seventy years, the length of a king's life, Tyre will be forgotten. But then the city will come back to life as in the song about the prostitute:
16 Take a harp and walk the streets,
you forgotten harlot.
Make sweet melody and sing your songs so you will be remembered again.
17 Yes, after seventy years the LORD will revive Tyre. But she will be no different than she was before. She will again be a prostitute to all kingdoms around the world. 18 But in the end her profits will be given to the LORD. Her wealth will not be hoarded but will provide good food and fine clothing for the LORD's priests.
- 3. THE "LITTLE APOCALYPSE" (24:1–27:13)
The Day of the LORD
24 1 Look! The LORD is about to destroy the earth and make it a vast wasteland.

23:4 Part of the great port city of Tyre was on an island. The island city was a fortress of the sea, but it fell in 332 BC. • I am childless; I have no sons or daughters: This metaphor was a judgment on Tyre's colonial ports around the Mediterranean Sea. In the ancient world, to reach old age without having children was considered a terrible fate (see 49:21; 54:1).

23:5 Egypt depended on the ships from Tyre for the export of its products (see 23:3).

23:8 The Lord had brought this disaster on Tyre (23:9). • Through commercial links, Tyre had created wealth for itself and its trading partners; in this sense, Tyre was a great creator of kingdoms.

23:10 The meaning of the Hebrew in this verse is uncertain. • Sweep over the land like the flooding Nile: This difficult phrase means either (1) that the sailors who had returned from Tarshish were being invited to loot ruined Tyre; or (2) that the people of Tarshish were forced to move back to their agricultural fields to make their living (instead of trading) now that Tyre had been destroyed.

23:11 Phoenicia (Hebrew Canaan) was the region north of Israel. Tyre and Sidon were its main cities.

23:13 Babylonia (or Chaldea) was stripped and looted by the Assyrians under Sennacherib (689 BC); eventually it rose to be a mighty empire once again.

23:15–18 There was hope for Tyre.

23:17 Metaphorically, Tyre was a prostitute because of its indifferent willingness to sell anything to anyone (cp. Rev 17:2; 18:3, 12–13).

23:18 Even though Tyre's earnings came from unrighteous commerce, the profits will be given to the LORD rather than being squandered. • There will be good food and fine clothing for the LORD's priests. The theme of the wealth of the nations being brought to the Lord in Jerusalem is more fully developed in 60:5–11; 61:6.

24:1–27:13 This section is often referred to as the "Little Apocalypse" because of its similarities to the book of Revelation. In these chapters Isaiah takes readers out of the present into a vision of the future world. The universal imagery of the Little Apocalypse makes it difficult to assign the events described to any precise historical situation. That means that these chapters cannot be used to outline a sequence of events or create a historical blueprint for the future. Instead, the imagery is intended to create an impressionistic drama of an unfolding world that is both like and unlike the present. The combination of aspects of the old era with aspects of the new era (for instance, people of Zion will all be righteous [new], but still long for their redemption [old]) is consistent with the NT concept of the future age breaking into and overlapping with the present evil age (2 Cor 4:4; Gal 1:4). Peter, for example, wrote of believers as living in the last days (1 Pet 1:12; 2 Pet 3:3) even though the last day remains yet future (2 Pet 3:10).

24:1–23 Here the judgments described in chs 13–23 are extended to the creation at large.

- He devastates the surface of the earth and scatters the people.
- ² Priests and laypeople, servants and masters,
maids and mistresses,
buyers and sellers,
lenders and borrowers, bankers and debtors—none will be spared.
- ³ The earth will be completely emptied and looted.
The LORD has spoken!
- ⁴ The earth mourns and dries up,
and the land wastes away and withers.
Even the greatest people on earth waste away.
- ⁵ The earth suffers for the sins of its people, for they have twisted God's
instructions,
violated his laws,
and broken his everlasting covenant.
- ⁶ Therefore, a curse consumes the earth.
Its people must pay the price for their sin.
They are destroyed by fire,
and only a few are left alive.
- ⁷ The grapevines waste away,
and there is no new wine.
All the merry-makers sigh and mourn.
- ⁸ The cheerful sound of tambourines is stilled;
the happy cries of celebration are heard no more.
The melodious chords of the harp are silent.
- ⁹ Gone are the joys of wine and song; alcoholic drink turns bitter in the mouth.
- ¹⁰ The city writhes in chaos;
every home is locked to keep out intruders.
- ¹¹ Mobs gather in the streets, crying out for wine.
Joy has turned to gloom.
Gladness has been banished from the land.
- ¹² The city is left in ruins,
its gates battered down.
- ¹³ Throughout the earth the story is the same—
only a remnant is left, like the stray olives left on the tree or the few grapes left on the vine after harvest.
- ¹⁴ But all who are left shout and sing for joy.
Those in the west praise the LORD's majesty.
- ¹⁵ In eastern lands, give glory to the LORD.
In the lands beyond the sea, praise the name of the LORD, the God of Israel.
- ¹⁶ We hear songs of praise from the ends of the earth,
songs that give glory to the Righteous
One!
- But my heart is heavy with grief.
Weep for me, for I wither away.
Deceit still prevails,
and treachery is everywhere.
- ¹⁷ Terror and traps and snares will be your lot,
you people of the earth.
- ¹⁸ Those who flee in terror will fall into a trap,
and those who escape the trap will be caught in a snare.

24:1 destroy the earth and make it a vast wasteland: There is a play here on the Hebrew words baqaq (destroy) and balaq (make a wasteland). The devastation will begin with Judah and be extended to the whole world (see 1 Pet 4:17). • All the earth will be destroyed, the people as well as national political structures.

24:4-13 All humanity is guilty (Rom 3:23) and under condemnation (see 59:1-15). Judgment is likened to a failed grape harvest that brings drinking and feasting to a halt.

24:4 earth . . . dries up . . . land wastes away and withers: The prophets often used the imagery of a drought to get the attention of people who live off the land (see also Jer 23:10; Joel 1:12; Amos 1:2).

24:5 Isaiah was probably referring to the everlasting covenant that God made with all humanity through Noah (Gen

9:8-17). The prophet saw a parallel with the wickedness in his day and the wickedness of the pre-flood world.

24:6 The effect of sin is so great that no earthly thing or action can adequately atone for it. Hope ultimately lies in God himself. God has reconciled the world to himself in Christ (Col 1:19-20).

24:7 Merry-makers will sigh and mourn because they are dependent on wine for pleasure.

24:8 Tambourines and melodious chords of the harp represent good times (see 5:12; Rev 18:22).

24:10 city writhes in chaos: With normal levels of urban disarray being raised to chaotic and dangerous disorder, people will be forced to seek refuge in locked homes.

24:11 Gladness has been banished from the land, not by edict, but because there is no reason to celebrate.

24:13 stray olives left on the tree: The remnant will include godly people both from Israel (see 17:6) and from other nations. • The theme of the remnant is common in Isaiah (10:22; 14:30; 16:14; 24:6; 37:32).

24:14-16 In spite of wailing and ruin, the sound of praise is heard from all directions. Even while still experiencing the pain of the devastation of the old world, the godly will respond with joyous expectation for the new world.

24:16 But my heart is heavy with grief: The prophets were well acquainted with the emotional pain brought on by the sin of their people and its consequences (see 15:5; 21:4; Jer 15:10; Mic 1:8). • Although aspects of the new world are present, the deceit of the old world still prevails for a time.

24:18 No one can escape the day of the Lord (see notes on 2:5-22; Amos 5:18). • Destruction falls like rain from

10; 40:9

Destruction falls like rain from the heavens;
the foundations of the earth shake.

¹⁹ The earth has broken up.
It has utterly collapsed;
it is violently shaken.

²⁰ The earth staggers like a drunk.
It trembles like a tent in a storm.
It falls and will not rise again, for the guilt of its rebellion is very heavy.

²¹ In that day the LORD will punish the gods in the heavens and the proud rulers of the nations on earth.

²² They will be rounded up and put in prison.
They will be shut up in prison and will finally be punished.

²³ Then the glory of the moon will wane, and the brightness of the sun will fade, for the LORD of Heaven's Armies will rule on Mount Zion.
He will rule in great glory in Jerusalem,
in the sight of all the leaders of his
people.

The Mountain of the LORD

25 ¹ O LORD, I will honor and praise
your name,
for you are my God.
You do such wonderful things!
You planned them long ago,
and now you have accomplished them.

² You turn mighty cities into heaps of ruins.
Cities with strong walls are turned to rubble.
Beautiful palaces in distant lands
disappear
and will never be rebuilt.

³ Therefore, strong nations will declare your glory;
ruthless nations will fear you.

⁴ But you are a tower of refuge to the poor,
O LORD,
a tower of refuge to the needy in distress.

You are a refuge from the storm and a shelter from the heat.

For the oppressive acts of ruthless people are like a storm beating against a wall, ⁵ or like the relentless heat of the desert.

But you silence the roar of foreign nations.
As the shade of a cloud cools relentless heat,
so the boastful songs of ruthless people are stilled.

⁶ In Jerusalem, the LORD of Heaven's
Armies
will spread a wonderful feast for all the people of the world.
It will be a delicious banquet with clear, well-aged wine and choice meat.

⁷ There he will remove the cloud of gloom, the shadow of death that hangs over
the earth.

⁸ He will swallow up death forever!
The Sovereign LORD will wipe away
all tears.
He will remove forever all insults and mockery against his land and people.
The LORD has spoken!

⁹ In that day the people will proclaim,
"This is our God!
We trusted in him, and he saved us!
This is the LORD, in whom we trusted.
Let us rejoice in the salvation he brings!"

the heavens (literally the floodgates of heaven are opened): The imagery is like the flood in Noah's time (see notes on 24:5; Gen 7:11-12; 8:2). • the foundations of the earth shake: An earthquake is characteristic of a theophany, a physical manifestation of God's presence (see note on 5:25; see also 6:4; 13:13; 19:1).

24:21 The phrase translated gods (Hebrew tseba' hammaram, "armed host of the heavens") might refer to pagan gods represented by the stars. It might also refer to the angels or even demons (Rev 12:4, 9). Judgment will extend to all parts of creation (13:13; 34:5; see Eph 6:11-12).

24:22 put in prison . . . punished: See also 2 Pet 2:4; Rev 9:2, 11; 17:8.

25:1-12 The second part of the Little Apocalypse (see note on 24:1-27:13) describes praise for God's judgment (25:1-5, 11-12) and salvation (25:6-9).

25:1-5 Isaiah here praises God for protecting the needy (see 12:1-6).

25:3 Assyria and Egypt were strong . . . ruthless nations, but in the future they will exalt God rather than their own power.

25:6-8 The banquet is a symbol of God's providing richly for all those who will receive his gracious invitation (Rev 3:20-21; 19:9).

25:6 In Jerusalem: Literally On this mountain (also in 25:10)—that is, the mountain of the Lord (see 2:2; 24:23):

This does not refer to a geographical city but to Zion, the eternal city of God (see 1:8, 27).

25:8 He will swallow up death forever: Isaiah's hope was God's power over sin and sin's devastating results. In the NT this promise is realized in Jesus Christ (1 Cor 15:54). • The Lord's presence will be a source of eternal comfort; he will wipe away all tears (see Rev 21:4).

25:9-12 The new community of God's people will respond in joy and faith. When the enemy is defeated, God's people will be free forever.

- ¹⁰ For the LORD's hand of blessing will rest on Jerusalem.
But Moab will be crushed.
It will be like straw trampled down and left to rot.
- ¹¹ God will push down Moab's people as a swimmer pushes down water with his hands.
He will end their pride and all their evil works.
- ¹² The high walls of Moab will be demolished.
They will be brought down to the ground,
down into the dust.

The City of the LORD

26 In that day, everyone in the land of Judah will sing this song:

- Our city is strong!
We are surrounded by the walls of God's salvation.
- ² Open the gates to all who are righteous; allow the faithful to enter.
- ³ You will keep in perfect peace all who trust in you, all whose thoughts are fixed on you!
- ⁴ Trust in the LORD always,
for the LORD God is the eternal ^bRock.
- ⁵ He humbles the proud and brings down the arrogant city.
He brings it down to the dust.
- ⁶ The poor and oppressed trample it underfoot, and the needy walk all over it.

- ⁷ But for those who are righteous, the way is not steep and rough.
You are a God who does what is right, and you smooth out the path ahead of them.
- ⁸ LORD, we show our trust in you by obeying your laws;
our heart's desire is to glorify your name.
- ⁹ In the night I search for you;
in the morning I earnestly seek you.
For only when you come to judge the earth will people learn what is right.
- ¹⁰ Your kindness to the wicked does not make them do good.
Although others do right, the wicked keep doing wrong and take no notice of the LORD's majesty.
- ¹¹ O LORD, they pay no attention to your upraised fist.
Show them your eagerness to defend your people.
Then they will be ashamed.
Let your fire consume your enemies.
- ¹² LORD, you will grant us peace;
all we have accomplished is really from you.
- ¹³ O LORD our God, others have ruled us, but you alone are the one we worship.
- ¹⁴ Those we served before are dead and gone.
Their departed spirits will never return!

25:10 on Jerusalem: Literally on this mountain; see note on 25:6. • Moab (see 15:1–16:14) here represents the nations under judgment, those who trust only themselves (see 34:5–17). • like straw trampled down: The people would be helpless and dying in the most degrading circumstances.

25:11 Isaiah used the image of a swimmer forcibly kept under water to illustrate that Moab's people are helplessly doomed and their human pride will be conquered.

26:1–21 This section of the Little Apocalypse (see note on 24:1–27:13) is a song of praise and a prayer for redemption.

26:1–6 The new community of God's people is likened to the citizens of a city, securely held together by the Lord. They are righteous, faithful, peaceful, and trusting.

26:1 Our city refers to Zion, the eternal city of God, where the Lord is present to protect and bless his people (see 1:8, 27; see also Ps 46). Zion stands in direct contrast to the "mighty cities" of the nations (25:2; 26:5), which are helpless and are brought down to "ruins." • The walls of God's salvation protectively enclose his people; no one can hurt them again.

26:2 Open access is given to all who, like God and his Messiah, are righteous and faithful. The citizens of true Zion are committed to the Lord.

26:3 A perfect peace, marked by harmony, quietness, and confidence, is a benefit of the new creation.

26:5 The proud and arrogant are often characterized as exalting themselves (see 2:11–12), whereas God humbles them.

26:6 Justice finally occurs when the needy walk all over the ruins of the city where the proud have perished.

26:7–21 The godly pray for the end of oppression and the full establishment of God's kingdom. Isaiah encouraged the godly to persevere as they wait for their final vindication and the resurrection of the body.

26:7 God will do what is right for those who walk in his way, even if they have to suffer a while longer (see 24:16). One day, they will experience harmony and integrity (see Prov 2:8–9; 15:19).

26:8 we show our trust (see 26:3–4; literally we wait for you): Waiting involves trust in the Lord and longing for his redemption. • People express their commitment to God by obeying his laws; mere lip service is not sufficient.

26:9 I search . . . I earnestly seek: Cp. Ps 63:1. • in the morning: Literally within me.

26:10 God has shown kindness to the wicked. Although they deserve judgment (see also Rom 2:4; 2 Pet 3:9), he has been patient and forbearing and has blessed them. However, time will run out one day.

26:11 An upraised fist expresses anger and the threat of judgment (see note on 19:16–17). • Fire was often an image for God's judgment.

¹⁵ O LORD, you have made our nation great;
yes, you have made us great.

You have extended our borders, and we give you the glory!

¹⁶ LORD, in distress we searched for you.
We prayed beneath the burden of your discipline.

¹⁷ Just as a pregnant woman writhes and cries out in pain as she gives birth,
so were we in your presence, LORD.

¹⁸ We, too, writhe in agony,
but nothing comes of our suffering.
We have not given salvation to the earth,
nor brought life into the world.

¹⁹ But those who die in the LORD will live;
their bodies will rise again!
Those who sleep in the earth will rise up and sing for joy!
For your life-giving light will fall like dew
on your people in the place of the dead!

²⁰ Go home, my people,
and lock your doors!
Hide yourselves for a little while until the LORD's anger has passed.

²¹ Look! The LORD is coming from heaven to punish the people of the earth for their sins.

The earth will no longer hide those who have been killed.
They will be brought out for all to see.

The Vineyard of the LORD

27 In that day the LORD will take his terrible, swift sword and punish Leviathan, the swiftly moving serpent, the coiling, writhing serpent. He will kill the dragon of the sea.

² "In that day,
sing about the fruitful vineyard.

³ I, the LORD, will watch over it, watering it carefully.
Day and night I will watch so no one can harm it.

⁴ My anger will be gone.
If I find briars and thorns growing,
I will attack them;
I will burn them up—

⁵ unless they turn to me for help.
Let them make peace with me;
yes, let them make peace with me."

⁶ The time is coming when Jacob's descendants will take root.
Israel will bud and blossom and fill the whole earth with fruit!

⁷ Has the LORD struck Israel
as he struck her enemies?
Has he punished her
as he punished them?

26:15 This verse is a confident expression of thanks for God's blessings. In Isaiah's time, during King Hezekiah's prosperous reign, the borders of the nation of Israel were extended, and people gave glory to God for his great deeds.

26:16 While waiting for God's salvation (26:1), the godly were in distress and longed for their vindication. They prayed beneath the burden of God's discipline. In Hezekiah's time, Judah was in distress when Sennacherib attacked and destroyed the whole nation except for Jerusalem.

26:17 The imagery of a pregnant woman in childbirth describes the nation's pain when Assyrian King Sennacherib attacked it in 701 BC (see 37:3).

26:18 Only God can give salvation and bring life (see 59:9-15).

26:19 those who die . . . will live: There is hope for the remnant. Some hold the minimal interpretation that this means the people would be restored to the land after the Exile (see Ezek 37:11-12) or that the Lord would preserve Jerusalem (see 29:4, 6-8). More likely it refers to the resurrection of the body from the grave (see 25:7-8). The OT has little to say about the resurrection, but this text anticipates fuller development in the NT (see 1 Cor 15:12-58).

26:20 God will punish the wicked, so the godly should go home and stay out of the way.

26:21 The wicked retain power now, but their oppressive rule will end in the day of the Lord's wrath, when he will punish them for their sins.

27:1 The identification of Leviathan is disputed, ranging from an earthly creature to a mythical sea monster in ancient literature. Israel adapted this imagery to refer to evil powers that oppose God. Leviathan's death symbolizes the end of evil, Satan, the demonic, and the dominion of forces hostile to God (see 51:9; Ps 74:14; 104:7-9, 26; see also the serpent in Gen 3; Rev 12; 13; 16:13; 20:2, 10).

27:2-6 The Song of the Fruitful Vineyard, in which the vineyard represents God's people (cp. 5:1-7).

27:3 God identifies himself as the LORD of the covenant to assure his people that what he says and does is reliable (see Exod 6:2-3). The phrase is used many times throughout Isaiah. • watch . . . watering . . . watch: The Lord will provide even greater care and protection for his ultimate vineyard than he did for Israel, his first vineyard (see 5:1-2).

27:5 God expects all his people to turn to him and to trust him for help. • Let them make peace with me is God's offer of reconciliation for his people.

27:6 Jacob's descendants will take root and the remnant will increase (37:31; cp. 5:24; 14:30; for application to the Messiah, see 11:1, 10). • fill the whole earth: The fulfillment of this prophecy extends beyond the restoration of Israel from exile to the second coming of the Lord Jesus. It includes all the righteous children of God—Jews and Gentiles—who suffer but remain obedient as they wait for the fullness of redemption (see 26:18; John 15:1-8).

27:7-11 Isaiah reminded readers of the reasons for the Exile and judgment: Israel's sinfulness, God's righteous judgment, and the absence of divine compassion.

27:7 Despite being God's covenant people, Israel was struck and punished like any other wicked nation. However, Israel was not completely destroyed; a remnant remained.

⁸ No, but he exiled Israel to call her to account.
She was exiled from her land as though blown away in a storm from the east.

⁹ The LORD did this to purge Israel's wickedness,
to take away all her sin.
As a result, all the pagan altars will be crushed to dust.

No Asherah pole or pagan shrine will be left standing.

¹⁰ The fortified towns will be silent and empty,
the houses abandoned, the streets overgrown with weeds.

Calves will graze there,
chewing on twigs and branches.

¹¹ The people are like the dead branches of a tree, broken off and used for kindling
beneath the cooking pots.

Israel is a foolish and stupid nation, for its people have turned away from God.

Therefore, the one who made them will show them no pity or mercy.

¹² Yet the time will come when the LORD will gather them together like handpicked grain. One by one he will gather them—from the Euphrates River in the east to the Brook of Egypt in the west. ¹³ In that day the great trumpet will sound. Many who were dying in exile in Assyria and Egypt will return to Jerusalem to worship the LORD on his holy mountain.

4. THREATS OF JUDGMENT (28:1–33:24)

Woe on Samaria

28 ¹ What sorrow awaits the proud city of Samaria—the glorious crown of the drunks of Israel.

It sits at the head of a fertile valley, but its glorious beauty will fade like
a flower.

It is the pride of a people brought down by wine.

² For the Lord will send a mighty army against it.

Like a mighty hailstorm and a torrential rain,
they will burst upon it like a surging flood and smash it to the ground.

³ The proud city of Samaria—the glorious crown of the drunks of Israel—
will be trampled beneath its enemies'
feet.

⁴ It sits at the head of a fertile valley, but its glorious beauty will fade like
a flower.

Whoever sees it will snatch it up, as an early fig is quickly picked and eaten.

⁵ Then at last the LORD of Heaven's Armies will himself be Israel's glorious crown.
He will be the pride and joy of the remnant of his people.

⁶ He will give a ^klonging for justice to their judges.
He will give great courage to their warriors who stand at the gates.

27:8 The Assyrians exiled large numbers of citizens from the northern kingdom of Israel when Samaria fell in 722 bc. The Babylonians exiled many from Judah from 605 to 586 bc. • Storms from the east were known for their destructive effects (see Job 27:21; 38:24; Jer 4:11).

27:9 God's justice requires him to punish sin. That punishment is designed to correct behavior and to purify. Being conquered and exiled was to purge Israel's (literally Jacob's; see note on 14:1) wickedness and to take away all her sin (see Rom 11:27). • This was to be the end of all the pagan worship in Israel, including the incense altars and the poles that were used in worshipping the goddess Asherah.

27:10 Places previously associated with human power and accomplishment would be ruined to the extent that animals would graze in them.

27:11 The people were outside of God's covenantal care; they foolishly turned away from him.

27:12 Yet: God's withholding of mercy from Israel (27:11) will be temporary. • from the Euphrates River (literally the river) . . . to the Brook of Egypt: God's remnant will return from Assyria and Egypt to the territory that God promised to Abraham (Gen 15:18; see 1 Kgs 4:21).

27:13 The great trumpet was used to gather the people (see Matt 24:31).

28:1–33:24 This section is connected by a series of six threats of judgment or woes (cp. 5:8-23). Apart from the initial address to Samaria in 28:1-6, the remainder of the section is addressed to Judah, especially because of their inclination to trust Egypt to rescue them from Assyria (30:2).

28:1-29 The glory of Samaria, capital of the northern kingdom of Israel, is here contrasted with the glory of the Lord. This section represents the first of the six woes (What sorrow . . .).

28:1 The first two lines can be literally translated, What sorrow awaits the crowning glory of the drunks of Ephraim, referring to Samaria, capital of the northern kingdom of Israel. • The drunks of Israel epitomized pride, spiritual complacency, and scorn for God and his commands. • Unlike Jerusalem, Samaria was in a fertile valley.

28:2 the LORD will send: The covenant God will act against his own people, whose behavior had effectively disqualified them as God's people (see Hos 1:9). • The mighty army is that of the Assyrians, who destroyed Samaria in 722 bc.

28:3 The proud city of Samaria—the glorious crown of the drunks of Israel: Literally The crowning glory of the drunks of Ephraim; see note on 28:1.

28:5-6 In the future, after God's judgment has purged his people, he will restore a righteous remnant, transforming the desires and character of his people. Samaria will no longer be the source of Israel's pride; instead, they will glory in the Lord, their true crown.

7 Now, however, Israel is led by drunks who reel with wine and stagger with alcohol.

The priests and prophets stagger with alcohol
and lose themselves in wine.

They reel when they see visions and stagger as they render decisions.

8 Their tables are covered with vomit;
filth is everywhere.

9 "Who does the LORD think we are?" they ask.

"Why does he speak to us like this?

Are we little children,
just recently weaned?

10 He tells us everything over and over—
one line at a time,
one line at a time,
a little here,
and a little there!"

11 So now God will have to speak to his people through foreign oppressors who speak a strange language!

12 God has told his people,
"Here is a place of rest;
let the weary rest here.
This is a place of quiet rest."
But they would not listen.

13 So the LORD will spell out his message for them again,
one line at a time,
one line at a time,
a little here,
and a little there,
so that they will stumble and fall.

They will be injured, trapped, and captured.

Judgment on Jerusalem

14 Therefore, listen to this message from
the LORD,
you scoffing rulers in Jerusalem.

15 You boast, "We have struck a bargain to cheat death
and have made a deal to dodge the grave.

The coming destruction can never touch us,
for we have built a strong refuge made of lies and deception."

16 Therefore, this is what the Sovereign
LORD says:

"Look! I am placing a foundation stone in Jerusalem,
a firm and tested stone.

It is a precious cornerstone that is safe to build on.

Whoever believes need never be shaken.

17 I will test you with the measuring line of justice
and the plumb line of righteousness.

Since your refuge is made of lies,
a hailstorm will knock it down.

Since it is made of deception,
a flood will sweep it away.

18 I will cancel the bargain you made to cheat death,
and I will overturn your deal to dodge
the grave.

When the terrible enemy sweeps through,
you will be trampled into the ground.

28:7-13 The focus returns to the lamentable present situation in Israel (and Judah). The leaders and people will be ensnared by their own schemes.

28:7 The priests and prophets led the people astray. • Intoxicating beverages such as wine and alcohol were prohibited for priests while fulfilling their duties (Lev 10:9).

28:9-10 The people had become hardened to God's revelation (1 Cor 14:21; see note on 28:13).

28:11 God will have to speak through circumstances such as hardship, exile, and death in order to get through to his hardened people. • a strange language: In the NT, Paul applied this text to the spiritual gift of tongues as a sign of judgment to unbelievers (see 1 Cor 14:21-22).

28:12 Had his people listened, God's revelation would have led them to rest (see 48:18-19). But they would not listen because of their hard hearts (65:12).

28:13 one line at a time, one line at a time, a little here, and a little there: The Hebrew here is difficult to understand. The words might be intentional nonsense to illustrate the point that the people were so spiritually blind that God's clearest revelation was nonsense to them (see 6:9-10).

28:14-22 The focus shifts specifically to Jerusalem. The leaders of Judah are accused of being as blind as those in the northern kingdom of Israel.

28:15 cheat death (literally have made a covenant with death) . . . dodge the grave (Hebrew Sheol; also in 28:18): There are two interpretive possibilities: (1) The people had sold themselves to the Canaanite god of death, Mot, in return for his supposed protection. (2) The prophet was being sarcastic; the people thought their various political and economic moves guaranteed their personal security, but they had actually destroyed themselves. • lies and deception: The leaders did not think of themselves as deceptive, but they were.

28:16 The Lord himself is the reliable foundation stone in Jerusalem (Hebrew in Zion), a precious cornerstone of the true city of God. There would be real hope in Jerusalem if the leaders and the people would only turn to him. If they would trust in God, they would be secure in the most terrible storm or the most devastating earthquake (see 8:14; Ps 118:22; Matt 7:24-27; 21:42; see the application to Jesus Christ, Rom 9:33; 10:11; 1 Cor 3:11; Eph 2:20; 1 Pet 2:4-7). • Greek version reads Look! I am placing a stone in the foundation of Jerusalem [literally Zion], / a precious cornerstone for its foundation, chosen for great honor. / Anyone who trusts in him will never be disgraced. Cp. Rom 9:33; 28:6; 1 Pet 2:6, all of which quote from the Greek version.

28:17 The Lord judges people on their works, which reveal the presence or absence of living faith (for justice and righteousness, see 1:21-23).

¹⁹ Again and again that flood will come,
morning after morning,
day and night,
until you are carried away."

This message will bring terror to your people.

²⁰ The bed you have made is too short to lie on.

The blankets are too narrow to cover you.

²¹ The LORD will come as he did against the Philistines at Mount Perazim and against the Amorites at Gibeon. He will come to do a strange thing; he will come to do an unusual deed:

²² For the Lord, the LORD of Heaven's Armies, has plainly said that he is determined to crush the whole land.

So scoff no more,
or your punishment will be even greater.

²³ Listen to me;
listen, and pay close attention.

²⁴ Does a farmer always plow and never sow?
Is he forever cultivating the soil and never planting?

²⁵ Does he not finally plant his seeds—black cumin, cumin, wheat, barley, and emmer wheat—
each in its proper way,
and each in its proper place?

²⁶ The farmer knows just what to do,
for God has given him understanding.

²⁷ A heavy sledge is never used to thresh black cumin;
rather, it is beaten with a light stick.
A threshing wheel is never rolled on cumin;
instead, it is beaten lightly with a flail.

²⁸ Grain for bread is easily crushed,
so he doesn't keep on pounding it.
He threshes it under the wheels of a cart,
but he doesn't pulverize it.

²⁹ The LORD of Heaven's Armies is a wonderful teacher, and he gives the farmer great wisdom.

Woe on Jerusalem

29 ¹ "What sorrow awaits Ariel, the City of David.
Year after year you celebrate your feasts.

² Yet I will bring disaster upon you,
and there will be much weeping and sorrow.

For Jerusalem will become what her name Ariel means—an altar covered with blood.

³ I will be your enemy, surrounding Jerusalem and attacking its walls.

I will build siege towers and destroy it.

⁴ Then deep from the earth you will speak;
from low in the dust your words will come.

Your voice will whisper from the ground like a ghost conjured up from the grave.

⁵ "But suddenly, your ruthless enemies will be crushed
like the finest of dust.
Your many attackers will be driven away
like chaff before the wind.

Suddenly, in an instant,

⁶ I, the LORD of Heaven's Armies, will act for you
with thunder and earthquake and great noise, with whirlwind and storm and consuming fire.

28:20 The bed. . . . The blankets: The leaders were ill-prepared for God's coming in judgment.

28:21 as he did . . . at Mount Perazim: See 2 Sam 5:20. • God had rescued Israel through a hailstorm at Gibeon (Josh 10:10-12), but now he would turn against them.

28:23 Listen to me: The analogy that follows was written as a wisdom poem, with Isaiah calling on his audience to pay careful attention and to discern what is right.

28:24-29 A farmer knows that there are right and wrong ways to do things, but the leaders of Judah were not that intelligent.

28:27-28 The Lord has a variety of means (a heavy sledge . . . a light stick) for accomplishing his purposes. There are degrees of judgment.

28:28 he doesn't keep on pounding it: This process would end; after judgment would come redemption.

28:29 wonderful teacher (or counselor; see 9:6): God's people should learn wisdom about God's ways, as the farmer has done.

29:1-14 After having pronounced judgment on Samaria (ch 28), Isaiah now pronounces judgment on Jerusalem. This is the second of the six woes (What sorrow . . .).

29:1-8 In the Assyrian siege, the Lord would be fighting against Jerusalem, but he would force the Assyrians to abandon Jerusalem in his own time.

29:1-2 Ariel sounds like a Hebrew term that means "hearth" or "altar." It was another name for Mount Zion (29:8); it probably means altar of God.

29:3 The Lord himself would come against Jerusalem, surrounding and attacking it.

29:4 God's goal was to destroy the sinful pride of the people of Jerusalem. Their voice would rise as if from the grave. Through the Assyrians, God would humble his people, but he would not abandon them.

29:6 will act for you (literally you will be visited): God would bring rescue for his people. • thunder and earthquake . . . storm and consuming fire: These phenomena indicate a theophany (see note on 5:25).

A thirsty person dreams of drinking but is still faint from thirst when morning comes.

So it will be with your enemies, with those who attack Mount Zion."

9 Are you amazed and incredulous?
Don't you believe it?

Then go ahead and be blind.
You are stupid, but not from wine!

You stagger, but not from liquor!

10 For the LORD has poured out on you a spirit of deep sleep.

He has closed the eyes of your prophets and visionaries.

11 All the future events in this vision are like a sealed book to them. When you give it to those who can read, they will say, "We can't read it because it is sealed." 12 When you give it to those who cannot read, they will say, "We don't know how to read."

13 And so the Lord says,
"These people say they are mine.

They honor me with their lips,
but their hearts are far from me.

And their worship of me is nothing but man-made rules learned by rote.

14 Because of this, I will once again astound
these hypocrites with amazing wonders.

The wisdom of the wise will pass away, and the intelligence of the intelligent will disappear."

Woe on Judah

15 What sorrow awaits those who try to hide their plans from the LORD, who do their evil deeds in the dark!
"The LORD can't see us," they say.

"He doesn't know what's going on!"

16 How foolish can you be?

He is the Potter, and he is certainly greater than you, the clay!

Should the created thing say of the one who made it,

"He didn't make me"?

Does a jar ever say,

"The potter who made me is stupid"?

A Message of Hope

17 Soon—and it will not be very long—the forests of Lebanon will become a fertile field,
and the fertile field will yield bountiful crops.

18 In that day the deaf will hear words read from a book, and the blind will see through the gloom and darkness.

19 The ^chumble will be filled with fresh ^djoy from the LORD.

The poor will rejoice in the Holy One
of Israel.

20 The scoffer will be gone,
the arrogant will disappear,
and those who plot evil will be killed.

21 Those who convict the innocent by their false testimony will disappear.

29:7 Jerusalem: Hebrew Ariel (see note on 29:1-2). • The Assyrians' sudden lifting of the siege came like a dream . . . like a vision in the night. God would save Judah and judge Assyria.

29:8-12 Jerusalem's blindness kept its people from understanding God's plan.

29:8 Like a hungry or thirsty person, the Assyrians could taste the victory over Jerusalem. Yet they never became victorious.

29:10 a spirit of deep sleep: The people's folly was reinforced by God's judgment on them (cp. Rom 1:24-32; 11:8); they had no perception of reality. • Prophets were also sometimes called visionaries. Neither the people nor their prophets would understand what God was doing (6:9-10).

29:13 These people used pious-sounding language in their prayers and talk (see Matt 15:8; Mark 7:6-7), but they did not truly honor God. • In their hearts, they were not committed to the Lord at all.

• In their worship, they followed man-made rules and regulations rather than God's word. • And their worship of me is nothing but man-made rules learned by rote: Greek version reads Their worship is a farce, / for they teach man-made ideas as commands from God. Cp. Mark 7:7.

29:14 Human wisdom . . . intelligence . . . will disappear (see 1 Cor 1:19). The prophet had already spoken of the failure of Egypt's wise men (19:11-12); even Judah's wise men would blunder.

29:15-24 This threat of coming judgment is the third of the six woes (see note on 28:1-33:24). It begins with judgment but moves to a vision of creation being renewed and of the wicked coming to an end.

29:15 Their plans might refer to the advice that royal counselors were giving Hezekiah, who at first attempted to free himself from Assyria by making alliances with Egypt (715 or 701 bc). • The people were conspiring to commit evil deeds in secret, but God saw everything.

29:16 Potter . . . clay: The Lord's sovereignty is beyond challenge. Scripture does not discourage questions to God, but there is no place for resistance to God's will (see 10:15; 45:9; 64:8; Rom 9:20). • He didn't make me: Such claims against God demonstrate a total unwillingness to recognize God's intimate involvement with every aspect of a person's life.

29:17 The forests of Lebanon are usually an image of luxuriant growth (see 2:13; 14:8), but here they represent desolation.

29:18 The people were deaf and blind in heart and spirit (see 6:10; 42:18; 43:8). Yet humanity and all of creation would be renewed (see 35:1-5).

29:21 The false testimony that led to the oppression of the poor through

A similar fate awaits those who use trickery to pervert justice and who tell lies to destroy the innocent.

²²That is why the LORD, who redeemed Abraham, says to the people of Israel,

"My people will no longer be ashamed or turn pale with fear.

²³For when they see their many children and all the blessings I have given them, they will recognize the holiness of the Holy One of Jacob.

They will stand in awe of the God
of Israel.

²⁴Then the wayward will gain
understanding,
and complainers will accept instruction.

Woe on Judah: A Worthless Treaty with Egypt

30¹"What sorrow awaits my rebellious children,"
says the LORD.

"You make plans that are contrary to mine.

You make alliances not directed by my Spirit,
thus piling up your sins.

²For without consulting me,
you have gone down to Egypt for help.
You have put your trust in Pharaoh's protection.

You have tried to hide in his shade.

³But by trusting Pharaoh, you will be humiliated,
and by depending on him, you will be disgraced.

⁴For though his power extends to Zoan and his officials have arrived in Hanes,

⁵all who trust in him will be ashamed.
He will not help you.
Instead, he will disgrace you."

⁶This message came to me concerning the animals in the Negev:

The caravan moves slowly across the terrible desert to Egypt—

donkeys weighed down with riches and camels loaded with treasure—
all to pay for Egypt's protection.

They travel through the wilderness,
a place of lionesses and lions,
a place where vipers and poisonous snakes live.

All this, and Egypt will give you nothing in return.

⁷Egypt's promises are worthless!
Therefore, I call her "Rahab—
the Harmless Dragon.

A Warning for Rebellious Judah

⁸Now go and write down these words.
Write them in a book.

They will stand until the end of time as a witness

⁹that these people are stubborn rebels who refuse to pay attention to the LORD's instructions.

¹⁰They tell the seers,
"Stop seeing visions!"
They tell the prophets,
"Don't tell us what is right.
Tell us nice things.
Tell us lies.

¹¹Forget all this gloom.

trickery in the courts of Isaiah's era would end. Because of God's work in their hearts, the people would turn from their sinful behavior of the past.

29:22-24 The prophecy of woe, which began at 29:15, now ends with a prophecy of salvation.

29:22 Abraham was the father of all Israel (see Gen 12:1-3; see also Gal 3:29).
• Israel: Literally Jacob. See note on 14:1. • Rescued from human abuse and God's judgment, the people would no longer be ashamed; their disgrace resulted from the apparent failure of what they had trusted (see Ps 71:1;
1 Pet 2:6).

30:1-33 After threatening Judah with judgment because of their stubbornness and their reliance on Egypt (30:1-17), God again committed himself to deal compassionately with his people and to break the power of their

enemies.

30:1-5 This prophecy was against Judah's dependence on Egypt. It is the fourth of the six woes (see note on 28:1-33:24).

30:1 The wisdom of the people of Judah was not directed by God's Spirit (cp.
11:2); instead, they had formed alliances that God did not approve of. Although the Assyrian attack on Jerusalem was overwhelming, making an alliance with Egypt demonstrated that the leaders of Judah depended on human resources for their protection rather than on God. Fortunately, Hezekiah later had a change of heart (see chs 36-37).

30:4 Zoan: See note on 19:11. The location of Hanes is uncertain.

30:6-7 This taunt was against those who were busy trying to please the Egyptians in order to get Egypt's military support.

30:6 Caravans moved from Judah through the Negev and the Sinai Peninsula to Egypt to avoid the main coast road that was under Assyrian control.
It was a dangerous region, filled with lions and poisonous snakes. People would risk their lives to make a worthless alliance. • Being weighed down with riches might refer to money being sent to Egypt to buy that nation's help.

30:7 Harmless Dragon: Literally Rahab who sits still. Rahab is the name of a mythical sea monster that represents chaos in ancient literature. It is used here as a poetic name for Egypt. In ancient mythology, Rahab was the enemy of the good gods and was depicted in fearsome terms, somewhat like a giant

12 This is the reply of the Holy One of Israel:

"Because you despise what I tell you and trust instead in oppression and lies,

13 calamity will come upon you suddenly—like a bulging wall that bursts and falls.

In an instant it will collapse and come crashing down.

14 You will be smashed like a piece of pottery—shattered so completely that there won't be a piece big enough to carry coals from a fireplace or a little water from the well."

15 This is what the Sovereign LORD,
the Holy One of Israel, says:

"Only in returning to me
and resting in me will you be 'saved.
In quietness and confidence is your strength.

But you would have none of it.

16 You said, 'No, we will get our help from Egypt.

They will give us swift horses for riding into battle.'

But the only swiftness you are going to see is the swiftness of your enemies chasing you!

17 One of them will chase a thousand of
you.

Five of them will make all of you flee.
You will be left like a lonely flagpole on a hill or a tattered banner on a distant mountaintop."

Blessings for the LORD's People

18 So the LORD must wait for you to come to
him
so he can show you his love and compassion.

For the LORD is a faithful God.

Blessed are those who wait for his help.

19 O people of Zion, who live in Jerusalem, you will weep no more.

The Holy One of Israel is a key phrase in Isaiah. The Holy One is the King (6:5), the righteous and just one (26:7), the incomparable God (40:25), and the Redeemer of his people (41:14). Anyone coming to the Holy One must worship him in reverence and in awe. The Holy One identifies himself with Mount Zion, called holy because it is his symbolic dwelling place (see 18:7; 24:23; 27:13; 56:7; 60:1-22).

The Holy One stands apart from all his creation because he is morally perfect. Sinful people (1:4) cannot dwell with him. God's holiness requires ritual purity and moral perfection. As a consuming fire, God purges away anything that does not conform to his holy will (33:14).

The Holy One sets aside a remnant for himself (4:2-3; 6:13). He washes away their filth and commits to be present with them (12:6), his own redeemed people (35:8-9; 62:12). The good news is that the Holy One is also the Redeemer (49:7). He demonstrates his holy power (52:10) as he comes to the aid of sinful and weak humans, rescues them from the exile that their sin creates, and opens up the new creation for them.

crocodile (see 27:1; 51:9; Job 41:1-34). By saying that Egypt was harmless, the prophet meant that it would be of no help to Judah.

30:8-11 God instructed the prophet to write down the vision for future generations. The present generation was rebellious; they rejected God's word in favor of the false prophets' fantasies (see 8:16-17).

30:11 Stop telling us: The people of Judah did not want to be confronted about sin or judgment. • Holy One of Israel: See note on 1:4.

30:12-17 Judgment would suddenly overtake the people of Judah because they were content with their fantasy world, and they refused God's path to rest and quietness.

30:12 The whole society accepted oppression and lies. People reinforced each other's delusions, so it was considered acceptable to trust that Egypt would protect them from Assyria, even though that was a lie. It was also considered legitimate to oppress the poor by legally taking their land.

30:15 The people of Judah needed to repent of their sinful ways (30:12-14), returning to the Lord, in order to be rescued. • Trust in the Lord would bring quietness and confidence, unlike their frantic negotiations with Egypt.

30:16 Judah's reliance on Egypt to supply swift horses (see Ps 33:17) amounted to a rejection of God's help and threatened to bring about its fall.

30:17 One . . . Five: This curse is the opposite of God's blessing for obedience (Lev 26:8; Deut 32:30). • The Assyrians had dominated the rest of the land of Judah, leaving Jerusalem isolated like a lonely flagpole on a hill.

30:18-33 This prophecy of salvation includes promises that directed Israel's attention away from their present adversity to the glorious future awaiting the children of God.

30:18 A faithful God would restore righteous order to the world by punishing the wicked and rescuing his people from them (see 1:27; see Ps 96:10-12). • God blesses those who wait; faithful people do not rush ahead of him to solve their own problems but instead rely on his power and goodness.

30:19 This was probably a challenge and promise to Hezekiah during the Assyrian siege of Jerusalem (see chs 36-37). If he would just trust in God,

He will be gracious if you ask for help.
He will surely respond to the sound of your cries.

²⁰ Though the LORD gave you adversity for food
and suffering for drink,
he will still be with you to teach you.
You will see your teacher with your own eyes.

²¹ Your own ears will hear him.
Right behind you a voice will say,
"This is the way you should go,"
whether to the right or to the left.

²² Then you will destroy all your silver idols and your precious gold images.
You will throw them out like filthy rags, saying to them, "Good riddance!"

²³ Then the LORD will bless you with rain at planting time. There will be wonderful harvests and plenty of pastureland for your livestock. ²⁴ The oxen and donkeys that till the ground will eat good grain, its chaff blown away by the wind. ²⁵ In that day, when your enemies are slaughtered and the towers fall, there will be streams of water flowing down every mountain and hill.
²⁶ The moon will be as bright as the sun, and the sun will be seven times brighter—like the light of seven days in one! So it will be when the LORD begins to heal his people and cure the wounds he gave them.

²⁷ Look! The LORD is coming from far away, burning with anger,
surrounded by thick, rising smoke.
His lips are filled with fury;
his words consume like fire.

²⁸ His hot breath pours out like a flood up to the neck of his enemies.
He will sift out the proud nations for destruction.

He will bridle them and lead them away to ruin.

²⁹ But the people of God will sing a song of joy,
like the songs at the holy festivals.
You will be filled with joy, as when a flutist leads a group of pilgrims to Jerusalem, the mountain of the LORD—to the Rock of Israel.

³⁰ And the LORD will make his majestic voice heard.
He will display the strength of his mighty arm.
It will descend with devouring flames, with cloudbursts, thunderstorms, and huge hailstones.

³¹ At the LORD's command, the Assyrians will be shattered.
He will strike them down with his royal scepter.

³² And as the LORD strikes them with his rod of punishment, his people will celebrate with tambourines and harps.
Lifting his mighty arm, he will fight
the Assyrians.

³³ Topheth—the place of burning—has long been ready for the Assyrian
king;
the pyre is piled high with wood.
The breath of the LORD, like fire from a volcano, will set it ablaze.

his people would weep no more. • The LORD cares for the needs of his people; when they ask for something, he will surely respond.

30:20 adversity for food and suffering for drink: A city under enemy siege for a long time would eventually be overcome by starvation and disease. God did not intend that this disaster should destroy the people of Jerusalem, rather that it would be a tool to teach them.

30:21 The people's own ears will hear and follow God's instructions (see 6:9-10; 29:18; 35:5).

30:22 One aspect of Hezekiah's reforms was to remove silver idols and other idolatry of Ahaz's era and to call the people back to the worship of the God of Israel (2 Chr 29; 2 Kgs 18:4-5).

30:23-24 The people of Judah would again enjoy covenant blessings rather than curses (see Lev 26:4).

30:26 The Lord who struck his people would also heal them and cure the wounds he gave them.

30:27-33 In this prophecy of judgment against the nations, Isaiah foretold that Assyria's power would be broken by God's strong arm, not by the Egyptians.

30:28 like a flood up to the neck: Assyria's destruction would be as devastating as their invasion of Judah (see 8:8).

30:30 His mighty arm presents an image of strength that echoes God's victory over the Egyptians in the Exodus (63:12; see Exod 15:6). • devouring flames . . . huge hailstones: Such phenomena are associated with God's appearance in a theophany (see note on 5:25).

30:31 royal scepter: The Lord, the true King, would be victorious over the threatening Assyrian king.

30:32 tambourines and harps: Instruments formerly silenced in judgment (24:8) would again be used by God's people; this time, the people would celebrate the Lord's goodness rather than becoming spiritually complacent (see 5:12).

30:33 Topheth was a pagan altar in the valley of Ben-Hinnom outside Jerusalem where child sacrifices were offered to the Ammonite god Molech by burning (2 Kgs 23:9-10).

31:1-3 Isaiah delivered another vision regarding Judah's negotiations with Egypt, which probably took place in 705-701 BC. During that time, the conquering Assyrians were on the move, and depending on the strength of human armies

instead of looking to the LORD,
the Holy One of Israel.

² In his wisdom, the LORD will send great
disaster;

he will not change his mind.
He will rise against the wicked and against their helpers.

³ For these Egyptians are mere humans, not God!

Their horses are puny flesh, not mighty spirits!
When the LORD raises his fist against
them,
those who help will stumble,
and those being helped will fall.
They will all fall down and die together.

⁴ But this is what the LORD has told me:

"When a strong young lion stands growling over a sheep it has killed,
it is not frightened by the shouts and noise
of a whole crowd of shepherds.
In the same way, the LORD of Heaven's
Armies
will come down and fight on Mount Zion.

⁵ The LORD of Heaven's Armies will hover over Jerusalem and protect it like a bird protecting its nest.

He will defend and save the city;
he will pass over it and rescue it."

⁶ Though you are such wicked rebels, my people, come and return to the LORD. ⁷ I know the glorious day will come when each of you will throw away the gold idols and silver images your sinful hands have made.

⁸ "The Assyrians will be destroyed,
but not by the swords of men.
The sword of God will strike them,
and they will panic and flee.

The strong young Assyrians will be taken away as captives.

⁹ Even the strongest will quake with terror, and princes will flee when they see your battle flags,"
says the LORD, whose fire burns in Zion, whose flame blazes from Jerusalem.

Israel's Ultimate Deliverance

32 ¹ Look, a righteous king is coming!
And honest princes will rule under him.

² Each one will be like a shelter from the wind
and a refuge from the storm, like streams of water in the desert and the shadow of a great rock in a parched land.

³ Then everyone who has eyes will be able to see the truth, and everyone who has ears will be able to hear it.

⁴ Even the hotheads will be full of sense and understanding.
Those who stammer will speak out plainly.

⁵ In that day ungodly fools will not be heroes.
Scoundrels will not be respected.

⁶ For fools speak foolishness and make evil plans.
They practice ungodliness and spread false teachings about the
LORD.

They deprive the hungry of food and give no water to the thirsty.

⁷ The smooth tricks of scoundrels are evil.
They plot crooked schemes.
They lie to convict the poor, even when the cause of the poor is just.

⁸ But generous people plan to do what is generous,
and they stand firm in their generosity.

threatening Judah. At first, Hezekiah tried political and military means to avert being totally conquered (see 2 Kgs 18:13-16).

31:1 What sorrow: This is the fifth of the six woes (see note on 28:1-33:24).
• Looking to the LORD implies seeking his guidance with a worshipful attitude (see Deut 4:29; Ps 105:3-4).

31:4-9 This prophecy concerned God's protection of Jerusalem and its rescue from the Assyrians.

31:9 princes will flee: This was fulfilled

when Sennacherib fled to Nineveh after God destroyed 185,000 troops (see 37:36-37). • God himself was the fire or flame that would devour Assyria.

32:1 a righteous king: The Messiah (11:1); the emphasis now is on righteous and wise leadership (Prov 8:20). • In Isaiah's day, honest princes were few and far between (see 3:1-6; 28:7-19).

32:2 like a shelter . . . a refuge: The same words were also used to describe God's protection (25:4) and his provision of life-giving water (41:18; 43:19-20).

The leaders would serve as God's agents in blessing his people.

32:5 Only foolish people value fools and scoundrels as heroes (see also 19:11, 13; 32:6-8).

32:6 Because they do not care about God's standards of justice and righteousness, fools have no regard for those who are hungry or thirsty (see 1:17; 58:7, 10).

32:7 smooth tricks . . . crooked schemes:
See Prov 6:12, 18; 16:27; 24:8-9.

- ⁹ Listen, you women who lie around in ease.
Listen to me, you who are so smug.
- ¹⁰ In a short time—just a little more than a year—
you careless ones will suddenly begin to care.
For your fruit crops will fail,
and the harvest will never take place.
- ¹¹ Tremble, you women of ease;
throw off your complacency.
Strip off your pretty clothes,
and put on burlap to show your grief.
- ¹² Beat your breasts in sorrow for your bountiful farms and your fruitful grapevines.
- ¹³ For your land will be overgrown with thorns and briers.
Your joyful homes and happy towns will be gone.
- ¹⁴ The palace and the city will be deserted, and busy towns will be empty.
Wild donkeys will frolic and flocks will graze in the empty forts and watchtowers
- ¹⁵ until at last the ^kSpirit is poured out on us from heaven.
Then the wilderness will become a fertile field,
and the fertile field will yield bountiful crops.
- ¹⁶ Justice will rule in the wilderness and righteousness in the fertile field.
- ¹⁷ And this righteousness will bring peace.
Yes, it will bring quietness and confidence forever.

- ¹⁸ My people will live in safety, quietly at home.
They will be at rest.
- ¹⁹ Even if the forest should be destroyed and the city torn down,
- ²⁰ the LORD will greatly bless his people.
Wherever they plant seed, bountiful crops will spring up.
Their cattle and donkeys will graze freely.

Woe on Assyria

- 33 ¹ What sorrow awaits you Assyrians, who have destroyed others but have never been destroyed yourselves.
You betray others,
but you have never been betrayed.
When you are done destroying,
you will be destroyed.
When you are done betraying,
you will be betrayed.
- ² But LORD, be merciful to us,
for we have waited for you.
Be our strong arm each day and our salvation in times of trouble.
- ³ The enemy runs at the sound of your voice.
When you stand up, the nations flee!
- ⁴ Just as caterpillars and locusts strip the fields and vines, so the fallen army of Assyria will be stripped!
- ⁵ Though the LORD is very great and lives in heaven,
he will make Jerusalem his home of justice and righteousness.

32:9-15 This prophecy of judgment was against the complacent women of Jerusalem. God's promises regarding the future did not justify continuing in sin.

32:9 The women of Jerusalem lie around in ease. Complacent in their high standard of life and low standard of morality, they put their trust in wealth and status to maintain their way of life.

32:10 In a short time: Assyria's siege of Jerusalem (701 BC) was looming.

32:11 Burlap was worn to show . . . grief, especially when mourning (see Ps 30:11). The Assyrian conquest of the farmlands of Judah and most of its cities (except Jerusalem) would cause rich people in the large cities to mourn.

32:14 Jerusalem was eventually destroyed, but by the Babylonians, not the Assyrians (for a prediction of this, see 39:1-8). • the empty forts: Hebrew the Ophel.

32:15 The Spirit would transform the nation into a godly community and bring in an era of justice and righteousness (see also Joel 2:28-32). The Spirit is connected to the Messiah (11:1) and the servant (42:1; 61:1). • wilderness . . . bountiful crops: When the people are transformed, nature will be too.

32:17 Being right with God and humans will bring peace (Hebrew shalom; see 26:3; 48:18; 52:7; cp. Jas 3:18). Peace is more than the absence of conflict. It includes personal wholeness and does not depend on outside circumstances (see also Rom 5:1).

32:18 Living in safety and feeling at rest were blessings of Israel's covenant with the Lord (see Lev 26:5-6), but the people's sin had previously brought curses rather than blessings (cp. 32:9-11).

32:19 the forest . . . the city: The godly would remain secure even with evidence of God's judgment all around them.

33:1 This was the sixth threat of woe (see note on 28:1-33:24). • What sorrow awaits you Assyrians, who have destroyed others: Literally What sorrow awaits you, O destroyer. The Hebrew text does not specifically name Assyria as the object of the prophecy in this chapter. However, Isaiah undoubtedly had Assyria in mind; they were the destroyer most immediately at hand when the prophecy was written. The prophecy applies, however, to any who seek to destroy God's people; this included, but was not limited to, the Babylonians (see chs 13-14). • When you are done betraying: Wicked nations often break political agreements with other nations when these contracts are no longer to their own advantage.

33:2 The godly community prayed for God to be merciful in response to the promise of 30:18. • we have waited for you: See note on 8:17.

33:5 Jerusalem: Hebrew Zion; also in 33:14.

Isa 25:4; 49:10

6 In that day he will be your sure foundation, providing a rich store of salvation, wisdom, and knowledge.
The fear of the LORD will be your treasure.

7 But now your brave warriors weep in public.
Your ambassadors of peace cry in bitter disappointment.

8 Your roads are deserted;
no one travels them anymore.
The Assyrians have broken their peace treaty and care nothing for the promises they made before witnesses.
They have no respect for anyone.

9 The land of Israel wilts in mourning.
Lebanon withers with shame.
The plain of Sharon is now a wilderness.
Bashan and Carmel have been plundered.

10 But the LORD says: "Now I will stand up.
Now I will show my power and might.

11 You Assyrians produce nothing but dry grass and stubble.
Your own breath will turn to fire and consume you.

12 Your people will be burned up completely,
like thornbushes cut down and tossed in a fire.

13 Listen to what I have done, you nations
far away!
And you that are near, acknowledge my might!"

14 The sinners in Jerusalem shake with fear.
Terror seizes the godless.
"Who can live with this devouring fire?"
they cry.
"Who can survive this all-consuming
fire?"

15 Those who are honest and fair, who refuse to profit by fraud,
who stay far away from bribes, who refuse to listen to those who plot murder,
who shut their eyes to all enticement
to do wrong—

16 these are the ones who will dwell on high.
The rocks of the mountains will be their fortress.
Food will be supplied to them,
and they will have water in abundance.

God's Just and Righteous Kingdom (32:16-17)

The Lord's justice (mishpat) is part of his divine order. A world without justice is a place where people set aside the order planned by the Creator. Since the Lord is the Creator, it follows that his rule will be just and righteous. His Messiah will usher in a just world (9:7; 11:2-5; 16:5; 32:1-2), and his Spirit will transform the world into a place of justice, righteousness, and peace (32:15-17). This is good news for the poor and needy (25:4), whose rights have been denied by the powerful of society.

The theme of God's just and righteous kingdom runs throughout all of Isaiah. This theme explains the prophecies of judgment, which condemn the leaders and people for their injustice. It also explains the prophecies against the nations because of their oppressive, proud, and unjust ways. Justice is central, and humans are condemned for failing to uphold God's justice (28:17; 29:21).

Isaiah does not define justice and injustice; he illustrates it with examples (e.g., 1:17, 21-23; 5:7-23; 32:6, 7). Justice is relating rightly to God and dealing fairly with fellow human beings. It is closely related to righteousness and faithfulness (1:21; Zech 7:9).

God's retribution is just, because people get no worse than they deserve (3:9-11; 13:11; 59:18). In fact, they often get better than they deserve, because God pours out his just judgment on a willing substitute, whose death calls people to turn away from their sin and live by God's righteousness (Rom 6:22-23; 1 Pet 3:18). When God's kingdom is fully established, the world, too, will be just and righteous (1:26; 28:6; 2 Pet 3:13).

33:8 care nothing for the promises they made before witnesses: As in Dead Sea Scrolls; Masoretic Text reads care nothing for the cities.

33:9 Sharon, Bashan, and Carmel were all fertile areas. Their desolation represents the destruction Assyria had inflicted on Israel.

33:11 In most passages, the Assyrians

were turning other nations into worthless dry grass and stubble (see 17:13; 29:5; 40:24; 41:2). Here, ironically, they get a taste of their own medicine.

33:14 The godless were people who lived without regard for God and his law. • The image of a devouring fire came from God's judgment of offenders during the wilderness journey (Exod 24:17; Deut 4:24). God still expects people to worship him with reverence and awe (Heb 12:29).

33:15 A godly life provides evidence that an individual truly knows God (see Col 3:5-17; Jas 2:14-18; 1 Pet 1:14-16; 1 Jn 1:5-6).

- ¹⁷ Your eyes will see the king in all his splendor, and you will see a land that stretches into the distance.
- ¹⁸ You will think back to this time of terror, asking,
“Where are the Assyrian officers who counted our towers?
Where are the bookkeepers who recorded the plunder taken from our fallen city?”
- ¹⁹ You will no longer see these fierce, violent people
with their strange, unknown language.
- ²⁰ Instead, you will see Zion as a place of holy festivals.
You will see Jerusalem, a city quiet and secure.
It will be like a tent whose ropes are taut and whose stakes are firmly fixed.
- ²¹ The LORD will be our Mighty One.
He will be like a wide river of protection that no enemy can cross, that no enemy ship can sail upon.
- ²² For the LORD is our ^ajudge, our lawgiver, and our ^bking.
He will care for us and ^csave us.
- ²³ The enemies’ sails hang loose on broken masts with useless tackle.
Their treasure will be divided by the people of God.
Even the lame will take their share!
- ²⁴ The people of Israel will no longer say,
“We are sick and helpless,” for the LORD will forgive their sins.

5. MESSAGE ABOUT THE FUTURE
(34:1–35:10)

A Message for the Nations

34 ¹ Come here and listen, O nations of the earth.
Let the world and everything in it hear my words.

- ² For the LORD is enraged against the
nations.
His fury is against all their armies.
He will completely destroy them,
dooming them to slaughter.
- ³ Their dead will be left unburied, and the stench of rotting bodies will fill the land.
The mountains will flow with their blood.
- ⁴ The ^dheavens above will melt away and disappear like a rolled-up scroll.
The stars will fall from the sky like withered leaves from a grapevine, or shriveled figs from a fig tree.
- ⁵ And when my sword has finished its work in the heavens,
it will fall upon Edom,
the nation I have marked for
destruction.
- ⁶ The sword of the LORD is drenched with blood
and covered with fat—
with the blood of lambs and goats, with the fat of rams prepared for sacrifice.
Yes, the LORD will offer a sacrifice in the city of Bozrah.
He will make a mighty slaughter in Edom.
- ⁷ Even men as strong as wild oxen will die—
the young men alongside the veterans.
The land will be soaked with blood and the soil enriched with fat.
- ⁸ For it is the day of the LORD’s revenge, the year when Edom will be paid back for all it did to Israel.
- ⁹ The streams of Edom will be filled with burning pitch,
and the ground will be covered with fire.

33:17-24 This vision is about God’s reign in Zion.

33:17 The king is the human representative (32:1) of the Great King, God himself (33:22). • The land belonging to God’s people would appear to be without borders because the foreign enemies had been judged (54:3).

33:18 Assyrian officers brought great terror to Judah when the Assyrians defeated various cities around Jerusalem
(2 Kgs 18:13).

33:19 The strange, unknown language was the tongue of Assyria and later of Babylon (see 28:11).

33:24 The people of Israel were the people of Zion (cp. 33:20; see note on 1:27).

• sick . . . the LORD will forgive their sins:
See note on 1:5-6; see also 43:25.

34:1-17 This prophecy of judgment was against the nations at the terrifying “day of the Lord” (see note on 2:5-22; see also 63:1-6).

34:2 completely destroy: The Hebrew term used here refers to the complete consecration of things or people to the LORD, either by destroying them or by giving them as an offering; similarly in 34:5. See Lev 27:28-29.

34:3 It was a disgrace for a corpse to remain unburied.

34:4 The heavens . . . stars: See also 13:10; Joel 2:30-31; Matt 24:29; Mark
13:24-25; 2 Pet 3:10-13; Rev 6:13-14.

34:5 Edom here represents what all the nations would experience, just as Moab was singled out in ch 25.

34:6 Bozrah was a city in Edom, southeast of the Dead Sea.

34:8 The LORD’s revenge refers to God’s wrathful but righteous vengeance against his enemies and the oppressors of his people on the day of the Lord (see note on 2:5-22). • Edom will be paid back: There will be retribution for Edom’s crimes against Judah (see also Ps 137:7; Lam 4:21; Obad; Mal 1:3-5). Edom, with its history of treachery, would come to an end. • to Israel: Hebrew to Zion.

34:9 Edom’s judgment was similar to the judgment of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen 19:24; see also Jer 49:17-18).

- ¹⁰ This judgment on Edom will never end;
the smoke of its burning will rise
forever.
The land will lie deserted from generation to generation.
No one will live there anymore.
- ¹¹ It will be haunted by the desert owl and the screech owl,
the great owl and the raven.
For God will measure that land carefully;
he will measure it for chaos and
destruction.
- ¹² It will be called the Land of Nothing, and all its nobles will soon be gone.
- ¹³ Thorns will overrun its palaces; nettles and thistles will grow in its forts.
The ruins will become a haunt for jackals and a home for owls.
- ¹⁴ Desert animals will mingle there with hyenas,
their howls filling the night.
Wild goats will bleat at one another among the ruins,
and night creatures will come there to rest.
- ¹⁵ There the owl will make her nest and lay her eggs.
She will hatch her young and cover them with her wings.
And the buzzards will come,
each one with its mate.
- ¹⁶ Search the book of the LORD,
and see what he will do.
Not one of these birds and animals will be missing,
and none will lack a mate,
for the LORD has promised this.
His Spirit will make it all come true.
- ¹⁷ He has surveyed and divided the land and deeded it over to those creatures.

They will possess it forever,
from generation to generation.

Hope for Restoration

- 35 ¹ Even the wilderness and desert will be glad in those days.
The wasteland will rejoice and blossom with spring crocuses.
- ² Yes, there will be an abundance of flowers
and singing and joy!
The deserts will become as green as the mountains of Lebanon, as lovely as Mount Carmel or the plain of Sharon.
There the LORD will display his glory,
the splendor of our God.
- ³ With this news, strengthen those who have tired hands,
and encourage those who have weak
knees.
- ⁴ Say to those with fearful hearts,
"Be strong, and do not fear, for your God is coming to destroy your
enemies.
He is coming to save you."
- ⁵ And when he comes, he will open the eyes of the blind
and unplug the ears of the deaf.
- ⁶ The lame will leap like a deer, and those who cannot speak will sing
for joy!
Springs will gush forth in the wilderness,
and streams will water the wasteland.
- ⁷ The parched ground will become a pool, and springs of water will satisfy the thirsty land.
Marsh grass and reeds and rushes will flourish
where desert jackals once lived.

34:10 See also Rev 14:11; 19:3.

34:11-14 Wild animals, night birds, and hostile plants with thorns and nettles created an eerie environment. • The identification of some of these birds is uncertain, but they inhabited wild and deserted places and many were considered unclean (Deut 14:11-18).

34:12 The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain.

34:14 night creatures: Hebrew Lilith, possibly a reference to a mythical demon of the night.

34:16 Search the book of the LORD: Isaiah's prophecy was God's witness to the truthfulness of his word. • The power of the Spirit enacts the Lord's decrees, assuring that all prophecy comes together to be fulfilled as God promised.

35:1-10 God will come to vindicate and transform his people. Instead of being deaf, blind, and lame (see 6:10), the people will be pure, holy, and redeemed.

35:1 God's land would become like a wasteland, spiritually desolate and physically exiled. However, God would turn the desert into a garden (see also 32:15), taking his people from exile to glory.

35:2 Lebanon . . . Mount Carmel . . . Sharon: There will be a reversal of earlier judgments (see 2:13; 10:34; 29:17; 33:9). • glory . . . splendor of our God: See also 6:3; 40:5.

35:3 Tired hands and weak knees express discouragement and anxiety (see Heb 12:12).

35:4 do not fear: The Lord here assures his people of his presence and purpose (see also 7:4; 10:24; 40:9; 43:1; 44:2; 54:4). • The essence of the good news is that God is coming to save his people (see also 40:9; 52:7; 62:11). God's coming brings spiritual transformation as well as rescue from enemies.

35:5 eyes . . . ears: There will be a transformation from spiritual blindness and deafness to understanding and knowing God (6:10; 29:18; 32:3; 42:7; see also Luke 7:22; Acts 26:18).

35:6 The lame . . . those who cannot speak: All handicaps will be removed (see Matt 11:5; 12:22; Mark 7:37; Acts 3:7-8).

- ⁸ And a great road will go through that once deserted land.
It will be named the Highway of Holiness.
Evil-minded people will never travel on it.
It will be only for those who walk in God's ways;
fools will never walk there.
- ⁹ Lions will not lurk along its course, nor any other ferocious beasts.
There will be no other dangers.
Only the redeemed will walk on it.
- ¹⁰ Those who have been ransomed by the LORD will return.
They will enter Jerusalem singing, crowned with everlasting joy.
Sorrow and mourning will disappear, and they will be filled with joy and gladness.

6. THE LORD RESCUES JERUSALEM (36:1–39:8)

Assyria Invades Judah

Isa 36:1 // 2 Kgs 18:13 // 2 Chr 32:1

36 In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah's reign, King Sennacherib of Assyria came to attack the fortified towns of Judah and conquered them.

Sennacherib Threatens Jerusalem

Isa 36:2-10 // 2 Kgs 18:17-25 // 2 Chr 32:9-15

Isa 36:11-22 // 2 Kgs 18:26-37

² Then the king of Assyria sent his chief of staff from Lachish with a huge army to confront King Hezekiah in Jerusalem. The Assyrians took up a position beside the aqueduct that feeds water into the upper pool, near the road leading to the field where cloth is washed.

³ These are the officials who went out to meet with them: Eliakim son of Hilkiah, the palace administrator; Shebna the court secretary; and Joah son of Asaph, the royal historian.

⁴ Then the Assyrian king's chief of staff told them to give this message to Hezekiah:

"This is what the great king of Assyria says: What are you trusting in that makes you so confident? ⁵ Do you think that mere words can substitute for military skill and strength? Who are you counting on, that you have rebelled against me? ⁶ On Egypt? If you lean on Egypt, it will be like a reed that splinters beneath your weight and pierces your hand. Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, is completely unreliable!

⁷ But perhaps you will say to me,

35:8 The imagery of the great road recalls Israel's crossing through the Red Sea (51:10). • Only holy and undefiled people will share the Highway of Holiness. God's goal in salvation is that humans will share in his character and act as he does (see Eph 5:1-2; 1 Pet 2:21).

35:10 Jerusalem (Hebrew Zion): The prophecy extends beyond the return of Israel from exile to the final establishment of God's kingdom on earth. It will be characterized by joy and gladness and the absence of sorrow and mourning (see also 25:7; 51:11; Rev 21:4).

36:1–39:8 Jerusalem's rescue from King Sennacherib of Assyria is a focal point of chs 1–39. The Lord promised to rescue his people by remaining present with Jerusalem (see 7:14) and by maintaining a remnant (see note on 10:21). Even though much of the country was desolate and the population decimated because of their foolish alliance with Assyria (chs 7–8), the Lord preserved his people from total conquest through Hezekiah, a godly king. Hezekiah faced the same test that Ahaz did, a test of trust (note the recurrence of words for trust in the Assyrian officer's challenge in ch 36). But Hezekiah has learned the lessons taught in chs 13–35 and, at least initially, he passed the test. This narrative is duplicated in 2 Kgs 18:13–20:19 (see map, p. 657).

36:1 The fourteenth year of King

Hezekiah's reign was 701 BC, a nearly catastrophic year. King Sennacherib of Assyria ruled from 704–681 BC. Hezekiah, like many other kings under Assyrian vassalage, had reasserted his independence in 704 BC when Sennacherib came to the throne in troubled circumstances. By 701 BC, the Assyrian king was ready to punish Hezekiah. Sennacherib recorded having conquered forty-six fortified cities and many villages, and having taken 200,146 captives. Hezekiah responded by attempting to appease Sennacherib (see 2 Kgs 18:14–16), but it was too late.

36:2 his chief of staff: Or the rabshakeh; also in 36:4, 11, 12, 22.

• Lachish was a city overlooking the low-lying hills to the west of Jerusalem. It had to be taken before the final attack on Jerusalem could be launched.

• the aqueduct that feeds water into the upper pool: This was a pool on the north side of Jerusalem, not the Gihon spring in the Kidron valley (see map, p. 667). • Isaiah had met Ahaz on this same road leading to the field where cloth is washed some thirty-three years earlier (see 7:3). At that time he had challenged Ahaz to trust God. However, Ahaz trusted Assyria instead, and this desperate situation was a result. Now the challenge to trust God came from mocking, foreign lips (see 28:11–13). • washed: Or bleached.

36:3 Eliakim eventually advanced in rank, while Shebna was demoted (see 22:15–24).

36:4–22 The Assyrian chief of staff attempted to use intimidation to negotiate a settlement without bloodshed. In his first speech (36:4–10), he rightly argued against Egypt's ability to rescue but wrongly charged Hezekiah with misplaced trust in the Lord. Strikingly, the Assyrian did not see the contest as being between the gods of Assyria and the Lord but rather between Sennacherib—the great king—and the Lord.

36:4 Great king is a title similar to emperor.

36:5 Do you think: As in Dead Sea Scrolls (see also 2 Kgs 18:20); Masoretic Text reads Do I think. • Who are you counting on: Judah had asked Egypt to help them (see 30:1–5).

36:6 Egypt . . . is completely unreliable: Isaiah argued the same case, pointing to the Lord as the only reliable source of help (31:1–3, 7; 39:7). • A kind of reed that breaks easily grows near the Nile (see Ezek 29:6–7).

36:7 We are trusting in the LORD our God: Ironically, the Assyrian chief of staff knew about and played on Isaiah's message (26:4; 36:15; 37:10). • Hezekiah showed his zeal for the Lord by tearing down the pagan shrines and

'We are trusting in the LORD our God!' But isn't he the one who was insulted by Hezekiah? Didn't Hezekiah tear down his shrines and altars and make everyone in Judah and Jerusalem worship only at the altar here in Jerusalem?

⁸"I'll tell you what! Strike a bargain with my master, the king of Assyria. I will give you 2,000 horses if you can find that many men to ride on them! ⁹With your tiny army, how can you think of challenging even the weakest contingent of my master's troops, even with the help of Egypt's chariots and charioteers? ¹⁰What's more, do you think we have invaded your land without the LORD's direction? The LORD himself told us, 'Attack this land and destroy it!'"

¹¹Then Eliakim, Shebna, and Joah said to the Assyrian chief of staff, "Please speak to us in Aramaic, for we understand it well. Don't speak in Hebrew, for the people on the wall will hear."

¹²But Sennacherib's chief of staff replied, "Do you think my master sent this message only to you and your master? He wants all the people to hear it, for when we put this city under siege, they will suffer along with you. They will be so hungry and thirsty that they will eat their own dung and drink their own urine."

¹³Then the chief of staff stood and shouted in Hebrew to the people on the wall, "Listen to this message from the great king of Assyria! ¹⁴This is what the king says: Don't let Hezekiah deceive you. He will never be able to rescue you. ¹⁵Don't let him fool you into trusting in the LORD by saying, 'The LORD will surely rescue us. This city will never fall into the hands of the Assyrian king!'"

¹⁶"Don't listen to Hezekiah! These are the terms the king of Assyria is offering: Make peace with me—open the gates and come out. Then each of you can continue eating from your own grapevine and fig tree and drinking from your own well. ¹⁷Then I will arrange to take you to another land like this one—a land of grain and new wine, bread and vineyards.

¹⁸"Don't let Hezekiah mislead you by saying, 'The LORD will rescue us!' Have the gods of any other nations ever saved their people from the king of Assyria? ¹⁹What happened to the gods of Hamath and Arpad? And what about the gods of Sepharvaim? Did any god rescue Samaria from my power? ²⁰What god of any nation has ever been able to save its people from my power? So what makes you think that the LORD can rescue Jerusalem from me?"

²¹But the people were silent and did not utter a word because Hezekiah had commanded them, "Do not answer him."

²²Then Eliakim son of Hilkiah, the palace administrator; Shebna the court secretary; and Joah son of Asaph, the royal historian, went back to Hezekiah. They tore their clothes in despair, and they went in to see the king and told him what the Assyrian chief of staff had said.

Hezekiah Seeks the LORD's Help

Isa 37:1-20 // 2 Kgs 19:1-19

37 When King Hezekiah heard their report, he tore his clothes and put on burlap and went into the Temple of the LORD. ²And he sent Eliakim the palace administrator, Shebna the court secretary, and the leading priests, all dressed in burlap, to the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz. ³They told him, "This is what King Hezekiah says: Today is altars (2 Kgs 18:4), but the Assyrians mistakenly thought Hezekiah had angered God in the process.

36:8 At this time, cavalry mounted on horses was the newest military technology. The Assyrian chief of staff was mocking the Judeans because he knew that Judah had no trained men who knew how to ride.

36:10 The LORD himself told us: It was common for a king to claim the approval of a deity in destroying other kingdoms. This claim was consistent with Isaiah's prophecy in 10:5-6.

36:11 Aramaic was the lingua franca used throughout the Assyrian empire, understood by the elite but not by the common people of Judah. • Hebrew: Literally the dialect of Judah; also in 36:13.

36:13-20 In the Assyrian chief of staff's second speech, he claimed that his nation's gods were more powerful (see 10:9-10) than the God of Judah. God's ability to rescue his people was at stake. In the ensuing drama, the Lord shocked the Assyrian with his power (37:36-37).

36:14 Don't let Hezekiah deceive you: This public accusation against Hezekiah was intended to undermine the people's confidence in him.

36:15 Hezekiah demonstrated a strong faith in the LORD, unlike Ahaz (ch 7). Hezekiah's faith would bring rescue, whereas Ahaz's lack of faith brought him trouble (see 7:9).

36:16-17 The Assyrian was tempting the people of Jerusalem with provisions that the Lord had promised to provide his obedient people (see 1:19; 37:30-35; Deut 8:7-9). It was a tempting offer, but a counterfeit. And it covered up the reality of exile that would have followed (36:17).

36:19 The populations of Hamath and Arpad (see note on 10:9) had been relocated to Samaria, where the new local deities were the gods of Sepharvaim (2 Kgs 17:24). The logic of the argument made sense to an Assyrian. If the Assyrian gods defeated all the gods of the other nations and the God of the Israelite nation of Samaria, would they not also defeat the God of Judah?

37:1 Hezekiah responded to the threats by seeking the Lord's favor. • The king tore his clothes and put on burlap as a sign of mourning and prayer.

a day of trouble, insults, and disgrace. It is like when a child is ready to be born, but the mother has no strength to deliver the baby. ⁴But perhaps the LORD your God has heard the Assyrian chief of staff, sent by the king to defy the living God, and will punish him for his words. Oh, pray for those of us who are left!"

⁵After King Hezekiah's officials delivered the king's message to Isaiah, ⁶the prophet replied, "Say to your master, 'This is what the LORD says: Do not be disturbed by this blasphemous speech against me from the Assyrian king's messengers. ⁷Listen! I myself will move against him, and the king will receive a message that he is needed at home. So he will return to his land, where I will have him killed with a sword.'"

⁸Meanwhile, the Assyrian chief of staff left Jerusalem and went to consult the king of Assyria, who had left Lachish and was attacking Libnah.

⁹Soon afterward King Sennacherib received word that King Tirhakah of Ethiopia was leading an army to fight against him. Before leaving to meet the attack, he sent messengers back to Hezekiah in Jerusalem with this message:

¹⁰"This message is for King Hezekiah of Judah. Don't let your God, in whom you trust, deceive you with promises that Jerusalem will not be captured by the king of Assyria. ¹¹You know perfectly well what the kings of Assyria have done wherever they have gone. They have completely destroyed everyone who stood in their way! Why should you be any different? ¹²Have the gods of other nations rescued them—such nations as Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the people of Eden who were in Tel-assar? My predecessors destroyed them all! ¹³What happened to the king of Hamath and the king of Arpad? What happened to the kings of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivvah?"

¹⁴After Hezekiah received the letter from the messengers and read it, he went up to the LORD's Temple and spread it out before the LORD. ¹⁵And Hezekiah prayed this prayer before the LORD: ¹⁶"O LORD of Heaven's Armies, God of Israel, you are enthroned between the mighty cherubim! You alone are God of all the kingdoms of the earth. You alone created the heavens and the earth. ¹⁷Bend down, O LORD, and listen! Open your eyes, O LORD, and see! Listen to Sennacherib's words of defiance against the living God.

¹⁸"It is true, LORD, that the kings of Assyria have destroyed all these nations. ¹⁹And they have thrown the gods of these nations into the fire and burned them. But of course the Assyrians could destroy them! They were not gods at all—only idols of wood and stone shaped by human hands. ²⁰Now, O LORD our God, rescue us from his power; then all the kingdoms of the earth will know that you alone, O LORD, are God."

Isaiah Predicts Jerusalem's Rescue

Isa 37:21-35 // 2 Kgs 19:20-34

²¹Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent this message to Hezekiah: "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: Because you prayed about King Sennacherib of Assyria, ²²the LORD has spoken this word against him:

"The virgin daughter of Zion despises you and laughs at you.

37:4 perhaps . . . God has heard the Assyrian chief of staff (or the rabshakeh) . . . defy the living God: Hezekiah's hope was not based on Judah's or his own goodness, or the presence of the Temple in Jerusalem; instead, it was based on God responding to Assyria's blasphemy.

37:5-7 God answered that he would deal with the Assyrians and rescue the remnant of his people from their distress (see 63:9).

37:7 I myself will move against him: Literally I will put a spirit in him.

37:8 Assyrian chief of staff: Or the rabshakeh. • Libnah was a city on the Philistine plain near Lachish. Sennacherib was preparing to fight both Egypt and Jerusalem when he sent word to Hezekiah.

37:9 King Tirhakah of Ethiopia (Hebrew of Cush) was then the ruler of Egypt.

37:12 The argument was that Judah's god, like the gods of other nations already conquered by Assyria, would be unable to save Judah (see also 36:18-20). • Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, . . . Eden, and Tel-assar were cities in Mesopotamia.

37:14-20 When he received Sennacherib's boastful threat, Hezekiah returned to the Temple and prayed for rescue. His prayer stands in contrast to Ahaz's response to danger decades earlier (see ch 7).

37:16 God of Israel: Hezekiah was not taken in by the false claims of Sennacherib that the Lord was powerless. In his prayer, Hezekiah acknowledged that, because the Lord is the Creator, he is God of all the kingdoms of the earth. The Lord is sovereign over all kingdoms.

• The mighty cherubim were located in the Temple atop the Ark of the Covenant.

which was God's throne in his Temple (see note on Lev 16:2; Ps 80:1; 99:1).

37:20 you alone, O LORD, are God (as in Dead Sea Scrolls, see also 2 Kgs 19:19; Masoretic Text reads you alone are the LORD): Hezekiah was concerned for the Lord's reputation, which Sennacherib had impugned. Hezekiah recognized that if the Lord defeated the Assyrians and their gods, his holy name would be glorified among all the nations of the world (cp. Exod 9:16; 14:4, 17-18; Josh 2:9-11; 1 Sam 4:7-8).

37:21 Because you prayed: Prayer is powerful; it moved God's heart and was part of the reason why the Lord answered with this message of hope.

37:22 The virgin daughter of Zion: Jerusalem is personified as a young woman who mocks the Assyrian king (see also 3:26).
